> > > Richard McCollum wrote
>
> > > > Without having a clue how it happens, 141 Tech Pluses have been > renewed > > > > since der Tag including one in November. The last one expires in > December > > > > 2011.
>
> > "Richard Plourde" wrote
>
> > > Whats a "der Tag"?
>
> "Richard McCollum" wrote
>
> > The Day. Since the Tech Plus supposedly no longer existed
>
> There was no such day. Technician Plus Licenses still exist.
>
> Rich

Picky, picky. There are still 141 of them that were issued after the day when they were supposedly no longer issued.

3674. Re: K4ZDH on 14313

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 20:20:27 UTC
From: Lemon Grove <portzbiski11@hotmail.com> Message-ID: <fCuQ7.12518$714.1316823@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 26718
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"Smiley Riley" <smiley@14313QRM.net> wrote in message news:9utkb7ast0@pita.alt.net...
> Riley operated for about an hour today on 14313, around > 11:30 a.m. EST, as all the 313 regulars lined up for a chance > to kiss the sheriff's butt.
>
> Public relations? Hardly. Think again. Bureaucrats work on > Saturdays, only for special reasons.
>
> As each 313 regular checked in, an employee in Columbia, MD, > sat in a quiet room, clicking a mouse a few times as each regular > checked in. Inside of less than 60 mins., government data bases > were fed SIT (Special Identification Techniques) data on > approximately 30 stations who are 313 regulars. New voice > samples, bearing & range, Signature Analysis Data for Radio > Fingerprinting, and other data now reside in a government data > base.
>
> Looks like the BARFies will be jamming at their own risk.

Nobody ever said that commensurate ham radio QRM'ers were either intellegent or rocket scientists.
And you are correct about Columbia, Md. You can be sure that in 95% of the cases when K4ZDH is "in QSO" on a ham frequency, that the Computers and GPS Satellites are making a list and checking it twice. So all you knuckleheads who jam and carry on (..including the fruit cake who was QRM'ing 3.904, 3.910 and 3.914 last night for over an hour with digital sound bytes and synthesizer noise - who we know is in ---) are all blued, screwed and tatooed.
Congratulations boys, your all now Charter Members of "The Baron of Grey Matter ARC"

3675. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 20:51:51 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C127D66.8A1B081B@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26722

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> I don't know why conservatives always have to > start slinging that term "liberal" around in > the middle of a good argument. (snip)

Well, in this case, Kim, I used the word "liberal" exactly because Rick defined himself as a one in a previous message. In other words, according to his own statements, the word applies and therefore my question was valid.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3676. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:03:10 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011208160310.01446.00000195@mb-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 26724

In article <428F28AB3315099B.7796FEA08D6E5593.8DB018FBD6E9BAD3@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 06 Dec 2001 05:03:10 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>Ya missed the joke, Rick. Didn't watch SNL, huh?
>
> Not since the original version. I was more of a "Friday's" >person myself.

Dana Carvey as "Church Lady" on the "Church Chat" skits. Everything he/she didn't like turned out to be the work of "SATAN!!!!". Also pointed out that Santa rearranged...

Rent the videos.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3677. UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:03:10 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011208160310.01446.00000196@mb-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 26725

Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article about UK restructuring.

Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5 wpm for full access.

But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is to have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.

Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.

Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.

BUT.....

No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.

Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person being tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an "A", the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending test to be similar.

Waddya think, folks?

73 de Jim, N2EY

3678. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:03:11 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011208160311.01446.00000197@mb-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 26723

In article <3C1227DE.A776FD2B@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote: >> You've obviously got a lot of work to do yet, then, Dave. An eternity at >my >> house would be Heaven compared to one at Larry Roll's.
>
>One man's hell is another man's heaven. I once knew a masochist >who was looking forward to hell. :-)
>--
Which means that, for him, it would be heaven.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3679. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:08:59 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C128165.B7A8A8AD@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26726

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> I sure do wish people would be just a little less > cynical about "sources." Dwight, a site that > supports polygamous relationships is probably full > of expert opinions from those who practice > polygamy. Just as probably one of the best sources > for cancer information would be from a site
> sponsored by an agency that supports cancer
> research, The American Cancer Society.

I'm not cynical about sources, Kim. I'm cynical about sources that only offer one perspective on a issue. In other words, a source that is not unbiased. For example, the American Cancer Society you mentioned is obviously not promoting cancer, therefore they are a good source of information. The sites Rick offered are promoting satanism.

> Now, on political stuff, all bets are off. I am no > more likely to be inspired to a different way of > thinking about something because I read or listen
> to someone like, say, Rush Limbaugh; just as you > would not be by reading something out of > Sojourners Truth (think that was the name of the > magazine) or National Public Radio.

And I would add any site which attempts to propagandize to that list (which would include the sites Rick offered). I asked him for unbiased sources, not pro-satanism propaganda sites.

> My question to you is, if you are not willing to > accept the information that is offered as part of > an offer of education about a certain topic, then > why even debate. And, the likelihood that you will > find an absolute independent source for topics of > discussion is nearly, if not, nil.

I don't accept the "offer of education" because (1) I don't need the education (I've studied this subject before), (2) the "education" offered covered no new ground (I've seen the stuff on those sites many times before), and (3) the "education" offered was nothing more than biased propaganda (not education).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3680. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:13:31 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <%nvQ7.255664$W8.9501361@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26727

Let's be honest. When I was in the Navy, we had to memorize the entire baudot code. Didn't really need it, but reading a lot of uppercase got one to the point you really COULD read uppercase. Rules and regs (safety wouldn't hurt a bit either, both AC mains power as well as rf power) make for a good starting point. I'd be less concerned that an individual know CW than how to get communications going in an emergency.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message news:20011208160310.01446.00000196@mb-cs.aol.com...
> Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article
> about UK restructuring.
>
> Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5
> wpm for full access.
>
> But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is
to > have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>
> Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>
> Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
> BUT.....
>
> No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
> Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person being > tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
"A",
> the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks > up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper.
Sending
> test to be similar.
>
> Waddya think, folks?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

3681. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:16:46 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <2rvQ7.148751$WW.9602015@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26728

"Richard McCollum" wrote

> Picky, picky. There are still 141 of them that were issued after the day > when they were supposedly no longer issued.

Technician Plus is the same as Novice and Advanced... the FCC will honor the licenses as long they are renewed in the allotted time. The only difference is they aren't keeping the 'Novice' side of the Technician Plus in the database. This is a mute point because the computers would have to be 'brain-dead' to not be able to figure out whether the licensee is a Technician Class or a Technician Class with the 5 WPM element completed.

I had said about only 80 in the past 12 months.. I said that would mean there should be about 800 by the time they had all expired once under the new 'alignment'.

Rich

3682. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:18:59 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1283B9.C5D59A8B@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26729

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Ah, the politically "correct" life. I don't subscribe > to it. If you guys do, that's up to you. I'll never > bend so far as to be ruled by the fearful.

Then in many parts of this country, you're simply not going to find work today (beyond the basic sales clerk or laborer level). A growing number of employers are now resorting to job contracts with a long list of rules added and a battery of psychological tests (written and verbal) before you're even considered for the job. In other words, you either fit the politically correct agenda of the company or you're out the door. It's not that bad in the south yet, but it's coming.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3683. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 21:49:02 UTC
From: "D. Stussy" <kd6lvw@bde-arc.ampr.org> Message-ID: <Pine.LNX.4.10.10112082148260.20076-100000@exp.bde-arc.ampr.org>
Source record: 26730

This reminds me of the petition to the FCC regarding Stewart Teaze's
"communicator" license and what a joke that was.

On 8 Dec 2001, N2EY wrote:
>Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article >about UK restructuring.
>
>Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5 >wpm for full access.
>
>But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is to >have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>
>Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>
>Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
>BUT.....
>
>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
>Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person being >tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an "A", >the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks >up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending >test to be similar.
>
>Waddya think, folks?

3684. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 22:05:58 UTC
From: Tough Talk Roger <RogerTalksTough@harharharharidiot.com> Message-ID: <9uu2ng$6c2$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26731
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9utti6$s8g$4@pita.alt.net...
>
> "DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message > news:23871.0000054@ncvillage.net...
> >
> > On Thu, 6 Dec 2001 09:20:25 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > >
> > > So you're saying you're advocating illegal jamming to interfere with > > > another ham's QSO. That says a lot about your following Part 97, doesn't
> it?
> > > BTW, N4CND was the one using profanity, not W4AMP.
> >
> > That's exactly what I'm saying. Just like the CBers, the FCC has > > abandoned enforcement of ham radio rules. If we don't take care of > > ourselves, nobody will. So I'm perfectly willing to jam Dimmy until he > > shuts up.
>
> So you're part of the problem, instead of the solution. Vigilanteism went > out a long time ago, but, I suppose you're so backward that you still think
> it's a viable defense.
>
> > I'll jam you too if necessary. That's the way it has to be now.
>
> cc: rholling@fcc.gov.
>
> We'll see about that.
>
>
Talk tough Roger talk tough, I know it gets all your little radio geek buddies excited. Boy what a collection of radio fruits in the radio groups. We've come to get to know many of them to where we can post stuff that gets them all excited, like what violations they got from Riley and what radio groups they're in on what freqs.

3685. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 22:19:57 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1291F1.911C56FC@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26732

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> No, Dwight. I'll tell you in a heartbeat that it > isn't going on and I do believe that we are all > far more adult than that. If this was going on
> as much as you say, and if the prevailing attitude > were to adjust company policies because of it, there > would be such a stranglehold on the ability of > companies to do business that it would be impossible > to do business!!
>
> And, as I said, I have never, ever seen it happen yet.
> Yet is the operative word, but it is also the one on > which I base my opinion that you have nothing more > than a red herring.

Kim, I read the above to my wife and, after she was finished laughing, she asked where you have worked in your life that you've not seen this. In every single place she has ever worked, the companies had specific policies dealing with sexual harassment, which always include invitations for dates, private meetings, private lunches, and so forth. In fact, it is now a federal requirement for companies to have their policies about sexual harassment clearly posted for all to read. Where travel is likely, most companies had specific policies about socializing, accommodations, and so forth. And most companies gave their employees, especially the management staff, printed guidelines or classroom instruction about dealing with the opposite sex in the workplace - and all these she has read or seen warned against private meetings behind closed doors and socializing (lunches, etc) in or outside the workplace. In other words, her experiences in this regard have been exactly the same as mine.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3686. Re: Smiley Riley

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 22:42:07 UTC
From: WV Fruit Cake <Woger@WVFruitCo.con>
Message-ID: <9uu4rd$bi7$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26733
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

```
"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9uttib$s8g$8@pita.alt.net...
>
> "Angst" <ToodleDoo@youtoo.col> wrote in message
> news:9urs2a$470$0@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> news:9uo12v$lfq$0@dosa.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3204442.23871@ncvillage.net...
> > > >
> > > > On Wed, 5 Dec 2001 15:42:51 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Oh, I don't know........he may be listening more than you think.
He > > got > > > on > > > > > 14.313 recently and talked to Dan.
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > We can take care of things ourselves instead of waiting around for
Mr.
> > > No Show. I have a Collins KWM-2 all hooked up and ready to take Dimmy
> > > out whenever he shows up and starts his profanity again.
> > >
> > > So you're saying you're advocating illegal jamming to interfere with > > > another ham's QSO. That says a lot about your following Part 97, doesn't
> > it?
> > > BTW, N4CND was the one using profanity, not W4AMP.
> >
> > And it was AMP who suggested making a midnight call to tear down towers
> and > > antennas. Just goes to show, you put a CB'er on Ham Radio and he's still a > > CB'er.
>
> And N4CND has drove by AMP's house doing stuff as well. From the way > Oraasssss'
> audio sounds, he should stick to CB.
>
```

Roger, the two of them live in different states! How the hell can they drive by each other's house? Uh oh, sorry gotta run, there's a computer customer up front......back later.

3687. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 22:48:29 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129899.DE455792@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26734

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> (snip) The one thing I learned about them right > away was very few of them were above using > their sex to "get over" on supervisors. (snip)

I'll agree with that up to a point. Yes, some certainly do use their sex to "get over," but I would not go so far as to say that "very few" are not above doing that. Of course, since we're each talking about personal experience, there is always room for difference. However, I've generally found the number doing that are relatively small (no more than about 10 to 15 percent). Sadly, there does always seem to be at least one in every crowd (or workplace in this case). And that one always seems to be the lightning rod for trouble (which may be why it seems more commonplace).

> (snip) I instinctively made certain that there were > no "closed door" counseling sessions, no "private" > chats, no situation where there was an unwitnessed > exchange between myself and the female Airman in > question. As it turns out, this was a good policy, > for I never had any problems with accusations from > female subordinates; unfortunately, my own boss did!

Actually, if the Air Force is like the Army today, that is likely to be official policy. Anyway, I've never had this problem myself either, but I've known two others who did - one I suspect was justified and the other totally false. And my wife had to make a sexual harassment charge against a previous boss once (he grabbed her from behind as she was sitting at her desk). Of course, she was a little more reasonable than existing policy (she asked that he be counseled and reassigned - which is what happened). Today, he would probably be immediately terminated (and his career ruined).

> The only way for a responsible professional to > behave when dealing with a superior or subordinate > of the opposite sex is to keep all interactions > on a strictly professional level, and no
> "private" meetings, counseling sessions, planning > sessions, or two person-only business trips.

Agreed. Not only is that the policy of many companies, it is just plain old common sense.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3688. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 22:56:17 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129A6A.B0CD79FD@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26735

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> I sure would. If something is wrong, and if something > is believed because of wrong perceptions, wrongfully > placed concepts, then it's still wrong. Thank goodness
> our forefathers believed that.

Kim, you can say something is wrong all you want, but that does not make it wrong - it just makes it your opinion. And, my opinion, and that of many others, say it is not wrong.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3689. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:00:17 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129B58.B435E0A4@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26736

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> You are labeling many of my Wiccan friends, Dwight.

No, I'm not "labeling" your friends, Kim. Like I said earlier,
"satanic" is the common name used by most everyone to describe the people involved in those activities. I didn't invent the word to describe them - it is the word commonly used in this country.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3690. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:06:02 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129CB0.B3BA5E3C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26737

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> EWwwww, Dwight. Low blowin' now, eh? Hmmmm, just > a week ago you were a proponent of ending this > thread so that the "hateful" stuff would stop. LOL

There was nothing hateful about anything I said, Kim. I simply told him, based on what he had written so far, I would believe any web site over him (including one written by a drunken sailor from Brazil). Now, that was certainly colorful (added for emphasis), but hardly hateful.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3691. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:10:33 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129DBD.822EED37@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26738

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> I haven't been following this conversation, so not > sure what the context is. (snip) If you are talking > about busses and trains...yech, forget it. Tried > both and hate 'em. I'll pollute, thank you.

Yep, you haven't been following the conversation - a decent public transportation system (busses and trains) was exactly what we were talking about. And it wasn't about pollution - it was to address the transportation needs of the elderly in this country.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3692. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:16:01 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C129F04.23E73874@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26739

N2EY wrote:
>
> (snip) In Europe and Japan, where the public transit > is so good, the taxes on gasoline are far more than > $1 per gallon. We could have even better systems here > in the USA, but Americans aren't ready to pay the > price - yet.

I agree with the "yet" added to the end of that. Based on the growing traffic jams in most major cities, I think it is only a matter of time. Sooner or later, we'll have to do something (or we'll all end up in traffic jams for most of our lives).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3693. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:20:19 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <TexQ7.215587$3d2.9815049@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26740

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011207230108.25913.00000297@mb-dh.aol.com...
> snup
>
> The only way for a responsible professional to behave when dealing > with a superior or subordinate of the opposite sex is to keep all > interactions on a strictly professional level, and no "private"
meetings,
> counseling sessions, planning sessions, or two person-only > business trips.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Larry, update me just a tad. The military has had regs on superior/subordinate relationships since probably Cyrus the Great or before. As an NCO you would probably get into deep do do lending money, getting into poker games, etc. with people you supervised. Officers, of course, had stricter rules re enlisted but got regularly drained by the CO or his wife where the rules got 'bent' into a knot. NCO clubs had their reasons for existing.

When you went to sergeanting school, what did they tell you about this sort of thing?

Dick N&#65533;BK

3694. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:46:54 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c12a5e6.608141@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 26742
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Assuming your scenario...just how long would any one rig cause your residence any interference?

The issue is NOT mobil activity...the issue is the local neighbor running illegal/dirty amps on CB.

Bottom line on illegal mobiles is that no one will even try to police it...Tacoma law or not.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 01:50:14 GMT, "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com> wrote:

>Bill, So long as I doesn't effect you you don't care right? How about if you >live next to I-5 and are tired of the Hi-power mobiles...The law should be >for anything car, house, tree fort, back alley.
>
>"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message
>news:3c115ed8.1866925@news.mindspring.com...
>> On 6 Dec 2001 21:30:26 -0800, voobner@yahoo.com (Aaron H. Voobner)
>> wrote:
>>
>> >"Landshark" S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net wrote
>> >> What he is saying is correct. Most police >> >>officers (while in their heart they think that what >> >>they are doing is the right thing) won't have the proper >> >>training for such an enforcement. Shooting a gun >> >>can remove a life, but taking ones radio equipment
>> >>is merely an inconvenience to someone.
>> >> NEVER argue with a cop, as a friend that is >> >>one says, "I'm God right then, are you going to >> >>tell me I'm wrong?" He's right, no matter what you >> >>say to him, if his mind is set, he will do what he >> >>thinks is right.
>> >>
>> >> Landshark
>> >
>> >Good god, I've never heard such whining, paranoia, and blatant >> >attempts at stampeding hams than I've heard from some of the more >> >illegally-minded CBers in this thread.
>> >
>> >The Tacoma ordinance was passed as a response to out-of-control outlaw >> >CBers using huge illegal amplifiers causing consumer interference >> >complaints. The FCC does not have a staff of 300,000 on the job so >> >the local LEO's are forced to deal with it. (Don't forget WHO caused >> >this situation to come about. Not the FCC. Not the cops. The outlaw >> >CBers did. Without THEIR shenanigans there would BE no Tacoma >> >Ordinance)

>> >
>> >Somehow this has situation been "spun" into lots of wild predictions >> >about pot-bellied cops hassling licensed amateurs about their mobile >> >rigs.
>> >
>> >If the cops in your area are as corrupt and dumb as some are saying >> >(can't recognize one radio from another, can't recognize an amp, can't >> >tell a ham license from a fishing license), then believe me, you got >> >troubles that go FAR beyond radio enforcement. I'd move to another >> >town.
>> >
>> >-Aaron-
>>
>> Aaron, is there truly a new law in Tacoma? No one has >> actually found one to exist.
>>
>> Additionally, I agree that the law, if it exists, is targeted at >> illegal high power CB ops...from home locations...NOT from cars.
>> The high power home illegals are the ones that cause >> constant ongoing interference. No one much >> cares about an illegal power amp in an 18 wheeler rolling down I-5.
>>
>> Cheers,
>> Bill K2UNK
>
>

3695. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-08 23:47:51 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C12A673.CA66917A@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26741

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> I think the sanest way to set up the basic tenets > are to simply agree with the religious views of > the last person who speaks, i.e. if Cecil tells > you that you are going to hell for dancing or > eating pork, you agree. If Rick Adams screams > that there is no God, you agree. In this manner, > you avoid all debate on religious matters.

But where is the controversy? Religions cannot exist without some controversy (christains have abortion, Muslims have the great Satan, etc). We gotta have some controversy. Wait, I've got it - the great CW debate!

> Since we are now in a new millenium, you might > consider spiffing up your place of worship. I > suggest that you have, as an altar, a large home > entertainment center. The focal point on the altar > can be a large screen TV. For sacraments, try Jack > Daniels and stale Cheetos. You'll also need "the > book". I suggest some old copies of 73 magazine.
> From time to time you can pick up "the book" and > read from the ravings of "St. Wayne".

Hey, this religion is getting stranger by the moment (which means, I like it).

> I'm working on the method of eternal punishment for > those who fail to follow the tenets of this new > religion. I haven't gotten all the details worked > out yet but I'm working on something like this: You > die and end up spending eternity at Kim's house...
> or maybe it just seems like it.

Heh, heh. Sorry, but that was funny, Kim. By the way, Dave, we should bestow sainthood on anyone who can always figure out what Kim is talking about.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3696. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 00:34:56 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C12B1A5.C1ED148D@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26743

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C11B63D.E4F8B0A@earthlink.net...
> > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > I think that you've missed the humor, Rick.
> > > > Dwight doesn't know of a religion called
> > > > "Stewartism".
> > >
> > > Wow, do they have a religion like that, Dave? I'll join.
> >
> > I think the sanest way to set up the basic tenets are to simply agree > > with the religious views of the last person who speaks, i.e. if Cecil > > tells you that you are going to hell for dancing or eating pork, you > > agree. If Rick Adams screams that there is no God, you agree. In this > > manner, you avoid all debate on religious matters.
> >
> > Since we are now in a new millenium, you might consider spiffing up your > > place of worship. I suggest that you have, as an altar, a large home > > entertainment center. The focal point on the altar can be a large > > screen TV. For sacraments, try Jack Daniels and stale Cheetos. You'll > > also need "the book". I suggest some old copies of 73 magazine. From > > time to time you can pick up "the book" and read from the ravings of
> > "St. Wayne".
> >
> > I'm working on the method of eternal punishment for those who fail to > > follow the tenets of this new religion. I haven't gotten all the > > details worked out yet but I'm working on something like this:
> > You die and end up spending eternity at Kim's house...or maybe it just > > seems like it.
> >
> > Let me know what you think.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> You've obviously got a lot of work to do yet, then, Dave. An eternity at my > house would be Heaven compared to one at Larry Roll's.

You simply misunderstood, Kim. The eternity spent at your house would be the punishment for others. Perhaps, YOU can spend eternity at Larry's.
```

Dave K8MN

3697. Re: Damn Code!!!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 00:43:07 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C12B390.A281F3AF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26744
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

CAM wrote:
>
> Hans Brakob wrote:
> >
> > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote =
> > > Maybe he doesn't realize that the only CW-only ham frequencies > > > are located in the 2m band.
> >
> > I didn't realize that either (because it isn't true).
>
> > There is another band with a "CW-only" segment.
>
> My typing got ahead of my brain. Should have been "6m/2m band".

Don't you mean to say that you simply lied about it?

Dave K8MN

3698. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 01:19:00 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011208201900.20561.00001168@mb-bd.news.cs.com>
Source record: 26745

>Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an >article
>about UK restructuring.
>
>Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5 >wpm for full access.
>
>But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is to >have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>
>Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>
>Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
>BUT.....
>
>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
>Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person >being >tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
>"A",
>the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks >up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending >test to be similar.
>
>Waddya think, folks?
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

Yuk!

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

3699. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 02:14:00 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <INzQ7.149063$WW.9626838@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26746

"N2EY" wrote
> Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article
> about UK restructuring.
>
> Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5
> wpm for full access.
>
> But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is
to > have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>
> Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>
> Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
> BUT.....
>
> No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.

So for it seems ok... depending on how much power they're allowed. Not allowing high power is vital to keep the newbies doing benign station operation and nothing else.

> Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person
being > tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
"A",
> the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks > up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper.
Sending
> test to be similar.

This testing scheme is way too complicated... I can't imagine people 'standing in line' to give the tests.

If nothing else at least our system is automated to a fair extent where the only work is really in the correction of the copy and multiple choice.

> Waddya think, folks?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

3700. UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 02:50:14 UTC
From: k0hb@qwest.net
Message-ID: <b7c5262e.0112081850.45563723@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26747

N2EY says:

>Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
>BUT.....
>
>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and
type-approved.

I am opposed to any appliance operator license in amateur radio.
Period.

Central to the justification for an Amateur Radio Service, and the precious spectrum that it consumes, is the idea of technically involved licensees. At the very soul of our Service is the fact that we are licensed to experiment, invent, modify, re-engineer, tinker, and improve the equipment that we use in our stations. Limiting a class of licensees (especially beginners) to "sealed store bought" equipment is a horrible idea. It consigns them to be nothing more than glorified FRS/CB operators with multi-band privs.

This idea is the first step down a slippery slope to the extinction of the Amateur Radio Service.

73, de Hans K0HB

73, Hans, K0HB

3701. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 03:17:20 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9uul3g09fd@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26750

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C129B58.B435E0A4@sccoast.net...
> No, I'm not "labeling" your friends, Kim. Like I said earlier,
> "satanic" is the common name used by most everyone to describe the > people involved in those activities. I didn't invent the word to > describe them - it is the word commonly used in this country.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

But you certainly don't have any problem repeating a commonly held
"Christian" misconception without knowing the facts.

3702. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 03:18:57 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9uul4809jf@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26749

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C129CB0.B3BA5E3C@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> There was nothing hateful about anything I said, Kim. I simply told > him, based on what he had written so far, I would believe any web site > over him (including one written by a drunken sailor from Brazil). Now, > that was certainly colorful (added for emphasis), but hardly hateful.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Hate is easliy veiled.

You can stick a toothpick in a turd and call it a trophy, but it would still be a turd.

3703. The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 03:24:37 UTC
From: k0hb@qwest.net
Message-ID: <b7c5262e.0112081924.551f6a9a@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26748

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> But where is the controversy? Religions cannot exist without some > controversy (christains have abortion, Muslims have the great Satan, > etc). We gotta have some controversy. Wait, I've got it - the great > CW debate!

Dwight,

I'm shocked that you don't understand one of the great religions of Amateur Radio. Morsodism has been widely discussed here on rrap, but you're kind of an ignorant newcomer, so I'll fill you in.

So you want to be a Morsodist. It's not easy, you know: you'll have to impose the stiffest constraints on your mind, accepting authority without question -- you will be subject to jeers and persecutions at the hands of the Spawn of Oracle, and you will suffer during your entire lifetime trying to throw pearls before the swine. But in the end, you will receive your reward from the Almighty in Heaven, and you will have the satisfaction of seeing all others being tossed into the Lake of Fire.

But enough of that; you're not there yet. You must first prove yourself worthy of being a Morsodist.

Lesson One: Developing Your Psyche

Right now I would like you to relax. That's it -- just sit quietly and let your mind go blank. Concentrate on one thing and one thing only: concentrate on your thumb. Now that thumb is no ordinary run-of-the-mill thumb: what you see is THE THUMB. That Thumb is your world. Nothing besides that Thumb concerns you in the least. As far as you are concerned, that Thumb rules over all. The only thing that should be in your mind right now is your Thumb and its absolute authority over your life. Each and every line, ridge, wrinkle, and bit of cuticle is a Divine Mandate, eternal in its wisdom, power, and relevance. That Thumb was made by MORSE, and its sole purpose is to guide you to your Salvation.

Now, while still concentrating on that Thumb, begin to think about the world around you. Careful! Don't try to take in everything at once: start with the rest of your fingers, and slowly spread from there. See how your fingers are connected with and dominated by your Thumb. Now, slowly extend your perception to embrace your forfinger. It too was created by Morse, and it is all guided by the Thumb. Between your thumb and forefinger lie all the secrets of Morse. The rest of the universe is of no concern.

Lesson Two: Establishing Your Doctrine

Congratulations! You've come a long way, but you're not there yet. What I want you to do now is to go to the nearest book store and purchase a copy of the FCCRuleBook. Preferably, it should be bound in nice, shiny black leather, and should have gilt edges and a red silk ribbon. It should be fairly hefty in size, but not so large that you cannot hold it with one hand. Finally, it should have the words of Samuel in red letters, for as you know the Son of Morse only spoke using red letters.

Now that you have yourFCCRuleBook, read it, and read it thoroughly. I imagine that some of it will fit in perfectly with your beliefs and morals, since you have been inspired by Maxim to attempt this indoctrination into Morsodism. As you read, you must remember that your beliefs are the ONLY right beliefs, and all others are falsehoods and are totally incompatible with Morse Divine Truth.

Now you may be dismayed as you read through the FCCRuleBook to find that much of it is outside your beliefs, or may even contradict them. No problem! All you have to do is take a black marker pen and blot out those paragraphs which you don't like. Simplicity itself! Now don't you worry if it seems that more of the FCCRuleBook is blacked out than left behind: just remind yourself that the remaining words are emphasized all the more.

Lesson Three: Living a Morsodist Lifestyle

Well, I'm sure that you Novices are simply bursting with questions on how to apply your new-found faith to your lives. I am pleased by your enthusiasm: such zeal is a necessity if you want to begin to work your influence on this filthy and sinful world and mold it into a clean and upright one. Those Spawn of W5YI are simply itching to be preached at, whether they want it or not, so let's get cracking.

First, obtain for thyself some sort of access to the internet newsgroups, specifically any (and all) newsgroups in the "rec.radio.amateur.*" lineage. Never mind that only one of them, the "policy" group is fit for Morsodists like yourself; you must spread the word ALL the heathen Oracalists. Crosspost like crazy, verily even if attacked by Horrible Herman, the Lord High Newsgroup Purity Defender.

As you preach the word of Morse to others, you will inevitably run into those who not only doubt the veracity of your words, but who also pose trick arguments inspired by Lenny Liberal and his henchman, Crazy Carl, the head Oracalist, in an attempt to trap and discredit you. This lesson deals with some of the major swords wielded by various tempters, and gives you some ideas on how to parry those weapons.

Technobabble scholars: these vermin use their high-falootin' technical jargon and book-learning to pervert the words of the Morse and read things into Part 97 which aren't there. The FCCRuleBook was written by Morse for YOU to use, and contains EVERYTHING you need to know for Salvation, plainly stated in black and white and red. There is nothing magic or mystical about it: it speaks out in the Words of Morse and speaks directly to YOU, as you have personally modified it to your belief set.

If other Spawn of Oracle say that the FCCRuleBook cannot speak the utter Truth because it is inconsistent in what it says, you can reply that there is no inconsistency in your FCCRuleBook: everything that you have in your FCCRuleBook perfectly supports your beliefs (remember Lesson Two). If they quote passages from the FCCRuleBook which they claim contradict your beliefs, you can reply that Oracle has inspired them to pervert the words of Morse and to twist their meaning around in order to try to subvert the Truth. If they say that you are being totally ignorant and irrational in your absolute belief in your Morsodist Doctrine, you can reply that they are being totally ignorant and irrational in their absolute refusal to believe in your Doctrine. And if they say that you are shutting your eyes to reality, you can reply that they are shutting their eyes to Morse.

Peace to all of you!

3704. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 03:55:50 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <ahBQ7.1988$SI1.265694341@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26651
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Thought you would like it.....

Landshark

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

"Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote in message news:SetQ7.94805$S93.5128475@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com...
> LOL!!
> Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
> news:WXpQ7.5888$J%1.1956491403@newssvr21.news.prodigy.com...
>
> > ..... Don't go to Tacoma.
> > Take care,
> >
> > Landshark
> >
> > --
> > "BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"
> >
> >
> > "Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote in message
> > news:PPfQ7.120129$8n4.8028971@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com...
> > > And I will not argue with him on the scene. If he ignores my license, > > fails
> > > to find out, or know,
> > > the procedure I will see the SOB in court IF he takes my equipment.
He > > WILL
> > > get in trouble > > > because part of that equipment was purchased with Department of Defense
> > > funds. He damn well > > > better produce it in the same condition it was in prior to confiscation > or > > > he will answer to someone lots more "connected" than me. Don't tell me
> a > > > cop is above the law he is sworn to enforce and, therefore, I "can't"
> get > > > him in trouble for falsely taking private property because he ":thinks"

> > the > > > civilian is wrong.
> > >
> > > I don't get into arguments with cops--I know better. But you better > > believe > > > that whatever legal > > > avenues I have against a Rambo cop, I WILL use them. Hey, I am a > > vindictive > > > person, what can > > > I say? LOL!
> > >
> > > Jerry
> > > K4KWH
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
> > > news:egXP7.4480$xy4.1674762434@newssvr21.news.prodigy.com...
> > > > What he is saying is correct. Most police > > > > officers (while in their heart they think that what > > > > they are doing is the right thing) won't have the proper > > > > training for such an enforcement. Shooting a gun
> > > > can remove a life, but taking ones radio equipment > > > > is merely an inconvenience to someone.
> > > > NEVER argue with a cop, as a friend that is > > > > one says, "I'm God right then, are you going to > > > > tell me I'm wrong?" He's right, no matter what you > > > > say to him, if his mind is set, he will do what he > > > > thinks is right.
> > > >
> > > > Landshark
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > --
> > > > "BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
> > news:3C0FFEBC.FB60F89D@gte.net...
> > > > >
> > > > > Who says that he would "arrest". What the > > > > > normal procedure would be is to take the > > > > > equipment, issue a court citation then let > > > > > the courts and the attorneys settle it out.
> > > > >
> > > > > This is often what happens when the cop > > > > > is not totally familiar with the law or the > > > > > ham does not have his license on him.
> > > > >
> > > > > What you should not do is argue as you are > > > > > not going to win. The street is not the place > > > > > to settle such issues, the courts are. And no > > > > > cop is going to let you get out of control and > > > > > argue with him. He will call back up and arrest > > > > > you for resisting law enforcement (non compliance > > > > > is a crime). You may get the radio back but > > > > > you will pay a fine for being a jerk.

> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>
>

3705. Re: Damn Code!!!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 04:34:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C12E9CE.27B977C7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26652
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Hans Brakob wrote:
> > >
> > > "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote =
> > > > Maybe he doesn't realize that the only CW-only ham frequencies > > > > are located in the 2m band.
> > >
> > > I didn't realize that either (because it isn't true).
> > >
> > > There is another band with a "CW-only" segment.
> > >
> > My typing got ahead of my brain. Should have been "6m/2m band".
>
> Don't you mean to say that you simply lied about it?

My brain didn't lie but my fingers did.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

3706. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 04:41:23 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dickc58@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3C12DE02.E8EEC8AC@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26653

K0HB wrote:

> N2EY says:
>
> >Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
> >
> >BUT.....
> >
> >No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and
> type-approved.
>
> I am opposed to any appliance operator license in amateur radio.
> Period.
>
> Central to the justification for an Amateur Radio Service, and the > precious spectrum that it consumes, is the idea of technically > involved licensees. At the very soul of our Service is the fact that > we are licensed to experiment, invent, modify, re-engineer, tinker, > and improve the equipment that we use in our stations. Limiting a > class of licensees (especially beginners) to "sealed store bought"
> equipment is a horrible idea. It consigns them to be nothing more > than glorified FRS/CB operators with multi-band privs.
>
> This idea is the first step down a slippery slope to the extinction of
> the Amateur Radio Service.

Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years??? All that was way back when there was not much other way to get a rig on the air. Today, it's flash the plastic and yak. You haven't heard of the "Get your license in a weekend" promotions by Gordo West et al? Comes with Moneyback guarantee!
The transition to knowledge-free licensing, to go with the code free, has been in progress for a LONG time, and will eventually culminate with DC to daylight CB.
It's pretty well there already.

3707. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 04:45:47 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C12EC7B.572379DB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26654

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years???

Hey Dick, here's something I got from a URL on drudgereport.com.

"A SCIENTIST has observed homosexual behavior in wild orang-utans for the first time, adding the great apes
to the long list of animals that take part in same sex relationships. Homosexual behavior has been observed in almost every species of animal including dolphins, hedgehogs, kangaroos, sheep, whales, albatrosses, chimpanzees and gorillas. Dr Fox published her observations in the American Journal of Primatology."
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3708. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:01:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f101_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26658

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011208104929.28268.00000201@mb-cr.aol.com...
>
> >I do know that if the government were truthful about the $1 tax and we'd had > >no prior experiences to the contrary, I'd be all for it.
>
> I find that hard to believe.
>
> >I'd also want the > >money equally distributed on something like a per mile of government > >highway in a state. In other words, a huge landsurface state may still only > >end up with a small percentage of the money because of less federal highway
> >in that state.
>
> That's a terrible formula. Using that method, the states with the most existing > roads would get the most money, regardless of how much they contribute to
the > tax base or how much new road they actually need.
>

When I thought the discussion was about road taxes, the above would make sense to me. The state with the most federal roads would need and get the most federal money to support those roads, right?

> > That is, if you are talking about highways being "public > >surface transportation."
>
> We were not. We were talking about alternatives to highways.
>
> <If you are talking about busses and trains...yech,
> >forget it.
>
> There are folks who cannot drive, and others who should not yet do because
of > lack of alternatives.
>

I think "public transportation" should be left mostly to local governments and people to decide if they want, and what type. I think that public transportation is subsidised, is it not (?), by federal tax dollars but is not chiefly funded by federal money.

> >
> > Tried both and hate 'em.
>
> Why? Did you try any of the European or Japanese systems?
>

Uh, I don't live in Europe or Japan. I live here in the United States. The NY subway system (back in the 70s) was pretty bad. Never took a bus up there, but I have down here in Dallas and it was not a pleasant or desirable experience at all.

> >
> > I'll pollute, thank you.
>
> Your pollution harms others. What gives you the right to do that?
>

I am a United States citizen?

>
> America's dependence on imported petroleum has serious political consequences.
> We import far more today than during the 1970s.
>

America's dependence on imported drugs has serious political consequences. America's dependence on foreign-made products has serious political and economic consequences. And on and on.

>
> Why is it OK for the govt. to subsidize certain modes of transportation to the > detriment of others?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

Don't know that it's "OK". It just happens that's a part of the "way it is."

Kim W5TIT

3709. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:03:21 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209000321.04115.00000112@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 26655

In article <m6sQ7.255459$W8.9481433@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>"N2EY" wrote
>
>> Here's a question for you: When and where did the ideas of separation of >church
>> and state, and universal religious tolerance, first become established in
>the >> USA?
>
>You don't mean Philadelphia? Do you? ;-)

Actually, Pennsylvania. Philly is close enough, though.
>
>> Do you know WHY the fish was a symbol?
>
>Fisher of men???

Naw. "Icthys" was an abbreviation for a phrase that meant "Jesus Christ, Savior of the world" or something like that. The simple fish symbol could be drawn quickly, too.
>
>> "Romanis ite domum? What is that supposed to mean??"
>
>I was thinking 'Romans are home' and so I searched on the net and found >this; I thought you'd like it...
>
>What could this be from???? ;-)

Ahhh - somebody here has some culture!

Monty Python's Life of Brian, which also gave us scenes like the old man being stoned for saying "Jehovah" and the song "Always Look On The Bright Side Of Life" (which would be reprised by Jack Nicholson in "As Good As It Gets").

You have to know the original to fully get the joke. The centurion has Brian in various strangleholds and threatens him with the short sword. The dialogue is familiar to anyone who had a real Latin teacher.
>_______________________
>
>CENTURION: What's this, then? 'Romanes Eunt Domus'? 'People called Romanes
>they go the house'?
>BRIAN: It-- it says, 'Romans, go home'.
>CENTURION: No, it doesn't. What's Latin for 'Roman'? Come on!
>BRIAN: Aah!

>CENTURION: Come on!
>BRIAN: 'R-- Romanus'?
>CENTURION: Goes like...?
>BRIAN: 'Annus'?
>CENTURION: Vocative plural of 'annus' is...?
>BRIAN: Eh. 'Anni'?
>CENTURION: 'Romani'. 'Eunt'? What is 'eunt'?
>BRIAN: 'Go'. Let--
>CENTURION: Conjugate the verb 'to go'.
>BRIAN: Uh. 'Ire'. Uh, 'eo'. 'Is'. 'It'. 'Imus'. 'Itis'. 'Eunt'.
>CENTURION: So 'eunt' is...?
>BRIAN: Ah, huh, third person plural, uh, present indicative. Uh, 'they go'.
>CENTURION: But 'Romans, go home' is an order, so you must use the...?
>BRIAN: The... imperative!
>CENTURION: Which is...?
>BRIAN: Umm! Oh. Oh. Um, 'i'. 'I'!
>CENTURION: How many Romans?
>BRIAN: Ah! 'I'-- Plural. Plural. 'Ite'. 'Ite'.
>CENTURION: 'Ite'.
>BRIAN: Ah. Eh.
>CENTURION: 'Domus'?
>BRIAN: Eh.
>CENTURION: Nominative?
>BRIAN: Oh.
>CENTURION: 'Go home'? This is motion towards. Isn't it, boy?
>BRIAN: Ah. Ah, dative, sir! Ahh! No, not dative! Not the dative, sir! No!
>Ah! Oh, the... accusative! Accusative! Ah! 'Domum', sir! 'Ad domum'! Ah!
>Oooh! Ah!
>CENTURION: Except that 'domus' takes the...?
>BRIAN: The locative, sir!
>CENTURION: Which is...?!
>BRIAN: 'Domum'.
>CENTURION: 'Domum'.
>BRIAN: Aaah! Ah.
>CENTURION: 'Um'. Understand?
>BRIAN: Yes, sir.
>CENTURION: Now, write it out a hundred times.
>BRIAN: Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. Hail Caesar, sir.
>CENTURION: Hail Caesar. If it's not done by sunrise, I'll cut your balls >off.
>BRIAN: Oh, thank you, sir. Thank you, sir. Hail Caesar and everything, sir!
>Oh. Mmm! Finished!
>ROMAN SOLDIER STIG: Right. Now don't do it again.
>[CENTURIONS chase BRIAN]
>MAN: Hey! Bloody Romans.
>_____
>
>Now doesn't that say it all? ;-)

Well, I wasn't expecting the Spanish Inquisition!

73 de Jim, N2EY

3710. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:03:22 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209000322.04115.00000113@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 26656

In article <3C129F04.23E73874@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> (snip) In Europe and Japan, where the public transit >> is so good, the taxes on gasoline are far more than >> $1 per gallon. We could have even better systems here
>> in the USA, but Americans aren't ready to pay the >> price - yet.
>
>
> I agree with the "yet" added to the end of that. Based on the >growing traffic jams in most major cities, I think it is only a matter >of time. Sooner or later, we'll have to do something (or we'll all end >up in traffic jams for most of our lives).

I hope you're right. The answer that most Americans support is "build more roads" which doesn't solve the problem.

What too many folks ignore is that we drive so many vehicles so many miles that we have to import huge amounts of petrol to run them. Paying for that petrol not only transfers huge amounts of American wealth overseas, but transfers some of it to the very folks who want to destroy us.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3711. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:06:37 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C12F150.5974C9F3@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26657

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > I think the sanest way to set up the basic tenets
> > are to simply agree with the religious views of > > the last person who speaks, i.e. if Cecil tells > > you that you are going to hell for dancing or > > eating pork, you agree. If Rick Adams screams > > that there is no God, you agree. In this manner, > > you avoid all debate on religious matters.
>
> But where is the controversy? Religions cannot exist without some > controversy (christains have abortion, Muslims have the great Satan, > etc). We gotta have some controversy. Wait, I've got it - the great CW debate!

Well, you'll automatically have the anti-religious element upset over the formation of the new religion. Toss in the code debate and you'll have a real winner.

> > Since we are now in a new millenium, you might > > consider spiffing up your place of worship. I > > suggest that you have, as an altar, a large home
> > entertainment center. The focal point on the altar
> > can be a large screen TV. For sacraments, try Jack > > Daniels and stale Cheetos. You'll also need "the > > book". I suggest some old copies of 73 magazine.
> > From time to time you can pick up "the book" and > > read from the ravings of "St. Wayne".
>
> Hey, this religion is getting stranger by the moment (which means, I > like it).
>
> > I'm working on the method of eternal punishment for > > those who fail to follow the tenets of this new > > religion. I haven't gotten all the details worked > > out yet but I'm working on something like this: You
> > die and end up spending eternity at Kim's house...
> > or maybe it just seems like it.
>
> Heh, heh. Sorry, but that was funny, Kim. By the way, Dave, we > should bestow sainthood on anyone who can always figure out what Kim > is talking about.

That is a problem, Dwight. Those who are beatified and awaiting their chance for sainthood are, well...dead.

Dave K8MN
on a break from the 160m contest...

3712. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:07:32 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f279_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26659

Never seen policies, other than "thou shalt not" and that's all that need be said. I'll be in my closed door meetings getting some real work done. I don't know what you guys are going to do.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1291F1.911C56FC@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > No, Dwight. I'll tell you in a heartbeat that it > > isn't going on and I do believe that we are all
> > far more adult than that. If this was going on
> > as much as you say, and if the prevailing attitude
> > were to adjust company policies because of it, there > > would be such a stranglehold on the ability of > > companies to do business that it would be impossible > > to do business!!
> >
> > And, as I said, I have never, ever seen it happen yet.
> > Yet is the operative word, but it is also the one on > > which I base my opinion that you have nothing more > > than a red herring.
>
>
> Kim, I read the above to my wife and, after she was finished > laughing, she asked where you have worked in your life that you've not > seen this. In every single place she has ever worked, the companies > had specific policies dealing with sexual harassment, which always > include invitations for dates, private meetings, private lunches, and > so forth. In fact, it is now a federal requirement for companies to > have their policies about sexual harassment clearly posted for all to > read. Where travel is likely, most companies had specific policies > about socializing, accommodations, and so forth. And most companies > gave their employees, especially the management staff, printed > guidelines or classroom instruction about dealing with the opposite > sex in the workplace - and all these she has read or seen warned > against private meetings behind closed doors and socializing (lunches, > etc) in or outside the workplace. In other words, her experiences in > this regard have been exactly the same as mine.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3713. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:10:39 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f334_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26661

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C129A6A.B0CD79FD@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > I sure would. If something is wrong, and if something > > is believed because of wrong perceptions, wrongfully > > placed concepts, then it's still wrong. Thank goodness > > our forefathers believed that.
>
>
> Kim, you can say something is wrong all you want, but that does not > make it wrong - it just makes it your opinion. And, my opinion, and > that of many others, say it is not wrong.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Why do you add the "and that of many others" above? Is that supposed to make your opinion even more right? I could stand in a room full of people and be the only one thinking something is wrong. Ask me if that will change my mind as to whether I think it is wrong or not.

Kim W5TIT
Sorry you offended so many people by being so very right.

3714. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:13:13 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f3ce_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26662

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C129B58.B435E0A4@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > You are labeling many of my Wiccan friends, Dwight.
>
>
> No, I'm not "labeling" your friends, Kim. Like I said earlier,
> "satanic" is the common name used by most everyone to describe the > people involved in those activities. I didn't invent the word to > describe them - it is the word commonly used in this country.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Is that kind of like dodging any responsiblity for the way you feel and think about the Wiccan and other Pagan traditions? OK, so you did not personally come up with the popular thought that pagan traditions are satanic in nature. Do you subscribe to the opinion, or not?

Kim W5TIT

3715. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:14:51 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C12F33F.45D84202@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26660

K0HB wrote:
>
> N2EY says:
>
> >Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
> >
> >BUT.....
> >
> >No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and
> type-approved.
>
> I am opposed to any appliance operator license in amateur radio.
> Period.
>
> Central to the justification for an Amateur Radio Service, and the > precious spectrum that it consumes, is the idea of technically > involved licensees. At the very soul of our Service is the fact that > we are licensed to experiment, invent, modify, re-engineer, tinker, > and improve the equipment that we use in our stations. Limiting a > class of licensees (especially beginners) to "sealed store bought"
> equipment is a horrible idea. It consigns them to be nothing more > than glorified FRS/CB operators with multi-band privs.
>
> This idea is the first step down a slippery slope to the extinction of
> the Amateur Radio Service.

Throw in Plourde's idea of low power and you've guaranteed the similarity to CB which Britain, after years of battling over the issue, already has. This idea is nearly as bad as baked bean sandwiches, grilled tomatoes, bangers, boiled coffee and blackened, cold toast which the Brits also introduced. Remember: The Brits invented the toilet seat but it took the French to invent the hole in the center.

Dave K8MN

3716. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:16:27 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f4a6_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26663

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9uul3g09fd@enews1.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C129B58.B435E0A4@sccoast.net...
> > No, I'm not "labeling" your friends, Kim. Like I said earlier,
> > "satanic" is the common name used by most everyone to describe the > > people involved in those activities. I didn't invent the word to > > describe them - it is the word commonly used in this country.
> >
> >
> > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> But you certainly don't have any problem repeating a commonly held
> "Christian" misconception without knowing the facts.
>
>

Thank you. Exactly.

Kim W5TIT

3717. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:17:24 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f4d6_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26664

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9uul4809jf@enews1.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C129CB0.B3BA5E3C@sccoast.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > There was nothing hateful about anything I said, Kim. I simply told > > him, based on what he had written so far, I would believe any web site > > over him (including one written by a drunken sailor from Brazil). Now, > > that was certainly colorful (added for emphasis), but hardly hateful.
> >
> >
> > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> Hate is easliy veiled.
>
> You can stick a toothpick in a turd and call it a trophy, but it would still > be a turd.
>
>

Er, with a toothpick in it. ;)

Kim W5TIT

3718. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:18:59 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f530_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26665

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C12A673.CA66917A@sccoast.net...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > I think the sanest way to set up the basic tenets
> > are to simply agree with the religious views of > > the last person who speaks, i.e. if Cecil tells > > you that you are going to hell for dancing or > > eating pork, you agree. If Rick Adams screams > > that there is no God, you agree. In this manner, > > you avoid all debate on religious matters.
>
>
> But where is the controversy? Religions cannot exist without some > controversy (christains have abortion, Muslims have the great Satan, > etc). We gotta have some controversy. Wait, I've got it - the great CW debate!
>
>
> > Since we are now in a new millenium, you might > > consider spiffing up your place of worship. I > > suggest that you have, as an altar, a large home
> > entertainment center. The focal point on the altar
> > can be a large screen TV. For sacraments, try Jack > > Daniels and stale Cheetos. You'll also need "the > > book". I suggest some old copies of 73 magazine.
> > From time to time you can pick up "the book" and > > read from the ravings of "St. Wayne".
>
>
> Hey, this religion is getting stranger by the moment (which means, I > like it).
>
>
> > I'm working on the method of eternal punishment for > > those who fail to follow the tenets of this new > > religion. I haven't gotten all the details worked > > out yet but I'm working on something like this: You
> > die and end up spending eternity at Kim's house...
> > or maybe it just seems like it.
>
>
> Heh, heh. Sorry, but that was funny, Kim. By the way, Dave, we > should bestow sainthood on anyone who can always figure out what Kim > is talking about.

>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Funny? I thought it was rather easy and blase. But one man's junk is another man's treasure.

Oh, and all you gotta do is tell me to use shorter sentences so you can understand 'em.

Kim W5TIT

3719. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:21:17 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c12f5b2_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26666

```
"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C12B1A5.C1ED148D@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3C11B63D.E4F8B0A@earthlink.net...
> > > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > I think that you've missed the humor, Rick.
> > > > > Dwight doesn't know of a religion called
> > > > > "Stewartism".
> > > >
> > > > Wow, do they have a religion like that, Dave? I'll join.
> > >
> > > I think the sanest way to set up the basic tenets are to simply agree > > > with the religious views of the last person who speaks, i.e. if Cecil > > > tells you that you are going to hell for dancing or eating pork, you > > > agree. If Rick Adams screams that there is no God, you agree. In this > > > manner, you avoid all debate on religious matters.
> > >
> > > Since we are now in a new millenium, you might consider spiffing up your > > > place of worship. I suggest that you have, as an altar, a large home > > > entertainment center. The focal point on the altar can be a large > > > screen TV. For sacraments, try Jack Daniels and stale Cheetos.
You'll
> > > also need "the book". I suggest some old copies of 73 magazine. From > > > time to time you can pick up "the book" and read from the ravings of > > > "St. Wayne".
> > >
> > > I'm working on the method of eternal punishment for those who fail to > > > follow the tenets of this new religion. I haven't gotten all the > > > details worked out yet but I'm working on something like this:
> > > You die and end up spending eternity at Kim's house...or maybe it just > > > seems like it.
> > >
> > > Let me know what you think.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> >
> > You've obviously got a lot of work to do yet, then, Dave. An eternity
```

at my > > house would be Heaven compared to one at Larry Roll's.
>
> You simply misunderstood, Kim. The eternity spent at your house would > be the punishment for others. Perhaps, YOU can spend eternity at > Larry's.
>
> Dave K8MN

Oh no no no. The thought of even a few moments in or near the Larry Roll apartmenthood is enough to make me work on sainthood.

Kim W5TIT

3720. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 05:37:45 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <#uesCOHgBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 26667

Dick Carroll muttered

> Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years??? All that was way > back when there was not much other way to get a rig on the air. Today, > it's flash the plastic and yak.

I've been on the air. Where the hell have YOU been Richard (Cranium)??

There is more homebrewing and kitbuilding going on in amateur radio today that there has been since the late 50's. But acknowledging that fact would ruin your negative rant, wouldn't it?

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

3721. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:15:15 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209011515.07928.00000262@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 26669

In article <20011208104927.28268.00000199@mb-cr.aol.com>, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) writes:

>
>In Europe and Japan, where the public transit is so good, the taxes on >gasoline >are far more than $1 per gallon. We could have even better systems here in
>the >USA, but Americans aren't ready to pay the price - yet.
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

Jim:

One reason why Europe and Japan have extensive, well-used, and efficient public transit systems is because their geography, population density, and culture all work to make it practical. In the typical European or Japanese city, there simply isn't enough highway traffic capacity and parking space to accommodate anything but mass transit of the daily workforce/shopping/leisure traffic going to, from, and between the cities and outlying suburbs. Here in the USA, the distances are much longer, and our highway systems consume a vast amount of our urban/suburban real estate by comparison to EU/JA cities of similar size. Not to mention the fact that with the exception of people who live and work entirely within the boundaries of large cities, Americans are generally not disposed to giving up the autonomy and freedom of transporting themselves in their private automobiles.

One thing I would change is this crap of single-car travel when that car is a full-sized luxury SUV or sedan. I think compact 4-cylinder cars are a much better choice, and is the type I've driven most of my life. Of the dozen or so cars I've owned, the three largest were a '65 Ford LTD, an '83 Chevrolet Caprice Classic 4-DR sedan, and a '91 Ford Taurus. All the rest have been 4-cylinder, 4-door compact cars. My Toyota Corolla LE is every bit as comfortable, quiet, and safe as my '91 Taurus was, but it gets up to twice as many MPG in combined city/highway driving, and I can park it anywhere.

I think we Americans do need to re-think things like our daily transportation needs, and be more willing to accept vehicles that get the job done with a minimum of impact. Every time I see some young female YUPPIE driving all by her lonesome in an Excursion, I find myself wishing gasoline was five bucks a gallon! The problem is, people like her would pay that price -- and those of us who get 40 mpg in our economy cars shouldn't have to!

Perhaps what we need are gasoline taxes based on vehicle size,
weight, and average fuel economy -- with confiscatory road
use surcharges for those practicing conspicuous consumption
with the SUV's, full-size crew-cab dually pickups (legitimate business users excluded, of course), and other inefficient vehicles.

73 de Larry, K3LT

3722. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:15:16 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209011516.07928.00000264@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 26668

In article <3C12B1A5.C1ED148D@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>You simply misunderstood, Kim. The eternity spent at your house would >be the punishment for others. Perhaps, YOU can spend eternity at >Larry's.
>
>Dave K8MN

Dave:

What have I done to deserve THAT???

73 de Larry, K3LT

3723. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:15:16 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209011516.07928.00000263@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 26670

In article <TexQ7.215587$3d2.9815049@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>
>Larry, update me just a tad. The military has had regs on >superior/subordinate relationships since probably Cyrus the Great or >before. As an NCO you would probably get into deep do do lending money, >getting into poker games, etc. with people you supervised. Officers, of >course, had stricter rules re enlisted but got regularly drained by the CO >or his wife where the rules got 'bent' into a knot. NCO clubs had their >reasons for existing.
>
>When you went to sergeanting school, what did they tell you about this >sort of thing?
>
>Dick Nï¿½BK

Dick:

Surprisingly little. In fact, I always thought that the Air Force NCO Supervisory courses and NCO Academies were somewhat negligent in providing detailed training on the topic of professional relationships between the ranks. The Senior NCO Academy correspondence course addressed the issue, but provided no specific "Thou Shalt Nots" with regard to various possible inter-rank personal affairs.
The main guidance was that among enlisted personnel, it is OK to "fraternize" as long as the two parties involved are not in each other's chain-of-command, and have no possibility of becoming so.

This is not quite as simple as it sounds, however. I, as a Senior NCO, may have an intimate relationship with a female Staff Sergeant who is not in my career field. However, if she is assigned to my squadron, and I am, for example, required to fill-in as the acting First Sergeant (something I've done a number of times), she falls within my supervisory span of control, and, legally, becomes someone with whom I cannot fraternize. If she is a member of a different squadron entirely, then there's less of a problem, as long as our behavior toward each other is entirely professional in substance and appearance when in each other's presence in public and while wearing the uniform.

Early in my career, a female NCO and I did have a lengthy relationship while we were both Staff Sergeants. We were separated by different assignments, and brought back "together" 10 years later, when she was a Technical Sergeant and I was a Master Sergeant, in the same squadron, and the same section! I was her Superintendent, her direct supervisor, and, therefore, she was no longer "fair game" for an intimate relationship. That problem resolved itself in a year and a half, after I retired!

The main focus of fraternization in the military is between officers and enlisted personnel -- and that is always a bad idea for both. I have known male officers who have married female enlisted personnel, but their careers seem to have suffered as a result of it. In fact, the best possible XYL for a married, male officer is a college educated civilian from a "good" (spelled high social class) family. Speaking for myself, I probably went a bit overboard trying to avoid the appearance, or the fact, of improper fraternization. Considering the problems I've seen others have, I'm glad I choose that particular personal policy.

73 de Larry, K3LT

3724. Re: kv4fz does an "end run" to get on the air?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:26:45 UTC
From: The Better Amateur Radio Federation <lloyd_vfp@msn.com>
Message-ID: <74032aae7057c1a9b87253f81579a287@spamfreenews.com>
Source record: 26671
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

"bpnjensen" <bpnjensen@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:37af7e1c.0112071313.27189955@posting.google.com...
> Well, your position is stupid and erroneous. The "horse" obviously > ain't dead, and this is the type of thing that can and may well affect > amateur radio operators for decades to come. It's public record; it's > a public activity; and the amateur radio public has every right, maybe > even an obligation, to discuss it. Hopefully the discussion will > focus on issues rather than personalities, but it is still a valid > topic.
>
> Bruce Jensen

This issue is this, Brucie. There are people that can't leave well enough alone. They can not stand the fact that Herb can get back on the air, even if it is to be in a contest. He was not bothering anybody. Who care anyway? Mr. Hollingsworth is a very corrupt man. He enforces the ham bands to what way his "masters" see fit. There have many people file complaints about QRM'ing of the Liberty Net, which go unanswered. But someone, who lost his ham ticket, by means that, in my opinion, were railroaded by a bunch of power-hungry and self-serving, garbage!

Herb gets on the air, just to get in a contest, and what happens? All hell breaks loose. It's a matter of Mr. Hollingsworth picking and choosing what rules get enforced and what should happen. As Hal Turner would suggest, Mr. Hollingsworth should resign in disgrace!

--
Lloyd Davies,
B.A.R.F. Chief of Communications http://www.angelfire.com/in/w9xn/http://www.anglefire.com/al/sj61 - Under development

3725. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:37:41 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1306B4.A192185E@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26672

>
> >
> > Well, to get the connection between the pentagram and satanism out > > of my head, you'd have to tell me to ignore several hundred years of > > history - that symbol has been used by self proclaimed satanists for > > at least that long (possibly longer).
> >
>
> It's also been used in religious, Masonic, etc., circles, so you'd better > dodge them too.

Also on heavy metal music album/CD covers....

3726. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:39:02 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C130706.F06E2814@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26673

>
> > >Rearrabge the letters in "Santa" and you get "Satan". How convenient!
> >
> > devil spelled backward is "lived"

Devils are a hockey team in NJ.....

>
> >
> > evil spelled backward is "live"
> >
> > now consider god ...
> >
> > Rick <wondering who let the dog out preach, preach, preach...>
>
> Don't forget Stephen King's favorite aperitif - Red Rum.

3727. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:48:36 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C130944.F1EA01DC@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26674

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

>
>
> Uh, I don't live in Europe or Japan. I live here in the United States. The > NY subway system (back in the 70s) was pretty bad.

I hear it's gotten better. I'm going to pay a visit to a friend in Manhattan Island, and the only sensible way to do that from northern NJ is to catch a bus to 42nd street and then take the subway. I'll see how it is. No place to park.

3728. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:50:42 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1309C2.CD51CD38@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26675

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > (snip) In Europe and Japan, where the public transit > > is so good, the taxes on gasoline are far more than > > $1 per gallon. We could have even better systems here
> > in the USA, but Americans aren't ready to pay the > > price - yet.
>
> I agree with the "yet" added to the end of that. Based on the > growing traffic jams in most major cities, I think it is only a matter > of time. Sooner or later, we'll have to do something (or we'll all end > up in traffic jams for most of our lives).
>

Now if they had busses that actually went somewheres...
(like where I want to go when I want to go).

3729. Re: Smiley Riley

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 06:53:02 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C12523B.4FEC6EFA@mailcity.net>
Source record: 26676
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

KC8JBO wrote:

>
> And N4CND has drove by AMP's house doing stuff as well. From the way > Oraasssss'
> audio sounds, he should stick to CB.

"has driven", learn proper English woger.

3730. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 07:02:38 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C130C8E.EF97845E@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26677

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > I think that you've missed the humor, Rick.
> > Dwight doesn't know of a religion called
> > "Stewartism".
>
> Besides, he'll never get that type of humor, Dave. He seems to think > only of christianity, when I was actually hoping that I was wealthier > than I thought (religions make good money).

I'll start a discount house of worship, next to Target and Kmart.... :-)

3731. Re: Damn Code!!!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 07:11:41 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C130EAD.6E17C73E@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26678
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Brian Kelly wrote:

>
> >
> A Real Ham runs the mode that works on the specific freq at the > specific time, if there's a new one on EME for instance and you need > to log him a Real Ham runs the mode of the moment, doesn't matter if > we're talking 2m or 160m.

EME in 160 meters? I suppose if two ham stations use balloon lifted 160 m yagis and operated 1KW CW when the Moon is directly overhead..... Of course it would not work on a windy day.
Going directly up should help punch through the ionosphere. NO fair hearing ground wave....

3732. I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 08:34:41 UTC
From: timnebo@aol.comLOL
Message-ID: <9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26680
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing. I have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands and on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that. This is what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled. You dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway. I dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us do what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole process up.

73 de Tim
Knight Patrol #82

WARNING
No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News Groups. Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3733. Two Can Play At This Game, Lelnad

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 08:41:02 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9uv82ubma1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26679

"You think you can forge me in both hammie and cb room, Lelnad, but I am one step ahead of your pathetic distortions and lies. I have created this free newsserver account in order to give you something to think about. You see I could if I were so inclined use this account to forge YOU. Note that I said COULD, dear Lelnad, not DID, for I admit nothing without a quick backshuffling and the famous razzle-dazzle two step for which I am famous for. You may think you have cornered me with proof and substantiation, but all I need do is unleash a welter of words to bollix you and you come undone. Dogie was so beaten by my talent that he withdrew, tail between legs, to the darker reaches of the kennel. The one time he thought he was clever enough to send a tremor through my world was the lucky break that enabled him to post his disgusting mens undergarment for my receipt. I assure you it was the kennel club that did this and no one else for he as much as admitted it by his words scrawled on the garment itself. I will never reveal these words but know that I have the aformentioned lingerie displayed where I can see it daily as both a trophy and a reminder that I can send authorities to lock him up and throw away the key should I deign to. Now you Lelnad, observe this as a lesson if you please. There will be no more caterwauling and piffling and prodding as adjuncts to my posts. If you disagree with my proprietary opinions I ask you to take it to email and not involve the group in your anger-infused jealousy"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3734. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 09:18:43 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C132C5B.B6B13727@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26681

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3C12B1A5.C1ED148D@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> writes:
>
> >You simply misunderstood, Kim. The eternity spent at your house would > >be the punishment for others. Perhaps, YOU can spend eternity at > >Larry's.
> >
> >Dave K8MN
>
> Dave:
>
> What have I done to deserve THAT???

Come to think of it, that would be unfair.

Dave K8MN

3735. Re: A question to all.....

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 11:10:33 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112090310.79bffe25@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26682

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:<cuvyxnansvbet.gnmr2zb.pminews@or.news.verio.net>...
> On 29 Nov 2001 23:13:45 -0800, Brian Kelly wrote:
>
> >> To date this practice, they had lots of Gonset Gooney-Birds for us > >> 2-meter guys who needed a portable or mobile rig over a long > >> weekend. (Late 1950s)
> >>
> >>
> >Gooney BOXES, Benton Harbor LUNCHBOXES . . sheesh awready . .
>
> Weren't the Benton Harbor LunchBoxes products of Heath?
>
> I'm talking 1958......
>
>
Almost. One of the HeathHeads sites states that the HW-30 "Twoer" was produced from 1960 thru 1971. The HW-29/29A "Sixer" was the six meter Lunchbox, the HW-19 operated on ten. I think the kits were around $40.
The 5w Heath 'boxes were much less sophisticated than the Gonsets, the rcvr was just a super-regen. But it was sensitive and proved to be pretty effective for it's time for forty bucks. I ran a Twoer for several years in the local dx spots net, maybe thirty dxcc hounds hung out on 147.888 or some such with all sorts of claptrap AM rigs. The Gonsets, the WW2 SCR-522s . . .
>
>
The Twoer was very easy to tune. The lower position of the tuning knob listens to 144-146Mc., the upper position inhales every signal between 146 and 148Mc. Inclusive. Selectivity on 2m didn't much matter back then, except for our spots net there was very little activity on 2m. I daresay that the Twoer was one of the milestone radios which led the stampede to 2m in that timeframe.
>
>
Those were interesting days on 2m. From the Lunchboxe-level AM rigs we jumped to FM simplex via the great heaps of surplus commercial n' cop's surplus tube-type rigs as the pros moved in herds to solid-state equipment. Like my single channel castoff police 23 tube 90 pound "floor-mounted" Motorola base abomination rig. Took up more cubic space than three 75A4s do.
>
>
Shortly thereafter the likes of Ray Jeff started cranking out cheap little 25w solid-state VHF Marine Band radios for the boating masses which we boogered onto 2m. Jeez, ya could crystal up for a half dozen or more channels on 2m with those, how good could VHF ham radio get?

'Twas a good day when I got my Ray Jeff up and running on 147.870 and a municipal trash truck compacted my Motorola Monster into oblivion.
>
>
Then came the repeater wars. Turned out that some village idiots on Long Island had picked 147.870 as the input freq for their machine.
And there we were a bunch of Philly-based HF dxers with mongo towers topped with gain 2m antennas running simplex which pounded "their" input freq . . "This is OUR problem??"
>
>
ohgawd . . .
>
>
w3rv

3736. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 11:36:15 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112090336.88f0af9@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26683

k0hb@qwest.net (K0HB) wrote in message news:<b7c5262e.0112081924.551f6a9a@posting.google.com>...
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> > But where is the controversy? Religions cannot exist without some > > controversy (christains have abortion, Muslims have the great Satan, > > etc). We gotta have some controversy. Wait, I've got it - the great > > CW debate!
>
> Dwight,
>
> I'm shocked that you don't understand one of the great religions of > Amateur Radio. Morsodism has been widely discussed here on rrap, but > you're kind of an ignorant newcomer, so I'll fill you in.
>
> So you want to be a Morsodist. It's not easy, you know: you'll have to > impose the stiffest constraints on your mind, accepting authority > without question -- you will be subject to jeers and persecutions at > the hands of the Spawn of Oracle, and you will suffer during your > entire lifetime trying to throw pearls before the swine. But in the > end, you will receive your reward from the Almighty in Heaven, and you > will have the satisfaction of seeing all others being tossed into the > Lake of Fire.
>
> But enough of that; you're not there yet. You must first prove > yourself worthy of being a Morsodist.
>
> Lesson One: Developing Your Psyche
>
> Right now I would like you to relax. That's it -- just sit quietly and > let your mind go blank. Concentrate on one thing and one thing only:
> concentrate on your thumb. Now that thumb is no ordinary > run-of-the-mill thumb: what you see is THE THUMB. That Thumb is your > world. Nothing besides that Thumb concerns you in the least. As far as > you are concerned, that Thumb rules over all. The only thing that > should be in your mind right now is your Thumb and its absolute > authority over your life. Each and every line, ridge, wrinkle, and bit > of cuticle is a Divine Mandate, eternal in its wisdom, power, and > relevance. That Thumb was made by MORSE, and its sole purpose is to > guide you to your Salvation.
>
> Now, while still concentrating on that Thumb, begin to think about the > world around you. Careful! Don't try to take in everything at once:
> start with the rest of your fingers, and slowly spread from there. See > how your fingers are connected with and dominated by your Thumb. Now, > slowly extend your perception to embrace your forfinger. It too was > created by Morse, and it is all guided by the Thumb. Between your > thumb and forefinger lie all the secrets of Morse. The rest of the > universe is of no concern.

>
> Lesson Two: Establishing Your Doctrine
>
> Congratulations! You've come a long way, but you're not there yet.
> What I want you to do now is to go to the nearest book store and > purchase a copy of the FCCRuleBook. Preferably, it should be bound in > nice, shiny black leather, and should have gilt edges and a red silk > ribbon. It should be fairly hefty in size, but not so large that you > cannot hold it with one hand. Finally, it should have the words of > Samuel in red letters, for as you know the Son of Morse only spoke > using red letters.
>
> Now that you have yourFCCRuleBook, read it, and read it thoroughly. I > imagine that some of it will fit in perfectly with your beliefs and > morals, since you have been inspired by Maxim to attempt this > indoctrination into Morsodism. As you read, you must remember that > your beliefs are the ONLY right beliefs, and all others are falsehoods > and are totally incompatible with Morse Divine Truth.
>
> Now you may be dismayed as you read through the FCCRuleBook to find > that much of it is outside your beliefs, or may even contradict them.
> No problem! All you have to do is take a black marker pen and blot out > those paragraphs which you don't like. Simplicity itself! Now don't > you worry if it seems that more of the FCCRuleBook is blacked out than > left behind: just remind yourself that the remaining words are > emphasized all the more.
>
> Lesson Three: Living a Morsodist Lifestyle
>
> Well, I'm sure that you Novices are simply bursting with questions on > how to apply your new-found faith to your lives. I am pleased by your > enthusiasm: such zeal is a necessity if you want to begin to work your > influence on this filthy and sinful world and mold it into a clean and > upright one. Those Spawn of W5YI are simply itching to be preached at, > whether they want it or not, so let's get cracking.
>
> First, obtain for thyself some sort of access to the internet > newsgroups, specifically any (and all) newsgroups in the > "rec.radio.amateur.*" lineage. Never mind that only one of them, the > "policy" group is fit for Morsodists like yourself; you must spread > the word ALL the heathen Oracalists. Crosspost like crazy, verily even > if attacked by Horrible Herman, the Lord High Newsgroup Purity > Defender.
>
> As you preach the word of Morse to others, you will inevitably run > into those who not only doubt the veracity of your words, but who also > pose trick arguments inspired by Lenny Liberal and his henchman, Crazy > Carl, the head Oracalist, in an attempt to trap and discredit you.

> This lesson deals with some of the major swords wielded by various > tempters, and gives you some ideas on how to parry those weapons.
>
> Technobabble scholars: these vermin use their high-falootin' technical > jargon and book-learning to pervert the words of the Morse and read > things into Part 97 which aren't there. The FCCRuleBook was written by > Morse for YOU to use, and contains EVERYTHING you need to know for > Salvation, plainly stated in black and white and red. There is nothing > magic or mystical about it: it speaks out in the Words of Morse and > speaks directly to YOU, as you have personally modified it to your > belief set.
>
> If other Spawn of Oracle say that the FCCRuleBook cannot speak the > utter Truth because it is inconsistent in what it says, you can reply > that there is no inconsistency in your FCCRuleBook: everything that > you have in your FCCRuleBook perfectly supports your beliefs > (remember Lesson Two). If they quote passages from the FCCRuleBook > which they claim contradict your beliefs, you can reply that Oracle > has inspired them to pervert the words of Morse and to twist their > meaning around in order to try to subvert the Truth. If they say that > you are being totally ignorant and irrational in your absolute belief > in your Morsodist Doctrine, you can reply that they are being totally > ignorant and irrational in their absolute refusal to believe in your > Doctrine. And if they say that you are shutting your eyes to reality, > you can reply that they are shutting their eyes to Morse.
>
> Peace to all of you!
>
>
Jesus Christ Hans Ham Radio is only a HOBBY!
>
>
w3rv

3737. Re: W4AMP on 14313 and 3901

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 12:15:38 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9uvribmdc3@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26687
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message news:2f31d7b3b89604b190735@ncvillage.net...
>
> On Sat, 8 Dec 2001 11:24:28 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> :
> : "Enrique Alejandro Martinez" <pilotenrique@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> : news:9ut41idr1@onyx.indstate.edu...
> : > Well Military reject...
> :
> : Says the COWARD too chickenshit to enlist.
> :
> : > Number one, I am a US citizen, so you can call the > : > INS. They will find all my papers in order.
> :
> : U.S. citizens don't have "paper" to get in order, fucknuts.
> : Having that expired visa from that shithole Honduras makes you even more > : nervous, does it?
>
> Naturalized citizens have papers which prove they are citizens,

No Shit, Sherlock.

> dimwit. These days, they carry them on their person in case John > Ashcroft's jackbooted immigration thugs show up on their doorstep.

Poor babies. You sound like you came from one of those Cuban refugee boats yourself, dumbass. Or are all North Carolinaians so hopped up on drugs like you?

3738. Re: Smiley Riley

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 12:20:56 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9uvricmdc4@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26688
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

"Anonymous Coward" <Woger@WVFruitCo.con> wrote in message news:9uu4rd$bi7$0@pita.alt.net...

Let's see you post by DT because you are suffering from the DT's.

> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9uttib$s8g$8@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "Angst" <ToodleDoo@youtoo.col> wrote in message
> > news:9urs2a$470$0@dosa.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> > news:9uo12vlfq0@dosa.alt.net...
> > > >
> > > > "DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:3204442.23871@ncvillage.net...
> > > > >
> > > > > On Wed, 5 Dec 2001 15:42:51 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Oh, I don't know........he may be listening more than you think.
> He > > > got
> > > > on > > > > > > 14.313 recently and talked to Dan.
> > > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > We can take care of things ourselves instead of waiting around for
> Mr.
> > > > No Show. I have a Collins KWM-2 all hooked up and ready to take > Dimmy
> > > > out whenever he shows up and starts his profanity again.
> > > >
> > > So you're saying you're advocating illegal jamming to interfere
with > > > another ham's QSO. That says a lot about your following Part 97, > doesn't
> > it?
> > > > BTW, N4CND was the one using profanity, not W4AMP.
> > >
> > And it was AMP who suggested making a midnight call to tear down towers
> > and > > antennas. Just goes to show, you put a CB'er on Ham Radio and he's still

> a > > > CB'er.
> >
> > And N4CND has drove by AMP's house doing stuff as well. From the way > > Oraasssss'
> > audio sounds, he should stick to CB.
> >
>
> Roger, the two of them live in different states!

BWHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA...You are one dumbass.

Orasss the profanity on 3.901 spewer and AMP both live in Georgia.
Although I don't know why anybody would want to.
Or why anybody would want to check into 3.901, the trash frequency full of hypocrites and jammers. Yes, the so-called "goodfellows" jam and get on unidentified.

> How the hell can they drive by each other's house?

Ummmm...with an automobile or truck???? Not every body is like you and has automobiles that actually run, instead of up on blocks in front of their house.

> Uh oh, sorry gotta run, there's a computer customer up front......back later.

And they depend upon you to sell them something?
How ironic.

3739. Re: Smiley Riley

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 12:23:08 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9uvridmdc5@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26689
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

"Jizz Recepticle" <radiobuf@mailcity.net> wrote in message news:3C12523B.4FEC6EFA@mailcity.net...
>
>
> KC8JBO wrote:
>
> >
> > And N4CND has drove by AMP's house doing stuff as well. From the way > > Oraasssss'
> > audio sounds, he should stick to CB.
>
> "has driven", learn proper English woger.
^^

Follow your own advice, fuckwit.

1) Sentences begin with Capital letters.
2) You missed placement of a comma.
3) Proper nouns are capitalized, as well.
4) You are an ill-educated fuckwit.

HTH.

3740. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 12:39:10 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9uvriomdcd@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 26690
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

"Tough Tits Rumpranger" <RumprangerTwiddlesLittle
Boys@harharharharidiot.com> wrote in message
news:9uu2ng$6c2$0@pita.alt.net...

Poor Twatty Campbell.

> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9utti6$s8g$4@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message
> > news:23871.0000054@ncvillage.net...
> > >
> > > On Thu, 6 Dec 2001 09:20:25 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > > >
> > > > So you're saying you're advocating illegal jamming to interfere
with > > > > another ham's QSO. That says a lot about your following Part 97, > doesn't
> > it?
> > > > BTW, N4CND was the one using profanity, not W4AMP.
> > >
> > > That's exactly what I'm saying. Just like the CBers, the FCC has > > > abandoned enforcement of ham radio rules. If we don't take care of > > > ourselves, nobody will. So I'm perfectly willing to jam Dimmy until
he > > > shuts up.
> >
> > So you're part of the problem, instead of the solution. Vigilanteism went > > out a long time ago, but, I suppose you're so backward that you still > think
> > it's a viable defense.
> >
> > > I'll jam you too if necessary. That's the way it has to be now.
> >
> > cc: rholling@fcc.gov.
> >
> > We'll see about that.
> >
> >
> Talk tough Roger talk tough, I know it gets all your little > radio geek buddies excited. Boy what a collection of radio > fruits in the radio groups.

You'll fit right in.

> We've come to get to know many > of them to where we can post stuff that gets them all > excited, like what violations they got from Riley and what > radio groups they're in on what freqs.

And too much of a COWARD to post non-anonymously.

3741. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 13:34:40 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <QLJQ7.216216$3d2.9884345@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26684

> >"N2EY" wrote

> >> Do you know WHY the fish was a symbol?

> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

> >Fisher of men???

"N2EY" wrote

> Naw. "Icthys" was an abbreviation for a phrase that meant "Jesus Christ, Savior > of the world" or something like that. The simple fish symbol could be drawn > quickly, too.

I'm right because Icthys is Greek for fish. Oteoicthys is all the bony fishes. DO you knonw what they call the rest of the fishes?

They called him that because he was the 'Fisher of Men' remember the most of the appostles were fishermen by trade.

> >> "Romanis ite domum? What is that supposed to mean??"

> >I was thinking 'Romans are home' and so I searched on the net and found > >this; I thought you'd like it...

> >What could this be from???? ;-)

> Ahhh - somebody here has some culture!

That's right... ;-)

> Monty Python's Life of Brian, which also gave us scenes like the old man being > stoned for saying "Jehovah" and the song "Always Look On The Bright Side Of > Life" (which would be reprised by Jack Nicholson in "As Good As It Gets").
>
> You have to know the original to fully get the joke. The centurion has Brian in > various strangleholds and threatens him with the short sword. The dialogue is > familiar to anyone who had a real Latin teacher.

<snip>

> >Now doesn't that say it all? ;-)

> Well, I wasn't expecting the Spanish Inquisition!

NOT THE SPANISH INQISITION!!!

Rich

3742. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 13:38:20 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209083820.10655.00001381@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 26685

>Subject: The Morsodist Religion
>From: k0hb@qwest.net (K0HB)
>Date: 12/8/2001 9:24 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <b7c5262e.0112081924.551f6a9a@posting.google.com>

>I'm shocked that you don't understand one of the great religions of >Amateur Radio.

Damn....I thought Lennnie was back!

Whew!

Steve

3743. Re: kv4fz does an "end run" to get on the air?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 14:06:27 UTC
From: lecaky capacitors <mrogers3@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <DdKQ7.41384$WC1.4111424@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 26686
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

"The Big Assed Radio Federation" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message news:74032aae7057c1a9b87253f81579a287@spamfreenews.com...

(snip)

Lloyd, quit stiring up the shit. We know you like to stir up the stink on newsgroups, and Donnie JYZ likes to stir it up on 14.313
Why don't the both of you get together amd share recipies for Prozac or Luvox? The both of you need the eqv. of A.A.'s 12-step plan in place...

3744. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 14:29:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C13753A.1BE94729@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26691

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> Why do you add the "and that of many others" above?

That's an argumentum ad populum, Kim, a common logical diversion. It's a variation of "everybody knows ...".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3745. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 14:34:21 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C13766D.A73F0C1D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26692

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Perhaps what we need are gasoline taxes based on vehicle size,
> weight, and average fuel economy -- with confiscatory road
> use surcharges for those practicing conspicuous consumption
> with the SUV's, full-size crew-cab dually pickups (legitimate > business users excluded, of course), and other inefficient > vehicles.

Larry Roll and Hillary Clinton agree so it must be right.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3746. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:04:49 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c137cda_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26693

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209011515.07928.00000262@mb-fi.aol.com...
>
> I think we Americans do need to re-think things like our daily > transportation needs, and be more willing to accept vehicles that > get the job done with a minimum of impact. Every time I see some > young female YUPPIE driving all by her lonesome in an Excursion,
> I find myself wishing gasoline was five bucks a gallon!
>

It might not bother that "young female YUPPIE" one bit if it were. How would you feel if it were? Did you ever at least pause long enough to think that the "young female YUPPIE" may live in a neighborhood where she is one of the moms who takes 6-8 kids to school every morning and picks them up in the afternoon, may be a team mom that is one of the providers of transportation, is part of family who stays within the United States for vacations and takes several trips a year with the family, etc.?

>
> The
> problem is, people like her would pay that price -- and those of > us who get 40 mpg in our economy cars shouldn't have to!
>

For once, you say something I can agree with. But, I'd give credits for things like I mentioned above. Why not also, while your so busy being your usual abrasive self, cause bad things to happen to automobile manufacturers making such large "unneeded" vehicles, Larry?

>
> Perhaps what we need are gasoline taxes based on vehicle size,
> weight, and average fuel economy -- with confiscatory road
> use surcharges for those practicing conspicuous consumption
> with the SUV's, full-size crew-cab dually pickups (legitimate > business users excluded, of course), and other inefficient > vehicles.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

Oh. So only business use is acceptable. I see.

Kim W5TIT

3747. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:05:27 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c137d06_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26694

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209011516.07928.00000264@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article <3C12B1A5.C1ED148D@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
> writes:
>
> >You simply misunderstood, Kim. The eternity spent at your house would > >be the punishment for others. Perhaps, YOU can spend eternity at > >Larry's.
> >
> >Dave K8MN
>
> Dave:
>
> What have I done to deserve THAT???
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

More to the point, you've done nothing not to deserve that.

Kim W5TIT

3748. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:09:36 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9uvuoo01cgd@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26698

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C130944.F1EA01DC@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> >
> >
> > Uh, I don't live in Europe or Japan. I live here in the United States.
The
> > NY subway system (back in the 70s) was pretty bad.
>
> I hear it's gotten better. I'm going to pay a visit to a friend in > Manhattan Island, and the only sensible way to do that from > northern NJ is to catch a bus to 42nd street and then take the > subway. I'll see how it is. No place to park.

During the week, they're terrible. At one stop, an oriental woman tried to get on the train with a child in a stroller. She managed, but you could tell that other passengers thought she was crazy.
On weekends the trains aren't too bad except around the Times Square area.

3749. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:10:32 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c137e31$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26695

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C1309C2.CD51CD38@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> > N2EY wrote:
> > >
> > > (snip) In Europe and Japan, where the public transit > > > is so good, the taxes on gasoline are far more than > > > $1 per gallon. We could have even better systems here > > > in the USA, but Americans aren't ready to pay the > > > price - yet.
> >
> > I agree with the "yet" added to the end of that. Based on the > > growing traffic jams in most major cities, I think it is only a matter > > of time. Sooner or later, we'll have to do something (or we'll all end > > up in traffic jams for most of our lives).
> >
>
> Now if they had busses that actually went somewheres...
> (like where I want to go when I want to go).
>

Whew, that's for sure. I know some folks working in downtown with me that, if they decided to give DART (Dallas Area Rapid Transit [rapid being their loosely used term*]) a try, would take about 2 1/2 hours to get to work!
Then, they'd have to leave a few hours early to get home at a decent hour.

Kim W5TIT

3750. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:13:03 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c137ec8$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26696

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C13753A.1BE94729@IEEE.org...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > Why do you add the "and that of many others" above?
>
> That's an argumentum ad populum, Kim, a common logical > diversion. It's a variation of "everybody knows ...".
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

ROFLMAO...that's what I was afraid of. "Everybody" being a body of ____ of like thinkers...heh

Kim W5TIT

3751. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:16:17 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c137f8a$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26697

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C13766D.A73F0C1D@IEEE.org...
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > Perhaps what we need are gasoline taxes based on vehicle size,
> > weight, and average fuel economy -- with confiscatory road
> > use surcharges for those practicing conspicuous consumption
> > with the SUV's, full-size crew-cab dually pickups (legitimate > > business users excluded, of course), and other inefficient > > vehicles.
>
> Larry Roll and Hillary Clinton agree so it must be right.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Yeah, this is one of those many other "less government" kind of ideas that so many always come up with. I think the idea of "less government" is more like "less-government-if-it-means-getting-rid-of-something-I-don't-like less government." Always seems like there are proponents of less this or that, depending on "what side of the aisle" they come from.

Kim W5TIT

3752. Re: I am licensed for a big shiny hook in my mouth!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:19:40 UTC
From: Exeunt <exeunt@redneck.gacracker.org>
Message-ID: <20011209151940.24780.qmail@gacracker.org>
Source record: 26699
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----

- -----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----

"J M" <jdm@iland.net> wrote in message news:3C137134.9F900F61@budweiser.com...

> Probably still living with Mommy, > aren't you.
> The reason I ask is because I am a bald-faced sucker who follows up > forges and trolls by >k00ky no-codes trying to trash radio groups! I have > decided that I > will help N8WWM and KC8LDO trash ALL hobby radio newsgroups!! Yahoooooo!!1!

timnebo@aol.comLOL <mailto:timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote:
> > WARNING
> > No Code amateurs Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News Groups.
> > Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.

- -----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE----- Version: N/A

iQEVAwUBPBOEorNWQdO9GAGlAQFT+Qf/dc1FbEPOHNJQxLsmygDQn9LwDQUEOUVr YoY5LxH57xtW2CMgkVJXqmmxaNN9oKLnFdwz+NAyK67p0/o1vLEuVIJcW1WqHVzQ pkWGHLaql6ly2TnByWu/cm9TWvKTRuuduo5h9Nn3t5hHu55GvzQA1AlFN7U1rov/
+as6Oo+pP5rw1+y2srBhb0WYWt3TwHOVVZr6nELSoYX/4EKkiVWqtnMnfeWKV5Pd
/O0+iQmRJ42Ewl3GLGWVQv7v+sf/cdDkS9QZAOW/5CMMjHJmo8wxOakVMGcD5/8G
80LXRxcAOuqUulnHkzLpCdw0/6i9kNwrX4nXhcwpG+K6NU2a6K7RvQ== =PJ/R
- -----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

~~~
This PGP signature only certifies the sender and date of the message.
It implies no approval from the administrators of redneck.gacracker.org.
Date: Sun Dec 9 15:19:33 2001 GMT
From: exeunt@redneck.gacracker.org

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: 2.6.3a
Charset: noconv

iQCVAwUBPBOBCu1c/chWEzBdAQFVswQAjPbqHSVIt4SKIBRm3FIiV7DmcBEwcCgm
KTIietHFzhLTtz3d4fiddJBk/G02DVJyjoKTFgRNEmIwmWA8x9XbJLy64lKTVsUZ uv7G73jQCmjFukKZ14222Uim8BSCXUfiQMGoY4KvAzJbKS5QspaEkzPl84V+Eh0Y b0Vw0MgrZq4=
~~~

```
=U/BF
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----
```

3753. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:55:00 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209105500.15992.00000413@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26700

In article <#uesCOHgBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>, "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
writes:

>
>(ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½) 73, de Hans, K0HB

Hansl:

Clever. My 12-year old niece signs her E-mail with the same "face."

73 de Larry, K3LT
No ï¿½-assed smiley faces here, ever!

3754. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:55:01 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209105501.15992.00000414@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26801

In article <%nvQ7.255664$W8.9501361@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>, "JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>
>Let's be honest. When I was in the Navy, we had to memorize the entire >baudot code. Didn't really need it, but reading a lot of uppercase got one >to the point you really COULD read uppercase. Rules and regs (safety >wouldn't hurt a bit either, both AC mains power as well as rf power) make >for a good starting point. I'd be less concerned that an individual know CW >than how to get communications going in an emergency.
>
>73 from Rochester, NY
>Jim AA2QA

What better way to get comms going in an emergency than by being proficient in Morse/CW?

73 de Larry, K3LT

3755. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 15:55:01 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209105501.15992.00000415@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26802

In article <20011208160310.01446.00000196@mb-cs.aol.com>, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) writes:

>
>BUT.....
>
>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
>Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person >being >tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
>"A",
>the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks >up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending >test to be similar.
>
>Waddya think, folks?
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

Sounds like the kind of dumbing-down I'd expect from a liberal, gun-grabbing, Socialized-Everything Welfare State. Nothing new here. Maggie would not approve. Neither would Victoria.

73 de Larry, K3LT

3756. UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License more info.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 16:08:59 UTC
From: Gerald Schmitt <KK5YY@arrl.net>
Message-ID: <f3171ugtucejrir6rp17b99bulf8hpfldd@4ax.com>
Source record: 26803

On 08 Dec 2001 21:03:10 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article >about UK restructuring.

This happened at Donnington Sept. 22 and you Morsecentrics are just now finding out!
>
>Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5
>wpm for full access.

Yup this is the way of the world for the moment and CW testing is likely to go away entirely at the 2003 WRC meeting.
>
>But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is to >have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.

Most of the sessions I was involved in planing were going to be an entire weekend but it doesn't have to be this way.
>
>Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.

Yup but at only 10 Watts
>
>Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.

Actually regulations, safety and proper operating practice. Good operators have a real oportunity to teach by example.
>
>BUT.....
>
>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.

Wrong no home-designed homebrew but commercial kits like TenTec and Electrocraft are allowed.
>
>Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person being >tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an "A",
>the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks >up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending >test to be similar.

True enough I think they actually referred to it as Morse appreciation.
>
>Waddya think, folks?

I thought at the time and still think this is a great opportunity to get new hams off on the right foot. I had a chat with the President of the RSGB and suggested that Foundation Tutor/Testing groups recruit QRPers. They QRP crowd has a real understanding of how to make low power work and are the most credible proponents of CW as an operating mode.

To understand why the RA and RSGB wanted to do this you have to have an appreciation of the UK testing system. Tests are offered only at infrequent intervals and are very costly. Most written tests are proctored at Universities and cost L75 or over $100 US. The Foundation Licence (British spelling intentional) will allow recruitment and exposure to the hobby from this group some will fall away and some will advance through the system.
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

3757. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 16:36:53 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <FqMQ7.2309$hz7.353076271@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26804
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

To all groups involved, this is a forge.
Also it was posted through Newsone with AOL as the ISP.
This person has been doing this for over a year now on numerous groups and web sights under many different screen nics. He has been a troll on Rec.Radio.CB for over a year now.
So please disregard any post made by this person , with this ISP addy 152.163.201.187.

Landshark

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

<timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote in message news:9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com...
> I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing. I > have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
and > on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only > trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of > there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that. This is > what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get > started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump > in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled.
You
> dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the > government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway. I > dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be > dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more > people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us do > what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole process > up.
>
> 73 de Tim
> Knight Patrol #82
>
> WARNING
> No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
Groups.
> Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.

>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the eb ----- > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ gro ups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
abuse@newsone.net

3758. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 16:50:11 UTC
From: John Siegel <JohnASiegel@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3C139630.D666BAC2@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26805

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <%nvQ7.255664$W8.9501361@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>, "JAMES > HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> writes:
>
> >
> >Let's be honest. When I was in the Navy, we had to memorize the entire > >baudot code. Didn't really need it, but reading a lot of uppercase got one > >to the point you really COULD read uppercase. Rules and regs (safety > >wouldn't hurt a bit either, both AC mains power as well as rf power) make > >for a good starting point. I'd be less concerned that an individual know CW > >than how to get communications going in an emergency.
> >
> >73 from Rochester, NY
> >Jim AA2QA
>
> What better way to get comms going in an emergency than by > being proficient in Morse/CW?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
Oh I don't know. How about starting with an antenna, a receiver and a transmitter.
73, John

3759. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:03:29 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209120329.27168.00000212@mb-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 26806

In article <INzQ7.149063$WW.9626838@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>"N2EY" wrote
>> Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an >article
>> about UK restructuring.
>>
>> Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks >like 5
>> wpm for full access.
>>
>> But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is
>to >> have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>>
>> Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>>
>> Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>>
>> BUT.....
>>
>> No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
>So for it seems ok... depending on how much power they're allowed. Not >allowing high power is vital to keep the newbies doing benign station >operation and nothing else.

I think it's 5 W or so. No 10 meter privs, by the way, because of CB troubles over there.
>
>> Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person >being >> tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
>"A",
>> the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then >looks >> up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper.
>Sending
>> test to be similar.
>
>This testing scheme is way too complicated... I can't imagine people
>'standing in line' to give the tests.

The article was kinda vague on the details, but the idea was that they took the most liberal interpretation of the treaty wording "send and receive messages in Morse code". Seems like any sort of test that would demonstrate any sort of Morse skill would work for them. If a crib sheet or lookup chart helps the person being tested, it would be OK.

>If nothing else at least our system is automated to a fair extent where the >only work is really in the correction of the copy and multiple choice.

True, and giving the tests would be more work than taking them! But the idea is to make it super easy to get on the ham bands.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3760. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:03:31 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209120331.27168.00000213@mb-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 26807

In article <3c12f101_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011208104929.28268.00000201@mb-cr.aol.com...
>>
>> >I do know that if the government were truthful about the $1 tax and we'd
>had >> >no prior experiences to the contrary, I'd be all for it.
>>
>> I find that hard to believe.
>>
>> >I'd also want the >> >money equally distributed on something like a per mile of government >> >highway in a state. In other words, a huge landsurface state may still >only >> >end up with a small percentage of the money because of less federal >highway
>> >in that state.
>>
>> That's a terrible formula. Using that method, the states with the most >existing >> roads would get the most money, regardless of how much they contribute to
>the >> tax base or how much new road they actually need.
>>
>
>When I thought the discussion was about road taxes, the above would make >sense to me.

The discussion was always about gasoline taxes, not road taxes.

> The state with the most federal roads would need and get the >most federal money to support those roads, right?

Wrong.

For one thing, we're not just talking about maintenance. There are also improvements to be made.
For another, some roads need more maintenance than others, due to construction, age, weather, traffic, and topography.
For a third, different states may have very different levels of tax contribution per mile.

Suppose State A has lots of roads that are in like-new condition, a mild climate, easy topography and relatively low gasoline consumption and road use.
State B has a few heavily used roads (half as much as State A) that are worn out from heavy traffic and severe climate. State B also has a topography that makes road work very difficult.

And suppose State B generates twice as much gasoline tax revenue as State A. By your formula, State A would get twice as much money as State B.

>> > That is, if you are talking about highways being "public >> >surface transportation."
>>
>> We were not. We were talking about alternatives to highways.
>>
>> <If you are talking about busses and trains...yech,
>> >forget it.
>>
>> There are folks who cannot drive, and others who should not yet do because
>of >> lack of alternatives.
>>
>
>I think "public transportation" should be left mostly to local governments >and people to decide if they want, and what type.

Why not the same for roads and airports?

>I think that public >transportation is subsidised, is it not (?), by federal tax dollars but is >not chiefly funded by federal money.

Depends on the system. There is also interstate transportation to consider.

>> > Tried both and hate 'em.
>>
>> Why? Did you try any of the European or Japanese systems?

>
>Uh, I don't live in Europe or Japan. I live here in the United States.

So? The question is about what can be done, not what is currently in existence here.

> The
>NY subway system (back in the 70s) was pretty bad. Never took a bus up >there, but I have down here in Dallas and it was not a pleasant or desirable >experience at all.
>
So your entire experience consists of a few subway rides 20+ years ago and your local bus system.
>> >
>> > I'll pollute, thank you.
>>
>> Your pollution harms others. What gives you the right to do that?
>
>I am a United States citizen?

I don't see "right to pollute" anywhere in the Constitution.
>
>> America's dependence on imported petroleum has serious political >consequences.
>> We import far more today than during the 1970s.
>
>America's dependence on imported drugs has serious political consequences.

Which is one reason it's against the law and being fought at many levels.

>America's dependence on foreign-made products has serious political and >economic consequences. And on and on.

So? Does that make it right?

73 de Jim, N2EY

3761. Re: kv4fz does an "end run" to get on the air?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:04:52 UTC
From: bpnjensen@yahoo.com Message-ID: <37af7e1c.0112090904.7a1e202d@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26808
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

Well, there you go, breaking your OWN rule! And I say, good. This issue deserves to be talked about,a nd as I suggested, you're doin'
it.

And if you get to kick that horse, so do others.

P.S. I strongly oppose cruelty to animals of any sort.
Bruce Jensen
****

"The Better Amateur Radio Federation" <lloyd_vfp@msn.com> wrote in message news:<74032aae7057c1a9b87253f81579a287@spamfreenews.com>...
> "bpnjensen" <bpnjensen@yahoo.com> wrote in message
> news:37af7e1c.0112071313.27189955@posting.google.com...
> > Well, your position is stupid and erroneous. The "horse" obviously > > ain't dead, and this is the type of thing that can and may well affect > > amateur radio operators for decades to come. It's public record; it's > > a public activity; and the amateur radio public has every right, maybe > > even an obligation, to discuss it. Hopefully the discussion will > > focus on issues rather than personalities, but it is still a valid > > topic.
> >
> > Bruce Jensen
>
> This issue is this, Brucie. There are people that can't leave well enough > alone. They can not stand the fact that Herb can get back on the air, even > if it is to be in a contest. He was not bothering anybody. Who care > anyway? Mr. Hollingsworth is a very corrupt man. He enforces the ham bands > to what way his "masters" see fit. There have many people file complaints > about QRM'ing of the Liberty Net, which go unanswered. But someone, who > lost his ham ticket, by means that, in my opinion, were railroaded by a > bunch of power-hungry and self-serving, garbage!
>
> Herb gets on the air, just to get in a contest, and what happens? All hell > breaks loose. It's a matter of Mr. Hollingsworth picking and choosing what > rules get enforced and what should happen. As Hal Turner would suggest,
> Mr. Hollingsworth should resign in disgrace!

3762. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:13:43 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v061h02r5m@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26809

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209105501.15992.00000414@mb-fc.aol.com...
> What better way to get comms going in an emergency than by > being proficient in Morse/CW?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

How about knowing how to get the equipment up and operating?

3763. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:14:46 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v063f02ra0@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26810

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209105500.15992.00000413@mb-fc.aol.com...
> Hansl:
>
> Clever. My 12-year old niece signs her E-mail with the same "face."
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

Which was probably invented ten years ago by an adult.

3764. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 17:55:27 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <jANQ7.149967$WW.9707220@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26811
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Don't worry, there are a LOT of forges. The screwballs are loose both on rec.radio.cb and rec.radio.amateur.whatever. Probably caused by some brain damage as a result of overexposure to RF.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message news:FqMQ7.2309$hz7.353076271@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com...
> To all groups involved, this is a forge.
> Also it was posted through Newsone with AOL as the > ISP.
> This person has been doing this for over a year now on numerous groups > and web sights under many different screen nics. He has been a troll on > Rec.Radio.CB for over a
> year now.
> So please disregard any post made by this person , with > this ISP addy 152.163.201.187.
>
> Landshark
>
>
> --
> Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All
>
>
> <timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote in message news:9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com...
> > I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing. I > > have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
> and > > on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only > > trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of > > there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that. This
> is > > what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get > > started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump > > in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled.
> You
> > dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the > > government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway.

I
> > dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be > > dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more > > people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us
do > > what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole > process
> > up.
> >
> > 73 de Tim
> > Knight Patrol #82
> >
> > WARNING
> > No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
> Groups.
> > Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
> >
> >
> >
> > ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
> eb ----- > > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ gro > ups > > NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
> > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
> abuse@newsone.net
>
>

3765. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 18:51:23 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209135123.15992.00000421@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26813

In article <m6sQ7.255459$W8.9481433@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>
>CENTURION: What's this, then? 'Romanes Eunt Domus'? 'People called Romanes
>they go the house'?
>BRIAN: It-- it says, 'Romans, go home'.
>CENTURION: No, it doesn't. What's Latin for 'Roman'? Come on!
>BRIAN: Aah!
>CENTURION: Come on!
>BRIAN: 'R-- Romanus'?
>CENTURION: Goes like...?
>BRIAN: 'Annus'?
>CENTURION: Vocative plural of 'annus' is...?
>BRIAN: Eh. 'Anni'?
>CENTURION: 'Romani'. 'Eunt'? What is 'eunt'?
>BRIAN: 'Go'. Let--
>CENTURION: Conjugate the verb 'to go'.
>BRIAN: Uh. 'Ire'. Uh, 'eo'. 'Is'. 'It'. 'Imus'. 'Itis'. 'Eunt'.
>CENTURION: So 'eunt' is...?
>BRIAN: Ah, huh, third person plural, uh, present indicative. Uh, 'they go'.
>CENTURION: But 'Romans, go home' is an order, so you must use the...?
>BRIAN: The... imperative!
>CENTURION: Which is...?
>BRIAN: Umm! Oh. Oh. Um, 'i'. 'I'!
>CENTURION: How many Romans?
>BRIAN: Ah! 'I'-- Plural. Plural. 'Ite'. 'Ite'.
>CENTURION: 'Ite'.
>BRIAN: Ah. Eh.
>CENTURION: 'Domus'?
>BRIAN: Eh.
>CENTURION: Nominative?
>BRIAN: Oh.
>CENTURION: 'Go home'? This is motion towards. Isn't it, boy?
>BRIAN: Ah. Ah, dative, sir! Ahh! No, not dative! Not the dative, sir! No!
>Ah! Oh, the... accusative! Accusative! Ah! 'Domum', sir! 'Ad domum'! Ah!
>Oooh! Ah!
>CENTURION: Except that 'domus' takes the...?
>BRIAN: The locative, sir!
>CENTURION: Which is...?!
>BRIAN: 'Domum'.
>CENTURION: 'Domum'.
>BRIAN: Aaah! Ah.
>CENTURION: 'Um'. Understand?

>BRIAN: Yes, sir.
>CENTURION: Now, write it out a hundred times.
>BRIAN: Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. Hail Caesar, sir.
>CENTURION: Hail Caesar. If it's not done by sunrise, I'll cut your balls >off.
>BRIAN: Oh, thank you, sir. Thank you, sir. Hail Caesar and everything, sir!
>Oh. Mmm! Finished!
>ROMAN SOLDIER STIG: Right. Now don't do it again.
>[CENTURIONS chase BRIAN]
>MAN: Hey! Bloody Romans.

Rich:

Looks like A Bit O' Fry and Laurie to me!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3766. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 18:51:28 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209135128.15992.00000422@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26812

In article <3C129DBD.822EED37@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>
>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> I haven't been following this conversation, so not >> sure what the context is. (snip) If you are talking >> about busses and trains...yech, forget it. Tried >> both and hate 'em. I'll pollute, thank you.

Sooo -- Kim -- if you could just walk to the corner, board a bus that took you to within a block of your workplace, shopping center, or whatever, and got you back, all within a reasonable time frame (less than 20 min. wait) -- you wouldn't use it? Even if the total cost to you was a fraction of the cost of operating your personal automobile... and considering the fact that you're already paying for the subsidized portion of that public transit service through your state and federal taxes?
I know one thing for damn sure -- If I could make use of public transit in getting myself to and from my work place (which IS the local transit agency, BTW!), I would use it! The only thing that prevents me from doing so is that the fixed-route busses in my city stop running at 6 PM, and I work at least until 8:30 PM every day!

> Yep, you haven't been following the conversation - a decent public >transportation system (busses and trains) was exactly what we were >talking about. And it wasn't about pollution - it was to address the >transportation needs of the elderly in this country.

The elderly have no problem in Delaware, because we are the only state in the country with statewide, door-to-door Paratransit service!
Of course, Delaware is a small, low population-density state, and is wealthy beyond reason for it's size...so providing this service is both affordable, practical, and provides great benefits in reducing traffic volume and pollution. In states where statewide Paratransit service may not be practical or affordable, large cities could/should provide,
at the minimum, a Senior Citizen Affordable Taxi (SCAT) service, offering half-fare taxi rides. There may also be free or low cost bus transportation provided to/from Senior Citizen centers, with day trips provided to take seniors to doctor's appointments, shopping, sightseeing, movies, etc.

73 de Larry, K3LT

3767. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 19:14:26 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <79ADFB4079E2B1BA.C567A18992C90018.214B39D8291F9669@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26814

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 14:55:21 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Well, let me ask you this, Rick. Why are children born to American >parents more valuable human beings than children born to parents >in other countries? To be consistent, you have to advocate welfare >for all the children of the world, not just for American children.

I do. But at the expense of _their_ governments, not ours.

You could as easily ask why are American lives more "valuable" than those of human beings in other parts of the world? We're engaged in a War in Afghanistan right now because approximately 5,000 of those lives were lost--yet we certainly haven't become involved in wars because an equivalent number (or even ten times that number) of people were killed in other nations. We didn't go to war when the Chinese invaded Tibet, we didn't do so when Pol Pot created the "Killing Fields" in SE Asia, we didn't do so when Saddam Hussein was killing Kurds, and we didn't do so when any of 100 OTHER mass killings took place in other nations.

Question: How would a Libertarian government have responded to September 11th--and how would it respond to a similar act in a nation with whom we don't have a mutual defense treaty?

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3768. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:02:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c13c2ae_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26815

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209135128.15992.00000422@mb-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3C129DBD.822EED37@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:
>
> >
> >Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >>
> >> I haven't been following this conversation, so not > >> sure what the context is. (snip) If you are talking > >> about busses and trains...yech, forget it. Tried > >> both and hate 'em. I'll pollute, thank you.
>
> Sooo -- Kim -- if you could just walk to the corner, board a bus that > took you to within a block of your workplace, shopping center, or > whatever, and got you back, all within a reasonable time frame (less > than 20 min. wait) -- you wouldn't use it?
>

If you are speaking directly to me, then the answer is no. A) At this point in my life (and I am hoping even when I am old) I would not live near a corner that is a bus stop, B) For me, part of the enjoyment of going anywhere is the drive there--whether I have passengers or not. The only time I really use ham radio is when I am driving; the only time I listen to broadcast radio is when I am driving; the only time I listen to audio books would be when I am driving; etc., C) I don't consider a 20 minute reasonable by any measure. Maybe five minutes, and that's even bad when it's pouring down rain, cold, or if I am stuck at a stop in a high crime area. As a woman, I wouldn't be caught at other than daylight hours standing around waiting for a bus--not even at a transit center.

If you are speaking figurativel, for the elderly, or those who cannot drive for whatever reason, I have no problems at all with my tax dollars supporting a public transportation system for them. I don't currently live within an area that uses public transportation (I am rural), so I am not currently taxed for public transportation. I also choose not to live in a metropolitan area.

>
> Even if the total cost to > you was a fraction of the cost of operating your personal automobile...
>

I didn't just buy a new vehicle to have it sit in my driveway unused. I am very fortunate that the cost of vehicle operation is not a major concern to me any more. It used to be when I was on welfare, and prior to my entry into the professional market several years ago. It no longer is.

> and considering the fact that you're already paying for the subsidized > portion of that public transit service through your state and federal taxes?

No. Not even considerng that.

> I know one thing for damn sure -- If I could make use of public transit
> in getting myself to and from my work place (which IS the local transit > agency, BTW!), I would use it!

Well, just as you used to accuse Ed Hare of having to say things that support the ARRL because he worked there, I think you're just saying the above because you fear reprisal from your employer if you say otherwise.

> The only thing that prevents me from > doing so is that the fixed-route busses in my city stop running at 6 PM, > and I work at least until 8:30 PM every day!

Then you must live within the area where public transportation serves. I do not and would not, hopefully. It would really depress me if I have to live in or near the city when I am old. I thoroughly dislike city life.

> > Yep, you haven't been following the conversation - a decent public > >transportation system (busses and trains) was exactly what we were > >talking about. And it wasn't about pollution - it was to address the > >transportation needs of the elderly in this country.
>
> The elderly have no problem in Delaware, because we are the only > state in the country with statewide, door-to-door Paratransit service!
> Of course, Delaware is a small, low population-density state, and is > wealthy beyond reason for it's size...so providing this service is both > affordable, practical, and provides great benefits in reducing traffic > volume and pollution. In states where statewide Paratransit service > may not be practical or affordable, large cities could/should provide,
> at the minimum, a Senior Citizen Affordable Taxi (SCAT) service, > offering half-fare taxi rides. There may also be free or low cost bus > transportation provided to/from Senior Citizen centers, with day trips > provided to take seniors to doctor's appointments, shopping, > sightseeing, movies, etc.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

How 'bout a half-way decent service for the elderly and disabled. One of the most humiliating experiences for our disabled in the DART area is that of the experience of ridership for the handicapped. Pitiful, it's pitiful.

Kim W5TIT

3769. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:21:43 UTC
From: timnebo@aol.comLOL
Message-ID: <9v0h4ncde1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26816
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

In article <9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com>, <timnebo@aol.comLOL> writes:
>I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing. I >have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
and >on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only >trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of >there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that. This
is >what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get >started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump >in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled. You >dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the >government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway. I >dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be >dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more >people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us do >what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole process >up.
>
> 73 de Tim
> Knight Patrol #82
>
>WARNING
>No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been >Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News Groups.
>Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.

Hey guys you can take this as a forge I dont really care. If you think me and a lot of other freebanders give two shits about fcc and licenses then you need to wake and take a listen on the bands. Ha ha yeah I use a modded ham radio but never go off the cb band yeah right. What I say and what I do are two diferent things. You old fart hams need to lighten up on freebanders because we are soon going to overtake you and thats no joke.

73 de Tim
Knight Patrol #82

WARNING
No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News Groups.
Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups

NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3770. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:36:25 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v0i09dch1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26818
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

In article <EqMQ7.2308$tz7.353088675@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>,
Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> writes:
To all groups involved, this is a forge. Please check for the WebTv signature that goes on all WebTv posts
Also it was posted through Newsone with AOL as the ISP.
This person has been doing this for over a year now on numerous groups and web sights under many different screen nics. He has been a troll on Rec.Radio.CB for over a
year now.
So please disregard any post made by this person , with this ISP addy 152.163.201.187.

Landshark

"Shark you have fallen for Nad's endearing confusion again. I indeed wrote the jockstrap post and all that is contained therein. Hush now and let me work.
All shall be eventually revealed"

Twistedhed@webtv.net> wrote in message news:9uv4f0$9ur$1@news.netmar.com...
"You think you can forge me in both hammie and cb room, Lelnad, but I am one step ahead of your pathetic distortions and lies. I have created this free newsserver account in order to give you something to think about. You see I could if I were so inclined use this account to forge YOU. Note that I said COULD, dear Lelnad, not DID, for I admit nothing without a quick backshuffling and the famous razzle-dazzle two step for which I am famous for. You may think you have cornered me with proof and substantiation, but all I need do is unleash a welter of words to bollix you and you come undone.
Dogie was so beaten by my talent that he withdrew, tail between legs, to the darker reaches of the kennel. The one time he thought he was clever enough to send a tremor through my world was the lucky break that enabled him to post his disgusting mens undergarment for my receipt. I assure you it was the kennel club that did this and no one else for he as much as admitted it by his words scrawled on the garment itself. I will never reveal these words but know that I have the aformentioned lingerie displayed where I can see it daily as both a trophy and a reminder that I can send authorities to lock him up and throw away the key should I deign to. Now you Lelnad, observe this as a lesson if you please. There will be no more caterwauling and piffling and prodding as adjuncts to my posts. If you disagree with my proprietary opinions I ask you to take it to email and not involve the group in your anger-infused jealousy"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups

NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3771. Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:40:41 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v0i89$dl1$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26819
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.swap

"This is another myth that Lelnad and his gang of jealousy-infected bretheren perpetuate, that I have talked with "saucer men", I assure you, nothing is further from the truth. The lies and anger-motivated constructions that Lelnad, Dogie, the false Sparky, and Pipeboy dream up on a daily basis have nothing whatsoever to do with my actual experiences in the realm of the supernatural. Now this is all well documented mind you, I have contacted the outer reaches of another dimension while calling skip on 555, and yes I am well aware that the frequency falls outside the channels that the goverment deems preferable for use, but I am not one of the unwashed unaware rabble of citizenry, never have been, hence I am not subject to the same laws as common, callow men. In college I was on the Deans List if that tells you anything and my superior intellect won me the favors of many like-minded individuals in both society and academia. But I shunned their transparent and shallow attentions to pursue my own unglamorous but rewarding path in the swamplands of the south. This unselfish pursuit and my canny native instincts are what I believe has been responsible for opening the door to contact with other dimensions in the continuum and my subsequent elevation to a cherished confidante. If you doubt me then do so at your peril for there are many things on heaven and earth that are not yet understood so you would do well to pay your respect to an as yet undisproven phenomenon. Alas, here is the meat of it; the beings I have communicated with by chance do in fact effect transport by spherical means. Yes, some call it a saucer, but that is a misnomer. If the media knew the truth then it would be the undoing of my special status and the end of all social intercourse. Only on the freeband does one learn of such truths. Lelnad and his gang of rogues may scoff, and I say let them, for what does one expect from such unenlightened commoners but an ignorant barbaric yawp in the face of such great wisdom"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3772. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:46:16 UTC
From: Trouser Trout <pipedream@hotmail.comspa>
Message-ID: <20011209154620.326$1H@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 26820
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will show
this.

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
news:FqMQ7.2309$hz7.353076271@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com...
> To all groups involved, this is a forge.
> Also it was posted through Newsone with AOL as the > ISP.
> This person has been doing this for over a year now on numerous groups > and web sights under many different screen nics. He has been a troll on > Rec.Radio.CB for over a
> year now.
> So please disregard any post made by this person , with > this ISP addy 152.163.201.187.
>
> Landshark
>
>
> --
> Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All
>
>
> <timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote in message news:9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com...
> > I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing.
I > > have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
> and > > on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only > > trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of > > there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that.
This
> is > > what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get > > started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump
> > in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled.
> You
> > dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the > > government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway.
I
> > dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be > > dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more > > people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us

do > > what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole > process
> > up.
> >
> > 73 de Tim
> > Knight Patrol #82
> >
> > WARNING
> > No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
> Groups.
> > Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
> >
> >
> >
> > ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
> eb -----
> > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
gro > ups > > NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other
posts
> > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
> abuse@newsone.net
>
>

3773. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:47:12 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13CDCE.8517C9FE@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26817

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Never seen policies, other than "thou shalt not"
> and that's all that need be said. I'll be in my > closed door meetings getting some real work > done. I don't know what you guys are going to do.

Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly do behind open doors?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3774. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:55:37 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13CFC3.279415FE@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26821

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Why do you add the "and that of many others" above?

It's a polite way of saying, "duh, everybody knows that - except you
of course."

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3775. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:56:28 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13CFF7.CFE2866F@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26822

CAM wrote:
>
> That's an argumentum ad populum, Kim, a common logical > diversion. It's a variation of "everybody knows ...".

See, Kim.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3776. Where is KT4TR???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 20:58:20 UTC
From: haaaynorton@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209155820.20564.00001240@mb-mm.aol.com>
Source record: 26823

Where is that sawed off, pot bellied, drunken, lying asshole???

"Something Stinks"
Ed Norton Sewer Expert

3777. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:03:56 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13D1B4.BA347D75@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26824

Krell wrote:
>
> But you certainly don't have any problem repeating > a commonly held "Christian" misconception without > knowing the facts.

Look, I couldn't give a flying leap who came up with it - it is now the widely accepted word used to describe people involved in those activities. And if you think you can change that situation be fussing at me about it, let me set you straight - I have no control over it, nor would I attempt to change it even if I did.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3778. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:04:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0380792F2B38EAE0.67AC83CCEA01E1AF.6022DCDBD7666DA1@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26825

On 07 Dec 2001 19:39:21 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>This is my plan, not Cecil's plan. I say taxes should pay for high quality free >schools from pre-K through at least a bachelor's degree - for everyone that can >make the grades.

Here, I agree completely. The idea that you have to get in debt (sometimes quite deeply) to pay for an education that will only profit the nation through your increased earning potential and other contributions likely from a good education, is ridiculous.

On the other hand, we DO need to insure that the money is well spent--by a very radical overhaul of our school systems.

Right now, our schools are often violent, frequently a joke academically, and only occasionally more interested in academics than in sports standings. Those need to change.

As far as violence goes--we need alternative schools for those who demonstrate that they pose a risk to other students in conventional schools. Those alternative schools should have the same academic requirements as other schools, but less opportunity for violence (i.e., all classes in a single room with the _teachers_ changing rooms every period instead of the students, no sports or other competitive activities (phys ed would consist of exercise and health training alone), metal detectors, and on-premises juvenile officers from the local police department. Youths who are caught in ANY school in possession of a firearm would be permanently expelled from any public school system below the college level--it would be up to their parents to pay for a suitable private institution. The same would apply to any youth who was convicted of committing a violent felony or drug sales (including alcohol and tobacco) on school premises.

With respect to academics, they HAVE to come first. Schools should receive Federal (not state) accreditations based TOTALLY on meeting rigid academic standards. Computer education, multiple lab based science courses, modern educational resources, and teachers who are qualified to teach (i.e., hold at least a Bachelors degree in the specific field they are teaching, and meet rigid continuing education requirements)--with a waiver of any requirement for course work in education for anyone with a Master's or better and 2 years or more experience teaching (K-12 or college level) in the field being taught (at the High School level--elementary instruction would still require ed courses). If a school can't afford both to meet those requirements and support other activities such as organized sports, social activities, band, etc., then the money MUST go to academics first.

Students who do not successfully demonstrate that they have passed all the requirements for a course the should be required to retake the course before they get any credit for it (the "grade" system needs to go--it's unworkable with the range of subjects--and be replaced by a credit system where you need "x" credits in Science, English, Geography, History, Math, etc., to graduate and your grade-level status is measured by the number of credits earned, not by how many years you've attended alone). Today, schools have to practically be "begged" by parents to hold a child back a year because he or she doesn't understand the material--and as a result we have HS grads who are functionally illiterate thorough out the USA. If we were on a credit based graduation plan, that would not be the case.

Personally, I favor a modified version of the German system. All children would the same type of school for the first eight years, after which (based on testing of subjects studied and personal interests) they would move on to either a "college prep" HS (where such requirements as four science course credits including Chemistry, Biology, Physics and an elective, math through Calculus I, 2 years of a foreign language, four courses in humanities including philosophy (or logic), world culture, literature, and an elective, four courses in Social Sciences--including Psychology, Sociology, Political Science and an elective, and similar requirements would stand; a "trade school" HS where students would study academic subjects for 1/2 day (with appx. 1/2 the requirements above, 2 sciences, humanities, & social sciences, Math through Intermediate Algebra, etc.) then spend the other 1/2 day studying a skilled trade (preferably with training and resources provided by the private sector as they are in Germany); and a "general" HS which would prepare people for entry level positions in business and industry (or for the military, etc.) and would consist of about 3/4 of the requirements given for the academic HS above, as well as a larger number of electives. Students who wished to enter the University, would have to either complete the academic program, or--if they choose/qualify for another program instead--would be required to make up those courses in which they are deficient in Community Colleges before being admitted as First Year University students.

At one time, the US ranked number ONE in the world for public education. According to the same (UN) studies, we now rank number SEVENTEEN! That's completely ridiculous--particularly since our graduate schools are STILL rated number one. As a college professor, I constantly encounter the problem in terms of under-prepared students who, despite high GPAs, manage to graduate from HS with major deficiencies in reading, writing, math, and most of all critical thinking skills. Over the years, I've seen the problem grow steadily worse, and the only answer our society seems to accept is the combination of grade inflation (at Harvard, a Professor MUST submit an explanation for his decision if he or she grades ANY student below a 3.5!) and "dumbed down" text books (the "concise" editions that are becoming more common in classrooms). That's a disgrace to our educational system, and offensive to any serious teacher--the main reason I've decided to retire early next year is because I refuse to "dumb down" my classes and it won't be much longer before that becomes an institutional requirement at my institution as well.

Of course, most of the problem is coming from the fact that we insist on using our schools as surrogate parents--they are expected to not only teach academics but to teach "morality," deal with personal problems, and never, ever, risk causing a student to lose self-esteem by holding him/her back in school (as if the inability to intelligently read and understand the instructions on a Campbell's Soup can--one definition of functional illiteracy--won't cause someone to lose self-esteem later in life!). Parents seldom hold their kids responsible for their grades--they blame the schools instead. And, of course, perish the thought that little Johnny might get expelled for a little thing like taking an AK-47 to class . . .

>>>The problem is that the benefits are not tied to responsible behaviors that >>>will lead the dependent person to become independent.
>>
>> Here I agree.
>
>Then why do you support programs that do the exact opposite?

I don't.

We need to revise our programs to approach poverty intelligently. At a minimum we need to divide the poor into four groups:

1. Those who are only poor due to poor education or work skills. Here, supporting the person/family while they are making up for that deficit is a same and forward thinking approach. So long as the person demonstrates sound academic progress toward an agreed upon educational/training goal they would receive the necessary support--if they stopped, so would it. The entire process should be planned in advance (subject to change if recommended by educational counselors) and treated as a contract between the recipient and the state.

2. Those who are incapable of working or profiting from education. This would include the disabled, the mentally ill, the mentally challenged (i.e., retarded), etc. These are the people who legitimately CAN'T support themselves and they are a group we need to help without stripping them of dignity as is currently done by our social service programs.

3. The under employed. This group would consist of those who are sincerely trying, are employed, but simply don't have the earning capacity to be self-sufficient (i.e., the working poor). Here we need to both help the family sustain itself, and help the wage-earners to improve their job skills and move into higher paying jobs as a result (i.e., education or specialized training).

4. The lazy or indolent. This is a broad category for those who seem to demonstrate no particular interest in getting off welfare and earning a living (i.e., the people we always have held up to us as "examples" of welfare types). Here we need to insure that the children are provided for--by placing them in alternative settings if nothing else works--and that's about it. Such families, if they want to remain together, would be required to either participate in training/educational programs (number 1 above), to put in at least 20 hours of community service work per week, or to demonstrate (through participation in job preparation programs) that they are actively seeking, and willing to accept, employment. Initially, such a family would be eligible for only 90 days of assistance unless one of the alternatives were met. After the 90 days, if they couldn't demonstrate that the basic needs of the children were being met, they would be referred to child protection services for further investigation and response.

In ALL cases, I believe in a universal access to medical treatment. There is simply no reason our nation should not consider the medical needs of all of our citizens to be a major priority. The simplest approach would be to use a list such as that developed in Oregon by doctors to determine what conditions would and would not be covered by Federal medical insurance (i.e., preventative medicine should be number ONE--beyond emergency medicine, of course--and cosmetic surgery--except in the case of accident or severe disfigurement--would not be covered) with an eye toward prevention of disease and alleviating suffering. Once a list has been made, the government could open bidding to major insurers, granting the contract to insure all citizens of the US for ALL of those conditions for a three year period to the lowest bidder who would be bound by both contract and criminal law to adhere to the conditions of their contract for the period. That would allow universal coverage w/o the inefficiency of government administration. The cost of the insurance would come from taxes on businesses, thus effectively spreading the cost across all areas of society. Because firms would no longer have to provide higher-cost medical insurance (they COULD offer "supplementary insurance" to cover areas not addressed by the government insurance), the savings realized would cover the tax costs, probably (due to the economies of scale resulting from insuring such a wide range of people) at far less cost than they were previously paying. Self employed people would pay the same tax and the poor would, of course, be covered by state aid.

What I don't support is the simple elimination of all programs, as the Libertarians would have. I don't _trust_ the private charities and churches to be able to take the place of the government in providing for the funding (it just isn't going to happen)--and I don't believe in just leaving people--particularly children--without a lifeline. I don't like paying taxes any more than anyone else does, but I'd rather pay them for sound social programs to reduce poverty than to fund some useless pork barrel project that exists only to win

re-election for a congresscritter.

>> But under the Libertarian Party the >>consideration isn't for changing the programs into ones that WILL >>work--it's on eliminating them w/o replacement.
>>
>You'll have to ask Cecil about that.

Er, Jim.

I have been.

That's what this thread is about, remember?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3779. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:12:02 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <CsQQ7.2766$0X6.383342742@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26827
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Forge:
America Online, Inc. (NETBLK-AOL-MTC)
10600 Infantry Ridge Road
Manassas, VA 20109
US

Netname: AOL-MTC
Netblock: 64.12.0.0 - 64.12.255.255

Coordinator:
America Online, Inc. (AOL-NOC-ARIN) domains@AOL.NET
703-265-4670

Domain System inverse mapping provided by:

DNS-01.NS.AOL.COM 152.163.159.232
DNS-02.NS.AOL.COM 205.188.157.232

Record last updated on 16-Dec-1999.
Database last updated on 8-Dec-2001 19:54:49 EDT.

This person, along with a couple others have been doing troll activities for the past year. All they do is accuse & harass and cause hate & discontent.

Landshark

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

<Twistedhed@webtv.net> wrote in message news:9v0i09dch1@news.netmar.com...
> In article <EqMQ7.2308$tz7.353088675@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>,
> Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> writes:
> To all groups involved, this is a forge. Please check
> for the WebTv signature that goes on all WebTv posts
> Also it was posted through Newsone with AOL as the > ISP.
> This person has been doing this for over a year now on numerous groups > and web sights under many different screen nics. He has been a troll on > Rec.Radio.CB for over a
> year now.
> So please disregard any post made by this person , with > this ISP addy 152.163.201.187.
>
> Landshark
>

> "Shark you have fallen for Nad's endearing confusion again. I indeed wrote
the > jockstrap post and all that is contained therein. Hush now and let me work.
> All shall be eventually revealed"
>
>
> Twistedhed@webtv.net> wrote in message news:9uv4f0$9ur$1@news.netmar.com...
> "You think you can forge me in both hammie and cb room, Lelnad, but I am one > step ahead of your pathetic distortions and lies. I have created this free > newsserver account in order to give you something to think about. You see
I > could if I were so inclined use this account to forge YOU. Note that I said
> COULD, dear Lelnad, not DID, for I admit nothing without a quick > backshuffling and the famous razzle-dazzle two step for which I am famous > for. You may think you have cornered me with proof and substantiation, but > all I need do is unleash a welter of words to bollix you and you come undone.
> Dogie was so beaten by my talent that he withdrew, tail between legs, to
the > darker reaches of the kennel. The one time he thought he was clever enough
to > send a tremor through my world was the lucky break that enabled him to post
> his disgusting mens undergarment for my receipt. I assure you it was the > kennel club that did this and no one else for he as much as admitted it by > his words scrawled on the garment itself. I will never reveal these words
but > know that I have the aformentioned lingerie displayed where I can see it > daily as both a trophy and a reminder that I can send authorities to lock him > up and throw away the key should I deign to. Now you Lelnad, observe this as > a lesson if you please. There will be no more caterwauling and piffling
and > prodding as adjuncts to my posts. If you disagree with my proprietary > opinions I ask you to take it to email and not involve the group in your > anger-infused jealousy"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
eb -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
abuse@newsone.net

3780. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:12:03 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <DsQQ7.2767$9%6.383614125@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26826
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Forge. please see previous post for explanation.

Landshark

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

<timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote in message news:9v0h4ncde1@news.netmar.com...
> In article <9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com>, <timnebo@aol.comLOL> writes:
> >I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing.
I > >have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
> and > >on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only > >trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of > >there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that.
This
> is > >what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get > >started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just jump
> >in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled.
You
> >dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the > >government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway.
I
> >dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be > >dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more > >people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us
do > >what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole process
> >up.
> >
> > 73 de Tim
> > Knight Patrol #82
> >
> >WARNING
> >No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > >Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
Groups.
> >Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
>

> Hey guys you can take this as a forge I dont really care. If you think me
and > a lot of other freebanders give two shits about fcc and licenses then you > need to wake and take a listen on the bands. Ha ha yeah I use a modded ham > radio but never go off the cb band yeah right. What I say and what I do
are > two diferent things. You old fart hams need to lighten up on freebanders > because we are soon going to overtake you and thats no joke.
>
> 73 de Tim
> Knight Patrol #82
>
> WARNING
> No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
Groups.
> Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
eb -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
abuse@newsone.net

3781. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:21:42 UTC
From: Trouser Trout <pipedream@hotmail.comspa>
Message-ID: <20011209162146.058$ur@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 26828
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message

> This person, along with a couple others have been > doing troll activities for the past year. All they do is > accuse & harass and cause hate & discontent.
>
> Landshark

Kinda Like Landshark has been doing since 1996 in this NG. A quick search of google will reveal all to those that are interested. For all we know his gang of friends and he who like to forge posts could be the very same bunch doing this. Another search of google will reveal Landsharks past forging history. He or his group were caught (again) on Thanksgiving Day using the name No Fear ..igotdapower@google.com which they posted from a Google account thru AOL. He admitted that they do forge and pass around account names and passwords. His IP address was also plastered on the intial posts when the account was set up . Do not trust anything they say. They have be proven to be liars.

3782. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:22:26 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A75D1BB15FED0B25.F7BAFA66FF1CB303.E04FC8A2295CBB5F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26829

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 17:44:37 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> When that is all you've offered me, yes. And, again, sending me to >sites supporting polygamous relationships, which offer only material >supporting that, is hardly offering me an unbiased source. Likewise, >the information on those sites is hardly worthwhile since it only >presents only a single view (that supporting polygamous relationships).

1. I provided both biased and unbiased cites, you choose only to mention the biased ones.

2. Even the biased ones are appropriate--you didn't ask what everyone thought about it, you asked about the actual facts about the lifestyles--and fairly obviously, apart from scientific research, the logical place to find out about the lifestyles is from the people who are actually involved in them. Who would you SUGGEST I cite, those who oppose them? Why? How is it possible that THEY would know more about what effects the experience has on a marriage (the core of the question) than those who have EXPERIENCED it?

>> (snip) Incidently, your analogy to the KKK,
>> if true, would make it pretty clear that if >> someone wants information on ham radio the LAST >> place to look would be the ARRL site, since >> that's biased in favor of it. (snip)
>
> Actually, the KKK analogy is a valid one in this case. Like the KKK >sites, or the ARRL site for that matter, the sites you offered present >only one view, one position. That hardly makes those sites worthwhile >if one wants the complete story about this issue. As for your mention >of the ARRL site, if I wanted information about ham radio as an issue, >I would indeed not visit ONLY that site. I would instead attempt to >find sites that offered a more balanced view, or visit a range of >sites with different views.

But, of course, we're not discussing non-monogamous relationships as an "issue." The relationships, unlike radio frequency allocations or licensing laws, is not a public issue in the first place--it's a matter of personal choice, just as the choice between having children and not having children is. Thus the logical places to learn about it are either from research (which I cited and you ignored) or from those who have experienced the lifestyle. If you wanted to learn what ham radio was all about you would ask hams, not freebanders.

>> (snip) outside of sending you to religious sites >> where they will "prove" (by recourse to the >> bible, of course, their ONLY source of >> information on the topic) that such behavior is >> "sinful" and "wrong." Since that's pretty much >> what you appear to believe, (snip)
>
> Well, I certainly think that type of behavior is wrong, but I'm not >basing that on any religious belief ("sinful"). In fact, I don't even >understand why liberals always start screaming about religion >everytime someone takes a moral stand against anything liberals >support?

Because, apart from religious prejudice, there IS no legitimate reason to claim that the behavior is "wrong." It can be shown NOT to have an adverse effect on its practitioners or their children, thus it is not "wrong" in the sense of causing harm to others. Beyond that, if you leave religious morality out of it what grounds EXIST to view it as either "right" OR "wrong?"

Taking a "moral stand" indicates the application of a set of moral values. In some cases those values come from the nature of the act itself (i.e., we all tend to agree that rape, murder, etc., are "wrong" because we share that moral value)--clearly this is NOT the case when it comes to consensual relationships. In other cases we take those values from the moral teachings or principles of others--most of the time from those of organized religions. In the case of the "morality" of various sexual lifestyles, the ONLY possible source for the view that a relationship or consensual behavior is "immoral" is religion.

> Do liberals think it is impossible to have a moral belief >without involving religion? Do all liberals think there are only two >alternatives - religion or everything goes?

I wouldn't know. As I keep repeating, and you appear completely unable to remember, I'm NOT A LIBERAL!!!!!!!!!!

It may be convenient to keep ignoring those parts of messages that don't fit your preconceptions, but it also marks you as being rather shallow, intellectually.

> If that is what you think, >you're wrong. It's not just religious fanatics who are opposed to the >liberal nonsense in this country.

Yes, I know. I'm opposed to "liberal nonsense" too!

I just happen to support the right of people to make their own lifestyle choices and to be treated with respect regardless of the choices they make instead of condemning and looking down on them as right wing fanatics tend to do.

That don't make me liberal--it makes me libertarian.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3783. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:26:05 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <D90D2F33AD033FF9.191D4638FA80C7CF.E909579990A74C7B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26830

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 12:26:50 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>> Actually, if pot was legal you would probably see a lot more >> of it [pot wine]
>
>Ya think?

Sure--there's a FEW of us here who do! ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3784. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:29:35 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> Message-ID: <3C13D75A.463F032B@spam.me.not>
Source record: 26831
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

IP's can be faked... and easily. Doesn't take a rocket scientist to do it, either...
I'm not saying it wasn't them.. but I'm saying it's possible it was a "frame job"...

-SSB

Trouser Trout wrote:
>
> "Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
>
> > This person, along with a couple others have been > > doing troll activities for the past year. All they do is > > accuse & harass and cause hate & discontent.
> >
> > Landshark
>
> Kinda Like Landshark has been doing since 1996 in this NG. A quick search of > google will reveal all to those that are interested. For all we know his > gang of friends and he who like to forge posts could be the very same bunch > doing this. Another search of google will reveal Landsharks past forging > history. He or his group were caught (again) on Thanksgiving Day using the > name No Fear ..igotdapower@google.com which they posted from a Google > account thru AOL. He admitted that they do forge and pass around account > names and passwords. His IP address was also plastered on the intial posts > when the account was set up . Do not trust anything they say. They have be > proven to be liars.

3785. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:31:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B5C1AD8F3958CE0D.B0612F7BB6221617.F3E0230622253E64@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26832

On 08 Dec 2001 04:01:08 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>The only way for a responsible professional to behave when dealing >with a superior or subordinate of the opposite sex is to keep all >interactions on a strictly professional level, and no "private" meetings, >counseling sessions, planning sessions, or two person-only >business trips.

Perhaps, Larry, if people like you would stop thinking of women in terms of sex all the time and start thinking of them as coworkers and equals instead, you might not have to fear those meetings.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3786. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:34:04 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1BB9C7A38A46FFAC.5766D4EF7F932ED6.A34528D0317853B0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26833

On Fri, 7 Dec 2001 23:06:39 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Let me suggest to you, Larry, that you find some women who are of admirable >character, rather whatever little sluts you must have been hanging around >your entire life.

Shame on you, Kim.

That was a NASTY thing to say.

I think you owe an apology to all the sluts that read this list who you just implied would be willing to associate with Larry Roll.

Sluts have FAR more class than that!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3787. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:35:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C8CF035925203B67.E73448B3FCCFF06D.444942DF2468B32D@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26834

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 14:56:55 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>> Of what--the destruction of the US Constitution?
>
>You wouldn't have that problem with a Libertarian government, Rick. :-)

True. But the mass starvation among the poor and disabled would be just as destructive. ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3788. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:37:27 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C85FB6354CF4D59D.20AAC9A4DB4D29D1.50101C81E308AAF4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26835

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 13:58:52 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>He only imagines that he has that problem even NOW.

Do I?

Name a _single_ one of the rights enumerated in the first ten Amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) that hasn't been abrogated by a Republican government in which a member of the Bush dynasty was either Vice President or President.

Just ONE!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3789. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:52:03 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13DCF1.92C7D468@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26836

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Is that kind of like dodging any responsiblity
> for the way you feel and think about the Wiccan > and other Pagan traditions? OK, so you did not > personally come up with the popular thought > that pagan traditions are satanic in nature.
> Do you subscribe to the opinion, or not?

No, it is not a way to dodge responsibility - no more then using any other word is a way to dodge responsibility. And if you really want MY opinion about this, I think these people are all a bunch of frauds who have latched onto this nonsense to impress their ignorant friends. Wiccans cannot do what they claim (witchcraft) and modern pagans are not at all related to those early religions. In other words, these people are simply full of it.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3790. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 21:58:46 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13DE83.D6107ED0@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26837

Krell wrote:
>
> Hate is easliy veiled.

And I think you and Kim are too quick to throwing the word "hate" around. I don't "hate" Rick. Heck, I don't even know the man. However, I do know what he has written, which is what I based my opinion on when I said I would believe any web site over him. Now, if you consider that hate, I suggest you get a dictionary and learn the true meaning of the word.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3791. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:07:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3696290E5C2050EA.304DAB87A74355A8.039FCE8965A55266@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26839

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 18:27:35 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Yes, the meaning of "Satanic" (capital "s") is clear - it refers to >the religious context of the word and is the one you continue to use >in spite of my repeated objections. However, the meaning of "satanic" >(lower case "s") seems much less clear to you - and it has nothing to >do with "Satan."

Would you care to even ATTEMPT to justify a statement that stupid?

Satanism and satanism are NOT unrelated. Precisely where do you think the "satan" part of "satanism" comes from--the easter bunny?

Satanism (big OR little "s") refers to behavior which opposes christianity (guess that doesn't mean the same as Christianity either, right?), is defined as "evil" by Christian teachings, and includes the worship of a devil (which pagan and Wiccan religions do NOT even believe in, let alone worship), acts that deliberately harm others (again, against the teachings of pagans and wiccans), and the practice of harmful occult activities (again, not practiced by pagans or wiccans--unless you use the absurd christian claim that ALL such practices are "harmful"--which again returns the definition to christianity).

There IS one difference, of course. Satanism (big "S") is a RELIGION while satanism (little "s") is the practice of that religion or the application of its principles.

Dwight, for someone who can't even tell the difference between "liberal" and "libertarian" as you've made clear in many messages, you really aren't the person who should be making semantic claims of accuracy.

>> (snip) In the second place, even if you DID use >> your own definition of satanic, (snip)
>
> I used the dictionary definition of the word, not my own definition.

Provide the specific definition in its entirety and the source of the quote.

To help you out a bit, here's the definition from the Oxford English Dictionary (2ed)--considered by most people to be the definitive source of definitions of the words in the English language:

==========

Satanism (_____________).
[f. Satan + -ism. Cf. F. satanisme (= sense 3 below).]

1. A satanic or diabolical disposition, doctrine, spirit, or contrivance.

1565 Harding Confut. Jewel ii. ii. 42 b, Meaning the time when Luther first brinced to Germanie the poisoned cuppe of his heresies, blasphemies, and sathanismes.

1639 Visct. Falkland Elegy on Donne Poems (Grosart) 36 So mild was Moses countenance, when he prayï¿½d For them whose Satanisme his power gainsaid.

1855 Bagehot Lit. Stud., Cowper (1879) I. 285 The whole burning soul breaks away into what is well called Satanismï¿½into wildness, and bitterness, and contempt.

1893 Goldw. Smith Ess. 2 That sort of social revolution which may be called Satanism, as it seeks, not to reconstruct, but to destroy.

1900 A. Lang in Daily News 27 June 6/2 With such a mixture of..loyalty, mysterious Satanism, and reputation for conquests over her sex..Bothwell must have fascinated the Queen.

2. The characteristics of the ï¿½Satanic schoolï¿½.

1822 Blackw. Mag. XI. 445 His Lakeism or his Satanism will not save the piece from being damned, if it be stupid.

1833 Fraserï¿½s Mag. VIII. 524 This scene of Byronï¿½s is really sublime, in spite of its Satanism.

3. The worship of Satan, alleged to have been practised in France in the latter part of the 19th century; the principles and rites of the Satanists.

1896 A. Lillie Worship Satan in Mod. France Pref. 18 There are five temples of Satanism in Paris itself... Satanism has the Bulletin au Diable and other organs.

=======

From the Encyclopedia Britannica:

=======

Satanism

also called Devil Worship, worship of Satan, or the devil, the personality or principle regarded by the Judeo-Christian tradition as embodying absolute evil in complete antithesis to God. This worship may be regarded as a gesture of extreme protest against Judeo-Christian spiritual hegemony. Satanic cults have been documented in Europe and America as far back as the 17th century, but theirï¿½

=======

And from the Encarta World Dictionary:

=======

Saï¿½tanï¿½ism [sï¿½yt'n ï¿½zzm] noun
Satan worship: the worship of Satan, especially as a parody of Christian rites

=======

Sorry, Dwight. As usual, you're claims are well outside reality.

>> > Nonsense. _I_ associate these activities (occult >> > practices, witchcraft, etc) with satanism and I'm >> > not a christian church, nor am I associated with >> > a christian church.
>>
>> (snip) You do so through ignorance and superstition.
>> I'm referring to reality. They are NOT the same.
>
> And I say that the association with satanism is the reality.

Then demonstrate that with solid evidence, not your personal interpretation of reality.

>> > These practices have long been associated with >> > satanism.
>>
>> Yup.
>>
>> BY THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.
>
>
> And by just about everyone else in this country, and around the >world for that matter. Walk down any street in this country and ask >people to identify the practices of satanism. About 99 percent, both >religious and non-religious, would list these very things. That is the >reality, Rick. Of course, I suppose you'll now say the entire world it wrong.

I'll accept that ludicrous statement WHEN YOU PROVIDE PROOF, not simply because you state it--you are wrong FAR too often for that.
If you claim "99 percent" of the people say that, then you must have either talked to 99 percent of the population or you have read solid scientific research that states 99 percent of the people believe that--otherwise your claim is totally without the slightest substantiation and can just be put down to more prejudice on your part.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3792. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:07:53 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13E0A2.35A6C3AE@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26838

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> Sooo -- Kim -- if you could just walk to the > corner, board a bus that took you to within > a block of your workplace, shopping center, or > whatever, and got you back, all within a > reasonable time frame (less than 20 min. wait)
> -- you wouldn't use it?

Did anyone see the show about public transportation (subways) on the Discovery Channel yesterday (at least, I think it was the discovery channel). Anyway, they were talking about possible future trends in subways (a hybrid system with buses using underground routes). A great idea, but one that only larger cities could afford.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3793. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:12:40 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <slRQ7.295181$5A3.114782513@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 26840
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C13D75A.463F032B@spam.me.not...
> IP's can be faked... and easily. Doesn't take a rocket >scientist to do it, either...

Yes, an men can walk on the moon too, and elephants can fly. Just like I might not be in Pa and really in the Uk. I could be using subseven to post from a client computer. Ya just never know

3794. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:13:32 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <gmRQ7.295183$5A3.114782917@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 26841
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C13D75A.463F032B@spam.me.not...
> IP's can be faked... and easily. Doesn't take a rocket scientist to do

Or is that a server?

3795. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:16:57 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <639A191D6682576F.47E76ABB0DAFC979.93DFDAA0FCED29CD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26843

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 18:49:13 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> (snip) Unfortunately, that's a situation that most >> rural residents will face sooner or later, and >> equally unfortunately far too many choose to keep >> driving well past the point at which they are no >> longer safe on the roads with the end result >> being a need for precisely the kind of laws they >> have in Europe.
>
>
> And, law or no law, I'd probably be right out there driving with >them when I reach that age. Without some reasonable public >transportation, I'll be damned if some law is going to lock me up with >no way to go anywhere. I have no desire to be a recluse in a free country.

But you DO have the alternative (as do I) of moving to an area where public transportation is available. Sorry, Dwight, but if you choose to live apart from society that doesn't relieve you of the responsibility for obeying laws created for the protection of others.
You might be willing to drive after you've reached an age where you recognize you cannot do so safely--personally I'm not willing to risk other lives in that manner. I don't want to have to give up driving (and currently I'm a good driver--complete with only three tickets in 42 years of driving), but if I become a danger to others as I age, I would have no choice but to do just that.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3796. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:18:42 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13E32A.D920113D@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26842

N2EY wrote:
>
> I hope you're right. The answer that most Americans > support is "build more roads" which doesn't solve > the problem.

The problem with that is many cities are simply running out of space to build more roads. You can only stack roads so high, and pile on so many cars, before the whole thing becomes a waste of time and money. At a certain point, the only solution is going to be public transportation. Sadly, in the meantime, we're stuck with all the existing problems (fuel comsumption, pollution, traffic jams, road rage, and so forth).

I think we need some kind of hybrid system - low cost electric cars for short distances, with public transportation for longer distances (and low cost electric rental cars in every city for travelers). This gives people the freedom to travel locally, but ends many of the problems mentioned above.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3797. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:20:12 UTC
From: Trouser Trout <pipedream@hotmail.comspa>
Message-ID: <20011209172016.128$it@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 26845
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C13D75A.463F032B@spam.me.not...
> IP's can be faked... and easily. Doesn't take a rocket scientist to do > it, either...
> I'm not saying it wasn't them.. but I'm saying it's possible it was a > "frame job"...
>
> -SSB

Yes anything is possible but he had admitted after getting caught that he did make the post. Check out the post for your self, Like you said its not rocket science.
How about when people accuse Doug or Leland or Aaron could someone be forging Ip address's as well then blame them?

From: igotdapower@yahoo.com (No Fear)
Newsgroups: ba.test
Subject: 'test'
Date: 2 Oct 2001 07:42:07 -0700
Organization: http://groups.google.com/
Lines: 1
Message-ID: <cf9eb618.0110020642.6ac6e785@posting.google.com>
NNTP-Posting-Host: 64.169.135.55
Content-Type: text/plain; charset=ISO-8859-1
Content-Transfer-Encoding: 8bit
X-Trace: posting.google.com 1002033728 14873 127.0.0.1 (2 Oct 2001 14:42:08 GMT)
X-Complaints-To: groups-abuse@google.com
NNTP-Posting-Date: 2 Oct 2001 14:42:08 GMT

test test test

3798. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:20:26 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13E391.30E2D0DE@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26844

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> Now if they had busses that actually went somewheres...
> (like where I want to go when I want to go).

Read my previous comments to Jim about the hybrid system - it solves the problem of getting around from the bus stop to your final destination.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3799. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:23:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B815B546EE340A84.76A6B47205F92099.318662A5F3D31C08@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26846

On Fri, 7 Dec 2001 20:28:10 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>heh heh heh. I live rural enough that I get my blind friends behind the >wheel of my vehicles and let them drive. I crack up at the story of one of >my former blind friends who drove down a residential street (creeping, mind >you) while the sighted owner of the vehicle used her cane to knock against >the sides of parked vehicles so she would miss them...ROFLMAO
>
>The whole neighborhood was laughing, as I hear. (Before you do gooders >jump--the cane did absolutely no damage to any of the vehicles). Neither >did the blind person...LOL

Here in Michigan we have two rather "unique" laws:

1. The law requires all drive-up ATM machines to both; (1) be located and marked in a manner that indicates they are to be used by and accessible to the drivers of motor vehicles only (no walk-ups on those machines are permitted by law--only the ones on or in the buildings) and; (2) all such machines MUST be labeled in braille for the visually impaired.

2. It is perfectly legal for a completely blind individual to obtain a hunting permit--and to hunt--in Michigan. The only stipulation is that the hunter MUST be accompanied by another licensed hunter who will be responsible for insuring that the blind hunter is firing at a legitimate target. The assistant, however, may (as a court has ruled!) likewise be blind!

Go figure.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3800. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:24:37 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A14C93DF76A49EB3.C9CAACD50E948C7A.0C73B8034C76D838@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26847

On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 14:24:25 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> And their gay/lesbian parents are not going to have any >> influence on their sexual "identity." Right.
>
>I don't know if you've raised any daughters, Larry, but do you think >that your influence on them would have made them want to be men?

Maybe not, but his views on women and sex would have made them track stars!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3801. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:40:26 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209174026.28268.00000266@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 26848

In article <3C0FF153.95117983@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>> Cecil, how many times in your life have you moved to follow the work?
>
>Six times, as far as I can recall - two were interstate.

Thanks for proving my point.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3802. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:40:26 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209174026.28268.00000265@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 26850

In article <FdTP7.146537$WW.9373558@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:9f4bfe89.0112061119.6c08fb5@posting.google.com...
>
>>
>> Something like CCC is one answer. If people can't find work where they >> are, with the skills they have, they should go where the work is.
>> Cecil, how many times in your life have you moved to follow the work?
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>I know, Jim, we can sign up with the Reconstruction and Reclamation Corps, >the Reeks and Wrecks.

Ah, somebody got the reference.

> And God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater and Kurt Vonnegut
>fans everywhere.
>
Hi ho.

73 de Jim "Dandelion-14" N2EY

3803. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:40:27 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209174027.28268.00000267@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 26849

In article <3C130706.F06E2814@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>>
>> > >Rearrabge the letters in "Santa" and you get "Satan". How convenient!
>> >
>> > devil spelled backward is "lived"
>
>Devils are a hockey team in NJ.....
>
The Jacksonville Jaguars are usually called "Jags"

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers are usually called the "Bucs"

And the members of the Tennessee team.....

73 de Jim, N2EY

3804. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:40:28 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011209174028.28268.00000268@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 26751

In article <QLJQ7.216216$3d2.9884345@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>> >"N2EY" wrote
>
>> >> Do you know WHY the fish was a symbol?
>
>> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:
>
>> >Fisher of men???
>
>"N2EY" wrote
>
>> Naw. "Icthys" was an abbreviation for a phrase that meant "Jesus Christ, >Savior >> of the world" or something like that. The simple fish symbol could be >drawn >> quickly, too.
>
>I'm right because Icthys is Greek for fish. Oteoicthys is all the bony >fishes. DO you knonw what they call the rest of the fishes?

Nope.
>
>They called him that because he was the 'Fisher of Men' remember the most of >the appostles were fishermen by trade.

Upon reflection, I recall that Jesus said to His apostles that he would make them fishers of men. So your answer is correct.
>
>> >> "Romanis ite domum? What is that supposed to mean??"
>
>> >I was thinking 'Romans are home' and so I searched on the net and found >> >this; I thought you'd like it...
>
>> >What could this be from???? ;-)
>
>> Ahhh - somebody here has some culture!
>
>That's right... ;-)
>
>> Monty Python's Life of Brian, which also gave us scenes like the old man
>being >> stoned for saying "Jehovah" and the song "Always Look On The Bright Side
>Of

>> Life" (which would be reprised by Jack Nicholson in "As Good As It Gets").
>>
>> You have to know the original to fully get the joke. The centurion has >Brian in >> various strangleholds and threatens him with the short sword. The dialogue
>is >> familiar to anyone who had a real Latin teacher.
>
><snip>
>
>> >Now doesn't that say it all? ;-)

Yup.
>
>> Well, I wasn't expecting the Spanish Inquisition!
>
>NOT THE SPANISH INQISITION!!!
>
The best known phrase is:

"NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"

followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with soft cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".

Best of the bunch, however, has to be "Monty Python's Meaning Of Life".

73 de Jim, N2EY

Also worthy of a peek are the "Blackadder" series....

3805. Re: My Biggest Kill File - for THIS newsgroup

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:41:44 UTC
From: leaky oil filled capacitors <itmrogers3@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <IMRQ7.15304$714.1591979@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 26752
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Carl Miller" <cmiller@trellis.net> wrote in message news:00011109115138.OUI03.cmiller@trellis.net...
> I just noticed that the Amateur Radio newsgroups have contributed more > to my kill file than all the other newsgroups I read put together. I > just can't believe how many lame-assed jerks are attracted to these > groups. Incredible!

Carl my friend, this is the direct result of R. Hollingsworth's cracking down on the infamous 14.313 vs 14.300 "Booer War" of 1978-1996. It lasted that long (18 years!!) and dragged in just about every single nut case on ham radio, like as if you dumped ten gallons of honey into a bathtub in woods full of black bears.
Unfortunatly when Reily cleaned up this incredible mess, the people who lived for this RF mayhem suddenly had no outlet for their frustrations. Enter the internet and Newsgroups! The rest is, shall we say, history?

Someone could write 2 books on it. Believe me. One version would provide material for Comedy Central Networks or The Jerry Springer Show, while the other would make an excellent paper for study by the American College of Psychiatric Medicine.

3806. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:56:17 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13EBED.3DA2502@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26753

K0HB wrote:
>
> I'm shocked that you don't understand one of > the great religions of Amateur Radio. (snip)

Good grief, Hans, you have too much time on your hands. I got tired just trying to read all of that. And, you covered so much, I wouldn't even know where to begin to respond to it. I thought I've seen religious fanatics before, but you take the cake, my friend. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3807. happy holidays

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 22:58:19 UTC
From: webdoc@mailandnews.com
Message-ID: <de9751ca.0112091458.7dcf84bf@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26754
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

I would like to take the time away from my work in NYC with the American Red Cross to wish everyone a safe and happy holiday season. I missed the test last month :/ I got lost on the subway while transfering to another train, so I'll try again this month. a co-worker gave me an early gift when they heard I was going to take my test, it's a small simple 2m HT. It will be enough to get me started once I get my ticket. I have done some searching and found some of the local repeaters, and have them programmed in so I can listen to whats going on. And don't worry, I am not stupid enough to hit the key w/o having a ticket.

Until next time
73's to you and yours from me and mine.

Keith Hosman

3808. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 23:01:41 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13ED30.18FCDC0D@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26755

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > (snip) By the way, Dave, we should bestow sainthood > > on anyone who can always figure out what Kim is > > talking about.
>
> That is a problem, Dwight. Those who are beatified and > awaiting their chance for sainthood are, well...dead.

That sounds about right, Dave. Nobody alive can always understand what Kim is talking about.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3809. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 23:03:01 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C13ED80.D699D9D2@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26756

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> I'll start a discount house of worship, next > to Target and Kmart.... :-)

Rmart? "R" for religion?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3810. Re: happy holidays

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 23:21:07 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <DISQ7.2829$sc3.400757827@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26757
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

A Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to You Doc. May you and the family get everything you asked for.

Landshark

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

"Keith Hosman Red Cross Disaster Services" <webdoc@mailandnews.com> wrote in message news:de9751ca.0112091458.7dcf84bf@posting.google.com...
> I would like to take the time away from my work in NYC with the > American Red Cross to wish everyone a safe and happy holiday season. I > missed the test last month :/ I got lost on the subway while > transfering to another train, so I'll try again this month. a > co-worker gave me an early gift when they heard I was going to take my > test, it's a small simple 2m HT. It will be enough to get me started > once I get my ticket. I have done some searching and found some of the > local repeaters, and have them programmed in so I can listen to whats > going on. And don't worry, I am not stupid enough to hit the key w/o > having a ticket.
>
> Until next time
> 73's to you and yours from me and mine.
>
> Keith Hosman

3811. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-09 23:21:07 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <DISQ7.2828$2e3.400858243@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26758
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Now I love this, I've been forging for 5+ years. This guy is truly demented or on drugs. You sir are a troll, if anyone would like to see his 60+ alias to see what kind of troll he really is, please e-mail S3Buell@SBCGlobal.Net. I will be more than happy to give them to you.
I also love "the gang" theory.....
LOL!!!

Landshark

PS, he seem to be defending the original post so much, you would think he did it from his AOL Account.
Just for the other newsgroups, I kill filed this person some 2 months ago and all he can think about is me. Practically every post has some sort of reference to me, it's a shame, you would think they would have something better to do, like talk on the radio.

--
Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C13D75A.463F032B@spam.me.not...
> IP's can be faked... and easily. Doesn't take a rocket scientist to do > it, either...
> I'm not saying it wasn't them.. but I'm saying it's possible it was a > "frame job"...
>
> -SSB
>
> Trouser Trout wrote:
> >
> > "Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
> >
> > > This person, along with a couple others have been > > > doing troll activities for the past year. All they do is > > > accuse & harass and cause hate & discontent.
> > >
> > > Landshark

> >
> > Kinda Like Landshark has been doing since 1996 in this NG. A quick search of > > google will reveal all to those that are interested. For all we know his > > gang of friends and he who like to forge posts could be the very same bunch
> > doing this. Another search of google will reveal Landsharks past forging > > history. He or his group were caught (again) on Thanksgiving Day using
the > > name No Fear ..igotdapower@google.com which they posted from a Google > > account thru AOL. He admitted that they do forge and pass around account > > names and passwords. His IP address was also plastered on the intial
posts
> > when the account was set up . Do not trust anything they say. They have be > > proven to be liars.

3812. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 00:43:33 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v10e202i9s@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26761

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C13D1B4.BA347D75@sccoast.net...
> Look, I couldn't give a flying leap who came up with it - it is now > the widely accepted word used to describe people involved in those > activities. And if you think you can change that situation be fussing > at me about it, let me set you straight - I have no control over it, > nor would I attempt to change it even if I did.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

This only proves that you will adhere to any lie that suits your own bias. I think I'll save this for future reference. You do more damage to your credibility with this statement than any of us could ever do.

3813. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 00:59:48 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <8OTQ7.150465$WW.9749379@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26759

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011209174026.28268.00000265@mb-cr.aol.com...
> In article <FdTP7.146537$WW.9373558@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:
>
> >"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
> >news:9f4bfe89.0112061119.6c08fb5@posting.google.com...
> >
> >>
> >> Something like CCC is one answer. If people can't find work where they > >> are, with the skills they have, they should go where the work is.
> >> Cecil, how many times in your life have you moved to follow the work?
> >>
> >> 73 de Jim, N2EY
> >
> >I know, Jim, we can sign up with the Reconstruction and Reclamation Corps,
> >the Reeks and Wrecks.
>
> Ah, somebody got the reference.
>
> > And God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater and Kurt Vonnegut
> >fans everywhere.
> >
> Hi ho.
>
> 73 de Jim "Dandelion-14" N2EY
>

The older I get the more I appreciate surrealism and that is really what Vonnegut, Monty Python, and Joseph Heller did. The resulting feeling is far more interesting than the plot. Same with Bob Dylan (Desolation Row is a good example). A naked Yossarian in a tree is not really the issue and this is why both Heller's and Vonnegut's books make really crappy movies.
Monty Python movies in print would also stink up the joint. Dali was so surrealistic he almost did not have to paint to prove it.

Dick, N&#65533;BK. Gimme eat, give everybody eat!!

3814. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 01:05:59 UTC
From: k0hb@qwest.net
Message-ID: <b7c5262e.0112091705.4c5a6958@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26760

kelly@dvol.com (Brian Kelly) wrote in message

> > And if they say that you are shutting your eyes to reality, > > you can reply that they are shutting their eyes to Morse.
> >
> > Peace to all of you!
> >
> >

> Jesus Christ Hans Ham Radio is only a HOBBY!

> w3rv

Verily I sayeth unto thee, not if thou do-eth it right!
Takest thou heed, lest the wrath of Carroll and Roll
decendeth upon thy head with holy vigor.

May the Morse be with thee,

de Hans, K0HB

3815. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 01:45:56 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209204556.15992.00000437@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26762

In article <9v061h02r5m@enews4.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
writes:

>
>"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
>news:20011209105501.15992.00000414@mb-fc.aol.com...
>> What better way to get comms going in an emergency than by >> being proficient in Morse/CW?
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>How about knowing how to get the equipment up and operating?

For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out of it. You think being a Real Ham means plugging the boxes in correctly, getting the mic plugged into the correct receptacle, and coordinating the action of the PTT switch with your mouth. Big Steenking Deal! My 8-year old nephew can do that!

The continuing problem with you no-coders is you persist on making fools of yourselves by taking credit for high technical skill for doing simple things that anyone with the ability to read can figure out for themselves in a couple of minutes. Ham radio, at the entry level, is not a technically challenging hobby anymore, and nobody who gets into it at the entry level ever does anything more technically involved than unboxing a store-bought appliance and hooking it up correctly. I, OTOH, built several functional receivers and transmitters long before I ever owned a piece of store-bought gear. I've forgotten more about electronics than most of today's Extra-class hams ever knew. Ham Radio these days is nothing but glorified CB, and the lack of quality of on-the-air operation these days demonstrates this fact very well, indeed! So don't bother to talk to me about technical knowledge, Krell. Most new hams these days, when faced with a real "emergency" communications challenge, couldn't get a message across their backyard fence!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3816. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 01:50:30 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <GxUQ7.150522$WW.9753071@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26763

"K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
news:b7c5262e.0112091705.4c5a6958@posting.google.com...
> kelly@dvol.com (Brian Kelly) wrote in message
>
> > > And if they say that you are shutting your eyes to reality, > > > you can reply that they are shutting their eyes to Morse.
> > >
> > > Peace to all of you!
> > >
> > >
>
> > Jesus Christ Hans Ham Radio is only a HOBBY!
>
> > w3rv
>
> Verily I sayeth unto thee, not if thou do-eth it right!
> Takest thou heed, lest the wrath of Carroll and Roll
> decendeth upon thy head with holy vigor.
>
> May the Morse be with thee,
>
> de Hans, K0HB

No, Hans, No! Not the Holy Hand Grenade.

3817. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License more info.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 01:59:13 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112091759.41235797@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26764

Gerald Schmitt <KK5YY@arrl.net> wrote in message
news:<f3171ugtucejrir6rp17b99bulf8hpfldd@4ax.com>...
> On 08 Dec 2001 21:03:10 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>

>

> >Waddya think, folks?
>
> I thought at the time and still think this is a great opportunity to > get new hams off on the right foot. I had a chat with the President > of the RSGB and suggested that Foundation Tutor/Testing groups > recruit QRPers. They QRP crowd has a real understanding of how > to make low power work and are the most credible proponents of > CW as an operating mode.
>
Sounds like a very interesting experiment but I have reservations about effects of the ten watt limit at least on HF. The JAs have a similar limit on their entry-level license and something like 500,000 of them have dropped out of ham radio. Most of the loss has been attributed to the availability of cell phones but a lot of it has also been attributed to their ten watt limit in a country where the average residence is very cramped by U.S. standards. Which is to say that the combination of semi-qrp and no HF antenna space makes HF ops more work than they're worth in some large number of instances. The great majority of Brits don't have much acreage either.
>
>
> To understand why the RA and RSGB wanted to do this you have to > have an appreciation of the UK testing system. Tests are offered only > at infrequent intervals and are very costly. Most written tests are > proctored at Universities and cost L75 or over $100 US.
>
>
At least ya don't have to be knighted too. That's ridiculous, the Brits neeed to vote the bums out . .
>
>
w3rv

3818. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:04:43 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <51E1C6FB38CF2747.57A1A32FD0348FD8.1CFB2D08B7FEE88F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26765

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 08:44:18 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>The key is that, unlike your original situation, Libertarians do NOT >advocate privatizing the court system. There has been a suggestion >that the court system could provide income for the government through >the charging of fees thus lowering the tax burden. However, the court >system would still be a monopoly with no private competition allowed.
>It is not reasonable to privatize the court system.

Yet you want to privatize prisons, law enforcement, fire departments, social security, and other programs.

What's the matter--the Libertarians can't stick to their principles when they smell a profit? ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3819. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:08:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <AC06DE177FD71ACE.4A593F301257533D.339247F83242FCF2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26766

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 15:51:51 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> I don't know why conservatives always have to >> start slinging that term "liberal" around in >> the middle of a good argument. (snip)
>
>
> Well, in this case, Kim, I used the word "liberal" exactly because >Rick defined himself as a one in a previous message. In other words, >according to his own statements, the word applies and therefore my >question was valid.

No, Dwight, I did NOT identify myself as a "liberal." I am a libertarian--if you are too stupid to know the difference, try looking in a book (that's one of those things with covers, pages, and printed words in case you don't have any experience with them).

I _agreed_ that I would accept the "sixties liberal" definition of my earlier years--so what? That does NOT define me as a political liberal, which is the form you are discussing here. But, of course, you already know that--your only reason for using the term is to distract from the fact that you can't argue on the issues themselves (with evidence greater than your personal opinions) so you prefer to distract from them with meaningless babble.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3820. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:20:30 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1200815ACF53777A.C39BB3E8A83E4591.E19C72FDEEFDD3FA@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26767

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 16:08:59 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> I sure do wish people would be just a little less >> cynical about "sources." Dwight, a site that >> supports polygamous relationships is probably full
>> of expert opinions from those who practice >> polygamy. Just as probably one of the best sources
>> for cancer information would be from a site
>> sponsored by an agency that supports cancer
>> research, The American Cancer Society.
>
>
> I'm not cynical about sources, Kim. I'm cynical about sources that >only offer one perspective on a issue. In other words, a source that >is not unbiased. For example, the American Cancer Society you >mentioned is obviously not promoting cancer, therefore they are a good >source of information. The sites Rick offered are promoting satanism.

Let me get this straight. The sites I provided dealing with polyamory, swinging, and the sociological research surrounding those issues are satanic?

Dwight, you have satanism on the brain. Go get exorcised and come back with at least a small amount of insight into what you are talking about.

Incidently, to carry your cancer analogy further, you claim that the ACS site is not promoting cancer so it is not biased. BUT if I am interested in knowing about PREVENTING or TREATING cancer, since the ACS site DOES have a bias toward those actions, it clearly is NOT the right source of information--I need to find sites that oppose prevention and treatment instead, right?

No?

Then why is it if information about polyamory or swinging is desired, sites that support (SUPPORT Dwight, not promote) these topics are any less appropriate?

Oh, I forgot. It's because you don't AGREE with those sites,
right?

>> Now, on political stuff, all bets are off. I am no >> more likely to be inspired to a different way of >> thinking about something because I read or listen

>> to someone like, say, Rush Limbaugh; just as you >> would not be by reading something out of >> Sojourners Truth (think that was the name of the >> magazine) or National Public Radio.
>
>
> And I would add any site which attempts to propagandize to that list >(which would include the sites Rick offered). I asked him for unbiased >sources, not pro-satanism propaganda sites.

I didn't provide you ANY sites dealing with wicca or paganism, you idiot--I provided (at your demand) sites dealing with polyamory and swinging--as Kim CORRECTLY pointed out in her first paragraph.

Out of respect for the other readers, at least TRY to pay attention to what you are talking about.

Show me ONE SITE I provided an url for that has anything to do with satanism, wicca, or pagan faiths AT ALL!

>> My question to you is, if you are not willing to >> accept the information that is offered as part of >> an offer of education about a certain topic, then >> why even debate. And, the likelihood that you will >> find an absolute independent source for topics of >> discussion is nearly, if not, nil.
>
> I don't accept the "offer of education" because (1) I don't need the >education (I've studied this subject before),

Which one? The one you THINK you are talking about, or the one everyone else is talking about?

You ASKED for sites, Dwight, now that they were provided you claim you "don't need the education." Then why ask in the first place?

Also, you claim you have "studied this subject before." Which subject, Dwight? Open marriage (of which you CLEARLY know nothing) or Wicca (of which you ALSO know nothing)? Or something altogether different that no one but you even thinks we're talking about?

>(2) the "education" >offered covered no new ground (I've seen the stuff on those sites many >times before),

Really?

Is that why you keep referring to poly sites as "satanic" in this post?

Maybe you should have taken the time to READ what was on the sites you claim you've "seen many times before."

>and (3) the "education" offered was nothing more than >biased propaganda (not education).

How can you tell--you don't know enough about the subject to compare the two. You don't even accept a legitimate sociological research paper as unbiased--what do you need, something that agrees with your sick view of human relations before you'll say something is unbiased?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3821. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:21:58 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EF80FDFEE3C68AC2.91C3CABAECA2D66D.33833E40DB73424F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26768

On Sun, 09 Dec 2001 15:47:12 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it >you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly >do behind open doors?

Discuss confidential business.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3822. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:53:30 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dickc58@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3C141641.BD653D4D@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26769

CAM wrote:

> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years???
>
> Hey Dick, here's something I got from a URL on drudgereport.com.
>
> "A SCIENTIST has observed homosexual behavior in > wild orang-utans for the first time, adding the great apes
> to the long list of animals that take part in same sex > relationships. Homosexual behavior has been observed in almost > every species of animal including dolphins, hedgehogs,
> kangaroos, sheep, whales, albatrosses, chimpanzees
> and gorillas. Dr Fox published her observations in the > American Journal of Primatology."

Ya suppose the good Dr Foxx is a charter member of Lesbos Unlimited and is trying her dead level best to proved it "normal"? Seems to be fashionable amongst them. You Too?

3823. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 02:56:00 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dickc58@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3C1416D9.83EF4642@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26770

One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists "proving" whatever they want proved.

3824. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:10:50 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E9AC04CD975C8D90.5809AFC9ED0370D6.8F9CEAD6C1B7D06B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26771

On 08 Dec 2001 15:49:27 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>You originally included ancient Rome and Greece - now you leave 'em out.

No, I stated that Rome and Greece were places where the pagan faiths (which people here have claimed are "new age inventions") originated.

Incidently, I was driving home last night and noticed several houses with what were "supposed" to be christmas decorations up. But many of those had five pointed stars (pentagrams!!!) on the trees, the house, or other places. Obviously, therefore, christmas is a cover for satanism, right?

>>
>>>The Roman and Greek "nature religions" tried for centuries to eradicate >>>Christianity and its source religion, Judaism. Do you know who Antiochus >>was?
>>
>> So?
>
>Guess you don't know who Antiochus was.

As it happens, I do. Are you referring to Antiochus the first, second, or third (also known as Antiochus the Great)?

What I _don't_ know is what someone who lived 2000+ years ago in the Middle East has to do with wicca and paganism in the modern day. Antiochus (pick your number) was a political figure, not a religious one.

>> The Christians did a pretty good job of reversing that trend
>>when it came to the Pagan faiths of Northern Europe--as well as the >>Jewish faith in Spain--or did the Inquisition slip past you unnoticed.
>
>I knew about the Inquisition by the time I was 11.

Which Inquisition?

Certainly not the one where pagans were being slaughtered by christians in an effort to stamp out their religion (you know, the one that uses pentagrams as one of its symbols?)--and (of course) steal their land and property.

Perhaps the one in Spain where it was the Jews who were the target. Or the French one where it was a too-powerful sect of christians. But certainly not the one in Northern Europe.

>There were also all sorts of persecutions of Jews in other countries besides >Spain, persecutions for heresy (Christian killing Christian in the name of >Christ), and the Crusades, which were often thinly disguised land grabs for >second sons.

Yup! And the same holds true for the persecution of "witches" and pagans as well.

>>>Constantine changed all that.
>>
>> And a RC Pope restarted the killing.
>
>Yup. The best argument for separation of church and state is the record of what >happens without it.

Then how can you--or anyone else who believes that (as I do) support the concept of morals laws which can ONLY be based on religious values?

>> Perhaps you can see a difference between a Roman killing a >>person for his or her religion and a Christian doing the same.
>
>You are equating "Roman Catholic" with "Christian". They are not the same. One >is a subset of the other. Not all Christian religions have a history of killing >in the name of religion.

And not all Romans killed Christians either. So what? The analogy still is valid.

>>Personally, I can't.
>
>Then present the whole story. When the pagans were in power, they killed >Christians. When the tables were turned, the killing continued. Paybacks.

So you agree that paganism (which uses the pentagram as a symbol) predates christianity, right?

In that case, how can paganism POSSIBLY be satanic? It existed before satan was INVENTED by the christians.

>Two wrongs don't make a right. But you present only the Christian wrong, never >the pagan wrong.

I'll make you a deal--if YOU will acknowledge that pagan (and by extension, wiccan) faiths predate christianity and therefore have nothing at all to do with satanism, I'll gladly agree that some pagan states have acted in the same manner towards christians that christians have acted toward them. Bear in mind, however, that I am referring to pagan STATES, not specific pagan religions which had nothing at all to do with the killing of christians--that was a political action on the part of the Romans not a religious one.

>> Speaking of killing people for their religion, here's a >>completely accurate description of an historically important person.
>>See if you can identify him:

>
>This isn't a class, you aren't the teacher.

Can't identify him, huh?

>> "<he> was both a passionate anti-Semite and a ferocious >>believer in absolute obedience to political authority. He wanted (his >>nation is named here) rid of the Jews and he advised that the be >>deprived of "All their cash and jewels and silver and gold" and >>furthermore, "that their synagogues or schools be set on fire, that >>their houses be broken up and destroyed . . . and they be put under a >>roof or stable, like the gypsies . . . in misery and captivity as they >>incessantly lament and complain to God about us"--advice that was >>later followed literally."
>>
>> He also referred to the peasants who opposed the government as
>>"mad dogs," and employed a "coarseness and brutality of language >>unequaled in <nation> history."
>
>The Jewish people have been persecuted by so many that there are plenty of >candidates for that description. Offhand it sounds like Torquemada, but it >could also be any of a number of popes, czars, kings, bishops, and other >enemies of freedom. Hitler comes to mind, of course, but that's too obvious.
>Martin Luther turned against the Jews when he realized that they weren't going >to convert to his version of Christianity. Lots of others. The country could be >Germany, Russia, England, Spain or many others.

Very good. Martin Luther is correct. Sort of sounds like Hitler, doesn't he?

BTW, for the totally out-of-touch-with-reality among us (that's you Dwight, read this), Martin Luther is the FOUNDER of the protestant form of christianity. The quote comes from Shirer's "The Rise And Fall of the Third Reich" and points out that Luther was a VERY strong influence on Hitler's thinking and doctrine.

>Heck, it could be somebody like JEdgar Hoover, but we don't have lots of >Gypsies in the USA.

Naw. Hoover was too busy molesting young boys with his pedophile lover Purvey [sp?] to bother with Jews and Gypsies.

>> Let's see how good your knowledge of history is. Who is the >>person I refer to above?
>>
>See above. There are many candidates.

You got him correctly.

See! You CAN pass academic tests! You get a star on your paper!

Whoops! I forgot. I can't put that there--it's a satanic symbol.

Never mind.

>The concepts of religious tolerance and separation of church and state are very >new ones, historically speaking. Many who fled here to escape religious >persecution (like the Puritans) turned into the persecutors when they became >established in their new land.

True.

>Here's a question for you: When and where did the ideas of separation of church >and state, and universal religious tolerance, first become established in the >USA?

Among the Native Americans, actually.

If you are looking for the first time the term "separation of church and state" was used, otoh, the phrase, "a wall of separation between church and state," was coined by President Thomas Jefferson in a carefully crafted letter to the Danbury Baptists in 1802, when they had asked him to explain the First Amendment.

Finally, if you are looking for the first PRACTICE of religious tolerance in the US--among whites, of course (the Native Americans DID practice it for quite a while before whites considered the concept, but since they were pagans that probably doesn't count to you), depending on your interpretation of "religious tolerance" you probably are referring to either New York, Pennsylvania, or Maryland (probably Pennsylvania). If you want to be more specific, I'll be glad to do so as well.

>>>Most religions have feast days because people need them, spiritually and >>>psychologically. For example, most European religions have some sort of >>winter >>>equinox
>
>Actually, solstice.

That's not me you are quoting--it's someone else in the thread.

>>celebration because of the effects lack of daylight causes in many >>>people. For peoples with limited understanding of how the seasons and >>weather >>>work, and with limited artificial lighting, the loss of the Sun at the end
>>of >>>December could be very disturbing.
>
>(Solstice)

Same here.

>>>celebrations, whatever they are >>>called, remind us that the Light will return and spring will comne again. It >>>was natural for the Christians to put Christmas on the first day when the >>>daylight gets noticeably longer using simple methods of measurement.
>>
>> Which "conveniently" fell directly on a Pagan festival day, of >>course, as did other Christian holy days.
>
>So? The purpose was the same. The sun doesn't cooperate just because humans >convert. Having feast days on other days would be an admission that the pagan >religions had priority.

Weak.

>>>> The pentagram, for your information, was a religious symbol in >>>>Egypt, Macedonia, Sumeria, Greece, Rome, China, India, and among the >>>>Norse peoples--NONE of which groups "stole" it from Christianity.
>>>
>>>The Egyptians, Greeks and Romans hid it pretty well.
>>
>> Not particularly, if you examine the writings of the time (in >>Rome and Greece at least). It appears there with regularity. That it >>isn't used often in buildings is irrelevant--how many Christian >>churches do you see with a prominent image of a fish--the ORIGNIAL >>symbol of Christianity?
>
>Plenty. Do you know WHY the fish was a symbol?

Because there's something fishy about the religion? Because it stinks? Because it eats anything smaller than itself w/o reservation?
Because it's pretty dumb?

Yes, as it happens, I DO know why the fish was a symbol.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3825. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:13:56 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <55D97E2ACB0E3038.FC8E69B7B8BC17C6.5097E427BEB0C82A@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26772

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 17:56:17 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> I sure would. If something is wrong, and if something >> is believed because of wrong perceptions, wrongfully >> placed concepts, then it's still wrong. Thank goodness >> our forefathers believed that.
>
>
> Kim, you can say something is wrong all you want, but that does not >make it wrong - it just makes it your opinion. And, my opinion, and >that of many others, say it is not wrong.

Gee, that sounds like the argument many of us have been making about her call sign.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3826. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:14:48 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26776

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209204556.15992.00000437@mb-fc.aol.com...
> For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had > the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
> communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning > about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out > of it. You think being a Real Ham means plugging the boxes in > correctly, getting the mic plugged into the correct receptacle, and > coordinating the action of the PTT switch with your mouth. Big > Steenking Deal! My 8-year old nephew can do that!

So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet, he drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

3827. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:15:54 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <73523A871B7311E5.DCE97C10C949B0DD.F71F37C62F33825E@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26773

On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 18:00:17 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> You are labeling many of my Wiccan friends, Dwight.
>
>
> No, I'm not "labeling" your friends, Kim. Like I said earlier,
>"satanic" is the common name used by most everyone to describe the >people involved in those activities. I didn't invent the word to >describe them - it is the word commonly used in this country.

Not everyone, Dwight.

Only the ignorant.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3828. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:18:46 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A01E2C0D5B5FD8EA.9ABB07AA6C8A0F13.FC7BEB875AD457C9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26774

On Sun, 09 Dec 2001 16:52:03 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Wiccans cannot do what they claim (witchcraft) and modern pagans are >not at all related to those early religions. In other words, these >people are simply full of it.

What they "claim" genius is that they worship a different set of gods than you do. Why CAN'T they do that?

Dwight, try to learn SOMETHING about a subject before you claim to know about it--otherwise you just sound stupid.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3829. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:20:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <2FDD04E9F7DE9795.04EB014D0EB60B8F.22A5D31CD68DC8F4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26775

On Sat, 8 Dec 2001 22:18:57 -0500, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
wrote:

>You can stick a toothpick in a turd and call it a trophy, but it would still >be a turd.

Shit on a stick?

Hey, Dwight!

A new cuisine for you to try.

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3830. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:31:34 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c142d73_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26777

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C13CDCE.8517C9FE@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Never seen policies, other than "thou shalt not"
> > and that's all that need be said. I'll be in my > > closed door meetings getting some real work > > done. I don't know what you guys are going to do.
>
>
> Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it
> you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly > do behind open doors?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

I don't question why I am called in to Managers' and Supervisors' offices for closed door meetings although, many times, the topic involves things that other employees should not be hearing (hiring decisions, termination decisions, outsourcing decistions, etc.).

I do what I'm told at work, Dwight. I've never experienced a male or female boss acting wrongly. As I said, I suppose that the companies I've worked at have all employed some very adult people--because we all seem to be competent to have closed door meetings without any problems.

Kim W5TIT

3831. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:32:19 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c142db6_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26779

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C13CFC3.279415FE@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Why do you add the "and that of many others" above?
>
>
> It's a polite way of saying, "duh, everybody knows that - except you
> of course."
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Yeah, and we all know your defintion of "everybody."

Kim W5TIT

3832. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:33:20 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c142ddd$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26780

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C13D1B4.BA347D75@sccoast.net...
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > But you certainly don't have any problem repeating > > a commonly held "Christian" misconception without > > knowing the facts.
>
>
> Look, I couldn't give a flying leap who came up with it - it is now
> the widely accepted word used to describe people involved in those > activities. And if you think you can change that situation be fussing > at me about it, let me set you straight - I have no control over it, > nor would I attempt to change it even if I did.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

So, you see Krell, Dwight enjoys spreading rumors.

Kim W5TIT

3833. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:34:34 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <013E602DE634ED7F.728E71F50A93391A.E22A1CD3DBCFA789@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26778

On 09 Dec 2001 05:03:22 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>What too many folks ignore is that we drive so many vehicles so many miles that >we have to import huge amounts of petrol to run them. Paying for that petrol >not only transfers huge amounts of American wealth overseas, but transfers some >of it to the very folks who want to destroy us.

You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress to legalize it as a cash crop.

If we REALLY want to reduce dependance on petroleum imports, that would be a safe, sane, and forward thinking solution (modern cars
CAN be converted to run on it--in fact several concept cars are on the roads running on it now)--but that's asking WAY too much of our congress critters.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3834. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:34:36 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c142e3b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26781

I think I pretty much understand, Rick. Dwight doesn't know your
"everybody." ROFLMAO!!!

Kim W5TIT

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:A75D1BB15FED0B25.F7BAFA66FF1CB303.E04FC8A2295CBB5F@lp.airnews.net...
> On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 17:44:37 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > When that is all you've offered me, yes. And, again, sending me to > >sites supporting polygamous relationships, which offer only material > >supporting that, is hardly offering me an unbiased source. Likewise, > >the information on those sites is hardly worthwhile since it only > >presents only a single view (that supporting polygamous relationships).
>
> 1. I provided both biased and unbiased cites, you choose only > to mention the biased ones.
>
> 2. Even the biased ones are appropriate--you didn't ask what > everyone thought about it, you asked about the actual facts about the > lifestyles--and fairly obviously, apart from scientific research, the > logical place to find out about the lifestyles is from the people who > are actually involved in them. Who would you SUGGEST I cite, those who > oppose them? Why? How is it possible that THEY would know more about > what effects the experience has on a marriage (the core of the > question) than those who have EXPERIENCED it?
>
> >> (snip) Incidently, your analogy to the KKK,
> >> if true, would make it pretty clear that if > >> someone wants information on ham radio the LAST > >> place to look would be the ARRL site, since > >> that's biased in favor of it. (snip)
> >
> > Actually, the KKK analogy is a valid one in this case. Like the KKK > >sites, or the ARRL site for that matter, the sites you offered present > >only one view, one position. That hardly makes those sites worthwhile
> >if one wants the complete story about this issue. As for your mention > >of the ARRL site, if I wanted information about ham radio as an issue, > >I would indeed not visit ONLY that site. I would instead attempt to > >find sites that offered a more balanced view, or visit a range of > >sites with different views.
>
> But, of course, we're not discussing non-monogamous > relationships as an "issue." The relationships, unlike radio frequency > allocations or licensing laws, is not a public issue in the first > place--it's a matter of personal choice, just as the choice between > having children and not having children is. Thus the logical places to > learn about it are either from research (which I cited and you > ignored) or from those who have experienced the lifestyle. If you > wanted to learn what ham radio was all about you would ask hams, not > freebanders.

>
> >> (snip) outside of sending you to religious sites
> >> where they will "prove" (by recourse to the > >> bible, of course, their ONLY source of > >> information on the topic) that such behavior is
> >> "sinful" and "wrong." Since that's pretty much > >> what you appear to believe, (snip)
> >
> > Well, I certainly think that type of behavior is wrong, but I'm not > >basing that on any religious belief ("sinful"). In fact, I don't even > >understand why liberals always start screaming about religion
> >everytime someone takes a moral stand against anything liberals > >support?
>
> Because, apart from religious prejudice, there IS no > legitimate reason to claim that the behavior is "wrong." It can be > shown NOT to have an adverse effect on its practitioners or their > children, thus it is not "wrong" in the sense of causing harm to > others. Beyond that, if you leave religious morality out of it what > grounds EXIST to view it as either "right" OR "wrong?"
>
> Taking a "moral stand" indicates the application of a set of > moral values. In some cases those values come from the nature of the > act itself (i.e., we all tend to agree that rape, murder, etc., are > "wrong" because we share that moral value)--clearly this is NOT the > case when it comes to consensual relationships. In other cases we take > those values from the moral teachings or principles of others--most of > the time from those of organized religions. In the case of the > "morality" of various sexual lifestyles, the ONLY possible source for > the view that a relationship or consensual behavior is "immoral" is > religion.
>
> > Do liberals think it is impossible to have a moral belief > >without involving religion? Do all liberals think there are only two > >alternatives - religion or everything goes?
>
> I wouldn't know. As I keep repeating, and you appear > completely unable to remember, I'm NOT A LIBERAL!!!!!!!!!!
>
> It may be convenient to keep ignoring those parts of messages > that don't fit your preconceptions, but it also marks you as being > rather shallow, intellectually.
>

> > If that is what you think, > >you're wrong. It's not just religious fanatics who are opposed to the > >liberal nonsense in this country.
>
> Yes, I know. I'm opposed to "liberal nonsense" too!
>
> I just happen to support the right of people to make their own > lifestyle choices and to be treated with respect regardless of the > choices they make instead of condemning and looking down on them as > right wing fanatics tend to do.
>
> That don't make me liberal--it makes me libertarian.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3835. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:37:48 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c142eeb_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26783

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C13DCF1.92C7D468@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Is that kind of like dodging any responsiblity
> > for the way you feel and think about the Wiccan
> > and other Pagan traditions? OK, so you did not > > personally come up with the popular thought > > that pagan traditions are satanic in nature.
> > Do you subscribe to the opinion, or not?
>
>
> No, it is not a way to dodge responsibility - no more then using any > other word is a way to dodge responsibility. And if you really want MY > opinion about this, I think these people are all a bunch of frauds who > have latched onto this nonsense to impress their ignorant friends.
> Wiccans cannot do what they claim (witchcraft) and modern pagans are > not at all related to those early religions. In other words, these > people are simply full of it.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Dwight, your hole of ignorance on this topic is so large now, that you've fallen in and can't get out. You are so very ignorant of these topics it's really not even worth going any farther with you... Go have a safe open door meeting.

Kim W5TIT

3836. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:43:20 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <sbWQ7.150695$WW.9767493@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26782
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Thanks, Landshark. Geeze, when will everyone lighten up? You and yours be sure and have a merry Christmas too!

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message news:DsQQ7.2767$9%6.383614125@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com...
> Forge. please see previous post for > explanation.
>
> Landshark
>
>
> --
> Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All
>
>
> <timnebo@aol.comLOL> wrote in message news:9v0h4ncde1@news.netmar.com...
> > In article <9uv7n1bhh1@news.netmar.com>, <timnebo@aol.comLOL> writes:
> > >I dont see what is the big deal about this FCC crap I have been hearing.
> I > > >have DXed all over the world on my TS-840 and amplifier both on ham bands
> > and > > >on freeband and I have yet to run into any hassles from the FCC. The only > > >trouble I get is from stcuk up hams. Damn youd think they were afraid of > > >there own shadow the way they go on about Riley this and Riley that.
> This
> > is > > >what I tell people who ask me about my radio setup: if you want to get > > >started in the radio hobby and your smart why not do as I do and just > jump
> > >in. The reason ham radio hobby is dieing is they made it too controlled.
> You
> > >dont need the code and who wants to give up their freedoms by giving the > > >government more information they can use to violate your privacy anyway.
> I

> > >dont. Everyone knows the code will be dropped and then the test will be > > >dropped for ham radio and finally there will be no more licenses. If more > > >people just got on then the government would have to give up and let us
> do > > >what we want regardless of there rules and we could speed the whole > process
> > >up.
> > >
> > > 73 de Tim
> > > Knight Patrol #82
> > >
> > >WARNING
> > >No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > > >Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
> Groups.
> > >Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
> >
> > Hey guys you can take this as a forge I dont really care. If you think me
> and > > a lot of other freebanders give two shits about fcc and licenses then
you > > need to wake and take a listen on the bands. Ha ha yeah I use a modded ham > > radio but never go off the cb band yeah right. What I say and what I do
> are > > two diferent things. You old fart hams need to lighten up on freebanders > > because we are soon going to overtake you and thats no joke.
> >
> > 73 de Tim
> > Knight Patrol #82
> >
> > WARNING
> > No Code amatuers Douglas Adair N8WWM and Leland C Scott KC8LDO Have Been > > Forging My Email Address While Posting To Several Web Sites And News
> Groups.
> > Just Do As I Do And Ignore Them.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >

> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
> eb -----
> > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
> groups
> > NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other
posts
> > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
> abuse@newsone.net
>
>

3837. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:45:26 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1430b3_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26784

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C13ED30.18FCDC0D@sccoast.net...
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > >
> > > (snip) By the way, Dave, we should bestow sainthood > > > on anyone who can always figure out what Kim is > > > talking about.
> >
> > That is a problem, Dwight. Those who are beatified and > > awaiting their chance for sainthood are, well...dead.
>
>
> That sounds about right, Dave. Nobody alive can always understand > what Kim is talking about.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Dwight, everybody knows that people do not always understand each other.
Good grief.

Kim W5TIT

3838. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:46:43 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c143100_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26785

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9v10e202i9s@enews2.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C13D1B4.BA347D75@sccoast.net...
> > Look, I couldn't give a flying leap who came up with it - it is now
> > the widely accepted word used to describe people involved in those > > activities. And if you think you can change that situation be fussing > > at me about it, let me set you straight - I have no control over it, > > nor would I attempt to change it even if I did.
> >
> >
> > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> This only proves that you will adhere to any lie that suits your own bias.
I > think I'll save this for future reference. You do more damage to your > credibility with this statement than any of us could ever do.
>
>

Absolutely. (Dwight and Dave won't understand if I go any further).

Kim W5TIT

3839. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:53:42 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1432a5_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26786

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:1200815ACF53777A.C39BB3E8A83E4591.E19C72FDEEFDD3FA@lp.airnews.net...
> On Sat, 08 Dec 2001 16:08:59 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> >Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >>
> >> I sure do wish people would be just a little less > >> cynical about "sources." Dwight, a site that > >> supports polygamous relationships is probably full
> >> of expert opinions from those who practice > >> polygamy. Just as probably one of the best sources
> >> for cancer information would be from a site
> >> sponsored by an agency that supports cancer
> >> research, The American Cancer Society.
> >>
> >>
> > I'm not cynical about sources, Kim. I'm cynical about sources that > >only offer one perspective on a issue. In other words, a source that > >is not unbiased. For example, the American Cancer Society you > >mentioned is obviously not promoting cancer, therefore they are a good > >source of information. The sites Rick offered are promoting satanism.
>
> Let me get this straight. The sites I provided dealing with > polyamory, swinging, and the sociological research surrounding those > issues are satanic?
>

ROFLMAO...

>
> Dwight, you have satanism on the brain. Go get exorcised and > come back with at least a small amount of insight into what you are > talking about.
>
> Incidently, to carry your cancer analogy further, you claim > that the ACS site is not promoting cancer so it is not biased. BUT if > I am interested in knowing about PREVENTING or TREATING cancer, since > the ACS site DOES have a bias toward those actions, it clearly is NOT > the right source of information--I need to find sites that oppose > prevention and treatment instead, right?
>
> No?
>
> Then why is it if information about polyamory or swinging is > desired, sites that support (SUPPORT Dwight, not promote) these topics > are any less appropriate?

>
> Oh, I forgot. It's because you don't AGREE with those sites, > right?
>
> >> Now, on political stuff, all bets are off. I am no > >> more likely to be inspired to a different way of > >> thinking about something because I read or listen
> >> to someone like, say, Rush Limbaugh; just as you > >> would not be by reading something out of > >> Sojourners Truth (think that was the name of the > >> magazine) or National Public Radio.
> >
> >
> > And I would add any site which attempts to propagandize to that list > >(which would include the sites Rick offered). I asked him for unbiased > >sources, not pro-satanism propaganda sites.
>
> I didn't provide you ANY sites dealing with wicca or paganism,
> you idiot--I provided (at your demand) sites dealing with polyamory > and swinging--as Kim CORRECTLY pointed out in her first paragraph.
>

Hey, Dwight and Dave are totally confused and can't tell what I am saying.
Uh, here Dwight is totally confused on topics, apparently. Am I responsible for that? <BEG>.

>
> Out of respect for the other readers, at least TRY to pay > attention to what you are talking about.
>
> Show me ONE SITE I provided an url for that has anything to do > with satanism, wicca, or pagan faiths AT ALL!
>
> >> My question to you is, if you are not willing to > >> accept the information that is offered as part of > >> an offer of education about a certain topic, then > >> why even debate. And, the likelihood that you will > >> find an absolute independent source for topics of > >> discussion is nearly, if not, nil.
> >
> > I don't accept the "offer of education" because (1) I don't need the > >education (I've studied this subject before),
>
> Which one? The one you THINK you are talking about, or the one > everyone else is talking about?
>

The word Dwight prefers, Rick, is 'everybody.' Of course, that's his everybody, not yours, or mine, or anyone else's.

>
> You ASKED for sites, Dwight, now that they were provided you > claim you "don't need the education." Then why ask in the first place?
>
> Also, you claim you have "studied this subject before." Which > subject, Dwight? Open marriage (of which you CLEARLY know nothing) or > Wicca (of which you ALSO know nothing)? Or something altogether > different that no one but you even thinks we're talking about?
>
> >(2) the "education"
> >offered covered no new ground (I've seen the stuff on those sites many > >times before),
>
> Really?
>
> Is that why you keep referring to poly sites as "satanic" in > this post?
>
> Maybe you should have taken the time to READ what was on the > sites you claim you've "seen many times before."
>
> >and (3) the "education" offered was nothing more than > >biased propaganda (not education).
>
> How can you tell--you don't know enough about the subject to > compare the two. You don't even accept a legitimate sociological > research paper as unbiased--what do you need, something that agrees > with your sick view of human relations before you'll say something is > unbiased?
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Oh, goodness... Now I've got the giggles. Who's confused? Dwight, you, or me?

Kim W5TIT

3840. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:54:38 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1432db_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26787

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:EF80FDFEE3C68AC2.91C3CABAECA2D66D.33833E40DB73424F@lp.airnews.net...
> On Sun, 09 Dec 2001 15:47:12 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it
> >you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly > >do behind open doors?
>
> Discuss confidential business.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Dwight's company must not have any of that.

Kim W5TIT

3841. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 03:55:23 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c14330d$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26788

History's also loaded with folks who claim to know about religions who do not.

Kim W5TIT

"Dick Carroll" <dickc58@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:3C1416D9.83EF4642@worldnet.att.net...
> One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists > "proving" whatever they want proved.
>
>
>

3842. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:02:53 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <664166C7DBDD1F15.5BA0A8356030743E.6D7910B71599D923@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26789

On 09 Dec 2001 22:40:27 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>In article <3C130706.F06E2814@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
><wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:
>
>>>
>>> > >Rearrabge the letters in "Santa" and you get "Satan". How convenient!
>>> >
>>> > devil spelled backward is "lived"
>>
>>Devils are a hockey team in NJ.....
>>
>The Jacksonville Jaguars are usually called "Jags"
>
>The Tampa Bay Buccaneers are usually called the "Bucs"
>
>And the members of the Tennessee team.....

Always lose?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

3843. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:10:12 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c143686_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 26790

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:013E602DE634ED7F.728E71F50A93391A.E22A1CD3DBCFA789@lp.airnews.net...
> On 09 Dec 2001 05:03:22 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >What too many folks ignore is that we drive so many vehicles so many miles that > >we have to import huge amounts of petrol to run them. Paying for that petrol > >not only transfers huge amounts of American wealth overseas, but transfers some > >of it to the very folks who want to destroy us.
>
> You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to > legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for > production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we > want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an > automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a > renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily > extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
> Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress > to legalize it as a cash crop.
>
> If we REALLY want to reduce dependance on petroleum imports,
> that would be a safe, sane, and forward thinking solution (modern cars
> CAN be converted to run on it--in fact several concept cars are on the > roads running on it now)--but that's asking WAY too much of our > congress critters.
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Yes, and while I am not up on all the alternative fuels and ideas for alternative fuels, I am aware that public policy and government process usually don't coincide with each other on the matter.

I know and admire the folks who continue to try for sound environmental policies and themselves live and sacrifice a great deal to feel their part i n helping out. I gave up. I'm more selfish than they are, obviously.

Kim W5TIT

3844. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:40:14 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209234014.15992.00000443@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26793

In article <3c137e31$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Whew, that's for sure. I know some folks working in downtown with me that, >if they decided to give DART (Dallas Area Rapid Transit [rapid being their >loosely used term*]) a try, would take about 2 1/2 hours to get to work!
>Then, they'd have to leave a few hours early to get home at a decent hour.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Hmmm -- interesting. However, I don't believe it! In any case, if it really did take someone 2ï¿½ hours to get to work, then I'd say that person was more than justified in driving instead of using public transit. Perhaps some kind of Park and Ride scheme, where the commuter parked at an outlying bus/train transfer station and rode the rest of the way in, would be the answer. I'm sure DART has such a program in effect; most large transit agencies do.

BTW -- I work for the other "DART." My company is called the Delaware Transit Corporation, but we go by our original name, DART First State -- DART meaning "Delaware Administration for Regional Transit." Read all about us at www.dartfirststate.com.

73 de Larry, K3LT

3845. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:40:15 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209234015.15992.00000444@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26791

In article <B815B546EE340A84.76A6B47205F92099.318662A5F3D31C08@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> 2. It is perfectly legal for a completely blind individual to >obtain a hunting permit--and to hunt--in Michigan. The only >stipulation is that the hunter MUST be accompanied by another licensed >hunter who will be responsible for insuring that the blind hunter is >firing at a legitimate target. The assistant, however, may (as a court >has ruled!) likewise be blind!
>
> Go figure.
>
> Rick

Hmmm. I think I'd better cancel that deer hunting trip in Michigan!
I don't want to end up tied to the fender of some Michigan blind hunter's car, as he's driving home from the field!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3846. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:40:15 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209234015.15992.00000445@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26792

In article <C85FB6354CF4D59D.20AAC9A4DB4D29D1.50101C81E308AAF4@lp.airnews.net>, Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>He only imagines that he has that problem even NOW.
>
> Do I?
>
> Name a _single_ one of the rights enumerated in the first ten >Amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) that hasn't been >abrogated by a Republican government in which a member of the Bush >dynasty was either Vice President or President.
>
> Just ONE!

Rick:

As far as I know, neither the Bush administration or the Reagan administration has abrogated anyone's Right To Keep And Bear Arms. As a matter of fact, it could be said that the Reagan administration, with George Bush
as VP, went a bit overboard in trying to guarantee the Right To Keep And Bear Arms for the Nicauraguan Contra rebels!

That's ONE!!!

BTW -- I don't know how to check this, but I'm pretty sure the Bush's haven't forced anyone to house any military troops in their homes, either!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3847. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:42:04 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <w2XQ7.150758$WW.9773970@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26794

Larry, I had the opportunity to get comms going in a pinch in the Navy. The problem was that the 'trained' radiomen did not understand front end overloading of a receiver! They reported the station on Rota as 'loud, but garbled'. We got comms going on SSB just fine (that was a first for me - calling 'sparkplug one this is KG6AAY, but, heck, it WAS an emergency and I wan't in charge anyways). However, I must admit after reading (and posting) to the CB newsgroup, that I am rethinking my position on CW. I think we need to turn 10 and 12 meters into CW only (with a bit at the top for the existing 10 meter FM repeaters). AM and SSB will not bother CW communications (even given a 10 dB advantage) and will quickly point out the imposters. Just a thought.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011209105501.15992.00000414@mb-fc.aol.com...
> In article <%nvQ7.255664$W8.9501361@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>, "JAMES > HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> writes:
>
> >
> >Let's be honest. When I was in the Navy, we had to memorize the entire > >baudot code. Didn't really need it, but reading a lot of uppercase got one > >to the point you really COULD read uppercase. Rules and regs (safety > >wouldn't hurt a bit either, both AC mains power as well as rf power) make > >for a good starting point. I'd be less concerned that an individual know CW > >than how to get communications going in an emergency.
> >
> >73 from Rochester, NY
> >Jim AA2QA
>
> What better way to get comms going in an emergency than by > being proficient in Morse/CW?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

3848. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:50:08 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209235008.15992.00000446@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26795

In article <3c142eeb_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Dwight, your hole of ignorance on this topic is so large now, that you've >fallen in and can't get out. You are so very ignorant of these topics it's >really not even worth going any farther with you... Go have a safe open >door meeting.
>
>Kim W5TIT

Dwight:

Wow -- Kim just called you "ignorant!" Man, THAT really hurts!
I'm surprised she didn't include a scathing ROTFLMAO!!!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3849. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:50:08 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 26796

In article <9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
writes:

>
>So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet, he >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
>

Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!

73 de Larry, K3LT

3850. Re: Damn Code!!!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 04:59:05 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112092059.26fa77af@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26797
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.shortwave,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:<3C130EAD.6E17C73E@ix.netcom.com>...
> Brian Kelly wrote:
>
> >
> > >
> > > A Real Ham runs the mode that works on the specific freq at the > > > specific time, if there's a new one on EME for instance and you need > > > to log him a Real Ham runs the mode of the moment, doesn't matter if > > > we're talking 2m or 160m.
>
> EME in 160 meters? I suppose if two ham stations use balloon lifted > 160 m yagis and operated 1KW CW when the Moon is directly > overhead..... Of course it would not work on a windy day.
> Going directly up should help punch through the ionosphere. NO > fair hearing ground wave....
>
>
Aw c'mon, gimmee a break Casey! I missed inserting one lousy period in my diatribe, go play with a radio.

3851. Re: Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:03:12 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C144210.AD8512C6@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26798

What was the callsign of the operator aboard the UFO?
Is he good in the callbook? Send him a QSL card?

:-)

3852. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:11:10 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1443EE.3E08C6A8@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26799

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Never seen policies, other than "thou shalt not"
> > and that's all that need be said. I'll be in my > > closed door meetings getting some real work > > done. I don't know what you guys are going to do.
>
> Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it
> you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly > do behind open doors?
>

They always close the door when you get layed off.
Also when it's review time (where the boss has to find something you suck at, no matter how good you are.).

3853. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:16:12 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C14451C.3F477C32@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26800

>
> >
> >> Well, I wasn't expecting the Spanish Inquisition!
> >
> >NOT THE SPANISH INQISITION!!!
> >
> The best known phrase is:
>
> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
>
> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with soft > cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".
>

And there was the scene at the end of the show where the inquisidor gets cut off in the middle of his line....

3854. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:23:57 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1446ED.D809169@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26851

```
>
>
> >Two wrongs don't make a right.

But 3 wrongs raised to the 4th power DO make a right. :-)

>
>
> See! You CAN pass academic tests! You get a star on your > paper!
>
> Whoops! I forgot. I can't put that there--it's a satanic > symbol.
>

We're in big trouble now. There's a certain country that has 50 of them on its flag. Wait, that's our country.
Oh sh*t.....

<darwin><
" "
```

3855. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:27:50 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1447D6.907EB8AD@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26852

> modern pagans are > not at all related to those early religions.

Thought the pagans were a motorcycle club....

3856. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:30:00 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <sLXQ7.150799$WW.9779321@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26853

Although not directed at me, I must answer this one. I do NOT work in feet.
If you wish to work in meters-kilograms-seconds or centimeters-grams-seconds, fine. Just leave me out of the British units, thanks. What ever you may think, stones and slugs leave me cold. Besides, radio is a little teensie bit more than constucting a dipole.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com...
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011209204556.15992.00000437@mb-fc.aol.com...
> > For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had > > the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
> > communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning > > about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out > > of it. You think being a Real Ham means plugging the boxes in > > correctly, getting the mic plugged into the correct receptacle, and > > coordinating the action of the PTT switch with your mouth. Big > > Steenking Deal! My 8-year old nephew can do that!
>
> So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet, he > drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
>
>
>
>

3857. Re: Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:30:55 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <jMXQ7.150801$WW.9779425@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26854

Don't sweat it. It's a forge.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C144210.AD8512C6@ix.netcom.com...
>
> What was the callsign of the operator aboard the UFO?
> Is he good in the callbook? Send him a QSL card?
>
> :-)
>

3858. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:35:42 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1449AE.DE159B95@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26855

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
Sooo -- Kim -- if you could just walk to the corner, board a bus that > took you to within a block of your workplace, shopping center, or > whatever, and got you back, all within a reasonable time frame (less > than 20 min. wait) -- you wouldn't use it? Even if the total cost to > you was a fraction of the cost of operating your personal automobile... > and considering the fact that you're already paying for the subsidized > portion of that public transit service through your state and federal taxes?

> I know one thing for damn sure -- If I could make use of public transit
> in getting myself to and from my work place (which IS the local transit > agency, BTW!), I would use it! The only thing that prevents me from > doing so is that the fixed-route busses in my city stop running at 6 PM,
> and I work at least until 8:30 PM every day!

They won't let you drive your bus to your home? I suppose it'd be too big to fit in the driveway anyway.

I wonder who won that bus they gave away when one of the TV networks showed the movie "Speed" back in 1996? And if they still have it.

3859. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:39:06 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <C9D7E7BF83420912.23DCDA8B92444475.CB1CBB6D20029623@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26858

On 10 Dec 2001 04:50:08 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>In article <9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
>writes:
>
>>Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency >>in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet, he >>drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
>>
>
>Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!

Yes, but what constant do you use to get it in furlongs? :)

(We should start really confusing the crap out of people; refer to bands by their wavelengths in, say, cubits. For UHF, we can use barleycorns)

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

3860. Re: The Morsodist Religion

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:45:48 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C144C0C.1AB1BB10@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26856

Richard McCollum wrote:

> "K0HB" <k0hb@qwest.net> wrote in message
> news:b7c5262e.0112091705.4c5a6958@posting.google.com...
> > kelly@dvol.com (Brian Kelly) wrote in message
> >
> > > > > And if they say that you are shutting your eyes to reality, > > > > > you can reply that they are shutting their eyes to Morse.
> > > > >
> > > > > Peace to all of you!
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > Jesus Christ Hans Ham Radio is only a HOBBY!
> > >
> > > > w3rv
> > >
> > Verily I sayeth unto thee, not if thou do-eth it right!
> > Takest thou heed, lest the wrath of Carroll and Roll
> > decendeth upon thy head with holy vigor.
> >
> > May the Morse be with thee,
> >
> > de Hans, K0HB
> >
> No, Hans, No! Not the Holy Hand Grenade.

And thou shall count to 3. Thou shall not count to 2 unless thou shall then proceed on to 3. 4 is right out.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++
"Man with hole in pocket feel cocky."

3861. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:47:45 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C144C81.56784D74@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26857

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> Robert Casey wrote:
> >
> > I'll start a discount house of worship, next > > to Target and Kmart.... :-)
>
> Rmart? "R" for religion?
>
>

Heard Bill Sau Hargous beat me to it. He also started "Holyland USA" in Delreo TX, the first religious amusement park....

3862. Re: Smiley Riley

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:49:47 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C144CFB.6E6E970F@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26859
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

```
>
>
> > Uh oh, sorry gotta run, there's a computer customer up front......back > later.
>
> And they depend upon you to sell them something?
> How ironic.
```

Guess he must work for either Fry's, CompUSA, or Radio Shack....

3863. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:52:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C144D76.9B39492B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26860

Krell wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011209204556.15992.00000437@mb-fc.aol.com...
> > For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had > > the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
> > communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning > > about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out > > of it. You think being a Real Ham means plugging the boxes in > > correctly, getting the mic plugged into the correct receptacle, and > > coordinating the action of the PTT switch with your mouth. Big > > Steenking Deal! My 8-year old nephew can do that!
>
> So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet, he
> drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

Uhhh...Krell? 468 is the number generally used. I've seen the 492 figure used for inverted vee antennas. Go sit in the corner with the old timer.

Dave K8MN

3864. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 05:58:46 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C144F16.B76C94FD@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26861

Dick Carroll wrote:

> One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists
> "proving" whatever they want proved.

Like those clowns who came up with "creationism" to get their religious views into public schools. God wasn't going to try to tell some ignorant shephards
all about evolution and the Big Bang,
so we ended up with some lame story about Adam and Eve and apples, etc. Besides, if Adam and Eve were the first humans, how could they have grandchildern without their childern doing incest?

In the Catholic church, we don't get bothered by the theory of evolution.

3865. Re: Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 06:01:33 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <B84B21FB4CA5ECFC.DA48D0DB0568B644.ABBBA88DFFC77309@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26864

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 00:03:12 -0500, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>What was the callsign of the operator aboard the UFO?

Why bother? There are plenty of Uncouth Farting Objects on the regular bands.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

3866. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 06:02:07 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0112092202.44dc429e@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26862

Rick Adams wrote...
>
> But you DO have the alternative (as do I) of > moving to an area where public transportation
> is available. (snip)

So your suggested solution to the transportation needs of the elderly is to simply tell them to move where public transportation is available. Nice guy.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3867. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 06:02:52 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C14500C.90B11EDE@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26863
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Trouser Trout wrote:

> Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will show
> this.
>

"Candygram!"

3868. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 06:22:23 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0112092222.ac89878@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26865

> Rick Adams wrote
>
> (snip) Provide the specific definition in > its entirety and the source of the quote.

I've already done so, Rick. The fact that you don't like the definition is not my problem.

> (snip) I'll accept that ludicrous statement
> WHEN YOU PROVIDE PROOF, not simply because > you state it--you are wrong FAR too often
> for that. (snip)

Prove it for yourself, Rick. Like I said, walk down any street in this country and ask people to identify the practices of satanism. I'm certain 99 percent, both religious and non-religious, would list these very things (witchcraft, occult, etc). Your choice to argue with me rather than proving it for yourself strongly suggests you're afraid of the results.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3869. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 07:11:59 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C14601F.41A3DC0E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26866

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> No, Dwight, I did NOT identify myself as a
> "liberal." I am a libertarian--if you ar > too stupid to know the difference, try looking > in a book (that's one of those things with > covers, pages, and printed words in case you > don't have any experience with them). I _agreed_ > that I would accept the "sixties liberal"
> definition of my earlier years--so what?

Well, your political views would certainly not be described by anyone as conservative, so we'll call you a liberal Libertarian instead. Will that make you feel better?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3870. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 07:57:45 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C146ACF.B9CB6FB1@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26867

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> (snip) But, of course, we're not discussing non-> monogamous relationships as an "issue." The > relationships, unlike radio frequency allocations > or licensing laws, is not a public issue in the > first place--it's a matter of personal choice, > just as the choice between having children and > not having children is. (snip)

Nonsense. You didn't claim it was "personal" when you brought it up as an issue for discussion in this public newsgroup. And you're not going to get away with calling it "personal" now that someone has disagreed with your comments about it in this public newsgroup.

> Because, apart from religious prejudice, > there IS no legitimate reason to claim that the > behavior is "wrong." (snip)

You really are amazing, Rick. Now you think you have the right to decide what is ligitimate and non-ligitimate when it comes to people's opinions, morals, and social ethics.

> (snip) Beyond that, if you leave religious morality > out of it what grounds EXIST to view it as either
> "right" OR "wrong?"

A personal belief that it is wrong, Rick. Just like I believe murder is wrong, theft is wrong, and rape is wrong, I also believe non-monogamous relationships are wrong. Are we not allowed to have a personal belief without justifying it with something besides our own personal gut feelings on the matter?

> Taking a "moral stand" indicates the application of > a set of moral values. (snip) In the case of the > "morality" of various sexual lifestyles, the ONLY > possible source for the view that a relationship > or consensual behavior is "immoral" is religion.

Absurd, Rick. Morality is nothing more than the rightness or wrongness of an action. In other words, no religion is required for morility to exist. And morality (the rightness or wrongness of an action) is commonplace even where religion plays no part. For example, most people in this country believe that "consensual" sex between an adult and a child is wrong, but very few base that on religion. Nor is that belief based on the "nature of the act itself." Instead, it is based on a belief that children have to be protected from an manipulative adult.

> I wouldn't know. As I keep repeating, and you > appear completely unable to remember, I'm NOT > A LIBERAL!!!!!!!!!!

Of course you're a liberal, Rick. Nobody in their right mind would call you a conservative. And you're way out there on the left even when compared to the average Libertarian.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3871. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 08:00:50 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <SYZQ7.150916$WW.9789945@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26868
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

Heck, do what I did 35 years ago when W2OY tried to jam me. Be nice.
Reduce your bandwidth. Any idea as to what 40 WPM of CW will do to an AM (or SSB) signal? I had a nice 30 minute chat after Mike sat on the frequency. I can assure you, his blood pressure likely doubled. I still had a solid QSO for half an hour and didn't even hear him. Nice thing about CW - it's legal anywhere within the amateur bands.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9uvriomdcd@pita.alt.net...
>
> "Tough Tits Rumpranger" <RumprangerTwiddlesLittle
> Boys@harharharharidiot.com> wrote in message
> news:9uu2ng$6c2$0@pita.alt.net...
>
> Poor Twatty Campbell.
>
> > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> news:9utti6$s8g$4@pita.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "DT" <DT2314@ncvillage.net> wrote in message
> > > news:23871.0000054@ncvillage.net...
> > > > >
> > > > On Thu, 6 Dec 2001 09:20:25 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > So you're saying you're advocating illegal jamming to interfere
> with > > > > > another ham's QSO. That says a lot about your following Part 97, > > doesn't
> > > > it?
> > > > > BTW, N4CND was the one using profanity, not W4AMP.
> > > > >
> > > > That's exactly what I'm saying. Just like the CBers, the FCC has > > > > abandoned enforcement of ham radio rules. If we don't take care of > > > > ourselves, nobody will. So I'm perfectly willing to jam Dimmy until
> he > > > > shuts up.
> > >
> > So you're part of the problem, instead of the solution. Vigilanteism > went > > > out a long time ago, but, I suppose you're so backward that you still > > think
> > > it's a viable defense.

> > >
> > > > I'll jam you too if necessary. That's the way it has to be now.
> > >
> > > cc: rholling@fcc.gov.
> > >
> > > We'll see about that.
> > >
> > >
> > Talk tough Roger talk tough, I know it gets all your little > > radio geek buddies excited. Boy what a collection of radio > > fruits in the radio groups.
>
> You'll fit right in.
>
>
> > We've come to get to know many > > of them to where we can post stuff that gets them all > > excited, like what violations they got from Riley and what > > radio groups they're in on what freqs.
>
> And too much of a COWARD to post non-anonymously.
>
>

3872. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 08:03:41 UTC
From: Unclaimed Mysteries <k4doh@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9v1q7s$1n3$1@slb7.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 26869
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C14500C.90B11EDE@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Trouser Trout wrote:
>
> > Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will show
> > this.
> >
>
> "Candygram!"
>

"Mrs. Mhfhmr?"

--

It Came From C. L. Smith's Unclaimed Mysteries.
http://www.unclaimedmysteries.net/
chown -R us /yourbase

3873. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 08:04:57 UTC
From: Unclaimed Mysteries <k4doh@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9v1qgb$712$1@slb4.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 26870
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

<timnebo@aol.comLOL> wins a Tom Ridge Bobblehead Doll for writing in part:

>
> 73 de Tim
> Knight Patrol #82

Forgery or not, I think they're so cute when they make up their own nicknames like that.

--
It Came From C. L. Smith's Unclaimed Mysteries.
http://www.unclaimedmysteries.net

Willie <willie@waylonsplace.net> wrote in alabama.sports.auburn: "Because I know your THE AUTHORITY."

3874. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 08:55:21 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C147844.D5C00D0A@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26871

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> (snip) Let me get this straight. The sites I > provided dealing with polyamory, swinging, and > the sociological research surrounding those > issues are satanic?

Sorry, I had just finished responding to six or seven messages from you about satanism when I wrote that. Of course, it doesn't really make any difference which topic is discussed when it comes to the core of Kim's comments - the accuracy or reliability of information sources. In other words, I addressed her core argument, not the peripherial context.

> I didn't provide you ANY sites dealing with wicca
> or paganism, you idiot--I provided (at your demand) > sites dealing with polyamory and swinging--as Kim > CORRECTLY pointed out in her first paragraph.

Idiot? Look, fool, are you going to sit there and claim that you've never overlooked a minor point while addressing a core argument? It doesn't matter whether we're talking about satanisn or non-monogamous relationships when it comes to Kim's argument about the accuracy or reliability of information sources. And, since you obviously knew exactly which sites I was referring to, why would you make such a big issue out of a simple oversite other than to continue your efforts to belittle?

> (snip) Which subject, Dwight? Open marriage (snip) or > Wicca (snip)

Either one, Rick. I know this is going to surprise you, but your ramblings are not the first I've read on either of these topics. Indeed, most of your comments are nothing more than the repetitive garbage I've read in these newsgroups at least a dozen times before. And, since I've been around for a few years, these newsgroups are not the first time I've seen either of these topic either.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3875. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 09:04:12 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C147A54.17ECF8D5@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26872

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> ROFLMAO...

What are you laughing about, Kim? I've always been polite enough not to belittle you when you've posted messages that were unrelated the topic being discussed. Heck, at least my message addressed the core issue you raised (the accuracy or reliability of information sources), even if it didn't specifically address the context. Can you honestly say all your messages have even done that? Be careful with your answer, because you just posted a message out of a discussion context last night (public transportation for the elderly).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3876. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 09:12:49 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C147C56.CFFF9F64@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26873

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> > Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors > > open. What is it you do in the workplace behind > > closed doors that you cannot possibly do behind > > open doors?
>
> Discuss confidential business.

Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot possibly be discussed with the door open?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3877. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 09:33:00 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C14810D.2AFA5CD7@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26874

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> I do what I'm told at work, Dwight. I've never > experienced a male or female boss acting wrongly.
> As I said, I suppose that the companies I've > worked at have all employed some very adult > people--because we all seem to be competent to > have closed door meetings without any problems.

Well, Kim, there is little reason to continue with this - those are your experiences and these are mine (and both are equally legitimate). But I will end with this simple observation - as soon as a complaint is made at your company, or your company hears of something similar in your area, those doors at your company will fly open and remain that way. As I said, it is happening all around the country and your company is pressing it's luck by not paying attention to that.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3878. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 09:41:46 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C148318.61A433F9@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26875

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Yeah, and we all know your defintion of "everybody."

Well, what is your definition, Kim? My "everybody" is far more inclusive than your concept of "everybody" - your concept seems limited to just you and Rick.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3879. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 09:46:02 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C148416.9DDE5F22@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26876

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> Gee, that sounds like the argument many of us
> have been making about her call sign.

Does that "us" include me, or are you just lumping me in with everyone else you dislike, Rick? I was defending Kim's choice of callsign long before I ever saw your first message in this newsgroup.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3880. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 10:17:19 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C148B64.EDA602A1@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26877

Krell wrote:
>
> This only proves that you will adhere to > any lie that suits your own bias. I think > I'll save this for future reference. You > do more damage to your credibility with > this statement than any of us could > ever do.

You know, with these constant attacks, my patience is running very thin. I'm not a liar and I don't really give a darn that you think about my credibility. What the heck does my inability to change the English language have to do with my credibility, Krell? You can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories, conversations, classroom discussions, political debates, and so on. How can I change that? How is my credibility lowered because I don't comply with your (or Kim's or Rick's) made up standard as opposed to the common standard used everyday throughout this country? I'm not a dictator. And, even if I were, I would not promote politically correct double-speak by telling people the words they're allowed and not allowed to use. You three, on the other hand, seem to be rolling in political correctness- they're not satanic, they're wiccans and pagans. What utter nonsense.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3881. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 10:35:05 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C148F8A.D11845BC@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26878

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> So, you see Krell, Dwight enjoys spreading rumors.

What rumors, Kim? If you're going to accuse someone by name of something like this, then at least have the integrity to explain your accusation. As I told Krell, you can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories, conversations, and so on. So how am I spreading "rumors" by repeating the common application of that word as it is used in this English language? Furthermore, Ms. Politically Correct (they not satanic - they're wiccans and pagans), what gives you the thought that you have a right to dictate what words are used in this language? Have you been taking double speak lessons from the book, "1984?"

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3882. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 10:46:24 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C14922F.DBF2308E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26879

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> What they "claim" genius is that they worship a different set > of gods than you do. Why CAN'T they do that?

Of course, they "can" do that (that is not saying they ARE doing that, by the way). But that is not all they "claim," is it, Rick? Most wiccans also claim they can do magic (or "magick," as some of them like to use) and other such nonsense? Do you really believe they can, Rick?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3883. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 10:54:34 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <Kv0R7.151027$WW.9802948@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26880

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-fc.aol.com...
> In article <9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
> writes:
>
> >
> >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed
> >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
he > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
> >
>
> Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

All he knows how to build are quads.

3884. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 11:06:00 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1496C3.2EE716AD@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26881

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Dwight, your hole of ignorance on this topic > is so large now, that you've fallen in and > can't get out. You are so very ignorant of > these topics it's really not even worth going
> any farther with you... (snip)

Oh, don't leave now, Kim. We've just getting started? If you really believe this wiccan nonsense (which you seem to based on the outrage you expressed above), why don't you ask your wiccan friends if they can do "magick" like so many other wiccans claim? And if they say they can, why don't you ask them to cast a spell to reflect the ill feelings I'm expressing towards them back at me? Of course, if they claim wiccans can't cast spells or do magick, I'll gladly provide you with a long list of books about wiccan "spells and magick." Please, girl, don't even call me ignorant if you're foolish enough to believe in this nonsense.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3885. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 11:09:42 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C14979F.F9F1DE97@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26882

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> Wow -- Kim just called you "ignorant!"
> Man, THAT really hurts! I'm surprised > she didn't include a scathing ROTFLMAO!!!

Oh, I'm simply crushed, Larry. I don't think I'll be able to sleep tonight. By the way, she threw in the "ROTFLMAO" in another message. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3886. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 11:14:50 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1498D3.3E1D025C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26883

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> Not everyone, Dwight. Only the ignorant.

Well, since that use is so common in this country, Rick, you just called about 90 percent of the population "ignorant." Of course, that is pretty typical for a liberal - liberals always believe they're right while everyone else is "wrong" or "ignorant."

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3887. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 11:40:09 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C149EBC.89342FD8@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26884

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> You'll notice, however, that the congress is > unwilling to legalize the most efficient form
> of fuel available (hemp oil) (snip)

Do you realize how large the fuel demand is in this country, Rick? Crop based fuels are way too inefficient. For example, even if we turned over every bit of the agricultural land in this country to grow a fuel replacement (including all the lands currently used for food production), there is not enough agricultural land available to grow enough of anything to replace more than a small percent of the fuel consumed in this country each year. If we remove the land currently used for food production, there is not enough land left to make even a small dent in the problem. Crop based fuels, even with a crop that can grow most anywhere, is not the answer.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3888. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 11:45:54 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C14A014.7148E0E5@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26885

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dwight Stewart" wrote...
>
> > That sounds about right, Dave. Nobody alive > > can always understand what Kim is talking about.
>
>
> Dwight, everybody knows that people do not > always understand each other. Good grief.

Huh? What are you trying to say, Kim?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3889. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 13:03:17 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210080317.02371.00000167@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 26889

In article <8OTQ7.150465$WW.9749379@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>The older I get the more I appreciate surrealism and that is really what >Vonnegut, Monty Python, and Joseph Heller did.

Yup. But I've been a fan of them since I was a teenager. Perhaps I was "born old"?

> The resulting feeling is >far more interesting than the plot.

The plot exists as a way to get there.

> Same with Bob Dylan (Desolation Row >is a good example).

Dylan lost it for me when he became so cool that noone could understand a single word he was singing.

>A naked Yossarian in a tree is not really the issue >and this is why both Heller's and Vonnegut's books make really crappy >movies.

Yup. Plus any decent movie version would be way too long to be practical.

>Monty Python movies in print would also stink up the joint.

Actually, their scripts are all available online and in books. But of course one imagines the movie/TV show when reading the scripts.

>Dali was so
>surrealistic he almost did not have to paint to prove it.

Waddya mean, "almost"?
>
>Dick, Nï¿½BK. Gimme eat, give everybody eat!!
>
No mention of surrealism would be complete without the Firesign Theater, who are still together and performing. They recently marked their 35th anniversary by their first TV special (brought to you by Ralph Spoilsport Motors, Loosener's Castor Oil Flakes, and Bear Whizz Beer ("It's in the water!").

FT are best when listened to, however - true FM radio audio revolutionaries.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3890. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 13:03:18 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210080318.02371.00000168@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 26887

In article <3C1447D6.907EB8AD@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>> modern pagans are >> not at all related to those early religions.
>
>Thought the pagans were a motorcycle club....
>
Yup - quite well known in these parts.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3891. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 13:03:18 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210080318.02371.00000169@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 26888

In article <3C14451C.3F477C32@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>And there was the scene at the end of the show where the inquisidor >gets cut off in the middle of his line....

Was that Cardinal Biggles, Cardinal Fang or

3892. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 13:03:20 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210080320.02371.00000170@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 26886

In article <013E602DE634ED7F.728E71F50A93391A.E22A1CD3DBCFA789@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 09 Dec 2001 05:03:22 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>What too many folks ignore is that we drive so many vehicles so many miles
>that >>we have to import huge amounts of petrol to run them. Paying for that petrol >>not only transfers huge amounts of American wealth overseas, but transfers >some >>of it to the very folks who want to destroy us.
>
> You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to >legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for >production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we >want it).

"The most efficient form of fuel available"?? How so? Efficiency is largely a function of how a fuel is used.

Can "hemp fuel" be used in modern cars without modification of their fuel systems? How complex is the production process? And how much would the stuff cost at the pump if legalized?

> Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an >automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting,

Hold it right there. If it's a hydrocarbon fuel, it produces greenhouse gases like CO2 when burned. If it's used in an internal combustion engine, the process produces other pollutants like nitrogen oxides (NOx) and unburned hydrocarbons (HC).These can be reduced by proper engine and emission control design, but no way is the fuel "non-polluting".

>a renewable resource,

Yup. Like biodiesel, methanol, and wood chips. There are cars and trucks running today on refined vegetable oil. (look up "biodiesel" on any search engine). The problem is that the raw vegetable oil itself, before processing and taxation, costs more than gasoline after processing and taxation. Biodiesel is only practical when there is a source of cheap or free vegetable oil - like waste oil from restaurants.

> lower in cost than petroleum products,

I doubt it. Is it used in Canada? How much does it cost there?

How many gallons of this fuel can be derived from an acre of hemp grown for the purpose? How much fuel must be used to run the machinery that grows the hemp?

> readily >extracted from the plant,

What is the exact process?

>and can be produced anywhere in the USA.

At what cost?

>Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative >organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress
>to legalize it as a cash crop.

That's nice. You got any hard evidence to back up any of this?

> If we REALLY want to reduce dependance on petroleum imports,
>that would be a safe, sane, and forward thinking solution (modern cars
>CAN be converted to run on it--in fact several concept cars are on the >roads running on it now)--but that's asking WAY too much of our >congress critters.

Not really. The trouble with alternative energy solutions is that they are ignored by most of the public.

More than 20 years ago, VW was selling cars that got over 40 mpg in the CITY and well over 50 MPG on the highway. The diesel technology they use has been improved to the point that modern TDIs do even better, both in performance and mileage. But they are a tiny part of the market because most Americans won't buy them.

It will be interesting to see if the Honda Insight and other hybrids do very well in the American market.

Part of the problem is that fuel is so cheap here that it's not a factor in most new-car purchases. A driver who buys a 15 mpg SUV and puts 15,000 miles on it per year will spend $1500 on fuel per year if the fuel costs $1.50. Replacing the gas guzzler with a 30 mpg econobox saves only $750/yr. Considering the price of a new car and the other operating costs, the $750 is chump change for many drivers.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3893. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 13:30:02 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210083002.08604.00000777@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 26890

>Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
>Date: 12/9/2001 9:55 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <20011209105501.15992.00000415@mb-fc.aol.com>

>
>Sounds like the kind of dumbing-down I'd expect from a liberal, >gun-grabbing, Socialized-Everything Welfare State.

Speaking of the anti-gun cowrds, has anyone noticed they have been politely silent since Sept 11th.....

Or are they all down town getting thiers before it's tooo late...?!?!?

Steve

3894. Re: state police license for mobile R/T

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 14:17:34 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <2u3R7.635$Cc1.107995@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 26891

I have myself pursued the MSP permit for my ham gear. I fully understand the ramifications of MCL 750.508 and still felt the need to get the permit. Can you guys honestly tell me that EVERY officer has either a copy of that law with them OR for that matter has a clear understanding of it? Better safe than sorry, and the damned permit only cost me an envelope, stamp and two pieces of paper.

Ryan KC8PMX

<brokenemail@brokenemail.ccm> wrote in message news:u0qfmi8outhh47@corp.supernews.com...
> Thanks for the reply. So it is a 'get out of jail free' card so to > say. I agree that having it busy blaring out police calls while he is > getting your information is a bit like pulling on superman's cape.
>
> I re-read the law MCL 750.508 and you are correct.
>
> Many Thanks,
>
> Wes
>
> KC8SPR
>
> W E S S at G T I I dot C O M
>
>
>
>
> "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote:
>
> >
> ><brokenemail@brokenemail.ccm> wrote in message
> >news:u0pmnq911j8c42@corp.supernews.com...
> >> Howdy,
> >> I just got my Technician's license a few days ago (KC8SPR) and > >> have a hand held for 2m and 70cm as my sole radio. The gent that kept > >> proding me along to get my license told me that I needed a Michigan > >> State Police permit to monitor police frequencies in a vehicle.
> >
> >He's dead wrong. You do not need a permit. Your Ham license is enough to > >grant you the right to monitor all public service frequencies. What he may > >have really meant to suggest is getting a signed letter from the Michigan > >State Police stating you have the right to have a radio in your vehicle
that > >can receive public service frequencies such as police and fire. The reason > >is a few Hams from time to time have found themselves being ticketed, and > >their radios confiscated by police offices who don't know the law, and or > >are to lazy to check back with HQ to verify the facts first. They then have > >to go through the expense of going to court to get their equipment back.

> >
> >If you don't have a letter then the next best thing is a copy of the > >applicable state statue, which specifically exempts Hams etc., and the small > >copy of your license, which is at the bottom of the main full size ticket.
> >Keep both with you at all times when out and about monitoring those public > >service frequencies.
> >
> >If you're ever stopped and questioned about the radio receiving police > >calls, be very polite, explain the facts to the officer, then show them > >either the letter and or the applicable state statue with the copy of your > >Ham license. Normally that's the end of it.
> >
> >Of course the really prudent thing to do is to keep the volume down, or turn > >off the rig, so the police officer can't hear it, thus saving you the hassle > >of answering those questions in the first place.
>

3895. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 14:21:59 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v2gbk02f7j@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26892

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-fc.aol.com...
> In article <9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
> writes:
>
> >
> >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
he > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
> >
>
> Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

That's based on standard K factor of .95. I've cut antennas using 492 and they've worked fine.

3896. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 14:41:05 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v2hff02gj5@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26893

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C148B64.EDA602A1@sccoast.net...
> You know, with these constant attacks, my patience is running very thin.
I'm > not a liar and I don't really give a darn that you think about my credibility.

Then I guess you don't expect anyone to take you seriously.

> What the heck does my inability to change the English language have to do
with > my credibility, Krell? You can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people
> every single day in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news > stories, conversations, classroom discussions, political debates, and so on. How

Strange that I haven't heard anything, other than from certain "Christians."
How about posting some references of these books, magazines, etc.

> can I change that? How is my credibility lowered because I don't comply
with > your (or Kim's or Rick's) made up standard as opposed to the common standard

You insist on believing something that is a lie. When presented with facts, you still adhere to what you've been told. You will only believe that which enforces your own bias.

> used everyday throughout this country? I'm not a dictator. And, even if I were,
> I would not promote politically correct double-speak by telling people the words > they're allowed and not allowed to use. You three, on the other hand, seem to be > rolling in political correctness- they're not satanic, they're wiccans and > pagans. What utter nonsense.

Satan is not mentioned anywhere in their beliefs or rituals, so how can they possibly be satanic (or "Satanic")?

3897. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 14:42:38 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v2hib02gni@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26894

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C148F8A.D11845BC@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > So, you see Krell, Dwight enjoys spreading rumors.
>
>
> What rumors, Kim? If you're going to accuse someone by name of something like > this, then at least have the integrity to explain your accusation. As I told > Krell, you can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day
> in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories,

Again, name some specific examples. IOW, put up or shut up.

3898. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 15:27:15 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net>
Message-ID: <nv4R7.2952$VX1.526714049@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 26895
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

LOL!
Thanks Robert, appreciate a little humor.

Landshark

--
"BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C14500C.90B11EDE@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Trouser Trout wrote:
>
> > Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will show
> > this.
> >
>
> "Candygram!"
>

3899. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 15:43:52 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112100743.391a52c@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26896

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1283B9.C5D59A8B@sccoast.net>...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Ah, the politically "correct" life. I don't subscribe > > to it. If you guys do, that's up to you. I'll never > > bend so far as to be ruled by the fearful.
>
>
> Then in many parts of this country, you're simply not going to find > work today (beyond the basic sales clerk or laborer level). A growing > number of employers are now resorting to job contracts with a long > list of rules added and a battery of psychological tests (written and > verbal) before you're even considered for the job. In other words, you > either fit the politically correct agenda of the company or you're out > the door. It's not that bad in the south yet, but it's coming.

I've worked in three very large companies and a couple smaller ones.
While in some of those companies there was training on how to treat and interact with others, I've never been subjected to any psychological tests. Further, I don't know of anyone who rigorously avoided contact in the way you talk about it. And I'm not at the sales clerk or laborer level. And I'm not in the south, as well.

I'm not saying it doesn't happen, but I think it's less common than you seem to feel.

Sean.

3900. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 15:55:18 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112100755.6f4104e2@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26897

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1089E2.83EFA656@sccoast.net>...
> Sean G Gilley wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote..
> > >
> > > Deterrence is only one aspect of the > > > death penalty - it also serves as just > > > punishment for a serious crime [...]
> >
> > Out of curiosity, could you explain why > > killing someone is a just punishment > > for a crime?
>
>
> Well, killing someone who has wrongly killed certainly seems like an > equitable, and therefore just, punishment. Why would you see that as unjust?

So, if a hit and run accident causes the loss of a leg and one kidney to a victim, then then driver that caused that accident should therefor have his leg amputated and one kidney removed?

An "eye for an eye" is not what our system of justice is based upon. If it were, then scenerios like the above would be common.

Nor is it what most western religions teach.

Sean.

3901. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 15:55:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14DAE8.11249ACC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26898

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> >Well, let me ask you this, Rick. Why are children born to American > >parents more valuable human beings than children born to parents > >in other countries? To be consistent, you have to advocate welfare > >for all the children of the world, not just for American children.
>
> I do. But at the expense of _their_ governments, not ours.

But Rick, their governments often just let them die of starvation.
Don't you care about anybody except Americans? Why does an accident of birth make an American child more valuable than a child in Botswana? Why are you such an elitist?

The bottom line is that the Libertarian view of poor people in the US is exactly the same as your view of poor people in other countries.
You say the poor people in other countries are someone else's responsibility. Libertarians agree with you and extend that same identical concept to poor people in this country. The difference is quantitative, not qualitative.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3902. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:01:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14DC3D.B7423B05@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26899

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Never seen policies, other than "thou shalt not"
> > and that's all that need be said. I'll be in my > > closed door meetings getting some real work > > done. I don't know what you guys are going to do.
>
> Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it
> you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly
> do behind open doors?

You have got to be kidding, Larry. Would you like the whole company to know how you did on your yearly review? Would you like the whole company to know about the latest technological secrets? A host of things need to be kept confidential. Leaving a door open during a confidential meeting at Intel was grounds for termination.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3903. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:04:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14DD06.266BF9E6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26900

Rick Adams wrote:
> Right now, our schools are often violent, frequently a joke
> academically, and only occasionally more interested in academics than > in sports standings. Those need to change.

The problem is those things cannot change as long as the government is running things. The government is the cause of those things.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3904. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:10:19 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14DE6B.52D1246B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26952

Rick Adams wrote:
> Yet you want to privatize prisons, law enforcement, fire > departments, social security, and other programs.

Libertarians DO NOT want to privatize any governmental function required to protect the inalienable rights of citizens. That includes law enforcement. I really wish you would alleviate your ignorance of what Libertarians believe.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3905. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:10:26 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C14DE91.E5716688@gte.net>
Source record: 26955
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > The normal procedure, when a police officer > > is uncertain of a law, is to assume that the > > civilian is in the wrong.
>
> Yeah Ok just because you say it doesn't make it so. What do you know of > normal police procedure? Sounds Like not much.
>

I work for a governmental agency.
Plus I have a number of friends who are LEOs who I serve with in the military reserves.

I know procedure. And I know rookie cops. When in doubt, arrest.

>
> >As one cop told me, you can always unarrest a guy. If he acts like a > jerk, >well then "everyone is a sinner, it is just a matter of finding the > right sin".
>
> You watch to much TV!
>

That came from a buddy who is a Chicago cop and how is a captain
in the Army Reserves.

> > Cops do survive doing this. Often they are > > backed up by the courts.
>
> Yes the conspiracy theory!

You have not been in court lately, have you?
The cops see their main duty in getting people into court. At that point they see that they have done their job and it is the courts' job to determine who was correct.

Cops are very hard nosed these days. What I am trying to get across is that the average cop does not know who you are, does not care. If you give him any grief over your "rights", he calls
in back up, arrests you and then lets the courts settle. This is exactly what most of my cop buddies say that they will do if they are uncertain about a law. They see it as court problem, not theirs.

3906. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:10:54 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <i85R7.290107$W8.9721109@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26951

> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

> >NOT THE SPANISH INQISITION!!!
> >
> The best known phrase is:
>
> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
>
> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with soft
> cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".

And, of course, they had some sweet little old lady sitting there taking the
'abuse'...

> Also worthy of a peek are the "Blackadder" series....

"I have a cunning plan, my lord..."

also poetry...

"Row row row your boat
Gently down the stream
Belts off, trousers down, Isn't life a scream!"

and...

EDMUND
a poem by Queenie*

When the night is dark,
And the dogs go 'bark';
When the clouds are black,
And the ducks go 'quack';
When the sky is blue,
And the cows go 'mooo';
Think of lovely Queenie,
She'll be thinking of you.

(* William Shakespeare helped with the title)

I was going to quote my favorite... but the shmucks around here wouldn't like the use of that word... ;-)

Rich

3907. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:15:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14DF98.34881B34@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26954

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot > possibly be discussed with the door open?

The HP/Intel shared computer architecture? Discuss that with an open door and you will be escorted to the open door without delay.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3908. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:16:26 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C14DFFB.BC29D225@gte.net>
Source record: 26953
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> And I will not argue with him on the scene. If he ignores my license, fails > to find out, or know, the procedure I will see the SOB in court IF he takes my > equipment. He WILL get in trouble because part of that equipment was > purchased with Department of Defense funds. He damn well better produce it in > the same condition it was in prior to confiscation or he will answer to > someone lots more "connected" than me. Don't tell me a cop is above the law > he is sworn to enforce and, therefore, I "can't" get him in trouble for > falsely taking private property because he ":thinks" the civilian is wrong.
>
> I don't get into arguments with cops--I know better. But you better believe > that whatever legal avenues I have against a Rambo cop, I WILL use them. Hey, > I am a vindictive person, what can I say? LOL!
>
> Jerry
> K4KWH

Before you go off half cocked, go talk to your attorney. I think that you might get an education. For one thing, you would have a hard time winning a wrongful arrest lawsuit. The cops will add other charges so that they will get you on something which makes you less creditable in front of the court and the jury.

If you have not noticed, any time that the cops arrest someone, they have multiple charges so that they are guaranteed that they will get the guy on something!!

3909. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:22:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14E150.B735FAB3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26957

```
Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
>
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years???
> > >
> > Hey Dick, here's something I got from a URL on drudgereport.com.
> > >
> > "A SCIENTIST has observed homosexual behavior in > > wild orang-utans for the first time, adding the great apes
> > to the long list of animals that take part in same sex > > relationships. Homosexual behavior has been observed in almost > > every species of animal including dolphins, hedgehogs,
> > kangaroos, sheep, whales, albatrosses, chimpanzees
> > and gorillas. Dr Fox published her observations in the > > American Journal of Primatology."
>
> Ya suppose the good Dr Foxx is a charter member of Lesbos Unlimited and > is trying her dead level best to proved it "normal"? Seems to be > fashionable amongst them. You Too?

Everytime you get caught with your pants down, you resort to ad hominem attacks. You are just too predictable, Dick. I certainly hope you wake up to reality before you die.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

3910. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:24:15 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112100824.41cfdc2@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26956

"K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com> wrote in message news:<#uesCOHgBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>...

>
> There is more homebrewing and kitbuilding going on in amateur radio > today that there has been since the late 50's.
>
On a ham per-capita basis?? I very much doubt that, the totals might be up but ham radio has also grown fivefold +/- since the late 50s.
Kit-building does not qualify as the "tinkering" and "experimenting" techo ham radio of yore, not even close. Pop the plastic, follow the yellow brick road and ya have a minimalist's delight at best.
>
>
Where is all this "homebrewing"?? Get yer eyes tested, I don't see any such thing. Hombrewing can't touch the bang for the buck the Japs are delivering via HRO & AES and without getting wrapped into soddering arns. 50s ham radio is dead and gone and so is it's set of necessities which were the only reasons hams homeberewed more of their gear back then. Diddling licensing requirements ain't gonna fix your disatisfaction with the lack of soddering arn activity today. That's just the way it is.
>
>
> (ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½) 73, de Hans, K0HB
>
>
w3rv

3911. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:24:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C14E1B9.9DF71B2E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26959

Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists
> "proving" whatever they want proved.

That's right, Dick, reject all science with which you don't agree.
You are the reincarnation of one of the guys who put Galileo under house arrest for asserting that the earth was not the center of the universe.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3912. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:25:11 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C14E1FA.9C51912D@gte.net>
Source record: 26958
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

```
>
>
> > However, and this goes for every community, > > if the cop does stop you and does ask about > > your radios then he might assume that you > > are there to interfere with him.
>
> Why would he assume this? What reason have you given him to think this?
>

I give the average cop no reason to expect such behavior from me. For one thing, I work for a governmental agency. But guys like you, over weight and looking like rednecks, scare the shit out of them. And the typical ham often does not look like an urban professional.

> >Newbie cops can be a bit paranoid. They do not like any > > civilian who acts out of the normal.
>
> And neither do I but your proof of newbie cops is a highly exaggerated .
>

I work with them. Are you are cop? What big city do you live in?

And when was the last time you have been in court? I get to watch court cases.

>
> >And radio nuts are like gun nuts, not normal.
>
> Yes you are proving this .
>
> > It is not that the cops are corrupt. It is that they > > are fearful. Too many lose cannons in society.
> > Too many drug dealers, terrorists, and just pain > > old farts with big mouths. Too many guys who > > see themselves above the law.
> >
> > All it takes is one shooting, like the one up in Goshen > > last night, and every cop within 200 miles is on high > > alert. Given what happened on Sept. 11th, they are > > now looking for those who might be terrorists. And > > a car full of ham gear looks very suspicious. Given > > that many hams are gun owners as well, and you might > > have a young cop who is going to over react.
```

>
> What is your beef with "young cops" Young cops are more in tuned to > electronics etc than the old cops. Cops use 2 to 3 different radios, walkie > talkies and yes even scanners in the cars radios so they are not exactly > foreign to them
>

The average cop is not all that technical. Most are former high school athletes. They are more into the action than the technology. Also the average cop is somewhat isolated from the rest of us. Too easy to sit in the air conditioned squad car than getting out and talking to folks (community policing).

But most do not like you having a radio that can listen to them. They would love to have all police communications encrypted.

> >
> > Just look at Cincinnati. They take young men from the > > suburbs who have been told all their lives to stay out of > > certain neighborhoods, especially after dark and make them > > cops. Then their first assignment is those exact neighborhoods.
> > Guess what? You have a fearful, inexperienced cop > > in a place where he is totally out of his league. Guess > > what happens? He winds up over reacting and shooting > > some young black guy. Which results in a riot as it did > > last spring.
> >
> > Guys, you live in a too sheltered life.
>
> Sorry Charlie I deal with hundreds of cops a week I wouldnt call that > sheltered.

Give examples? How big a department are you dealing with? I deal with state police and two local departments that each have over 2000 LEO's.

3913. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:31:24 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C14E36B.BE76C0BA@gte.net>
Source record: 26961
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >
> > It does happen. And cops are going to be on edge > > with the aftermath of Sept. 11th. A ham, with a > > car full of radios, does look like a terrorist.
>
> Thats funny where have you heard that? I havent seen a bolo stating that.
>
> >Given that hams are often gun owners, and you might > > have a gung ho young cop who wants to make > > a name for himself.
>
> Can you cite and specific refrences that state how many Hams are gun owners > or are you shooting this off the top of your head again.
>

In my state, Indiana, the average ham radio operator also has a concealed weapons permit.
Most of the hams I know have one. And I have see the same practice in other states.
However the west coast does seem to have more hams who are anti gun. But in my experience, hams are also big into guns.

>
> >
> > Besides profiling has been going on with blacks > > for sometime now.
>
> Yes as well as other criminal they are profiled daily. In order to make the > streets more safe.
>
> > It is really bad on the east > > coast, from Boston right down to Florida. The > > cop does not know you. For all he knows, you > > are a trouble maker.
>
> Nor do you know the cop, For all he knows you are a decent person unless you > give him a reason to think otherwise.
>

Ask your cop buddies. Cops do not think that way. They assume that every traffic stop is going to go bad. In fact most cops I know say that it is dangerous to assume that anyone they meet is "decent". They see too many bad guys.

Besides even decent folks have a bad day.

> >Shooting your mouth off just makes it worst.
> > And remember, gun owners have had to deal > > with this for some time now.
>
> Had to deal with what shooting there mouth off?

Shooting your mouth off refers to defending your rights if pulled over by a cop. That is the last thing they want to hear. That is sure way to wind up in front of a judge.

3914. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:33:46 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C14E40F.51A14E01@gte.net>
Source record: 26960
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

> >> >> > > > > The police have near zero ability to determine what is or isn't > >> >> > > > > a legal rig for any service...CB, ham, FRS, private radio, etc.
> >> >> > > > >
> >> >> > > > > Actually they can. It is the type acceptance > >> >> > > > > plate on the back of the radio. If it is not there, > >> >> > > > > then make the arrest.
> >> >> > > >
> >> >> > > Bullshit. None of my ham radios have a "type acceptance plate" > >> >> > > on the back, or anywhere else. Neither do yours. Lot's of > >> >> > > folks besides me drive my vehicles. Should they be arrested?
> >> >> > >
> >> >> > > You're out to lunch on this one!
> >> >> >
> >> >> > That is what happens in my state with respect > >> >> > to firearms. If you do not have a license, and > >> >> > are caught with a firearms in a vehicle, then > >> >> > you are arrested. That even goes for family > >> >> > members.
> >> >>
> >> >> What state do you live in? Russia? Sure must suck > >> >> to be you! Here they look at you suspiciously > >> >> if you _don't_ have at least a deer rifle in the car!
> >> >
> >> >Indiana. We have one of the most pro gun set of > >> >laws in the country. One of the oldest personal > >> >protection permits. But you had better have a > >> >permit if you have a handgun in the vehicle.
> >> >
> >> >Rifles and shotguns are a bit different. Even a kid > >> >can have one, if he has written permission from his > >> >parents. But too many have gone to jail because > >> >dad left his handgun in the car.
> >>
> >> All not relavant since the rules/laws for possession > >> of radios is not at all similar. Indeed, no state has a > >> law that requires having a license to have any of the > >> CB radios or FRS radios. A few (less than 10) states > >> prohibit having a radio receiver capable of receieving > >> police (public frequencies) in the car.
> >
> >And how does that young cop know that you > >are not some type of terrorist?
>

> He doesn't and he'd better not think having > a radio constitutes any probable cause to begin with.
>
> >All those radios
> >could be used to spy on the police so that you > >can try to overthrow the US government.
>
> Even if true, what would you want...ban all > radios from cars?
>
> >That is how young cops think. It is worst in > >LA or NYC, but it happens everywhere.
>
> And that type of "young cop" attitude/behavior should > be stopped.
>
> >Look at how blacks are profiled. It seems that > >"driving while black" is a crime in many big cities.
>
> What's the relavence? Are you now saying anyone with a > radio is being profiled?

Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.

3915. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:49:18 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <il5R7.290121$W8.9722709@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26962

> Krell writes:

> >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
he
> >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-

> Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!

Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.

Hey Krell...

"Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)

Rich

3916. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 16:57:41 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <9Q5R7.290130$W8.9724346@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26963

"JAMES HAMPTON" wrote

> Although not directed at me, I must answer this one. I do NOT work in feet.
> If you wish to work in meters-kilograms-seconds or > centimeters-grams-seconds, fine. Just leave me out of the British units, > thanks. What ever you may think, stones and slugs leave me cold.
Besides,
> radio is a little teensie bit more than constucting a dipole.

Okay then... for you the answer is 149.9... ;-)

Rich

> "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
> news:9v198i030ms@enews2.newsguy.com...
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> > news:20011209204556.15992.00000437@mb-fc.aol.com...
> > > For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had > > > the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
> > > communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning > > > about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out > > > of it. You think being a Real Ham means plugging the boxes in > > > correctly, getting the mic plugged into the correct receptacle, and > > > coordinating the action of the PTT switch with your mouth. Big > > > Steenking Deal! My 8-year old nephew can do that!
> >
> > So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > > there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed
> > code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > > in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
he
> > drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

3917. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:08:52 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112100908.71ff5a44@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26964

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
news:<8OTQ7.150465$WW.9749379@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...

> The older I get the more I appreciate surrealism and that is really what > Vonnegut, Monty Python, and Joseph Heller did. The resulting feeling is > far more interesting than the plot.

For nice examples of near-current media surrealism:

- The TV series "Ally McBeal" has done some really good stuff with special effects expressing how the characters feel. The earlier seasons had more of this.

- Just saw the film "Amelie" which has some great cinematic surreal touches.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3918. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:09:10 UTC
From: WW - KB9TMP <kb9tmp@my-deja.com>
Message-ID: <9v2q9j$t7q$1@dagobah.blueriver.net>
Source record: 26965

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C144F16.B76C94FD@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Dick Carroll wrote:
>
> > One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just
> > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists > > "proving" whatever they want proved.
>
> Like those clowns who came up with "creationism" to get > their religious views into public schools. God wasn't going > to try to tell some ignorant shephards
> all about evolution and the Big Bang,
> so we ended up with some lame story about Adam and Eve > and apples, etc. Besides, if Adam and Eve were the first > humans, how could they have grandchildern without > their childern doing incest?
>
> In the Catholic church, we don't get bothered by the > theory of evolution.
>

I'd rather have Adam and Eve as grandparents than to have Bonzo and Cheetah the Chimp as ancestors!!!
--

'73' From KB9TMP

Beware of the man who works hard to learn something, learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
without having come by their ignorance the hard way.
-Peer's Law

Sent via the LATE Deja.com
A.K.A. Google Groups
http://groups.google.com
_____

3919. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:12:17 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <R16R7.290145$W8.9724563@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26966

> Krell wrote:

> > So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > > there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed
> > code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > > in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
he
> > drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

"Dave Heil" wrote

> Uhhh...Krell? 468 is the number generally used. I've seen the 492
> figure used for inverted vee antennas. Go sit in the corner with the > old timer.

Uhhh... Heil? 468 is the number used for a FOLDED dipole. Actually, 491.8
is the CORRECT value.

Rich

3920. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:20:51 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <T96R7.290152$W8.9725945@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26967

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message news:9f4bfe89.0112100908.71ff5a44@posting.google.com...
> "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<8OTQ7.150465$WW.9749379@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
>
> > The older I get the more I appreciate surrealism and that is really what > > Vonnegut, Monty Python, and Joseph Heller did. The resulting feeling
is > > far more interesting than the plot.
>
> For nice examples of near-current media surrealism:
>
> - The TV series "Ally McBeal" has done some really good stuff with > special effects expressing how the characters feel. The earlier > seasons had more of this.
>
> - Just saw the film "Amelie" which has some great cinematic surreal > touches.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

Unfortunately, Ally McBeal in general has slid off the scale into the toilet.

3921. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:24:41 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <td6R7.290155$W8.9725644@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26968

> Dick Carroll wrote:

> > One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just > > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists
> > "proving" whatever they want proved.

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C144F16.B76C94FD@ix.netcom.com...

> In the Catholic church, we don't get bothered by the > theory of evolution.

True, and concerning the study of the creation of the universe. Pope John Paul II told Stephen Hawking that his studies of this were just fine. Although, he did say, he shouldn't get involved in what took place before the big bang!!! ;-) (sounds reasonable to me)

Stephen Hawking has answered the question, what happened before the big bang, to be like examining what's north of the north pole. (It just isn't going to happen)

Rich

3922. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:27:14 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <A2EEDB88BE7FB038.87868B44DAFA681D.DF994CBA2B9B4235@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26970

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 17:12:17 GMT, "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net>
wrote:

>Uhhh... Heil? 468 is the number used for a FOLDED dipole. Actually, 491.8
>is the CORRECT value.

Taken directly from the current Tech question pool:
T9A01 @N9A01 (D)
How do you calculate the length (in feet) of a half-wavelength dipole antenna?
D. Divide 468 by the antenna's operating frequency (in MHz) [468/f
(in MHz)]

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

3923. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:34:00 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <cm6R7.290167$W8.9727029@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26969

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C148318.61A433F9@sccoast.net...

> Well, what is your definition, Kim? My "everybody" is far more inclusive than > your concept of "everybody" - your concept seems limited to just you and
Rick.

Your 'everybody' is simply said, naive.

Rich

You people are boring me to tears. :^

3924. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:54:30 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <qF6R7.290175$W8.9728322@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26971

> Richard McCollum writes

> >Dali was so
> >surrealistic he almost did not have to paint to prove it.

"N2EY" wrote

> Waddya mean, "almost"?

When I see a picture of him I always think... "This guy IS surrealism personified" A true caricature of himself. ;-)

I have a Salvador Dali screensaver and people just sit a watch it...

I have a complaint... why is it we can buy calendars with impressionism themes but NEVER with surrealism themes.

> No mention of surrealism would be complete without the Firesign Theater, who > are still together and performing. They recently marked their 35th anniversary
> by their first TV special (brought to you by Ralph Spoilsport Motors, > Loosener's Castor Oil Flakes, and Bear Whizz Beer ("It's in the water!").

I saw the show last week. nice to see what they look like. I had a few of their albums and they stayed close to the material but added quite a few new things too...

> FT are best when listened to, however - true FM radio audio revolutionaries.

"If you lived here you'd be home now..."

Rich

3925. Is this politically Correct???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 17:57:59 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <HI6R7.157348$WW.9830415@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26972

In view of the ongoing discussion of Kim's juvenile callsign, let me relate the unfortunate case of Central Missouri State at Warrensburg. For a number of good geographical reasons, their male sports teams have been known since Custer was a 1st lieutenant or so as Mules.

Now a mule is the sterile offspring of a union between a mare horse and a male donkey. While I guess that there are technically male and female mules, the discussion is rather pointless. So what do you do when Mulette just don't cut it?

After what had to be a bruising discussion, CMS female sports teams are known as Jennies -- a female donkey is a jenny. But that has the effect of making the male teams Jackasses. Is this PC???

Next we will deal with the burning case of the Pittsburgh (KS) State Gorillas when Girlilla won't do the job.

Dick N&#65533;BK

3926. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 18:17:35 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112101017.4f4fdaab@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26973

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C149EBC.89342FD8@sccoast.net>...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > You'll notice, however, that the congress is > > unwilling to legalize the most efficient form
> > of fuel available (hemp oil) (snip)

At least 10 states are considering farm bills to permit growing "industrial" hemp.

> Do you realize how large the fuel demand is in this country, Rick? Crop based > fuels are way too inefficient.

I looked for info on the web but as yet have not found anything that states how many barrels/acre can be obtained by bioenergy farming. It should be noted that many analyses compute yield by counting the entire biomass harvested, most of which does not yield liquid fuel.

>For example, even if we turned over every bit of > the agricultural land in this country to grow a fuel replacement (including all > the lands currently used for food production), there is not enough agricultural > land available to grow enough of anything to replace more than a small percent > of the fuel consumed in this country each year. If we remove the land currently > used for food production, there is not enough land left to make even a small > dent in the problem.

Most of the land currently used for food production can't be used for energ production without impacting food supplies and prices. Just not an option.

> Crop based fuels, even with a crop that can grow most > anywhere, is not the answer.

Not "the" answer, but maybe part of "an" answer.

It should be noted that most biofuel efforts are in the area of biodiesel, which has several advantages over conventional petrodiesel fuels. And many of the disadvantages, too. But the main problems are glossed over:

1) how much would a gallon of mass-produced biodiesel cost at the pump?
2) how many acres of land would have to be in biofuel production to make a significant dent in petroleum imports?
3) how do you get Americans to use biofuels in large enough quantities to matter?

You are right to be skeptical. I'm old enough to remember when we were promised things like George Jetson aircars and nuclear power that would be "too cheap to meter".

The problems of energy supply, and their solutions are complex, and many Americans want quick/simple/cheap answers.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3927. Re: Is this politically Correct???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 18:23:01 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <947R7.290190$W8.9730289@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26974

Richard McCollum wrote

> After what had to be a bruising discussion, CMS female sports teams are > known as Jennies -- a female donkey is a jenny. But that has the effect > of making the male teams Jackasses. Is this PC???

Do you remember the old Jenny gas stations? The slogan was... "it kicks" (or some such)...
If we went there, for gas, we would just say... "I'm going to the town pump"... tell me was that PC??? ;-)

Rich

3928. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 18:40:05 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C150185.D6E5CF5D@uci.edu>
Source record: 26976

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> news:3C111E41.BDCDDAB8@uci.edu...
> >
> >
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > Man, you got that right, Dwight. Hrrrmpphhh.
> > >
> > > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > You think Dwight is right that the United States is like Afghanistan?
> > Get real, Kim.

> I don't think Dwight is saying the United States is like Afghanistan, > therefore I cannot possibly think he is right about it.

He said all you have to do is replace the names, and one is the same as the other.

> I believe Dwight's > observation is that, depending on what side one is on, one always feels the > victim and one always is the offender.

That's nice - and very imaginative.

3929. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 18:41:44 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1501E8.44833CCF@uci.edu>
Source record: 26975

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 13:58:52 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
> wrote:
>
> >He only imagines that he has that problem even NOW.
>
> Do I?
>
> Name a _single_ one of the rights enumerated in the first ten > Amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) that hasn't been > abrogated by a Republican government in which a member of the Bush > dynasty was either Vice President or President.
>
> Just ONE!
>
> Rick

What in the hell are you talking about, Rick? Do you know? I sure don't.

3930. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 18:59:31 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <nC7R7.217787$3d2.10032174@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26977

> > Robert Casey, wa2ise, wrote:

> > > I'll start a discount house of worship, next
> > > to Target and Kmart.... :-)

> Heard Bill Sau Hargous beat me to it. He also > started "Holyland USA" in Delreo TX, the first > religious amusement park....

Heh, heh. Is Don Imus still doing that bit? It was pretty funny when I first heard it back in the 70's.

The proper name for the religious institution is:

The Church of the Gooey Death
and Discount House of Worship

where it was touted that "One dollar 'offered' there was the same as two dollars at your regular retail religious outlet".

The Right Reverend Doctor Billy Sol Hargis got his name from combining those of Billy Sol Estes, a notorious West-Texas agricultural-loan-fraud perpetrator with that of a certain Oklahoma right-wing radio evangelist named Hargis who was caught 'in flagrante delicto'
with one of his young male followers.

Del Rio, Texas is just across the Rio Grande from Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, home to radio station
XERA which, during the late 30's, ran an output power of about 900 kW and touted 'Doc' Brinkley's goat-gland operation as a cure for male impotence.

Lotsa historical allusions in the creation of the character.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

3931. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:08:11 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <EK7R7.109456$S93.5817695@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26978
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Maybe so. There are still laws against unlawful search and seizure. And, as I said before, in reference to the seizure of my radio equipment, he will be in deep doo doo when he confiscates my radio that was purchased with DoD funds. ASSuming that a civilian is in the wrong is a sure way to get sued for false arrest. While I have never been arrested in my life, nor have I ever given a LEO a reason to hassle me, I have been talked to in a most disrespectful manner, and treated like I didn't know what I was about. A cop is NOT the arbitor of truth; just because he "thinks" you did something doesn't make it so. I am, however, somewhat vindictive, a trait I inherited from my Dad's side. I cannot STAND to be acused of something I did not do, nor to be falsely hassled, inconvenienced, or unfairly caused to lose time or money. While most people would not pursue the matter, I, OTH, would be searching the law for a way to get the SOB back legally. With the military VHF radio I have in addition to my ham equipment, having that "stolen" at gunpoint WOULD be something the LEO would wish he had never done. While the LEO has "friends" in the courts, I have friends in the military and at the State level (if the seizure takes place in my state). I would NOT let the matter rest.

73

Jerry

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C14DE91.E5716688@gte.net...
> > > The normal procedure, when a police officer
> > > is uncertain of a law, is to assume that the > > > civilian is in the wrong.
> >
> > Yeah Ok just because you say it doesn't make it so. What do you know of > > normal police procedure? Sounds Like not much.
> >
>
> I work for a governmental agency.
> Plus I have a number of friends who
> are LEOs who I serve with in the > military reserves.

>
> I know procedure. And I know rookie > cops. When in doubt, arrest.
>
>
> >
> > >As one cop told me, you can always unarrest a guy. If he acts like a > > jerk, >well then "everyone is a sinner, it is just a matter of finding
the > > right sin".
> >
> > You watch to much TV!
> >
>
> That came from a buddy who is > a Chicago cop and how is a captain
> in the Army Reserves.
>
>
> > > Cops do survive doing this. Often they are > > > backed up by the courts.
> >
> > Yes the conspiracy theory!
>
> You have not been in court lately, have you?
> The cops see their main duty in getting people > into court. At that point they see that they have > done their job and it is the courts' job to determine > who was correct.
>
> Cops are very hard nosed these days. What I > am trying to get across is that the average cop
> does not know who you are, does not care. If > you give him any grief over your "rights", he calls
> in back up, arrests you and then lets the courts
> settle. This is exactly what most of my cop buddies > say that they will do if they are uncertain about > a law. They see it as court problem, not theirs.
>
>

3932. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:12:35 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C150924.625E2F45@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26979

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> > Robert Casey wrote:
> > >
> > > I'll start a discount house of worship, next > > > to Target and Kmart.... :-)
> > >
> > > Rmart? "R" for religion?
> > >
> > >
>
> Heard Bill Sau Hargous beat me to it. He also > started "Holyland USA" in Delreo TX, the first
> religious amusement park....

Actually, Don Imus may have come up with the idea as early as late 1971. One of his KEXL (San Antonio) bits (as the Right Reverend Billy Sol Hargis, Church of the Gooey Death, Del Rio, Texas) exhorted listeners to send for info on opening a drive through church and baptismal car wash.

Dave K8MN

3933. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:14:29 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C150997.679458AD@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26980

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Rick Adams wrote...
> >
> > But you DO have the alternative (as do I) of > > moving to an area where public transportation
> > is available. (snip)
>
> So your suggested solution to the transportation needs of the > elderly is to simply tell them to move where public transportation is > available. Nice guy.

It isn't original with Rick. The late Sam Kinnison advised folks to stop sending food to Ethiopa. His answer was to send suitcases and airline tickets so the hungry could come to where the food is.

Dave K8MN

3934. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:22:28 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <UX7R7.157416$WW.9836013@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 26981

"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:nC7R7.217787$3d2.10032174@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> > > Robert Casey, wa2ise, wrote:
>
> > > > I'll start a discount house of worship, next > > > > to Target and Kmart.... :-)
>
> > Heard Bill Sau Hargous beat me to it. He also > > started "Holyland USA" in Delreo TX, the first > > religious amusement park....
>
> Heh, heh. Is Don Imus still doing that bit? It > was pretty funny when I first heard it back in the > 70's.
>
> The proper name for the religious institution is:
>
> The Church of the Gooey Death
> and Discount House of Worship
>
> where it was touted that "One dollar 'offered' there > was the same as two dollars at your regular retail > religious outlet".
>
> The Right Reverend Doctor Billy Sol Hargis got his > name from combining those of Billy Sol Estes, a notorious > West-Texas agricultural-loan-fraud perpetrator with > that of a certain Oklahoma right-wing radio evangelist
> named Hargis who was caught 'in flagrante delicto'
> with one of his young male followers.
>
> Del Rio, Texas is just across the Rio Grande from > Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, home to radio station
> XERA which, during the late 30's, ran an output power
> of about 900 kW and touted 'Doc' Brinkley's goat-gland > operation as a cure for male impotence.
>
> Lotsa historical allusions in the creation of the > character.
>
>
>
> --

> Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
> Glendale, Arizona

As the resident genius on radio preachers, can you identify this one (I can't):

The Railway Express agent position in El Paso was for years the worst because of a preacher named O. O. ????????? who claimed to do resurrections. Every morning the agent would present a half-dozen or so coffins which would be duly refused and he had to ship granny back where she came from. Tammy Faye got her start with this dude so it can't have been all that long ago.

Dick NBK

3935. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:25:38 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C150C33.EF7FF739@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26982

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> > Krell writes:
>
> > >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
> he > > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message > news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-
>
> > Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
>
> Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.
>
> Hey Krell...
>
> "Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)

Rich, the 468 figure is for a dipole. The yagi DE length can be very different, i.e. when applying a hair pin match.

Go sit in the corner with Krell and the other guy.

Dave K8MN

3936. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:26:55 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C150C80.B3092979@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26983

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> > Krell wrote:
>
> > > So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate, > > > there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > > bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high
> speed
> > > code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > > > in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
> he > > > drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
>
> "Dave Heil" wrote
>
> > Uhhh...Krell? 468 is the number generally used. I've seen the 492
> > figure used for inverted vee antennas. Go sit in the corner with the > > old timer.
>
> Uhhh... Heil? 468 is the number used for a FOLDED dipole. Actually, 491.8
> is the CORRECT value.

As I said earlier: Go sit in the corner with the other two.

Dave K8MN

3937. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:27:32 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C150CA5.8F265F4B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26984

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH wrote:
>
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 17:12:17 GMT, "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Uhhh... Heil? 468 is the number used for a FOLDED dipole. Actually, 491.8
> >is the CORRECT value.
>
> Taken directly from the current Tech question pool:
> T9A01 @N9A01 (D)
> How do you calculate the length (in feet) of a half-wavelength dipole > antenna?
> D. Divide 468 by the antenna's operating frequency (in MHz) [468/f
> (in MHz)]
>
> Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
> kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

Thank you.

Dave K8MN

3938. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 19:34:52 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <C78R7.109624$S93.5823321@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26985
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be using, then he WILL be in trouble. First of all, just my Amateur license alone exempts me from his jurisdiction. HE HAS NO AUTHORITY TO SEIZE OR ARREST BASED ON MY USE OF RADIO ALONE. IF I act like a smartass, a jerk, or threaten and cuss him, yes, disorderly conduct, and other charges could be added to haul me in. Secondly, the State authorities are not going to be happy to find themselves involved in a USAF CID investigation as to what happened to the equipment. Have YOU ever been in military logistics? I have. Have you ever seen a property audit where there was suspected misappropriation of materiel? Trust me, it ain't a pretty sight. My supervisor, a Captain, once screened and signed for a lot of small 110V generators. They were not supposed to be placed on open requisition. USAF CID swooped down on our Hq to inventory those generators, and we had to return them. It, however, was not our mistake; it was the mistake of the LGO at the materiel yard, but it didn't make us feel any better; we went around with a high pucker factor for over 2 weeks while they audited us!

I know you are in denial (seems to me you must have a VERY close association with LEOs or ARE one), but the incident with the young ham in Kentucky illustrated this very thing: the way the laws are written, both on scanners and local CB enforcement, cops have NO jurisdiction over hams. If he has a question about a radio, the license is to stop him in his tracks. If he pursues the issue, the court WILL overrule him: it HAS to. As long as I do not resist him in any way, and the issue is strictly radio, then he has not one leg to stand on. It ":might" be risky to bring bogus charges in order to facilitate an arrest. That could cause an investigation of the department and bring questions of corruption and over-zealous cops. I also have a cousin and some friends that work in the national news media. I wouldn't hesitate to have "certain" news personalities bring adverse publicity to said department; like I said--I am very vindictive when wronged.

73

Jerry

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C14DFFB.BC29D225@gte.net...
> > And I will not argue with him on the scene. If he ignores my license, fails > > to find out, or know, the procedure I will see the SOB in court IF he takes my > > equipment. He WILL get in trouble because part of that equipment was > > purchased with Department of Defense funds. He damn well better produce it in > > the same condition it was in prior to confiscation or he will answer to > > someone lots more "connected" than me. Don't tell me a cop is above the law
> > he is sworn to enforce and, therefore, I "can't" get him in trouble for > > falsely taking private property because he ":thinks" the civilian is wrong.
> >
> > I don't get into arguments with cops--I know better. But you better believe > > that whatever legal avenues I have against a Rambo cop, I WILL use them.
Hey,
> > I am a vindictive person, what can I say? LOL!
> >
> > Jerry
> > K4KWH
>
> Before you go off half cocked, go talk to > your attorney. I think that you might get > an education. For one thing, you would > have a hard time winning a wrongful arrest > lawsuit. The cops will add other charges so > that they will get you on something which > makes you less creditable in front of the > court and the jury.
>
> If you have not noticed, any time that the cops
> arrest someone, they have multiple charges so > that they are guaranteed that they will get the > guy on something!!
>
>

3939. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 20:05:21 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C151581.A41CACB9@uci.edu>
Source record: 26987

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > I hope you're right. The answer that most Americans > > support is "build more roads" which doesn't solve > > the problem.
>
> The problem with that is many cities are simply running out of space > to build more roads. You can only stack roads so high, and pile on so > many cars, before the whole thing becomes a waste of time and money.
> At a certain point, the only solution is going to be public > transportation. Sadly, in the meantime, we're stuck with all the > existing problems (fuel comsumption, pollution, traffic jams, road > rage, and so forth).

> I think we need some kind of hybrid system - low cost electric cars > for short distances, with public transportation for longer distances > (and low cost electric rental cars in every city for travelers). This > gives people the freedom to travel locally, but ends many of the > problems mentioned above.

The best solution is the transporter they have on Star Trek - or - eliminate the need for anyone to go anywhere. Otherwise, we can expect to have only what best serves our needs.

3940. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 20:08:00 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C151620.A5441928@uci.edu>
Source record: 26988

Rick Adams wrote:
> You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to > legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for > production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we > want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an > automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a > renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily > extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
> Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress
> to legalize it as a cash crop.

You've got one of those suits made entirely from hemp, don't you Rick.
;-)

3941. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 20:08:12 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <2CD77A301AF336CE.E4D9F3159D905A58.691D7393E0612A2F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 26986
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 14:34:52 -0500, "Jerry Oxendine"
<joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote:

>IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be >using, then he WILL be in trouble.

If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty words for his superiors.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

3942. When are you birds gonna admit I was right?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 20:20:06 UTC
From: horseshoe7@yahoo.com Message-ID: <5f4fe4c2.0112101220.211e17b2@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26989

Until a wholesale revamping of the licensing structure is made, reinstituting incentive licensing, and bringing the US Amateur Radio Service into the modern era, and attracting younger members by focusing on modern communication methods and privileges...

1) Amateur membership will continue to decline(told ya that the spike in membership, right after the overdue restructuring regarding the demphasis of the archaic Morse Code, was just temporary).

2) There will eventually be more Extras than Generals(now - all of you birds who couldn't see the trend in the 2nd degree equation, and disagreed with me so vehemently will now have to admit I was right on this one too, because even from the 1st degree linear trends it is now obvious!).

Eventually, something like my Communicator/Colt license proposals WILL be implemented... mark my words.

Stewart - N0MHS

3943. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:02:41 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1522F1.B614A6FF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26990

```
"Jim Bromley, K7JEB" wrote:
> Del Rio, Texas is just across the Rio Grande from > Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, home to radio station
> XERA which, during the late 30's, ran an output power
> of about 900 kW and touted 'Doc' Brinkley's goat-gland
> operation as a cure for male impotence.

Hey Jim, are you sure that wasn't XERF?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

3944. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:10:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1524D3.7660E5A5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26991

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had > the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
> communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning > about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out > of it.

Actually, the FCC has gone on record as seeing no correlation between Morse code skill and self-sufficiency or any other positive attribute.
Morse code skill stands alone and is uncorrelated to anything else.
Virtually all of the troublemakers on HF are coded hams. The great majority of NALs are given to coded hams.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3945. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:17:06 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v38ma023lo@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26993

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C150C33.EF7FF739@earthlink.net...
> Richard Plourde wrote:
> >
> > > Krell writes:
> >
> > > >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring debate,
> > > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high speed > > > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a frequency > > > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in feet,
> > he > > > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
> >
> > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message > > news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-
> >
> > > Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
> >
> > Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.
> >
> > Hey Krell...
> >
> > "Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)
>
> Rich, the 468 figure is for a dipole. The yagi DE length can be very > different, i.e. when applying a hair pin match.
>
> Go sit in the corner with Krell and the other guy.
>
> Dave K8MN

492 is for a true half-wavelength. It's 468 when multiplied by the .95 constant, which has become an accept standard. I've seen 462 used when making a folded dipole from 300-ohm twin lead.

So I guess you're sitting in the corner with the rest of us, if you insist that yours is the only right answer.

3946. Re: Where is KT4TR???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:28:27 UTC
From: Frank Todd <k3eko@nospam.nidhog.net>
Message-ID: <%N9R7.4564$7y.12352@rwcrnsc54>
Source record: 26992

Why do u want to know? Are you in love with him?

Frank K3EKO

"Ed Norton" <haaaynorton@aol.com> wrote in message news:20011209155820.20564.00001240@mb-mm.aol.com...
> Where is that sawed off, pot bellied, drunken, lying asshole???
>
> "Something Stinks"
> Ed Norton Sewer Expert

3947. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:36:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C152AE4.41E9F043@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26994

WW - KB9TMP wrote:
> I'd rather have Adam and Eve as grandparents than to > have Bonzo and Cheetah the Chimp as ancestors!!!

Thus divorcing yourself from the beautiful experience of being linked to all life on earth. It gives me extreme pleasure to know I share 90% of my DNA with my dog and 50% on my DNA with a banana. I am kin to the trees that I climbed as a child. Actually, Homo sapiens are one of four surviving great apes, who share ancestors with the chimps but are obviously not direct descendants of the chimps. After all, we and chimps are 1% different and are only genetic cousins.

Just as Copernicus and Galileo shot down the religious beliefs concerning the position of the earth in the universe, DNA will shoot down the religious beliefs concerning our divine immaculate creation. If God had a hand in it at all, it was a pretty small hand. Multiplying the brain size by two times was a pretty small change in the DNA.

If God did create Homo sapiens, He didn't create us from dust unless that dust contained some primate DNA. He created us from a Homo genus that already existed. And He sure as hell didn't do it 120 hours after He created the heavens and the earth.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3948. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:39:42 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C152B9E.B3472A0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26995

Richard Plourde wrote:
> Uhhh... Heil? 468 is the number used for a FOLDED dipole. Actually, 491.8
> is the CORRECT value.

Depends on the VF of the wire. Bare copper wire is different from insulated copper wire. Both are different from free space.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3949. On the ignorance of learned men (Was:Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 21:49:01 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <uihIYRcgBHA.1620@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 26996

From KB9TMP

> Beware of the man who works hard to learn something, > learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is > full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
> without having come by their ignorance the hard way.
> -Peer's Law

I don't know who "Peer" is, but that isn't "Peer's Law". It is a direct quote from the Book of Bokonon, the "Bible" of the religion Bokononism.

In Cat's Cradle, Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., created a new religion, Bokononism. The holy scripture of Bokononism was the ever-growing "Books of Bokonon", written by Bokonon -- a British Episcopalian Negro from the island of Tobago whose real name was Lionel Boyd Johnson -- as a way to distract the people of San Lorenzo from their pitiful lives. What is sacred to Bokononists? Not God; just one thing: man.

Here is another excerpt from the first Book of Bokonon, roughly equivalent to "Genesis".

In the beginning, God created the earth, and he looked upon it in His cosmic loneliness.

And God said, "Let Us make living creatures out of mud, so the mud can see what We have done." And God created every living creature that now moveth, and one was man. Mud as man alone could speak. God leaned close as mud as man sat up, looked around, and spoke. Man blinked. "What is the purpose of all this?" he asked politely.

"Everything must have a purpose?" asked God.

"Certainly," said man.

"Then I leave it to you to think of one for all this," said God.

And He went away.

Now I suppose all the Christians here will descend on me, saying "Hans will go to hell." Well, it's their hell, not mine, so they can go to hell. I don't have the proper instructions.

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

The Last Rites of the Bokononism

(Each line is said once by the person giving the rites and then repeated by the dying person.)

God made mud.

God got lonesome.

So God said to some of the mud, "Sit up!"

"See all I've made," said God, "the hills, the sea, the sky, the stars."

And I was some of the mud that got to sit up and look around.

Lucky me, lucky mud.

I, mud, sat up and saw what a nice job God had done.

Nice going, God.

Nobody but you could have done it, God! I certainly couldn't have.
I feel very unimportant compared to You.

The only way I can feel the least bit important is to think of all the mud that didn't even get to sit up and look around.

I got so much, and most mud got so little.

Thank you for the honor!

Now mud lies down again and goes to sleep.

What memories for mud to have!

What interesting other kinds of sitting-up mud I met!

I loved everything I saw!

Good night.

I will go to heaven now.

I can hardly wait...

3950. Re: Where is KT4TR???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:01:18 UTC
From: dafirebottle@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210170118.16610.00001409@mb-bj.aol.com>
Source record: 26997

>Subject: Re: Where is KT4TR???
>From: "Frank Todd" k3eko@nospam.nidhog.net
>Date: Mon, Dec 10, 2001 3:28 PM
>Message-id: <%N9R7.4564$7y.12352@rwcrnsc54>
>
>Why do u want to know? Are you in love with him?
>
>Frank K3EKO

Well well, if it isn't Big Al's lap puppet Frankie the Toad.

I don't think Ed is in love with 'ol tingly rectum, he just wants to flush the turd out.

Now, go away little boy you annoy me.

Firebottle

3951. Re: Go Ahead, Send Me Another JOCKSTRAP

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:01:56 UTC
From: voobner@yahoo.com
Message-ID: <fbc7a2.0112101401.3dae9e59@posting.google.com>
Source record: 26998
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Jeez Sharkie, how come we didn't see any of this righteous outrage and elaborate traces when they were forging Leland Scott in the recent "Damn Code" thread?

-Aaron-

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGloboil.Net> wrote in message
news:<CsQQ7.2766$0X6.383342742@newssvr14.news.prodigy.com>...
> Forge:
> America Online, Inc. (NETBLK-AOL-MTC)
> 10600 Infantry Ridge Road
> Manassas, VA 20109
> US
>
> Netname: AOL-MTC
> Netblock: 64.12.0.0 - 64.12.255.255
>
> Coordinator:
> America Online, Inc. (AOL-NOC-ARIN) domains@AOL.NET
> 703-265-4670
>
> Domain System inverse mapping provided by:
>
> DNS-01.NS.AOL.COM 152.163.159.232
> DNS-02.NS.AOL.COM 205.188.157.232
>
> Record last updated on 16-Dec-1999.
> Database last updated on 8-Dec-2001 19:54:49 EDT.
>
> This person, along with a couple others have been > doing troll activities for the past year. All they do is > accuse & harass and cause hate & discontent.
>
> Landshark
>
>
> --
> Merry Christmas & Happy New Year to All

3952. here I am

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:17:00 UTC
From: kt4truntdrunk@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011210171700.16610.00001414@mb-bj.aol.com>
Source record: 26999

Who's looking for me?

I've been in an alcholic dry out clinic.

Drunken Bobby KT4TR

3953. Re: Where is KT4TR???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:36:17 UTC
From: leaky oil filled capacitors <itmrogers3@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <BNaR7.1259$5K4.170225@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27000

"Firebottle" <dafirebottle@aol.com> wrote in message news:20011210170118.16610.00001409@mb-bj.aol.com...
> >Subject: Re: Where is KT4TR???
> >From: "Frank Todd" k3eko@nospam.nidhog.net
> >Date: Mon, Dec 10, 2001 3:28 PM
> >Message-id: <%N9R7.4564$7y.12352@rwcrnsc54>
> >
> >Why do u want to know? Are you in love with him?
> >
> >Frank K3EKO
>
> Well well, if it isn't Big Al's lap puppet Frankie the Toad.
>
> I don't think Ed is in love with 'ol tingly rectum, he just wants to flush the > turd out.
>
> Now, go away little boy you annoy me.
>
> Firebottle

Now now now! You be nice to Frankie Mr. Firebottle.
I like cute little twinks like Frankie ooooohhhhhh!

3954. the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:46:12 UTC
From: leaky oil filled capacitors <itmrogers3@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <UWaR7.1287$5K4.173096@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 26901
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

Was listening to K1MAN's bulletin broadcast and heard Barry's ac4vo's fine comments to Glen. Barry appears to be a gentleman and articulate arbitrator. Good job Barry! While his interview was playing btwn 3-4PM Central time though, some nutcase comes up with music playing and all the other stuff to try to re-ignite this dumb radio war! Sheesh! Can't you music playing cb'er a-holes turn the radio OFF for a few weeks?
Let this thing work! We don't need a repeat performance of something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only spread all over 20 then onto 75.

3955. Re: Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:52:14 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C153C9E.825251EE@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26902

JAMES HAMPTON wrote:

> Don't sweat it. It's a forge.
>

I realize that, I'm just goofing on him....
I suppose you're goofing on me.....

73s Bob

3956. Re: When are you birds gonna admit I was right?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:54:39 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C153D2F.4C895760@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26903

>
> 2) There will eventually be more Extras than Generals

Isn't that what the FCC would hope for/expect? That most hams would eventually learn enough to upgrade to the top. And they didn't dumbdown the writtens....

3957. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 22:56:55 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C153DD6.25A71427@gte.net>
Source record: 26904
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> Maybe so. There are still laws against unlawful search and seizure. And, > as I said before, in reference to the seizure of my radio equipment, he will > be in deep doo doo when he confiscates my radio that was purchased with DoD > funds. ASSuming that a civilian is in the wrong is a sure way to get sued for > false arrest. While I have never been arrested in my life, nor have I ever > given a LEO a reason to hassle me, I have been talked to in a most > disrespectful manner, and treated like I didn't know what I was about. A cop > is NOT the arbitor of truth; just because he "thinks" you did something > doesn't make it so. I am, however, somewhat vindictive, a trait I inherited > from my Dad's side. I cannot STAND to be acused of something I did not do, > nor to be falsely hassled, inconvenienced, or unfairly caused to lose time or > money. While most people would not pursue the matter, I, OTH, would be > searching the law for a way to get the SOB back > legally. With the military VHF radio I have in addition to my ham equipment, > having that "stolen" at gunpoint WOULD be something the LEO would wish he had > never done. While the LEO has "friends" in the courts, I have friends in the > military and at the State level (if the seizure takes place in my state). I > would NOT let the matter rest.
>

Unless you are very rich, you may not have the political connections to really make a difference. And it would take a bundle of money to pursue a court battle.

Again, talk this over with your attorneys.
I think that you might get "an education".

3958. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:03:28 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C153F3E.82DD8D5E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26905

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> He said all you have to do is replace the names,
> and one is the same as the other.

That's right, Jim - within the CONTEXT of what you said about propaganda. I said nothing about the countries being the same in any other way.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3959. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:04:52 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C153FB1.42DF2CD1@gte.net>
Source record: 26906
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds > and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be using, > then he WILL be in trouble. First of all, just my Amateur license alone > exempts me from his jurisdiction. HE HAS NO AUTHORITY TO SEIZE OR ARREST > BASED ON MY USE OF RADIO ALONE. IF I act like a smartass, a jerk, or threaten > and cuss him, yes, disorderly conduct, and other charges could be added to > haul me in. Secondly, the State authorities are not going to be happy to > find themselves involved in a USAF CID investigation as to what happened to > the equipment. Have YOU ever been in military logistics? I have. Have you > ever seen a property audit where there was suspected mis-appropriation of > materiel? Trust me, it ain't a pretty sight. My supervisor, a Captain, once > screened and signed for a lot of small 110V generators. They were not > supposed to be placed on open requisition. USAF CID swooped down on our Hq to > inventory those > generators, and we had to return them. It, however, was not our mistake; it > was the mistake of the LGO at the materiel yard, but it didn't make us feel > any better; we went around with a high pucker factor for over 2 > weeks while they audited us!
>
> I know you are in denial (seems to me you must have a VERY close association > with LEOs or ARE one), but the incident with the young ham in Kentucky > illustrated this very thing: the way the laws are written, both on scanners > and local CB enforcement, cops have NO jurisdiction over hams. If he has a > question about a radio, the license is to stop him in his tracks. If he > pursues the issue, the court WILL overrule him: it HAS to. As long as I do > not resist him in any way, and the issue is strictly radio, then he has not > one leg to stand on. It ":might" be risky > to bring bogus charges in order to facilitate an arrest. That could cause an > investigation of the department and bring questions of corruption and > over-zealous cops. I also have a cousin and some friends that work in the > national news media. I wouldn't hesitate to have "certain" news personalities > bring adverse publicity to said department; like I said--I am very vindictive > when wronged.

You might win. Then your superiors in the CAP might find that you are "political liability" and drop
you like a hot rock.

I am well aware of military logistics. I was the NCOIC
for command group at KKMC for LTG Pagonis (22nd SUPCOM) during the Gulf War. Property book accounting was a big issue, especially after the combat phase.

The problem is that you have an idealistic view of the law. In reality, it does not work that way. If he feels it justified, a cop can just impound your vehicle, radios and all. They do it to drug dealers all the time.

What you have to learn is that cops do not see you as any different than any street punk. To most cops, all civilians are dangerous. Unless you live in a small county, most cops do not know who you are or "how important" you are. You are just someone they stop and they will approach you as if you are a possible murder. It is safer that way.

3960. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:07:12 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C15403F.46BA3B1@gte.net>
Source record: 26908
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds
> >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
>
> If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty
> words for his superiors.

These days, DOD often rolls for the local community. If you are uniform then a superior will relieve the local jail of your person then confine you to quarters. As you folks are civilians who are a bit less than reservists, you really do not have that much "covering
fire".

Again, you guys really need to talk to your lawyers to understand how modern American
courts really work.

3961. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:08:08 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C154058.F2A1728A@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26909

>
> > Then in many parts of this country, you're simply not going to find > > work today (beyond the basic sales clerk or laborer level). A growing > > number of employers are now resorting to job contracts with a long > > list of rules added and a battery of psychological tests

Do companies even bother with those, considering how easy it is to "throw" them? I remember long ago having to take one of those tests, and questions like "Do you steal stuff?", "Do you cheat?", and such. Any moron would know what answer to give if they really wanted the job.

Nowdays, companies do "behavioral interviewing". Which just turns out to be a method used to see if the job turns you on, and be interested in it. If the job doesn't turn me on, I really don't want to waste my time anyway. I can't do work that sucks...
I'd rather do something I'm into, I'll get better raises etc.

3962. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:08:30 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <OfbR7.297670$5A3.115599360@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 26907
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message

> I work for a governmental agency.

Which means your an expert on Police procedure across the country?

> Plus I have a number of friends who > are LEOs who I serve with in the
> military reserves.

> I know procedure. And I know rookie
> cops. When in doubt, arrest.

Again this is just your over exagerated opinion, nothing more. I think elephants can fly to but hey thats my opinion. What procedure do you know? So now you know all rookie cops, simply amazing are you psycotic ... Opps typo I mean psychic.....

>
> >

> That came from a buddy who is > a Chicago cop and how is a captain
> in the Army Reserves.

More opinions and heresay! With no basis for fact.

> You have not been in court lately, have you?

Yes as a matter of fact i have.How about you?

> The cops see their main duty in getting people > into court. At that point they see that they have > done their job and it is the courts' job to determine
> who was correct.

It is the Cops job to enforce the laws that are out in our society, It is there job to get criminals off the streets, if they had the choice they would rather not have to go to court or arrest anyone.

>
> Cops are very hard nosed these days. What I > am trying to get across is that the average cop
> does not know who you are, does not care. If > you give him any grief over your "rights", he calls
> in back up, arrests you and then lets the courts
> settle.

They also are under alot of scrutiny these days, in NJ the State Police are under a lot of scrutiny all motor vehicle stops are video recorded and the stops are reviewed by the federal Government. So "they" are not arresting people who complain about their rights. They are arresting people because they violated a Law. Most cops are well aware of what peoples rights are within the letter of the law. Do exceptions happen of course they do but the brush you are painting with is far to wide and just your opinion.

This is exactly what most of my cop buddies
> say that they will do if they are uncertain about > a law. They see it as court problem, not theirs.

This says it all :: snipped fron N9NWO's qrz page.

I have served for over 30 years in politics. I have been a precinct committeeman, a delegate to the State Party convention several times and just finished a term as a member of my local township board.

3963. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:10:32 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1540E8.72D11E82@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26910

>
> Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed > highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide > behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot > possibly be discussed with the door open?
>

Salaries? Doing that out in the open really pisses off management.
Once when I got downsized, I told everyone what salary I was paid. A little payback.... ;-)

3964. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:13:24 UTC
From: phil <phil@phil.com>
Message-ID: <u1ag92np0v5h3c@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 26911
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

what? i missed the war? damnit! how did K1MAN come up with the idea of these bulletins anyway?

> some nutcase comes up with music playing and all the other stuff to try to > re-ignite this dumb radio war!

lol. um, what kind of music was it? hopefully something like led zeppelin. :p

> something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only > spread all over 20 then onto 75.

tell us more about these wars! i had no idea they existed till a few days ago... what happened on 14.313? spill the beans. maybe i should get my license and cause 'a great distrubance in the force'... do Obi Wan proud.

phil :)

'some jack#$$ keeps playing led zeppelin'

3965. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:18:15 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1542B7.B547B016@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 26912

Jim Kelley wrote:

>
>
> The best solution is the transporter they have on Star Trek

Now if Bell Labs could actually develop such a machine.
It would look like a phone booth, including a touchtone keypad you'd use to dial the phone number of where you want to go. Then you'd be beamed there.

But don't think of what obscene phone calls would turn into... :-)

3966. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:20:32 UTC
From: Your Friend Bill <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net> Message-ID: <3C154340.CDBE7E16@coqui.net>
Source record: 26913
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

phil wrote:
>
> what? i missed the war? damnit! how did K1MAN come up with the idea of these > bulletins anyway?
>
> > some nutcase comes up with music playing and all the other stuff to try to > > re-ignite this dumb radio war!
>
> lol. um, what kind of music was it? hopefully something like led zeppelin.
> :p
>
> > something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only > > spread all over 20 then onto 75.
>
> tell us more about these wars! i had no idea they existed till a few days > ago... what happened on 14.313? spill the beans. maybe i should get my > license and cause 'a great distrubance in the force'... do Obi Wan proud.
>
> phil :)

14.313 (and a sizable chunk of 75 meters) were turned over to the 'Citizens Radio Service" about the time SSB became into popular use...and have gone downhill from there.

:-)
Bill

3967. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:27:00 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1544BB.296B7FD4@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26914

Sean G Gilley wrote:
>
> I've worked in three very large companies and > a couple smaller ones. While in some of those > companies there was training on how to treat > and interact with others, I've never been > subjected to any psychological tests. Further,
> I don't know of anyone who rigorously avoided > contact in the way you talk about it. And I'm > not at the sales clerk or laborer level. And > I'm not in the south, as well.

When you applied for the job, you were not asked about your opinions about working with others, your experiences working in certain situations, how you would handle certain situations, and so forth? These are all psychological test questions designed to reveal your physical (nervous, etc) and verbal (confident, evasive, etc) reactions. And I would find it very hard to believe an employer would hire you for anything more than a laborer position without knowing exactly how you would deal with his customers and employees. Likewise, since it is now federal law, I would be equally surprised if your company had no specific sexual harassment guidelines as a condition of employment.

You said some companies had training on "how to treat and interact with others." None of that training addressed workplace dating and sexual harassment? If you were hired in a management position, you were not expected to be aware of the laws and issues concerning sexual harassment in the workplace? This (workplace law, including sexual harassment) is basic training in most college business courses today.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3968. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:47:06 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15496C.BF25B965@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26915

CAM wrote:
>
> The HP/Intel shared computer architecture? Discuss > that with an open door and you will be escorted to > the open door without delay.

Yes, often executives will get together as a group to discuss company business behind closed doors, but rarely are two employees expected to meet behind closed doors to discuss such things. In fact, if we're talking about product development, private discussions about such information would be looked at with suspicion in most companies. Indeed, that (two employees meeting privately) is one of several key things security personnel are taught to look for.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3969. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-10 23:57:51 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C154BEF.6CF6EC10@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26916

CAM wrote:
>
> You have got to be kidding, Larry. Would you like > the whole company to know how you did on your > yearly review? Would you like the whole company to > know about the latest technological secrets? A host > of things need to be kept confidential. Leaving a > door open during a confidential meeting at Intel > was grounds for termination.

First of all, you responded to me, not Larry, Cecil. Anyway, do you talk so loudly when discussing a yearly review - so loudly the "whole company" would know? And what "technological secrets" would you discuss that the employees just outside your door, often your own staff working on that very technology, would not be allowed to hear? And I seriously doubt your claim about Intel?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3970. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:07:55 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C154E47.59645791@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26917

Krell wrote:
>
> Then I guess you don't expect anyone to take > you seriously.

When it comes to you, I most certainly don't expect that, Krell.

> Strange that I haven't heard anything, other > than from certain "Christians." How about > posting some references of these books, > magazines, etc.

Then you've been living in a cage for the last several decades.

> You insist on believing something that is a > lie.

It is not a lie, Krell.

> When presented with facts, you still adhere to > what you've been told. You will only believe > that which enforces your own bias.

It is a "fact" that this (using the word "satanic" to describe those who claim to engage in these practices) is common usage in the English language. What I've been told by you, Kim, and Rick, goes directly against that fact.

> Satan is not mentioned anywhere in their beliefs > or rituals, so how can they possibly be satanic > (or "Satanic")?

Already answered several times, Krell - they claim to engage in practices that are described as "satanic" in this culture.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3971. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:09:51 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C154EBA.F07EA50E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26918

Krell wrote:
>
> Again, name some specific examples. IOW, put up or shut up.

Do your own research, Krell. I have no time for someone who is too blind to see what is widely available right in front of their own face.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3972. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:12:04 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C154F3F.96718046@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26919

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> The best solution is the transporter they have
> on Star Trek (snip)

Exactly. Sadly, problems like this are much easier to solve on television than they are in real life.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3973. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:21:43 UTC
From: radiosigs <radiosigs@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9v3n0g$g6g$1@slb7.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 26923
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

Better watch out there friend or you'll be asked to contribute to Herbie's latest defense fund. It's coming.

In article <u1ag92np0v5h3c@corp.supernews.com>, "phil" <phil@phil.com>
wrote:

> what? i missed the war? damnit! how did K1MAN come up with the idea of these > bulletins anyway?
>
>> some nutcase comes up with music playing and all the other stuff to try to >> re-ignite this dumb radio war!
>
> lol. um, what kind of music was it? hopefully something like led zeppelin.
> :p
>
>> something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only >> spread all over 20 then onto 75.
>
> tell us more about these wars! i had no idea they existed till a few days > ago... what happened on 14.313? spill the beans. maybe i should get my > license and cause 'a great distrubance in the force'... do Obi Wan proud.
>
> phil :)
>
> 'some jack#$$ keeps playing led zeppelin'
>
>
>

3974. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:30:00 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15536F.42973A21@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26920

N2EY wrote:
>
> You are right to be skeptical. I'm old enough to > remember when we were promised things like George > Jetson aircars and nuclear power that would be
> "too cheap to meter".

The reason I'm so skeptical is because my wife just finished a report addressing the projected food production growth versus consumption in the near future. Based on her report, with expanded farm lands and better production methods, food production is expected to grow by about 11% by the year 2050. Yet, at the same time, food consumption of this growing population is expected to increase by at least 40%. In other words, we are not about to start taking farm land to grow fuels - we'll need all we have just to grow food.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3975. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 00:39:08 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1555AC.F7309FDC@uci.edu>
Source record: 26921

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > He said all you have to do is replace the names,
> > and one is the same as the other.
>
> That's right, Jim - within the CONTEXT of what you said about propaganda. I > said nothing about the countries being the same in any other way.

Nobody (i.e. press, religious leaders, government leaders) is telling me to be hateful and angry. Who is telling you to be that way?

3976. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 01:12:10 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <OU8W#CegBHA.1232@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 26922

Bright Dwight said:

> Yes, often executives will get together as a group to discuss > company business behind closed doors, but rarely are two > employees expected to meet behind closed doors to discuss > such things. In fact, if we're talking about product development, > private discussions about such information would be looked > at with suspicion in most companies.

"Most companies"?????? You're completely mis-informed.

I manage a product development group consisting of more than 30 engineers, 40 technicians, and several dozen support people.
Persons of both genders populate all levels of this group. In their day-to-day tasks there are occasions where small groups (often as small as two) collaborate in relative secrecy on many development projects. In a professional environment this is not "viewed with suspicion" as you claim, and mixed-gender development teams are not unusual nor are they subject to special scrutiny. Discrimination and restrictive rules based on gender are a mark of a dark-ages company, not a modern enterprise.

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

3977. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 01:30:52 UTC
From: Garvin@Truss.net Message-ID: <1f47txx.jibj4rbnld52N%Garvin@Truss.net>
Source record: 26924
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

Unclaimed Mysteries <k4doh@mindspring.com> wrote:

> "Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
> news:3C14500C.90B11EDE@ix.netcom.com...
> >
> >
> > Trouser Trout wrote:
> >
> > > Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will > show
> > > this.
> > >
> >
> > "Candygram!"
> >
>
> "Mrs. Mhfhmr?"

Mrs. Mahellmahey.....

--
Do infants enjoy infancy as much as adults enjoy adultery?□ - George Carlin□□□□□□□□□□□□

3978. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 01:46:44 UTC
From: Your Friend Bill <"Remove The NO In The Reply Address"@coqui.net>
Message-ID: <3C156584.B4EB927D@coqui.net>
Source record: 26925
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

radiosigs wrote:
>
> Better watch out there friend or you'll be asked to contribute to Herbie's > latest defense fund. It's coming.

Why would he need a defense fund? Maybe because he's gambling away his own cash at Divi Carina Bay most every night? Ask him about that.
-Bill

3979. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 02:29:57 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v3r0401o4p@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26926

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C154E47.59645791@sccoast.net...
> > Satan is not mentioned anywhere in their beliefs
> > or rituals, so how can they possibly be satanic > > (or "Satanic")?
>
>
> Already answered several times, Krell - they claim to engage in practices that > are described as "satanic" in this culture.

The only thing that they claim is the fact that they acknowledge certain "Christians" call them satanic.
It doesn't mean they really are.

3980. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 02:32:18 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v3r4g01ofc@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 26927

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C154EBA.F07EA50E@sccoast.net...
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > Again, name some specific examples. IOW, put up or shut up.
>
>
> Do your own research, Krell. I have no time for someone who is too blind
to > see what is widely available right in front of their own face.

OK. You asked for it. Here's a link I found...

http://skepdic.com/wicca.html

3981. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 02:50:33 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <6qeR7.139726$8n4.10306298@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26928
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO like stink on sh.

Jerry

9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C153DD6.25A71427@gte.net...
> > Maybe so. There are still laws against unlawful search and seizure. And, > > as I said before, in reference to the seizure of my radio equipment, he will > > be in deep doo doo when he confiscates my radio that was purchased with DoD > > funds. ASSuming that a civilian is in the wrong is a sure way to get sued for > > false arrest. While I have never been arrested in my life, nor have I ever > > given a LEO a reason to hassle me, I have been talked to in a most > > disrespectful manner, and treated like I didn't know what I was about. A cop > > is NOT the arbitor of truth; just because he "thinks" you did something > > doesn't make it so. I am, however, somewhat vindictive, a trait I inherited > > from my Dad's side. I cannot STAND to be acused of something I did not do, > > nor to be falsely hassled, inconvenienced, or unfairly caused to lose time or > > money. While most people would not pursue the matter, I, OTH, would be > > searching the law for a way to get the SOB back > > legally. With the military VHF radio I have in addition to my ham equipment, > > having that "stolen" at gunpoint WOULD be something the LEO would wish he had > > never done. While the LEO has "friends" in the courts, I have friends in the > > military and at the State level (if the seizure takes place in my state). I > > would NOT let the matter rest.
> >
>
> Unless you are very rich, you may not have > the political connections to really make a > difference. And it would take a bundle of > money to pursue a court battle.

>
> Again, talk this over with your attorneys.
> I think that you might get "an education".
>
>

3982. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 02:56:07 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <rBeR7.114613$S93.5957864@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26929
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Hehe! Don't worry--it will NOT be on the LEO's list as an "illegal CB".
Actually it is a Tait
2000 built for USAF/CAP and other military uses. SHHHH! Don't tell the LEO, but it has our state's HP VHF frequency in it! But it is legal. It is NOT a radio the cop wants to swipe.

73

Jerry
K4KWH

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net> wrote in message
news:2CD77A301AF336CE.E4D9F3159D905A58.691D7393E0612A2F@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 14:34:52 -0500, "Jerry Oxendine" > <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote:
>
> >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds
> >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
>
> If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > words for his superiors.
>
>
>
> Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
> kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

3983. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 03:20:31 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <kYeR7.114824$S93.5968376@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26930
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Now, tell me this> If I am driving my personal car, not speeding, not violating any laws, in uniform or not, and a LEO decides to become "curious" about my radio equipment, he will have NO leg to stand on. First line of defense--the Amateur license. Most cops DO know what Amateur Radio is. I have already been asked about this at license checks. Now, let's say the LEO decides that this is not good enough for him, and at the time, I happen to have the Tait radio on state rescue.
In spite of courteous efforts to explain what it is, the LEO decides that he is going to confiscate my radios and does so. The first call will go to Col. Charles Layno in Greensboro, NC. He or I will then put in a call to Maxwell AFB, Al explaining what happened. I will then sit back and wait.
YOU can think what you like, and all the civilian "contacts" in the world will not stop what happens next. The LEO's supervisor WILL get a call from Maxwell "requesting" the equipment be returned.
It will be made clear that their department WILL return the radio without delay. You are not understanding; the equipment is NOT civilian--it is charged out on a DOD Form and is accountable to the HQ to which it is assigned. It would be the SAME thing if a cop stopped a Marine convoy and "confiscated" the radios out of a Humvee. CID would NOT let it go. I would do nothing--I'd be out of the loop sitting on the sidelines just waiting for the sh to hit the fan AND laughing my a off at the cop

Your attitude seems to be that cops can do anything and get away with it. That may be true up to a point. On the news tonight, for example, there is a police chief in hot water in a nearby town. Seems he answered a call to a ruckus involving a group of teens. One of the teens was not involved in the fights that broke out, and was leaving the scene as the chief drove up. The kid was halfway inside his car when the chief rushed up, grabbed the kid and flung him down onto the pavement injuring him. Now the cop says it was the kid resisting arrest. But there were 20 witnesses that say the cop just ran up and grabbed the boy and threw him to the ground. The fight was inside the recreation center. If the cop is guilty I hope the guy is fired and is never allowed to work in law enforcement again. IF the kid DID resist arrest, or become belligerent, then HE should have to pay.

Jerry

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C15403F.46BA3B1@gte.net...
> > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds
> > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> >
> > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > words for his superiors.
>
> These days, DOD often rolls for the local > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> will relieve the local jail of your person then > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> you really do not have that much "covering
> fire".
>
> Again, you guys really need to talk to your > lawyers to understand how modern American > courts really work.
>
>
>

3984. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 03:54:06 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <RrfR7.115254$S93.5981725@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 26931
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

As far as my own county is concerned, I have lived here since 1967. I know just about everybody around here that counts. I have NEVER been arrested in my entire life. I have a very conservative appearance with no long hair or mustache. My clothes are always clean--unless I am working on an old car. I know lots of the cops here including the county Sheriff, many city cops, and my ex-brother-in-law who is on the force. My car tag even states "USAF Auxiliary, NC Wing CAP XXX You are still missing something here. What I am telling you is: sure, the cop can take my stuff. Now if I don't give him grief in any way, do not resist his efforts to seize the radio equipment, the only recourse is to show him the Amateur license and the Property tag on the non-civilian radio, YES, he can take my stuff: do you think I am going to resist a cop with a gun? But IF you think Maxwell AFB is going to sit there and let that cop KEEP that equipment, you're loonier than 40 hells! Again, if you think the local yokels will stare down the CID audit team, you are nuts. It WILL be returned.

I have been involved in the organization since 1964. Now if I decide to embarrass the LEO, I don't need to bring said organization into the picture; all I need is a copy of the FCC regulations that preempt Bubba's authority and an accurate account of what happened. You see, I won't HAVE to involve them: USAF/CAP will take care of the confiscated equipment issue. I will make the cop look stupid and embarrass his department over the Amateur issue by causing a TV reporter to come snooping around, asking questions, and putting them on national TV. Prior to that, being briefed on the FCC preemption, a judge would likely strike any charge of "illegal radios and return them.

NOW! Having beat this horse to death, I have to say that this is a very unlike situation. Most cops are professionals and conduct themselves in a respectful, courteous manner. They are not stupid and will not put themselves into a situation that could cause them embarrassment. Many cops are even hams, and as such, understand--even know-- the rules and how they apply to hams. It is the rogue, the big headed rookie, the guy with the swelled head, the one whose psyco-logical profile misled his testers that could cause this trouble. They don't usually last long tending to get themselves in trouble. Hey, I've been thru MANY license checks, especially after Sept 11, and have been merely asked what were the radios for. Most of them were already familiar with ham radio--even CAP--and have never had a problem. I know the rogue cops are out there because I've been stopped by one--even though I was NOT speeding or doing anything out of the ordinary. He was most discourteous, cut me off when I attempted to ask a question, wouldn't let me talk at all. The stop was a mistake--the car he was looking for was a sedan: I was in a station wagon--just the same color. But he took his mistake out on ME. It is the rogue who would decide that his authority cannot be challenged, and he is the one I would take on thru legal and military channels if his "error" involved the seizing of DOD equipment. That is all I am saying. And here, this thread ends as far as I am concerned--no need to keep this up.

73

Jerry
K4KWH

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C153FB1.42DF2CD1@gte.net...
> > IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government
funds
> > and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be using,
> > then he WILL be in trouble. First of all, just my Amateur license alone > > exempts me from his jurisdiction. HE HAS NO AUTHORITY TO SEIZE OR ARREST
> > BASED ON MY USE OF RADIO ALONE. IF I act like a smartass, a jerk, or threaten > > and cuss him, yes, disorderly conduct, and other charges could be added
to > > haul me in. Secondly, the State authorities are not going to be happy
to > > find themselves involved in a USAF CID investigation as to what happened
to > > the equipment. Have YOU ever been in military logistics? I have. Have
you > > ever seen a property audit where there was suspected mis-appropriation
of > > materiel? Trust me, it ain't a pretty sight. My supervisor, a Captain, once

> > screened and signed for a lot of small 110V generators. They were not > > supposed to be placed on open requisition. USAF CID swooped down on our Hq to > > inventory those > > generators, and we had to return them. It, however, was not our mistake; it > > was the mistake of the LGO at the materiel yard, but it didn't make us feel > > any better; we went around with a high pucker factor for over 2 > > weeks while they audited us!
> >
> > I know you are in denial (seems to me you must have a VERY close association > > with LEOs or ARE one), but the incident with the young ham in Kentucky > > illustrated this very thing: the way the laws are written, both on scanners > > and local CB enforcement, cops have NO jurisdiction over hams. If he has a > > question about a radio, the license is to stop him in his tracks. If he > > pursues the issue, the court WILL overrule him: it HAS to. As long as I
do > > not resist him in any way, and the issue is strictly radio, then he has not
> > one leg to stand on. It ":might" be risky > > to bring bogus charges in order to facilitate an arrest. That could cause an > > investigation of the department and bring questions of corruption and > > over-zealous cops. I also have a cousin and some friends that work in
the > > national news media. I wouldn't hesitate to have "certain" news personalities > > bring adverse publicity to said department; like I said--I am very vindictive
> > when wronged.
>
> You might win. Then your superiors in the CAP
> might find that you are "political liability" and drop
> you like a hot rock.
>
> I am well aware of military logistics. I was the NCOIC
> for command group at KKMC for LTG Pagonis (22nd > SUPCOM) during the Gulf War. Property book accounting > was a big issue, especially after the combat phase.
>
> The problem is that you have an idealistic view of the > law. In reality, it does not work that way. If he feels > it justified, a cop can just impound your vehicle, radios > and all. They do it to drug dealers all the time.
>
> What you have to learn is that cops do not see you > as any different than any street punk. To most cops, > all civilians are dangerous. Unless you live in a small > county, most cops do not know who you are or "how > important" you are. You are just someone they stop > and they will approach you as if you are a possible > murder. It is safer that way.

>

3985. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 04:16:24 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C158898.ECD40898@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26932

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> In fact, if we're talking about product > development, private discussions about such information would be looked at with > suspicion in most companies.

You simply don't know what you are talking about, Dwight. At Intel, a logic designer meets with a process designer quite often in a one-on-one meeting. Most companies trust their employees.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3986. Re: On the ignorance of learned men (Was:Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 04:21:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1589BC.3AE13EEF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 26933

K0HB wrote:
> "Everything must have a purpose?" asked God.
> "Certainly," said man.
> "Then I leave it to you to think of one for all this," said God.
> And He went away.

Reminds me somewhat of "Letters From Earth" by Mark Twain.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

3987. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:03:26 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011211000326.10110.00000324@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 26935

In article <3696290E5C2050EA.304DAB87A74355A8.039FCE8965A55266@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On Fri, 07 Dec 2001 18:27:35 -0500, Dwight Stewart
><stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
>> Yes, the meaning of "Satanic" (capital "s") is clear - it refers to >>the religious context of the word and is the one you continue to use >>in spite of my repeated objections. However, the meaning of "satanic" >>(lower case "s") seems much less clear to you - and it has nothing to >>do with "Satan."
>
> Would you care to even ATTEMPT to justify a statement that >stupid?
>
Maybe the Devil made him do it.

(a tip of the hat to Flip Wilson as Geraldine Jones)

73 de Jim, N2EY

3988. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:03:28 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011211000328.10110.00000325@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 26937

In article <E9AC04CD975C8D90.5809AFC9ED0370D6.8F9CEAD6C1B7D06B@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 08 Dec 2001 15:49:27 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>>>>The Roman and Greek "nature religions" tried for centuries to eradicate >>>>Christianity and its source religion, Judaism. Do you know who Antiochus >>>was?
>>>
>>> So?
>>
>>Guess you don't know who Antiochus was.
>
> As it happens, I do. Are you referring to Antiochus the first, >second, or third (also known as Antiochus the Great)?

Any of 'em will do. Point is, some pagans were trying to wipe out Christianity and its source religion (Judaism).
>
> What I _don't_ know is what someone who lived 2000+ years ago >in the Middle East has to do with wicca and paganism in the modern >day.

Same thing that those ancients have to do with wiccans and pagans today.

>Antiochus (pick your number) was a political figure, not a >religious one.

Tell that to Judah the Maccabee & Co.
>
>>> The Christians did a pretty good job of reversing that trend
>>>when it came to the Pagan faiths of Northern Europe--as well as the >>>Jewish faith in Spain--or did the Inquisition slip past you unnoticed.
>>
>>I knew about the Inquisition by the time I was 11.
>
> Which Inquisition?

The one nobody expects. Also, persecution of Jews in Italy, Germany, Poland, Russia, and elsewhere in Europe.
>
> Certainly not the one where pagans were being slaughtered by >christians in an effort to stamp out their religion (you know, the one >that uses pentagrams as one of its symbols?)--and (of course) steal >their land and property.

You mean manifest destiny?
>
> Perhaps the one in Spain where it was the Jews who were the >target. Or the French one where it was a too-powerful sect of >christians. But certainly not the one in Northern Europe.

All sorts of 'em. Then there are the Vikings and their escapades in the British Isles. They were pagans, I believe.

>>>>Constantine changed all that.
>>>
>>> And a RC Pope restarted the killing.
>>
>>Yup. The best argument for separation of church and state is the record of >what >>happens without it.
>
> Then how can you--or anyone else who believes that (as I do) >support the concept of morals laws which can ONLY be based on >religious values?

Leges sine moribus vanae.

You are presuming your conclusion. Morals laws can be based on things other than purely religious values.

The problem really comes down to this: How does a society decide what laws to enact? The American system is to go with the views of the majority, with various checks and balances to avoid radical changes and remind the people of certain basic concepts. The alternative is minority rule.
>
>>> Perhaps you can see a difference between a Roman killing a >>>person for his or her religion and a Christian doing the same.
>>
>>You are equating "Roman Catholic" with "Christian". They are not the same.
>One >>is a subset of the other. Not all Christian religions have a history of >killing >>in the name of religion.
>
> And not all Romans killed Christians either. So what? The >analogy still is valid.

No, it isn't.
>
>>>Personally, I can't.
>>
>>Then present the whole story. When the pagans were in power, they killed >>Christians. When the tables were turned, the killing continued. Paybacks.
>
> So you agree that paganism (which uses the pentagram as a >symbol) predates christianity, right?

Various forms of paganism go all the way back to prehistory. I dunno about the use of pentagrams.
>
> In that case, how can paganism POSSIBLY be satanic?

Lots of ways. I never gave an opinion on it.

>It existed
>before satan was INVENTED by the christians.

Who says Satan was invented by Christians? You're presuming your conclusion, again.

>>> "<he> was both a passionate anti-Semite and a ferocious >>>believer in absolute obedience to political authority. He wanted (his >>>nation is named here) rid of the Jews and he advised that the be >>>deprived of "All their cash and jewels and silver and gold" and >>>furthermore, "that their synagogues or schools be set on fire, that >>>their houses be broken up and destroyed . . . and they be put under a >>>roof or stable, like the gypsies . . . in misery and captivity as they >>>incessantly lament and complain to God about us"--advice that was >>>later followed literally."
>>>
>>> He also referred to the peasants who opposed the government as
>>>"mad dogs," and employed a "coarseness and brutality of language >>>unequaled in <nation> history."
>>
>>The Jewish people have been persecuted by so many that there are plenty of >>candidates for that description. Offhand it sounds like Torquemada, but it >>could also be any of a number of popes, czars, kings, bishops, and other >>enemies of freedom. Hitler comes to mind, of course, but that's too obvious.
>>Martin Luther turned against the Jews when he realized that they weren't >going >>to convert to his version of Christianity. Lots of others. The country could >be
>>Germany, Russia, England, Spain or many others.
>
> Very good. Martin Luther is correct. Sort of sounds like >Hitler, doesn't he?

The Third Reich tapped into a very old tradition of anti-semitism.
>
> BTW, for the totally out-of-touch-with-reality among us >(that's you Dwight, read this), Martin Luther is the FOUNDER of the >protestant form of christianity.

No, he wasn't. He was a Roman Catholic priest who was disillusioned with the Roman church and successfully started one form of protestantism.

Breakaways from Rome predate ML. Like the Eastern Orthodox folks. And lots of others who were denounced as heretics and persecuted.

>The quote comes from Shirer's "The >Rise And Fall of the Third Reich" and points out that Luther was a >VERY strong influence on Hitler's thinking and doctrine.

>
I think modern day Lutherans have gotten beyond that, though.

> You got him correctly.

Of course.
>
> See! You CAN pass academic tests!

Getting my degrees required some of that.

> You get a star on your paper!

Didja know that George Washington wanted six pointed stars on the first American flag? Betsy Ross convinced him to use five pointed ones because a five pointed star could be made by a single scissors cut of properly-folded cloth.

>>The concepts of religious tolerance and separation of church and state are >very >>new ones, historically speaking. Many who fled here to escape religious >>persecution (like the Puritans) turned into the persecutors when they became >>established in their new land.
>
> True.

Salem witch trials, too.
>
>>Here's a question for you: When and where did the ideas of separation of >church
>>and state, and universal religious tolerance, first become established in
>the >>USA?
>
> Among the Native Americans, actually.

Which ones? Incas, Mayas, Lakota?
>
> If you are looking for the first time the term "separation of >church and state" was used, otoh, the phrase, "a wall of separation >between church and state," was coined by President Thomas Jefferson in >a carefully crafted letter to the Danbury Baptists in 1802, when they >had asked him to explain the First Amendment.

The idea is much older, however.
>
> Finally, if you are looking for the first PRACTICE of >religious tolerance in the US->depending on your interpretation of "religious tolerance" you >probably are referring to either New York, Pennsylvania, or Maryland >(probably Pennsylvania). If you want to be more specific, I'll be glad >to do so as well.

Pennsylvania, 1680
>
>>>>Most religions have feast days because people need them, spiritually and >>>>psychologically. For example, most European religions have some sort of >>>winter
>>>>equinox
>>
>>Actually, solstice.
>
>>>celebration because of the effects lack of daylight causes in many >>>>people. For peoples with limited understanding of how the seasons and >>>weather
>>>>work, and with limited artificial lighting, the loss of the Sun at the end
>>>of >>>>December could be very disturbing.
>>
>>(Solstice)

>>>>celebrations, whatever they are >>>>called, remind us that the Light will return and spring will comne again.
>It
>>>>was natural for the Christians to put Christmas on the first day when the >>>>daylight gets noticeably longer using simple methods of measurement.
>>>
>>> Which "conveniently" fell directly on a Pagan festival day, of >>>course, as did other Christian holy days.
>>
>>So? The purpose was the same. The sun doesn't cooperate just because humans >>convert. Having feast days on other days would be an admission that the >pagan >>religions had priority.
>
> Weak.

Nope. Simple truth.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3989. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:03:29 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011211000329.10110.00000326@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 26934

In article <6be98d7d.0112092202.44dc429e@posting.google.com>, stewartx@sccoast.net (Dwight Stewart) writes:

>Rick Adams wrote...
>>
>> But you DO have the alternative (as do I) of >> moving to an area where public transportation
>> is available. (snip)
>
>
> So your suggested solution to the transportation needs of the >elderly is to simply tell them to move where public transportation is >available. Nice guy.
>
Sounds like a classic case of NIMBY, Dwight.

73 de Jim, N2EY

3990. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:03:29 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011211000329.10110.00000327@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 26936

In article <3C15536F.42973A21@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> You are right to be skeptical. I'm old enough to >> remember when we were promised things like George >> Jetson aircars and nuclear power that would be
>> "too cheap to meter".
>
> The reason I'm so skeptical is because my wife just finished a report >addressing the projected food production growth versus consumption in the >near future.

Sounds pretty serious and definitive.

>Based on her report, with expanded farm lands and better production >methods, food production is expected to grow by about 11% by the year 2050.
>Yet, >at the same time, food consumption of this growing population is expected to >increase by at least 40%.

Sounds like I better get going on the garden. And a diet.

>In other words, we are not about to start taking >farm >land to grow fuels - we'll need all we have just to grow food.

I dunno. How much land is there in the USA that would be suitable for farming but is not used?

73 de Jim, N2EY

3991. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:12:01 UTC
From: phil <phil@phil.com>
Message-ID: <u1b59ifs4bn8e7@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 26938
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

> Better watch out there friend or you'll be asked to contribute to Herbie's > latest defense fund. It's coming.

wow, i'm lost here... do you know K1MAN? i did not hear any of his bulletins yet... what is the bulletin about?

phil :)

3992. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 05:24:57 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C15989E.3A427B9A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 26939

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C150C33.EF7FF739@earthlink.net...
> > Richard Plourde wrote:
> > >
> > > > Krell writes:
> > >
> > > > >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring > debate,
> > > > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He was > > > > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high
> speed
> > > > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a > frequency
> > > > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in > feet,
> > > he > > > > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)
> > >
> > > "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message > > > news:20011209235008.15992.00000447@mb-
> > >
> > > > Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
> > >
> > > Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.
> > >
> > > Hey Krell...
> > >
> > > "Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)
> >
> > Rich, the 468 figure is for a dipole. The yagi DE length can be very > > different, i.e. when applying a hair pin match.
> >
> > Go sit in the corner with Krell and the other guy.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> 492 is for a true half-wavelength. It's 468 when multiplied by the .95 > constant, which has become an accept standard. I've seen 462 used when > making a folded dipole from 300-ohm twin lead.
>
> So I guess you're sitting in the corner with the rest of us, if you insist > that yours is the only right answer.

I'm not sitting there with you guys until you provide proof that the ARRL Handbook, The Radio Handbook, the ARRL Antenna book and the question pool are incorrect.

The "true" half wave length disallowing for anything else would be 500 divided by frequency.

Dave K8MN

3993. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 06:43:06 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15AAEB.4DB302F1@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26940

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Nobody (i.e. press, religious leaders, > government leaders) is telling me to > be hateful and angry. (snip)

So you just woke up one morning angry enough to hate Arabs on your own? Of course we've been influenced by the media and government, Jim. Without that influence, we probably wouldn't associate "terrorism" with the Arabs (99 percent are not involved in terrorism). And more of us would probably realise that almost no evidence has been offered to show a connection between Bin Laden and the WTC attack. Or the Taliban and the WTC attack. Nobody is saying one can't be angry, Jim. Just be honest about it, and honest about the source.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3994. Re: A Radio Project For Africa

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:03:01 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4ejljit1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26945
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy

In article <2001129-535-541464@foorum.com>, H. I. NABRI <nabrihussein@hotmail.com> writes:
As an NGO working in the field of Human Rights in Africa we are developing plans for the creation of a Radio in Africa.

"If it does not concern a freeband activation I am not interested"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3995. CB DX on 12 meters

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:05:16 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4ens$jl4$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26946

"Hammies are hereby put on notice that CB DX operation will commence on 24.850 on 12/18/01"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3996. Re: Help !!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:08:16 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4etgjor1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26943

Leland KC8LD0 <Leland_member@newsguy.com> writes:
I can't understand CW,can I blow a VE for the upgrade ?

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

"Lelnad I always thought you were of that persuasion. You ought to try sniffing jock straps as I do. Less worrisome and so much less risk of AIDS"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3997. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:11:00 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4f2kjrn1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26944

Throw in Plourde's idea of low power and you've guaranteed the similarity to CB which Britain, after years of battling over the issue, already has. This idea is nearly as bad as baked bean sandwiches, grilled tomatoes, bangers, boiled coffee and blackened, cold toast which the Brits also introduced. Remember: The Brits invented the toilet seat but it took the French to invent the hole in the center.

Dave K8MN

"Ah another CB-hater I see. Take your place in the kennel beside nad and his hounds"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

3998. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:12:43 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15BFD1.D145FF3C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26941

CAM wrote:
>
> You simply don't know what you are talking about,
> Dwight.

I know exactly what I'm talking about, Cecil. You're the one who can't keep the story straight (see below).

> At Intel, a logic designer meets with a > process designer quite often in a one-on-one > meeting. Most companies trust their employees.

If those companies trust those employees, why would they need to discuss project only behind closed doors? You're trying to have it both ways, Cecil. One moment, you say companies don't trust their employees enough to talk with the doors open. Now, the next moment, you say most companies trust their employees, so closed door meetings are no problem. Look, I don't think we disagree as much as it appears - we're just not being clear about what we're discussing. So, lets set the record straight.

First of all, we have the companies where security is not a major issue - they're not working on anything where security, or sensitivity of product development, is a strong consideration. Obviously, this category of companies would include most in this country. And these were the companies I was talking about when I asked Rick what he was "discussing that is so secret it cannot possibly be discussed with the door open?" Obviously, for companies where security is not a major issue, there is little "need" for meetings behind closed doors - most business could be discussed with the doors open.

At this point, you introduced a second category of companies into the discussion - those with a concern about sensitive product development ("HP/Intel shared computer architecture"). Actually, to be completely clear about this category of companies, we need to break it down further - those companies with just mild security considerations (consumer products, etc) and those truly obsessed with security (military contractors, etc).

Of the first of these companies (those with mild security considerations), you're going to see a hybrid mix of security measures - open door meetings in some situations, closed door meetings in other situations, and both lax and firm security when it comes to their employees. In other words, security is more of a company desire in a given situation than a real requirement. This is most likely the case with Intel. While Intel may desire to keep information about it's shared computer architecture under wraps, it also fully realizes the information is going to get out eventually. In other words, they may try to keep things under wraps, but they have not desire to go overboard with security.

Finally, there is the second group of these companies (those truly obsessed with security). These are the companies who would hire security personnel (not security guards - security personnel to insure security of company information and product information). And I was talking about these companies when I said "private discussions about such information would be looked at with suspicion in most companies."

Now that we have a better understanding of the groups of companies we're talking about (those with little or no security considerations, those with mild security considerations, and those obsessed with security), this conversation might make a little more sense.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

3999. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:14:01 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4f89jtt1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26950
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.shortwave

Barry appears to be a gentleman and articulate arbitrator. Good job Barry! While his interview was playing btwn 3-4PM Central time though, some nutcase comes up with music playing and all the other stuff to try to re-ignite this dumb radio war! Sheesh! Can't you music playing cb'er a-holes turn the radio OFF for a few weeks?
Let this thing work! We don't need a repeat performance of something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only
spread all over 20 then onto 75

"I resent the CB-slander. I am an accomplished freebander and not one of the common unwashed. I am sure we on 27.555 can give whoever is on your 313 channel a run for their money. Go away son and get some real radio experience and then call a break for me when the skips running"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4000. Re: state police license for mobile R/T

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:17:37 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4ff1$k0m$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27001

If you're ever stopped and questioned about the radio receiving police calls, be very polite, explain the facts to the officer, then show them either the letter and or the applicable state statue with the copy of your Ham license. Normally that's the end of it.

"Typical Lelnad wussiness. We freeband Cbers just pull out our chrome plated Colt Python and be done with the foolishness"

Of course the really prudent thing to do is to keep the volume down, or turn off the rig, so the police officer can't hear it, thus saving you the hassle of answering those questions in the first place.

"The only hassle is you hammies and your stuck up attitudes toward anyone who breaks trivial CB rules. Time to go back to the kennel with dogie where you belong"

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see me running, try to keep up. "

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4001. Re: state police license for mobile R/T

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:19:45 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v4fj1$k21$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 26949

I just got my Technician's license a few days ago (KC8SPR) and have a hand held for 2m and 70cm as my sole radio.

"Freebanders are way ahead of you"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4002. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:30:21 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15C3ED.EBF91159@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26942

Krell wrote:
>
> OK. You asked for it. Here's a link I found...
>
> http://skepdic.com/wicca.html

Krell, in response to my comments about magazines, books, and so forth, that use the word "satanic" to describe people who claim to practice those activities, you asked me to name some specific examples. When I refused, you post the link above to a web site claiming that I asked for it. I asked for no such thing - you were the one asking. And if a web site fulfills your need for the name of a specific book, magazine, or so forth, then you should be very happy with yourself (you asked and answered your own question).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4003. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:38:35 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15C5D8.A02E619C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26947

N2EY wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart writes:
>
> > So your suggested solution to the transportation > > needs of the elderly is to simply tell them to > > move where public transportation is available.
> > Nice guy.
>
> Sounds like a classic case of NIMBY, Dwight.

Exactly, Jim. On a side note (not directed solely at you, Jim), Europe has an excellent public transportation system. If anyone wants to pay for this "elderly" person to move where public transportation is available, I'll gladly take another trip to Europe for a few years. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4004. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 08:41:45 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C15C696.E4EC411E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 26948

K0HB wrote:
>
> "Most companies"?????? (snip)

"Most companies" in the context of the discussion with Cecil, Hans. See my response to Cecil's message for clarification.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4005. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 10:06:11 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0112110206.42cb0c02@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27002

> Sean G Gilley) wrote...
>
> So, if a hit and run accident causes the loss > of a leg and one kidney to a victim, then > then driver that caused that accident should > therefor have his leg amputated and one > kidney removed?

Never said it should apply to every situation, Sean. Murder is a unique enough crime, and an absolute enough crime, to warrant a unique way of dealing with it's punishment.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4006. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 10:47:37 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0112110247.740ac9b1@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27003

n2ey@aol.com wrote...
>
> Dwight Stewart writes:
>
> > Based on her report, with expanded farm lands
> > and better production methods, food production > > is expected to grow by about 11% by the year > > 2050. Yet, at the same time, food consumption > > of this growing population is expected to > > increase by at least 40%.
>
> Sounds like I better get going on the garden.
> And a diet.

Well, I wouldn't get too nervous yet. There seems to be a serious effort being made to address the problem. To some extent, this problem has been on the horizon for years (I can remember reading about it twenty years ago). It's just that we're now approaching the breaking point, so only now is it getting more attention than in the past.

> I dunno. How much land is there in the USA that > would be suitable for farming but is not used?

That I don't know, and I don't think her report specifically addressed that (I don't remember seeing it). But I'll ask her about it in the morning. In the meantime, we can speculate. How many trees are we willing to cut down to clear potential farm lands? And, of course, some of the problem can be reduced if we develop a taste for crops that can grow in less ideal places. Seaweed burgers, anyone?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4007. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 11:00:35 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <nHlR7.158306$WW.9921352@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27004

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011211000329.10110.00000327@mb-mb.aol.com...
> In article <3C15536F.42973A21@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:
>
> >N2EY wrote:
> >>
> >> You are right to be skeptical. I'm old enough to > >> remember when we were promised things like George > >> Jetson aircars and nuclear power that would be
> >> "too cheap to meter".
> >>
> > The reason I'm so skeptical is because my wife just finished a report > >addressing the projected food production growth versus consumption in
the > >near future.
>
> Sounds pretty serious and definitive.
>
> >Based on her report, with expanded farm lands and better production > >methods, food production is expected to grow by about 11% by the year 2050.
> >Yet,
> >at the same time, food consumption of this growing population is expected to > >increase by at least 40%.
>
> Sounds like I better get going on the garden. And a diet.
>
> >In other words, we are not about to start taking > >farm > >land to grow fuels - we'll need all we have just to grow food.
>
> I dunno. How much land is there in the USA that would be suitable for farming
> but is not used?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

It's called the Malthusian Limit (of population) and is about 200 years old. Parson Malthus earned Political Economy the name of 'dismal science'. Much like global warming, it is a problem better faced when it happens.

4008. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 11:24:03 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <n1mR7.218488$3d2.10122718@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27005

Richard McCollum, Nï¿½BK, asked:

> As the resident genius on radio preachers, can you identify this one (I > can't):
>
> The Railway Express agent position in El Paso was for years the worst > because of a preacher named O. O. ????????? who claimed to do > resurrections. Every morning the agent would present a half-dozen or so > coffins which would be duly refused and he had to ship granny back where > she came from. Tammy Faye got her start with this dude so it can't have > been all that long ago.

Man, you got me there. If this happened in El Paso about the time Tammy Faye Baker graduated from Bible college, I was already a decade gone from there.

El Paso did have its own 'border blaster' in the form of XELO on 800 kHz with an output power of 150 kW. They were notable for routing all their per-inquiry mail through the small post office in Clint, Texas, a wide place in U.S. Highway 80 about 20 miles down the river from E.P.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4009. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 11:27:53 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v4qgo02mhu@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27007

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C15989E.3A427B9A@earthlink.net...
> I'm not sitting there with you guys until you provide proof that the > ARRL Handbook, The Radio Handbook, the ARRL Antenna book and the > question pool are incorrect.

The ARRL handbook I have is the 1997 edition. Page 20.4. Left-hand column.
Top of the page. formula #1.

4010. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 11:37:15 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v4r2a02ndo@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27008

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C15C3ED.EBF91159@sccoast.net...
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > OK. You asked for it. Here's a link I found...
> >
> > http://skepdic.com/wicca.html
>
>
> Krell, in response to my comments about magazines, books, and so forth,
that > use the word "satanic" to describe people who claim to practice those > activities, you asked me to name some specific examples. When I refused,
you > post the link above to a web site claiming that I asked for it. I asked for no > such thing - you were the one asking. And if a web site fulfills your need for > the name of a specific book, magazine, or so forth, then you should be very > happy with yourself (you asked and answered your own question).
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

No, Dwight. You refused to post references to your stupid and erroneous claims. You then told me to do my own research. You asked for it whether you realize it or not. You probably never even looked at the link, which wouldn't be a surprise. You're content to believe lies the religious right has been spewing for years.

4011. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 11:38:10 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <CemR7.218491$3d2.10122846@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27006

I wrote:

>> Del Rio, Texas is just across the Rio Grande from >> Villa Acuna, Coahuila, Mexico, home to radio station
>> XERA....

Cecil, W5DXP, asked:

> Hey Jim, are you sure that wasn't XERF?

I'm not sure about the exact dates, but the evolution went something like this:

XER (? - 1931)
XERA (1931 - 1940)
XERF (1940 - present)

A lively account of the history of the station can be found at:

http://www.ominous-valve.com/xerf.html

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4012. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 13:03:13 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011211080313.04115.00000154@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 27009

In article <A40CCDA44AD350FE.7B9BEFE3F243D58C.0DFB18090AD4DAB1@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 06 Dec 2001 12:20:47 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>The present SS+IRS system is regressive for many people, because once a >certain >>level of income is reached they max out the SS contributions.
>
> Here, at least, we agree!
>
>>> It may be your responsibility, but what if you don't meet that >>>responsibility? Is it reasonable that the state ignore the needs of >>>children because their fathers and mothers didn't demonstrate sound >>>financial planning?
>
>>Is it reasonable that the state take over the responsibilities of parents, >>thereby penalizing those who are responsible?
>
> If those parents are not capable for providing for the needs >of their children it HAS to be the responsibility of the state to do >so.

WHY? Who says the state, and only the state, HAS to step in?

>The alternative is to perpetuate precisely the kind of poverty >that is affecting them in the first place.

Instead, perpetuate increase the pattern of irresponsibility and dependency on the govt.

I'm NOT saying govt. has no role. I'm saying that responsible behavior must be coupled to the support.

>No child should be punished >for the mistakes or failings of his or her parents

Why not? Who gets to pay to fill in the gap?

>--but the >Libertarian approach would do precisely that.
>
I'm not advocating the Libertarian approach.

>>> Consider, also, the age I listed. Assuming the _average_ >>>couple marry soon after graduation from college (and even the >>>Libertarian party can't possibly expect people to wait until they are >>>financially solvent to marry and start raising a family--that is >>>simply unrealistic and, in many ways, undesirable).

>>
>>WHOA!!! WHY is it unrealisitc and undesirable? I know MANY couples who >waited >>and worked until they were reasonably situated financially before taking on >>more responsibilities.
>
> Unrealistic because it defies the social conventions of our >society.

Says who? I knwo plenty of people whose social convention is to be responsible.

>Unless our society agrees that marriage is NOT a socially >desirable prerequisite to sex and living together, it must either >encourage marriage as a young adult or expect people to violate social >convention anyway--a self-defeating concept.

Ever hear of contraception? People can get married and even have sex without having a pack of kids they cannot support.
>
> Undesirable because women who are over thirty at their first >birth have increased likelihood of problem pregnancies and the >children have increased likelihood of birth defects or retardation >(those odd increase as a woman ages).

The studies I read say 35, not 30.

All that means is that if people want kids they need to plan for them early on.

> In addition, the younger parent >is better able to relate to the needs of the child,

BULL. Pure BULL.

>and is far more >likely to survive long enough him/her self to insure the child has >adequate care and education to reach a successful adulthood.

Sorry, that doesn't compute. Life expectancy is now about 77 in the USA. People who have kids in their 30s will see those kids reach college age before they reach their '60s.

The discussion was about people who can't even support themselves having kids, btw.
>
> It depends on how you define "reasonably situated >financially." Do you mean that the person was well established in a >career path, or that the person had sufficient investments to support >his/her family if he/she were to die suddenly? Does it assume that if >the person's career is halted by disability or a change in our >national economy (i.e., the high tech jobs that disappeared in the >Seattle area following the down scaling of SDI and Boeing's problems)

>he or she can still support him or her-self and their family on >investment income? Your definition of "reasonably situated" may be >very different from that of someone else.

I mean that a couple has achieved a level of income, education, stability AND maturity sufficient for them to support their own needs AND to have enough of a surplus to support one or more children BEFORE they decide to have any.

>If you mean that the person >has reason to believe that unless something occurs that is >unforeseeable at that time (early death, disability, etc.) his or her >career is secure enough to raise a family, I may agree that this is >the right time to start a family.

That's all I expect. See above.

>But more than that is absurd to expect of people.

Many think that it's absurd to expect anyhting of people.

>>WHY?? Many people today are not ready to have any children by the time they >are >>30.
>
> Nonsense.

No, simple fact. Let's look at a typical timeline:

HS grad: 18
College grad: 22
Grad school: 24
First professional job: 25
Marriage: late 20s

At this rate, a person MIGHT be ready to have kids before 30 if everything goes according to schedule - including meeting a suitable spouse. And if the person is mature enough to raise the kids. For many people today, all of those criteria are not in place by age 30.

> Most people today DO have children by that age.

They do? Who are "most people"?

>Thus, by definition, they are "ready" to do so.

Your critical thinking skills are lacking in this area, Rick. Lots of people who are not ready have kids anyway. It's a major source of social problems.
>
>>>Are you seriously suggesting that the average couple >>>could reasonably be expected to have made adequate arrangements for >>>the care of the children and assistance for the surviving partner if >>>they die at this age?

Sure.

> Cecil, that just isn't realistic!
>
I'm not Cecil.

>>Sure it is. Many people do just that. It's what life insurance, mortgage >>insurance and relatives/friends are for.
>
> Leave relatives/friends out of it--to base any sort of program >on the obligation others may feel to assist a family member or friend, >simply imposes an unfair obligation on that person.

More bull. Part of being ready to have kids is building a social network that includes things like who would be guardians in the event of untimely parental death.
>
> As far as insurance goes--if you agree that a person has an >obligation to pay for that, why is it any different than paying taxes >to fund a reserve that will provide help for ANYONE in that spot >instead?

Taxes are mandatory. And the person paying them has little control over the benefits.

> Is it the fault of the child that the insurance doesn't exist?

Nope. But is it the responsibility of everyone to provide insurance for everyone else's kids?
>
>>Anyone who has dependent kids should have a will. And in the will the >guardians >>of the children should be spelled out in advance (with their consent, of >>course) so that if both parents die or are incapacitated the children will >be >>cared for by people who the parents trusted.
>
> That, of course, has nothing to do with the Libertarian >perspective on social support programs, the subject of the sub-thread.

So? It's an important issue.
>
>>Term life insurance for healthy people of the age you specify is not >expensive, >>either.
>
> But it IS a matter of choice.

Taxes are not.

> Expensive is relative. It's not >expensive to buy $100,000 in term life if you make an average income.
>What if you are struggling to get by on minimum wage? Or if you have a >family history of heart disease? Or any of a dozen other reasons that >insurance costs could cut into badly needed money for food, shelter, >education, etc.?

See above. If a person can't afford to support themselves, how are they supposed to support children?

>Are you arguing that the minimum wage worker has no >right to have children because he can't support them if he dies or is >disabled? That would be a pretty classist position to take for anyone >(of course, it IS the Libertarian Party position, but . . .).
>
No, it's a REALISTIC position.

>>All Cecil is proposing is that people take some responsibility.
>
> No, he's proposing that all social support programs be >eliminated if they operate at the taxpayer's expense. Ask him.

Cecil?
>
>>>>Not my problem. I do not desire to protect people from themselves and >>>>I would appreciate that same consideration for myself.
>>>
>>> No one is trying to "Protect people from themselves."
>>
>>Sure they are. SS protects people from using the money to make poor >investment >>choices. That's why it started in the first place.
>
> It also protects people who don't have the time to build up an >investment portfolio, people who don't have enough income to invest, >and the spouses and children of people who don't have adequate >investments to support them if they die.

Which is "protecting them from themselves". QED

73 de Jim, N2EY

4013. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 13:32:01 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112110532.7d81d737@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27010

stewartx@sccoast.net (Dwight Stewart) wrote in message news:<6be98d7d.0112110247.740ac9b1@posting.google.com>...
> n2ey@aol.com wrote...
> >
> > Dwight Stewart writes:
> >
> > > Based on her report, with expanded farm lands
> > > and better production methods, food production
> > > is expected to grow by about 11% by the year > > > 2050. Yet, at the same time, food consumption > > > of this growing population is expected to > > > increase by at least 40%.
> >
> > Sounds like I better get going on the garden.
> > And a diet.
>
> Well, I wouldn't get too nervous yet. There seems to be a serious > effort being made to address the problem. To some extent, this problem > has been on the horizon for years (I can remember reading about it > twenty years ago). It's just that we're now approaching the breaking > point, so only now is it getting more attention than in the past.

I recall a "green revolution" in the 1970s where improved strains of rice and other crops increased production. One of the real benefits of the space program has been an improved understanding of climate and weather conditions on earth. Lots of little things can add up.

But as you say, there IS a limit.

> > I dunno. How much land is there in the USA that > > would be suitable for farming but is not used?

> That I don't know, and I don't think her report specifically > addressed that (I don't remember seeing it). But I'll ask her about it > in the morning.

Thanks. For many years, farmland has fallen victim to suburban sprawl and "development". That trend will eventually have to end.

In addition, many of the crops grown today are used to feed cattle.
Many mor people could be fed from the same land if the crops were used to feed people.

>In the meantime, we can speculate. How many trees are > we willing to cut down to clear potential farm lands?

Won't work on a large scale because the trees are needed for paper, lumber and their anti-pollution properties.

> And, of course,
> some of the problem can be reduced if we develop a taste for crops > that can grow in less ideal places.

Yup. See above on cattle feed.

>Seaweed burgers, anyone?

Has anybody trademarked the name "Soylent" yet?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4014. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 14:06:24 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112110606.68127a8b@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27011

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C15C5D8.A02E619C@sccoast.net>...
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart writes:
> >
> > > So your suggested solution to the transportation > > > needs of the elderly is to simply tell them to > > > move where public transportation is available.
> > > Nice guy.
> >
> > Sounds like a classic case of NIMBY, Dwight.
>
>
> Exactly, Jim.

There's also the "BANANA" idea that is one cause of California's electricity troubles. ("BANANA" = "Build Absolutely Nothing Anywhere Near Anything")

> On a side note (not directed solely at you, Jim), Europe has an > excellent public transportation system.

I understand that in Paris and its suburbs one cannot get more than a certain distance (500 meters?) from a Metro station. And the Paris Metro system has been constantly (except for war years) expanded and modernized to meet the needs of the City of Light.

For longer trips, the TGV trains operate at about 200 mph. They reached 326 mph in tests (not a typo).

> If anyone wants to pay for this > "elderly" person to move where public transportation is available, I'll gladly > take another trip to Europe for a few years. :-)

Works for me!

73 de Jim, N2EY

4015. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 14:12:05 UTC
From: WW - KB9TMP <kb9tmp@my-deja.com>
Message-ID: <9v545b$2ej$1@dagobah.blueriver.net>
Source record: 27012

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:3C152AE4.41E9F043@IEEE.org...
> WW - KB9TMP wrote:
> > I'd rather have Adam and Eve as grandparents than to > > have Bonzo and Cheetah the Chimp as ancestors!!!
>
> Thus divorcing yourself from the beautiful experience of > being linked to all life on earth. It gives me extreme > pleasure to know I share 90% of my DNA with my dog and > 50% on my DNA with a banana. I am kin to the trees that > I climbed as a child. Actually, Homo sapiens are one of > four surviving great apes, who share ancestors with the > chimps but are obviously not direct descendants of the > chimps. After all, we and chimps are 1% different and are > only genetic cousins.
>
> Just as Copernicus and Galileo shot down the religious > beliefs concerning the position of the earth in the > universe, DNA will shoot down the religious beliefs > concerning our divine immaculate creation. If God > had a hand in it at all, it was a pretty small hand.
> Multiplying the brain size by two times was a pretty > small change in the DNA.
>
> If God did create Homo sapiens, He didn't create us from > dust unless that dust contained some primate DNA. He created > us from a Homo genus that already existed. And He sure as hell > didn't do it 120 hours after He created the heavens and the earth.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

And to quote "Scotty" from Star Trek TV/Movie fame;
"Aye, and if my grandmother had wheels she'd be a wagon!"
--

'73' From KB9TMP

Beware of the man who works hard to learn something, learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
without having come by their ignorance the hard way.
-Peer's Law

Sent via the LATE Deja.com
A.K.A. Google Groups
http://groups.google.com

4016. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 14:59:48 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <OVrDYRlgBHA.1992@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27013

Dwight says:

> "Most companies" in the context of the discussion > with Cecil, Hans. See my response to Cecil's message > for clarification.

I saw your "clarification" to Cecil. I laughed a LOT!
It was a classic case of confusion and ignorance about how the modern product development process works.

Secrecy is paramount, or companies cease to exist,
and that is ESPECIALLY true in enterprises which develop consumer products.

Kellogg's would _love_ to know what new cereal is being formulated at General Mills, Avon would _love_ to know what the new perfume from Chanel will be this season,
Ford desperately wants to know what the next model
SUV from Dodge will look like, and nobody yet knows the Colonels Secret Recipe. The kind of secrecy and security used by these companies makes Osama bin Laden's itinerary look like a pubic bus companies route schedule.

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4017. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 15:59:54 UTC
From: K0HB <HHBrakob@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <#nlu8ylgBHA.2124@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27014

>At this rate, a person MIGHT be ready to have kids before 30 if everything goes >according to schedule - including meeting a suitable spouse. And if the person >is mature enough to raise the kids. For many people today, all of those >criteria are not in place by age 30.

Unrealistic, Jim, completely unrealistic poppycock.

K0CKB and I have raised 5 children to successful maturity; all of them are college educated and are now successfully raising their own families.

All five of those kids were born before I was 31 and before K0CKB was 28. Our timetable is typical of our peers, then and now, in successful middle-class America.

73, de Hans, K0HB

4018. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 16:12:53 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C157868.37EA71D3@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27015

Twistedhed@webtv.net wrote:
>> Sheesh! Can't you music playing cb'er a-holes turn the radio OFF for a few weeks?

> "I resent the CB-slander. I am an accomplished freebander

The second statement confirms the first statement. Calling operating illegally and accomplishment, what a statement, and there is no 'freeband'.

4019. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 16:32:37 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <FyqR7.291063$W8.9838406@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27016

> > > > > Krell wrote...

> > > > > >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring > > debate,
> > > > > > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He
was > > > > > > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of high
> > speed > > > > > > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a > > frequency
> > > > > > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in > > feet,
> > > > > he > > > > > > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, BTW)

> > > > > Larry Roll K3LT wrote...

> > > > > > Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!

> > > Richard Plourde wrote...

> > > > Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.

> > > > Hey Krell...

> > > > "Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)

> > Dave Heil wrote...

> > > Rich, the 468 figure is for a dipole. The yagi DE length can be very > > > different, i.e. when applying a hair pin match.
> > >
> > > Go sit in the corner with Krell and the other guy.
> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> >
> Krell wrote:

> > 492 is for a true half-wavelength. It's 468 when multiplied by the .95 > > constant, which has become an accept standard. I've seen 462 used when > > making a folded dipole from 300-ohm twin lead.

> > So I guess you're sitting in the corner with the rest of us, if you insist
> > that yours is the only right answer.

"Dave Heil" wrote

> I'm not sitting there with you guys until you provide proof that the > ARRL Handbook, The Radio Handbook, the ARRL Antenna book and the > question pool are incorrect.

> The "true" half wave length disallowing for anything else would be 500 > divided by frequency.

You're close, Dave, the 'true' half wavelength disallowing for anything else would be 491.8
divided by frequency in MHz

I quote the ARRL Antenna Book 16th Edition Chapter 2 Antenna Fundamentals.

Equation 1 -> Lamda = 299,800,000/f(hertz)
...Lamda is wavelength in meters

Eguation 2 -> length = 491.8/f(MHz) length 'is the length in feet of a half wavelength for a frequency f (in megahertz), when the wave travels at the velocity of light. This equation is the basis upon which several significant lengths in antenna work lie. It represents the length of a half wavelength in free space, when no factors that modify the speed of propagation exist.'

Equation 3 -> length = 149.9/f(MHz)
...length is in meters with this equation

Equation 6 -> length = 491.8 X 0.95/f(MHz) approximately equal to 467/f(MHz)

It comes out to 467.21/f(MHz) ;-)

The 468 number, which unfortunately shows up in a poorly worded question on the exams, is the number with the 5% 'fudge factor' slowdown of the velocity of the propagation. This number is referred to later in the book (note: Equation 6) when a factor (K) is applied. This crudely compensates for the wavelength/diameter ratio's effect (and also the effect of the insulators at the ends) on the resultant velocity. OBTW, the book says this 'correction' is only good up to 30 MHz. And later, as you know, it says 'the length should be "pruned" to resonance'.

Rich

4020. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 16:54:49 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9v5dr5$93n$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27017

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C15AAEB.4DB302F1@sccoast.net...
> So you just woke up one morning angry enough to hate Arabs on your own?

You are one seriously deluded individual.

Of > course we've been influenced by the media and government, Jim. Without that > influence, we probably wouldn't associate "terrorism" with the Arabs (99 percent > are not involved in terrorism).

Did you just wake up one morning with that info? I heard it on the news.

> And more of us would probably realise that > almost no evidence has been offered to show a connection between Bin Laden
and > the WTC attack. Or the Taliban and the WTC attack.

I suppose magic fairies might have planned it - or aliens even.

4021. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:13:25 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C163EAA.FBAD6A50@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27018

Twistedhed@webtv.net wrote:
>
> Throw in Plourde's idea of low power and you've guaranteed the > similarity to CB which Britain, after years of battling over the issue, > already has. This idea is nearly as bad as baked bean sandwiches, > grilled tomatoes, bangers, boiled coffee and blackened, cold toast which > the Brits also introduced. Remember: The Brits invented the toilet > seat but it took the French to invent the hole in the center.
>
> Dave K8MN
>
> "Ah another CB-hater I see. Take your place in the kennel beside nad and his > hounds"

Nope. As I pointed out to you in reply to the e-mail you sent me, I don't hate CBer's. I just don't think most of 'em know much about how radio works, how to operate, propagation or antennas. Both Britain and the U.S. already have Citizens Band services. Neither country needs another.

Dave K8MN

4022. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:15:21 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112110915.576ad84e@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27019

"K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com> wrote in message news:<#nIu8ylgBHA.2124@cpimsnntpa04>...
> >At this rate, a person MIGHT be ready to have kids before 30 if everything > goes > >according to schedule - including meeting a suitable spouse. And if the > person > >is mature enough to raise the kids. For many people today, all of those > >criteria are not in place by age 30.
>
> Unrealistic, Jim, completely unrealistic poppycock.

How is it unrealistic, Hans? I wrote:

"For many people today, all of these criteria are not in place by age 30".

Doesn't mean the things on the list can't be done today.
>
> K0CKB and I have raised 5 children to successful maturity; all of > them are college educated and are now successfully raising their > own families.

That's great! I am delighted but not surprised. But that's one data point for your family and five for your kids.
>
> All five of those kids were born before I was 31 and before K0CKB
> was 28.

Which means they were all born more than three decades ago, when things were a bit different than today. Do all of your kids have 5 kids too?

> Our timetable is typical of our peers, then and now, in > successful middle-class America.

Maybe where you are and the people you know, but for many people today the situation is quite different. A lot depends on how you define "middle class", too.

For example, how much did a bachelor's degree (say, BSEE at a good school) cost for the class of 1962 vs. the class of 2002, in terms of hours of minimum-wage work? How about a three-bedroom house in a decent neighborhood? Good used car and insurance for same?

Most important of all - did you have kids before you were ready and able to take care of them? That's the real point of the discussion.

Yes, there are folks today who do as you did. But for many others it's just not in the cards until they are older.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4023. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:32:39 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011211123239.19213.00000607@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27020

In article <3C1524D3.7660E5A5@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> For those of use who use CW, that's never a problem! Since we had >> the discipline to learn and gain useful proficiency in a useful
>> communications skill, we are also quite self-sufficient in learning >> about our equipment, setting it up properly, and getting the most out >> of it.
>
>Actually, the FCC has gone on record as seeing no correlation between >Morse code skill and self-sufficiency or any other positive attribute.
>Morse code skill stands alone and is uncorrelated to anything else.
>Virtually all of the troublemakers on HF are coded hams. The great >majority of NALs are given to coded hams.

Hmmm. I see. Is there any correlation, then, between technical skill and having no Morse code skills whatsoever? Among licensed hams, that is -- obviously. IOW -- is a licensed amateur who has not been required to gain useful proficiency in Morse code MORE likely to have advanced technical skills? If you say it is, please provide fully attributed references to reputable academic studies which offer quantifiable proof of same. If you can't or won't provide the proof, then you're all wet, as usual.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4024. Re: Attention HAMS, I contact UFOs on freeband

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:40:42 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <uyrR7.158534$WW.9944145@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27021

Nah, but I am slowly getting a bit smarter thanks to a couple of guys from the newsgroups. I was amazed what adding one addy to the kill file did. Heck, it even removed all message headers from the chucklehead. I've just added a few more. The newsgroups are starting to look decent.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C153C9E.825251EE@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> JAMES HAMPTON wrote:
>
> > Don't sweat it. It's a forge.
> >
>
> I realize that, I'm just goofing on him....
> I suppose you're goofing on me.....
>
> 73s Bob
>

4025. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:46:36 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C16467D.1F38289F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27022

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C15989E.3A427B9A@earthlink.net...
> > I'm not sitting there with you guys until you provide proof that the > > ARRL Handbook, The Radio Handbook, the ARRL Antenna book and the > > question pool are incorrect.
>
> The ARRL handbook I have is the 1997 edition. Page 20.4. Left-hand column.
> Top of the page. formula #1.

Yep, it is the same as in the 1999 ARRL Handbook. That is for the design of a half-wave in "free space". Where the hell are you putting YOUR antennas?

Now go down the page a bit and you'll see two formulae next to each other. Note the extra "x 0.95" step in the use of the "492" figure.
Adjacent to it is the formula 468/f(MHz).

Dave K8MN

4026. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 17:59:17 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C164975.14298DED@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27023

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> > > > > > Krell wrote...
>
> > > > > > >So code proficiency = technical skill? During the restructuring > > > debate,
> > > > > > >there was an old-timer that had been an Extra class forever. He > was > > > > > > >bad-mouthing the no-code techs, and the planned elimination of > high
> > > speed > > > > > > >code testing. Yet when asked what constant you would divide a > > > frequency
> > > > > > >in Mhz into in order to obtain the length of a halfwave dipole in > > > feet,
> > > > > > he > > > > > > >drew a complete blank. This shoots down your theory. (It's 492, > BTW)
>
> > > > > > Larry Roll K3LT wrote...
>
> > > > > > Hmmm. 468 always seemed to work for me!
>
> > > > > Richard Plourde wrote...
>
> > > > > Larry, that's for the driven element of a yagi.
>
> > > > > Hey Krell...
>
> > > > > "Do you believe in 'Deja Vu'???" ;-)
>
> > > Dave Heil wrote...
>
> > > > > Rich, the 468 figure is for a dipole. The yagi DE length can be very > > > > > different, i.e. when applying a hair pin match.
> > > > >
> > > > > Go sit in the corner with Krell and the other guy.
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave K8MN
> > > >
> > > Krell wrote:
>
> > > > 492 is for a true half-wavelength. It's 468 when multiplied by the .95 > > > > constant, which has become an accept standard. I've seen 462 used when > > > making a folded dipole from 300-ohm twin lead.

>
> > > So I guess you're sitting in the corner with the rest of us, if you > insist
> > > that yours is the only right answer.
>
> "Dave Heil" wrote
>
> > I'm not sitting there with you guys until you provide proof that the > > ARRL Handbook, The Radio Handbook, the ARRL Antenna book and the > > question pool are incorrect.
>
> > The "true" half wave length disallowing for anything else would be 500 > > divided by frequency.
>
> You're close, Dave, the 'true' half wavelength disallowing for anything else > would be 491.8
> divided by frequency in MHz
>
> I quote the ARRL Antenna Book 16th Edition Chapter 2 Antenna Fundamentals.
> ---------------
>
> Equation 1 -> Lamda = 299,800,000/f(hertz)
> ...Lamda is wavelength in meters
>
> Eguation 2 -> length = 491.8/f(MHz) > length 'is the length in feet of a half wavelength for a frequency f (in > megahertz), when the wave travels at the velocity of light. This equation is > the basis upon which several significant lengths in antenna work lie. It > represents the length of a half wavelength in free space, when no factors > that modify the speed of propagation exist.'
>
> Equation 3 -> length = 149.9/f(MHz)
> ...length is in meters with this equation
>
> Equation 6 -> length = 491.8 X 0.95/f(MHz) approximately equal to > 467/f(MHz)
> ---------------
>
> It comes out to 467.21/f(MHz) ;-)
>
> The 468 number, which unfortunately shows up in a poorly worded question on > the exams, is the number with the 5% 'fudge factor' slowdown of the velocity > of the propagation. This number is referred to later in the book (note: > Equation 6) when a factor (K) is applied. This crudely compensates for the > wavelength/diameter ratio's effect (and also the effect of the insulators at > the ends) on the resultant velocity. OBTW, the book says this 'correction' > is only good up to 30 MHz. And later, as you know, it says 'the length > should be "pruned" to resonance'.

"Crudely compensates"? It compensates and does it without the extra step allowing for K factor and insulators. The pruning could take place using either the formula with the extra step or the 468/f formula depending on height above ground or surrounding objects. The 468/f formula has been in use for decades and is the commonly used formula. I don't know many folks cutting dipoles for 1.2 GHz.

Dave K8MN

4027. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 18:04:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dickc58@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3BE80FCD.9F4604A2@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27024

CAM wrote:

> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Not enough blacks on the police force. Not enough Morse code > > > operators on the ham bands. It's the same concept.
> >
> > Only to you.
>
> Nope, not only to me. They are both attempts at social engineering > things that cannot be achieved in a free market.

Social engineering in a technical hobby (at least supposed to be one).
Right.
"Free market" in the same. You just can't get past the idea that communicators are supposed to train themselves to communicate, and those who don't or won't simply are not qualified. There IS NO market involved. Never was. But of course you whiners will see to it that your whines are honored, however ignorant that makes you look.

4028. 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 18:04:59 UTC
From: Speaker to Animal Crackers <flashboinnng1@aol.com> Message-ID: <fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27025
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Listened all morning to a group of truckers
on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
she thought of to make "Xmas money".

Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.

Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
Is the cow out of the barn door?
A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
to try an politely inform them there were in violation of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and gentlemanly composure in his speech
to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.

Nice eh?
Gives you the warm & fuzzies?

I'm curious what's the FCC will do?

How about 2 meters?
Is that the next band to be trashed by these morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart
and operate without a licence ?

4029. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 18:08:57 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112111008.632d4dde@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27026

kelly@dvol.com (Brian Kelly) wrote in message news:<d22b54c3.0112100824.41cfdc2@posting.google.com>...
> "K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com> wrote in message news:<#uesCOHgBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>...
>
> > There is more homebrewing and kitbuilding going on in amateur radio > > today that there has been since the late 50's.
> >
> On a ham per-capita basis?? I very much doubt that, the totals might > be up but ham radio has also grown fivefold +/- since the late 50s.

I don't even think the totals are up on an absolute basis. How many hams built Heathkit or Johnson rigs in the late 1950s? Or SB/HW sets in the '60s?

> Kit-building does not qualify as the "tinkering" and "experimenting" > techo ham radio of yore, not even close. Pop the plastic, follow the > yellow brick road and ya have a minimalist's delight at best.

A lot can be learned from building kits - been there done that. No way is it the same as designing/building from scratch - been there done that too.
> >
> Where is all this "homebrewing"?? Get yer eyes tested, I don't see any > such thing.

There's a few of us around. Key word is "few".

> Hombrewing can't touch the bang for the buck the Japs are > delivering via HRO & AES and without getting wrapped into soddering > arns.

Yup, at least as far as rigs are concerned. Unless ya want something that nobody makes, or is so simple that it's cheaper and easier to do it yerself. Like some antennas.

> 50s ham radio is dead and gone and so is it's set of necessities > which were the only reasons
> hams homeberewed more of their gear back then.

BINGO!

The main driving force was money, or lack thereof. Back in them days a big chunk of the price of any manufactured electronics was the labor cost of hand wiring and assembly. Look up the price of a kit EFJ rig vs. manufactured one - big savings for some hours at the bench. If ya had a source of cheap parts (surplus, old TVs and BC receivers) a rig that was not much different than the manufactured ones could be had for some "solder equity".

Surplus conversion was a whole 'nother game that's all but gone. $100 ARC-5s are not unusual anymore.

Heathkit actually killed off a lot of homebrewing by simple economics. Several years back I took out the old 1959 Newark catalog and started figuring out the price of a simple 50 watt MOPA rig similar to the DX-20. Didn't take too long because the catalog cost of the big parts easily beat the '20s $36 price tag.

Then there's the whole time factor.

> Diddling licensing > requirements ain't gonna fix your disatisfaction with the lack of > soddering arn activity today. That's just the way it is.

Absolutely. Them that wants to build will do so for a variety of reasons.

When's the last time you worked a US ham with a 100% homebrew station who did not have a "mainstream" rig also? (Besides me, I mean - and it ain't true for me anymore).

73 de Jim, N2EY

4030. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 18:24:19 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112111024.5e89bff8@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27027

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message
news:<qF6R7.290175$W8.9728322@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> > Richard McCollum writes
>
> > >Dali was so
> > >surrealistic he almost did not have to paint to prove it.
>
> "N2EY" wrote
>
> > Waddya mean, "almost"?
>
> When I see a picture of him I always think... "This guy IS surrealism > personified" A true caricature of himself. ;-)

Yup.

There's a saying around these parts:

"Some people ya don't have to parody. Just quote 'em".

Same principle applies.
>
> I have a Salvador Dali screensaver and people just sit a watch it...

I'm gonna download me an "Amelie" screensaver and see what it does.
>
> I have a complaint... why is it we can buy calendars with impressionism > themes but NEVER with surrealism themes.

Kinda surreal, ain't it?
>
> > No mention of surrealism would be complete without the Firesign Theater, > who > > are still together and performing. They recently marked their 35th > anniversary
> > by their first TV special (brought to you by Ralph Spoilsport Motors, > > Loosener's Castor Oil Flakes, and Bear Whizz Beer ("It's in the water!").
>
> I saw the show last week. nice to see what they look like.

I taped it. Somehow it's better listened to than watched. The whole concept of FT is an audio-only thing, like Prairie Home Companion.

All hail (Groucho) Marx and (John) Lennon...

> I had a few of > their albums

I am most familiar with "I Think We're All Bozos On This Bus" and only recently discovered the full meaning of the title.

1970s FM radio here in Philly played them all the time.

They never covered either of Fudd's Laws of Opposition in physics class but they are quite useful in practice.

> and they stayed close to the material but added quite a few new > things too...

Should I take the old Antelope Freeway or the Cheney-Letterman Quadruple Bypass?
>
> > FT are best when listened to, however - true FM radio audio > revolutionaries.
>
> "If you lived here you'd be home now..."
>
I spell my name - DANGER!

73 de Jim "what's all this brouhaha?" N2EY still waiting for the electrician

4031. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 18:45:36 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <#NzBiPngBHA.2124@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27028

N2EY wants to know:

> When's the last time you worked a US ham with a 100% homebrew > station who did not have a "mainstream" rig also? (Besides me, I > mean - and it ain't true for me anymore).

Get real! We aren't talking about "100% homebrew " here (nor were we back in the 50's). We're talking about tinkering and experimenting, which can include some homebrewing "from scratch", some modification of store bought equipment, some 'conversion from other service', some kitbuilt, some fixing of what got broken, and obviously some unchanged since it came out of the box. That's the mix in most active amateur shacks today, just as it was back in the 50's.

I know a LOT of active hams and, except for a few very new ones, I don't know of a SINGLE shack that contains 100% factory made/factory original equipment. Not ONE.

Killing that spirit with a "manufactured type-accepted rig only" license
would doom the Amateur Radio Service to extinction, and all your ill-founded pontificating about "there ain't no more homebrewers" will only speed the date. Shame on you.

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4032. Re: I dont need a license to transmit

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 19:26:33 UTC
From: Unclaimed Mysteries <k4doh@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9v5mk7$e57$1@slb2.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27029
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.swap

"Fred Garvin" <Garvin@Truss.net> wrote in message news:1f47txx.jibj4rbnld52N%Garvin@Truss.net...
> Unclaimed Mysteries <k4doh@mindspring.com> wrote:
>
> > "Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message > > news:3C14500C.90B11EDE@ix.netcom.com...
> > >
> > >
> > > Trouser Trout wrote:
> > >
> > > > Yes, Landshark knows all about forging people. A search of google will > > show
> > > > this.
> > > >
> > >
> > > "Candygram!"
> > >
> >
> > "Mrs. Mhfhmr?"
>
> Mrs. Mahellmahey.....
>

"Jehovah's Witnesses..."

--
It Came From C. L. Smith's Unclaimed Mysteries.
http://www.unclaimedmysteries.net

"I have sold more books about physics than Madonna has about sex."
- Stephen Hawking

4033. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 19:32:36 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C15A738.C121D19@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27030
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Speaker to Animal Crackers wrote:

> One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and > gentlemanly composure in his speech
> to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
>
> Nice eh?
> Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
>

Typical response of the cb mentality. Most have an IQ equal to half their shoe size.

4034. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 19:44:59 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C16623B.9D45ACBA@uci.edu>
Source record: 27031

N2EY wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C15C5D8.A02E619C@sccoast.net>...
> > On a side note (not directed solely at you, Jim), Europe has an > > excellent public transportation system.

> I understand that in Paris and its suburbs one cannot get more than a > certain distance (500 meters?) from a Metro station. And the Paris > Metro system has been constantly (except for war years) expanded and > modernized to meet the needs of the City of Light.

Yes, just got back from there. It only takes about an hour to walk across the city between the walls where 2 millions of the residents live. Out here you'd barely get started down Imperial in that amount of time.

4035. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 20:06:52 UTC
From: CW <clinton.magers@attbi.com>
Message-ID: <wHtR7.33795$ER5.385052@rwcrnsc52>
Source record: 27032
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

This is nothing new. Ranger a Uniden both put out ten meter radios that were, by design, easily modified to cover 11 meters and below. A simple jumper and these frequencies are available and, on the Ranger at least, press a couple of buttons and the readout displays channels. Following on there lead, lots of radios of various different brands are now being sold with these capabilities. To keep them legal for sale, they are marketed and enabled for ten meters but are easily modified. A lot of them come standard with things like roger beeps. It is rare to find them sold by ham radio dealers but in the CB shops, they are the hot thing. This has been going on for years and the FCC basically ignores it. They tried to control the CBers once and they couldn't do it so they are hesitant to try again. If you would like to see a full range of these radios, go here: http://www.copper.com/ They list over twenty five different models and, for another $30.00 at the time of purchase, they will modify them for 11 meters. In some areas, 2 meters is just as bad. 2 meters has been adopted as the standard air to ground communications for hang gliders, many of whom are not licensed. Several years ago, the major ham radio manufacturers decided that they would no longer worry about selling there equipment to only ham equipment dealers. Consequently, a lot of truckers are now using the HF bands instead of CBs. Equipment is available at most truck stop CB shops. If you listen around the ham bands or close to it, it is not uncommon to hear truckers.
--
CW
KC7NOD
Web Page http://www.kc7nod.20m.com

"Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> she thought of to make "Xmas money".
>
> Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
>
> Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> Is the cow out of the barn door?
> A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> to try an politely inform them there were in violation > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.

> One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> gentlemanly composure in his speech
> to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
>
> Nice eh?
> Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
>
> I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
>
> How about 2 meters?
> Is that the next band to be trashed by these > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart
> and operate without a licence ?
>
>

4036. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 20:11:38 UTC
From: CW <clinton.magers@attbi.com>
Message-ID: <_LtR7.31967$wL4.119158@rwcrnsc51>
Source record: 27033

Accomplished freebander = hasn't been caught yet.
<Twistedhed@webtv.net> wrote in message news:9v4f89jtt1@news.netmar.com...
>
> "I resent the CB-slander. I am an accomplished freebander and not one of
the > common unwashed. I am sure we on 27.555 can give whoever is on your 313 > channel a run for their money. Go away son and get some real radio > experience and then call a break for me when the skips running"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
eb -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
abuse@newsone.net

4037. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 21:32:38 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v5tuo012f0@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27036

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C16467D.1F38289F@earthlink.net...
> Krell wrote:

> Now go down the page a bit and you'll see two formulae next to each > other. Note the extra "x 0.95" step in the use of the "492" figure.
> Adjacent to it is the formula 468/f(MHz).
>
Dave K8MN

Wow! That's just what I posted in my response to Larry Troll when he used the 468 figure!

4038. Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 21:51:33 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9v5ukajpv1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27034

Here's something to think about. The other night I had a guy honestly ask me, out side of a 7-eleven store, if I was some kind of secret agent or something while pointing to the antenna farm on top of my van. I said no, and then explained I was a Ham Radio operator. Seems he has heard the term before. I talked with him for about 10 minutes trying to explain what we do etc., and I had several vendor's glossy literature for some Ham Radio gear, a 706MKIIG and Kenwood's new HT put away inside of the van for cases like this, I gave him as examples of the kind of equipment we can use. He was pleased as heck with the radio literature, and wanted to know if CW was used too, which I said yes. I also gave him the URL for the ARRL web site for more info. This guy really did seem to be interested so I am thinking maybe having a small PR packet we can hand out to people who are not afraid to ask us about all those weird antennas really isn't a bad idea. I read about another Ham in a news group, a while back, who was doing something like this to promote the hobby. Now when they get home they will have something to look at and not forget about it. Then maybe they will take the time to look up the ARRL on the web.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see
me running, try to keep up. "

4039. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 21:57:18 UTC
From: phil <phil@phil.com>
Message-ID: <u1d0adp01ds924@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 27035
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

> "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"

this is just CB lingo for 'goodmorning'.

phil :p

4040. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:12:45 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1684D6.92CAD11C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27037

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote...
> >
> > And more of us would probably realise that > > almost no evidence has been offered to show
> > a connection between Bin Laden and the WTC > > attack. Or the Taliban and the WTC attack.
>
> I suppose magic fairies might have planned it
> - or aliens even.

I don't know who planned it, Jim. And neither do you. But I do know we have a concept of justice in this country where a person is innocent until proven guilty. And if I truly believe in the rightness of that concept, then it has to apply to all - not just those I choose to apply it to today. If Bin Laden is guilty, then he should get exactly what is coming to him. But, so far, I've seen nothing to prove his guilt.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4041. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:14:00 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C168528.2ADB8E64@uci.edu>
Source record: 27039

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote...
> > >
> > > And more of us would probably realise that > > > almost no evidence has been offered to show
> > > a connection between Bin Laden and the WTC > > > attack. Or the Taliban and the WTC attack.
> >
> > I suppose magic fairies might have planned it
> > - or aliens even.
>
> I don't know who planned it, Jim. And neither do you. But I do know we have a > concept of justice in this country where a person is innocent until proven > guilty. And if I truly believe in the rightness of that concept, then it has to > apply to all - not just those I choose to apply it to today. If Bin Laden is > guilty, then he should get exactly what is coming to him. But, so far, I've seen > nothing to prove his guilt.

Have you seen him come out with his hands up?

4042. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:17:27 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1685F7.94E9C792@uci.edu>
Source record: 27040

Osama Bin Laden Apologist Dwight Stewart wrote:

> I don't know who planned it, Jim. And neither do you. But I do know we have a > concept of justice in this country where a person is innocent until proven > guilty. And if I truly believe in the rightness of that concept, then it has to > apply to all - not just those I choose to apply it to today. If Bin Laden is > guilty, then he should get exactly what is coming to him. But, so far, I've seen > nothing to prove his guilt.

Now you're making me feel real sorry for him. I think I'm gonna cry.
I'm sure he's a real nice guy once you get to know him.

NOT!

4043. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:17:56 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C15CDAF.21EC94C6@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27038

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> If Bin Laden is > guilty, then he should get exactly what is coming to him. But, so far, I've seen > nothing to prove his guilt.
>
Then you must be dumber than dumb.

4044. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:49:34 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C168D6B.9B914A1E@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27041

Krell wrote:
>
> No, Dwight. You refused to post references to > your stupid and erroneous claims. You then > told me to do my own research. You asked for > it whether you realize it or not. You probably > never even looked at the link, which wouldn't > be a surprise. You're content to believe > lies the religious right has been spewing
> for years.

Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic. Are you saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot do magic when they claim they can proves that. I claimed modern day "pagans" are not descendants of those ancient pagan religions. Do you have some evidence to dispute this? I claimed most people in this country would describe their beliefs and practices as "satanic." Do you have some evidence to dispute that? So far, I've seen a lot of talk about how my claims are wrong, but not a shred of evidence to support that talk.

If you really believe this wiccan nonsense, Krell, show me they can do magic and cast spells by having one do so to me. I've asked for such proof over and over, yet nothing has happened so far. In the end, this entire wiccan nonsense is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4045. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:56:23 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C168F04.48FC283B@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27042

N2EY wrote:
>
> There's also the "BANANA" idea that is one
> cause of California's electricity troubles.
> ("BANANA" = "Build Absolutely Nothing > Anywhere Near Anything")

I'm still waiting for California to fall into the ocean - that will really end their electricity troubles. :-)

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4046. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 22:57:15 UTC
From: greg <greg@valkyrie.net>
Message-ID: <3c168f47_2@athena.netset.com>
Source record: 27043
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

how much does it cost for the bag of marbals to put in your mouth for cb
talk trainning ?? :)

> They list over twenty five different models and, for another $30.00 at the > time of purchase, they will modify them for 11 meters. In some areas,

Help fight mailbots with these in your tagline:
tosspam@aol.com abuse@aol.com abuse@yahoo.com abuse@hotmail.com abuse@msn.com abuse@sprintmail.com abuse@earthlink.net uce@ftc.gov abuse@info.cep.cniba-u.ac.jp

4047. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:00:27 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C168FF7.255B439A@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27044

K0HB wrote:
>
> Secrecy is paramount, or companies cease to exist, > and that is ESPECIALLY true in enterprises which > develop consumer products.

Not in the companies I've seen, Hans. Security can range from almost non-existant to very strong. But, in general, they can be grouped into the three categories I listed.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4048. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:02:28 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C16909A.5215455F@gte.net>
Source record: 27078
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do > it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell > the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO like > stink on sh.
>

Think again. First the cops would just the car and the radios. Then when the CID
folks show up, they will explain how you lipped off to the cops that you were some type of hot shot Air Force type. At that point, the investigation might be about your fitness to serve.

>
> > > Maybe so. There are still laws against unlawful search and seizure.
> And, as I said before, in reference to the seizure of my radio equipment, he > will be in deep doo doo when he confiscates my radio that was purchased with
>
>
> DoD funds. ASSuming that a civilian is in the wrong is a sure way to get > sued for false arrest. While I have never been arrested in my life, nor > have I > ever given a LEO a reason to hassle me, I have been talked to in a most > > > disrespectful manner, and treated like I didn't know what I was about.
> A cop is NOT the arbitor of truth; just because he "thinks" you did > something > > > doesn't make it so. I am, however, somewhat vindictive, a trait I > inherited from my Dad's side. I cannot STAND to be acused of something I > did not do, nor to be falsely hassled, inconvenienced, or unfairly caused to > lose > time or money. While most people would not pursue the matter, I, OTH, would > be > > > searching the law for a way to get the SOB back > > > legally. With the military VHF radio I have in addition to my ham > equipment, having that "stolen" at gunpoint WOULD be something the LEO would > wish he had never done. While the LEO has "friends" in the courts, I have > friends > in the military and at the State level (if the seizure takes place in my > state). I would NOT let the matter rest.
> > >
> >
> > Unless you are very rich, you may not have > > the political connections to really make a > > difference. And it would take a bundle of > > money to pursue a court battle.

> >
> > Again, talk this over with your attorneys.
> > I think that you might get "an education".
> >
> >

4049. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:02:30 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not>
Message-ID: <3C16901E.99A91DAA@spam.me.not>
Source record: 27045
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

...apparently the same as it cost for your spelling lessons...

It's marbles, not marbals; and training, not trainning.

hukd on fonix wurkd 4 u, 2?

Itts knought phunnie too bie ay baad spelar.

Sheesh.

-SSB

greg wrote:
>
> how much does it cost for the bag of marbals to put in your mouth for cb
> talk trainning ?? :)
>
> > They list over twenty five different models and, for another $30.00 at the > > time of purchase, they will modify them for 11 meters. In some areas,
>
> Help fight mailbots with these in your tagline:
> tosspam@aol.com abuse@aol.com abuse@yahoo.com abuse@hotmail.com
> abuse@msn.com abuse@sprintmail.com abuse@earthlink.net uce@ftc.gov
> abuse@info.cep.cniba-u.ac.jp

4050. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:11:12 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1692A2.94275F87@gte.net>
Source record: 27079
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > I work for a governmental agency.
>
> Which means your an expert on Police procedure across the country?
>

No. But you are living in dream land.

>
> > Plus I have a number of friends who > > are LEOs who I serve with in the > > military reserves.
>
> > I know procedure. And I know rookie > > cops. When in doubt, arrest.
>
> Again this is just your over exagerated opinion, nothing more. I think > elephants can fly to but hey thats my opinion. What procedure do you know?
> So now you know all rookie cops, simply amazing are you psycotic ... Opps > typo I mean psychic.....
>

And are you a police officer? Are you
an attorney? NO. You are a Private Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact
with the current system.

Understand this. The police and the military are your superiors. Their lives are far more valuable than yours. And they are the only thing that is keeping this country together. There lives are living sacrifices, their deaths atone for your screw ups.

And no cop is going to take your lip,
that you are some big bad ass ham operator. In his mind, he does not care about your rights. He cares about making home every night.

>
> > That came from a buddy who is > > a Chicago cop and how is a captain
> > in the Army Reserves.
>

> More opinions and heresay! With no basis for fact.
>
> > You have not been in court lately, have you?
>
> Yes as a matter of fact i have.How about you?
>

As a matter of my duties, yes.

What charges were you brought up on?

>
> > The cops see their main duty in getting people > > into court. At that point they see that they have > > done their job and it is the courts' job to determine > > who was correct.
>
> It is the Cops job to enforce the laws that are out in our society, It is > there job to get criminals off the streets, if they had the choice they > would rather not have to go to court or arrest anyone.
>
> >
> > Cops are very hard nosed these days. What I > > am trying to get across is that the average cop
> > does not know who you are, does not care. If > > you give him any grief over your "rights", he calls
> > in back up, arrests you and then lets the courts > > settle.
>
> They also are under alot of scrutiny these days, in NJ the State Police are > under a lot of scrutiny all motor vehicle stops are video recorded and the > stops are reviewed by the federal Government. So "they" are not arresting > people who complain about their rights. They are arresting people because > they violated a Law. Most cops are well aware of what peoples rights are > within the letter of the law. Do exceptions happen of course they do but the > brush you are painting with is far to wide and just your opinion.
>

No, but they do not want to hear about your fucking rights. They could care less.
If they pull you over, they can take your car if you do not have proof that you are federally licensed to operate a radio.

>
> This is exactly what most of my cop buddies
> > say that they will do if they are uncertain about > > a law. They see it as court problem, not theirs.
>
> This says it all :: snipped fron N9NWO's qrz page.
>

> I have served for over 30 years in politics. I have been a precinct > committeeman, a delegate to the State Party convention several times and > just finished a term as a member of my local township board.

And your service to "king and country"?
I do have 30 years of political service.
I have put judges on the bench, congressmen
in office, have worked on political campaigns
from the local to federal level.

Plus 20 years of military service, to include a year in the Gulf War and another year
with the Bosnian mess.

What have you done with your miserable
two bit life?

4051. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:14:29 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <prwR7.158829$WW.9967755@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27046
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"greg" <greg@valkyrie.net> wrote in message news:3c168f47_2@athena.netset.com...

Just like there ain't no such thing as a free lunch, there ain't no topic worth this number of newsgroups.

Dick N&#65533;BK

4052. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:14:58 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C169383.3783E724@gte.net>
Source record: 27080
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Jerry Oxendine wrote:

> Now, tell me this> If I am driving my personal car, not speeding, not > violating any laws, in uniform or not, and a LEO decides to become "curious" > about my radio equipment, he will have NO leg to stand on. First line of > defense--the Amateur license. Most cops DO know what Amateur Radio is. I have > already been asked about this at license checks. Now, let's say the LEO > decides that this is not good enough for him, and at the time, I happen to > have the Tait radio on state rescue.
> In spite of courteous efforts to explain what it is, the LEO decides that he > is going to confiscate my radios and does so. The first call will go to Col.
> Charles Layno in Greensboro, NC. He or I will then put in a call to Maxwell > AFB, Al explaining what happened. I will then sit back and wait. YOU can > think what you like, and all the civilian "contacts" in the world will not > stop what happens > next. The LEO's supervisor WILL get a call from Maxwell "requesting" the > equipment be returned. It will be made clear that their department WILL > return the radio without delay. You are not understanding; the equipment is > NOT civilian--it is > charged out on a DOD Form and is accountable to the HQ to which it is > assigned. It would be the SAME thing if a cop stopped a Marine convoy and > "confiscated" the radios out of a Humvee. CID would NOT let it go. I would > do nothing--I'd be out of the loop sitting on the sidelines just waiting for > the sh to hit the fan AND laughing my a off at the cop
>
> Your attitude seems to be that cops can do anything and get away with it.
> That may be true up to a point. On the news tonight, for example, there is > a police chief in hot water in a nearby town. Seems he answered a call to a > ruckus involving a group of teens. One of the teens was not involved in the > fights that broke out, and was leaving the scene as the chief drove up. The > kid was halfway inside his car when the chief rushed up, grabbed the kid and > flung him down onto the pavement injuring him. Now the cop says it was the > kid resisting arrest. But there were 20 witnesses that say the cop just ran > up and grabbed the boy and threw him to the ground. The fight was inside the > recreation center. If the cop is guilty I hope the guy is fired and is never > allowed to work in law enforcement again. IF the kid DID resist arrest, or > become belligerent, then HE should have to pay.
>

The point is that if you off half cocked about your "rights"
and how you are some big shot ham operator/CAP big wig, you are in the wrong. That is not the way to deal with cops. Your lack of respect towards them is shameful.

The police and military are your superiors.

4053. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:19:05 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C16947B.C9669F83@gte.net>
Source record: 27081
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> As far as my own county is concerned, I have lived here since 1967. I know > just about everybody around here that counts. I have NEVER been arrested in > my entire life. I have a very conservative appearance with no long hair or > mustache. My clothes are always clean--unless I am working on an old car. I > know lots of the cops here including the county Sheriff, many city cops, and > my ex-brother-in-law who is on the force. My car tag even states "USAF > Auxiliary, NC Wing CAP XXX You are still missing something here. What I am > telling you is: sure, the cop can take my stuff. Now if I don't give him > grief in any way, do not resist his efforts to seize the radio equipment, the > only recourse is to show him the Amateur license and the Property tag on the > non- civilian radio, YES, he can take my stuff: do you think I am going to > resist a cop with a gun? But IF you think Maxwell AFB is going to sit there > and let that cop KEEP that equipment, you're loonier than 40 hells! Again, if > you think the local yokels will stare down the CID audit team, you > are nuts. It WILL be returned.
>
> I have been involved in the organization since 1964. Now if I decide to > embarrass the LEO, I don't need to bring said organization into the picture;
> all I need is a > copy of the FCC regulations that preempt Bubba's authority and an accurate > account of what happened. You see, I won't HAVE to involve them: USAF/CAP > will take care of the confiscated equipment issue. I will make the cop look > stupid and embarrass his department over the Amateur issue by causing a TV > reporter to come snooping around, asking questions, and putting them on > national TV. Prior > to that, being briefed on the FCC preemption, a judge would likely strike any > charge of "illegal radios and return them.
>
> NOW! Having beat this horse to death, I have to say that this is a very unlike > situation. Most cops are professionals and conduct themselves in a > respectful, courteous manner. They are not stupid and will not put themselves > into a situation that could cause them embarrassment. Many cops are even > hams, and as such, understand--even know-- the rules and how they apply to > hams. It is the rogue, the big headed rookie, the guy with the swelled head, > the one whose psyco-logical profile misled his testers that could cause this > trouble. They don't usually last long tending to get themselves in trouble.
> Hey, I've been thru MANY license checks, > especially after Sept 11, and have been merely asked what were the radios > for. Most of them were already familiar with ham radio--even CAP--and have > never had a problem. I know the rogue cops are out there be- cause I've been > stopped by one--even though I was NOT speeding or doing anything out of the > ordinary. He was most discourteous, cut me off when I attempted to ask a > question, wouldn't let > me talk at all. The stop was a mistake--the car he was looking for was a > sedan: I was in a station wagon--just the same color. But he took his mistake > out on ME. It is the rogue who would decide that his authority cannot be > challenged, and he is > the one I would take on thru legal and military channels if his "error" > involved the seizing of DOD equipment. That is all I am saying. And here, > this thread ends as far as I am concerned--no need to keep this up.

>

The way you were going at it was that you were making it out that you were some big shot ham radio operator with all sorts of fucking rights and you were going to TELL
that cop were to get off.

4054. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-11 23:47:30 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C169B12.CA8BBE41@uci.edu>
Source record: 27047

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic. Are you > saying they can?

Maybe some of them are magicians?

From what I can tell, they seem to be using kind of a loose, existential definition of the term, Dwight.

4055. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 01:11:39 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v6arn02fvf@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27048

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C168D6B.9B914A1E@sccoast.net...
> Krell wrote:
> Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic.
Are you > saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot
do > magic when they claim they can proves that. I claimed modern day "pagans"
are

It's "magick." Not, "magic." Try posting "magic" in a pagan/Wiccan newsgroup and watch what happens.

> not descendants of those ancient pagan religions. Do you have some evidence to > dispute this? I claimed most people in this country would describe their beliefs > and practices as "satanic." Do you have some evidence to dispute that? So far,
> I've seen a lot of talk about how my claims are wrong, but not a shred of > evidence to support that talk.

Did you even LOOK at the link I posted? Obviously not.

> If you really believe this wiccan nonsense, Krell, show me they can do magic > and cast spells by having one do so to me. I've asked for such proof over
and > over, yet nothing has happened so far. In the end, this entire wiccan
nonsense
> is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it.

Wiccan spell rituals are no different than a native American rain dance, or Christians praying for miracles. Who are you to say which one is right or wrong?

4056. Three Cheers For N0BK

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 01:39:10 UTC
From: "Scott upplus@hotSPAMmail.com"
Message-ID: <9v6cfuomo1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27049

Always there is a problem with hams coming in rec.radio.cb and telling us CBers whats legal and whats not. Blah blah blah. FCC this and FCC that. Not Dick. Dick is "our" kind of ham. When he hears us talking about illegal stuff he doesnt call us criminals. He is a ham and he gets a kick out of how we run 4500 watts in a mobile. This makes us feel pretty good about ourselves. And with a little prompting we can get him to school us on how to slide our PLL's onto 10 meters or bias a pair of 4-1000's on channel 19.

Go Beer Keg!!! You RULE!!!!!

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4057. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:07:40 UTC
From: "long dong sliver esq." <stopond300@amishonlinel.com>
Message-ID: <MZyR7.4075$5K4.445664@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27050
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

"phil" <phil@phil.com> wrote in message news:u1b59ifs4bn8e7@corp.supernews.com...
> > Better watch out there friend or you'll be asked to contribute to Herbie's > > latest defense fund. It's coming.
>
> wow, i'm lost here... do you know K1MAN? i did not hear any of his bulletins > yet... what is the bulletin about?

Primarilly this ----> http://fotm.rotten.com/fotm/

;) I'm sure you get the idea ;)

4058. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:21:04 UTC
From: greg <greg@valkyrie.net>
Message-ID: <3c16bf0c_3@athena.netset.com>
Source record: 27051
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

and who in the hell are you english COP ?

--
Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C16901E.99A91DAA@spam.me.not...
> ...apparently the same as it cost for your spelling lessons...
>
> It's marbles, not marbals; and training, not trainning.
>
> hukd on fonix wurkd 4 u, 2?
>
> Itts knought phunnie too bie ay baad spelar.
>
> Sheesh.
>
> -SSB
>
> greg wrote:
> >
-u.ac.jp

4059. Re: Three Cheers For N0BK

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:21:35 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <PazR7.159030$WW.9984993@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27052

The Mad Forger Strikes again. Does not deserve a reply or denial. Prove it Bozo

Dick N&#65533;BK

<Scott (Unit-69) upplus@hotSPAMmail.com> wrote in message
news:9v6cfuomo1@news.netmar.com...
> Always there is a problem with hams coming in rec.radio.cb and telling
us
> CBers whats legal and whats not. Blah blah blah. FCC this and FCC that.
Not
> Dick. Dick is "our" kind of ham. When he hears us talking about illegal stuff
> he doesnt call us criminals. He is a ham and he gets a kick out of how we run
> 4500 watts in a mobile. This makes us feel pretty good about ourselves.
And
> with a little prompting we can get him to school us on how to slide our PLL's > onto 10 meters or bias a pair of 4-1000's on channel 19.
>
> Go Beer Keg!!! You RULE!!!!!
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
eb -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other
posts
> made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email

abuse@newsone.net

4060. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:22:06 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C16BF4E.957575C7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27053

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > At Intel, a logic designer meets with a > > process designer quite often in a one-on-one > > meeting. Most companies trust their employees.
>
> If those companies trust those employees, why would they need to discuss > project only behind closed doors?

They obviously trust some key employees more than other non-key employees.
You simply don't know what you are talking about. At Intel, every day, there are thousands of one-on-ones (what Intel calls them) behind closed doors. I worked in a group unrelated to microprocessors and would have been unable to obtain the specs for the Pentium4. You have no idea of the secrecy surrounding the latest designs.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4061. Re: Three Cheers For N0BK

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:35:47 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <7ozR7.219357$3d2.10182929@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27054

Dick, thanks again. I've added more to my block sender list. Each addition and the newsgroup thins out before my eyes. My blood pressure is 120 over 80.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:PazR7.159030$WW.9984993@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> The Mad Forger Strikes again. Does not deserve a reply or denial. Prove > it Bozo
>
> Dick N&#65533;BK
>
> <Scott (Unit-69) upplus@hotSPAMmail.com> wrote in message
> news:9v6cfuomo1@news.netmar.com...
> > Always there is a problem with hams coming in rec.radio.cb and telling
> us
> > CBers whats legal and whats not. Blah blah blah. FCC this and FCC that.
> Not
> > Dick. Dick is "our" kind of ham. When he hears us talking about illegal > stuff
> > he doesnt call us criminals. He is a ham and he gets a kick out of how > we run
> > 4500 watts in a mobile. This makes us feel pretty good about ourselves.
> And
> > with a little prompting we can get him to school us on how to slide our > PLL's
> > onto 10 meters or bias a pair of 4-1000's on channel 19.
> >
> > Go Beer Keg!!! You RULE!!!!!
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >

> >
> >
> >
> > ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
> eb -----
> > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
> groups
> > NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other
> posts
> > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
> abuse@newsone.net
>
>

4062. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:38:35 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C16C32B.DC519BB1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27055

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Social engineering in a technical hobby (at least supposed to be one).
> Right.

The Federal Government requires HF hams to know Morse code. That's social engineering, Dick. All governmental requirements are social engineering. If the feds were not trying to engineer society, there would be no need for federal requirements.

> "Free market" is the same.

From Websters: "market - trade or traffic" Haven't you ever heard of CW traffic, Dick? CW is in competition with the other modes.
A lot of hams choose not to buy CW or your arguments about CW.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4063. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:41:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C16C3BE.75761E33@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27056

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> If Bin Laden is > guilty, then he should get exactly what is coming to him. But, so far, I've seen > nothing to prove his guilt.

The smoking gun is supposed to be released to the public tomorrow.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4064. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:45:31 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not>
Message-ID: <3C16C461.E3FBBDB6@spam.me.not>
Source record: 27057
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

No, just a guy who found it funny that you were making a fool of yourself while making fun of someone else, and decided to poke a little fun myself. Whassamattah? You can dish it out, but you can't take it?
::smirk::

-SSB

greg wrote:
>
> and who in the hell are you english COP ?
>
> --
> Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
> news:3C16901E.99A91DAA@spam.me.not...
> > ...apparently the same as it cost for your spelling lessons...
> >
> > It's marbles, not marbals; and training, not trainning.
> >
> > hukd on fonix wurkd 4 u, 2?
> >
> > Itts knought phunnie too bie ay baad spelar.
> >
> > Sheesh.
> >
> > -SSB
> >
> > greg wrote:
> > >
> -u.ac.jp

4065. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 02:49:56 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C16C5D4.B146839A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27058

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >Actually, the FCC has gone on record as seeing no correlation between > >Morse code skill and self-sufficiency or any other positive attribute.
> >Morse code skill stands alone and is uncorrelated to anything else.
> >Virtually all of the troublemakers on HF are coded hams. The great > >majority of NALs are given to coded hams.
>
> Hmmm. I see. Is there any correlation, then, between technical > skill and having no Morse code skills whatsoever?

Actually, the great majority of people with PhD degrees in EE/Electronics don't know Morse code. Like the FCC said, Morse code skill proves Morse code skill. It doesn't prove anything else including technical skill. If Morse code skill were correlated with technical skill, it would be a requirement
in the technical curriculum of universities but you know it is not required.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4066. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 03:16:59 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011211221659.13985.00000822@mb-md.aol.com>
Source record: 27060

In article <#NzBiPngBHA.2124@cpimsnntpa04>, "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
writes:

>
>Get real! We aren't talking about "100% homebrew " here (nor were >we back in the 50's). We're talking about tinkering and experimenting, >which can include some homebrewing "from scratch", some modification
>of store bought equipment, some 'conversion from other service', some >kitbuilt, some fixing of what got broken, and obviously some unchanged >since it came out of the box. That's the mix in most active amateur shacks >today, just as it was back in the 50's.
>
>I know a LOT of active hams and, except for a few very new ones, I don't >know of a SINGLE shack that contains 100% factory made/factory original >equipment. Not ONE.

Hansl:

Well, then, you obviously know very few post No Code Tech hams, and virtually no Post Restructuring hams! Most of those I know have nothing but 100% store-bought-off-the-shelf shacks, some of them even down to the "dipole in a bag" and coax with pre-installed connectors. Even in my own shack, there is very little homebrewed/kit-built gear. I've got a homebrewed PSK31 interface, a kit-built version of the same thing, a kit-built Mic-E APRS unit, and a kit-built artificial ground unit. That's it. Granted, all my coax and other cables are self-constructed using connectors from hamfest parts bins, but that's no big deal. I just wish a few more of the new dumbed-down hams would at least try to do that much -- but I pretty much gave up on the future of ham radio when a local No-code tech offered me a steak dinner if I'd come over to his house and wire his packet TNC to his computer for him! I asked him why he didn't just open up the instruction booklet and do it himself -- and he said he was afraid to mess it up! Know what this guy does for a living? He's an electrician!

>Killing that spirit with a "manufactured type-accepted rig only" license
>would >doom the Amateur Radio Service to extinction, and all your ill-founded >pontificating about "there ain't no more homebrewers" will only speed the >date. Shame on you.

I'm sure there are a few homebrewers remaining in what's left of the ARS, but I don't believe that doubling their numbers would do anything to prevent us from accelerating down the slippery slope leading to our inevitable extinction. The quantum reduction in licensing standards has created the impression that ham radio is nothing more than a glorified version of CB with more bands, modes, and power. When the remaining miniscule 5 WPM code testing requirement is dropped, we probably will see a slight increase in numbers of licensees, but there will be an attendant reduction in the quality of operating skill seen and heard on-the-air.

>(ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½) 73, de Hans, K0HB

It must be nice to be so easily amused!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4067. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 03:17:00 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011211221700.13985.00000823@mb-md.aol.com>
Source record: 27059

In article <9f4bfe89.0112110606.68127a8b@posting.google.com>, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) writes:

>I understand that in Paris and its suburbs one cannot get more than a >certain distance (500 meters?) from a Metro station. And the Paris >Metro system has been constantly (except for war years) expanded and >modernized to meet the needs of the City of Light.

I have my doubts that even in Paris, you can find Metro stations spaced less than 1/3 of a mile apart! That may occur in a few places along major routes, but not everywhere in Paris and it's suburbs! Were that so, the entire city would have to be suspended by the subterranean structure of the train stations below.

>For longer trips, the TGV trains operate at about 200 mph. They >reached 326 mph in tests (not a typo).

Hmmm. A bit more than half the speed of a typical 230 gr. FMJ round coming out the muzzle of a .45 automatic! No wonder they call it a "bullet" train! I wonder how they keep that thing on the tracks at that speed -- I'll ass-u-&-me that the wheels actually lock onto the track with some kind of flange.

>> If anyone wants to pay for this >> "elderly" person to move where public transportation is available, I'll >gladly >> take another trip to Europe for a few years. :-)
>
>Works for me!
>
>73 de Jim, N2EY

I think this country will be more or less forced to solve the problems of the elderly, since they are the fastest growing demographic group of Americans.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4068. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 03:32:23 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C16CFC7.2D3537AF@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27061

K0HB wrote:

> N2EY wants to know:
>
> > When's the last time you worked a US ham with a 100% homebrew > > station who did not have a "mainstream" rig also? (Besides me, I > > mean - and it ain't true for me anymore).
>
> Get real! We aren't talking about "100% homebrew " here (nor were > we back in the 50's). We're talking about tinkering and experimenting, > which can include some homebrewing "from scratch", some modification
> of store bought equipment, some 'conversion from other service', some > kitbuilt, some fixing of what got broken, and obviously some unchanged > since it came out of the box. That's the mix in most active amateur shacks > today, just as it was back in the 50's.
>

I imagine that back in the 50's, a novice would use a receiver that was a modified 5 tube AM radio (aka AA5). Change the antenna coil, local oscillator coil, and add some regeneration to the IF to make a crude BFO, to make a CW receiver. And using parts scanvened from a dead TV set, build a transmitter. The horizontal output tube would be the RF out tube. Use one of the signal triodes as a crystal controlled oscillator, and a signal pentode
as a keyed buffer/driver.

Many starving high school and college students probably had stations like this.

4069. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 03:53:21 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C16D4B1.2D607834@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27062

>
>
> Thanks. For many years, farmland has fallen victim to suburban sprawl > and "development". That trend will eventually have to end.

That only happens near large cities. Most farms are out in the middle of nowhere.

>
>
> In addition, many of the crops grown today are used to feed cattle.
> Many more people could be fed from the same land if the crops were used > to feed people.

I have heard claims that American farmers grow enough stuff to feed half the world. And that we routinely sell and give away food just to get rid of it. Food Stamps were developed as a scheme for getting rid of excess food.

>
>
> >In the meantime, we can speculate. How many trees are > > we willing to cut down to clear potential farm lands?
>
> Won't work on a large scale because the trees are needed for paper, > lumber and their anti-pollution properties.
>
> > And, of course,
> > some of the problem can be reduced if we develop a taste for crops > > that can grow in less ideal places.
>
> Yup. See above on cattle feed.
>
> >Seaweed burgers, anyone?
>
> Has anybody trademarked the name "Soylent" yet?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

4070. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 04:56:52 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <eLZmEIsgBHA.856@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27063

Dwight says:

> I don't know who planned it, Jim. And neither do you. But I do know > we have a concept of justice in this country where a person is innocent > until proven guilty.

Out here in the plains we also have a concept where you don't have to prove a rattlesnake is going to bite you before you are entitled to kill the sonuvabitch.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4071. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 06:28:24 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C16F908.DF1F1AAC@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27064

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C16467D.1F38289F@earthlink.net...
> > Krell wrote:
>
> > Now go down the page a bit and you'll see two formulae next to each > > other. Note the extra "x 0.95" step in the use of the "492" figure.
> > Adjacent to it is the formula 468/f(MHz).
> >
> Dave K8MN
>
> Wow! That's just what I posted in my response to Larry Troll when he used > the 468 figure!

Wow! I have to confess that I don't read all of your posts.

Dave K8MN

4072. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 07:10:29 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9v6vt3$gp0$3@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27065
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote:

> Until you can reference an actual case where a licensed ham has had "some > rambo, fat-bellied dep'ty sheriff takes my radio(s) while ignoring the > license", this is all just paranoid supposition. Relax...

I don't think that it was a deputy sheriff, but there was a young Ham that had his radio confiscated - simply because the officer thought it was capable of monitoring the police frequencies.

After a lot of hassle and publicity, I believe he got his radio back.

So, it does happen.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4073. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 12:08:42 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212070842.01870.00000249@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27066

In article <3C16CFC7.2D3537AF@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>I imagine that back in the 50's, a novice would use a receiver that >was a modified 5 tube AM radio (aka AA5). Change the antenna >coil, local oscillator coil, and add some regeneration to the IF to >make a crude BFO, to make a CW receiver.

A few may have done that, but it was the hard way and the results rarely worth the effort.

A much better approach was to get a WW2 surplus "ARC-5" receiver (also called "Command sets" or "SCR-274N") These were small six-tube superhets with very good performance for their size, weight, complexity and cost in the surplus market. Each tuned a single band. The most common ones were the 6-9 MHz, 3-6 MHz, and 0.19-0.55 MHz versions.

They typically cost $5-$15 depending on condition. Add a tuning knob, gain control, BFO switch and 'phone jack, connect a power supply and you have a pretty decent receiver. Tuning rate was kinda fast and the selectivity was not very good but it was bettr than any AA5 set, and safer.

The really slick move was to build a simple 1 or 2 tube crystal controlled converter from an old AA5 set and some 25 cent surplus xtals, which would then feed a 0.19-0.55 MHz set. Better selectivity, better tuning rate and calibration, and you could cover more bands.

Complete receiving setup for under $25

> And using parts
>scanvened from a dead TV set, build a transmitter. The horizontal >output tube would be the RF out tube. Use one of the signal
>triodes as a crystal controlled oscillator, and a signal pentode
>as a keyed buffer/driver.

No need for three stages. Use the audio output tube (usually a 6K6 or 6V6) as a crystal oscillator, and the sweep tube (6BG6 or whatever) as the final. Simple and effective on 80 and 40 meters.

Some folks converted the ARC-5 transmitters, too. Total cost well under $20.
>
>Many starving high school and college students probably >had stations like this.
>
Yup. Often careful watching of what the neighbors put out on the trash could result in all sorts of treasures.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4074. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 12:34:07 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 27067
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> Well said.
> People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft, > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not
> "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry for > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw copy.
> Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> The easy way out is the booring way out.
> WB3DSJ

You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may love the digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so on and so on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a variety of different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to do whatever is allowed by that license class.

Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either the dropping of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of it dropping of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became proactively involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least 80% of all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be" (i.e. congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham radio. We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us, but can you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all the way up to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur radio? I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire fighting related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others to do so too.

Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them the experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public to actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually be able to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we are doing .

Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch hobby. Get involved!

[first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other paragraphs are to everyone else.]

Ryan KC8PMX

>
> KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't, won't.
> >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> operation
> >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> >
> >Ryan
> >KC8PMX
> >
> >
> >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> >>
> >> Hi OMs,
> >>
> >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore needed to use
> >> the HF bands.
> >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will get
the
> >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released in
the > >> Netherlands.
> >>
> >> PE1PAE
> >>
> >>
> >
> >
>
>

4075. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 12:34:09 UTC
From: KC8PMX <kc8pmx@tm.net>
Message-ID: <59IR7.111$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com>
Source record: 27068

Actually, this is something more of us need to prompt our clubs and organizations that we pay dues to, to create or help supply the contents of whatever packet you are referring to. Sounds like, overall, a positive-gain investment. I like the idea actually.

Ryan KC8PMX

> more info. This guy really did seem to be interested so I am thinking maybe > having a small PR packet we can hand out to people who are not afraid to ask > us about all those weird antennas really isn't a bad idea. I read about > another Ham in a news group, a while back, who was doing something like this > to promote the hobby. Now when they get home they will have something to > look at and not forget about it. Then maybe they will take the time to look > up the ARRL on the web.
>
> --
> Leland C. Scott
> KC8LD0
>
> Saw this on a Tee-shirt:
>
> "I am a bomb technician. If you see > me running, try to keep up. "
>
>
>

4076. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 13:26:08 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212082608.08621.00000909@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27069

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: "Jerry Oxendine" joxendi@bellsouth.net
>Date: 12/10/2001 9:20 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <kYeR7.114824$S93.5968376@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>

>It would be the SAME thing if a cop stopped a >Marine convoy and "confiscated" the radios out of a Humvee.

In 1982 a California Highway Patrolman near Oceanside, CA, decided to try and issue a speeding citation to a bus that was carrying us to the rifle range.
He demanded to be allowed to search the bus.

He didn't succeed.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4077. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 14:45:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C176D75.F062E850@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27070

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> The quantum reduction in licensing standards has > created the impression that ham radio is nothing more than a glorified > version of CB with more bands, modes, and power.

A quantum reduction should be undetectable, Larry. From Webster's:
"quantum - one of the small subdivisions of a quantized physical magnitude" The above "impression" appears to be all in your mind.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4078. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 14:49:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C176E7A.84B225B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27071

Robert Casey wrote:
> Many starving high school and college students probably
> had stations like this.

Many others, like me, had ARC-5's and BC-45x surplus rigs.
I even had a triple conversion tunable IF receiver made out of two BC-45x receivers.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4079. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 15:53:00 UTC
From: radiosigs <radiosigs@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9v7ufrpng1@slb7.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27072
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

First off Barry Carver, AC4VO, is truly a gentleman but made a mistake by negotiating with Baxter. All Barry did was to lend his intentional interference, credibility. Want to clean up 14.275? Get Baxter off the air!

Regarding the noise, I'm in NNJ and it was just 5/2 here but strong enough to blast through to all parts of this country. My reports of a weak signal have been corroborated by WA2ECA and K2EDQ, both Jerseyans. That racket is coming from no more than 50 miles from me and it's the same loony who's been pulling the same stuff for years on 14.313.

Doc,AF2Y

"leaky oil filled capacitors" <itmrogers3@hotmail.com> wrote in message news:UWaR7.1287$5K4.173096@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Was listening to K1MAN's bulletin broadcast
> and heard Barry's ac4vo's fine comments to > Glen. Barry appears to be a gentleman and articulate > arbitrator. Good job Barry! While his interview was playing > btwn 3-4PM Central time though, some nutcase comes up > with music playing and all the other stuff to try to > re-ignite this dumb radio war! Sheesh! Can't you music > playing cb'er a-holes turn the radio OFF for a few weeks?
> Let this thing work! We don't need a repeat performance of > something like the old 14.313 Wars again cause it will only > spread all over 20 then onto 75.
>
>

4080. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 16:59:50 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C177FB0.A0AE55D5@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27073

"Leland C. Scott" wrote:

. He was > pleased as heck with the radio literature, and wanted to know if CW was used

> too, which I said yes

Then you gave him a demonstration of a CW contact, right?????

4081. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 17:02:54 UTC
From: drpfrench@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212120254.04555.00001752@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27074

>Actually, this is something more of us need to prompt our clubs and >organizations that we pay dues to, to create or help supply the contents of >whatever packet you are referring to. Sounds like, overall, a positive-gain >investment. I like the idea actually.

The ARRL has a selection of hand outs listed on the ARRL web site. OUr club has a good supply of these for Kids Day events, and Field Day Etc. THe Archie comix are also a good hand out for kids.

4082. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 17:14:42 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112120914.35d377ba@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27075

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message news:<3C176E7A.84B225B@IEEE.org>...
> Robert Casey wrote:
> > Many starving high school and college students probably > > had stations like this.
>
> Many others, like me, had ARC-5's and BC-45x surplus rigs.
> I even had a triple conversion tunable IF receiver made out > of two BC-45x receivers.

In QST for August, 1959 there is an article titled "An ARC-5 Triple Superhet" by VE3DPC, Frank S. Gue. Neat setup using the three-receiver rack and one each of the BC-453, BC-454 and BC-455. The BC-454 and BC-455 were modified to become tunable converters feeding the BC-453.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4083. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 17:23:00 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112120923.2c81e14e@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27076

Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:<3C16D4B1.2D607834@ix.netcom.com>...
> >
> > Thanks. For many years, farmland has fallen victim to suburban sprawl > > and "development". That trend will eventually have to end.
>
> That only happens near large cities. Most farms are out in the > middle of nowhere.

From what I've read and seen, modern American farming is mostly a low margin industry. IOW, a slight advantage in production cost can make the difference between success and failure.

When a developer offers a farmer big bucks for the land, it's hard to say no.

> > In addition, many of the crops grown today are used to feed cattle.
> > Many more people could be fed from the same land if the crops were used > > to feed people.
>
> I have heard claims that American farmers grow enough stuff to > feed half the world.

2.5 billion or so people? I'd like to see credible numbers on that.

> And that we routinely sell and give away > food just to get rid of it. Food Stamps were developed as > a scheme for getting rid of excess food.

Partly. Food stamps are a way of helping low income people other than cash handouts.

The discussion evolved from claims about biofuels - specifically fuels derived from hemp. But nobody has presented credible numbers to back up their claims.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4084. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 17:31:04 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <2087B91633643430.86FAEDD81389CBFE.C44F70E8E2C7512C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27077

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 16:51:33 -0500, "Leland C. Scott"
<no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote:

>Here's something to think about. The other night I had a guy honestly ask >me, out side of a 7-eleven store, if I was some kind of secret agent or >something while pointing to the antenna farm on top of my van.

Amazing how people seem to think a secret agent would have glaringly obvious equipment stuck to the top of his vehicle.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4085. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 19:29:27 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <1CDA63BCC3BB9349.A5124575CB9E5072.9992B666C7335910@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27082
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 23:11:12 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>In his mind, he does not >care about your rights. He cares
>about making home every night.

Then he needs to take that badge off and go work at a Taco Bell.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4086. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 20:20:01 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <RZOR7.300551$5A3.117072489@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27083
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C16909A.5215455F@gte.net...
> Think again. First the cops would just the > car and the radios. Then when the CID
> folks show up, they will explain how you
> lipped off to the cops that you were some > type of hot shot Air Force type. At that > point, the investigation might be about your
> fitness to serve.

I think you should think again Most all traffic stops in real citys and states are video and audio recorded. So unless he(Jerry) did actually say anything I don't think the officer will perjure himself, and risk losing his good paying " I am Superior to you " job all over a possible radio violation. So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they write some type of Laws regarding this issue. Congress only gave local jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly enforcing Laws. I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as lawsuit crazy against LEO's.

4087. Re: New Galaxy DX-2547 with EXTRAS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 20:25:31 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v8efrvej1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27085
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

Genocide2RF357 <genocide2rf357@aol.com> writes:
This is a radio that a guy in my town has nice unit as I own one

http://cgi.ebay.com/aw-cgi/eBayISAPI.dll?ViewItem&item=1308893468&r=0&t=0& showTutorial=0&ed=1008656671&indexURL=0&rd=1

"This is exactly the type of modifiable radio that we must fight to keep in circulation. Our ability to use the freeband should not be impinged upon by busybodies like Lelnad and his litter who stick thier nose where it does not belong. Genocide your friend smartly avoided the ebay restrictions by hinting at the "extras" instead of spelling them out. Good job"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4088. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 20:25:40 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <83PR7.300553$5A3.117073969@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27084
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
>
> The way you were going at it was that you
> were making it out that you were some big
> shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
> fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> that cop were to get off.

And the way your were going at it was all cops are bad guys who don't care about you or your rights. Especially the rookie who will arrest you first and ask questions later because he is unsure of the law.

4089. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 20:28:48 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C17BE00.CFD085FC@uci.edu>
Source record: 27086

CAM wrote:
>
> Many others, like me, had ARC-5's and BC-45x surplus rigs.
> I even had a triple conversion tunable IF receiver made out > of two BC-45x receivers.

A friend of mine calls them radios that stink in the dark. :-)

4090. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 20:53:37 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <ltPR7.300557$5A3.117080825@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27087
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message

> > Which means your an expert on Police procedure across the country?

> No.

I didn't think you were either. At least from your posts.

> And are you a police officer? Are you
> an attorney? NO. You are a Private > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact
> with the current system.

Don't believe everything your small mind thinks up. You don't know who or what I am and what systems I have contact with. Again all I see from you is opinions Just like a true politician full of shit as usual.

> Understand this. The police and the > military are your superiors.

Says who You?

>Their lives are far more valuable than yours.

Again says who some 2 bit local politican from bumfuct indiana?

> And no cop is going to take your lip,
> that you are some big bad ass ham
> operator. In his mind, he does not > care about your rights. He cares
> about making home every night.

He had better care about my rights they are just as important as his. So all cops walk around with attitudes is what you are saying. Is it screw Joe Public? Does he think he is "Above The Law" Does every cop feel this way ? Perhaps Daniel Marvin can answer a few questions.

> As a matter of my duties, yes.

What are you now a court clerk LOL

> What charges were you brought > up on?

Pissing on some 1/2 assed politican from Indiana. Charges were dropped once the Tin was flashed. :wink wink : we stick togther...

> And your service to "king and country"?
> I do have 30 years of political service.

When should we be impressed? How were you were into politics when you were in the military for 20 years, did you serve the Saudi Government? were you on the Bosnia Township commitie? Did you help get Helmut Klerk elected? Can't be 2 places at once Ya know.

> I have put judges on the bench, congressmen
> in office, have worked on political campaigns
> from the local to federal level.

You personally have done this? I thought Congressmen were elected officials. But, what does politics and political campaigns have to do with police enforcement. You are losing me

> Plus 20 years of military service, to include > a year in the Gulf War and another year
> with the Bosnian mess.

This makes you an expert on police across the country namely all rookies?

> What have you done with your miserable
> two bit life?
>
>

4091. What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 21:30:41 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <_VPR7.160049$8n4.11746618@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27088

Fellow Amateurs,

Like many of you, I have steamed and thought over the problem of the illegal intrusions onto our 10 and 12 meter bands. Just today, I sent the following letter to my Congressional Representative, Mrs Sue Myrick. I plan to send it to Senator Helms, or his replacement, as well. I ask that each of you do the same thing. You may feel free to copy and paste the fol-lowing letter and send it to as many Reps and Senators as you see fit. The more people in Washington that see this, the more aware they will be that there is a problem. We CANNOT sit by, grumbling expecting someone else to do something about this. FCC has not the funds to undertake but a token effort to combat this growing problem. The time to stop this is NOW, and we can't stop it sitting around steaming about it, trying to QRM the illegals with CW, or illegally yelling at them to GET TH' HELL OFF HERE, YOU'RE ILLEGAL! It is NOT working, and the only way to draw attention to this is for US to act at the grass roots level.
This MAY be a good time to do this due to the fact that Amateur Radio has been VERY active in conjuction with the rescue and cleanup efforts in New York and at the Pentagon, and favorable attention has been garnered among both ES and Government officials. This IS important, because, as these yokels dip their "toes" in the waters (radio spectrum) and find no sharks to bite, it's only going to get worse. Let's do our part to stop it NOW.

73

Jerry
K4KWH

Dear Mrs. Myrick,

I am writing to brief you on a problem that is not yet readily apparent, but is going to cause difficulty in the future. Perhaps, due to the current international situation, it may not be the best time to do this. However, knowledge is power, and you must have the knowledge in order to deal with a problem.

First, a little background. Last year, President Clinton signed into public law, a Bill (#2346, I think)to permit local governments to deal with interference caused by Citizens Band Radio operators. On the surface, it would appear that this would be a good idea. However, due to a lack of publicity, very few local gov'ts have taken advantage of this law.

Basically, what it said was that local gov'ts could enact parallel ordinances that would allow, with the advice of the Fderal Communications Commission, local law enforcement to respond to complaints from citizens regarding CB radios coming in over their TVs and stereos due to illegal power and the operators "messing" with their radios in an attempt to achieve higher power. Yet, the problems continue in spite of this law which was brought about, I believe, by the efforts of Mr. Feingold of Wisconsin and Mr. Ehlers of Michigan whose constituents were having much difficulty in this area.

In addition to this problem there is another "tide" of concern to those of us who attempt to use radio legally and in accordance with law. That is, that these CB operators are straying far from the allocated 40 channels by using radios that are easy to modify and due to their promotion by unscrupulous dealers and CB shops. Most of these so-called "export" radios aren't legal for sale or use by the general public, are sold under the guise of being "ham" radios and do not meet certification by FCC. They are easily found in truck stops and wayside CB shops. These outlets also sell high powered "boosters" or amplifiers that increase the CB station's output power WAY beyond the 4 watts permitted to the CB service. Consequently, the interference is being compounded by the use of such radios and because of their being promoted to the CB market. Greed, of course, drives the sales of these radios and , indeed, having a "10 meter" radio is a kind of status symbol among these rogue operators.

And thus has arisen another problem that concerns a segment of the population, including me. You see, as you may well know, truckers have long used CB as a tool in their trade; finding directions, avoiding "smokey bear" (cops), and just plain company. The promotion of these illegal radios has caused these truckers to begin to operate up in the 10 meter Amateur Band causing interference to hams. In a segment of that band that is not even allocated for it, they use voice modes where only Morse code and digital communications is allowed to the hams that are licensed to use it. This illegal use of CB radio is a cause of much interference, loss of privileges to those who DO have the right to be there, and is a precursor to much more worrisome things to come IF it is not stopped. Moreover, the licensed hams cannot talk to them to politely inform them that they are operating illegally because it is illegal to converse with an illegal station; i.e, the ham would get into trouble for doing it. So our hands are tied. Besides even if a ham DID tell the truckers that they ought not to be there, the poor ham will be treated to a profane diatribe, ridiculed, and told to go do ugly things to himself. (Yes, some hams HAVE said something to them out of frustration)

Why is this important when, to many non-radio types, it would seem to be a trivial matter? In truth, it is NOT trivial. It is like a slow tide that creeps inland slowly so that it is not noticed until it has flooded the farm, so to speak. Thousands and thousands of Americans use radio everyday. The government and the military depend on radio. The radio spectrum is divided up and regulated by the government in such a way as to provide the best and maximum use of the frequencies by the maximum number of people. These regulations act sort of like "fences" that make good neighbors and keep each others' "cows" out of eath others' cornfields. And these "fences" depend upon the users respect for the law and willingness to abide by the boundaries set by the government. Unfortunately, we have a group of people (Citizens Band Operators) that are not willing to abide by these rules, so, thusly, we have a tide that is creeping into neighbors' cornfields. It is a slow process, and it may not seem important that CBers are invading the hams' turf, but I would like to point out the untiring, readily available, and indispen-sible service of Amateur Radio Operators during times of National and International Emergen-cies and in the aftermath of September 11th. The even MORE important ramifications of allowing this trend of illegal activity to continue are that these people, testing the waters, as it were, with their radio "toes" to see if they meet resistance, will continue to expand their operations beyond the Amateur allocations and into those of public, private, and military domains where their interference will cause great harm--even loss of life. Not only that, with the spread of such illegal activity, it would become more difficult to separate the CBers from, say, a terrorist who, using the popular jargon, could "disquise' his messages in amongst the illegal operators. What about aviation operations. International aviation uses High Frequency for contact over long distances. What if a Mayday call were missed because of some yokel calling "Break skipland"? Therefore, I submit that the time is NOW to stop this lawless intrusion onto radio frequencies by CB radio operators. It is time to STOP the interference already caused by these people before somebody's life is lost because of this! Would you want YOUR flight from England to be lost because someone thought his hobby was so important that he has a "right" to transmit anywhere he likes?

Some years ago, in the rush to downsize the US government, much funding was taken from the FCC which hampered their efforts to cope with the growing popularity of CB radio. Yet, while the popularity of CB has somewhat stabilized or reduced, the massive growth of the telecom-munications industry has limited FCC's ability to enforce the regulations governing the CB Radio service. Only the most flagrant violations are being dealt with to the detriment of other users of radio now and in the future. The most obvious solution is to restore funding to FCC--even if it is only on a temporary basis-to permit them to deal with this problem.

Here are several more:

1) Change the law to allow FCC to keep the fines they collect, or, at least, part of them to fund their enforcement efforts.

2) Eliminate the 27 MHZ CB Service altogether. Set a 5 or 7 year "sunset" date for the mfrs and users to change over to the new VHF Multiple Use Radio Service or the Family Radio Service. After all, these newer public radio services offer quiet, interference-free LOCAL communications, and coupled with very tight restrictions on the bandwidth (the area of frequencies the radios will cover from the mfr). Couple this with swift, rigid enforcement for those that refuse to give up their use of 27 mhz where they can range widely up and down the bands talking to stations overseas, (mimicking the ham band without bothering to obtain license)and cause havoc on the HF bands.

3) Amend the current local enforcement law to allow DOT officers at weight stations to randomly inspect trucks for illegal radio equipment according to a list provided by FCC and with FCC technical assistance. The Truckers' Associations effectively lobbied against this when Mr. Ehlers introduced HR2346. It wouldn't have to be done routinely, but at random so that the truckers wouldn't know when it might occur AND allow the officers to search the truck for "hidey holes" where the trucker could hide his illegal radio until he was away from the inspection station.

4) Allow, or request that local officers visit truckstops and CB shops in their area and check for illegal radios--again with a list provided by FCC.

5) Provide for a schedule of fines for the discovery of such illegal radios and amplifiers steep enough to discourage such use and sale.

6) When purchasing radios from such outlets, (Radio Shack sells some) capable of operation or modification to do so between 24 and 35 MHZ, a license MUST be produced by the buyer. Fines to the seller that is caught selling without doing so. We do it for cigarettes, liquor, and guns, why not for those "export" radios that are now being rampantly sold by dealers and over the internet. It could even be taken to mean ANY Amateur HF or VHF radio.

Ms. Myrick, I know this is long. but I BEG you to take the time to look into this. Talk to Mr. Feingold and Mr. Ehlers. Contact Billy Tauzin, who is on the powerful Commerce Committee (oversees the FCC) and see what could be done. We, the amateurs, we the citizen who is trying to watch television, we the company, indeed, we the people who are being interfered with NEED your help. PLEASE don't ignore this issue. Please HELP us.

Most cordially and thankfully,

Jerry Oxendine
Amateur Radio Station K4KWH
2007 Lee Street
Gastonia, NC 28054

4092. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 21:32:33 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212163233.24808.00001402@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27089

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: N9NWO 2121d@gte.net
>Date: 12/11/2001 5:19 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C16947B.C9669F83@gte.net>

>The way you were going at it was that you
>were making it out that you were some big
>shot ham radio operator with all sorts of >f rights and you were going to TELL
>that cop were to get off.

You are so far off base that if this was baseball, you'd be tagged out.

But that's nothing we aren't used to in this forum, so carrry on deluding yourself.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4093. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 21:41:03 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212164103.24808.00001403@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27090

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: N9NWO 2121d@gte.net
>Date: 12/11/2001 5:14 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C169383.3783E724@gte.net>

>The police and military are your superiors.

Will the person standing closest to the light switch nearest N9NWO please switch it on?

The Police AND the Armed Forces serve at the pleasure of the civilian government...Period.

Respect demonstrated towards a Police Officer or a member of the Armed Forces is respect for the system that spawns it, not the agency itself. That means respect for our laws and our society. Not any one man or woman.

Police forces and the Armed Forces of the United States are constituted by the common consent of the electorate...not the other way around.

73
Steve, K4YZ

THEY are under more scrutiny and

4094. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 21:53:58 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C17D1F6.40C2EB06@uci.edu>
Source record: 27092

Richard McCollum wrote:
> Unfortunately, Ally McBeal in general has slid off the scale into the > toilet.

Sounds like an unfortunate bathroom accident. :-)

4095. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 22:01:16 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C171B8D.2330DBAA@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27091

Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> Fellow Amateurs,
>
> Like many of you, I have steamed and thought over the problem of the illegal > intrusions onto our 10 and 12 meter bands. Just today, I sent the following > letter to my Congressional Representative, Mrs Sue Myrick. I plan to send > it to Senator Helms, or his replacement, as well.

Please run this through a spell checker before you send it, and don't abbreviate government.

4096. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 22:20:17 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <#h48Ss1gBHA.1256@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 27093

N9NWO rared up on his hind legs and said:

> The police and military are your superiors.

Horse-shit.

Pure extra fine Grade-A Horse-Shit.

The police and military are my hired help. They work for me, which makes _me_ their superior.

Do you live in the old USSR or Iraq or some such dictatorship?

73, de Hans, K0HB

4097. Re: the K1MAN vs 14.275 war is over.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 22:26:02 UTC
From: phil <phil@phil.com>
Message-ID: <u1fmbp3u3c3ge1@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 27094
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

i was just listening to K1MAN at ~2220 UTC... someone keeps buzzing the tower :)

phil :p

4098. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 23:16:17 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <%sRR7.162837$8n4.11985732@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27095

I re-read every word. There are no spelling errors. If you're referring to the hyphens, it's because of the way my browser copies and pastes. I just didn't want to go back and edit it for here. The one that was sent is corect. Anymore questions?

J
JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net> wrote in message news:3C171B8D.2330DBAA@mailcity.net...
>
>
> Jerry Oxendine wrote:
> >
> > Fellow Amateurs,
> >
> > Like many of you, I have steamed and thought over the problem of the illegal > > intrusions onto our 10 and 12 meter bands. Just today, I sent the following > > letter to my Congressional Representative, Mrs Sue Myrick. I plan to send > > it to Senator Helms, or his replacement, as well.
>
> Please run this through a spell checker before you send it, and > don't abbreviate government.

4099. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 23:45:21 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c17eb92.5178511@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27096
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 23:02:28 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do >> it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell >> the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO like >> stink on sh.
>
>Think again. First the cops would just the >car and the radios. Then when the CID
>folks show up, they will explain how you
>lipped off to the cops that you were some >type of hot shot Air Force type. At that >point, the investigation might be about your
>fitness to serve.

Which is why I strongly endorse and support that all police cars be equipped with both audio and video recording equipment to document exactly what happened. I have seen the absolute value in these in both protecting the public against rogue cops and protecting police against false accusations of police brutality.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4100. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 23:46:58 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9v8q6p01lkf@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27099

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message news:3C17D1F6.40C2EB06@uci.edu...
>
>
> Richard McCollum wrote:
> > Unfortunately, Ally McBeal in general has slid off the scale into the > > toilet.
>
> Sounds like an unfortunate bathroom accident. :-)

Yeah! What was she doing with a scale on the toilet anyway?

4101. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 23:48:03 UTC
From: Twistedhed@webtv.net
Message-ID: <9v8qbj$9ed$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27098

PLEASE don't ignore this issue. Please HELP us.

"Unfortunately it will be ignored just as it has been ignored for years. Nothing will change as a result of your current campaign of muckraking. The government has much more important things to do than chase after violators of an offense comparable to jaywalking. I neglected to forsee that you would not have the intelligence to realize that no one cares about a few rogue operators on 10 meters save for the hysterical yapping mongrels such as AA and Nad. I am disappointed you have chosen to join their kennel, Jerry. Your fellow hammie operators don't give a hoot about what goes on in the CB band and never have. Plus you cannot show proof that these 10 meter incidents are more than just isolated exceptions.....and how do you know these incidents are not CBers but hams bootlegging? Because of such irrational thinking you are destined to join the kill files of Usenet users everywhere. The CB room does not want you anymore and neither do your ham bretheren"

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4102. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-12 23:48:33 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c17ec85.5422087@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27097
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Still no copy of the supposed new law posted or obtained by anyone. Apparanetly this "new law" may just be a false alarm.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4103. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 00:11:16 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <GmSR7.137144$S93.6529592@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27100
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

This is my final post on this subject. I will NOT smart off to the cops. I will attempt to show the LEO the documentation (licenses, copy of Form 37, copy of the Federal Law exempting hams, etc) most politely. If they do not accept that, then after I get clear of the cops, I will make the appropriate phone calls from my home away from the cops' earshot and explain what happened. I am NOT an AF hotshot. I am merely a civilian member of the USAF Auxiliary, also known as the Civil Air Patrol. Now, regardless of my attitude towards the cops, if you think that the auditors are just going to let the LEOs keep the equipment that was paid for with Federal money, you're just plain nuts. I may, or may not, be in uniform; either way I will keep my mouth shut and answer questions as they are asked. Remember the concept of prefessionalism? Having been in this organization and having qualified in, not only communications, but logistics, for 37 years, you honestly think I don't know the rules governing DOD property as well as the rules governing USAF/CAP Communications?

Now, such a situation IS unlikely--I said that before--but there ARE rogue cops out there that think their sh doesn't stink; give 'em a badge and a gun, they think they are God. They are the ones who have NO business being cops. I have never been arrested in my life--not even as a teen--it's been 21 years since I have even had a speeding ticket. The secret to that (DUH!) is to conduct yourself like a mature adult, don't hang around any one place too long, keep your nose clean, conduct your affairs legally, get to know the people that count in your town and mind your own business. Even people like that can get hassled by rogue cops and nothing the person did is at fault--it's just that the concrete-headed cop cannot see past the shadow cast by his swelled head. BTW, I saw last night on "DATELINE" where several black men served various sentences up to 8 years for crimes they didn't commit. Seems the police department (Chicago) put pressure on their lab technician to falsify the lab results on DNA, Blood, and Semen to get a conviction. The conviction was overturned, but not until the men had served up to 8 years of undeserved prison time. They are suing each and every one of the LEOS involved in this sham conviction, and I hope they BURN the cops.

Don't tell me the cops are so squeaky clean and are above the law. And if the cops wrongly seize radio equipment, they WILL face difficulty. The law is very clear; local LEOS are not authorized to "police" Amateur and other licensed services. Period. If they take/seize equipment other than CB, they will have to return or replace it.

73

Jerry

Bill Sohlbillsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message
news:3c17eb92.5178511@news.mindspring.com...
> On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 23:02:28 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
> >> You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do > >> it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell > >> the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO
like
> >> stink on sh.
> >
> >Think again. First the cops would just the > >car and the radios. Then when the CID
> >folks show up, they will explain how you
> >lipped off to the cops that you were some > >type of hot shot Air Force type. At that > >point, the investigation might be about your > >fitness to serve.
>
> Which is why I strongly endorse and support that > all police cars be equipped with both audio and video > recording equipment to document exactly what > happened. I have seen the absolute value in > these in both protecting the public against rogue > cops and protecting police against false accusations of > police brutality.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4104. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 01:04:27 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C17467C.567C65FC@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27101

Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> I re-read every word. There are no spelling errors. If you're referring to > the hyphens, it's because of the way my browser copies and pastes. I just > didn't want to go back and edit it > for here. The one that was sent is corect. Anymore questions?
>
>

Then you need to go back to school.
Second paragraph..."Fderal Communications Commission". Should be Federal.

Fourth paragraph..."an illegal station; i.e, the ham". Should be
i.e.,

Sixth paragarph..."keep each others' "cows" out of eath others'
cornfields". should be each not eath.

Same paragraph.., "using the popular jargon, could "disquise' his messages in amongst the illegal operators". Should be disguise, there is no q in disguise.

Seventh paragraph..."Some years ago, in the rush to downsize". It should be down-size or down size, it is not one word.

Item 2, spell out manufacturers, don't use abbreviations. mhz should be MHz.

Item 4, truck stop is two words.

Item 6, here you used MHZ, all caps, not consistent with item 2.

If you want Mrs. Myrick to take your letter seriously, you need to be a bit more neat with you writing. When her secretary sees your letter it will probably go to file 13 as he/she doesn't want to waste Mrs. Myricks time trying to read a letter full of mis-spellings and grammatical errors.

Any more questions?

4105. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 01:06:43 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.go93oz9.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27102
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Wed, 12 Dec 2001 20:20:01 GMT, middlefiger4@home.comss wrote:

>
>So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.

You did mean "can't", right ??

>Congress only gave local >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
>enforcing Laws.

This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.

This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does not appear in the FCC Rules.

>I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.

You are so right.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
ARRL Volunteer Counsel

4106. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 01:10:56 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C174802.E3091C30@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27103

Twistedhed@webtv.net wrote:
> Plus you cannot show proof that these 10 meter incidents are > more than just isolated exceptions.....

The regularity of illegal AM transmissions on certain 10 meter frequencies are plenty of proof that these are not just isolated exceptions.

>and how do you know these > incidents are not CBers but hams bootlegging? \

It should be obvious to the most casual observer that the constant AM transmissions on 28.085 and other frequencies in the 10 meter CW band are not hams bootlegging but truckers operating illegally. Why would a ham 'bootleg' on 10 meters? How can a licensed ham bootleg on the ham bands?

4107. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 02:07:49 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011212210749.10740.00001534@mb-fk.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27105

>He was
>
>> pleased as heck with the radio literature, and wanted to know if CW was >used
>> too, which I said yes
>
> Then you gave him a demonstration of a CW contact, right?????
>

Ouch!

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4108. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 02:08:07 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C180D7C.76757601@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27104

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Osama Bin Laden Apologist Dwight Stewart wrote:

Now, why would you write that, Jim? I said nothing to defend Bin Laden, or to justify his alleged actions. I simply promoted the Constitutional concept of innocent until proven guilty. Is this country so far gone, just mentioning innocent until proven guilty is enough to make a person the enemy? Are you that far gone, Jim?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4109. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 02:24:25 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C18114A.234E6098@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27106

CAM wrote:
>
> The smoking gun is supposed to be released to > the public tomorrow.

And I'm very much looking forward to it. What I've heard about the video so far from various news reports is hardly impressive. For example, one report said Bin Laden is heard talking about his surprise over how much damage was done. Well, a lot of people were surprised at how much damage was done.

On a side note, I'm surprised this, something news reports say was just discovered, is the first evidence of guilt we've been offered. Does that mean we've had no evidence up to this point?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4110. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue ?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 02:34:18 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <ePmAC63gBHA.1584@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 27107

Jerry Oxendine wrote to his congress-critter:

> 6) When purchasing radios from such outlets, (Radio Shack sells some) > capable of operation or modification to do so between 24 and 35 MHZ, a > license MUST be produced by the buyer. Fines to the seller that is > caught selling without doing so.

Every so often a guy like Jerry comes up with the mistaken idea of placing restrictions on the wide availability of amateur radio equipment and supplies. These are the folks who suggest it be a crime to own amateur equipment without a license, and who are not thrilled about the fact that Radio Shack sells a line of UHF/VHF amateur equipment right out under the nose of the impressionable public. I suspect they don't like the idea that soldering guns and schematics are openly sold to those without the proper credentials also.

. . .While it is easy, on the surface, to agree with their goal (keeping amateur equipment out of the hands of bootleggers), I feel the attitude that amateur equipment should be treated as some sort of controlled substance is short-sighted and in fact damaging to our service.

. . .I live in a large metropolitan area. We have one full line amateur store in town. There are no other similar stores in the whole state. In the four states which border us, there are 2 more amateur radio stores. THAT'S IT! In 5 states, there are only 3 stores! In the whole country, my guess is that there are less than four dozen stores selling amateur radio equipment, antennas, and supplies! It is as though we were some secret society, bent on concealing our presence from the world.

. . .Not all that many years ago, there were at least 6 electronic stores here in town which sold amateur equipment (not exclusively, but they all had a good selection). Add to that two Heathkit stores, and even the Sears stores sold amateur transceivers for awhile. (Yes, Virginia, right there along with the Craftsman sockets and Silvertone TV sets.) In the same era, Radio Row in NYC was blocks of wall-to-wall storefronts catering to electronics experimenters. Popular Science magazine had a regular column about amateur radio, and occasional construction articles. Every second little town had an amateur radio club. Amateur Radio was a populist, Joe SixPack kind of hobby.

. . .During those years it was easy for a person to get interested in being an amateur, to shop around for the best deal on equipment, and to meet an Elmer. We were visible to the public, and well regarded.

. . .Then somewhere along the line came the magic of 1-800 shopping, amateur radio marketing became streamlined, and radio stores disappeared from Hometown America. With the demise of the local radio store, all the Elmers disappeared into their shacks and newcomers flounder around in fancy four-color ads in back of CQ and QST magazine, trying to decide how to be a ham. Clubs floundered, in part due to the loss of hams around the coffee pot in the back of the local electronics part store.

. . .Rather than continuing to restrict the availability of amateur equipment, as though we were selling assault weapons or recreational pharmaceuticals, I vote for opening up the market. Let's have radios for sale in the strip malls alongside the video games, Lionel trains, and mountain bikes. And it won't hurt if a few of us put on our Elmer-suits and lurk around to spot the likely recruits.

When they outlaw ham gear, only outlaws will be hams.

73, de Hans, K0HB

--
> >Frisbeetarianism: The belief that when you die,
> >your soul goes up the on roof and gets stuck.

> What roof would this be?

The Roof of the Universe. And in the Last Days, when the Great Frisbee that shineth in the sky hath gone out, then shalt the Almighty Thrower ascend the Ladder of Life and collect the souls of those who have flown free, and take them The Eternal Park, where we shall sail upon the Spring Breezes for ever and ever, and be Fetched by the Holy Dog. Amen.

4111. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 02:52:38 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <uwyVSE4gBHA.1760@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 27108

Dwight said:

> I said nothing to defend Bin Laden, or to justify his > alleged actions. I simply promoted the Constitutional > concept of innocent until proven guilty.

You ACLU guys just don't get it, do you! A foreign terrorist, who openly has declared his intent to do whatever possible to destroy our homeland and our way of life, has no right to protection under our Constitution. None.

It is God's responsibility to judge Bin Laden. It is our responsibility to arrange the meeting.

73, de Hans, K0HB

4112. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 03:09:06 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011212220906.14755.00000680@mb-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 27109

In article <3C16C5D4.B146839A@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>> >Actually, the FCC has gone on record as seeing no correlation between >> >Morse code skill and self-sufficiency or any other positive attribute.
>> >Morse code skill stands alone and is uncorrelated to anything else.
>> >Virtually all of the troublemakers on HF are coded hams. The great >> >majority of NALs are given to coded hams.
>>
>> Hmmm. I see. Is there any correlation, then, between technical >> skill and having no Morse code skills whatsoever?
>
>Actually, the great majority of people with PhD degrees in >EE/Electronics don't know Morse code. Like the FCC said, Morse >code skill proves Morse code skill. It doesn't prove anything >else including technical skill. If Morse code skill were >correlated with technical skill, it would be a requirement
>in the technical curriculum of universities but you know >it is not required.

Cecil:

Invalid response. I said "among licensed radio amateurs" or words to that effect. I want to know if there is a correlation to a lack of Morse code skill and technical skill solely within the ARS, nowhere else.
Confine your answer to the topic we're talking about -- amateur radio.
I realize you don't need to be a licensed radio amateur to be a PhD in EE -- but all the PhD EE's I've known are also licensed Extra Class, code proficient, code using, code loving hams -- and most of the No-Code techs I know are trailer trash from the bottom half of their high school class, with no further education, no ambition to learn anything useful, but a universally buring desire to gain the individual power of a microphone in their hands...without being bothered to learn useful comm skills like Morse/CW.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4113. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 03:10:02 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <e_UR7.220531$3d2.10310511@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27110

Jerry, personally, I have tried to avoid causing hate and discontent in the rec.radio.cb newsgroup; however, your point is very well made. I am hoping that as we continue in the decline of the current sunspot cycle, a lot of the problem will go away. I assume (a most dangerous assumption, perhaps) that a lot of the DX chasers will die out for several years. Unfortunately, I do suspect that a lot of truckers will be using 10 (as did the taxicabs in NYC some years ago). What might be interesting besides trying to get assistance to the FCC to pick up enforcement (such as inspecting at truck stops as they inspected the NYC taxicabs), is to attempt to get the ARRL to start complaining to Radio Shack, Ranger (sorry, not sure of the full corporate name), and others which are manufacturing 10 and 10/12 meter radios which are easy to convert to 11. I don't know the status of the new Radio Shack 10 meter radio. Has it sucessfully been converted to 11 yet? I know there had been a problem with the FCC and Radio Shack over that with their earlier 10 meter radio. Frankly, I don't believe these radios are truely being aimed at the amateur market. I did see in a recent QST an ad for a 150 watt SSB/AM 10 meter only radio. I can't imagine buying a 10 meter only radio. For a few hundred more, one can get a reasonable lower end transceiver covering at LEAST 160 through 10 meters. What does the IC706MK2 cost? Ok, maybe 3 times what that 150 watt 10 meter only rig costs. However, you get coverage from 160 through 2 meters plus 440! I had almost considered a 10 or 10/12 meter rig as I want to get back on HF (besides 2 roofs, boiler, and several other things setting me back over 10 grand). If I spend a few hundred on something like that, I'll be unhappy - and now I've got to save a few hundred more to get something useful. What might work is to have various amateurs record a lot of the conversations, including frequency, time of day, etc. Send it to the ARRL. See what the FCC has confiscated in the few busts they have made. Copy adds from CB sites and newsgroups. Put the whole thing together and have the ARRL pull a multiBILLION dollar lawsuit against the manufacturers of those devices. Even assuming a large reduction in the amount, if Radio Shack had to ante up 50 million they might well rethink who they sell to. We might not need more legislation. Perhaps they might feel they want to see a valid license before selling the 10 meter only gear.

You are correct. Despite some folks feeling that regulations are 'big government', we need regulation. Who wants to turn on the Dallas Cowboys only to hear 'AUDIOOOOO' blaring from their speakers?

This isn't a hate directed at CBers. A lot of them are great folk. Unfortunately, a small but vocal minority seem to be giving the impression that if you don't hear anything on any particular frequency at a particular time, you can use it. Now, if I could just find one such individual and find out when his favorite TV station shuts off so I can set up my station and transmit 'AUDIOOOO' all day...

Sorry, this isn't meant as a rant, but there IS a problem.

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote in message news:_VPR7.160049$8n4.11746618@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com...
> Fellow Amateurs,
>
> Like many of you, I have steamed and thought over the problem of the illegal > intrusions onto our 10 and 12 meter bands.

<<remaining cut for brevity>>

4114. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 03:49:05 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C182512.F1AB4ACB@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27111

CAM wrote:
>
> They obviously trust some key employees more than > other non-key employees. You simply don't know > what you are talking about. At Intel, every day,
> there are thousands of one-on-ones (what Intel > calls them) behind closed doors. I worked in a > group unrelated to microprocessors and would have > been unable to obtain the specs for the Pentium4.
> You have no idea of the secrecy surrounding the > latest designs.

Well, I obviously don't know about Intel's security, Cecil, so lets discuss companies in general. That is, unless you want to tell us about Intel's security so we can discuss it.

Anyway, in general, companies like Intel tend to go for medium security - some variation of security guards as key entrances, employee ID badges, employee non-disclosure agreements, security cameras, a few badge swipe doors at key interior doors, and occasional bag checks as employees exit the building.

Companies obsessed with security take all this to the next level - far more security guards, employee ID badges remotely scanned as employees move through building, tightly monitored security cameras, finger print interior doors, x-ray machines for bags entering or exiting building, and so forth. And, of course, key military installations take this to an even higher level.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4115. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:02:18 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C182827.E7F7391D@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27112

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Maybe some of them are magicians?

Oh, never say that around wiccans, Jim. They hate any association with magicians. In fact, many even their spell magic differently ("magick") to set it apart from "entertainment" magic.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4116. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue ?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:04:53 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <FNVR7.220610$3d2.10316829@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27113

Hans, my concern (and I responded in another thread) is the 10 meter only and the 10 and 12 meter radios. I doubt more legislation will help. A lot of recording by hams with dates and times and perusing of FCC records as to what equipment was being used and I'd love to see a multibillion dollar lawsuit by the ARRL against the makers of said equipment. A lot of research first, then claims for loss of service, one ham was rammed I believe by one of the illegals. No, we don't need legislation. Let a major lawsuit let the manufacturers figure it out. No, you don't want to try and regulate everything. Someone studying for a ticket may want a transceiver (do they make seperate receivers and transmitters anymore?). The crux of the situation, in my opinion, is the 10 meter only and the 10 / 12 meter radios. Oh yes, and the 'export' radios. Anyone with half a brain knows what is going on. You want a 5 watt radio or a 25 watt radio (no mention of regulations or licensing, of course). Now, Ranger has a 150 watt SSB 10 meter rig. What is the ratio of CBers vs hams who are buying that radio? Nothing like the almighty dollar, right? Heck, it is a legal 10 meter radio. What percentage of amateurs might be interested in a 10 meter only radio? A few. A very few. How many CBers might be interested in it? I'm not saying sue for sure, just start collecting facts and put the problem where it belongs - with the manufacturers/distributors of the equipment causing the problem. This isn't quite the same as the gun question. The question, to me at least, is just WHAT market these devices are REALLY aimed at?

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim
"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
news:ePmAC63gBHA.1584@cpimsnntpa03...
> Jerry Oxendine wrote to his congress-critter:
>
> > 6) When purchasing radios from such outlets, (Radio Shack sells some) > > capable of operation or modification to do so between 24 and 35 MHZ, a > > license MUST be produced by the buyer. Fines to the seller that is > > caught selling without doing so.
>
> Every so often a guy like Jerry comes up with the mistaken > idea of placing restrictions on the wide availability of > amateur radio equipment and supplies. These are the folks who > suggest it be a crime to own amateur equipment without a > license, and who are not thrilled about the fact that > Radio Shack sells a line of UHF/VHF amateur equipment right out > under the nose of the impressionable public. I suspect they > don't like the idea that soldering guns and schematics are > openly sold to those without the proper credentials also.

>
> . . .While it is easy, on the surface, to agree with their > goal (keeping amateur equipment out of the hands of > bootleggers), I feel the attitude that amateur equipment > should be treated as some sort of controlled substance is > short-sighted and in fact damaging to our service.
>
> . . .I live in a large metropolitan area. We have one full > line amateur store in town. There are no other similar stores > in the whole state. In the four states which border us, there > are 2 more amateur radio stores. THAT'S IT! In 5 states, there > are only 3 stores! In the whole country, my guess is that there > are less than four dozen stores selling amateur radio equipment, > antennas, and supplies! It is as though we were some secret > society, bent on concealing our presence from the world.
>
> . . .Not all that many years ago, there were at least 6
> electronic stores here in town which sold amateur equipment > (not exclusively, but they all had a good selection). Add to > that two Heathkit stores, and even the Sears stores sold amateur > transceivers for awhile. (Yes, Virginia, right there along with > the Craftsman sockets and Silvertone TV sets.) In the same era, > Radio Row in NYC was blocks of wall-to-wall storefronts catering > to electronics experimenters. Popular Science magazine had a > regular column about amateur radio, and occasional construction > articles. Every second little town had an amateur radio club.
> Amateur Radio was a populist, Joe SixPack kind of hobby.
>
> . . .During those years it was easy for a person to get > interested in being an amateur, to shop around for the best > deal on equipment, and to meet an Elmer. We were visible to > the public, and well regarded.
>
> . . .Then somewhere along the line came the magic of 1-800
> shopping, amateur radio marketing became streamlined, and > radio stores disappeared from Hometown America. With the demise > of the local radio store, all the Elmers disappeared into their > shacks and newcomers flounder around in fancy four-color ads in > back of CQ and QST magazine, trying to decide how to be a ham.
> Clubs floundered, in part due to the loss of hams around the > coffee pot in the back of the local electronics part store.
>
> . . .Rather than continuing to restrict the availability of > amateur equipment, as though we were selling assault weapons > or recreational pharmaceuticals, I vote for opening up the market.
> Let's have radios for sale in the strip malls alongside the video > games, Lionel trains, and mountain bikes. And it won't hurt if a > few of us put on our Elmer-suits and lurk around to spot the > likely recruits.

>
> When they outlaw ham gear, only outlaws will be hams.
>
> 73, de Hans, K0HB
>
>
> --
> > >Frisbeetarianism: The belief that when you die,
> > >your soul goes up the on roof and gets stuck.
>
> > What roof would this be?
>
> The Roof of the Universe. And in the Last Days, > when the Great Frisbee that shineth in the sky > hath gone out, then shalt the Almighty Thrower > ascend the Ladder of Life and collect the souls > of those who have flown free, and take them The > Eternal Park, where we shall sail upon the Spring > Breezes for ever and ever, and be Fetched by the > Holy Dog. Amen.
>
>
>
>

4117. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:16:12 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C182B64.A0E32D94@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27114

Krell wrote:
>
> It's "magick." Not, "magic." Try posting "magic"
> in a pagan/Wiccan newsgroup and watch what happens.

Already said that days ago, Krell. In fact, I just pointed that out to Jim.

> Did you even LOOK at the link I posted? Obviously > not.

Yes, I did. And the questions still stand.

> Who are you to say which one is right or wrong?

And who are you to say any are right or wrong? It's called an opinion, Krell. You have one and I have one. You obviously have no hesitation expressing yours, so don't fuss about me expressing mine.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4118. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:20:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C182C7C.8927B257@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27115

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Well, I obviously don't know about Intel's security, Cecil, so lets > discuss companies in general. That is, unless you want to tell us > about Intel's security so we can discuss it.

The subject is one-on-one meetings behind closed doors, Dwight, not general security. Intel has thousands of one-on-one meetings behind closed doors every day.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4119. Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:28:31 UTC
From: hotlineamerica@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011212232831.22677.00003504@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27116

It's Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday. And let's not forget that this guy is endorsed by the behometh IARN, not to speak of the AARU. Impeccable credentials.

Naturally, his editorials defaming Riley Hollingsworth, the FCC and others are not necessarily the opinions of the IARN nor the AARU. Trouble is, Baxter, IARN & AARU are one in the same.

Bob Sherin, W4ASX
Miami, Florida

4120. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:31:43 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C182F2F.6E96890E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27117

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >Actually, the great majority of people with PhD degrees in > >EE/Electronics don't know Morse code. Like the FCC said, Morse > >code skill proves Morse code skill. It doesn't prove anything > >else including technical skill. If Morse code skill were > >correlated with technical skill, it would be a requirement
> >in the technical curriculum of universities but you know > >it is not required.
>
> Invalid response. I said "among licensed radio amateurs" or words to > that effect.

That's an invalid sample, Larry. If you want to know if there is any correlation between two things in the general population, you cannot chose a closed set and expect the sample to be valid. What you are attempting to do is like deciding how many black people go to church by sampling the attendees of white churches. But let's play your silly game with selected sets.

The average technical level of all members of the IEEE is higher than the average technical level of all members of the ARS.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4121. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:37:37 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C183064.FD671521@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27118

K0HB wrote:
>
> A foreign terrorist, who openly has > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> to destroy our homeland and our way of > life, has no right to protection under our > Constitution. None.

It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he actually does.

> It is God's responsibility to judge Bin > Laden. It is our responsibility to > arrange the meeting.

Spoken like a patriot, Hans. Our forefathers would be proud of such sentiments.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4122. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:52:32 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.go9dyub.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27119

On 13 Dec 2001 03:09:06 GMT, Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>... most of the No-
>Code techs I know are trailer trash from the bottom half of their >high school class, with no further education, no ambition to learn >anything useful, but a universally buring desire to gain the individual >power of a microphone in their hands...without being bothered to learn >useful comm skills like Morse/CW.

The vast majority of No-Code-Techs who are in my radio club - the largest one in the state - are good folks. Some of them are at a technical level far above average, but for personal reasons are content to keep their license level just about where it is. Some are using it as an entry-level license and are workijg on learning and using Morse.

You must be hanging around with the wrong crowd, Larry.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4123. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 04:58:13 UTC
From: stewartx@sccoast.net
Message-ID: <6be98d7d.0112122058.1554b871@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27120

n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote
>
> > > I dunno. How much land is there in the USA that > > > would be suitable for farming but is not used?
> >
> > That I don't know, and I don't think her report > > specifically addressed that (I don't remember > > seeing it). But I'll ask her about it in the morning.

No, it didn't cover that, Jim. Her report mainly centered on the extent of the problem.

> In addition, many of the crops grown today are used > to feed cattle. Many more people could be fed from > the same land if the crops were used to feed people.

Actually, to a great extent, we've already moved away from grain fed cattle. Most farmers today are relying on natural grass supplemented by hay. In the future, we'll probably see more use of genetically altered grass designed to grow faster, meaning even less use of hay.

> Has anybody trademarked the name "Soylent" yet?

Sounds just yummie.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4124. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:17:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d79_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27129

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:6be98d7d.0112092222.ac89878@posting.google.com...
> > Rick Adams wrote
> >
> > (snip) Provide the specific definition in > > its entirety and the source of the quote.
>
>
> I've already done so, Rick. The fact that you don't like the > definition is not my problem.
>
>
> > (snip) I'll accept that ludicrous statement
> > WHEN YOU PROVIDE PROOF, not simply because > > you state it--you are wrong FAR too often > > for that. (snip)
>
>
> Prove it for yourself, Rick. Like I said, walk down any street in > this country and ask people to identify the practices of satanism. I'm > certain 99 percent, both religious and non-religious, would list these > very things (witchcraft, occult, etc). Your choice to argue with me > rather than proving it for yourself strongly suggests you're afraid of > the results.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Dwight, I haven't been looking at any newsgroup postings for a few days now, so this may have already been mulled over.

For you to advocate a policy just because it is "what everyone else believes" is absolutely ludicrous. Each person that I have ever met who truly believes there is something satanic about paganism is a person I end up giving whatever little education I've gotten myself on the topic. And, each time, their mind is at least a little more enlightened as to what paganism and neo-religions are about.

Paganism is not about witchcraft (which is actually also a falsely "dreaded" concept, for witchcraft in its true form is the "craft of white magic"). For you or anyone else to support the ongoing misrepresentation about what paganism is really all about is akin to allowing others to believe whatever they will about race, color, etc.

Kim W5TIT

4125. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:18:56 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d7a_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27126

You have such a convenient way of backpedaling, Dwight. But, at least you do it with style.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C147844.D5C00D0A@sccoast.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > (snip) Let me get this straight. The sites I > > provided dealing with polyamory, swinging, and
> > the sociological research surrounding those > > issues are satanic?
>
>
> Sorry, I had just finished responding to six or seven messages from you about > satanism when I wrote that. Of course, it doesn't really make any difference > which topic is discussed when it comes to the core of Kim's comments - the > accuracy or reliability of information sources. In other words, I addressed her > core argument, not the peripherial context.
>
>
> > I didn't provide you ANY sites dealing with wicca
> > or paganism, you idiot--I provided (at your demand)
> > sites dealing with polyamory and swinging--as Kim > > CORRECTLY pointed out in her first paragraph.
>
>
> Idiot? Look, fool, are you going to sit there and claim that you've never > overlooked a minor point while addressing a core argument? It doesn't matter
> whether we're talking about satanisn or non-monogamous relationships when
it > comes to Kim's argument about the accuracy or reliability of information > sources. And, since you obviously knew exactly which sites I was referring
to,
> why would you make such a big issue out of a simple oversite other than to > continue your efforts to belittle?
>
>
> > (snip) Which subject, Dwight? Open marriage (snip) or

> > Wicca (snip)
>
>
> Either one, Rick. I know this is going to surprise you, but your ramblings are > not the first I've read on either of these topics. Indeed, most of your comments > are nothing more than the repetitive garbage I've read in these newsgroups at > least a dozen times before. And, since I've been around for a few years, these > newsgroups are not the first time I've seen either of these topic either.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4126. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:19:45 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d7b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27127

Dwight, it was funny. I laughed. So sue me.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C147A54.17ECF8D5@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > ROFLMAO...
>
>
> What are you laughing about, Kim? I've always been polite enough not to > belittle you when you've posted messages that were unrelated the topic being > discussed. Heck, at least my message addressed the core issue you raised
(the > accuracy or reliability of information sources), even if it didn't specifically > address the context. Can you honestly say all your messages have even done
that?
> Be careful with your answer, because you just posted a message out of a > discussion context last night (public transportation for the elderly).
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4127. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:20:41 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d7d$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27124

You're unrealistic, Dwight. Absolutely unrealistic.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C147C56.CFFF9F64@sccoast.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > > Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors > > > open. What is it you do in the workplace behind > > > closed doors that you cannot possibly do behind
> > > open doors?
> >
> > Discuss confidential business.
>
>
> Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed > highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide > behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot > possibly be discussed with the door open?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4128. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:21:31 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d7e$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27128

Uh huh. When Hell freezes over, Dwight.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C14810D.2AFA5CD7@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > I do what I'm told at work, Dwight. I've never > > experienced a male or female boss acting wrongly.
> > As I said, I suppose that the companies I've > > worked at have all employed some very adult > > people--because we all seem to be competent to > > have closed door meetings without any problems.
>
>
> Well, Kim, there is little reason to continue with this - those are your > experiences and these are mine (and both are equally legitimate). But I will end > with this simple observation - as soon as a complaint is made at your company, > or your company hears of something similar in your area, those doors at your > company will fly open and remain that way. As I said, it is happening all around > the country and your company is pressing it's luck by not paying attention to that.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4129. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:22:20 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d7f_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27123

Yes, he was. He was at that.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C148416.9DDE5F22@sccoast.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > Gee, that sounds like the argument many of us
> > have been making about her call sign.
>
>
> Does that "us" include me, or are you just lumping me in with everyone else > you dislike, Rick? I was defending Kim's choice of callsign long before I ever > saw your first message in this newsgroup.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4130. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:24:39 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d80_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27122

HEARING the word uttered, Dwight, as opposed to it being REALITY are two entirely different things! I HEAR many things every day. Does that mean I must believe every one of them and pass them on to others as truth?! Give me a fu*$#&@ break.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C148F8A.D11845BC@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > So, you see Krell, Dwight enjoys spreading rumors.
>
>
> What rumors, Kim? If you're going to accuse someone by name of something like > this, then at least have the integrity to explain your accusation. As I told > Krell, you can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day
> in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories, > conversations, and so on. So how am I spreading "rumors" by repeating the common > application of that word as it is used in this English language? Furthermore,
> Ms. Politically Correct (they not satanic - they're wiccans and pagans), what > gives you the thought that you have a right to dictate what words are used in > this language? Have you been taking double speak lessons from the book, "1984?"
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4131. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:28:44 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183d81_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27125

My kid used to believe he was big-time tough street dude. He'd claim all kinds of things to his pals. Until he met some big-time tough street dudes one day. People in my generation used to claim that they were "real" hippies. Then, they'd smack on McDonald's french fries while they talked about riding ski mobile all over the woods that night.

People who claim to be using magic in the same breath as they are saying they are Wiccan, Dwight, are nothing but dreamers and are as ignorant of the practice as you are. The closest Wiccan may get to using magic is in using the equivalent of "mantras" for prayer. You used a key word that you need focus on, Dwight, speaking of mantras. The word is "nonsense."

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C14922F.DBF2308E@sccoast.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > What they "claim" genius is that they worship a different set > > of gods than you do. Why CAN'T they do that?
>
>
> Of course, they "can" do that (that is not saying they ARE doing that, by the > way). But that is not all they "claim," is it, Rick? Most wiccans also claim > they can do magic (or "magick," as some of them like to use) and other such > nonsense? Do you really believe they can, Rick?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4132. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:28:48 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C182F3E.9A7866DD@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27121

Jim Kelley wrote:

> Rick Adams wrote:
> > Come to think of it, we didn't--he's President because > > of election fraud in the State where his brother is Governor, isn't
> > he?
>
> No. That's simply an underinformed misconception, regurgitated > perpetually by liberal malcontents, against mountainous evidence to the > contrary, in hopes that repetition will cause reality to invert itself.
> Shirley you knew that, Rick.

Nope. Rick's loaded up with underinformed misconceptions.

4133. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:30:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183dd8_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27130

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1496C3.2EE716AD@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Dwight, your hole of ignorance on this topic
> > is so large now, that you've fallen in and > > can't get out. You are so very ignorant of > > these topics it's really not even worth going > > any farther with you... (snip)
>
>
> Oh, don't leave now, Kim. We've just getting started? If you really believe > this wiccan nonsense (which you seem to based on the outrage you expressed > above), why don't you ask your wiccan friends if they can do "magick" like
so > many other wiccans claim? And if they say they can, why don't you ask them
to > cast a spell to reflect the ill feelings I'm expressing towards them back at me?
> Of course, if they claim wiccans can't cast spells or do magick, I'll gladly > provide you with a long list of books about wiccan "spells and magick."
Please, > girl, don't even call me ignorant if you're foolish enough to believe in this nonsense.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

For goodness sake, Dwight. Why don't you find some real Wiccan people to talk to instead of whatever idiots you've been talking to?

Kim W5TIT

4134. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:32:02 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183e41_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27131

Dwight's always loved labels. It must be that he just plain didn't like the labels that good 'ol Dick was using for his Islamic friends. I'd forgotten just how vastly knowledgeable Dwight is on nearly any topic.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1498D3.3E1D025C@sccoast.net...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> >
> > Not everyone, Dwight. Only the ignorant.
>
>
> Well, since that use is so common in this country, Rick, you just called about > 90 percent of the population "ignorant." Of course, that is pretty typical for a > liberal - liberals always believe they're right while everyone else is "wrong" > or "ignorant."
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4135. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:33:05 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183e7d$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27132

heh heh heh. Maybe those are the Pagans casting all the magic!

Kim W5TIT

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011210080318.02371.00000168@mb-cc.aol.com...
> In article <3C1447D6.907EB8AD@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
> <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:
>
> >> modern pagans are > >> not at all related to those early religions.
> > >
> > >Thought the pagans were a motorcycle club....
> > >
> > Yup - quite well known in these parts.
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>

4136. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:37:33 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c183f89_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27133

"Sean G Gilley" <uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org> wrote in message news:ff37aa44.0112100743.391a52c@posting.google.com...
> Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1283B9.C5D59A8B@sccoast.net>...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > Ah, the politically "correct" life. I don't subscribe > > > to it. If you guys do, that's up to you. I'll never > > > bend so far as to be ruled by the fearful.
> > >
> > >
> > Then in many parts of this country, you're simply not going to find > > work today (beyond the basic sales clerk or laborer level). A growing > > number of employers are now resorting to job contracts with a long > > list of rules added and a battery of psychological tests (written and > > verbal) before you're even considered for the job. In other words, you > > either fit the politically correct agenda of the company or you're out > > the door. It's not that bad in the south yet, but it's coming.
>
> I've worked in three very large companies and a couple smaller ones.
> While in some of those companies there was training on how to treat and > interact with others, I've never been subjected to any psychological > tests. Further, I don't know of anyone who rigorously avoided contact > in the way you talk about it. And I'm not at the sales clerk or > laborer level. And I'm not in the south, as well.
>
> I'm not saying it doesn't happen, but I think it's less common than you > seem to feel.
>
> Sean.

DITTO. My company sponsors and we all must participate in "Diversity Training" every year. We also, each year, must sign a Code of Conduct agreement. That's in addition to signing, every year, the statement that we know and understand the company policies. I don't where it is that the rest of these folks work, but where I work, we take all this very seriously.
Taken seriously, there is no room for the shenanigans of pussy footing around with closed door meetings, lunches and travel with opposite sex peers or subordinates.

Kim W5TIT

4137. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:42:55 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1840cc_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27134

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C1540E8.72D11E82@ix.netcom.com...
> >
> > Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed
> > highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide > > behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot > > possibly be discussed with the door open?
> >
>
> Salaries? Doing that out in the open really pisses off management.
> Once when I got downsized, I told everyone what salary I was > paid. A little payback.... ;-)
>

Hoo hoo hoo...I've done that...LOL

Kim W5TIT

4138. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:45:36 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c18416c$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27135

In every office situation I've been in, an open door means people can be interrupted and that there is nothing being discussed that is of a confidential nature. A closed door means exactly the opposite.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C154BEF.6CF6EC10@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > You have got to be kidding, Larry. Would you like > > the whole company to know how you did on your > > yearly review? Would you like the whole company to > > know about the latest technological secrets? A host > > of things need to be kept confidential. Leaving a > > door open during a confidential meeting at Intel > > was grounds for termination.
>
>
> First of all, you responded to me, not Larry, Cecil. Anyway, do you talk so > loudly when discussing a yearly review - so loudly the "whole company" would > know? And what "technological secrets" would you discuss that the employees just > outside your door, often your own staff working on that very technology, would > not be allowed to hear? And I seriously doubt your claim about Intel?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4139. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:47:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1841f7_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27136

"K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com> wrote in message
news:OU8W#CegBHA.1232@cpimsnntpa03...
> Bright Dwight said:
>
> > Yes, often executives will get together as a group to discuss > > company business behind closed doors, but rarely are two > > employees expected to meet behind closed doors to discuss > > such things. In fact, if we're talking about product development, > > private discussions about such information would be looked > > at with suspicion in most companies.
>
> "Most companies"?????? You're completely mis-informed.
>
> I manage a product development group consisting of more than 30
> engineers, 40 technicians, and several dozen support people.
> Persons of both genders populate all levels of this group. In their > day-to-day tasks there are occasions where small groups (often > as small as two) collaborate in relative secrecy on many development > projects. In a professional environment this is not "viewed with > suspicion" as you claim, and mixed-gender development teams are > not unusual nor are they subject to special scrutiny. Discrimination and > restrictive rules based on gender are a mark of a dark-ages company, > not a modern enterprise.
>
> (���) 73, de Hans, K0HB
>
>

Thank you, Hans. Exactly. (Man, was I ever wrong about you...I still apologize).

Kim W5TIT

4140. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:52:07 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1842f3$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27138

Wow, kewl site, Krell!

Kim W5TIT

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9v3r4g01ofc@enews2.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C154EBA.F07EA50E@sccoast.net...
> > Krell wrote:
> > >
> > > Again, name some specific examples. IOW, put up or shut up.
> >
> >
> > Do your own research, Krell. I have no time for someone who is too blind
> to > > see what is widely available right in front of their own face.
>
> OK. You asked for it. Here's a link I found...
>
> http://skepdic.com/wicca.html
>
>

4141. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:54:55 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C18355D.1A5DAFC8@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27137

Dwight Stewart wrote:

> K0HB wrote:
> >
> > A foreign terrorist, who openly has
> > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> > to destroy our homeland and our way of > > life, has no right to protection under our > > Constitution. None.
>
> It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also > international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most > countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he > actually does.
>
> > It is God's responsibility to judge Bin > > Laden. It is our responsibility to > > arrange the meeting.
>
> Spoken like a patriot, Hans. Our forefathers would be proud of such sentiments.
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Our forefathers would have pronounced you a nutcase long ago.

4142. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:54:55 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c18441a_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27139

I hear the sound of a ten-speed (going backwards).

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C15BFD1.D145FF3C@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > You simply don't know what you are talking about,
> > Dwight.
>
>
> I know exactly what I'm talking about, Cecil. You're the one who can't keep > the story straight (see below).
>
>
> > At Intel, a logic designer meets with a > > process designer quite often in a one-on-one > > meeting. Most companies trust their employees.
>
>
> If those companies trust those employees, why would they need to discuss > project only behind closed doors? You're trying to have it both ways, Cecil. One > moment, you say companies don't trust their employees enough to talk with
the > doors open. Now, the next moment, you say most companies trust their employees, > so closed door meetings are no problem. Look, I don't think we disagree as much > as it appears - we're just not being clear about what we're discussing.
So, lets > set the record straight.
>
> First of all, we have the companies where security is not a major issue -
> they're not working on anything where security, or sensitivity of product > development, is a strong consideration. Obviously, this category of companies > would include most in this country. And these were the companies I was talking > about when I asked Rick what he was "discussing that is so secret it cannot > possibly be discussed with the door open?" Obviously, for companies where > security is not a major issue, there is little "need" for meetings behind closed > doors - most business could be discussed with the doors open.

>
> At this point, you introduced a second category of companies into the > discussion - those with a concern about sensitive product development ("HP/Intel > shared computer architecture"). Actually, to be completely clear about
this > category of companies, we need to break it down further - those companies
with > just mild security considerations (consumer products, etc) and those truly > obsessed with security (military contractors, etc).
>
> Of the first of these companies (those with mild security considerations), > you're going to see a hybrid mix of security measures - open door meetings
in > some situations, closed door meetings in other situations, and both lax and firm > security when it comes to their employees. In other words, security is more of a > company desire in a given situation than a real requirement. This is most likely > the case with Intel. While Intel may desire to keep information about it's > shared computer architecture under wraps, it also fully realizes the information > is going to get out eventually. In other words, they may try to keep things
> under wraps, but they have not desire to go overboard with security.
>
> Finally, there is the second group of these companies (those truly obsessed > with security). These are the companies who would hire security personnel (not > security guards - security personnel to insure security of company information > and product information). And I was talking about these companies when I said
> "private discussions about such information would be looked at with suspicion in > most companies."
>
> Now that we have a better understanding of the groups of companies we're > talking about (those with little or no security considerations, those with mild > security considerations, and those obsessed with security), this conversation > might make a little more sense.
>

>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4143. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 05:59:18 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1844a3_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27140

```
Competitive Intelligence--the new emerging technology.

Kim W5TIT
```

"K0HB" <HHBrakob@email.msn.com> wrote in message
news:OVrDYRlgBHA.1992@cpimsnntpa04...
> Dwight says:
>
> > "Most companies" in the context of the discussion > > with Cecil, Hans. See my response to Cecil's message > > for clarification.
>
> I saw your "clarification" to Cecil. I laughed a LOT!
> It was a classic case of confusion and ignorance about > how the modern product development process works.
>
> Secrecy is paramount, or companies cease to exist,
> and that is ESPECIALLY true in enterprises which develop > consumer products.
>
> Kellogg's would _love_ to know what new cereal is being > formulated at General Mills, Avon would _love_ to know
> what the new perfume from Chanel will be this season,
> Ford desperately wants to know what the next model
> SUV from Dodge will look like, and nobody yet knows
> the Colonels Secret Recipe. The kind of secrecy and > security used by these companies makes Osama bin > Laden's itinerary look like a pubic bus companies route
> schedule.
>
> (���) 73, de Hans, K0HB
>
>
>
>
>

4144. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:01:33 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c18454b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27141

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C168D6B.9B914A1E@sccoast.net...
> Krell wrote:
> >
> > No, Dwight. You refused to post references to > > your stupid and erroneous claims. You then > > told me to do my own research. You asked for > > it whether you realize it or not. You probably > > never even looked at the link, which wouldn't > > be a surprise. You're content to believe > > lies the religious right has been spewing
> > for years.
>
>
> Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic.
Are you > saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot
do > magic when they claim they can proves that. I claimed modern day "pagans"
are > not descendants of those ancient pagan religions. Do you have some evidence to > dispute this? I claimed most people in this country would describe their beliefs
> and practices as "satanic." Do you have some evidence to dispute that? So far,
> I've seen a lot of talk about how my claims are wrong, but not a shred of > evidence to support that talk.
>
> If you really believe this wiccan nonsense, Krell, show me they can do
magic > and cast spells by having one do so to me. I've asked for such proof over
and > over, yet nothing has happened so far. In the end, this entire wiccan
nonsense
> is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Well, you're right about one thing--it would definitely be stupid to defend something that is not true. Just as stupid as it is to BELIEVE something that is not true.

Kim W5TIT

4145. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:03:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1845a8_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27142

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9v6arn02fvf@enews1.newsguy.com...
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C168D6B.9B914A1E@sccoast.net...
> > Krell wrote:
> > Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic.
> Are you > > saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot
> do
> > magic when they claim they can proves that. I claimed modern day "pagans"
> are
>
> It's "magick." Not, "magic." Try posting "magic" in a pagan/Wiccan newsgroup
> and watch what happens.
>
> > not descendants of those ancient pagan religions. Do you have some > evidence to > > dispute this? I claimed most people in this country would describe their > beliefs
> > and practices as "satanic." Do you have some evidence to dispute that?
So
> far,
> > I've seen a lot of talk about how my claims are wrong, but not a shred
of > > evidence to support that talk.
>
> Did you even LOOK at the link I posted? Obviously not.
>
> > If you really believe this wiccan nonsense, Krell, show me they can do
> magic > > and cast spells by having one do so to me. I've asked for such proof over
> and > > over, yet nothing has happened so far. In the end, this entire wiccan
> nonsense
> > is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it.
>
> Wiccan spell rituals are no different than a native American rain dance,
or > Christians praying for miracles. Who are you to say which one is right or > wrong?

>
>

Especially when they're all right! ;)

Kim W5TIT

4146. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:12:04 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1847b6_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27144

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C182512.F1AB4ACB@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > They obviously trust some key employees more than > > other non-key employees. You simply don't know > > what you are talking about. At Intel, every day,
> > there are thousands of one-on-ones (what Intel > > calls them) behind closed doors. I worked in a > > group unrelated to microprocessors and would have > > been unable to obtain the specs for the Pentium4.
> > You have no idea of the secrecy surrounding the > > latest designs.
>
>
> Well, I obviously don't know about Intel's security, Cecil, so lets > discuss companies in general. That is, unless you want to tell us > about Intel's security so we can discuss it.
>
> Anyway, in general, companies like Intel tend to go for medium > security - some variation of security guards as key entrances, > employee ID badges, employee non-disclosure agreements, security > cameras, a few badge swipe doors at key interior doors, and occasional > bag checks as employees exit the building.
>
> Companies obsessed with security take all this to the next level - > far more security guards, employee ID badges remotely scanned as > employees move through building, tightly monitored security cameras, > finger print interior doors, x-ray machines for bags entering or > exiting building, and so forth. And, of course, key military > installations take this to an even higher level.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

OK, Dwight. "Types" of companies I have worked for: factory where upholstered aircraft interiors is manufactured; engineering firm where water purification systems are designed; environmental consulting and construction materials testing firm; transportation company (moving company, where I was on the management team); another environmental company; and my current company--a utility. In each and every one I have not only been in one-on-one meetings with members of the opposite sex, it is commonplace for such meetings to occur. I have not ever had to travel, but many of my coworkers have--with members of the opposite sex. I have had to have meetings with subordinates who were members of the opposite sex, and held those meetings behind closed doors.

Most of the companies I mention above are those that I have worked for here in the South. I don't know where it is that you seem to have this experience where employees cannot be trusted to act as responsible adults, but remind me never to move there.

Kim W5TIT

4147. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:17:09 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C183A92.2DB9C5CE@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27143

CAM wrote:

> Dick Carroll wrote:
> >
> > One thing more - Just because one claims to be a scientist means just
> > that-that's their claim. History is loaded with phony scientists > > "proving" whatever they want proved.
>
> That's right, Dick, reject all science with which you don't agree.
> You are the reincarnation of one of the guys who put Galileo under > house arrest for asserting that the earth was not the center of > the universe.
> --

You're too much of an ignoramus to read what I wrote. If you believe what everone who claims to be a scientist delivers as research resulting in hard fact, that's your shortcoming, not mine. Of course science has never changed "its" mind about anything. Right. And no homosexual "scientist" ever set out to prove that homosexuality is normal. You idiot.

4148. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:18:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c184914_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27146

Didya read up on that, too, little Dicky?

Kim W5TIT

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:3C18355D.1A5DAFC8@townsqr.com...
>
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> > K0HB wrote:
> > >
> > > A foreign terrorist, who openly has
> > > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> > > to destroy our homeland and our way of > > > life, has no right to protection under our > > > Constitution. None.
> >
> > It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also > > international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most > > countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he > > actually does.
> >
> > > It is God's responsibility to judge Bin > > > Laden. It is our responsibility to > > > arrange the meeting.
> >
> > Spoken like a patriot, Hans. Our forefathers would be proud of such sentiments.
> >
> > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> Our forefathers would have pronounced you a nutcase long ago.
>

4149. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 06:22:23 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C183BCD.8F600EEA@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27145

K0HB wrote:

> Dick Carroll muttered
>
> > Hans where da hell ya been for the last 30 years??? All that was way > > back when there was not much other way to get a rig on the air. Today, > > it's flash the plastic and yak.
>
> I've been on the air. Where the hell have YOU been Richard (Cranium)??
>
> There is more homebrewing and kitbuilding going on in amateur radio
> today that there has been since the late 50's.

Well, Hansass'le, you really believe a few Elcrafts and Warblers constitute the equvalent of Heathkit, Eico and E.F. Johnson? (I assume you do know that John son rigs were sold as kits, and when one was ordered "factory wired" an employee took the kit home and wired it for extra pay on his own time). Ha! Dream on!

> But acknowledging that > fact would ruin your negative rant, wouldn't it?

If facts be negative, so be it.

4150. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:15:05 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112130015.511ae25b@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27147

Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:<3C16CFC7.2D3537AF@ix.netcom.com>...
>
>
>
> I imagine that back in the 50's, a novice would use a receiver that > was a modified 5 tube AM radio (aka AA5). Change the antenna > coil, local oscillator coil, and add some regeneration to the IF to > make a crude BFO, to make a CW receiver.
>
>
Long before I got my Novice ticket around '53 I got schmart and purloined a big AM and "shortwave" duoband console radio from an indulgent old-maid aunt, the thing tuned from above the BC band to around 8Mc. I forget exactly how I pulled it off but I boogered another BC radio to spit out enough 455Kc +/- energy so that when I positioned it next to the big console radio it gave me a half-assed BFO. Turning the BFO on/off was a matter of twisting the AC switch on the "BFO" radio. I think it wuz Mom's little wood-boxed Philco kitchen radio. Whatever it was she was really pissed when she couldn't listen to the Don McNeal (McNeil?)Breakfast Club with the thing so I had to fix it and just listen to the Tower of Babble on 75m AM with Auntie's beast box. If anybody out there in RadioLand thinks that anything has changed one bit on 75m in the last half century I got a CLUE for YOU!
>
>
Off topic comment. Having scratch-built a flock of rcvrs ranging from xtal sets to some decent small superhets before I got myself licensed (at 5wpm Gawd forbid) I decided that Hallicrappers, Hammarlund, Collins etc. were a much better idea on a bang-for-the-buck basis if the ham has half a capitalist-oriented brain and places any dollar value whatsoever on his labor time as it relates to the realties of homebrewing his stupid radios.
>
>
Thus it was that I decided that when I passed the Novice exam I had the usual six weeks between passing the test and having my license shoved thru the mail slot by Mr. Umberger to come up with enough coin to pop for a reasonably decent catalog manufactued radio. Which would get the job DONE without any more dorking around with soddering arns on my part.
>
>
So how to generate that coin? The usual marketing/priorities/tradeoffs study. I came up with a scam which worked tits. Some newly moneyed native ethnics were in the process of overwhelming a staid old neighborhood within walking (two miles) from my neighborhood. A big thing back then wuz having yer address boldly painted on yer curb, white background, black numbers and the ethnics were all over it. It was a "suburban" kinda traditional thing and they were hellbent to become "suburban".

>
>
I've always been kinda graphics artsy-fartsy, I could do rawther masterful quick brush-stroked nummers on curbs even at age 12 or so fer chrisake, pizza cake, so I jumped on their wallets. My trick was to do the first nummer on the block and post facto ring the bell and ask for a "donation". Which I always got since I was a groveling non-ethnic serving their pre-yuppy era hot buttons. Then I moved to the next house and told 'em the folks next door have their nummer on their curb and I can do your's too. "How much did they pay you?" "A quarter, Sir" "Humpf, OK, here's a two quarters, do mine too. Sez self to self, "yeah, I'm on the right track" . .
>
By the time I got outta jr. high school at 3pm, gathered up my paint and brushes and hoofed the two miles to my goldmine it wuz 4pm in some very cold month and I froze my damned fingers off painting house nummers on curbs until I simply ran outta light maybe 5:30pm or so. Took me something like three days to raise 135 bucks, 4.5 hours total plus the outbound "commute" time?? Something like that. Took some flack from Mom for being late for dinner. By the time I terminated the scam mostly by being worn out and frozen I wuz getting two bucks a pop. In 1953.
>
>
So anyway Aunt Kathleen, may she rest in peace begorra was a Sears & Roebuck operative in Chicago who got me ten bucks off on an S-40B, I shipped her the $109.95, Sears dropped it on the front porch a few days later and off I went. Forget what I did with the rest of the 135 bucks. Prolly pissed it away on milkshakes for some broad or another. Hormones are just a bitch when yer a radio kid, dx on one hand, broads on the other hand . . .
>
>
The S-40B was a seriously fer-crap radio but it greatly exceeded the performance of any radio I'd ever built myself and it got me an 80m Novice WAS for openers. And when Mr. Umberger slid my General thru the slot and I swished down to 3.505 and called CQ late that nite g5zk came right back at me and I HEARD him. I ain't built a rcvr since.
>
>
What I done was trade three days of freezing fingers to the bone in exchange for a radio which woulda taken me Lord only knows how many more hours for me to replicate with chassis punches and the soddering arn. Lotta bullshit, ya use yer talents to crank the coin at a decent hourly rate then convert that coin to radios and get on the air NOW. Has to to with understanding ROIs. Once again NOTHING basic has really changed in the past half century.

>
>
>And using parts
> scanvened from a dead TV set, build a transmitter. The horizontal > output tube would be the RF out tube. Use one of the signal
> triodes as a crystal controlled oscillator, and a signal pentode > as a keyed buffer/driver.
>
> Many starving high school and college students probably > had stations like this.
>
>
Transmitters were the easy part. I trashpicked an RCA model 625 TV rcvr on the way home from school one day, good stiff 450vdc @ 400 mils+, yahoo, just right for my $5 Radio Row 80m ARC-5 TX, plug 'n play radio.
>
>
w3rv

4151. AMP SALE

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:39:40 UTC
From: "Train cbmods"@optonline.net
Message-ID: <9v9pgc$o9g$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27149
Cross-posted to:
rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,alt.radio.pirate,rec.radio.swap

As a public service to the NG, I will be offering to sell mobil amps to those wishing to buy them. This is not done out of greed but out of necessity to thwart the losers in the NG who think they have taken over OUR nice little group and can use it to harass and belittle as they see fit. To offer sale of these items is just the thing needed in a public forum to mess with these nil-minded simpletons.

Amps such as Texas Star, Palomar, Cobra,Messenger, Gray, Galaxy, X-Force and so on. These will be sold for a limited time and at a VERY small profit IF ANY !

This is not a money thing so much as it is an access thing.

Since these self appointed radio/computer gods have declared knowledge an illegal thing also, I might just make the entire Secret CB book series available on CD along with a CD of amplifier schematics for base and mobil amps. Why is it that when these morons just think they are getting somewhere in their fight somebody like me comes along and pisses on their parade? BECAUSE THEY NEED IT AND DESERVE IT!!!!!!!!!

E-Mail me with your needs......
Train
tra1n@aol.com
train@cbmods.com
cbmods@optonline.net

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4152. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:42:28 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9v9pljodg10@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27148
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>> Yeah Ok just because you say it doesn't make it so. What do you know of >> normal police procedure? Sounds Like not much.

> I work for a governmental agency.
> Plus I have a number of friends who
> are LEOs who I serve with in the
> military reserves.

> I know procedure. And I know rookie
> cops. When in doubt, arrest.

Maybe in your neck of the woods. Here, if in doubt, "Call the Sergeant".
If the Sergeant doesn't know, he calls the Watch Captain. If he doesn't know, then it is time to call a DA.

It is far better to use up a bit of time than to arrest someone without cause. False arrest lawsuits can be costly, especially when it is over something as trivial as possession of a radio.

Your buddies are why some some cops have a bad reputation. Do you feel it is better to hang a few innocent people, just to make sure a murderer does not go free? After all, it is just a matter of degree before you say
"Oops - our mistake.".

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4153. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue ?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:51:05 UTC
From: "Train cbmods"@optonline.net
Message-ID: <9v9q5poih1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27152
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

In article <ePmAC63gBHA.1584@cpimsnntpa03>Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
>> 6) When purchasing radios from such outlets, (Radio Shack sells some) >> capable of operation or modification to do so between 24 and 35 MHZ, a >> license MUST be produced by the buyer. Fines to the seller that is >> caught selling without doing so.

I have no use for or reason to operate legally.

There are thousands of us who will continue to operate as we see fit without regard to whatever some schmuck like you or your little click of over-opinionated morons have to say about it. You can cry all you like but those of us who can, will and those of you who can't......Will continue to cry about it.

Train

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4154. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:53:22 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9v9qa0odg11@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27150
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>>
>> They also are under alot of scrutiny these days, in NJ the State Police are >> under a lot of scrutiny all motor vehicle stops are video recorded and the >> stops are reviewed by the federal Government. So "they" are not arresting >> people who complain about their rights. They are arresting people because >> they violated a Law. Most cops are well aware of what peoples rights are >> within the letter of the law. Do exceptions happen of course they do but the >> brush you are painting with is far to wide and just your opinion.
>>

> No, but they do not want to hear about > your fucking rights. They could care less.
> If they pull you over, they can take your > car if you do not have proof that you
> are federally licensed to operate a radio.

Sounds like you are a police officer - and one who does not have the bloodiest idea what was written in that law. The law does NOT allow confiscation of the vehicle - and probably not even searching the radio (vehicle) without a warrant.

If I have a CB radio, I am federally licensed to operate that radio.
Just because there is no physical license means nothing. Second, there is no federal law prohibiting owning Ham gear - even if you are not a Ham. Look it all up, if you don't believe me. The relevant sections of the FCC statutes are not that long or complex. If you cannot understand the legalese - ask one of the DA's.

> And your service to "king and country"?
> I do have 30 years of political service.
> I have put judges on the bench, congressmen
> in office, have worked on political campaigns
> from the local to federal level.

Meaningless. A lot of drug dealers have accomplished the same things.

> Plus 20 years of military service, to include > a year in the Gulf War and another year
> with the Bosnian mess.

Bah! The Gulf War was a playground. So was Bosnia. Ask any GI who served in Vietnam, Korea or on the front lines in WW II.

> What have you done with your miserable
> two bit life?

None if your business. I certainly did not waste it "kingmaking".
Politicians are one of the major problems we have in this country,
and many other countries as well.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4155. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 08:59:16 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9v9ql3odg12@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27151
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> The point is that if you off half cocked about your "rights"
> and how you are some big shot ham operator/CAP big > wig, you are in the wrong. That is not the way to deal > with cops. Your lack of respect towards them is shameful.

And you are an example of why people mouth off to cops. A police officer deserves no more respect than any other citizen. They also should treat others with respect until given sufficient reason to do otherwise. Mouthing off is NOT a sufficient reason.

> The police and military are your superiors.

No, they are our employees - although there are those (and you appear to be one of them) who are deluded into thinking otherwise.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4156. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 09:03:02 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9v9qs5odg13@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27153
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> The way you were going at it was that you
> were making it out that you were some big
> shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
> fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> that cop were to get off.

An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself into such a situation in the first place.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4157. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 09:47:27 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213044727.13406.00001903@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27154

>Subject: Re: some sobering numbers
>From: Dwight Stewart stewartx@sccoast.net
>Date: 12/12/2001 10:37 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C183064.FD671521@sccoast.net>

>It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also >international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most >countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he >actually does.

Sorry...that can get you in trouble too, Dwight.

Maybe OBL wasn't the one who did the deed, but he's threatened it so many times as to make him liable for it.

Where I live, if you are heard making a threat of bodily harm, that can get you arrested.

If you make a threat of bodily harm, and someone else does it, who do you think they are going to come looking for?

Military tribunals have the support of law...both American and International.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4158. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 11:28:04 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9va39101fs0@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27155

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C182B64.A0E32D94@sccoast.net...
> > Who are you to say which one is right or wrong?
>
>
> And who are you to say any are right or wrong? It's called an > opinion, Krell. You have one and I have one. You obviously have no > hesitation expressing yours, so don't fuss about me expressing mine.

I have no problem with opinions. This newsgroup has more than I care to count. But when someone posts an opinion that is based on flawed information, I will most certainly "fuss about it."

4159. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 13:02:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213080258.01493.00000206@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27166

In article <3C16BF4E.957575C7@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>> > At Intel, a logic designer meets with a >> > process designer quite often in a one-on-one >> > meeting. Most companies trust their employees.
>>
>> If those companies trust those employees, why would they need to discuss >> project only behind closed doors?
>
>They obviously trust some key employees more than other non-key employees.
>You simply don't know what you are talking about. At Intel, every day, >there are thousands of one-on-ones (what Intel calls them) behind closed >doors. I worked in a group unrelated to microprocessors and would have >been unable to obtain the specs for the Pentium4. You have no idea of >the secrecy surrounding the latest designs.

The civilian concept of "secrecy" and the govt./military concept of "secrecy" can be quite different.

But one basic concept is common to both of them: sensitive information is compartmentalized on a "need to know" basis. Cecil and his group could not get info about the P4 because they didn't need that info to do their jobs.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4160. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 13:02:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213080259.01493.00000207@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27165

In article <3C182827.E7F7391D@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>Jim Kelley wrote:
>>
>> Maybe some of them are magicians?
>
>
> Oh, never say that around wiccans, Jim. They hate any association >with magicians. In fact, many even their spell magic differently >("magick") to set it apart from "entertainment" magic.
>
Where's James Randi when ya need him?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4161. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 13:32:23 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9vaa3u$1sn$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27167

"Drpfrench" <drpfrench@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011212120254.04555.00001752@mb-mr.aol.com...
> >Actually, this is something more of us need to prompt our clubs and > >organizations that we pay dues to, to create or help supply the contents
of > >whatever packet you are referring to. Sounds like, overall, a positive-gain > >investment. I like the idea actually.
>
> The ARRL has a selection of hand outs listed on the ARRL web site. OUr club has > a good supply of these for Kids Day events, and Field Day Etc. THe Archie comix > are also a good hand out for kids.

I've copied the what is Ham Radio, and the getting started in Ham Radio etc. sections off the ARRL web site. That's what I'm going to use for the handout material the next time I'm asked. I keep the copies in the center console in my van so I don't forget them at home. I've been asked only a few times, but the last one was they only time I had anything to show people. I think I'm a little better prepared for the next time.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see
me running, try to keep up. "

4162. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 13:40:21 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9vaait$239$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27168

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:3C177FB0.A0AE55D5@townsqr.com...
>
>
> "Leland C. Scott" wrote:
>
>
> . He was
>
> > pleased as heck with the radio literature, and wanted to know if CW was used
> > too, which I said yes
>
> Then you gave him a demonstration of a CW contact, right?????

That would have been nice, however I didn't have the control head for my 706MKIIG clipped in to the van so I couldn't even show him the radio much less a QSO. The party store is only 5 minutes from apartment, and wasn't worth the effort to clip it in for a couple of minutes use. The main body is bolted to a 3/16" thick aluminum plate, which is itself screwed to the under side of the rear bench seat as an anti-theft measure. So there wasn't much in that department to show either.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see
me running, try to keep up. "

4163. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue ?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 13:45:15 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112130545.48e32a1e@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27156

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message news:<ePmAC63gBHA.1584@cpimsnntpa03>...

> Every so often a guy like Jerry comes up with the mistaken
> idea of placing restrictions on the wide availability of > amateur radio equipment and supplies. These are the folks who > suggest it be a crime to own amateur equipment without a > license, and who are not thrilled about the fact that > Radio Shack sells a line of UHF/VHF amateur equipment right out > under the nose of the impressionable public. I suspect they > don't like the idea that soldering guns and schematics are > openly sold to those without the proper credentials also.

Maybe. Or maybe they don't like the fact that outfits like

http://www.copper.com

sell stuff clearly intended for illegal use.
>
> . . .While it is easy, on the surface, to agree with their > goal (keeping amateur equipment out of the hands of > bootleggers), I feel the attitude that amateur equipment > should be treated as some sort of controlled substance is > short-sighted and in fact damaging to our service.

It hasn't worked for the past 23 years, either.
>
> . . .I live in a large metropolitan area. We have one full > line amateur store in town. There are no other similar stores > in the whole state. In the four states which border us, there > are 2 more amateur radio stores. THAT’S IT! In 5 states, there > are only 3 stores! In the whole country, my guess is that there > are less than four dozen stores selling amateur radio equipment, > antennas, and supplies! It is as though we were some secret > society, bent on concealing our presence from the world.

Times have changed, Hans. You wanna go against "progress"?
>
> . . .Not all that many years ago, there were at least 6
> electronic stores here in town which sold amateur equipment > (not exclusively, but they all had a good selection). Add to > that two Heathkit stores, and even the Sears stores sold amateur > transceivers for awhile. (Yes, Virginia, right there along with > the Craftsman sockets and Silvertone TV sets.)

Exactly when was this, Hans? I bought my HW-2036 at a Heathkit store way back in 1977 - almost a quarter century ago. I can't remember exactly when those stores disappeared, but it was long ago.

In fact the whole concept of "radio store" has disappeared. When I was starting out in the mid-1960s in Upper Darby, PA (once home of B&W), there was a Lafayette store, a Resco store, and Kass Electronics within a three mile radius. None were primarily ham radio but all had ham stuff available, and through them you could order almost anything you needed. All are long gone, victims of the electronics revolution of the 1970s. All we have now are Radio Shack stores. None of them has a back room or a coffee pot.

> In the same era,
> Radio Row in NYC was blocks of wall-to-wall storefronts catering > to electronics experimenters.

They tore down Radio Row in NYC to build the World Trade Center. That was in the '60s.

Most US hams today were first licensed long after that era.

> Popular Science magazine had a > regular column about amateur radio, and occasional construction > articles. Every second little town had an amateur radio club.
> Amateur Radio was a populist, Joe SixPack kind of hobby.

Yup - even though there were far fewer hams per-capita back then than today. (~250,000 back in the 1960s, two-and-a-half times that today)
>
> . . .During those years it was easy for a person to get > interested in being an amateur, to shop around for the best > deal on equipment, and to meet an Elmer. We were visible to > the public, and well regarded.

We also had little or no competition in the electronic communication hobby universe. And life was very different than today. I know, I was there.

> . . .Then somewhere along the line came the magic of 1-800
> shopping, amateur radio marketing became streamlined, and > radio stores disappeared from Hometown America. With the demise > of the local radio store, all the Elmers disappeared into their > shacks and newcomers flounder around in fancy four-color ads in > back of CQ and QST magazine, trying to decide how to be a ham.
> Clubs floundered, in part due to the loss of hams around the > coffee pot in the back of the local electronics part store.

Yup. Think about WHY that change happened. It wasn't the 1-800 numbers, but other forces, much more sweeping. The whole society has gradually changed. You want details, I got 'em.

> . . .Rather than continuing to restrict the availability of > amateur equipment, as though we were selling assault weapons
> or recreational pharmaceuticals, I vote for opening up the market.

It's wide open now, Hans.

> Let’s have radios for sale in the strip malls alongside the video > games, Lionel trains, and mountain bikes. And it won’t hurt if a > few of us put on our Elmer-suits and lurk around to spot the > likely recruits.

Works for me.
>
> When they outlaw ham gear, only outlaws will be hams.

Being an outlaw is the problem. And it's not a new problem.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4164. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:20:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C18B911.80B02656@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27170

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> Paganism is not about witchcraft (which is actually also a falsely > "dreaded" concept, for witchcraft in its true form is the "craft of white > magic").

My dictionary defines a "pagan" as someone who is not a Christian, Jew, or Muslim and/or anyone who believes in polytheism. Worshiping the Sun God would be a pagan act. Worshiping the Earth Mother would be a pagan act.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4165. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:24:36 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9vad5q$34a$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27171

"Bert Craig" <kc2hmn@cs.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011212210749.10740.00001534@mb-fk.news.cs.com...
> >He was
> >
> >> pleased as heck with the radio literature, and wanted to know if CW was > >used
> >> too, which I said yes
> >
> > Then you gave him a demonstration of a CW contact, right?????
> >
>
> Ouch!

The "ouch" part was last night when I was driving around to get some fast food about 10 PM. I was monitoring 3 Hams on 2m sideband. During the 5 minutes I was monitoring I must have heard the "F---" word used once, and the "S---" word several times. I broke in to their QSO and commented about the "language" I was hearing, and "suggested" maybe they could watch it a bit since many people monitor the band, but may not actively TX. I made my point, ID'ed, and cleared. You can likely guess what their comments where to me. After I cleared one Ham used the "A--" word several times while one of the other two jokingly made a comment about watching out for the "repeater cops". I didn't write down the callsigns, but I do remember one was a 2x2 call, and the other two I don't think I heard them even ID.

That QSO was one I would NOT have wanted somebody to hear as an example of Ham Radio in action, nor would some of the crap I hear on 75m either. Fortunately that was the only really bad QSO, on 2m SSB or FM, I've heard in my 2 years in Ham Radio. Just about everything else is something I wouldn't mind having somebody's kids hear. I do remember RH's talk at the Fort Wayne Hamfest, where he played a tape of that group on 75m, 3940 to 3950 KHz, and said that is the sort of thing that will ruin Ham Radio. He also said it was also something the FCC can't do much about, and highly suggested that we Amateurs apply a bit of peer pressure to those operators to clean up their act as a part of the self policing function of the service.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see
me running, try to keep up. "

4166. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:29:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C18BB30.E672965D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27173

"Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> Saw this on a Tee-shirt:
>
> "I am a bomb technician. If you see
> me running, try to keep up. "

Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
"If only these were brains".
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4167. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:31:09 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9vadi2$35g$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27172

"Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net> wrote in message news:2087B91633643430.86FAEDD81389CBFE.C44F70E8E2C7512C@lp.airnews.net...
> On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 16:51:33 -0500, "Leland C. Scott"
> <no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote:
>
> >Here's something to think about. The other night I had a guy honestly ask > >me, out side of a 7-eleven store, if I was some kind of secret agent or > >something while pointing to the antenna farm on top of my van.
>
> Amazing how people seem to think a secret agent would have glaringly > obvious equipment stuck to the top of his vehicle.

Who cares? It was his way of breaking the ice to talk with a total stranger.
The worst thing I could have done would have been to make him feel stupid. I didn't want to do that. After all who hasn't asked a dumb question at one time or another?

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

--
"1500Kbs cable modem MediaOne Roadrunner."

4168. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:34:08 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18BC7F.16A2A77E@gte.net>
Source record: 27178
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>
> >> You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do > >> it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell > >> the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO like > >> stink on sh.
> >
> >Think again. First the cops would just the > >car and the radios. Then when the CID
> >folks show up, they will explain how you
> >lipped off to the cops that you were some > >type of hot shot Air Force type. At that > >point, the investigation might be about your > >fitness to serve.
>
> Which is why I strongly endorse and support that > all police cars be equipped with both audio and video > recording equipment to document exactly what > happened. I have seen the absolute value in > these in both protecting the public against rogue > cops and protecting police against false accusations of > police brutality.

Bill, I am not talking about rogue cops or even police brutality. Rather it is the cop
who is a professional, who keeps his cool, but is not going to let some ham tell him that the cop has no right to inspect his radios and plays the hot shot. No cop will put up with that.

The average cop is trained to suspect everyone.
Even other cops. They are trained that they are superior, the "force" of government, the thin blue line that keeps us a civilized society.
And it is almost universal that the biggest goal that a cop will have is to make it home alive
every night.

If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the courts settle. I have said this over and over. This includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the chief's problem, and not theirs.

This does not mean that they will keep the radios forever,
as the AF CAP chap suggested. When the AF types come, it will go in front of a judge. And remember, this is only if there is question that the street officer can not settle quickly.

Too many Americans are jerks, assholes. They believe that they have a right to do anything, and everything. That they have NO responsibility to society or their fellow man. And the cops want that attitude to end.

4169. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:35:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C18BCA6.5C784CE9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27174

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On 13 Dec 2001 03:09:06 GMT, Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> >... most of the No-
> >Code techs I know are trailer trash from the bottom half of their > >high school class, with no further education, no ambition to learn > >anything useful, but a universally buring desire to gain the individual > >power of a microphone in their hands...without being bothered to learn > >useful comm skills like Morse/CW.
>
> The vast majority of No-Code-Techs who are in my radio club - the > largest one in the state - are good folks. Some of them are at a > technical level far above average, but for personal reasons are > content to keep their license level just about where it is.

Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson on a technical basis.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4170. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:41:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C18BDFC.29BF2F15@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27175

Dick Carroll wrote:
> You're too much of an ignoramus to read what I wrote. If you believe what > everone who claims to be a scientist delivers as research resulting in hard > fact, that's your shortcoming, not mine. Of course science has never > changed "its" mind about anything. Right. And no homosexual "scientist" > ever set out to prove that homosexuality is normal. You idiot.

The observation that Orangutans are homosexual was an accidental sighting, Dick. You really think someone would spend months in the Borneo jungle studying Orangutans for the sole purpose of observing homosexual behavior? You are so far removed from reality that I don't see how you manage to post here.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4171. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:45:11 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18BF1A.F0AEA9F5@gte.net>
Source record: 27176
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they > >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.
>
> You did mean "can't", right ??
>
> >Congress only gave local > >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of > >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for > >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty > >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
> >enforcing Laws.
>
> This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The > Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
> just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.
>
> This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a > court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the > monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule > violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does > not appear in the FCC Rules.
>
> >I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as > >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.
>
> You are so right.

What you have to understand is that many hams feel that the cops have NO right to inspect them, to ask questions. I am not talking about rogue cops but rather the officer who is professional and whose biggest goal
every day is to make it home alive.

These officers want video of every traffic stop. Too many Americans are jerks, assholes. They have "rights" and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the right to tell them how to live. And too many hams are big jerks.

This AF CAP chap just does not get it. Let the AF CID come, as far as they are concerned that is a matter for the courts. Once the cop does his job, the investigation, he is more than happy to let the courts deal with it. And that includes lawsuits. That is the chief's worry, not his. As it is, too many file false lawsuits every day against cops. It has become a cost of doing business.

Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional thing to do. And if some ham becomes an asshole and argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.

4172. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:47:10 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18BF96.D1C76341@gte.net>
Source record: 27177
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>
> > And are you a police officer? Are you
> > an attorney? NO. You are a Private > > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact > > with the current system.
>
> Don't believe everything your small mind thinks up. You don't know who or > what I am and what systems I have contact with. Again all I see from you is > opinions Just like a true politician full of shit as usual.
>
> > Understand this. The police and the > > military are your superiors.
>
> Says who You?
>
> >Their lives are far more valuable than yours.
>
> Again says who some 2 bit local politican from bumfuct indiana?
>
> > And no cop is going to take your lip,
> > that you are some big bad ass ham
> > operator. In his mind, he does not > > care about your rights. He cares > > about making home every night.
>
> He had better care about my rights they are just as important as his. So all > cops walk around with attitudes is what you are saying. Is it screw Joe > Public? Does he think he is "Above The Law" Does every cop feel this way ?
> Perhaps Daniel Marvin can answer a few questions.

We give cops guns because their lives are more valuable. Mayors and governors have bodyguards
for the same reasons.

4173. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:52:02 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18C0AE.C64042F@gte.net>
Source record: 27182
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> They also are under alot of scrutiny these days, in NJ the State Police are > >> under a lot of scrutiny all motor vehicle stops are video recorded and the > >> stops are reviewed by the federal Government. So "they" are not arresting > >> people who complain about their rights. They are arresting people because > >> they violated a Law. Most cops are well aware of what peoples rights are > >> within the letter of the law. Do exceptions happen of course they do but the > >> brush you are painting with is far to wide and just your opinion.
> >>
>
> > No, but they do not want to hear about > > your fucking rights. They could care less.
> > If they pull you over, they can take your > > car if you do not have proof that you
> > are federally licensed to operate a radio.
>
> Sounds like you are a police officer - and one who does not have the > bloodiest idea what was written in that law. The law does NOT allow > confiscation of the vehicle - and probably not even searching the > radio (vehicle) without a warrant.
>
> If I have a CB radio, I am federally licensed to operate that radio.
> Just because there is no physical license means nothing. Second, there > is no federal law prohibiting owning Ham gear - even if you are not a > Ham. Look it all up, if you don't believe me. The relevant sections of > the FCC statutes are not that long or complex. If you cannot understand > the legalese - ask one of the DA's.
>

And if you argue with a cop then you are just another asshole. All he wants is to make it home alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered your wife or have been fired and is heading back to the office to shoot everyone.

>
> > And your service to "king and country"?
> > I do have 30 years of political service.
> > I have put judges on the bench, congressmen
> > in office, have worked on political campaigns
> > from the local to federal level.
>
> Meaningless. A lot of drug dealers have accomplished the same > things.
>

> > Plus 20 years of military service, to include > > a year in the Gulf War and another year
> > with the Bosnian mess.
>
> Bah! The Gulf War was a playground. So was Bosnia. Ask any GI
> who served in Vietnam, Korea or on the front lines in WW II.
>

Vietnam was joke. We did it right in the Gulf War. And we are doing in Afghanistan what we should have done in Vietnam.

Even Korea was a cluster fuck. As far as WWII, yes they were great, not the bunch of wimps that the average Baby Boomer has become.

>
> > What have you done with your miserable
> > two bit life?
>
> None if your business. I certainly did not waste it "kingmaking".
> Politicians are one of the major problems we have in this country,
> and many other countries as well.

You are nothing more than a taxpayer, with no choice in the matter. All a politician is a voter who is more involved in the system.

4174. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:54:06 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18C138.A3619486@gte.net>
Source record: 27179
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> Yeah Ok just because you say it doesn't make it so. What do you know of > >> normal police procedure? Sounds Like not much.
>
> > I work for a governmental agency.
> > Plus I have a number of friends who > > are LEOs who I serve with in the > > military reserves.
>
> > I know procedure. And I know rookie > > cops. When in doubt, arrest.
>
> Maybe in your neck of the woods. Here, if in doubt, "Call the Sergeant".
> If the Sergeant doesn't know, he calls the Watch Captain. If he doesn't > know, then it is time to call a DA.
>
> It is far better to use up a bit of time than to arrest someone without > cause. False arrest lawsuits can be costly, especially when it is over > something as trivial as possession of a radio.
>
> Your buddies are why some some cops have a bad reputation. Do you feel > it is better to hang a few innocent people, just to make sure a murderer > does not go free? After all, it is just a matter of degree before you say
> "Oops - our mistake.".
>

Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business. People file false charges against the police everyday. As I said, the average cop looks to the courts to settle questions. If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue with the cops then he had better expect to stand in front of the judge.

4175. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:55:22 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <evVLGY#gBHA.1688@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27180

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote

> Well, Hansass'le, you really believe a few Elcrafts and Warblers constitute > the equvalent of Heathkit, Eico and E.F. Johnson? (I assume you do know that > John son rigs were sold as kits, and when one was ordered "factory wired"
an > employee took the kit home and wired it for extra pay on his own time).

Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really need to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad idea.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4176. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:56:05 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18C1AE.717EAF19@gte.net>
Source record: 27181
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

```
>
> > The point is that if you off half cocked about your "rights"
> > and how you are some big shot ham operator/CAP big > > wig, you are in the wrong. That is not the way to deal > > with cops. Your lack of respect towards them is shameful.
>
> And you are an example of why people mouth off to cops. A police > officer deserves no more respect than any other citizen. They also > should treat others with respect until given sufficient reason to > do otherwise. Mouthing off is NOT a sufficient reason.
>
> > The police and military are your superiors.
>
> No, they are our employees - although there are those (and you > appear to be one of them) who are deluded into thinking otherwise.

Not your employees. The mayor hired them, not you.
You are but a taxpayer and you have no choice in paying taxes. Unless you have the money and position to get mayors elected then you will have a hard time influencing the average big city mayor.
```

4177. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 14:58:00 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C18C221.646DAB4@gte.net>
Source record: 27183
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>
> > The way you were going at it was that you
> > were making it out that you were some big > > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of > > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> > that cop were to get off.
>
> An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself > into such a situation in the first place.

The average cop tries to be professional, to keep cool. All he wants is to make it home alive each night. If you become a jerk, shouting about your fucking rights, then that cop wants a video tape so he can show the courts what a big jerk you are.

4178. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:14:00 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112130714.4fe153f8@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27157

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1544BB.296B7FD4@sccoast.net>...
> When you applied for the job, you were not asked about your opinions about > working with others, your experiences working in certain situations, how you > would handle certain situations, and so forth? These are all psychological test > questions designed to reveal your physical (nervous, etc) and verbal (confident, > evasive, etc) reactions.

Like, "Can I work independantly?", or "Can you work in a team?" I was almost certainly asked both of those questions. However, the majority of the questions had to do with my experience. I honestly don't remember exactly what was asked for any but my current position, and it was even barely an interview.

> And I would find it very hard to believe an employer > would hire you for anything more than a laborer position without knowing exactly > how you would deal with his customers and employees.

I'm in a technical field, with a proven record in solving technical problems in a timely and correct manner. It probably also helps that I run a non-competing technical business on the side -- something that has impressed every manager I've interviewed with since I started.
It may be that someone with a proven record of close to twenty years of success in thier field doesn't get asked the sort of questions you're talking about.

> Likewise, since it is now > federal law, I would be equally surprised if your company had no specific sexual > harassment guidelines as a condition of employment.
>
> You said some companies had training on "how to treat and interact with > others." None of that training addressed workplace dating and sexual harassment?

One company I've worked for in the past fifteen years had such training, and it was mandatory. And yes, it did address those things. In that company, it was frowned upon -- but not prohibited -- for a person to date anyone for whom they did professional reviews or for whom they made career affecting choices. (Peer review excepted.) I believe I mentioned that earlier.

No other company for whom I've worked has stated such a policy to me.

> If you were hired in a management position, you were not expected to be aware of > the laws and issues concerning sexual harassment in the workplace? This > (workplace law, including sexual harassment) is basic training in most college > business courses today.

Technical, not management. Don't want to be management.

Sean.

4179. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:24:44 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112130724.25377b97@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27158

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1291F1.911C56FC@sccoast.net>...
> In fact, it is now a federal requirement for companies to > have their policies about sexual harassment clearly posted for all to > read. Where travel is likely, most companies had specific policies > about socializing, accommodations, and so forth. And most companies > gave their employees, especially the management staff, printed > guidelines or classroom instruction about dealing with the opposite > sex in the workplace - and all these she has read or seen warned > against private meetings behind closed doors and socializing (lunches, > etc) in or outside the workplace. In other words, her experiences in > this regard have been exactly the same as mine.

I just pulled out my company's policy book. The entire section on Harassment is less than a page long. It explains what harassment is, and it explains what steps you can take if you feel you are being harassed.

It does not warn against private meetings, socializing, or anything else.

Sean.

4180. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:28:43 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112130728.b4100ea@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27159

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C13CDCE.8517C9FE@sccoast.net>...
> Well, Kim, it's very simple - we leave the doors open. What is it
> you do in the workplace behind closed doors that you cannot possibly
> do behind open doors?

There are many reasons why a meeting might need to be conducted behind closed doors. The most common reason I've seen is that the meeting has a rather loud, uh, discussion, and keeping the doors closed means that the people in the cubes outside the doors are less disturbed.

Another reason might be the people outside are loud.

A more important reason is that the discussion is about matters having to do with something proprietary, and the discussion needs to be private.

We hold meetings behind closed doors all the time. It's a normal thing to do around here.

Sean.

4181. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:43:36 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011213104336.18921.00000171@mb-mv.aol.com>
Source record: 27186

In article <3C182F2F.6E96890E@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>The average technical level of all members of the IEEE is higher >than the average technical level of all members of the ARS.

Cecil:

Well, Harumph...I would damn well hope so!

Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"

73 de Larry, K3LT

4182. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:43:36 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011213104336.18921.00000172@mb-mv.aol.com>
Source record: 27189

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.go9dyub.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>
>>... most of the No-
>>Code techs I know are trailer trash from the bottom half of their >>high school class, with no further education, no ambition to learn >>anything useful, but a universally buring desire to gain the individual >>power of a microphone in their hands...without being bothered to learn >>useful comm skills like Morse/CW.
>
> The vast majority of No-Code-Techs who are in my radio club - the > largest one in the state - are good folks. Some of them are at a > technical level far above average, but for personal reasons are > content to keep their license level just about where it is. Some > are using it as an entry-level license and are workijg on learning > and using Morse.
>
> You must be hanging around with the wrong crowd, Larry.

Phil:

I wouldn't say I'm necessarily hanging with the wrong crowd, because I generally don't "hang" with but a selected few of the local hams in my area. And I used two limiters in my statement above -- "most" and "I know." I did not state or imply that all No-Code Techs everywhere are technically inept, unmotivated, lazy people. Just the majority of the ones I met personally. They're essentially people seeking an alternative to CB radio, and were attracted to ham radio mainly by the reduction in the difficulty of the licensing requirements. These are not people who are going to invent the next version of PSK-31. They're going to buy an HT, get on the repeaters and complain about the 5 WPM code test, then when that's gone, buy an HF-to-Microwave-all-in-one-box rig, an antenna, and then ask me to hook it all up for them!
I'm going to tell them to RTFB, and they'll get discouraged and give up on ham radio entirely. Nothing new here.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4183. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:43:37 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011213104337.18921.00000173@mb-mv.aol.com>
Source record: 27187

In article <3c1840cc_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>> Salaries? Doing that out in the open really pisses off management.
>> Once when I got downsized, I told everyone what salary I was >> paid. A little payback.... ;-)
>>
>
>Hoo hoo hoo...I've done that...LOL
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

Nobody expects you to do anything that demonstrates any personal integrity; therefore you don't need to make any such public confessions!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4184. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:43:37 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011213104337.18921.00000174@mb-mv.aol.com>
Source record: 27188

In article <3c18416c$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>In every office situation I've been in, an open door means people can be >interrupted and that there is nothing being discussed that is of a >confidential nature. A closed door means exactly the opposite.
>
>Kim W5TIT

I've said it before, and I'll say it again -- any manager who has a private, "confidential" conversation in his private office, behind closed doors, with a female subordinate, is a damn fool. There is nothing in the world like a company secret so sensitive in nature that it cannot be shared between at least three people; and in very small companies, there would not be any secrets of such a sensitive nature in any case. A closed door, with a male superior and a female subordinate behind it, is nothing more or less than an opportunity for that female to make any kind of accusation about that male -- and whether it is true or not, it will be believed by law enforcement, the press, the superiors of the male manager involved, the company's customers and stockholders, and the criminal justice establishment.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4185. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 15:54:56 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112130754.274a9af4@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27161

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C148B64.EDA602A1@sccoast.net>...
> You three, on the other hand, seem to be > rolling in political correctness- they're not satanic, they're wiccans and > pagans. What utter nonsense.

Do you also use the term "satanic" to refer to Buddists and Taoists? If so, then I agree that you are using the term, for you, correctly.

If, on the other hand, if you do not use that term to refer to those religions, then I tend to believe that you are either misinformed or choosing to misuse the term. There is a religion whose followers call themselves "satanists". The Wiccan religion, however, does not believe themselves to be satanists, nor do they actually believe in satan, so it would be very hard for them to be satanists. What the general public means when they say "satanists" is about ritual sacrifice, devil worship, etc -- all things that Wiccans do not believe.

The only real reason that Wicca is associated with satan, that I can tell, is that they call themselves witches. It's probably a bad thing to call themselves, because of one mistranslated verse in the bible, but they don't associate themselves with the devil or satan, they don't worship evil.

If all followers of non-Christian religions are satanists, then fine, no reason to argue with your choice of words. But if you do differenciate between the non-Christian religions, why not differenciate between the true satanists and those who follow a peaceful religion called Wicca?

Sean.

4186. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 16:16:33 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <057414B23892154F.7B5BE360FC3204AF.D34655804DF727D1@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27191

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 09:24:36 -0500, "Leland C. Scott"
<no-spam@junk-mail.net> wrote:

>That QSO was one I would NOT have wanted somebody to hear as an example of >Ham Radio in action, nor would some of the crap I hear on 75m either.

Carry a cheap microcassette recorder in the glovebox. I usually keep a digital recorder handy, just in case.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4187. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 16:43:44 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C18229F.38A0E394@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27192

"Leland C. Scott" wrote:
>
>
> The "ouch" part was last night when I was driving around to get some fast > food about 10 PM. I was monitoring 3 Hams on 2m sideband. During the 5 > minutes I was monitoring I must have heard the "F---" word used once, and > the "S---" word several times.

Unfortunately there are cb types with the cb mentality on ham radio.

4188. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:14:27 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9van4f$6um$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27193

"JR" <radiobuff@mailcity.net> wrote in message news:3C18229F.38A0E394@mailcity.net...
>
>
> "Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> >
> >
> > The "ouch" part was last night when I was driving around to get some fast > > food about 10 PM. I was monitoring 3 Hams on 2m sideband. During the 5 > > minutes I was monitoring I must have heard the "F---" word used once,
and
> > the "S---" word several times.
>
> Unfortunately there are cb types with the cb mentality on ham
> radio.

I don't think it was a case of "CB mentality" as such. There is not that much 2m SSB activity are by me so it's real easy to forget one is Tx'ing on a public frequency. I think these guys felt they were pretty safe on side band from being over heard by the majority of Hams who have only 2m FM rigs, or the public with FM only scanners. With the rapidly falling prices of rigs like the IC-706MKIIG, and the FT-100D, more Hams will have easy access to all mode equipment, so assuming one is on 2m side band as being semi private is no longer a "safe" assumption. Also now the manufactures are including SSB RX modes on some handheld scanners and HT's too. I know it's easy to slip[once in a while, and if somebody broke in to a QSO of mine and said something to me about it I would at least be polite enough to give them an ear and consider maybe they're right.

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LD0

Saw this on a Tee-shirt:

"I am a bomb technician. If you see
me running, try to keep up. "

4189. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:17:19 UTC
From: "Leland C. Scott" <no-spam@junk-mail.net>
Message-ID: <9vana4$6ur$1@news.bignet.net>
Source record: 27194

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C18BB30.E672965D@IEEE.org...
> "Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> > Saw this on a Tee-shirt:
> >
> > "I am a bomb technician. If you see > > me running, try to keep up. "
>
> Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> "If only these were brains".

Same idea where other people claim some have them, brains, where they sit too. 8-))

Merry Xmas, 73's de,

--
Leland C. Scott
KC8LDO

4190. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:19:46 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C18E332.FD9604E0@uci.edu>
Source record: 27195

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > Maybe some of them are magicians?
>
> Oh, never say that around wiccans, Jim.

Why? Are they as humorless as you are?

4191. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:22:04 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C18E3BC.3CF0E801@uci.edu>
Source record: 27197

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> K0HB wrote:
> >
> > A foreign terrorist, who openly has
> > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> > to destroy our homeland and our way of > > life, has no right to protection under our > > Constitution. None.
>
> It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also > international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most > countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he > actually does.

I think Hans said it best: you guys just don't get it.

4192. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:35:59 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C18E6FF.E1C675AB@uci.edu>
Source record: 27199

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > Maybe some of them are magicians?
>
> Oh, never say that around wiccans, Jim.

I said it to you, Dwight, and you are quite obviously not a Wiccan.

> They hate any association > with magicians. In fact, many even their spell magic differently > ("magick") to set it apart from "entertainment" magic.

I know. But "magic" is practiced by magicians, and "magic" is the word you used previously, and the one to which I responded.

4193. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:46:21 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C18E96D.42607287@uci.edu>
Source record: 27202

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> "What is the > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the > closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"

Is this an essay question, or are you hoping for a numeric response????

4194. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 17:51:20 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C18EA98.F20B751B@uci.edu>
Source record: 27201

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> I said nothing to defend Bin
> Laden, or to justify his alleged actions.

I can think of no larger purpose being served by your comments.

> I simply promoted the > Constitutional concept of innocent until proven guilty.

Our Constitutional rights do not apply to soldiers of the enemy. Why should they?

> Are you that far gone, Jim?

No, but it's so nice of you to ask.

4195. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB Gear

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 18:56:23 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <up0xyeAhBHA.1644@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27209

N9NWO thinks that:

> Too many Americans are jerks, assholes. They have "rights"
> and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the > right to tell them how to live.

And they're absolutely correct.

No one (and ESPECIALLY NOT the police) has the right to tell an American how to live. It's a principle that our fine country was founded upon. If that makes us all jerks and assholes, then I guess you will just have to consider us all jerks and assholes.

Same to you!

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4196. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:05:27 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <aU6S7.30267$AR6.644269@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27210
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

One final time: Show me where I said anything about resisting, smarting off, or telling a cop he cannot inspect. It is after he takes the equipment, mistakenly, that the AF folks get involved. I don't give cops trouble. I never even have opportunity to; I rarely come into contact with them. For this to happen would be rare because most cops are just as nice to you as you are to them. "Yes sir" and "No sir" are the order of the day. That doesn't say having my equipment taken wouldn't piss me off--it would--, BUT I DO know how to control that anger and handle the matter thru legal channels. NEVER did I say anything about challenging the cop on the scene.

A couple summers ago (you are in Indiana, right?), I was motoring along I-40 near Hickory, NC talking to some friends on 10 meter AM (29.000). OF all things, here came an Indiana sheriff overtaking me in the left lane. As soon as he saw me talking, and all the ham antennas, he abruptly slowed down, following just behind and to the left. I wondered what an Indiana county sheriff was doing in NC, but they eventually pulled alongside, giving me a VERY evil eye like they would just LOVE to stop me.. The driver reached down and seemed to be flipping thru "channels" (CB?) as if trying to listen to me. Failing to hear the transmissions, they also seemed to be suspicious, BUT they had no jurisdiction, and since I was doing nothing apparently illegal, they sped away. It was sort of funny. IF I'd had a cell phone, I'd have called NCHP and had them stopped for speeding. LMAO!

73

Jerry K4KWH
like

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C18BF1A.F0AEA9F5@gte.net...
> > >So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they > > >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.
> >
> > You did mean "can't", right ??
> >
> > >Congress only gave local > > >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type

of
> > >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for > > >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty > > >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
> > >enforcing Laws.
> >
> > This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The > > Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
> > just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.
> >
> > This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a > > court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the > > monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule > > violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does > > not appear in the FCC Rules.
> >
> > >I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as > > >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.
> >
> > You are so right.
>
> What you have to understand is that many hams feel > that the cops have NO right to inspect them, to ask > questions. I am not talking about rogue cops but rather > the officer who is professional and whose biggest goal
> every day is to make it home alive.
>
> These officers want video of every traffic stop. Too > many Americans are jerks, assholes. They have "rights"
> and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the > right to tell them how to live. And too many hams are > big jerks.
>
> This AF CAP chap just does not get it. Let the AF CID > come, as far as they are concerned that is a matter for the > courts. Once the cop does his job, the investigation, he is > more than happy to let the courts deal with it. And that > includes lawsuits. That is the chief's worry, not his. As it > is, too many file false lawsuits every day against cops. It > has become a cost of doing business.
>
> Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the > courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to > throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional > thing to do. And if some ham becomes an asshole and > argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.
>

4197. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:21:06 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <_c7S7.1942$er5.80933@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27212

Damn it! Ever heard of typos? I missed it, OK? SHEESH. Is that the only way you can equate yourself or relate to other people? Find me a thread where I go around correcting others' spelling. IF I didn't have any better thing to do than that, I'd just quit. I rarely misspell
a word, but I make typos sometimes, so SUE me. Gehen sie du Teufel mein puppa!

J

JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net> wrote in message news:3C17467C.567C65FC@mailcity.net...
>
>
> Jerry Oxendine wrote:
> >
> > I re-read every word. There are no spelling errors. If you're referring to > > the hyphens, it's because of the way my browser copies and pastes. I just > > didn't want to go back and edit it > > for here. The one that was sent is corect. Anymore questions?
> >
> >
>
> Then you need to go back to school.
> Second paragraph..."Fderal Communications Commission". Should be > Federal.
>
> Fourth paragraph..."an illegal station; i.e, the ham". Should be
> i.e.,
>
> Sixth paragarph..."keep each others' "cows" out of eath others'
> cornfields". should be each not eath.
>
> Same paragraph.., "using the popular jargon, could "disquise' his > messages in amongst the illegal operators". Should be disguise, > there is no q in disguise.
>
> Seventh paragraph..."Some years ago, in the rush to downsize". It > should be down-size or down size, it is not one word.
>
> Item 2, spell out manufacturers, don't use abbreviations. mhz > should be MHz.

>
> Item 4, truck stop is two words.
>
> Item 6, here you used MHZ, all caps, not consistent with item 2.
>
> If you want Mrs. Myrick to take your letter seriously, you need to > be a bit more neat with you writing. When her secretary sees your > letter it will probably go to file 13 as he/she doesn't want to > waste Mrs. Myricks time trying to read a letter full of > mis-spellings and grammatical errors.
>
> Any more questions?

4198. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:24:00 UTC
From: W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net>
Message-ID: <kf7S7.607$IC2.326574@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27213
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
news:9v9qa0odg11@quark.scn.rain.com...
> In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> <<< SNIP >>
> If I have a CB radio, I am federally licensed to operate that radio.
> <<< SNIP >>>

And when was this license issued? If it's legit, why are you not found in the FCC ULS?

73 de W6DKN

4199. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:41:08 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C190454.E44DCF1E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27215

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the
> closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"

You still don't get it? No valid conclusion can be drawn from that answer because there is no nocode extra license. The entry level license is the only nocode license. Entry level people are, on the average, less technical than top level people. But all the top level people were forced by governmental regulation to know Morse code. Thus any conclusion you would draw would be invalid because, in the ARS, technical skill and Morse code skill are forced to be correlated through governmental regulations.

You are still trying to determine the church attendance of black people by sampling only white churches. Please read what the FCC had to say about the subject. They said Morse code skill is unrelated to technical skill.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4200. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:53:51 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <7I7S7.30767$AR6.660339@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27219

Considering your reply, I must have hit a nerve. Sorry you feel that way, but if that is the way you feel, so be it. I am not going to sit idly by, in spite of my perceived errors by certain ones on this group, and just do nothing while illegals usurp what I WORKED for. Now if other hams want to sit, criticize, whine, and point fingers, that's up to them. What The CBers do down on the 40 channels is not my business. They can "10-4 thar" each other til the cows come home and key each other out. I am NOT "muckraking", as you call it; I am responding to what I perceive as a threat. I am responding the same way I would if someone pitched a tent down in the corner of my lot. 1) He is a trespasser. 2) He has no right to be there--even if I never use that corner of my lot--it is still freakin' MINE and should/will be available to me if and when I CHOOSE to use it. And 3) His presence is unwelcome, like it or not. The 10 meter issue affects ME; Eleven meters does not. And if I happen to stumble upon something that gets the right peoples' attention (it already has gotten some attention, so it's not like it is a total non-issue.), I am going to DO it. This is an issue where a battle line must be drawn somewhere. I am willing to bet that, if the 11 meter crowd is not turned back at 10 and 12 meters, then it will be on to 17 meters, then 30, and 20 and 40. Let's face it, what this vocal, militant minority wants is the total, unrestricted, undisciplined and, unlicensed use of all spectrum and to hell with everybody else. While the rest of us sit around snapping, whining, and picking apart each other's motives, grammar and spelling, the illegals get exactly what they want with a big laugh at us to boot!

For those of you who are so much better in grammar and spelling and so much smarter than I am, tell you what: YOU take that letter, revise it to your "standard" of appropriate syntax, grammar and spelling, and send it to YOUR representatives. If enough people DO something, instead of sit around on their penquin butts, the issue will get attention. It does not even MAT-TER how smart we are, it matters that we TRY. SO DO IT. Revise the letter and send it.

To TW, I am sorry you feel that way, again. But right is right, and wrong is wrong. You spend all the time you like on 27.555--I'll never bother you. I have never attacked you or talked badly of you or any one person on the groups. In truth, the 10 meter issue is the offspring of "freebanding"-------those who were willing to push the envelope and test the waters. If this is not addressed, it will continue to expand. I truly believe that. If I am wrong? GOOD! I would love to be wrong. I wish I were wrong about 10 meters. But as I write this I have been listening to a CBer complete with his beeping and squeaking for 45 minutes. All ya gotta do is just go up to 28.085 and just listen for awhile. Pay attention: AM, SSB, ANY PHONE MODE IS NOT ALLOWED IN THAT SEGMENT OF 10 METERS!! It is so easy to pick out, it's almost funny. I have never heard a ham using echo, beeps, squeaks and fart noises-- even the bad hams.

73

Jerry
K4KWH

To the rest of you who this issue affects, I say <Twistedhed@webtv.net> wrote in message news:9v8qbj$9ed$1@news.netmar.com...

> PLEASE don't ignore this issue. Please HELP us.
>
> "Unfortunately it will be ignored just as it has been ignored for years.
> Nothing will change as a result of your current campaign of muckraking. The > government has much more important things to do than chase after violators of > an offense comparable to jaywalking. I neglected to forsee that you would not > have the intelligence to realize that no one cares about a few rogue > operators on 10 meters save for the hysterical yapping mongrels such as AA > and Nad. I am disappointed you have chosen to join their kennel, Jerry. Your > fellow hammie operators don't give a hoot about what goes on in the CB band > and never have. Plus you cannot show proof that these 10 meter incidents are > more than just isolated exceptions.....and how do you know these > incidents are not CBers but hams bootlegging? Because of such irrational > thinking you are destined to join the kill files of Usenet users everywhere.
> The CB room does not want you anymore and neither do your ham bretheren"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the
eb -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+
groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email
abuse@newsone.net

4201. Re: AMP SALE

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 19:58:28 UTC
From: "Train cbmods"@optonlineNOSPAM.com
Message-ID: <9vb194$g7p$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27216
Cross-posted to:
rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,alt.radio.pirate

In article <lm1S7.12683$161.5428397@news02.optonline.net>, Train <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com> writes:
>I guess we'll see how many losers there are who will reply to this >troll.......and a FAKED troll at that.
>My IP is static at 128.******
>Have fun with it!
>Train

Let me clarify something. The original posts are NOT fake as you can see below. They are VERY real. Do a search and you will see. I've been very NAUGHTY this year :)

Train

Subject: Re: Question Fer Dick M.
Date: Sat, 16 Jun 2001 11:50:00 GMT
From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb

darn it........I have newsranger blocked and missed this post so I'll address it now...........Eat shit and die! Who sells what or who's buying is of no concern to you.......You just need a reason to cry like the little child you are. Grow up! Your little click isn't going to even put a dent in what gets sold for CB radio legal or otherwise.
Being in radio as long as I have and knowing the people I know........It's going to be a long long time before slime like you will ever be able to do a damned thing to anyone selling radio stuff. I have more radio info on CD's and a larger database than most of you clowns would ever dream of and if need be ALL WILL BE PUT ON A WEBSITE. Everything from schematics for amps that we were building in the 70's and 80's to every last page of master editions.....secret cb.....green, gray, black books.........You name it and I got it. Nothing you sleazy little shits can do will EVER stop people from getting information they need. Bet on it!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

==========

Subject: MOBIL AMP SALE
Date: Sat, 14 Apr 2001 19:09:40 GMT
From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb

As a public service to the NG, I will be offering to sell mobil amps to those wishing to buy them. This is not done out of greed but out of necessity to thwart the losers in the NG who think they have taken over OUR nice little group and can use it to harass and belittle as they see fit. To offer sale of these items is just the thing needed in a public forum to mess with these nil-minded simpletons. Amps such as Texas Star, Palomar, Cobra, Messenger, Gray, Galaxy, X-Force and so on. These will be sold for a limited time and at a VERY small profit IF ANY !

This is not a money thing so much as it is an access thing.

Since these self appointed radio/computer gods have declared knowledge an illegal thing also, I might just make the entire Secret CB book series available on CD along with a CD of amplifier schematics for base and mobil amps. Why is it that when these morons just think they are getting somewhere in their fight somebody like me comes along and pisses on their parade? BECAUSE THEY NEED IT AND DESERVE IT!!!!!!!!!

E-Mail me with your needs......
Train
tra1n@aol.com
train@cbmods.com
cbmods@optonline.net

==========

From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Sun, May 20, 2001 5:59 PM
Message-id: <5CTN6.10757$MR1.2346125@news02.optonline.net>

I have no use for or reason to operate legally.

There are thousands of us who will continue to operate as we see fit without regard to whatever some schmuck like you or your little click of over-opinionated morons have to say about it. You can cry all you like but those of us who can, will and those of you who can't......Will continue to cry about it.
Train

==========
Subject: Re: Ameritron AL80A
From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Fri, Jun 22, 2001 11:40 AM
Message-id: <n8GY6.43556$Lk1.4150780@news02.optonline.net>

"Gary" <gharrel101@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:9gm24u$34ju$1@newssvr05-en0.news.prodigy.com...
> I have an Ameritron AL80A. How can I modify it for use on 11 Meters? It > has the ability to tune to the high end of 10 Meters. Any information >would be useful.

You Know damn well it can be easily done.......Breakout that golden screwdriver and get to it!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

==========

Subject: Re: RCI 2990 For Sale
From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Thu, Jul 12, 2001 12:48 PM
Message-id: <K0h37.32$qs5.155619@news02.optonline.net>

Get a friggin life you loser!
You have got to be the most lame useless pile-o-shit we have in the group.
We all know your BS line by now and I for one am sick of your fascist bullshit!

Blow your FCC crap out your ass!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4202. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:00:37 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213150037.13711.00000033@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27217

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: N9NWO 2121d@gte.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 8:34 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C18BC7F.16A2A77E@gte.net>

>Rather it is the cop
>who is a professional, who keeps his cool,
>but is not going to let some ham tell him that >the cop has no right to inspect his radios
>and plays the hot shot. No cop will put up >with that.

He had better. The law states that unless the officer makes a felony stop with probable cause, it's an illegal search. A misdemeanor won't cut it, and unless he wants to be terribly embarrased in court, he's NOT going to do it.

Yes, he can hold you and get a warrant, but you, the private citizen, still have recourse. If he can't provide the aforementioned cause, NO SEARCH.

>The average cop is trained to suspect everyone.

Who says?

>They are trained that they >are superior, the "force" of government, the >thin blue line that keeps us a civilized society.

No, they are not. They are specifially taught that they are provided certain powers of arrest, but that those powers are granted at the discretion of the people, and that abuse of those powers can just as quickly land the officer in jail as any HE may effect an arrest for.

Gone are the days of "any ole excuse will do", even in the deep south.

>And it is almost universal that the biggest goal
>that a cop will have is to make it home alive
>every night.

Correct. And even more reason that he's not going to pick a fight over something as silly as this.

>If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
>to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the >courts settle.

Probable cause. If he "takes" ANYTHING without probable cause, he's in deep trouble. And communities are painfully aware of civil law suits against thier police departments.

>This
>includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
>a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the >chief's problem, and not theirs.

Oh? From which bodily orifice did you extract this bit of ignorance?

>They believe that >they have a right to do anything, and everything. That they >have NO responsibility to society or their fellow man. And >the cops want that attitude to end.

You may be correct, but "it ain't happenin' ". The genie is out of the bottle and you can expect that police departments that used to act with near impunity when it came to search and seizures are under significant scrutiny...Even in the post 9-11 enviroment.

And Gerry...You need to get a 605 in...ASAP.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4203. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:02:53 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213150253.13711.00000035@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27218

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: N9NWO 2121d@gte.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 8:54 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C18C138.A3619486@gte.net>

>If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue >with the cops then he had better expect to stand in >front of the judge.

You need to remember that there will be TWO people in front of that judge...The guy who's gear got snatched and the snatching officer. It's NOT a one-sided affair.

>Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business.

In what community do you live that the local government has such a cavalier attitude?

73

Steve, K4YZ

4204. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:03:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C190978.3652C42B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27220

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I've said it before, and I'll say it again -- any manager who has a > private, "confidential" conversation in his private office, behind > closed doors, with a female subordinate, is a damn fool.

It is company policy at Intel to have such private meetings behind closed doors. To have such a private meeting in public is insane and is against company policy.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4205. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:07:02 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213150702.13711.00000036@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27221

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: "Jerry Oxendine" joxendi@bellsouth.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 1:05 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <aU6S7.30267$AR6.644269@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>

>One final time: Show me where I said anything about resisting, smarting >off, or telling a cop he >cannot inspect.

It wasn't there, Jerry. This guy's got a police-power fetish. Methinks him a lost reincarnated sole of Gestapo-controlled Germany of the 30's.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4206. Re: AMP SALE

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:08:38 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C190AC6.85DB5455@uci.edu>
Source record: 27222

Is there any way the r.r.a.p. newsgroup server could be configured in a smart enough way as to filter-out posts that also have CB newsgroups in the header?
Seems a reasonable thing to do.

"\"Train\" cbmods"@optonlineNOSPAM.com wrote:
>
> In article <lm1S7.12683$161.5428397@news02.optonline.net>, Train > <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com> writes:
> >I guess we'll see how many losers there are who will reply to this > >troll.......and a FAKED troll at that.
> >My IP is static at 128.******
> >Have fun with it!
> >Train
>
> Let me clarify something. The original posts are NOT fake as you can see > below. They are VERY real. Do a search and you will see. I've been very > NAUGHTY this year :)
>
> Train
>
> --
>
> Subject: Re: Question Fer Dick M.
> Date: Sat, 16 Jun 2001 11:50:00 GMT
> From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
> Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
>
> darn it........I have newsranger blocked and missed this post so I'll > address it now...........Eat shit and die! Who sells what or who's buying is > of no concern to you.......You just need a reason to cry like the little > child you are. Grow up! Your little click isn't going to even put a dent in > what gets sold for CB radio legal or otherwise.
> Being in radio as long as I have and knowing the people I know........It's > going to be a long long time before slime like you will ever be able to do a > damned thing to anyone selling radio stuff. I have more radio info on CD's > and a larger database than most of you clowns would ever dream of and if > need be ALL WILL BE PUT ON A WEBSITE. Everything from schematics for amps > that we were building in the 70's and 80's to every last page of master > editions.....secret cb.....green, gray, black books.........You name it and > I got it. Nothing you sleazy little shits can do will EVER stop people from > getting information they need. Bet on it!
>
> --

> Train
> tra1n@aol.com
> cbmods@optonline.com
> train@cbmods.com
>
> ==========
>
> Subject: MOBIL AMP SALE
> Date: Sat, 14 Apr 2001 19:09:40 GMT
> From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
> Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
>
> As a public service to the NG, I will be offering to sell mobil amps to > those wishing to buy them. This is not done out of greed but out of > necessity to thwart the losers in the NG who think they have taken over OUR > nice little group and can use it to harass and belittle as they see fit. To > offer sale of these items is just the thing needed in a public forum to mess > with these nil-minded simpletons. Amps such as Texas Star, Palomar, Cobra, > Messenger, Gray, Galaxy, X-Force and so on. These will be sold for a limited > time and at a VERY small profit IF ANY !
>
> This is not a money thing so much as it is an access thing.
>
> Since these self appointed radio/computer gods have declared knowledge an > illegal thing also, I might just make the entire Secret CB book series > available on CD along with a CD of amplifier schematics for base and mobil > amps. Why is it that when these morons just think they are getting somewhere > in their fight somebody like me comes along and pisses on their parade?
> BECAUSE THEY NEED IT AND DESERVE IT!!!!!!!!!
>
> E-Mail me with your needs......
> Train
> tra1n@aol.com
> train@cbmods.com
> cbmods@optonline.net
>
> ==========
>
> From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> Date: Sun, May 20, 2001 5:59 PM
> Message-id: <5CTN6.10757$MR1.2346125@news02.optonline.net>
>
> I have no use for or reason to operate legally.
>
> There are thousands of us who will continue to operate as we see fit without > regard to whatever some schmuck like you or your little click of > over-opinionated morons have to say about it. You can cry all you like but > those of us who can, will and those of you who can't......Will continue to > cry about it.
> Train

>
> ========================
> Subject: Re: Ameritron AL80A
> From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> Date: Fri, Jun 22, 2001 11:40 AM
> Message-id: <n8GY6.43556$Lk1.4150780@news02.optonline.net>
>
> "Gary" <gharrel101@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> news:9gm24u$34ju$1@newssvr05-en0.news.prodigy.com...
> > I have an Ameritron AL80A. How can I modify it for use on 11 Meters? It > > has the ability to tune to the high end of 10 Meters. Any information > >would be useful.
>
> You Know damn well it can be easily done.......Breakout that golden > screwdriver and get to it!
>
> --
> Train
> tra1n@aol.com
> cbmods@optonline.com
> train@cbmods.com
>
> ==
>
> Subject: Re: RCI 2990 For Sale
> From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> Date: Thu, Jul 12, 2001 12:48 PM
> Message-id: <K0h37.32$qs5.155619@news02.optonline.net>
>
> Get a friggin life you loser!
> You have got to be the most lame useless pile-o-shit we have in the group.
> We all know your BS line by now and I for one am sick of your fascist
> bullshit!
>
> Blow your FCC crap out your ass!
>
> --
> Train
> tra1n@aol.com
> cbmods@optonline.com
> train@cbmods.com
>
> ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
> http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
> NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
> made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4207. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:18:20 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C190D29.1ED7F29A@gte.net>
Source record: 27224
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Jerry Oxendine wrote:

> One final time: Show me where I said anything about resisting, smarting off, > or telling a cop he cannot inspect. It is after he takes the equipment, > mistakenly, that the AF folks get involved. I don't give cops trouble. I > never even have opportunity to; I rarely come into contact with them. For > this to happen would be rare because most cops are just as nice to you as you > are to them. "Yes sir" and "No sir" are the > order of the day. That doesn't say having my equipment taken wouldn't piss me > off--it would--, BUT I DO know how to control that anger and handle the matter > thru legal channels. NEVER did I say anything about challenging the cop on > the scene.
>

You made out like you are some type of bad
ass. What you are saying is what I have been trying to communicate. Politeness will get you far with most cops.

However, if it does go to the point that the equipment and/or the car are impounded then the courts will settle
it. All your AF types will do is go in front of the judge and make their case, as you would as well. The cops will not try to keep the equipment. Their only goal is to allow the judge the opportunity to rule. If the situation is unclear, it may well go in front of a judge. Your AF types will be called as witnesses.

Bottom line. Do not argue with a cop. He will win.
By that I mean, he will have you in front of a judge.
Whether he wins the case is another matter. But he will put you through enough hassle that you may very well not want to go through it again.

>
> A couple summers ago (you are in Indiana, right?), I was motoring along I-40 > near Hickory, NC talking to some friends on 10 meter AM (29.000). OF all > things, here came an Indiana sheriff overtaking me in the left lane. As soon > as he saw me talking, and all the ham antennas, he abruptly slowed down, > following just behind and to the left. I wondered what an Indiana county > sheriff was doing in NC, but they eventually pulled alongside, giving me a > VERY evil eye like they would just LOVE to stop me.. The driver reached down > and seemed to be flipping thru "channels" (CB?) as if trying to listen to me.
> Failing to hear the transmissions, they also seemed to be suspicious, BUT > they had no jurisdiction, and since I was doing nothing > apparently illegal, they sped away. It was sort of funny. IF I'd had a cell > phone, I'd have called NCHP and had them stopped for speeding. LMAO!

Sheriff deputies go out of state to retrieve prisoners who are being extradited.

4208. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:47:10 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1913BE.949544F5@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27225

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > I simply promoted the Constitutional > > concept of innocent until proven guilty.
>
> Our Constitutional rights do not apply to > soldiers of the enemy. Why should they?
>
> > Are you that far gone, Jim?

It's not just our Constitutional rights, Jim. As I said earlier, it is also a matter of international law - covering "soldiers of the enemy." And I assure you that if any of our soldiers had been captured by the Taliban, we would be screaming for their rights under international law.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4209. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:59:44 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vb4ov0ga8@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27163

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C18BDFC.29BF2F15@IEEE.org...
> The observation that Orangutans are homosexual was an accidental > sighting, Dick. You really think someone would spend months in the > Borneo jungle studying Orangutans for the sole purpose of observing > homosexual behavior? You are so far removed from reality that > I don't see how you manage to post here.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

Maybe he's nothing more than a common troll and our mistake is falling for
it.

4210. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 20:59:46 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1916AC.2F3AF0AE@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27227

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> Military tribunals have the support of law...
> both American and International.

Fine, Steve, then try him in a military tribunal. I don't care where he is tried - I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt conclusively before we rush off to kill him. Without that, we leave this whole thing open for endless speculation.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4211. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:01:29 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vb4s70gdl@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27164

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:3C18E96D.42607287@uci.edu...
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > "What is the
> > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the > > closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"
>
> Is this an essay question, or are you hoping for a numeric response????

It's 42 - (with respect to the late Douglas Adams)

4212. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:03:01 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213160301.24724.00000269@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27228

In article <20011211221700.13985.00000823@mb-md.aol.com>, yodoc@aol.comnospam
(Larry Roll K3LT) writes:

>In article <9f4bfe89.0112110606.68127a8b@posting.google.com>, n2ey@aol.com >(N2EY) writes:
>
>>I understand that in Paris and its suburbs one cannot get more than a >>certain distance (500 meters?) from a Metro station. And the Paris >>Metro system has been constantly (except for war years) expanded and >>modernized to meet the needs of the City of Light.
>
>I have my doubts that even in Paris, you can find Metro stations spaced >less than 1/3 of a mile apart!

I've never been there. My info is based on a report in an industry journal.

>That may occur in a few places along >major routes, but not everywhere in Paris and it's suburbs!

Have you been there and checked it out?

>Were that >so, the entire city would have to be suspended by the subterranean >structure of the train stations below.
>
Nope. 500 meters works out to 546 yards, a little less than 1/3 mile. The stations can be well over that distance apart and you will never be more than 500 meters from a station.

>>For longer trips, the TGV trains operate at about 200 mph. They >>reached 326 mph in tests (not a typo).
>
>Hmmm. A bit more than half the speed of a typical 230 gr. FMJ round >coming out the muzzle of a .45 automatic!

Yup. 190-200 mph is the usual operating speed. They built new dedicated rights of way for the TGV and connected the ends to the existing stations in major cities.

> No wonder they call it a >"bullet" train!

The French don't call it that, from what I hear. The Japanese do. But the JA trains poke along at 165 mph or so..

>I wonder how they keep that thing on the tracks at that >speed -- I'll ass-u-&-me that the wheels actually lock onto the track >with some kind of flange.

The track is maintained to very high standards and the rolling stock is designed for the speed. But the basic wheel/rail profile is the same as other railroads. No reason for it to be.
>
>>> If anyone wants to pay for this
>>> "elderly" person to move where public transportation is available, I'll >>gladly >>> take another trip to Europe for a few years. :-)
>>
>>Works for me!
>>
>>73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>I think this country will be more or less forced to solve the problems >of the elderly, since they are the fastest growing demographic group >of Americans.

Yup. The question is "how" and "when".

73 de Jim, N2EY

4213. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:06:47 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C19184F.DF71396C@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27229

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> You have such a convenient way of backpedaling,
> Dwight. But, at least you do it with style.

It's not backpedaling, Kim. It was a simple mistake, for which I apologized for. But the mistake did not change the points I raised because they addressed your core argument instead of the peripherial context.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4214. Re: Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:12:11 UTC
From: balls balls balls <humpamelon2day@aol.com>
Message-ID: <LQ8S7.1320$mF.140048@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27231

Glen Baxter is a mental patient who desperatly needs
a regimine of Prozac or Luxox.

This guy's got an ego the size of the State of Montana and want's to be the next w2nsd. The only reason he probably does this shit is to keep a 501-C3 tax status on his AARA so he can get an abatement for his real estate holdings.

I think if someone digs deep enough you'll find the money trail. What the heck? The ARRL does the same thing
to get free money from the tax man!

"HotlineAmerica" <hotlineamerica@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011212232831.22677.00003504@mb-fc.aol.com...
> It's Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday. And > let's not forget that this guy is endorsed by the behometh IARN, not to speak > of the AARU. Impeccable credentials.
>
> Naturally, his editorials defaming Riley Hollingsworth, the FCC and others are > not necessarily the opinions of the IARN nor the AARU. Trouble is, Baxter, > IARN & AARU are one in the same.
>
> Bob Sherin, W4ASX
> Miami, Florida
>
>

4215. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:17:19 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C191ADF.4E79D894@uci.edu>
Source record: 27162

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > > I simply promoted the Constitutional > > > concept of innocent until proven guilty.
> >
> > Our Constitutional rights do not apply to > > soldiers of the enemy. Why should they?
> >
> > > Are you that far gone, Jim?
>
> It's not just our Constitutional rights, Jim.

You just got done saying you simply promoted the Constitutional concept...
Now you're shifting gears again.

> As I said earlier, it > is also a matter of international law - covering "soldiers of the > enemy."

Yes, there's the Geneva convention. Otherwise, enemy soldiers are fair game for target practice. Got the concept?

> And I assure you that if any of our soldiers had been captured > by the Taliban, we would be screaming for their rights under > international law.

Do you think they would receive it?

4216. Re: When are you birds gonna admit I was right?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:18:28 UTC
From: balls balls balls <humpamelon2day@aol.com>
Message-ID: <EW8S7.1329$mF.141462@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27160

Another Wayne green wanabee in the making here...?

It's just a freakin hobby. Who cares! When it loses it's luster you go somewhere else. I like train shows myself.

"stewart" <horseshoe7@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:5f4fe4c2.0112101220.211e17b2@posting.google.com...
> Until a wholesale revamping of the licensing structure is made, > reinstituting incentive licensing, and bringing the US Amateur Radio > Service into the modern era, and attracting younger members by > focusing on modern communication methods and privileges...
>
> 1) Amateur membership will continue to decline(told ya that the spike > in membership, right after the overdue restructuring regarding the > demphasis of the archaic Morse Code, was just temporary).
>
> 2) There will eventually be more Extras than Generals(now - all of you > birds who couldn't see the trend in the 2nd degree equation, and > disagreed with me so vehemently will now have to admit I was right on > this one too, because even from the 1st degree linear trends it is now > obvious!).
>
> Eventually, something like my Communicator/Colt license proposals WILL > be implemented... mark my words.
>
> Stewart - N0MHS
>

4217. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:29:06 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C191D84.63EF3F87@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27169

CAM wrote:
>
> The subject is one-on-one meetings behind closed > doors, Dwight, not general security. Intel has > thousands of one-on-one meetings behind closed > doors every day.

But you're using Intel's security to defend your argument about one-on-one meetings. Why else would you bring Intel into the discussion? So, since we cannot all possibly know about Intel's policies concerning security, either leave Intel out or give us some specifics about their security.

Actually, in reality, Intel's position on one-on-one meetings is not the final word on this issue. I said most companies are now adopting policies about closed door meetings, not all companies are. In other words, Intel's policy does change my premise that more and more companies are starting to cut back on private closed door meetings to reduce the threat of sexual harassment lawsuits. So, unless you can establish that Intel's position is the same as all other companies, lets again leave Intel out of the discusion.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4218. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:37:21 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <lc9S7.161485$WW.10173361@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27184

N9NWO posts:

> And are you a police officer? Are you
> an attorney? NO. You are a Private > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact > with the current system.
>
> Understand this. The police and the > military are your superiors. Their lives > are far more valuable than yours. And > they are the only thing that is keeping this > country together. There lives are living > sacrifices, their deaths atone for your > screw ups.

and:

> And your service to "king and country"?
> I do have 30 years of political service.
> I have put judges on the bench, congressmen
> in office, have worked on political campaigns
> from the local to federal level.
>
> Plus 20 years of military service, to include > a year in the Gulf War and another year
> with the Bosnian mess.
>
> What have you done with your miserable
> two bit life?

You know, it was a while ago, but didn't we fight a revolutionary war against a bunch of military/political/religious elitists who thought they were inherently better than the common man, knew what was best for him and saw themselves as society's bulwark against chaos and anarchy.

Oh, and by the way, this is the United States of America. We don't have a king to serve.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4219. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License more info.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:38:18 UTC
From: N2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <a91752a9.0112131338.4b906a67@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27185

Gerald Schmitt <KK5YY@arrl.net> wrote in message
news:<f3171ugtucejrir6rp17b99bulf8hpfldd@4ax.com>...
> On 08 Dec 2001 21:03:10 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
> >Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an article > >about UK restructuring.
>
> This happened at Donnington Sept. 22 and you Morsecentrics are just > now finding out!

Been kinda busy on this side of the pond. Don't shoot the messenger.
> >
> >Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like 5
> >wpm for full access.
>
> Yup this is the way of the world for the moment and CW testing is > likely to go away entirely at the 2003 WRC meeting.

Coulda told ya that 2 years ago.
> >
> >But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is to > >have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>
> Most of the sessions I was involved in planing were going to be an > entire weekend but it doesn't have to be this way.

Found a website with more info. Looks like a 10 hour session - that's a LONG day!
> >
> >Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>
> Yup but at only 10 Watts

Few weeks ago I worked Hawaii and Alaska from EPA in a contest with 5 watts. At 10 watts I work stations all over the world with a wire antenna. I use Morse, though.
> >
> >Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>
> Actually regulations, safety and proper operating practice. Good > operators have a real oportunity to teach by example.

Works for me.
> >
> >BUT.....
> >

> >No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>
> Wrong no home-designed homebrew but commercial kits like TenTec and > Electrocraft are allowed.

I stand corrected. Revise above to read "no homebrewing".
> >
> >Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person being > >tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an "A",
> >the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then looks > >up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending > >test to be similar.
>
> True enough I think they actually referred to it as Morse > appreciation.

Right.

Point is the test stretches the treaty definition till it squeaks.
> >
> >Waddya think, folks?
>
> I thought at the time and still think this is a great opportunity to > get new hams off on the right foot. I had a chat with the President > of the RSGB and suggested that Foundation Tutor/Testing groups > recruit QRPers. They QRP crowd has a real understanding of how > to make low power work and are the most credible proponents of > CW as an operating mode.

Indeed.
>
> To understand why the RA and RSGB wanted to do this you have to > have an appreciation of the UK testing system. Tests are offered only > at infrequent intervals and are very costly. Most written tests are > proctored at Universities and cost L75 or over $100 US. The Foundation > Licence (British spelling intentional) will allow recruitment and > exposure to the hobby from this group some will fall away and some > will advance through the system.

There's the real problem. The test is too expensive and too hard to access.

How much does it cost (on average) to attend a training course, take the test, and get a full privileges license?

As I understand it, the old UK "Novice" licenses required the prospective ham to attend an approved training course. Passing the test isn't enough - the course is MANDATORY. Wonder how that would go over on this side of the pond?

Both US and UK ham radio have had little or no growth over the past several years. US licenses have hovered around 680,000 and UK licenses around 45,000 for quite a while. (My numbers may not be exact, but they are in the neighborhood.) Maybe the Foundation license will make a big difference, or maybe it won't. The much-ballyhooed restructuring over here in 2000 hasn't made much of a difference in new licenses, only in upgrades.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4220. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:47:26 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1921CE.B08C2FAA@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27190

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Most of the companies I mention above are those > that I have worked for here in the South. I don't > know where it is that you seem to have this > experience where employees cannot be trusted to > act as responsible adults, but remind me never
> to move there.

We've been over all that before, Kim. That is your experience and this is mine. I'm not saying your experience is wrong. I'm simply saying that, based on my experience, more and more companies are beginning to get more restrictive on closed door meetings. In fact, based on my experience, some companies are now taking that to an extreme - no closed door meetings and no private meetings at all. Why do you insist my experience it wrong - that only yours is right?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4221. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:56:40 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <su9S7.303393$5A3.117925195@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27196
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
> And if you argue with a cop then you are just > another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > the office to shoot everyone.

I hope all Leo's don't think the way you do, they would be pulling guns on every stop and everyone woul be getting patted down for walking down the street.
.

4222. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 21:58:38 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C192469.733B8C28@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27198

CAM wrote:
>
> It is company policy at Intel to have such private > meetings behind closed doors. To have such a private > meeting in public is insane and is against company > policy.

Cecil, you insist on bringing Intel into the discussion. If you want to discuss Intel, please provide us with a copy of that company's policy so we can all discuss it. But, regardless, that company's policies are not the final word on this issue. It is simply the policy of one company (which tells us nothing about this issue in general - this issue at companies in general).

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4223. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:01:31 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C192516.344C38E8@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27200

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> In every office situation I've been in, (snip)

What does that matter, Kim? We're talking about a growing trend in this country, not your exclusive experiences at some companies.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4224. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:02:22 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <Oz9S7.303397$5A3.117928977@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27203
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message

> Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business. People > file false charges against the police everyday. As > I said, the average cop looks to the courts to settle > questions. If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue > with the cops then he had better expect to stand in > front of the judge.

If a cop wanted to take my radio I would tell him he is wrong, I don't have to argue with him to tell him this. And If he didn't take my word for it I would let him take the radios and know I will have my chance to have him look silly in a court of Law. Then the judge will tell him to learn the letter of the law and stop wasting the courts time. Cops don't want this as well so they will try to make sure they know what they are doing.

4225. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:02:35 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213170235.06803.00000029@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27204

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR
>From: N9NWO 2121d@gte.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 2:18 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C190D29.1ED7F29A@gte.net>

>You made out like you are some type of bad
>ass.

Where?

>By that I mean, he will have you in front of a judge.

Remember...he will be too...and if his search/seizure was bogus, guess what...?!?!

>But he >will put you through enough hassle that you may very >well not want to go through it again.

And if his search/seizure was bogus, guess what? He may be going through something HE may not want to go through again...School.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4226. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:05:54 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213170554.06803.00000030@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27205

>Subject: Re: some sobering numbers
>From: Dwight Stewart stewartx@sccoast.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 2:59 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C1916AC.2F3AF0AE@sccoast.net>

>I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt >conclusively before we rush off to kill him.

Why?

Remeber the final scene of "The Postman Always Rings Twice"? As theya re about to lead the guy off to the chair, they reveal that they know he's innnocent of the crime he was convicted of, yet they will still fry him on the others which he knows he's guilty of.

If we just pulled him out of a cave and strung him up today, he'd still be guilty of heinous crimes against humanity, no matter how many times he was tried.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4227. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:08:48 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011213170854.137$k8@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27207
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message

> We give cops guns because their lives are more > valuable.

They get guns because they uphold the law, and persuassion and force is needed to accomplish this. A cops life is no more valuable than any average citizen, and this is said with the ut most respect to LEO's

>Mayors and governors have bodyguards for the same reasons.
>
>
>

4228. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:08:58 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1926D3.3378FA09@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27206

CAM wrote:
>
> My dictionary defines a "pagan" as someone who is > not a Christian, Jew, or Muslim and/or anyone who > believes in polytheism. Worshiping the Sun God > would be a pagan act. Worshiping the Earth Mother > would be a pagan act.

My dictionary defines a pagan as "one who has no religion." Since worshiping the sun god, or worshiping the earth mother, are religions, they would not be pagan acts.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4229. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:10:01 UTC
From: JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C186F1A.6D7A0929@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27208

Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> Damn it! Ever heard of typos? I missed it, OK? SHEESH. Is that the only > way you > can equate yourself or relate to other people? Find me a thread where I go > around correcting > others' spelling. IF I didn't have any better thing to do than that, I'd > just quit. I rarely misspell
> a word, but I make typos sometimes, so SUE me. Gehen sie du Teufel mein > puppa!
>
>

I would not go around correcting your spelling here on the NG, but a letter being sent to a Congressional Representative should have correct spelling and no grammatical errors. You said you read it again and still did not catch the obvious errors, that is why you need someone else to proofread it for you. If you cannot even spell simple words and use correct grammar, you can't expect someone to take you seriously.

4230. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:13:39 UTC
From: uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org
Message-ID: <ff37aa44.0112131413.61ff26a6@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27211

> In article <3C109E40.BF313194@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart > <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:
>
> >
> > It doesn't even have to be a co-worker complaining. Lets say Betty > >(made up name) doesn't like the fact that her husband is meeting with > >too many woman who work with him at the local small town factory, so > >she gets up in front of her church Sunday morning and begins talking > >about all the "sluts" who work for that company and all the illicit > >relationships between co-workers at that company. To make matters > >worse, a newspaper reporter, also a member of the church, hears this > >and decides to do an article about it in the local newspaper. Now what > >do you think the company is going to do?

Uh, sue the newspaper?

A company that cared about it's employees would investigate matters and handle things in a manner appropriate to what was actually going on.

A newspaper that printed things that were not verified could get themselves into trouble, as well.

If I were a named individual in the newspaper, I can guarentee that I wouldn't take it lightly.

Sean.

4231. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:17:58 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1928ED.43A24798@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27214

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > They hate any association with magicians. In fact, > > many even their spell magic differently ("magick") > > to set it apart from "entertainment" magic.
>
> I know. But "magic" is practiced by magicians, and
> "magic" is the word you used previously, and the > one to which I responded.

Okay, so I obviously missed your point. What was it? Are you fussing about my use of the word "magic?" Just as many wiccans use that spelling as the other.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4232. Re: Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:24:24 UTC
From: John Siegel <JohnASiegel@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <3C192A80.E43CED90@worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27223

While I can think of nothing positive to say about K1MAN's operation, I would never dream of jamming it. However I have heard his reasoning on why he thinks his "bulletins" are legal. (I put "bulletin" in quotes because only a small fraction of his time is bulletins in my opinion.)
If I follow his logic then I could Post a schedule on some web site somehwere Set that schedule to be 10 minutes before his (whatever that is) Accuse him of a felony when he starts trnsmitting on top of my "bulletins" ten minutes later.
Doesn't make a whole lot of sense does it?
73, John

balls balls balls wrote:
>
> Glen Baxter is a mental patient who desperatly needs
> a regimine of Prozac or Luxox.
>
> This guy's got an ego the size of the State of Montana > and want's to be the next w2nsd. The only reason he > probably does this shit is to keep a 501-C3 tax status > on his AARA so he can get an abatement for his > real estate holdings.
>
> I think if someone digs deep enough you'll find the money trail. What the heck? The ARRL
does the > same thing
> to get free money from the tax man!
>
> "HotlineAmerica" <hotlineamerica@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:20011212232831.22677.00003504@mb-fc.aol.com...
> > It's Glenn Baxter on the Glenn Baxter show on a Glenn Baxter Wednesday. And > > let's not forget that this guy is endorsed by the behometh IARN, not to speak > > of the AARU. Impeccable credentials.
> >
> > Naturally, his editorials defaming Riley Hollingsworth, the FCC and others are > > not necessarily the opinions of the IARN nor the AARU. Trouble is, Baxter, > > IARN & AARU are one in the same.
> >
> > Bob Sherin, W4ASX
> > Miami, Florida
> >
> >

4233. I am part of the problem!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:25:02 UTC
From: "Train cbmods"@optonline.net
Message-ID: <9vb9ru$lj7$1@news.netmar.com>
Source record: 27226

No wonder Cbers are going after 10 meters. My behavior encourages a "who gives a shit" attitude to the rules. Just look at some of my posts below.

Train

==========

Subject: Re: Question Fer Dick M.
Date: Sat, 16 Jun 2001 11:50:00 GMT
From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb

darn it........I have newsranger blocked and missed this post so I'll address it now.....Eat shit and die! Who sells what or who's buying is of no concern to you.......You just need a reason to cry like the little child you are. Grow up! Your little click isn't going to even put a dent in what gets sold for CB radio legal or otherwise.
Being in radio as long as I have and knowing the people I know........It's going to be a long long time before slime like you will ever be able to do a damned thing to anyone selling radio stuff. I have more radio info on CD's and a larger database than most of you clowns would ever dream of and if need be ALL WILL BE PUT ON A WEBSITE. Everything from schematics for amps that we were building in the 70's and 80's to every last page of master editions.....secret cb.....green, gray, black books.........You name it and I got it. Nothing you sleazy little shits can do will EVER stop people from getting information they need. Bet on it!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

==========

Subject: MOBIL AMP SALE
Date: Sat, 14 Apr 2001 19:09:40 GMT
From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb

As a public service to the NG, I will be offering to sell mobil amps to those wishing to buy them. This is not done out of greed but out of necessity to thwart the losers in the NG who think they have taken over OUR nice little group and can use it to harass and belittle as they see fit. To offer sale of these items is just the thing needed in a public forum to mess with these nil-minded simpletons. Amps such as Texas Star, Palomar, Cobra, Messenger, Gray, Galaxy, X-Force and so on. These will be sold for a limited time and at a VERY small profit IF ANY !

This is not a money thing so much as it is an access thing.

Since these self appointed radio/computer gods have declared knowledge an illegal thing also, I might just make the entire Secret CB book series available on CD along with a CD of amplifier schematics for base and mobil amps. Why is it that when these morons just think they are getting somewhere in their fight somebody like me comes along and pisses on their parade? BECAUSE THEY NEED IT AND DESERVE IT!!!!!!!!!

E-Mail me with your needs......
Train
tra1n@aol.com
train@cbmods.com
cbmods@optonline.net

==========

From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Sun, May 20, 2001 5:59 PM
Message-id: <5CTN6.10757$MR1.2346125@news02.optonline.net>

I have no use for or reason to operate legally.

There are thousands of us who will continue to operate as we see fit without regard to whatever some schmuck like you or your little click of over-opinionated morons have to say about it. You can cry all you like but those of us who can, will and those of you who can't......Will continue to cry about it.
Train

==========
Subject: Re: Ameritron AL80A
From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Fri, Jun 22, 2001 11:40 AM
Message-id: <n8GY6.43556$Lk1.4150780@news02.optonline.net>

"Gary" <gharrel101@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:9gm24u$34ju$1@newssvr05-en0.news.prodigy.com...
> I have an Ameritron AL80A. How can I modify it for use on 11 Meters? It > has the ability to tune to the high end of 10 Meters. Any information >would be useful.

You Know damn well it can be easily done.......Breakout that golden screwdriver and get to it!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

==========

Subject: Re: RCI 2990 For Sale
From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
Date: Thu, Jul 12, 2001 12:48 PM
Message-id: <K0h37.32$qs5.155619@news02.optonline.net>

Get a friggin life you loser!
You have got to be the most lame useless pile-o-shit we have in the group.
We all know your BS line by now and I for one am sick of your fascist
bullshit!

Blow your FCC crap out your ass!

--
Train
tra1n@aol.com
cbmods@optonline.com
train@cbmods.com

----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4234. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB Gear

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:34:49 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <u$SQ3YChBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27230

N9NWO says:

> And are you a police officer? Are you
> an attorney? NO. You are a Private > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact > with the current system.
>
> Understand this. The police and the > military are your superiors. Their lives > are far more valuable than yours.

If this is your true opinion, then you are indeed a dangerous person and I earnestly pray that you are not in _ANY_ position, even a part-time school crossing guard, which allows you to assert your "authority". If you are in such a position, then the citizens of your community should consider the risk they have placed themselves in by your continued service in any capacity of authority.

The police and military have my respect and gratitude (and I spent 21 years bearing arms to protect America), but they are not superior to any other citizen. Period.

Hans, K0HB

4235. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:35:45 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C192D41.F8DB1958@uci.edu>
Source record: 27232

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Cecil, you insist on bringing Intel into the discussion. If you want > to discuss Intel, please provide us with a copy of that company's > policy so we can all discuss it.

Or.....you could just take his word for it and leave it at that.

4236. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:46:56 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <T7aS7.31949$AR6.722388@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27233
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Maybe they delivered one?? The car was empty except for the 2 deputies.
Anyway, if looks could kill, I'd be dead. BTW, I've driven all over Indiana and never had any trouble. Most folks are extremely nice.

73

Jerry

N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C190D29.1ED7F29A@gte.net...
>
>
> Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> > One final time: Show me where I said anything about resisting, smarting off,
> > or telling a cop he cannot inspect. It is after he takes the equipment, > > mistakenly, that the AF folks get involved. I don't give cops trouble.
I > > never even have opportunity to; I rarely come into contact with them.
For > > this to happen would be rare because most cops are just as nice to you as you > > are to them. "Yes sir" and "No sir" are the > > order of the day. That doesn't say having my equipment taken wouldn't piss me > > off--it would--, BUT I DO know how to control that anger and handle the matter
> > thru legal channels. NEVER did I say anything about challenging the cop
on > > the scene.
> >
>
> You made out like you are some type of bad > ass. What you are saying is what I have been > trying to communicate. Politeness will get you > far with most cops.
>
> However, if it does go to the point that the equipment
> and/or the car are impounded then the courts will settle > it. All your AF types will do is go in front of the judge > and make their case, as you would as well. The cops > will not try to keep the equipment. Their only goal is > to allow the judge the opportunity to rule. If the situation > is unclear, it may well go in front of a judge. Your AF > types will be called as witnesses.

>
> Bottom line. Do not argue with a cop. He will win.
> By that I mean, he will have you in front of a judge.
> Whether he wins the case is another matter. But he > will put you through enough hassle that you may very > well not want to go through it again.
>
>
>
> >
> > A couple summers ago (you are in Indiana, right?), I was motoring along
I-40 > > near Hickory, NC talking to some friends on 10 meter AM (29.000). OF all > > things, here came an Indiana sheriff overtaking me in the left lane. As soon
> > as he saw me talking, and all the ham antennas, he abruptly slowed down, > > following just behind and to the left. I wondered what an Indiana county > > sheriff was doing in NC, but they eventually pulled alongside, giving me
a > > VERY evil eye like they would just LOVE to stop me.. The driver reached down > > and seemed to be flipping thru "channels" (CB?) as if trying to listen to me.
> > Failing to hear the transmissions, they also seemed to be suspicious,
BUT
> > they had no jurisdiction, and since I was doing nothing > > apparently illegal, they sped away. It was sort of funny. IF I'd had a cell > > phone, I'd have called NCHP and had them stopped for speeding. LMAO!
>
> Sheriff deputies go out of state to retrieve > prisoners who are being extradited.
>

4237. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 22:49:16 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C19306C.1CDC6318@uci.edu>
Source record: 27234

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Okay, so I obviously missed your point. What was it?

As I said before, "From what I can tell, they seem to be using kind of a loose, existential definition of the term, Dwight."

4238. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:01:52 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C193327.C5B89C9@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27235

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> (snip) People who claim to be using magic in the > same breath as they are saying they are Wiccan, > Dwight, are nothing but dreamers and are as > ignorant of the practice as you are. The closest > Wiccan may get to using magic is in using the > equivalent of "mantras" for prayer. (snip)

So you're claiming that all these books that describe wiccan spells and magic were writtin by wiccans "ignorant of the practice," Kim?

- 21st Century Wicca, Jennifer Hunter, Citadel Press.
- Earth Magic, Marion Weinstein, Earth Magic Productions.
- Natural Magic, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix Publishing.
- Positive Magic, Marion Weinstein, Pocket Books.
- Power of the Witch, Laurie Cabot, Dell Publishing
- Practical Solitary Magic, Nancy B. Watson, Samuel Weiser
- The Spiral Dance, Starhawk, Harper & Row.
- The Witches Way, Stewart Farrar, Hale
- Wicca: Solitary Practitioner, Scott Cunningham, Llewellyn.
- A Book of Pagan Rituals, Herman Slater, Samuel Weiser.
- A Witches' Bible Compleat, Janet Farrar, Magickal Childe.
- Buckland's Complete Witchcraft, Raymond Buckland, Llewellyn.
- Drawing Down the Moon, Margot Adler, Beacon Press.
- Lid Off the Cauldron: A Handbook, Patricia Crowther, Mueller.
- Paganism Today, G. Harvey /C. Hardman, eds 1995 Thorsons.
- The Witch's God, Janet Farrar, Phoenix Publishing
- Psychic Self-Defense, Dion Fortune, Samuel Weiser.
- The Complete Art of Witchcraft, Sybil Leek, World Publishing.
- The Magickal Year, Diana Ferguson, Samuel Weiser.
- The Pagan Path, J. and S. Farrar, Phoenix Publishing.
- Witchcraft for Tomorrow, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix.

All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic. So why would you claim that spells and magic are not part of the wiccan nonsense?

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4239. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:07:08 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C193460.207566E3@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27236

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> For goodness sake, Dwight. Why don't you find some real Wiccan people to > talk to instead of whatever idiots you've been talking to?

First of all, I don't believe there are "real" Wiccans to talk to.
However, if we're going to talk about the claims of today's self-proclaimed wiccans, their own written words are enough for me.

- 21st Century Wicca, Jennifer Hunter, Citadel Press.
- Earth Magic, Marion Weinstein, Earth Magic Productions.
- Natural Magic, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix Publishing.
- Positive Magic, Marion Weinstein, Pocket Books.
- Power of the Witch, Laurie Cabot, Dell Publishing
- Practical Solitary Magic, Nancy B. Watson, Samuel Weiser
- The Spiral Dance, Starhawk, Harper & Row.
- The Witches Way, Stewart Farrar, Hale
- Wicca: Solitary Practitioner, Scott Cunningham, Llewellyn.
- A Book of Pagan Rituals, Herman Slater, Samuel Weiser.
- A Witches' Bible Compleat, Janet Farrar, Magickal Childe.
- Buckland's Complete Witchcraft, Raymond Buckland, Llewellyn.
- Drawing Down the Moon, Margot Adler, Beacon Press.
- Lid Off the Cauldron: A Handbook, Patricia Crowther, Mueller.
- Paganism Today, G. Harvey /C. Hardman, eds 1995 Thorsons.
- The Witch's God, Janet Farrar, Phoenix Publishing
- Psychic Self-Defense, Dion Fortune, Samuel Weiser.
- The Complete Art of Witchcraft, Sybil Leek, World Publishing.
- The Magickal Year, Diana Ferguson, Samuel Weiser.
- The Pagan Path, J. and S. Farrar, Phoenix Publishing.
- Witchcraft for Tomorrow, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix.

All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4240. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:16:42 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <NzaS7.32041$AR6.746668@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27237

Like I said GEHEN SIE DU TEUFEL.....or Assayez-vous en merde!

Jack Hamilton <jfh@acm.org> wrote in message news:eb3i1u8r7d8t7stmq87p2ekpk43k1bqii9@4ax.com...
> "Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote:
>
> >Damn it! Ever heard of typos? I missed it, OK? SHEESH. Is that the only > >way you > >can equate yourself or relate to other people? Find me a thread where I go > >around correcting > >others' spelling. IF I didn't have any better thing to do than that, I'd > >just quit. I rarely misspell
> >a word, but I make typos sometimes, so SUE me. Gehen sie du Teufel mein > >puppa!
>
> I think you missed the point.
>
> You are not doing amateur radio a favor by making amateur radio > operators look like illiterate buffoons.
>
>

4241. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:19:54 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1937BB.6C3864D9@gte.net>
Source record: 27238
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> Maybe they delivered one?? The car was empty except for the 2 deputies.
> Anyway, if looks could kill, I'd be dead. BTW, I've driven all over Indiana > and never had any trouble. Most folks are extremely nice.
>

We have both extremes. At one end are those who are just fed up with the excesses of society and want to rein in everything. They see society as out of control.

At the other end are the cops, like many in Indianapolis, who use outlaw CB's to talk to each other and to coordinate their stories when there has been an incident.

But it might have been that they just wanted to yell at you on the radio.

4242. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:22:09 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C193843.BF09AF0C@gte.net>
Source record: 27239
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > And if you argue with a cop then you are just > > another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > > alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> > your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > > the office to shoot everyone.
>
> I hope all Leo's don't think the way you do, they would be pulling guns on > every stop and everyone woul be getting patted down for walking down the > street.
> .

Cops do think this way. They may hide it behind their mask of professionalism (they call it putting on the "game face"). Remember cops are mostly ex high school jocks. And remember they do see a number of their fellow officers getting killed every year. They have to assume that every traffic stop could go bad.

4243. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:23:19 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C193867.84E28E7@uci.edu>
Source record: 27241

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a > few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, > wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic.

I guess Wiccans don't believe that the first two people on Earth all of a sudden one day magically appeared here. Or that the wives of their male progeny also somehow as if by magic, inexplicably appeared out of thin air.

4244. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:25:24 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1938FB.CC4D479F@gte.net>
Source record: 27240
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business. People > > file false charges against the police everyday. As > > I said, the average cop looks to the courts to settle > > questions. If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue > > with the cops then he had better expect to stand in > > front of the judge.
>
> If a cop wanted to take my radio I would tell him he is wrong, I don't have > to argue with him to tell him this. And If he didn't take my word for it I > would let him take the radios and know I will have my chance to have him > look silly in a court of Law. Then the judge will tell him to learn the > letter of the law and stop wasting the courts time. Cops don't want this as > well so they will try to make sure they know what they are doing.

That is a risk that the average cop is willing to take. As far as he is concerned, getting you in front of judge is his primary job. Even if you win, it will cost you a huge amount of money, and time. Costly enough that you will think twice the next time. He does not have to get you thrown in jail in order to change your attitude. Normally the court procedures, and it can take a year or more to settle a case,
are enough to make a decent citizen more careful in how they live their lives.

4245. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-13 23:33:32 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <DPaS7.32121$AR6.794024@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27242

If my syntax, grammar, and image presented on behalf of Amateur Radio bothers you so much, produce a callsign! I don't hide mine. I don't hide my name, either. It sounds like the reason for ridiculing me is that you have another interest in this issue; that of discouraging ANY efforts to stop the illegals. Maybe YOU are one of the truckers who operate up there? Hmmmmm?

Produce a callsign, and I might take your criticism seriously. If you are a ham, instead of being one of the whiners and do-nothings, REVISE the letter to YOUR liking and send it to YOUR Representative(s). Hey, you can even take credit for it being YOUR idea. I don't CARE how it's done--I just hope it gets done. I may be entirely alone in this, but I want those truckers OUT of 10 meters and , whether I am a literate writer or not, I will NOT stop trying to get something done. That's more than YOU are apparently doing...but then you sound like you are on the side of the illegals.

Jerry
K4KWH
Jack Hamilton <jfh@acm.org> wrote in message
news:9g3g1usdl2e3mfemggab973fdv1buvrb84@4ax.com...
> JR <radiobuff@mailcity.net> wrote:
>
> >If you want Mrs. Myrick to take your letter seriously, you need to > >be a bit more neat with you writing. When her secretary sees your > >letter it will probably go to file 13 as he/she doesn't want to > >waste Mrs. Myricks time trying to read a letter full of > >mis-spellings and grammatical errors.
>
> I agree with you; if I received a letter full of grammatical errors I'd > assume that there were logical errors as well, and if there were > spelling errors I'd assume factual errors.
>
>
>
>

4246. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:02:25 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vbffj010q4@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27244

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C193327.C5B89C9@sccoast.net...
> - 21st Century Wicca, Jennifer Hunter, Citadel Press.
> - Earth Magic, Marion Weinstein, Earth Magic Productions.
> - Natural Magic, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix Publishing.
> - Positive Magic, Marion Weinstein, Pocket Books.
> - Power of the Witch, Laurie Cabot, Dell Publishing
> - Practical Solitary Magic, Nancy B. Watson, Samuel Weiser
> - The Spiral Dance, Starhawk, Harper & Row.
> - The Witches Way, Stewart Farrar, Hale
> - Wicca: Solitary Practitioner, Scott Cunningham, Llewellyn.
> - A Book of Pagan Rituals, Herman Slater, Samuel Weiser.
> - A Witches' Bible Compleat, Janet Farrar, Magickal Childe.
> - Buckland's Complete Witchcraft, Raymond Buckland, Llewellyn.
> - Drawing Down the Moon, Margot Adler, Beacon Press.
> - Lid Off the Cauldron: A Handbook, Patricia Crowther, Mueller.
> - Paganism Today, G. Harvey /C. Hardman, eds 1995 Thorsons.
> - The Witch's God, Janet Farrar, Phoenix Publishing
> - Psychic Self-Defense, Dion Fortune, Samuel Weiser.
> - The Complete Art of Witchcraft, Sybil Leek, World Publishing.
> - The Magickal Year, Diana Ferguson, Samuel Weiser.
> - The Pagan Path, J. and S. Farrar, Phoenix Publishing.
> - Witchcraft for Tomorrow, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix.
>
> All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a > few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, > wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic. So why would you claim > that spells and magic are not part of the wiccan nonsense?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Great. You can list a bunch of books. The next question would be how many of them have you actually read.

4247. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:06:00 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vbfm90113j@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27246

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1926D3.3378FA09@sccoast.net...

> My dictionary defines a pagan as "one who has no religion." Since > worshiping the sun god, or worshiping the earth mother, are religions, > they would not be pagan acts.

That would be closer to the definition of an agnostic.

4248. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:14:59 UTC
From: Tazanator <tazanator1@attbi.com>
Message-ID: <7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54>
Source record: 27243
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger picture on this.

I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However having driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19 has degenerated way down to the point of people harrassing truckers (listen sometime a bulk of the noise is from base stations especial around big cities) most of the "sesame Street" gang is kids playing and talking big.

Due to this depressing talk to drivers, many have left the CB buying ham radios for the extra cost so they can "get away" from the base stations (I was told that a long time ago CB was just like 80 meters is today...many truckers miss that peaceful feeling you enjoy (I only have a tech so 2 meters is my place)) while it is wrong many don't care due to the way they were treated on channel 19 (Penn state has a kid on 19 with a 250 watt base that must have a dictionary of every swear word that he just keeps reading at truckers)

As far as the FCC many state scales have fcc trained weigh masters that do check (you pull on to the scale and are asked to key up the CB) sometimes they find them often they don't. I belive that the truckers could bring a revival to the ham comunity, just from the numbers point of view, and I started down ham meeting another ham trucker...HE HAD A HUGE ANT (screw driver)ON THAT TRUCK!!! made me wonder what he was talking to!

While it is a privalage to us ... a little tact here could gain you a friend and the ham community more clout. Sence I got my ticket many of the guys I used to run with have seen me use the 2 meter repeater system (they loved the michigan linked repeater system...all over the state with only an HT) and the phone patches, many have started borrowing my books to study for the test.

To start them on the road just help them out ... many would love to have the ANT checked by an MFJ analizer (they pay up to $20 for it) and as you teach them how to get the best out of the CB talk about the ham structure many will listen and think about it....many of my friends have started studying

(by the way it supposed to be 28.665 for the new 19)

--

IT IS THE SOLDIER

IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the reporter,
Who has given us freedom of the press.
IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the poet,

Who has given us freedom of speech.
IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the campus organizer,
Who has given us freedom to demonstrate.
IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the lawyer,
Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
IT IS THE SOLDIER, who salutes the flag,
Who serves under the flag and,
Whose coffin is draped by the flag,
Who allows the protester to burn the flag.

Author, Charles M. Province

****
By US Code Title 47, Sec.227(a)(2)(B), a computer/modem/printer meets the definition of a telephone fax machine. By Sec.227(b)(1)(C), it is unlawful to send any unsolicited advertisement to such equipment. By Sec.227(b)(3)(C), a violation of the aforementioned Section is punishable by action to recover actual monetary loss, or $500, whichever is greater, for each violation.
****

think I'm full of it look yourself!
http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/47/227.html

"Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> she thought of to make "Xmas money".
>
> Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
>
> Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> Is the cow out of the barn door?
> A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> to try an politely inform them there were in violation > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> gentlemanly composure in his speech
> to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
>
> Nice eh?
> Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
>
> I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
>

> How about 2 meters?
> Is that the next band to be trashed by these
> morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart
> and operate without a licence ?
>
>

4249. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:30:37 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C19482D.67AB19B3@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27245

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>
> Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the > closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"

The statistics are a bit clouded. When you look at the numbers of hams who have passed the higher level written tests, we can only know of those who also passed the code tests. We don't know the numbers of those candidates who feel that they can pass the writtens but not code, or code but not writtens.

The FCC requires, for extra let's say, the passing of written tests and a code test. For any sensible analysis, we'd need numbers of people holding say a Morse code w/o written "extra" license, and another set of people who hold a written only "extra". As the FCC doesn't give out such licenses, we can't know what we need to know to analyze the correlation between code and theory.

4250. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:38:32 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C194A08.FB1EAFC2@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27247

K0HB wrote:

>
>
> Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really need > to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just > doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad idea.
>

A major reason for the way the FCC and other countries do up their rules is the ease of enforcement. Why do they say have extra only subbands instead of say power level restrictions? Because someone at an FCC field site operating a receiver can easily see what frequency you are on, where he can't really tell how much power you're putting out. For all he knows, you might just have a small rig and a yagi pointed at him.

4251. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:42:49 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C194B09.B527E1D9@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27248

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> Competitive Intelligence--the new emerging technology.
>

Nothing new there. Happens from time to time.
Most usual way is to hire someone just layed off
from the other company.

4252. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:45:23 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C194BA3.D8FD9EC@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27249

>
> Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> "If only these were brains".

Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
positioned on the breasts.

4253. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 00:53:10 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C194D76.26AD2037@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27250

Jerry Oxendine wrote:

> Like I said GEHEN SIE DU TEUFEL.....or Assayez-vous en merde!

And your mama too! :-)

Why would you expect him to know whatever foreign language that is in, and be able to translate it? All that I can tell, it's not English, or Chinese for that matter. Just that whatever language it is, is supported by the ASCII character set.

4254. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 01:03:32 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011213200332.03703.00000382@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 27251

In article <3C176D75.F062E850@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> The quantum reduction in licensing standards has >> created the impression that ham radio is nothing more than a glorified >> version of CB with more bands, modes, and power.
>
>A quantum reduction should be undetectable, Larry.

Just the opposite. A quantum, by definition, IS detectable.

> From Webster's:
>"quantum - one of the small subdivisions of a quantized physical >magnitude"

Which means it must be detectable.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4255. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 01:38:36 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <TEcS7.32783$AR6.971107@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27252

I don't care. He thinks I am stupid anyway. While my language skills have lauguished due to many years and lack of use, at least I DO know more than one.
Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C194D76.26AD2037@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> > Like I said GEHEN SIE DU TEUFEL.....or Assayez-vous en merde!
>
> And your mama too! :-)
>
> Why would you expect him to know whatever foreign language > that is in, and be able to translate it? All that I can tell, it's > not English, or Chinese for that matter. Just that whatever > language it is, is supported by the ASCII character set.
>

4256. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 01:50:43 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <TVcS7.303770$5A3.118120344@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27253
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C193843.BF09AF0C@gte.net...
>
> Cops do think this way.

I know some do lets hope it's a minority.

They may hide it behind > their mask of professionalism (they call it putting > on the "game face"). Remember cops are mostly > ex high school jocks.

I have heard that before, not sure if was from you.

> They have to assume that every traffic stop could go bad.

That is true, but they also must assess the situation from there training they ask questions and have to quickly read "people" because each stop presents a different situation. So when a policeman makes a stop he needs to be in control of the situation in case a stop does go bad he can defend himself. He is not there to make friends he is there to uphold the law some people take exception to that.

>
>
>

4257. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 01:55:28 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <0234752DC201460B.0EDE363A2FA9CB02.CB4FD997C837CC3F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27254
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:47:10 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>We give cops guns because their lives are more >valuable.

So a CHL makes the license holder more important?

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4258. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 03:35:57 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C19737A.79E98242@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27255

CAM wrote:
>
> Phil Kane wrote:
> >
> > On 13 Dec 2001 03:09:06 GMT, Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >
> > >... most of the No-
> > >Code techs I know are trailer trash from the bottom half of their > > >high school class, with no further education, no ambition to learn > > >anything useful, but a universally buring desire to gain the individual > > >power of a microphone in their hands...without being bothered to learn > > >useful comm skills like Morse/CW.
> >
> > The vast majority of No-Code-Techs who are in my radio club - the > > largest one in the state - are good folks. Some of them are at a > > technical level far above average, but for personal reasons are > > content to keep their license level just about where it is.
>
> Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who > simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a > PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson > on a technical basis.

...not as much as I'd like to see the famed Dr. Williamson in a 25 wpm
CW ragchew with Larry.

Dave K8MN

4259. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 03:46:21 UTC
From: Web <WebFx27@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <hCeS7.15523$161.7241951@news02.optonline.net>
Source record: 27256
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I aggree

Web

"KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
news:39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com...
>
> "b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
> news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> > Well said.
> > People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft,
> > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not
> > "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry for > > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw copy.
> > Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> > The easy way out is the booring way out.
> > WB3DSJ
>
> You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may love
the > digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so on and so > on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a variety
of > different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to do > whatever is allowed by that license class.
>
> Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either the dropping > of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of it
dropping
> of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became proactively > involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least 80%
of > all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be"
(i.e. > congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham radio.
> We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us, but can > you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all the way up > to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur radio?
> I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire fighting > related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others to do

> so too.
>
> Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club > meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them the > experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public to > actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually be able > to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we are doing
> .
>
> Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch hobby.
> Get involved!
>
> [first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other paragraphs > are to everyone else.]
>
> Ryan KC8PMX
>
>
> >
> > KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> > >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't,
won't.
> > >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> > operation
> > >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> > >
> > >Ryan
> > >KC8PMX
> > >
> > >
> > >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> > >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> > >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> > >>
> > >> Hi OMs,
> > >>
> > >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore needed to > use
> > >> the HF bands.
> > >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will get
> the
> > >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> > >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> > >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released in
> the > > >> Netherlands.
> > >>

> > >> PE1PAE
> > >>
> > >>
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>

4260. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:26:29 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c198073_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27257

Wonder how many more "let's leave that one out" we can come up with. Let's see, Im mentioned 5 or 6? companies I've worked for in a previous post. We'll leave them out, too. My husband's company has closed door meetings routinely. Leave them out. Oh, just called my sister, a postal worker. Yep, closed door one-on-ones every day...leave them out, too.

Hmmmm, we could get a pretty substantial list going. Would that qualify as an "everybody," Dwight?

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C191D84.63EF3F87@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > The subject is one-on-one meetings behind closed > > doors, Dwight, not general security. Intel has > > thousands of one-on-one meetings behind closed > > doors every day.
>
>
> But you're using Intel's security to defend your argument about > one-on-one meetings. Why else would you bring Intel into the > discussion? So, since we cannot all possibly know about Intel's > policies concerning security, either leave Intel out or give us some > specifics about their security.
>
> Actually, in reality, Intel's position on one-on-one meetings is not > the final word on this issue. I said most companies are now adopting > policies about closed door meetings, not all companies are. In other > words, Intel's policy does change my premise that more and more > companies are starting to cut back on private closed door meetings to > reduce the threat of sexual harassment lawsuits. So, unless you can > establish that Intel's position is the same as all other companies, > lets again leave Intel out of the discusion.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4261. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:28:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1980f5$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27259

I don't insist that your experience is wrong, Dwight. Not at all. You said "it is happening all over the country" in one of your posts. I am challenging you every step of the way on that, because my experience is different from yours, if that is now how we are doing this.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1921CE.B08C2FAA@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > Most of the companies I mention above are those > > that I have worked for here in the South. I don't > > know where it is that you seem to have this > > experience where employees cannot be trusted to > > act as responsible adults, but remind me never
> > to move there.
>
>
> We've been over all that before, Kim. That is your experience and > this is mine. I'm not saying your experience is wrong. I'm simply > saying that, based on my experience, more and more companies are > beginning to get more restrictive on closed door meetings. In fact, > based on my experience, some companies are now taking that to an > extreme - no closed door meetings and no private meetings at all. Why > do you insist my experience it wrong - that only yours is right?
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4262. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:29:46 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c198137$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27260

Oh, OK, so now your experiences are more valid than mine. You're a greater charlatan than Dave, Dwight. End of discussion...with you.

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C192516.344C38E8@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > In every office situation I've been in, (snip)
>
>
> What does that matter, Kim? We're talking about a growing trend in > this country, not your exclusive experiences at some companies.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4263. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:31:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1980B4.ECDF1F9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27258

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > The subject is one-on-one meetings behind closed > > doors, Dwight, not general security. Intel has > > thousands of one-on-one meetings behind closed > > doors every day.
>
> But you're using Intel's security to defend your argument about > one-on-one meetings. Why else would you bring Intel into the > discussion?

Simply because that is where I worked for the last 13 years of my career. But IBM and DELL are similar. In fact, most of the large Silicon Valley companies have similar policies. Private meetings are to be held in private, not in public. Your lack of business acumen is showing.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4264. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:33:16 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c19820a_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27264

Dwight, your listed books are probably a combination of good and crappy authors, I have no idea. I'll dismiss your sources as quickly as you dismiss others. How's that feel?

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C193327.C5B89C9@sccoast.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > (snip) People who claim to be using magic in the > > same breath as they are saying they are Wiccan, > > Dwight, are nothing but dreamers and are as > > ignorant of the practice as you are. The closest > > Wiccan may get to using magic is in using the > > equivalent of "mantras" for prayer. (snip)
>
>
> So you're claiming that all these books that describe wiccan spells > and magic were writtin by wiccans "ignorant of the practice," Kim?
>
> - 21st Century Wicca, Jennifer Hunter, Citadel Press.
> - Earth Magic, Marion Weinstein, Earth Magic Productions.
> - Natural Magic, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix Publishing.
> - Positive Magic, Marion Weinstein, Pocket Books.
> - Power of the Witch, Laurie Cabot, Dell Publishing
> - Practical Solitary Magic, Nancy B. Watson, Samuel Weiser
> - The Spiral Dance, Starhawk, Harper & Row.
> - The Witches Way, Stewart Farrar, Hale
> - Wicca: Solitary Practitioner, Scott Cunningham, Llewellyn.
> - A Book of Pagan Rituals, Herman Slater, Samuel Weiser.
> - A Witches' Bible Compleat, Janet Farrar, Magickal Childe.
> - Buckland's Complete Witchcraft, Raymond Buckland, Llewellyn.
> - Drawing Down the Moon, Margot Adler, Beacon Press.
> - Lid Off the Cauldron: A Handbook, Patricia Crowther, Mueller.
> - Paganism Today, G. Harvey /C. Hardman, eds 1995 Thorsons.
> - The Witch's God, Janet Farrar, Phoenix Publishing
> - Psychic Self-Defense, Dion Fortune, Samuel Weiser.
> - The Complete Art of Witchcraft, Sybil Leek, World Publishing.
> - The Magickal Year, Diana Ferguson, Samuel Weiser.
> - The Pagan Path, J. and S. Farrar, Phoenix Publishing.
> - Witchcraft for Tomorrow, Doreen Valiente, Hale/Phoenix.
>
> All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a > few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, > wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic. So why would you claim > that spells and magic are not part of the wiccan nonsense?

>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4265. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:34:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C19813C.D2E129B8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27261

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > It is company policy at Intel to have such private > > meetings behind closed doors. To have such a private > > meeting in public is insane and is against company > > policy.
>
> Cecil, you insist on bringing Intel into the discussion. If you want > to discuss Intel, please provide us with a copy of that company's > policy so we can all discuss it. But, regardless, that company's > policies are not the final word on this issue. It is simply the policy > of one company (which tells us nothing about this issue in general - > this issue at companies in general).

Intel is one of the most successful companies of all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy their policies. You are simply showing your gross ignorance and lack of business acumen.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4266. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:34:22 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c19824b_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27265

ROFLMAO...^5 I couldn't think of how to put that, Jim. Well said.

Kim W5TIT

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message news:3C193867.84E28E7@uci.edu...
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a > > few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, > > wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic.
>
> I guess Wiccans don't believe that the first two people on Earth all of > a sudden one day magically appeared here. Or that the wives of their > male progeny also somehow as if by magic, inexplicably appeared out of > thin air.

4267. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:35:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C198195.16505394@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27262

```
Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > My dictionary defines a "pagan" as someone who is > > not a Christian, Jew, or Muslim and/or anyone who > > believes in polytheism. Worshiping the Sun God > > would be a pagan act. Worshiping the Earth Mother > > would be a pagan act.
>
> My dictionary defines a pagan as "one who has no religion." Since > worshiping the sun god, or worshiping the earth mother, are religions,
> they would not be pagan acts.

According to my dictionary, Buddhists and Hindus are pagans.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4268. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:35:51 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1982a4_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27266

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C194B09.B527E1D9@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > Competitive Intelligence--the new emerging technology.
> >
>
> Nothing new there. Happens from time to time.
> Most usual way is to hire someone just layed off
> from the other company.
>

Yep. But, God forbid any closed door meeting to confirm company secrets...
(I love an intertwined thread ;)

Kim W5TIT

4269. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:37:26 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C198206.C6F88720@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27263

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > Cecil, you insist on bringing Intel into the discussion. If you want > > to discuss Intel, please provide us with a copy of that company's > > policy so we can all discuss it.
>
> Or.....you could just take his word for it and leave it at that.

I suspect Dwight is telling us, in so many words, that he has never worked for a large successful technology company and is totally ignorant of such.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4270. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:41:14 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1982EA.5337951F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27267

Robert Casey wrote:
> > Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> > "If only these were brains".
>
> Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
> positioned on the breasts.

Oh no, Robert. You used the "b" word. You know you will bring down the wrath of Larry Roll for doing that.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4271. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:45:08 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1983D4.6E4E263A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27268

```
Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
> > Military tribunals have the support of law...
> > both American and International.
>
> Fine, Steve, then try him in a military tribunal. I don't care where > he is tried - I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt > conclusively before we rush off to kill him.

Been watching CNN today, Dwight? Looks like proof to me.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4272. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:52:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C198587.D5F2F719@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27269

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >A quantum reduction should be undetectable, Larry.
>
> Just the opposite. A quantum, by definition, IS detectable.

Depends on the detector. An analog voltmeter cannot detect a quantum (one electron) change.

> > From Webster's:
> >"quantum - one of the small subdivisions of a quantized physical > >magnitude"
>
> Which means it must be detectable.

Only if using the proper instrument. Larry uses a skin flute.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4273. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:54:07 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1985EF.B47466CB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27270

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who > > simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a > > PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson > > on a technical basis.
>
> ...not as much as I'd like to see the famed Dr. Williamson in a 25 wpm
> CW ragchew with Larry.

I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4274. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 04:56:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C198660.2C7D7EC8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27271

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> Jerry Oxendine wrote:
>
> > Like I said GEHEN SIE DU TEUFEL.....or Assayez-vous en merde!
>
> And your mama too! :-)
>
> Why would you expect him to know whatever foreign language > that is in, and be able to translate it? All that I can tell, it's > not English, or Chinese for that matter. Just that whatever > language it is, is supported by the ASCII character set.

German? Spanish?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4275. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 05:27:28 UTC
From: Hans Brakob <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <f2003cbd80736c14924aa5ab674bb54c.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 27272

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1916AC.2F3AF0AE@sccoast.net...

> Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
> >
> > Military tribunals have the support of law...
> > both American and International.
>
>
> Fine, Steve, then try him in a military tribunal. I don't care where > he is tried - I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt > conclusively before we rush off to kill him.

We have mounted a war on terrorism. OBL is a terrorist by his own admission (many times over). Even if he was not involved in the 9-11 events, he is still a soldier in the army we are at war with, therefor he need only appear in someones crosshairs.
No tribunal needed, and no trial needed. Nothing else needed except a steady eye on the sight picture, and a nice crisp squeeze of the trigger, just like any other soldier in this war.

It is up to God to judge him. It is up to us to arrange the meeting.

With all kind wishes,

Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas12poolc101.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.23.101]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

4276. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 05:38:25 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C18D82F.D83E8856@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27273

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> Fine, Steve, then try him in a military tribunal. I don't care where > he is tried - I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt > conclusively before we rush off to kill him. Without that, we leave > this whole thing open for endless speculation.
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Did you see the tape Dwight? Did someone hit you with a 2X4 to get your attention? I guess you are going to be one who thinks it was all a fabrication.

4277. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 06:07:15 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1989C8.464DC3DD@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27274

Jim Kelley wrote:

> Rick Adams wrote:
> > You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to > > legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for > > production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we > > want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an > > automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a > > renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily > > extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
> > Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > > organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress > > to legalize it as a cash crop.
>
> You've got one of those suits made entirely from hemp, don't you Rick.
> ;-)

Doncha think he has already smoked it all up, a few threads at a time??

4278. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 06:20:22 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C198CDC.C5B9D20F@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27275

```
Whats it to ya, floppy titty?

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> Didya read up on that, too, little Dicky?
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:3C18355D.1A5DAFC8@townsqr.com...
> >
> >
> > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > > K0HB wrote:
> > > >
> > > > A foreign terrorist, who openly has
> > > > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> > > > to destroy our homeland and our way of > > > > life, has no right to protection under our > > > > Constitution. None.
> > >
> > > It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also > > > international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most > > > countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he > > > actually does.
> > >
> > > > It is God's responsibility to judge Bin > > > > Laden. It is our responsibility to > > > > arrange the meeting.
> > >
> > > Spoken like a patriot, Hans. Our forefathers would be proud of such > sentiments.
> > >
> > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> >
> > Our forefathers would have pronounced you a nutcase long ago.
> >
```

4279. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 06:32:32 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C198FB6.60B5A043@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27276

Robert Casey wrote:

> K0HB wrote:
>
> > >
> > >
> > > Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really need > > > to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just > > > doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad idea.
> > >
>
> A major reason for the way the FCC and other countries do up their > rules is the ease of enforcement. Why do they say have extra only > subbands instead of say power level restrictions? Because someone > at an FCC field site operating a receiver can easily see what frequency
> you are on, where he can't really tell how much power you're putting > out. For all he knows, you might just have a small rig and a yagi > pointed at him.

You have just given a description of how the FCC would reason if they were making the rules today, instead of 35 year ago. That was not, however, the thinking at the time.

4280. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 06:35:24 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C199063.97E01764@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27277

CAM wrote:

> "Leland C. Scott" wrote:
> > Saw this on a Tee-shirt:
> >
> > "I am a bomb technician. If you see > > me running, try to keep up. "
>
> Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> "If only these were brains".

Would that be topless "Nothing above the neck" Kim?

4281. Re: AMP SALE

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 07:15:18 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1999BC.A616373@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27278

Jim Kelley wrote:

> Is there any way the r.r.a.p. newsgroup server could be configured in a > smart enough way as to filter-out posts that also have CB newsgroups in > the header?
> Seems a reasonable thing to do.
>

I don't know, but if you can imagine a time when there was NONE of this sort of trash, instead of a world pervaded with it, you can begin to understand why some of us who've been around a long time are so distressed about where it has gone.

Dick

>
> "\"Train\" cbmods"@optonlineNOSPAM.com wrote:
> >
> > In article <lm1S7.12683$161.5428397@news02.optonline.net>, Train > > <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com> writes:
> > >I guess we'll see how many losers there are who will reply to this > > >troll.......and a FAKED troll at that.
> > >My IP is static at 128.******
> > >Have fun with it!
> > >Train
> >
> > Let me clarify something. The original posts are NOT fake as you can see > > below. They are VERY real. Do a search and you will see. I've been very > > NAUGHTY this year :)
> >
> > Train
> >
> > --
> >
> > Subject: Re: Question Fer Dick M.
> > Date: Sat, 16 Jun 2001 11:50:00 GMT
> > From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
> > Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
> >
> > darn it........I have newsranger blocked and missed this post so I'll > > address it now...........Eat shit and die! Who sells what or who's buying is > > of no concern to you.......You just need a reason to cry like the little > > child you are. Grow up! Your little click isn't going to even put a dent in > > what gets sold for CB radio legal or otherwise.
> > Being in radio as long as I have and knowing the people I know........It's > > going to be a long long time before slime like you will ever be able to do a > > damned thing to anyone selling radio stuff. I have more radio info on CD's > > and a larger database than most of you clowns would ever dream of and if > > need be ALL WILL BE PUT ON A WEBSITE. Everything from schematics for amps > > that we were building in the 70's and 80's to every last page of master > > editions.....secret cb.....green, gray, black books.....You name it and > > I got it. Nothing you sleazy little shits can do will EVER stop people from > > getting information they need. Bet on it!

> >
> > --
> > Train
> > tra1n@aol.com
> > cbmods@optonline.com
> > train@cbmods.com
> >
> > ==================================
> >
> > Subject: MOBIL AMP SALE
> > Date: Sat, 14 Apr 2001 19:09:40 GMT
> > From: "Train" <cbmods@optonline.net>
> > Newsgroups: rec.radio.cb
> >
> > As a public service to the NG, I will be offering to sell mobil amps to > > those wishing to buy them. This is not done out of greed but out of > > necessity to thwart the losers in the NG who think they have taken over OUR > > nice little group and can use it to harass and belittle as they see fit. To > > offer sale of these items is just the thing needed in a public forum to mess > > with these nil-minded simpletons. Amps such as Texas Star, Palomar, Cobra, > > Messenger, Gray, Galaxy, X-Force and so on. These will be sold for a limited > > time and at a VERY small profit IF ANY !
> >
> > This is not a money thing so much as it is an access thing.
> >
> > Since these self appointed radio/computer gods have declared knowledge an > > illegal thing also, I might just make the entire Secret CB book series > > available on CD along with a CD of amplifier schematics for base and mobil > > amps. Why is it that when these morons just think they are getting somewhere > > in their fight somebody like me comes along and pisses on their parade?
> > BECAUSE THEY NEED IT AND DESERVE IT!!!!!!!!!
> >
> > E-Mail me with your needs......
> > Train
> > tra1n@aol.com
> > train@cbmods.com
> > cbmods@optonline.net
> >
> > ============================
> >
> > From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> > Date: Sun, May 20, 2001 5:59 PM
> > Message-id: <5CTN6.10757$MR1.2346125@news02.optonline.net>

> >
> > I have no use for or reason to operate legally.
> >
> > There are thousands of us who will continue to operate as we see fit without > > regard to whatever some schmuck like you or your little click of > > over-opinionated morons have to say about it. You can cry all you like but > > those of us who can, will and those of you who can't......Will continue to > > cry about it.
> > Train
> >
> > ========================
> > Subject: Re: Ameritron AL80A
> > From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> > Date: Fri, Jun 22, 2001 11:40 AM
> > Message-id: <n8GY6.43556$Lk1.4150780@news02.optonline.net>
> >
> > "Gary" <gharrel101@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> > news:9gm24u$34ju$1@newssvr05-en0.news.prodigy.com...
> > > I have an Ameritron AL80A. How can I modify it for use on 11 Meters? It > > > has the ability to tune to the high end of 10 Meters. Any information > > >would be useful.
> >
> > You Know damn well it can be easily done.......Breakout that golden > > screwdriver and get to it!
> >
> > --
> > Train
> > tra1n@aol.com
> > cbmods@optonline.com
> > train@cbmods.com
> >
> > ==
> >
> > Subject: Re: RCI 2990 For Sale
> > From: "Train" cbmods@optonline.net
> > Date: Thu, Jul 12, 2001 12:48 PM
> > Message-id: <K0h37.32$qs5.155619@news02.optonline.net>
> >
> > Get a friggin life you loser!
> > You have got to be the most lame useless pile-o-shit we have in the group.
> > We all know your BS line by now and I for one am sick of your fascist
> > bullshit!
> >
> > Blow your FCC crap out your ass!
> >
> > --
> > Train
> > tra1n@aol.com
> > cbmods@optonline.com
> > train@cbmods.com

> >
> > ----- Posted via NewsOne.Net: Free (anonymous) Usenet News via the Web -----
> > http://newsone.net/ -- Free reading and anonymous posting to 60,000+ groups
> > NewsOne.Net prohibits users from posting spam. If this or other posts
> > made through NewsOne.Net violate posting guidelines, email abuse@newsone.net

4282. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB Gear

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 07:20:08 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C199ADF.9E357213@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27279

K0HB wrote:

> N9NWO says:
>
> > And are you a police officer? Are you
> > an attorney? NO. You are a Private > > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact > > with the current system.
> >
> > Understand this. The police and the > > military are your superiors. Their lives > > are far more valuable than yours.
>
> If this is your true opinion, then you are indeed a dangerous > person and I earnestly pray that you are not in _ANY_ > position, even a part-time school crossing guard, which > allows you to assert your "authority". If you are in such a > position, then the citizens of your community should consider > the risk they have placed themselves in by your continued > service in any capacity of authority.
>
> The police and military have my respect and gratitude (and > I spent 21 years bearing arms to protect America), but they > are not superior to any other citizen. Period.
>

The outfit I worked for had as its motto "Service and Protection".
Most all who worked there stayed pretty close to that theme, at least in the absence of unusally adverse circmstances. Of course the guard has changed there, too, but I'd like to believe that most public servants still think they really are just that.

4283. ARNewsline 1269 - Dec 7 2001

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 10:41:02 UTC
From: radionews@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214054102.07244.00000339@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27280

AMATEUR RADIO NEWSLINE(tm) REPORT #1269 - DEC 7, 2001

Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1269 with a release date of Friday, December 7, 2001 to follow in 5-4-3-2-1.

The following is a Q-S-T.

The FCC says no to a Winter Olympics special call sign and a new Extra class exam starts next summer. Learn what's in it on Amateur Radio Newsline report number 1269 coming your way right now.

(Billboard Cart Here)

**

THE 2002 WINTER OLYMPICS: FCC SAYS NO TO SPECIAL CALL SIGN

An idea for a special events call sign to celebrate the 2002 Winter Olympics has drawn a negative response from the FCC. Tom Schaefer, NY4I, of Sandy, Utah, had requested that the agency allow amateurs Utah hams to substitute the number 2002 or 02 for the 7 in their callsign. This, for the time period preceding and up to though the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City. But after mulling it over for a few months the Schaefer says the agency responded with a definite no:

--
Schaefer Here:
In-Q: I wrote a letter...
Out-Q:...as a different prefix.

The letter to Schaefer was signed by D'wana R. Terry. Terry is Chief of the Public Safety and Private Wireless Division of the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau. Among the reasons Terry stated in refusing the special call sign request was that the block of special event callsigns requested did not fall into the commission's special event callsign format. Also, that the request was inconsistent with International Radio Regulations. Schaefer says that he is disappointed at the FCC decision to deny, and also a bit surprised:

--
Schaefer Here
In-Q: The letter I...
Out-Q:...unable to do that.

Does this mean that there will be no ham radio involvement in the 2002 Winter Olympic Games? Not by a long shot. According to Schaefer members of the local ARES groups will be assisting in providing communications for the event. And there’s a good chance that someone will pick up the ball and get some sort of special call sign using the established call sign administrator program.

By the way, you can hear more with Tom Schaefer NY4I about ham radio at the Winter Olympics on this weeks RAIN Report. Its on the web in Real Audio and Windows Media at www.rainreport.com and by telephone at 847-827-7246. That’s 847-827-RAIN. (ARNewsline(tm))

**

THE ARCTIC WINTER GAMES

Another event called the Arctic Winter Games are also in their planning stages. In this case, ham radio is an important part of the event. Q-New Graham Kemp, VK4BB, tells us the who, the what and the where:

--
Greenland and the call-sign OX1AWG is on the air from Nuuk Greenland as a participant of the Arctic Winter Games going to be held in Iqaluit Nunavit and Nuuk Greenland 17th - 23rd of March 2002.

OX3HX, Rene tells us any Hams bringing a valid License original will be welcome to use the local club station OX3NUK for a small fee. If you would like to have your own OX3-call, ship a copy of the license but they need to have the papers 3 weeks in advance. Hams who like to operate OX/Home call or OX1AWG are welcome too, and have only to show up with original valid license.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, Im Graham Kemp, VK4BB, of Q-News Australia.
--

For those planning to visit Greenland for the games, Rene Witkowsky, OX3HX will be available at one of the many Help Booths around the city. (Q-News)

**

DX RECORD: 73 KHZ DISTANCE RECORD INCREASED

Yet another new low frequency record has been achieved on the 73 kHz band. Jeramy Boot, G4NJH, has more:

--
“On the 21st of November, just before midnight UTC, W1TAG received extremely slow CW from G3AQC. This was the first time that a complete callsign had been copied, though partial calls were identified the previous night.

The opening lasted around two hours and was the culmination of several weeks of testing. At a distance of 5291 kilometers, G3AQC smashed his own record of 4408 kilometers when his 73kHz transmissions were received by VE1ZJ last June. He was running 200 milliwatts ERP.

The transmission was in Differential Frequency CW, where the dots and dashes are the same length but on slightly different frequencies, and with no space between them.

Jeramy Boot, G4NJH”
--

The Differential Frequency C-W communications system used for this contact holds the promise of extending this record even further. (GB2RS)

**

BREAK 1

This is ham radio news coming to you from the United States of America. We are the Amateur Radio Newsline, heard on great bulletin stations around the world this week honoring the Antelope Valley Amateur Radio Club Wednesday Night Net serving Lancaster California.

(5 sec pause here)

**

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: EXPEDITION 4 HEADS TO THE ISS

Amateur Radio is keeping an eye one space this week. On the International Space Station to be more exact, as we witness a changing if the guard. The third group of Astronauts and Cosmonauts headed by Frank Culbertson, is getting ready to come home. They’ll be back on Earth December 16th, after being in orbit since last August.

Expedition 4, Yuri Orufrienko, Dan Bursch and Carl Walz will take over and be up there until next May. Onufrienko once operated from the Mir Space Station; Bursch is KD5PNU and Walz is KC5TIE. So hams can look forward to contacts with them.

Amateur Radio on the International Space Station; ARISS; will continue on the air with two meter voice and packet. Voice contacts with schools all over the world have been well served and those exciting contacts will continue at a rate of one or two a week once the new crew settles in.

In addition to operating ham gear, the new crew has also carried new Amateur Radio antennas to the station. They were designed and built in Italy to Russian specifications, then space-qualified and shipped to the United States.

The Astronauts plan at least eight space walks, two of which will be used to install those antennas outside the crew quarters. They should provide a wide range of frequencies and vastly improved coverage of the ham bands for the ARISS station.

The space station call, while flying over the United States is NA1SS. The 2 meter downlink frequency is 145.80 MHz. Look for the new crew on the air from orbit in the near future. ARNewsline(tm))

**

HAM RADIO TESTING IN THE USA: NEW EXTRA CLASS EXAM QUESTION POOL RELEASED

If you are planning to upgrade to Extra class, now might be the time to do it. This is because a new and somewhat more difficult Extra Class exam will go into effect next summer. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Norm Seeley, KI7UP, has the details:

--
The National Conference of Volunteer Examiner Coordinators Question Pool Committee has released a revised and expanded set of Element 4 Amateur Extra questions. Use of these questions begins next summer and replace the current Extra class question pool released back on April 15, 2000. That’s the day Amateur Radio ''restructuring'' became effective.

The new Element 4 pool expands the number of questions by more than 20 percent. The new test pool has 806 questions as opposed to 665 in the current Extra class pool. It also contains more technical material. In fact, more than half of the questions cover electrical principles, circuits, signals and emissions.

The 50 questions in an Extra class examination are drawn from the question pool. FCC rules say that an applicant must correctly answer at least 37 questions of the 50 to receive a passing grade.

The new Extra class question pool becomes effective July 1, 2002, and must be used to generate all Extra class written examinations administered on or after that date. The questions are available on the ARRL Web site and will remain valid through June 30, 2005.

For the Amateur Radio Newsline, I’m Norm Seeley, KI7UP.
--

The Question Pool Committee now will turn its attention to developing an outline for the Technician class Element 2 question pool. A draft version is scheduled for public release and comment next spring. The ARRL website address is http://www.arrl.org/arrlvec/pools.html to find the Question Pool. (ARRL Bulletin, NCVEC)

**

HAM RADIO TESTING IN THE U-K: UPGRADING MORSE TESTS UNDERWAY

Meantime overseas, the United Kingdom is in the process of administering a lot of slow speed Morse code exams. This, following the an announcement by that nations telecommunications agency that U-K Full and Intermediate Class B license-holders can operate on the High Frequency bands under the new Foundation license by simply passing a code test.

Called a Morse Assessment exam, the Radio Society of Great Britain is arranging for sessions to be held nation-wide. The RSGB hopes that at least two sessions per region will take place between now and the end of December.

The RSGB says that these tests are open to both members and non-members of the society. So far twelve sites have been approved for training and testing of the new U-K Foundation License. (GB2RS)

**

ENFORCEMENT: AMATEUR RADIO ROAD RAGE MUST STOP

The FCC's chief ham radio rules enforcer has told those attending the Ft. Wayne Indiana Hamfest that the time for on the air arguments has come to an end. Riley Hollingsworth, the FCC's Special Counsel for Amateur Radio enforcement told the forum that Amateur Radio road rage must stop now and that the bickering on our frequencies can do nothing but hurt Amateur Radio in the long run.

Hollingsworth also says its time for more hams to get involved in public service. Jack Parker, W8ISH, of Amateur News Weekly, has that part of the story:

--
"Hollingsworth says that it is now time for hams to use frequencies responsibly. He adds that now, more than ever, is the best time for all Amateur Radio groups to seek out and establish working relationships with local emergency response agencies.

Since September 11th, Amateur Radio and its potential has moved into a prominent position on the national front. But he stresses that we must move quickly at a local level to establish our place in the overall emergency response plan.

Reporting from the Ft. Wayne Hamfest, for amateur News Weekly, I'm Jack Parker, W8ISH."
--

Hollingsworth's views are echoed by many who are already involved in organizing ham radio emergency communications on a local level. They say you can never have to many well trained volunteers. (Amateur News Weekly)

**

SPECTRUM USE: FCC OPENS UP MORE SPECTRUM TO COMMERCIAL USERS

The government has moved to eliminate a cap on how much spectrum any one wireless company can own in a given market. The decision opens the way for mergers between major carriers and allows them to provide more mobile services such as high-speed Internet access.

The Federal Communications Commission had previously limited the amount of spectrum that an operator could own in a particular geographic area, in an effort to prevent a single giant company from squelching competition in that market. But in a recent 3 to 1 vote, the agency decided to immediately raise the amount of bandspace a company can own from 45 MHz to 55 MHz. This is an increase of more than 20 percent. The FCC plans to completely eliminate the limit in January 2003. (FCC)

**

HAMVENTION 2002: TIME TO NOMINATE REMINDER

Another reminder that the Dayton Amateur Radio Association has opened the nominating period for the 2002 Dayton Hamvention Awards. There are three awards presented each year. They are the Radio Amateur of the Year, Special Achievement, and Technical Excellence.

All amateurs Novice through Extra are eligible. Awards are decided by the Awards Committee, based partially upon the information received. Magazine articles, newsletters, newspaper clippings, videos and the like are appreciated but cannot be returned. The deadline for nominations is January 31, 2002. Nominations can be submitted by US Mail to Post Office Box 964, Dayton Ohio 45401 or by completing the convenient e-form on the web at www.hamvention.org. (DARA)

**

NEW HAM TECHNOLOGY: THE ELECRAFT RIG CONCEPT DESIGN CONTEST

Want to design the ham rig of the future and maybe win a prize? Well, Elecraft says that it will be giving three of its new EC1 project enclosures to those who submit the most interesting suggested designs concepts.
--
Eric Swartz WA6HQQ: “There’s quite a strong building and homebrewing community inside of the QRP’ers -- the low power operators -- these days. In fact, that is how we got our start.

We have broadened our audience past that and have pulled a lot of hams from the mainstream higher power groups to it also, but those guys (the QRP operators - ed.) build an awful lot of stuff. We are continually seeing folks talking about new project ideas and new things to design. It is quite a fertile group of people so I think we are just kind of servicing that need.”
--

Elecraft says its taking this rather unusual step to away to help stimulate the creative process within the ham radio community. According to Elecraft’s Wayne Burdick, N6KR and Eric Swartz, WA6HHQ, design concepts submitted can be for virtually any ham-related application, but they must be compatible with the Elecraft EC1 enclosure. The EC1 is the same size and color as the K1 transceiver. No schematics are required and designers are under no obligation or expectation to actually build the proposed projects. More information on this unique design contest along with all the rules is on the web at www.elecraft.com. (Elecraft)

**

ELECTRONIC BUSINESS: AILING POLOROID FILES CHAPTER 11

Polaroid has been known to generations of consumers for its instant cameras and film, and more recently as a supplier of digital imaging products. Now Poloroid has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection.

According to news reports, the company was unable to keep up with the new digital technologies of the photography world. It also has struggled with nearly $1 billion in debt. (Published reports)

**

BREAK 2

News never goes home for the holidays and neither do we. We are the amateur Radio Newsline with links to the world at our only official website - www.arnewsline.org.

**

EMERGING TECHNOLOGY: BRAIN DISEASE SUPERCOMPUTER

The University of California at San Diego will coordinate a consortium of interests banding together to build the first nationwide computer network for studying diseases of the brain. The network will enable researchers to share information on neurological diseases such as multiple sclerosis, schizophrenia, Alzheimer's disease and Parkinson's disease. The National Center for Research Resources, part of the National Institutes of Health, awarded the consortium more than $20 million for the project, which will enable researchers to share brain images via a high-speed network. (UCSD release)

**

HAM RADIO IN SPACE: FREE UPDATED TRACKING SOFTWARE

An updated version of the PREDICT satellite tracking and orbital prediction program is now available. This latest updated corrects some errors that have caused instability under certain conditions in the past. The program's documentation has also been updated, and new versions in Portable Document File and HTML have been added. PREDICT is free software.

The latest DOS version may be downloaded from ftp://ftp.amsat.org/amsat/software/PC/tracking/predict2.zip >. Further information on PREDICT software is available at http://www.qsl.net/kd2bd/predict.html.

Also, new Linux version is currently being prepared for release as well. (KD2BD)

**

INTERNATIONAL - SOUTH AFRICA: NO HT’S IN THIS CAR

Radio Amateurs in South Africa can no longer use a hand held radio in a vehicle unless its attached to a hands free operating system. This is the result of a new law that says that no person will drive a vehicle on a public road while holding a cellular telephone or any other communications device in one or both hands.

To operate mobile, hams and non hams alike now must use a radio permanently mounted in the vehicle and adapted to hands free operation. The law permits mobile radio operators to use such devices as a permanently mounted microphone and speaker or other specialized gear to comply. (SARL, Q-News)

**

INTERNATIONAL-UK: MARCONI 100TH ANNIVERSARY

The 100th anniversary of the reception of the first trans-Atlantic radio signal by Guilermo Marconi at Signal Hill in St. John's, Newfoundland, takes place on Wednesday the December 12th. In celebration, a number of United Kingdom special event stations will be active to commemorate the event.

Most of the operations will take place on the 12th of December itself. Even Great Britain’s Radiocommunications Agency is getting into the act. It will be operating GB100WT from its laboratory site at Whyteleafe, Surrey, during part of December including, they hope, the full 24 hours of the 12th of December. The Radiocommunications Agency expects to be operational on the High Frequency bands as well as 2 meters and 70 centimeters. The station will be operated by Radiocommunications Agency staff in addition to members of local radio clubs and will welcome QSOs with stations worldwide. (RSGB)

**

RADIOSPORTS: WRTC-2002 REMINDER AND UPDATE

A reminder that the next World Team Radiosport Championship will take place next July in Finland. The games will be hosted by the Finnish Amateur Radio Society and the Contest Club of Finland. WRTC brings together over fifty two man teams made up of the best contest operators from around the world. The actual on-the-air competition pits two man teams operating from a common geographic area using identical equipment, power and antennas.

To get a good idea of what goes on at the World Radiosport Team Championship games, film-maker Dave Bell has produced a half hour documentary video titled “The Ham Radio Olympics.” Its priced at only $19.95 and is available on video CD or VHS tape from the American Radio Relay League. More information is on the web at www.arrl.org. (WRTC, ARRL, W6AQ)

**

DX

In D-X, word that wore torn Afghanistan is back on the air following the ouster of Taliban forces from most of that nation. Q-News Graham Kemp, VK4BB, is back with the details:
--
Graham Kemp VK4BB:

“World traveller Peter Casier, ON6TT (5X1T), has been in Afghanistan for the last few days and has now obtained permission to operate in this worn torn nation.

On November 21 he was QRV as YA/ON6TT/M operating in a convoy. The foreign ministry of the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan (Northern Alliance) issued the call YA5T, which can be used on all bands by Peter, ON6TT, Matts, SM7PKK, and Robert, S53R.

Wayne Mills, N7NG, will have to look at the permission, once it is received. His initial reaction was that it should be good for DXCC. Peter will hopefully be contacting Wayne and submitting the documentation. Meantime, look out for these three operating as YA5T.”
--

And late word from the ARRL’s DXCC Desk is that it has already received acceptable documentation for YA5T and has approved it for credit. (Q-News)

Several DX newsletters report that N6TJ is active as ZD8Z from Ascension Island again. He is expected to be there through the 18th of December. QSL as directed on the air. (OPDX, Modern DX’er)

Lastly, word that high seas have forced the Ducie Island DXpedition team to abandon its already-delayed effort to reach that DXCC entity located in the South Pacific. According to the RSGB, the team was some 80 nautical miles from its destination and facing high seas when the decision was taken to turn around and head back to Pitcairn Island. (GB2RS)

**

THAT FINAL ITEM: STRANGE SCIENCE - FAT BIRDS FLY BETTER

About twice a year we bring you stories about radio tagged migratory birds. In most cases its those ever elusive Burrowing Owls. Now we have a totally different kind of bird story. It still involves radio tracking, but this time to see if bigger birds or smaller birds have a better chance to survive in flight. Amateur Radio Newsline’s Joe Moell, KO0V has more:

--
European scientists have discovered what seems like a contradiction about migrating birds. They found that the fatter the bird, the more efficiently it appears to fly.

Researchers at Lund University in Sweden have studied several small species including the Red Knot. In our hemisphere, these 20-ounce wading shorebirds travel 18,000 miles every year, to the tip of South America and back to the Arctic. On the way north, they stop on the shores of New Jersey to feast on the eggs of horseshoe crabs, to build up energy for the last 2000 miles of their northward trip, which they make non-stop. On these binges, the Red Knots can double their normal body weight.

Over the past few years a number of European Red Knots were radio tagged and tracked by the Swedes as they prepared for a similar trip between the British Isles and the Russian Arctic. The study indicates that building up of fat deposits to be burned as fuel during the migration is more than worth the energy that it takes to carry the additional weight. The heavier birds apparently use their muscles more efficiently. Just why this is so remains a mystery. Even stranger is that the results seem to 'fly in the face' of a central theory of aerodynamics -- no pun intended of course.

So what does this have to do with ham radio? Well, it points out that research always seems to yield unexpected results, and it gives me a chance to remind you that dozens of ham operators in western states are listening for the VHF radio tags on endangered Burrowing Owls this winter. You could help out too. Find out by visiting my Web site -- www.homingin.com. Who knows, maybe a ham will make a similar startling discovery about the migration habits of these unique critters. That's homingin -- one word -- for the Web site, homingin.com.

For Amateur Radio Newsline, in southern California, this is Joe Moell - K-zero-Oscar-Victor saying, "no jokes about birdbrains, please."
--

All of this really goes to show that the more mankind uses science to discover the secrets of Mother Nature, the more amazed man is at what he learns. (Ecology Today)

**

NEWSCAST CLOSE

With thanks to Alan Labs, Amateur News Weekly, AMSAT, the ARRL, the CGC Communicator, CQ Magazine, the FCC, the Ohio Penn DX Bulletin, Radio Netherlands, Rain, the RSGB and Australia's Q-News, that's all from the Amateur Radio Newsline(tm). Our e-mail address is newsline@arnewsline.org. More information is available at Amateur Radio Newsline's(tm) only official website located at www.arnewsline.org. You can also write to us or support us at Amateur Radio Newsline(tm), P.O. Box 660937, Arcadia, California 91066.

For now, with Bill Pasternak, WA6ITF, at the editors desk, I'm Roy Neal, K6DUE, saying God Bless America, 73, and we thank you for listening." Amateur Radio Newsline(tm) is Copyright 2001. All rights reserved.

4284. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 11:08:09 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <t4lS7.222101$3d2.10468010@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27281

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:3C1989C8.464DC3DD@townsqr.com...
>
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> > Rick Adams wrote:
> > > You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to > > > legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for > > > production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we > > > want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an > > > automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a > > > renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily > > > extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
> > > Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > > > organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress > > > to legalize it as a cash crop.
> >
> > You've got one of those suits made entirely from hemp, don't you Rick.
> > ;-)
>
> Doncha think he has already smoked it all up, a few threads at a time??
>

While I don't see hemp as the solution to all problems known and unknown you do have to admit present laws have only had the effect of producing some very potent pot. With it growing wild thru this area the only real danger to civilization is the kids trying to dry it in a pillow case down at the local laundromat. Sets the lint trap on fire.

4285. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 12:24:53 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214072453.04232.00000125@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27282

>Subject: Re: some sobering numbers
>From: "Hans Brakob" k0hb@qwest.net
>Date: 12/13/2001 11:27 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <f2003cbd80736c14924aa5ab674bb54c.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>

>Even if he was not involved >in the 9-11 events, he is still a soldier in the army we are >at war with, therefor he need only appear in someones crosshairs.

"Honest, Sir...He had surrendered and we were coming in REAAAAL peaceful like and his head just exploded!"

4286. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB Gear

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 12:27:01 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214072701.04232.00000126@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27283

>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB Gear
>From: "K0HB" K0HB@bitbucket73.com
>Date: 12/13/2001 4:34 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <u$SQ3YChBHA.1868@cpimsnntpa02>

> ...(and
>I spent 21 years bearing arms to protect America...

An authority freak like that is probably arming bears, Hans...Watch out!1

73

Steve, K4YZ

4287. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 13:03:03 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214080303.01870.00000308@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27285

In article <i85R7.290107$W8.9721109@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
>>
>> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with >soft >> cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".
>
>And, of course, they had some sweet little old lady sitting there taking the
>'abuse'...

Quite comfy, really.
>
>> Also worthy of a peek are the "Blackadder" series....
>
>"I have a cunning plan, my lord..."

Just don't say "Macbeth"...
>
>also poetry...
>
>"Row row row your boat
> Gently down the stream
> Belts off, trousers down,
> Isn't life a scream!"
>
>and...
>
>EDMUND
>a poem by Queenie*
>
>When the night is dark,
>And the dogs go 'bark';
>When the clouds are black,
>And the ducks go 'quack';
>When the sky is blue,
>And the cows go 'mooo';
>Think of lovely Queenie,
>She'll be thinking of you.
>
>(* William Shakespeare helped with the title)

BALDRICK!!
>

>I was going to quote my favorite... but the shmucks around here wouldn't >like the use of that word... ;-)

What word?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4288. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 13:03:04 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214080304.01870.00000309@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27286

In article <T96R7.290152$W8.9725945@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>> For nice examples of near-current media surrealism:
>>
>> - The TV series "Ally McBeal" has done some really good stuff with >> special effects expressing how the characters feel. The earlier >> seasons had more of this.
>>
>> - Just saw the film "Amelie" which has some great cinematic surreal >> touches.
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>Unfortunately, Ally McBeal in general has slid off the scale into the >toilet.

Or the hole.

Which is why I recommend the early seasons over the recent ones.

There is a neat website (I think it's www.jumpthe shark.com) where TV series of all vintages are analyzed for when they "jumped the shark" (meaning when they went from good to bad). "Ally" was dealt a real blow by the drug problems of RDJ, forcing a sudden change in scripts and story direction.

--

Go see "Amelie". Not a lot of surrealism, but excellently done.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4289. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 13:03:05 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214080305.01870.00000310@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27284

In article <3C168F04.48FC283B@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> There's also the "BANANA" idea that is one
>> cause of California's electricity troubles.
>> ("BANANA" = "Build Absolutely Nothing >> Anywhere Near Anything")
>
>
> I'm still waiting for California to fall into the ocean - that will really >end >their electricity troubles. :-)
>
Be warned - other states are "deregulating" electricity. Hopefully, they are learning from CA's mistakes.

Look what happened to Enron.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4290. It's Time To Demand A Re-Vamp of the FCC

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 13:34:29 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214083429.04232.00000127@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27287

After careful consideration of several events lately, I think it's time to start approaching our representatives and demand that a "kinder, gentler" FCC be replaced by the autocratic nonsense that proliferates today.

The FCC of today is a joke. In this authors opinion, it has a long way to go to pull itself out of the shoulder-shrugging, responsibility shirking, hand-washing, pass-the-buck attitude of the 70's and 80's.

First of all, the below cited item is one of the "could have said yes but said no "because we can"" instances where the FCC is just a bit too impressed with itself to cooperate with the users of the spectrum.

QUOTE: (from ARNewsline)

THE 2002 WINTER OLYMPICS: FCC SAYS NO TO SPECIAL CALL SIGN

An idea for a special events call sign to celebrate the 2002 Winter Olympics has drawn a negative response from the FCC. Tom Schaefer, NY4I, of Sandy, Utah, had requested that the agency allow amateurs Utah hams to substitute the number 2002 or 02 for the 7 in their callsign. This, for the time period preceding and up to though the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City. But after mulling it over for a few months the Schaefer says the agency responded with a definite no:

UNQUOTE

Never mind that even third-world nations do that very thing (allow temproary changes in calls for Olympic events, or that it would have not required anything more than a blanket STA for the period requested...Heck no...Why allow Amateurs to celebrate one of the truly (or at least as close as it will ever get) de-politicised international events that we can take pride in? ESPECIALLY in the wake of recent events... ! ! !

Example: "We, the FCC, hereby allow any licensed Amateur Radio Operator living within the State of Utah to substitute the figures "2002" for the number "7" in thier callsign for the period of (dates of the event) in recognition of the Olympics. Operators residing in Utah with a numeral other than "7" may substitute thier numeral with the original numeral plus "02", ie K4YZ would be K402YZ. Only stations with a permanent mailing address in Utah may participate. Have a nice day".

See how easy that was? Took some GS-5 stenographer 2 minutes to type up and another 30 minutes to get posted to the Federal Register or other authorized media.

Second is my aversion to the FCC being allowed to exert it's Victorian opinions on who they consider to be of "good character" to be a "Commission Licensee"...I speak of persons who may have commited a crime in the past, NOT related to radio, and are now prohibited or are sanctioned in thier quest for a license, regardless of which radio service it may be in.

I was always of the opinion and understanding that once time was served, one's "debt to society" was paid and they were reassimilated into that society. We are obviously NOT that society if we continue to punish people AFTER their time is served.

Next is my concern on the Agency's obvious lack of concern on maintaining a balance between the needs of ALL citizens versus corporations which would seek to make a profit from the finite resources of the electromagnetic spectrum. Again, this author does not believe that the FCC always acts in the best interests of the citizenry, but rather manufacturers and other corporate entities who can talk the smoother line.

Evidence the FRS and MURS services, the 220-222mHz debacle, and the recent attempt to liberalize Part 15 radiation limits. NONE of these acts were mandated by the needs of industry to meet an ongoing consumer need...they were done to provide the opportunity to CREATE a market for thier wares.

THAT is wrong.

Next, I would like to know how the FCC comes up with these horrific fines. While I will be the first to demand that violators be punished and sanctioned, even those acts should be within reason and by the order of a court AFTER due process of law...NOT because the FCC says "Because I Said So"....NAL's are un-Constitutional, in my non-law-school opinion.

Lastly, I object in no uncertain terms to the passing of responsibility of radiocommunication regulatory enforcement to agencies OTHER than the FCC or other appropriately trained federal agency. (ie: local police or sheriff's agencies) Yes, local police should have the authority to intervene in cases where a CLEAR AND PRESENT DANGER exists...to me, this means some jerk jamming local emergency services, navigation aids or law enforcement communications, or being able to take action against persons who are using radio to commit felonies or actively harass other citizens. This would be no more different than a cop arresting someone who just buzzed the Mayor's house. The FAA regulates avaition, but no one would dare suggest that a threat to safety was inappropriate for local law enforcement to take action on.

As much as I would like to see the "freeband" mess cleaned up, the passing of laws that allows local law enforcement to do this is wrong. As pointed out by others, it is just one more obligation that already over-burdened officers must now familiarize themselves with, and leaves the door open for misunderstanding and confusion with law abiding users of the radio spectrum.

There are other matters that I see occuring with the FCC that give me cause, both as a licensee and as a citizen, to be concerned for the welfare of spectrum management within the United States. It's time to clean house.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4291. Re: It's Time To Demand A Re-Vamp of the FCC

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 13:38:05 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214083805.04232.00000128@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27288

>Subject: It's Time To Demand A Re-Vamp of the FCC
>From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
>Date: 12/14/2001 7:34 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <20011214083429.04232.00000127@mb-mw.aol.com>

A correction.....

>After careful consideration of several events lately, I think it's time to >start approaching our representatives and demand that a "kinder, gentler" FCC >be replaced by the autocratic nonsense that proliferates today.

Should read: "...a kinder, gentler FCC SHOULD replace the autocratic nonsense that proliferates today."

Sorry...

73

Steve, K4YZ

4292. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 15:04:44 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214100444.25913.00000991@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27289

In article <3C18E96D.42607287@uci.edu>, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> "What is the
>> correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the >> closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"
>
>Is this an essay question, or are you hoping for a numeric response????

Jim:

The former.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4293. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 15:04:44 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214100444.25913.00000990@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27290

In article <3C1985EF.B47466CB@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Dave Heil wrote:
>>
>> CAM wrote:
>> > Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who >> > simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a >> > PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson >> > on a technical basis.
>>
>> ...not as much as I'd like to see the famed Dr. Williamson in a 25 wpm
>> CW ragchew with Larry.
>
>I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?

Cecil:

I am incapable of manually sending/receiving CW at 100 wpm. If you're going to loan Doc Williamson a SCS PTC2e, then you would have to provide me with one also, in order to be fair. However, somehow I don't think you had fairness in mind -- did you?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4294. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 15:14:43 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1A1789.E7F94707@gte.net>
Source record: 27291
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >We give cops guns because their lives are more > >valuable.
>
> So a CHL makes the license holder more important?

There is a pecking order. Governors and mayors are the most valuable then powerful men then professionals
like doctors and lawyers. The Police are just under mayors.

Look there are so many elite who see the police and the military as a bunch of losers who are there to die for them. People like you who make huge amounts of money and live in big fancy houses. I have them in my community. The military is not allowed to recruit in the local high school as their kids are going to college and the military is for those who can't really make it.

People like you see themselves as too valuable to get their hands dirty. Sorry but your life is not worth that of a police officer, a fire fighter or a soldier.

4295. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 15:23:55 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <fQoS7.295266$W8.10167355@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27292

>> Dwight Stewart (W5NET) wrote:
>> All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a >> few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, >> wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic.

> Jim Kelley (AC6XG) replied:
> I guess Wiccans don't believe that the first two people on Earth all of > a sudden one day magically appeared here. Or that the wives of their > male progeny also somehow as if by magic, inexplicably appeared out of > thin air.

Nah, they know that kind of thing is just a technological trick done with Star-Trek-like matter transporters. ;-) Given Clarke's law ("Sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic"), and looking at what we do at the dawn of the 21st century with wireless telephones, computer networks and "smart" bombs, both the Wiccans and Christians of those early days would come away convinced that we are all consorting with the devil on a connect-time-minute by connect-time-minute basis.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4296. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 16:52:51 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1A2DD6.6F33A43C@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27293

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who > > > simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a > > > PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson > > > on a technical basis.
> >
> > ...not as much as I'd like to see the famed Dr. Williamson in a 25 wpm
> > CW ragchew with Larry.
>
> I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?

Probably as much as a basketball player likes some clown in cherry picker on the basketball court. Both are farcial.

Dave K8MN

4297. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 17:06:21 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1A2443.E09EDBF8@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27294
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

N9NWO wrote:

>Are you now saying anyone with a > > radio is being profiled?

>
> Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.

That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the same ones
the pilots use.
Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio because of Sept 11
is a paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those)
The terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.

Dick
Retired Public Safety communicater

4298. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 17:30:19 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <738D5A26AE5597D0.E9CC54C10A63B588.794A486E4664F819@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27295
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Fri, 14 Dec 2001 15:14:43 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>People like you who make huge amounts >of money and live in big fancy houses.

Shit! I must have been forgetting to pick up my paycheck for the last two months! And I guess it's time to evict the clog-dancing bitch that's been homesteading the upper floor of my big fancy house that looks a hell of a lot like a one-bedroom apartment.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4299. Re: It's Time To Demand A Re-Vamp of the FCC

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 17:35:58 UTC
From: paul harris <paul@sandwitch.org>
Message-ID: <4A8A59F2BDCDD311BFC800508BA36AC80BB3331B@www.premiersi.com>
Source record: 27298

So, what's stopping them from putting "/2002" on the end of their call?

"Steve Robeson K4YZ" <k4yz@aol.com> wrote in message news:20011214083429.04232.00000127@mb-mw.aol.com...
> After careful consideration of several events lately, I think it's time to > start approaching our representatives and demand that a "kinder, gentler"
FCC
> be replaced by the autocratic nonsense that proliferates today.
>
> The FCC of today is a joke. In this authors opinion, it has a long way to > go to pull itself out of the shoulder-shrugging, responsibility shirking, > hand-washing, pass-the-buck attitude of the 70's and 80's.
>
> First of all, the below cited item is one of the "could have said yes
but > said no "because we can"" instances where the FCC is just a bit too impressed > with itself to cooperate with the users of the spectrum.
>
> QUOTE: (from ARNewsline)
>
> THE 2002 WINTER OLYMPICS: FCC SAYS NO TO SPECIAL CALL SIGN
>
> An idea for a special events call sign to celebrate the 2002 Winter Olympics > has drawn a negative response from the FCC. Tom Schaefer, NY4I, of Sandy, > Utah, had requested that the agency allow amateurs Utah hams to substitute
the > number 2002 or 02 for the 7 in their callsign. This, for the time period > preceding and up to though the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City.
But > after mulling it over for a few months the Schaefer says the agency responded > with a definite no:
>
> UNQUOTE
>
> Never mind that even third-world nations do that very thing (allow > temproary changes in calls for Olympic events, or that it would have not > required anything more than a blanket STA for the period requested...Heck > no...Why allow Amateurs to celebrate one of the truly (or at least as close as > it will ever get) de-politicised international events that we can take pride > in? ESPECIALLY in the wake of recent events... ! ! !

>
> Example: "We, the FCC, hereby allow any licensed Amateur Radio Operator > living within the State of Utah to substitute the figures "2002" for the number
> "7" in thier callsign for the period of (dates of the event) in recognition of > the Olympics. Operators residing in Utah with a numeral other than "7" may > substitute thier numeral with the original numeral plus "02", ie K4YZ would be > K402YZ. Only stations with a permanent mailing address in Utah may > participate. Have a nice day".
>
> See how easy that was? Took some GS-5 stenographer 2 minutes to type
up > and another 30 minutes to get posted to the Federal Register or other > authorized media.
>
> Second is my aversion to the FCC being allowed to exert it's Victorian > opinions on who they consider to be of "good character" to be a "Commission
> Licensee"...I speak of persons who may have commited a crime in the past,
NOT > related to radio, and are now prohibited or are sanctioned in thier quest for a > license, regardless of which radio service it may be in.
>
> I was always of the opinion and understanding that once time was served, > one's "debt to society" was paid and they were reassimilated into that society.
> We are obviously NOT that society if we continue to punish people AFTER their > time is served.
>
> Next is my concern on the Agency's obvious lack of concern on maintaining > a balance between the needs of ALL citizens versus corporations which would > seek to make a profit from the finite resources of the electromagnetic > spectrum. Again, this author does not believe that the FCC always acts in
the > best interests of the citizenry, but rather manufacturers and other corporate > entities who can talk the smoother line.

>
> Evidence the FRS and MURS services, the 220-222mHz debacle, and the recent > attempt to liberalize Part 15 radiation limits. NONE of these acts were > mandated by the needs of industry to meet an ongoing consumer need...they were > done to provide the opportunity to CREATE a market for thier wares.
>
> THAT is wrong.
>
> Next, I would like to know how the FCC comes up with these horrific fines.
> While I will be the first to demand that violators be punished and sanctioned, > even those acts should be within reason and by the order of a court AFTER due > process of law...NOT because the FCC says "Because I Said So"....NAL's are > un-Constitutional, in my non-law-school opinion.
>
> Lastly, I object in no uncertain terms to the passing of responsibility of > radiocommunication regulatory enforcement to agencies OTHER than the FCC or > other appropriately trained federal agency. (ie: local police or sheriff's > agencies) Yes, local police should have the authority to intervene in cases > where a CLEAR AND PRESENT DANGER exists...to me, this means some jerk jamming
> local emergency services, navigation aids or law enforcement communications, or > being able to take action against persons who are using radio to commit > felonies or actively harass other citizens. This would be no more different > than a cop arresting someone who just buzzed the Mayor's house. The FAA > regulates avaition, but no one would dare suggest that a threat to safety
was > inappropriate for local law enforcement to take action on.
>
> As much as I would like to see the "freeband" mess cleaned up, the passing > of laws that allows local law enforcement to do this is wrong. As pointed out > by others, it is just one more obligation that already over-burdened officers > must now familiarize themselves with, and leaves the door open for > misunderstanding and confusion with law abiding users of the radio spectrum.
>
> There are other matters that I see occuring with the FCC that give me > cause, both as a licensee and as a citizen, to be concerned for the welfare of > spectrum management within the United States. It's time to clean house.

>
> 73
>
> Steve, K4YZ

4300. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 17:36:44 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1A38CF.DAA1D844@gte.net>
Source record: 27297
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

>
> >Are you now saying anyone with a
>
> > > radio is being profiled?
> >
> > Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.
>
> That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the same ones > the pilots use. Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio > because of Sept 11 is a paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those) The > terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should > be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.

Come up to Chicago and listen to the people
using ham gear to send CW number messages.
Speculation is that it is Serbs and Bosnians in the region doing some form of espionage. But then it could be the Nation of Islam.

And what if you were using ham gear to co-ordinate criminal activity? How is a cop going to know who you are, or if you are good guy or a bad guy? Every one a cops meets could be a criminal. He never knows.

4301. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 17:39:01 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1A395C.5B6948C3@gte.net>
Source record: 27296
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >People like you who make huge amounts > >of money and live in big fancy houses.
>
> Shit! I must have been forgetting to pick up my paycheck for the last > two months! And I guess it's time to evict the clog-dancing bitch > that's been homesteading the upper floor of my big fancy house that > looks a hell of a lot like a one-bedroom apartment.

Well, I live in a college town. With lots of people who have Ph.ds and masters degrees and see themselves as too valuable to serve in the military. That is for the "little people" to do. They honestly believe that the cops are there to die for them. As if they were the president or something.

4302. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 18:41:41 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1A47E5.B2BD7B02@uci.edu>
Source record: 27299

CAM wrote:
> I suspect Dwight is telling us, in so many words, that he has never > worked for a large successful technology company and is totally > ignorant of such.

Well, that's kinda what I got out of it. Personally, I can't imagine not being able to close the door when discussing a delicate topic with someone in the office.

(Intel being bery bery good, to me right now.)

4303. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 19:59:49 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gocbtjl.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27301
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:34:08 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
>to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the >courts settle. I have said this over and over. This >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
>a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the >chief's problem, and not theirs.

It becomes THEIR problem when (a) a civilian complaint is filed with the department for misconduct and (b) they are a named defendant in a Sect. 1983 suit - damages (and attorney fees) for violation of civil rights under color of authority.

All the LEOs whom I know (and I know a bunch - I am a retired Federal agent) are very concerned that they do not achieve that sort of "fame". It's a career-stopper and a wallet-emptier.

The watchword is "think twice before acting".

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

Retired and loving every minute of it....
Work was getting in the way of my hobbies

4304. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 19:59:52 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gocc9wm.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27300
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:45:11 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the >courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to >throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional >thing to do.

If he has questions the professional thing to do is to refer it to his supervisory manager - Sergeant, Lieutenant, Captain, all the way up the chain. Making those decisions was what we got paid the "big bucks" for. One of them either has the right answer or will get it from the on-call DA.

Been there - done that.

The ham will be very lucky if s/he is in Phoenix and the on-call DA is my "baby" brother who just happens to have the call sign KE7DX....

>And if some ham becomes an asshole and >argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.

Whatever works.....I used to just stand there and smile because I knew that I was right. That's what intensive training was all about.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4305. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 19:59:55 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gocdh9n.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27302
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 19:24:00 GMT, W6DKN wrote:

>> <<< SNIP >>
>> If I have a CB radio, I am federally licensed to operate that radio.
>> <<< SNIP >>>
>
>And when was this license issued? If it's legit, why are you not found in
>the FCC ULS?

CB is one of the Radio Services licensed by "blanket authorization" as specified in Section 307(e)(1) of the Comm Act rather than by individual licenses.

Operation in compliance with FCC Rules Part 95 is authorized without "individual licenses". At the discretion of the FCC, operation in violation of Part 95 may be considered "unlicensed operation".

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4306. Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 20:04:40 UTC
From: mike coslo <mjc5@psu.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1A5B59.75806518@psu.edu>
Source record: 27303

Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
things? 8^)

Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.

- mike -

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <i85R7.290107$W8.9721109@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:
>
> >> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
> >>
> >> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with > >soft
> >> cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".
> >>
> >And, of course, they had some sweet little old lady sitting there taking the > >'abuse'...
>

4307. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 20:56:42 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gocgvao.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27304
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Fri, 14 Dec 2001 17:36:44 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>Come up to Chicago and listen to the people
>using ham gear to send CW number messages.
>Speculation is that it is Serbs and Bosnians in >the region doing some form of espionage. But >then it could be the Nation of Islam.

The last time we DFed HF numbers station signals they turned out to be coming from a well-fenced and patrolled US military compound in Warrington, VA sending traffic for Guess-Who.

Your taxpayer dollars at work. Have they moved the facility ??

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4308. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:03:50 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <RJtS7.37105$AR6.1941461@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27305
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Hi Phil,
Nice to "see" you. Can't disagree with you--especially the very LAST statement you made.
It applies to me as well. Nothing like getting up in the morning and deciding to tackle an antenna project you've been putting off......! LOL!

Jerry
K4KWH

Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gocbtjl.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:34:08 GMT, N9NWO wrote:
>
> >If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
> >to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the > >courts settle. I have said this over and over. This > >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
> >a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the > >chief's problem, and not theirs.
>
> It becomes THEIR problem when (a) a civilian complaint is filed with > the department for misconduct and (b) they are a named defendant in > a Sect. 1983 suit - damages (and attorney fees) for violation of > civil rights under color of authority.
>
> All the LEOs whom I know (and I know a bunch - I am a retired > Federal agent) are very concerned that they do not achieve that sort > of "fame". It's a career-stopper and a wallet-emptier.
>
> The watchword is "think twice before acting".
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
> Retired and loving every minute of it....
> Work was getting in the way of my hobbies
>
>

4309. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:39:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1A7196.E20D00B7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27306

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3C1985EF.B47466CB@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >Dave Heil wrote:
> >>
> >> CAM wrote:
> >> > Half the nocode techs at Intel are engineers or technicians who > >> > simply don't choose to learn Morse code. At least one has a > >> > PhD degree in EE. I'd like to see Larry tangle with Dr. Williamson > >> > on a technical basis.
> >>
> >> ...not as much as I'd like to see the famed Dr. Williamson in a 25 wpm
> >> CW ragchew with Larry.
> >>
> >I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?
>
> I am incapable of manually sending/receiving CW at 100 wpm. If you're > going to loan Doc Williamson a SCS PTC2e, then you would have to > provide me with one also, in order to be fair. However, somehow I don't > think you had fairness in mind -- did you?

Dave initiated the unfair stuff. I'm just trying to level the field.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4310. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:41:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1A71FC.5013EAAE@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27307

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?
>
> Probably as much as a basketball player likes some clown in cherry > picker on the basketball court. Both are farcial.

PACTOR II is farcial?
--
cheers, Cecil, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4311. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:46:08 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1A7320.44A1EF85@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27308

mike coslo wrote:
> Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> things? 8^)

Whatsamatta Mike, don't you like a challenge? :-)
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4312. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:50:11 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011214165011.04115.00000292@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 27309

In article <0380792F2B38EAE0.67AC83CCEA01E1AF.6022DCDBD7666DA1@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 07 Dec 2001 19:39:21 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>This is my plan, not Cecil's plan.

I's a very cunning plan, too.

>>I say taxes should pay for high quality free >>schools from pre-K through at least a bachelor's degree - for everyone that >>can make the grades.

> Here, I agree completely. The idea that you have to get in >debt (sometimes quite deeply) to pay for an education that will only >profit the nation through your increased earning potential and other >contributions likely from a good education, is ridiculous.

There is no guarantee that more education will result in beneficial paybacks to society. But that's the way to bet. Free, appropriate public education for all is both an investment in the future and a payback for the past.
>
>On the other hand, we DO need to insure that the money is well >spent--by a very radical overhaul of our school systems.

>Right now, our schools are often violent, frequently a joke
>academically, and only occasionally more interested in academics than >in sports standings. Those need to change.

Yup. But first you have to understand why some schools are like that (not all of them are). And you have to see what the "good" schools do that the "bad" schools don't.
>
>As far as violence goes--we need alternative schools for those >who demonstrate that they pose a risk to other students in >conventional schools. Those alternative schools should have the same >academic requirements as other schools, but less opportunity for >violence (i.e., all classes in a single room with the _teachers_ >changing rooms every period instead of the students, no sports or >other competitive activities (phys ed would consist of exercise and >health training alone), metal detectors, and on-premises juvenile >officers from the local police department.

When I was a kid there were references to "reform school". We were told that problem kids got sent there to be straightened out. They were described as a cross between prison and boot camp. We were ignorant enough to believe the stories.

>Youths who are caught in >ANY school in possession of a firearm would be permanently expelled >from any public school system below the college level--it would be up >to their parents to pay for a suitable private institution.

And if the parents can't or won't pay for it? What if a 10 year old kid that's been endlessly bullied brings one of his parents' small pistols to school without their permission?

What about knives, iron pipes, and other weapons?

>The same
>would apply to any youth who was convicted of committing a violent >felony or drug sales (including alcohol and tobacco) on school >premises.

How about simple possession? Would the sale of a single cigarette get a kid kicked out of school for life?

>With respect to academics, they HAVE to come first.

Nope. Order and discipline have to come first.

>Schools
>should receive Federal (not state) accreditations based TOTALLY on >meeting rigid academic standards.

Measured by what criteria? How the students do, or what material is covered?

Would there be different levels of the same material? In my high school, we had four "tracks", plus AP (advanced placement, good for college credit). "One size fits all" doesn't work because the gifted kids are bored outa their minds and the kids with needs are struggling.

>Computer education, multiple lab >based science courses, modern educational resources, and teachers who >are qualified to teach (i.e., hold at least a Bachelors degree in the >specific field they are teaching, and meet rigid continuing education >requirements)--with a waiver of any requirement for course work in >education for anyone with a Master's or better and 2 years or more >experience teaching (K-12 or college level) in the field being taught >(at the High School level--elementary instruction would still require >ed courses).

Who is gonna pay for all that?

>If a school can't afford both to meet those requirements >and support other activities such as organized sports, social >activities, band, etc., then the money MUST go to academics first.

And if cutting those activities doesn't yield enough money?

What about art, music, and special ed?
>
>Students who do not successfully demonstrate that they have >passed all the requirements for a course the should be required to >retake the course before they get any credit for it (the "grade" >system needs to go--it's unworkable with the range of subjects--and be >replaced by a credit system where you need "x" credits in Science, >English, Geography, History, Math, etc., to graduate and your >grade-level status is measured by the number of credits earned, not by >how many years you've attended alone).

So every course would be pass-fail? Bad idea. Very bad idea.

>Today, schools have to >practically be "begged" by parents to hold a child back a year because >he or she doesn't understand the material--and as a result we have HS >grads who are functionally illiterate thorough out the USA. If we were >on a credit based graduation plan, that would not be the case.

Grades are still a good idea. A "D" would mean you just barely made the requirements, "C" means OK, "B" means better-than- average, and A means outstanding. Or something like that.
>
>Personally, I favor a modified version of the German system.
>All children would the same type of school for the first eight years, >after which (based on testing of subjects studied and personal >interests) they would move on to either a "college prep" HS (where >such requirements as four science course credits including Chemistry, >Biology, Physics and an elective, math through Calculus I, 2 years of >a foreign language, four courses in humanities including philosophy >(or logic), world culture, literature, and an elective, four courses >in Social Sciences--including Psychology, Sociology, Political Science >and an elective, and similar requirements would stand; a "trade >school" HS where students would study academic subjects for 1/2 day >(with appx. 1/2 the requirements above, 2 sciences, humanities, & >social sciences, Math through Intermediate Algebra, etc.) then spend >the other 1/2 day studying a skilled trade (preferably with training >and resources provided by the private sector as they are in Germany); >and a "general" HS which would prepare people for entry level >positions in business and industry (or for the military, etc.) and >would consist of about 3/4 of the requirements given for the academic >HS above, as well as a larger number of electives.

Why can't all of this be available in one school? Why predestine a kid at the end of 8th grade?

And what of the schools in communities where "industry" cannot offer enough apprenticeships?

>Students who wished >to enter the University, would have to either complete the academic >program, or--if they choose/qualify for another program instead--would >be required to make up those courses in which they are deficient in >Community Colleges before being admitted as First Year University >students.

That part works OK.
>
> At one time, the US ranked number ONE in the world for public >education. According to the same (UN) studies, we now rank number >SEVENTEEN!

First you have to understand WHY.

For one thing, the US has one of the shortest school days and shortest school years in the developed world. For example, Japanese 8th graders have spent more time in class than many American HS seniors. Why are both the school day and school year in the USA so short?

For another thing, most public schools are underfunded for the job they are expected to do. One of the reasons sports are so important is that they bring in the dough, plain and simple.

Most other developed countries have relatively homogenous populations. The USA doesn't.

>That's completely ridiculous--particularly since our >graduate schools are STILL rated number one.

Think about WHY.

>As a college professor, I >constantly encounter the problem in terms of under-prepared students >who, despite high GPAs, manage to graduate from HS with major >deficiencies in reading, writing, math, and most of all critical >thinking skills.

I have had tenured professors with major deficiencies in reading, writing, math, critical thinking and most of all TEACHING skills.

>Over the years, I've seen the problem grow steadily >worse, and the only answer our society seems to accept is the >combination of grade inflation (at Harvard, a Professor MUST submit an >explanation for his decision if he or she grades ANY student below a >3.5!) and "dumbed down" text books (the "concise" editions that are >becoming more common in classrooms).

Think about WHY. How much does it cost to go to Harvard?

>That's a disgrace to our >educational system, and offensive to any serious teacher--the main >reason I've decided to retire early next year is because I refuse to >"dumb down" my classes and it won't be much longer before that becomes >an institutional requirement at my institution as well.

We don't have an "educational system" in this country. What we have is a patchwork quilt of public school districts, private schools, colleges, universities, accrediting bodies, regulations, unfunded mandates, and other jury rigged stuff. If the electric power system were run that way, the whole country's electricity would make California's rolling brownouts look good.
>

>Of course, most of the problem is coming from the fact that we >insist on using our schools as surrogate parents--they are expected to >not only teach academics but to teach "morality," deal with personal >problems, and never, ever, risk causing a student to lose self-esteem >by holding him/her back in school (as if the inability to >intelligently read and understand the instructions on a Campbell's >Soup can--one definition of functional illiteracy--won't cause someone >to lose self-esteem later in life!).

Schools HAVE to act "in loco parentis". There's no escaping it.

>Parents seldom hold their kids >responsible for their grades--they blame the schools instead.

Often, the parents are right. Often they are wrong.

>And, of >course, perish the thought that little Johnny might get expelled for a >little thing like taking an AK-47 to class . . .

First you gotta know WHY Johnny did it.

But what about other behaviors? Suppose a girl in one of your proposed schools gets preggers - does she get kicked out? What about the father of the child? What if she gets an abortion?

If you allow the girl to stay but kick out the cigarette seller, you're saying irresponsible sex is OK but selling one cigarette is not. If you allow her to stay if she gets an abortion but kick her out if she has the baby, you are promoting abortion. If you do the reverse, you're promoting the reverse. And then there's the father, if he is even known. All sorts of issues. But no matter what you do the school is teaching values.

> We need to revise our programs to approach poverty >intelligently. At a minimum we need to divide the poor into four >groups:
>
> 1. Those who are only poor due to poor education or work >skills. Here, supporting the person/family while they are making up >for that deficit is a same and forward thinking approach. So long as >the person demonstrates sound academic progress toward an agreed upon >educational/training goal they would receive the necessary support--if >they stopped, so would it. The entire process should be planned in >advance (subject to change if recommended by educational counselors) >and treated as a contract between the recipient and the state.

A contract between the recipient of the benefits and the providers. OK so far
>
> 2. Those who are incapable of working or profiting from >education. This would include the disabled, the mentally ill, the >mentally challenged (i.e., retarded), etc. These are the people who >legitimately CAN'T support themselves and they are a group we need to >help without stripping them of dignity as is currently done by our >social service programs.

I disagree that they are stripped of dignity. But I agree with the rest. Some folks just can't take care of themselves, and a safety net is needed.

The field of mental health is a particularly tricky one. Under current laws, a person cannot be involuntarily committed to a mental-health institution for more than a short time unless a court decides the person is a real and immediate danger to him/herself or others. End result is revolving door commitments.

But what constitutes "a real and immediate danger" and "mental illness"? Those things are value judgements. Is heroin or crack addiction a mental illness or a "lifestyle choice"?
>
> 3. The under employed. This group would consist of those who >are sincerely trying, are employed, but simply don't have the earning >capacity to be self-sufficient (i.e., the working poor). Here we need >to both help the family sustain itself, and help the wage-earners to >improve their job skills and move into higher paying jobs as a result >(i.e., education or specialized training).

Really just a subset of 1).
>
> 4. The lazy or indolent. This is a broad category for those >who seem to demonstrate no particular interest in getting off welfare >and earning a living (i.e., the people we always have held up to us as >"examples" of welfare types). Here we need to insure that the children >are provided for--by placing them in alternative settings if nothing >else works--and that's about it. Such families, if they want to remain >together, would be required to either participate in >training/educational programs (number 1 above), to put in at least 20 >hours of community service work per week, or to demonstrate (through >participation in job preparation programs) that they are actively >seeking, and willing to accept, employment. Initially, such a family >would be eligible for only 90 days of assistance unless one of the >alternatives were met. After the 90 days, if they couldn't demonstrate >that the basic needs of the children were being met, they would be >referred to child protection services for further investigation and >response.

In other words, they need to get their act together or lose their kids and starve.
>
> In ALL cases, I believe in a universal access to medical >treatment.

Paid for how and by whom?

A crack-addicted HIV positive woman in premature labor shows up at a big-city ER. Hospital admits her, baby is born with all sorts of problems. Woman signs herself out as soon as she can walk out of the hospital. Hospital spends a quarter million or more on her and the baby, who either dies or winds up with multiple chronic health problems. Who pays for all that care? What happens ten months later when she shows up again in the same condition?

The above scenario is not hypothetical. Ask K4YZ.

>There is simply no reason our nation should not consider >the medical needs of all of our citizens to be a major priority.

Agreed. But there's a catch.

> The >simplest approach would be to use a list such as that developed in >Oregon by doctors to determine what conditions would and would not be >covered by Federal medical insurance (i.e., preventative medicine >should be number ONE--beyond emergency medicine, of course-

Whoa. Let's be clear what you are saying:

Emergency medicine is #1
Prevention is #2

>-and >cosmetic surgery--except in the case of accident or severe >disfigurement--would not be covered) with an eye toward prevention of >disease and alleviating suffering. Once a list has been made, the >government could open bidding to major insurers, granting the contract >to insure all citizens of the US for ALL of those conditions for a >three year period to the lowest bidder who would be bound by both >contract and criminal law to adhere to the conditions of their >contract for the period.

And if nobody bids, or the bids are very high? The contract you are describing is so big no insurer would go after it. It would need to be broken down regionally, at least.

>That would allow universal coverage w/o the >inefficiency of government administration. The cost of the insurance >would come from taxes on businesses, thus effectively spreading the >cost across all areas of society.

No, it would concentrate the cost onto businesses alone. Unless there is some sort of value scale, organic food growers could wind up paying the same rates as tobacco companies. Does that make sense?

> Because firms would no longer have >to provide higher-cost medical insurance (they COULD offer
>"supplementary insurance" to cover areas not addressed by the >government insurance), the savings realized would cover the tax costs, >probably (due to the economies of scale resulting from insuring such a >wide range of people) at far less cost than they were previously >paying.

Maybe. Maybe not. Businesses today don't have to provide medical insurance at all. They do it to attract workers. Your plan would make it mandatory and drive many businesses under.

>Self employed people would pay the same tax and the poor >would, of course, be covered by state aid.

Paid for by....?

Now here's the catch:

First off, somebody somewhere has to make value judgements on all of this. For example, who is really disabled and who is faking? Who is really trying to get work and who is just lazy? What constitutes an emergency medical condition? What constitutes "disfigurement" enough to be covered?

Somebody has to make VALUE JUDGEMENTS on all these and many more issues.

What about irresponsible behavior by those covered by your proposed universal medical insurance? In the medical and life insurance systems I know, tobacco users pay higher premiums than nonusers because of the health implications of tobacco use. This acts as an incentive for tobbaco users to change their behavior. But as I read your proposed system, everyone would get the same care regardless of their behavior.

Of course a person cannot be held responsible for medical conditions that are not a direct result of their own irresponsible behavior. But what about those conditions which ARE a result of such behavior?

I just read an article in the Philadelphia Inquirer about the fattening of America. The number and percentage of overweight adults and children has been rising steadily for more than 10years (overweight being defined as 30 or more pounds above the recommended weight for a given height). The health implications of being overweight are well documented. Weight-related and -impacted health problems get progressively worse as one gets older, and the US population is, indeed, aging.

By any rational measure, being overweight should have health insurance cost implications, because it is behavior-caused. Would your system reward those who keep their weight down? How?
>
> What I don't support is the simple elimination of all >programs, as the Libertarians would have.

We agree on that!

>I don't _trust_ the private >charities and churches to be able to take the place of the government >in providing for the funding (it just isn't going to happen)--and I >don't believe in just leaving people--particularly children--without a >lifeline.

Sure. But somebody has to decide where the safety net is, and what happens if a person simply won't take responsibility for themselves.

>I don't like paying taxes any more than anyone else does,
>but I'd rather pay them for sound social programs to reduce poverty >than to fund some useless pork barrel project that exists only to win
>re-election for a congresscritter.

Then you have to convice the congresscritter that he won't get reelected by playing the game that way.

How you gonna insure responsibility at all levels, Rick?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4313. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 21:52:32 UTC
From: mike coslo <mjc5@psu.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1A74A0.E6F6DFAD@psu.edu>
Source record: 27310

I'm challenged enough to begin with! 8^P Maybe I should wait until after the asprin kicks in to read the newsgroup.

- mike -

CAM wrote:
>
> mike coslo wrote:
> > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> > any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> > things? 8^)
>
> Whatsamatta Mike, don't you like a challenge? :-)
> --
> cheers, CAM, W5DXP

4314. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 22:11:22 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1A790A.2EF67DF5@uci.edu>
Source record: 27311

Hi Mike,

I started just sorting by date rather than by thread. As you pointed out, the name of the thread is superfluous to the actual topic anyway. I cleaned out all the older posts, and just follow the latest ones. As ham radio newsgroups go, r.r.a.antenna is the one with the most actual ham radio related topics. This group is really just another of the many argument clinics available on the internet.

Besides, as Dave Barry says: "There is a very fine line between "hobby" and "mental illness." :-)

mike coslo wrote:
>
> I'm challenged enough to begin with! 8^P Maybe I should wait until > after the asprin kicks in to read the newsgroup.
>
> - mike -
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > mike coslo wrote:
> > > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> > > any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> > > things? 8^)
> >
> > Whatsamatta Mike, don't you like a challenge? :-)
> > --
> > cheers, CAM, W5DXP

4315. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 22:24:59 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1A7C3E.6A881DE8@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27312

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > I'll loan him my SCS PTC2e. How does Larry like 100wpm?
> >
> > Probably as much as a basketball player likes some clown in cherry > > picker on the basketball court. Both are farcial.
>
> PACTOR II is farcial?

Your statements are. I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you bandying his name about.

Dave K8MN

Dave K8MN

4316. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-14 23:55:22 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a9093.2222442@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27313
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

On Fri, 14 Dec 2001 17:36:44 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >Are you now saying anyone with a
>>
>> > > radio is being profiled?
>> >
>> > Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.
>>
>> That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the same ones
>> the pilots use. Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio >> because of Sept 11 is a paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those) The >> terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should >> be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.
>
>Come up to Chicago and listen to the people
>using ham gear to send CW number messages.
>Speculation is that it is Serbs and Bosnians in >the region doing some form of espionage. But >then it could be the Nation of Islam.

Assuming there's any truth to the CW number message transmissions originating in Chicago, the FCC would have no problem tracking the source transmitter. Now the question must be...how do
YOU (N9NWO) know they are ham gear?

>And what if you were using ham gear to co-ordinate >criminal activity? How is a cop going to know who >you are, or if you are good guy or a bad guy? Every >one a cops meets could be a criminal. He never knows.

So what, the ownership of ham gear is NOT against ANY law. Cops that confiscate equipment without justification are not needed on any police force.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4317. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:06:00 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a91c4.2527654@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27314
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:45:11 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they >> >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.
>>
>> You did mean "can't", right ??
>>
>> >Congress only gave local >> >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of >> >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for >> >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty
>> >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
>> >enforcing Laws.
>>
>> This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The >> Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
>> just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.
>>
>> This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a >> court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the >> monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule >> violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does >> not appear in the FCC Rules.
>>
>> >I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as >> >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.
>>
>> You are so right.
>
>What you have to understand is that many hams feel >that the cops have NO right to inspect them, to ask >questions.

Inspect the person? The equipment? In either case...WHY? On what basis?

IF I was stopped for any reason and a cop asked me what was the radio on my dash, I'd simply say it is my amateur radio and that should be the end of it.

> I am not talking about rogue cops but rather
>the officer who is professional and whose biggest goal
>every day is to make it home alive.

I support those guys and gals and they don't pull nutty
confiscations or mobile stops without probable cause.

>These officers want video of every traffic stop.

So do I. It is a great tool that protects both the police and the public from false accusations by either.

> They have "rights"
>and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the >right to tell them how to live.

We all have rights and YES, the cops d NOT have the right to tell me or anyone else how to live. Law enforcement (study those two words) is to ONLY enforce the laws, not to dictate how anyone lives as long as the person is obeyng the law.

>And too many hams are big jerks.

Too many (isert any description) are jerks too.

>This AF CAP chap just does not get it. Let the AF CID >come, as far as they are concerned that is a matter for the >courts. Once the cop does his job, the investigation, he is >more than happy to let the courts deal with it. And that >includes lawsuits. That is the chief's worry, not his.

It absoultely is the cops worry when the cop strays
from proper procedure and enforcement.

>As it >is, too many file false lawsuits every day against cops. It >has become a cost of doing business.

Whuch is why video tape is such a great idea.

>Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the >courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to >throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional >thing to do.

That becomes irrisponsible if it happens TOO often and
the police don't win.

>And if some ham becomes an asshole and
>argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.

Again, I fully support the use of video.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4318. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:13:52 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1a94ec$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27315

Jealous, eh? At least I got sumpthin' to flop. Figured you ain't been readin' much lately.

Kim W5TIT

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:3C198CDC.C5B9D20F@townsqr.com...
> Whats it to ya, floppy titty?
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > Didya read up on that, too, little Dicky?
> >
> > Kim W5TIT
> >
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > news:3C18355D.1A5DAFC8@townsqr.com...
> > >
> > >
> > > Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > >
> > > > K0HB wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > A foreign terrorist, who openly has
> > > > > declared his intent to do whatever possible
> > > > > to destroy our homeland and our way of > > > > > life, has no right to protection under our > > > > > Constitution. None.
> > > >
> > > > It's not just the law of our own Constitution, Hans. It's also > > > > international law, and the law in most "civilized" nations. Most > > > > countries don't judge a person by what he says, but by what he > > > > actually does.
> > > >
> > > > > It is God's responsibility to judge Bin > > > > > Laden. It is our responsibility to > > > > > arrange the meeting.
> > > >
> > > > Spoken like a patriot, Hans. Our forefathers would be proud of such > > sentiments.
> > > >
> > > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > >
> > > Our forefathers would have pronounced you a nutcase long ago.

> > >
>

4319. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:15:58 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1a956b_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27316

We like it just the way it is... Keep up.

Kim W5TIT

"mike coslo" <mjc5@psu.edu> wrote in message news:3C1A5B59.75806518@psu.edu...
> Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> things? 8^)
>
> Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to > alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.
>
>
> - mike -
>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > In article <i85R7.290107$W8.9721109@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> > "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:
> >
> > >> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
> > >>
> > >> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with > > >soft
> > >> cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".
> > >
> > >And, of course, they had some sweet little old lady sitting there taking the
> > >'abuse'...
> >

4320. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:20:41 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a94da.3317574@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27317
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:34:08 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>>
>> >> You must not be reading my post--I won't HAVE to do anything: USAF will do >> >> it FOR me. DOD equipment is issued on a Form 37. All I have to do is tell >> >> the CID investigators WHO confiscated it, and THEY will be on the LEO like >> >> stink on sh.
>> >
>> >Think again. First the cops would just the >> >car and the radios. Then when the CID
>> >folks show up, they will explain how you
>> >lipped off to the cops that you were some >> >type of hot shot Air Force type. At that >> >point, the investigation might be about your >> >fitness to serve.
>>
>> Which is why I strongly endorse and support that >> all police cars be equipped with both audio and video >> recording equipment to document exactly what >> happened. I have seen the absolute value in >> these in both protecting the public against rogue >> cops and protecting police against false accusations of >> police brutality.
>
>Bill, I am not talking about rogue cops or >even police brutality. Rather it is the cop
>who is a professional, who keeps his cool,
>but is not going to let some ham tell him that >the cop has no right to inspect his radios
>and plays the hot shot.

INSPECT for WHAT reason. The radio in the car is NOT illegal. The cop as NO need to ask. If asked, I'd tell him what my radio is and that's the end of it. What else would he need or want to do?

>No cop will put up with that.

After telling the cop the radio is a ham rig (or CB, or FRS, or private mobile, or whatever, just what
more could the cop ask?

>The average cop is trained to suspect everyone.
>Even other cops. They are trained that they >are superior, the "force" of government, the >thin blue line that keeps us a civilized society.

>And it is almost universal that the biggest goal
>that a cop will have is to make it home alive
>every night.

That is not the training I am aware of. Cops may have the powerm but their application of that power must be tempered with restraint and rational reasoning...or they will end up off the force in many cases.

>If there is a question about a radio,

WHAT could be questioned?

>it is just easier
>to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the >courts settle. I have said this over and over.

Yes you have and you fail to see that any cop
that developes a histry of bad arrests, court losses, etc won't go far as a cop.

> This
>includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
>a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the >chief's problem, and not theirs.

Believe it or not, cops can end up being criminally prosecuted for departures from proper enforcement.

>This does not mean that they will keep the radios forever,
>as the AF CAP chap suggested. When the AF types come,
>it will go in front of a judge. And remember, this is only if >there is question that the street officer can not settle quickly.

I repeat...what could be in question that the local cop would have any role in or knowledge of?

>Too many Americans are jerks, assholes.

If they aren't breaking the law then so what?

>They believe that >they have a right to do anything, and everything.

Again, unless they are breaking a law, so what...it isn't a police matter.

>That they >have NO responsibility to society or their fellow man.

Yet again, unless they are breaking a law, so what...it isn't a police matter.
>

> And the cops want that attitude to end.

So do many others, but it ain't a police matter UNLESS laws are being broken.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

>

4321. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:25:05 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a97f4.4112480@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27318
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:47:10 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> > And are you a police officer? Are you
>> > an attorney? NO. You are a Private >> > Fucking Civilian (PFC) with little contact >> > with the current system.
>>
>> Don't believe everything your small mind thinks up. You don't know who or >> what I am and what systems I have contact with. Again all I see from you is >> opinions Just like a true politician full of shit as usual.
>>
>> > Understand this. The police and the >> > military are your superiors.
>>
>> Says who You?
>>
>> >Their lives are far more valuable than yours.
>>
>> Again says who some 2 bit local politican from bumfuct indiana?
>>
>> > And no cop is going to take your lip,
>> > that you are some big bad ass ham
>> > operator. In his mind, he does not >> > care about your rights. He cares >> > about making home every night.
>>
>> He had better care about my rights they are just as important as his. So all >> cops walk around with attitudes is what you are saying. Is it screw Joe >> Public? Does he think he is "Above The Law" Does every cop feel this way ?
>> Perhaps Daniel Marvin can answer a few questions.
>
>We give cops guns because their lives are more >valuable. Mayors and governors have bodyguards
>for the same reasons.

We allow police to be armed, not because their lives are more valuable than anyone else, but simply because the police are far more likly to be confronted with the need to defend themselves against a felon. The police face that every day they are on duty.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4322. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:33:19 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a99e5.4608724@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27319
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 14:56:05 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> > The point is that if you off half cocked about your "rights"
>> > and how you are some big shot ham operator/CAP big >> > wig, you are in the wrong. That is not the way to deal >> > with cops. Your lack of respect towards them is shameful.
>>
>> And you are an example of why people mouth off to cops. A police >> officer deserves no more respect than any other citizen. They also >> should treat others with respect until given sufficient reason to >> do otherwise. Mouthing off is NOT a sufficient reason.
>>
>> > The police and military are your superiors.
>>
>> No, they are our employees - although there are those (and you >> appear to be one of them) who are deluded into thinking otherwise.
>
>Not your employees. The mayor hired them, not you.
>You are but a taxpayer and you have no choice in paying >taxes. Unless you have the money and position to get >mayors elected then you will have a hard time influencing
>the average big city mayor.

The police, mayor, and every other city, county, sate or town employees are PUBLIC servants. They serve all of us. That is apparently a concept N9NWO is either unfamiliar with or unwilling to accept (IMHO).

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4323. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:36:08 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1a9a66.4738079@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27320
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On 13 Dec 2001 00:21:50 GMT, Moparholic@hotmailnospam.com wrote:

>"middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com> wrote:
>> "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
>> >
>> > The way you were going at it was that you
>> > were making it out that you were some big >> > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of >> > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
>> > that cop were to get off.
>>
>> And the way your were going at it was all cops are bad guys who don't >> care about you or your rights. Especially the rookie who will arrest you >> first and ask questions later because he is unsure of the law.
>>
>Arrest now,ask questions later,is a revenue producer. Even more so now, >every town crys broke. Coincedence? I think not!

False arrests are EXPENSIVE to government. An arrest generates NO revenue. Only a conviction MIGHT generate revenue (usually traffic fines). Criminal charges rarely result in any significant revenue gain to government at all. The prosecution costs alone are an expense.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4324. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 00:44:58 UTC
From: "Peter J. Bertini" <commquart@home.com> Message-ID: <e2xS7.104044$Y6.10304882@news1.rdc1.ct.home.com>
Source record: 27321
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

We've had a lot of truckers using 2 meter repeaters in this area.

They have always been good operators from what I've seen, and I've a repeater owner/operator/trustee for 31 years.

Pete

"Tazanator" <tazanator1@attbi.com> wrote in message
news:7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54...
> Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger > picture on this.
>
> I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However having > driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19 has
>

4325. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:23:22 UTC
From: kmartin@pyrzqxgl.org
Message-ID: <137f7fad.0112141723.49879634@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27322

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:<013E602DE634ED7F.728E71F50A93391A.E22A1CD3DBCFA789@lp.airnews.net>...
> Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress > to legalize it [hemp] as a cash crop.

I am quite certain that the foregoing is a false statement.

Kelly

4326. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:38:34 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AABC2.4A5F0481@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27323

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Wonder how many more "let's leave that one out" > we can come up with. Let's see, Im mentioned 5 > or 6? companies I've worked for in a previous > post. We'll leave them out, too. (snip)

Kim, the reason we don't look at specific companies is because any one of us can only have experience with a very limited number (hardly a valid sampling). In other words, our very limited experience at various companies means little when discussing national trends. And that is exactly why I've avoided mentioning specific companies as examples.

So, yes, our experiences do have some worth, but we also have to look business publications, recommendations of the experts in business law, recommendations of government agencies concerned with this, and so forth. And, whether you like it or not, the trend is towards more restrictions on private relationships between co-workers (twenty years ago, most companies didn't even have sexual harassment policies).

Finally, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4327. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:41:33 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27324

CAM wrote:
>
> Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> in public.

Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.

As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4328. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:44:58 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AAD41.110E2959@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27325

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> You said "it is happening all over the country" in > one of your posts.

No, I said it is a trend that is happening all over the country,
Kim. I never said it was happening in every company.

As I said before, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4329. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:49:57 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AAE6A.B0E4B053@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27326

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> Or.....you could just take his word for it and leave > it at that.

I never have challenged his word on it, Jim. I'm trying to talk about companies in general. Cecil keeps centering solely on Intel.
Intel is not companies in general (and it is absurd to suggest that all companies are like Intel, which seems to be the point to his argument).

As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4330. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 01:57:19 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB023.9E99CE58@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27327

CAM wrote:
>
> Intel is one of the most successful companies of > all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy
> their policies. (snip)

Nonsense. Now you're showing your ignorance, Cecil. "Many," indeed most, of the silicon valley companies are not even aware of Intel's policies, nor would they care to know. And the same could be said for the overwhelming majority of companies in this country. Intel is only one company in one industry - it does not define business policies in America.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4331. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:02:57 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <o6yS7.38909$AR6.2153443@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27328
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Don't "they" say that the worst weather is the best for antenna parties.
Right now, I'm rebuilding my 3" screwdriver unit. I got rear ended a couple weeks ago--didn't hurt the car, just dented the lower mast some on the antenna. It needed rebuilding anyway. I built it about 6 years ago. I turned me a nice 3" loading coil with some nice tinned copper (#14) amd used a drill in a vice to spin the wire on the coil. This one was a prototype. That thing rocks on 75 meters and 40 meter AM. SHHHHHH! Don't be telling Dick McCollum I've
been running "Ancient Mary". LOL!

73

Jerry <Moparholic@hotmailnospam.com> wrote in message news:20011214183715.457$ml@newsreader.com...
> "Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote:
> > Hi Phil,
> > Nice to "see" you. Can't disagree with you--especially the very LAST > > statement you made.
> > It applies to me as well. Nothing like getting up in the morning and > > deciding to tackle an > > antenna project you've been putting off......! LOL!
> >
> > Jerry
> > K4KWH
> >>
> I hear ya Jerry,I've been too busy to buy the antenna,then I'll have to let > it sit around till it's below zero out, before getting around to the > install part. These things take time ;-)
>
> --
> ~Moparholic~

4332. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:03:59 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB1B0.7B9EFDF9@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27330

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Oh, OK, so now your experiences are more valid > than mine. You're a greater charlatan than Dave, > Dwight. End of discussion...with you.

Kim, is your memory really that short? I've already told you several times that your experiences are just as valid as mine. It's just that your experiences alone are not enough to rule out my experiences (just like mine are not enough to rule out yours). In other words, we have to look elsewhere instead of just centering on the limited experiences of one or two people in this newsgroup. That's why I brought up government agencies, sexual harassment laws, and so forth, earlier (before you and Cecil decided the world ended at your own experiences).

To repeat once again, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4333. Glenn Baxter Writes Riley...

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:05:59 UTC
From: "Frankie Todd" Message-ID: <9veb79iqu0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27329
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman,rec.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Boy. First Glenn jams the Hams with his illegal transmissions, and NOW he has the audacity to respond below to Riley after getting a warning letter on Dec. 11, 2001. Here's hoping Glenn's license ain't long for this world.
:::::::::::::::::: :::::::::::::::::: ::::::::::::::::::::
From: Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
14 December 2001 2:47 P.M.

W. Riley Hollingsworth, Esq.
Special Counsel, Enforcement Bureau
Federal Communications Commission
Gettysburg, Pa. 17325-7245

Mr. Hollingsworth:

This is in reference to your "warning letter" to me dated 11 December 2001. I was accurately advised about your letter to me and its exact contents by both Keith Lamonica, W7DXX, and Dick Leavitt, W2CSQ, on 11 December 2001. This is an ethical violation of FCC ex parte rules of procedure and supports my public allegations that you are a sleazy and cheap politician as well as an unethical (alleged) attorney not fit for employment by the United States Government.

Your letter illegally threatens me with a "license revocation or renewal hearing" because I have (and fully intend to continue) filed sworn affidavits with the U.S. Attorney regarding alleged criminal violations of Sections 333 and 501 of the 1934 Communications Act.

My filing of these sworn affidavits are protected by the First Amendment to the United Stated Constitution protecting free speech as well as the Fourth Amendment regarding my absolute right to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Further, your letter, itself, and you openly encouraging radio amateurs to "talk over" my radio transmissions, is also a criminal violation of Section 501 as well as criminal obstruction of justice, and I am taking legal steps to assure that you are vigorously prosecuted and also removed from your employment at the FCC. I am also taking legally sanctioned steps to assure that you are disbarred as a licensed attorney (if, in fact, you are licensed to practice law in any state.

For your information, K1MAN is fully licensed to transmit information bulletins per a published schedule, and the K1MAN Bulletin Service is specifically recognized to be lawful in a letter from FCC Chief of Special Services, Robert H. Mc Namara, to Kenneth Black, G4WNE, dated

2 November 1989 (reference 7240-F). If you are really an attorney, and we question whether you are, you will understand the legal doctrine of res judicata that applies in this matter.

Finally, you have publicly lied to radio amateurs that you had something to do with putting my station, K1MAN, off the air in 1999 which, of course, is totally false. You have total immunity for this sort of defamation and libel, as you well know, and you take full public relations advantage of this government immunity. You are, however, a public disgrace to the Amateur Radio Service, to the Commission, to the legal profession, and to the United States of America.

We look forward to seeing you in court.

(signed)

Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
Registered Professional Engineer

cc: FCC Chairman Powell
U.S. Attorney, Bangor, Maine
Senator Susan Collins
Senator Olympia Snow
American Bar Association
W5YI
WA6ITF
ARRL W2CSQ
W7DXX
Distribution

4334. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:08:33 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB2C5.55DE0448@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27331

CAM wrote:
>
> According to my dictionary, Buddhists and Hindus are pagans.

That's alright - according to the difinitions, I'm a pagan too.

In case you haven't read this before, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4335. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:13:18 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB3E1.19FDD6AA@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27332

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> As I said before, "From what I can tell, they seem > to be using kind of a loose, existential definition > of the term, Dwight."

There are dozens of books on the subject of wiccan spells and magic, Jim. When they say magic, they mean it just like you and I would if we used the word.

As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4336. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:17:32 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB4E0.F19C68CB@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27334

Krell wrote:
>
> Great. You can list a bunch of books. The next > question would be how many of them have you > actually read.

Enough to be convinced that it is all a bunch of BS.

As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4337. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:21:22 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <CsyS7.163770$WW.10303476@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27333
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote in message news:o6yS7.38909$AR6.2153443@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com...
>
> Don't "they" say that the worst weather is the best for antenna parties.
> Right now, I'm rebuilding my 3" screwdriver unit. I got rear ended a couple
> weeks ago--didn't hurt the > car, just dented the lower mast some on the antenna. It needed rebuilding > anyway. I built it about 6 years ago. I turned me a nice 3" loading coil
> with some nice tinned copper (#14)
> amd used a drill in a vice to spin the wire on the coil. This one was a > prototype. That thing > rocks on 75 meters and 40 meter AM. SHHHHHH! Don't be telling Dick > McCollum I've
> been running "Ancient Mary". LOL!
>
> 73
>
> Jerry

Take your nostalgia trip. Just don't think it is the state of the art.

My only real problem with Antique Modulation is that it is so easily upgemessed by idiots; see outlaw CB.

Dick

4338. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:22:25 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB601.588BED59@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27337

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> Dwight, your listed books are probably a combination > of good and crappy authors, I have no idea. I'll > dismiss your sources as quickly as you dismiss > others. How's that feel?

They're not my sources, Kim. They're books that directly contradict what you've said, written by people you yourself told me to get my information from. But, of course, since they prove you wrong, I'm not surprised you would attempt to dismiss them.

And, once again, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4339. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:23:31 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1AB423.28815664@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27335

Jim Kelley wrote:
> (Intel being bery bery good, to me right now.)

I'm glad I exercised my stock options in 1998. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4340. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:27:24 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1AB50C.16F429FF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27336

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > in public.
>
> Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.

Private asexual meetings are not meant to be "intimate activities", Dwight. What kind of free love fruitcake companies have you worked for anyway?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4341. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:29:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1AB57E.1E1CF451@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27338

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> I never have challenged his word on it, Jim. I'm trying to talk > about companies in general. Cecil keeps centering solely on Intel.
> Intel is not companies in general (and it is absurd to suggest that > all companies are like Intel, which seems to be the point to his argument).

Most Fortune 500 companies are like Intel. I visited quite a few of them in my 13 years as a marketing engineer at Intel.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4342. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:31:45 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <EDyS7.90986$er5.564443@e3500-atl2.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27343
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Damn, Richard,

You caught me before the ink was even dry! LOL! I don't run AM all that much, but I DO like to take that little trip down memory lane once in a while. It so happens that my IC706 does quite a good job on AM and, coupled with one of my SD units on mobile I can do supris-ingly well with all of 40 watts. I have a 706 at home as well, and sometimes I come down to the shack in the morning with a nice cup of coffee and get in on the East Coast AM groups on 7290. This is how I amused myself 2 days ago when I took my Dad to the doc. Pennsylvania, New Joisey (I mean Jersey), and Virginia were easy hops. I don't think 7290, 3885, and 29.000 really bother anyone. I think there is room for everybody, and I never understand why so many people think they must have the same fire hydrant to tee tee on when it is so easy to just move up or down a few kcs (forgive the lapse), and I've even heard the SSB guys raise cain about the AM folks. I checked just below the SSBers, and there was plenty of room, but NEEEEWWWWWOOOOOOOOOO, they just wanted to have something to bitch about! I don't get on AM every day and I don't drool over Vikings, Globe Kings, and Scouts, and 51S1s. I just like to get on and remember the old days of glowing filaments and revving dyna-motors and revving engines to keep the battery up.

73

Jerry

Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:CsyS7.163770$WW.10303476@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "Jerry Oxendine" <joxendi@bellsouth.net> wrote in message > news:o6yS7.38909$AR6.2153443@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com...
> >
> > Don't "they" say that the worst weather is the best for antenna parties.
> > Right now, I'm rebuilding my 3" screwdriver unit. I got rear ended a > couple
> > weeks ago--didn't hurt the > > car, just dented the lower mast some on the antenna. It needed > rebuilding

> > anyway. I built it about 6 years ago. I turned me a nice 3" loading > coil
> > with some nice tinned copper (#14)
> > amd used a drill in a vice to spin the wire on the coil. This one was a > > prototype. That thing > > rocks on 75 meters and 40 meter AM. SHHHHHH! Don't be telling Dick > > McCollum I've
> > been running "Ancient Mary". LOL!
> >
> > 73
> >
> > Jerry
>
> Take your nostalgia trip. Just don't think it is the state of the art.
>
> My only real problem with Antique Modulation is that it is so easily > upgemessed by idiots; see outlaw CB.
>
> Dick
>
>

4343. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:33:57 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1AB695.27FAC468@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27339

Dwight Stewart wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Intel is one of the most successful companies of > > all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy > > their policies. (snip)
>
> Nonsense. Now you're showing your ignorance, Cecil. "Many," indeed > most, of the silicon valley companies are not even aware of Intel's > policies, nor would they care to know.

You have got to be kidding, Dwight. Andy Grove is widely read and often imitated. What cellar have you been living in? Many companies have copied Intel's MBO and MBP management techniques. Andy Grove teaches college courses on Intel's management techniques.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4344. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:38:22 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AB9BD.648EC450@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27341

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote...
> >
> > I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt > > conclusively before we rush off to kill him.
>
> Why?

Already answered in the previous message - right after the sentence you quoted above.

As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4345. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:42:23 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1AB88F.6B6FCFF2@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27340

Dave Heil wrote:
> I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> bandying his name about.

I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4346. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 02:59:14 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vee70021ae@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27346

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > return. Take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

I'm sure you'll pick up where you left off.

4347. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 03:00:43 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1ABEEF.DA39ECD0@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27342

CAM wrote:
>
> Been watching CNN today, Dwight? Looks like > proof to me.

Well, it was interesting, Cecil. But I'm afraid it's not enough. It would have been helpful if something was disclosed on that tape which was not known to anyone watching CNN. As it is, the tape could be explained away as the ramblings of old men trying to impress their friends with their own importance.

The only part that stood out as real evidence (something that could only be known to those involved) was the part where bin Laden was talking about the terrorists on the planes and said "...we did not reveal the operation to them until they are there and just before they boarded the planes." However, even that falls apart if NSA can't show an international phone call in that time window. If not, that could be explained away as made up also.

Anyway, I'd love to talk about it some more, but events are going to take me away from the computer for a few weeks. So, as I've said before, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks. It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4348. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 03:03:53 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1ABFB1.E90F8F65@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27344

JR wrote:
>
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > Fine, Steve, then try him in a military tribunal. I don't care where > > he is tried - I just want to see evidence to prove his guilt > > conclusively before we rush off to kill him. Without that, we leave > > this whole thing open for endless speculation.
> >
> > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> >
>
> Did you see the tape Dwight? Did someone hit you with a 2X4 to get > your attention? I guess you are going to be one who thinks it was > all a fabrication.

Nope, not a fabrication, JR. Just way too easily explained away. See my comments to Cecil for an explination.

By the way, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you when I return. Take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4349. Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 03:10:41 UTC
From: Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AC13E.3B2FA19@sccoast.net>
Source record: 27345

I just wanted to be the first to get those greetings in this year.
In case I've missed anybody (Larry, Richard, Krell, Mike, Rick, and others), I just wanted to point out again that I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with everyone when I return. Until then,
take care.

Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4350. A Holiday Gift to r.r.a.p.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 03:25:23 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <u9XNvfRhBHA.1808@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27347

W5NET said:

> By the way, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this > newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months).

"See Virginia, didn't I tell you there really is a Santa Claus?"

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4351. Re: 28.115 is the new Ch-19

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 03:43:03 UTC
From: radiofun <radiofun@charter.net>
Message-ID: <u1lhsg50d7q31e@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 27348
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

I hear them on 28.085 too. Very sad!

"Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> she thought of to make "Xmas money".
>
> Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
>
> Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> Is the cow out of the barn door?
> A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> to try an politely inform them there were in violation > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> gentlemanly composure in his speech
> to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
>
> Nice eh?
> Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
>
> I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
>
> How about 2 meters?
> Is that the next band to be trashed by these > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart
> and operate without a licence ?
>
>

4352. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:21:35 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad0a1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27349

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > in public.
>
>
> Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
>
> As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > return. Take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on our "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?

I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are expected to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.

Kim W5TIT

4353. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:26:51 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad1dd_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27350

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AAE6A.B0E4B053@sccoast.net...
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > Or.....you could just take his word for it and leave > > it at that.
>
>
> I never have challenged his word on it, Jim. I'm trying to talk > about companies in general.
>

Yeah. COUGH Companies in general, with a trend toward mass movement to a few companies across the nation who are taking on new ways of doing business by disallowing such despicable behavior as female and male adults having to deal with other in a closed door meeting. You know, that huge general clearly defined undefined trend.

>
> Cecil keeps centering solely on Intel.
> Intel is not companies in general (and it is absurd to suggest that > all companies are like Intel, which seems to be the point to his argument).
>

BUT we need to rely on our own experience, right? And, we surely can't speak for all companies, just companies in general--you know, the ones in general who are trending...toward, uh, what was it you were saying? OH YEAH...the general tendency of companies in the United States, in general, who are trending toward...uh, what was it you were saying? OH YEAH...

> As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > return. Take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Maybe now we can make some sense of the issue. Although, I think most of us logical, adult, in-general adults believe that Dwight's opinion is pretty skewed and we, in general, believe that it's quite OK for men and women to have meetings between each other. :)

Kim W5TIT

4354. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:27:32 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad214_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27351

Oh buhruther....

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AB023.9E99CE58@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Intel is one of the most successful companies of > > all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy > > their policies. (snip)
>
>
> Nonsense. Now you're showing your ignorance, Cecil. "Many," indeed
> most, of the silicon valley companies are not even aware of Intel's > policies, nor would they care to know. And the same could be said for > the overwhelming majority of companies in this country. Intel is only > one company in one industry - it does not define business policies in America.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4355. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:29:15 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad26c_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27352

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1AB2C5.55DE0448@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > According to my dictionary, Buddhists and Hindus are pagans.
>
>
> That's alright - according to the difinitions, I'm a pagan too.
>
> In case you haven't read this before, please note that, after > tonight, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two > months). It's been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again > when I return. Take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>

Well, sorry to say that rather than looking forward to talking with you again, Dwight, I'll enjoy the respit from mental masturbation.

Kim W5TIT

4356. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:30:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad2d2_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27353

```
"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1AB50C.16F429FF@IEEE.org...
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > in public.
> >
> > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
>
> Private asexual meetings are not meant to be "intimate activities", > Dwight. What kind of free love fruitcake companies have you worked > for anyway?
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

ROFLMAO...

Kim W5TIT
```

4357. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:32:11 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad31c_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27354

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1AB695.27FAC468@IEEE.org...
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Intel is one of the most successful companies of > > > all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy > > > their policies. (snip)
> >
> > Nonsense. Now you're showing your ignorance, Cecil. "Many," indeed
> > most, of the silicon valley companies are not even aware of Intel's > > policies, nor would they care to know.
>
> You have got to be kidding, Dwight. Andy Grove is widely read and > often imitated. What cellar have you been living in? Many companies > have copied Intel's MBO and MBP management techniques. Andy Grove > teaches college courses on Intel's management techniques.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

BUT, CECIL!!!! Andy's experience, and your experience, are not the experience of Dwight. Don't you understand? :|

;) Kim W5TIT

4358. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:34:09 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad394_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27355

OK, so we've been talking to a fruitcake (Dwight) for the past little bit.
WHEW, he needs whatever break he thinks he is going on .... WHEW...

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1ABEEF.DA39ECD0@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Been watching CNN today, Dwight? Looks like > > proof to me.
>
>
> Well, it was interesting, Cecil. But I'm afraid it's not enough. It > would have been helpful if something was disclosed on that tape which > was not known to anyone watching CNN. As it is, the tape could be > explained away as the ramblings of old men trying to impress their > friends with their own importance.
>
> The only part that stood out as real evidence (something that could > only be known to those involved) was the part where bin Laden was > talking about the terrorists on the planes and said "...we did not > reveal the operation to them until they are there and just before they > boarded the planes." However, even that falls apart if NSA can't show > an international phone call in that time window. If not, that could be > explained away as made up also.
>
> Anyway, I'd love to talk about it some more, but events are going to > take me away from the computer for a few weeks. So, as I've said > before, I'll be leaving this newsgroup for several weeks. It's been > fun and I'll look forward to talking with you when I return. Take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4359. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:34:50 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad3bf$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27356

Puhleeze don't let the door hit you in the ass...

Kim W5TIT

"Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message news:3C1AC13E.3B2FA19@sccoast.net...
>
> I just wanted to be the first to get those greetings in this year.
> In case I've missed anybody (Larry, Richard, Krell, Mike, Rick, and > others), I just wanted to point out again that I'll be leaving this > newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and > I'll look forward to talking with everyone when I return. Until then, > take care.
>
>
> Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
> http://www.qsl.net/w5net/

4360. Re: A Holiday Gift to r.r.a.p.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:44:36 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214234436.07928.00000863@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27357

In article <u9XNvfRhBHA.1808@cpimsnntpa02>, "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
writes:

>
>> By the way, please note that, after tonight, I'll be leaving this >> newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months).
>
>"See Virginia, didn't I tell you there really is a Santa Claus?"

Hansl:

No, that was Dwight that said he was leaving for a while, not Kim or Cecil!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4361. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:44:36 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214234436.07928.00000864@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27359

In article <3C1A5B59.75806518@psu.edu>, mike coslo <mjc5@psu.edu> writes:

> Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
>any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
>things? 8^)
>
> Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to >alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.
>
>
> - mike -

Mike:

I'm the one who started this thread, and it is supposed to be about the sexually suggestive, inappropriate, and self-serving Vanity call sign of Kim Walker, W5TIT -- and the reply she received from Riley Hollingsworth when she made a vain attempt to trick him into endorsing her choice with the lame excuse that it is her "First Amendment right" to do so. This thread has now grown to over 1,000 postings, probably 3/4 of them having nothing to do with the original topic!

Hey guys --- ever see that subject line in your newsreader? Did you know you can change what it says there? And a good time to do so is when you're making a posting that has nothing to do with whatever thread you've been reading at the time!

And to think of all the time's I've been accused of being computer-illiterate because I use AOL! Sheez!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4362. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:44:37 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214234437.07928.00000865@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27358

In article <3C1AC13E.3B2FA19@sccoast.net>, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> writes:

>
> I just wanted to be the first to get those greetings in this year.
>In case I've missed anybody (Larry, Richard, Krell, Mike, Rick, and >others), I just wanted to point out again that I'll be leaving this >newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and >I'll look forward to talking with everyone when I return. Until then, >take care.
>
>
>Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Dwight:

Whatever takes you away from here for that time, I wish you a very safe and happy holiday season, safe journeys, and hope to see you here again upon your return!

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4363. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:45:19 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad630_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27360

Ya make less and less sense every day, Larry. Comfortably numb?

I guess you're pretty much the only one...oh, let's not leave Dicky out...who thinks my callsign is important enough an issue to have its own thread. You are also pretty much the only one who mentions my callsign in this thread. The rest of us have had some very neat conversations about lots of other, more important, issues.

Kim W5TIT

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011214234436.07928.00000864@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article <3C1A5B59.75806518@psu.edu>, mike coslo <mjc5@psu.edu> writes:
>
> > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> >any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> >things? 8^)
> >
> > Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to > >alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.
> >
> >
> > - mike -
>
> Mike:
>
> I'm the one who started this thread, and it is supposed to be about > the sexually suggestive, inappropriate, and self-serving Vanity call > sign of Kim Walker, W5TIT -- and the reply she received from Riley > Hollingsworth when she made a vain attempt to trick him into > endorsing her choice with the lame excuse that it is her "First > Amendment right" to do so. This thread has now grown to over > 1,000 postings, probably 3/4 of them having nothing to do with the > original topic!
>
> Hey guys --- ever see that subject line in your newsreader? Did you > know you can change what it says there? And a good time to do > so is when you're making a posting that has nothing to do with > whatever thread you've been reading at the time!
>
> And to think of all the time's I've been accused of being computer-> illiterate because I use AOL! Sheez!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

>

4364. Re: Glenn Baxter Writes Riley...

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:47:17 UTC
From: "Joe S." <joe@schlatter.org>
Message-ID: <9vekkk01u5u@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27365
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman,rec.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy

No doubt Riley is hiding under his desk, quaking in his boots. Then, maybe he's sharing this letter with his boss and both of them are laughing their asses off.

--
- - -

Regards,
Joe S.

"Frankie Todd" <Anon@Anon..com> wrote in message news:9veb79iqu0@pita.alt.net...
> Boy. First Glenn jams the Hams with his illegal transmissions, and NOW
> he has the audacity to respond below to Riley after getting a warning letter > on Dec. 11, 2001. Here's hoping Glenn's license ain't long for this world.
> :::::::::::::::::: :::::::::::::::::: ::::::::::::::::::::
> From: Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
> 14 December 2001 2:47 P.M.
>
> W. Riley Hollingsworth, Esq.
> Special Counsel, Enforcement Bureau
> Federal Communications Commission
> Gettysburg, Pa. 17325-7245
>
> Mr. Hollingsworth:
>
> This is in reference to your "warning letter" to me dated 11 December > 2001. I was accurately advised about your letter to me and its exact > contents by both Keith Lamonica, W7DXX, and Dick Leavitt, W2CSQ, on 11 > December 2001. This is an ethical violation of FCC ex parte rules of > procedure and supports my public allegations that you are a sleazy and > cheap politician as well as an unethical (alleged) attorney not fit > for employment by the United States Government.
>
> Your letter illegally threatens me with a "license revocation or > renewal hearing" because I have (and fully intend to continue) filed > sworn affidavits with the U.S. Attorney regarding alleged criminal > violations of Sections 333 and 501 of the 1934 Communications Act.
>
> My filing of these sworn affidavits are protected by the First > Amendment to the United Stated Constitution protecting free speech as > well as the Fourth Amendment regarding my absolute right to petition > the government for a redress of grievances.

>
> Further, your letter, itself, and you openly encouraging radio > amateurs to "talk over" my radio transmissions, is also a criminal > violation of Section 501 as well as criminal obstruction of justice, > and I am taking legal steps to assure that you are vigorously > prosecuted and also removed from your employment at the FCC. I am > also taking legally sanctioned steps to assure that you are disbarred
> as a licensed attorney (if, in fact, you are licensed to practice law > in any state.
>
> For your information, K1MAN is fully licensed to transmit information > bulletins per a published schedule, and the K1MAN Bulletin Service is > specifically recognized to be lawful in a letter from FCC Chief of > Special Services, Robert H. Mc Namara, to Kenneth Black, G4WNE, dated
> 2 November 1989 (reference 7240-F). If you are really an attorney, > and we question whether you are, you will understand the legal > doctrine of res judicata that applies in this matter.
>
> Finally, you have publicly lied to radio amateurs that you had > something to do with putting my station, K1MAN, off the air in 1999 > which, of course, is totally false. You have total immunity for this > sort of defamation and libel, as you well know, and you take full > public relations advantage of this government immunity. You are, > however, a public disgrace to the Amateur Radio Service, to the > Commission, to the legal profession, and to the United States of > America.
>
> We look forward to seeing you in court.
>
>
>
> (signed)
>
> Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
> Registered Professional Engineer
>
>
> cc: FCC Chairman Powell
> U.S. Attorney, Bangor, Maine
> Senator Susan Collins
> Senator Olympia Snow
> American Bar Association
> W5YI
> WA6ITF
> ARRL
> W2CSQ
> W7DXX
> Distribution
>
>

>

4365. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:55:18 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214235518.07928.00000867@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27361

In article <3c1ad3bf$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Puhleeze don't let the door hit you in the ass...
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

You're a fine one to talk...I'm sure the door to your trailer is in splinters!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4366. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:55:18 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011214235518.07928.00000868@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27362

In article <3c1ad1dd_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Maybe now we can make some sense of the issue. Although, I think most of us >logical, adult, in-general adults believe that Dwight's opinion is pretty >skewed and we, in general, believe that it's quite OK for men and women to >have meetings between each other. :)
>
>Kim W5TIT

Kim:

If you think you're so adult in your behavior, why did you show such childishly poor judgment in selecting your vanity call sign?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4367. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:56:57 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad8ea$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27363

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011214235518.07928.00000868@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article <3c1ad1dd_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Maybe now we can make some sense of the issue. Although, I think most of us
> >logical, adult, in-general adults believe that Dwight's opinion is pretty > >skewed and we, in general, believe that it's quite OK for men and women
to > >have meetings between each other. :)
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> If you think you're so adult in your behavior, why did you show such > childishly poor judgment in selecting your vanity call sign?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

I think it's one of the most adult things I've ever done, Larry. It's entertained you for about 2 years. :)

Kim W5TIT

4368. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 04:58:47 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ad95d_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27364

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011214235518.07928.00000867@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article <3c1ad3bf$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Puhleeze don't let the door hit you in the ass...
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> You're a fine one to talk...I'm sure the door to your trailer is in > splinters!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Not at all. The way to avoid that happening, Larry, is not to let the door slam all the time--you know, the way it does when ya get one of the gals into yer...uh, luxurious apartment (the one you keep throwing money into but will never own. The one that has no land with it).

Kim W5TIT

4369. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:42:11 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <852F0BF91EE54F07.4893E3AE10BC19DB.FF9C52FBDFD01936@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27366

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 10:10:19 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Yet you want to privatize prisons, law enforcement, fire >> departments, social security, and other programs.
>
>Libertarians DO NOT want to privatize any governmental function >required to protect the inalienable rights of citizens. That >includes law enforcement. I really wish you would alleviate >your ignorance of what Libertarians believe.

In other words, the state will _still_ control the criminal justice system, and will act as a monopoly in setting fees. Don't like them, tough?

Sounds like a convenient way to cover up still charging the same taxes to me--a pile of manure by any other name . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4370. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:50:50 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AF2C8.B8A79FBF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27367

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> > I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> > bandying his name about.
>
> I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.

That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?

Dave K8MN

4371. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:54:36 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27368

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > in public.
> > >
> > >
> > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
> > >
> > > As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > > > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > > > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > > > return. Take care.
> > >
> > >
> > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > >
>
> Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on our
> "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?
>
> I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are expected > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.

I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.

Dave K8MN

4372. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:57:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <06D97509588BBA6A.47C3BF6D8FF12D9C.BBEC78EB8449B590@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27369

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 09:55:20 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>> >Well, let me ask you this, Rick. Why are children born to American >> >parents more valuable human beings than children born to parents >> >in other countries? To be consistent, you have to advocate welfare >> >for all the children of the world, not just for American children.
>>
>> I do. But at the expense of _their_ governments, not ours.
>
>But Rick, their governments often just let them die of starvation.
>Don't you care about anybody except Americans? Why does an accident >of birth make an American child more valuable than a child in >Botswana? Why are you such an elitist?

I'm not--on the other hand, I'm not jingoistic, either. It isn't the function of the US to interfere in the actions of other sovereign nations (unless those nations pose a direct threat to the US, of course). I may feel for the citizens in such nations, but I don't claim that I--or my country--have a right to intervene in their internal affairs. If a nation steps across a clear line of humanity (as did the Nazis with the death camps, and as have other nations including Cambodia under Pol Pot) I support foreign intervention--but even there not by the US alone, but by a group of nations working together (and sharing the costs equally, btw, I'm tired of funding every so-called coalition we join).

>The bottom line is that the Libertarian view of poor people in the >US is exactly the same as your view of poor people in other countries.

I don't live in other countries, Cecil, and neither do you. If the Libertarian party was in another nation and preached the same policy, I would disagree with it, consider it classist and inhumane, but I would have no legitimate concern in seeing it NOT come to power since I'm not a citizen of that country.

I _am_ however a citizen of the USA, and as such I DO have a legitimate concern in the political platforms of US parties--the Libertarians included. To me, for any American party to take the attitude that if children can't be supported by their parents that's THEIR problem, not that of the state is so completely self-centered and materialistic that it defies comprehension. I can understand a poor country not being able to demonstrate compassion for its children, but if the US with its affluence reaches that point of materialism and selfishness, we'll have reached the point that any decent person would be ashamed to admit he or she was an American. If that's what the Libertarian Party stands for, it's by far the most offensive political party ever formed in this nation--despite having the most rational views on personal liberty of any modern party.

>You say the poor people in other countries are someone else's >responsibility. Libertarians agree with you and extend that same >identical concept to poor people in this country. The difference >is quantitative, not qualitative.

No it's not, Cecil. The US has no RIGHT to interfere in the affairs of other sovereign nations--any more than they have any right to interfere in OUR affairs. But we not only have a right to care for our poor, we have a moral obligation to do so at home. I'm sorry that Libertarians are so blinded by their hate for anything that might cost them a few precious dollars (except for monopolistic fees for government services, of course) that they have come to care more for money than for the lives of children.

Thanks for opening my eyes to the Libertarian platform, Cecil--it will help when I go to the polls to know that regardless of how positive a Libertarian candidate seems, his real position is one that I can't possibly support with my vote.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4373. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:58:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <961C0CEA4DC55A5C.3D6F0E8F8E9BE76A.F7F89478FD8232E2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27370

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 10:04:22 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> Right now, our schools are often violent, frequently a joke
>> academically, and only occasionally more interested in academics than >> in sports standings. Those need to change.
>
>The problem is those things cannot change as long as the government >is running things. The government is the cause of those things.

Perhaps instead of telling us what you would like to see torn down if the Libertarians were in power, you might want to enlighten us as to what it would be replaced with--and why THAT would insure improvements.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4374. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:59:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <134432C779624582.54453387F1C8AE31.225AF35D340B6F47@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27372

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 02:11:59 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> No, Dwight, I did NOT identify myself as a
>> "liberal." I am a libertarian--if you ar
>> too stupid to know the difference, try looking
>> in a book (that's one of those things with >> covers, pages, and printed words in case you >> don't have any experience with them). I _agreed_ >> that I would accept the "sixties liberal"
>> definition of my earlier years--so what?
>
>
> Well, your political views would certainly not be described by anyone as >conservative, so we'll call you a liberal Libertarian instead. Will that make >you feel better?

Sure--as long as you don't mind the corresponding "conservative fascist" designation yourself. Fair enough?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4375. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 06:59:52 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AF4E6.504D04F1@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27371

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> In article <3c1ad3bf$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:
>
> >
> >Puhleeze don't let the door hit you in the ass...
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> You're a fine one to talk...I'm sure the door to your trailer is in > splinters!

Maybe not. She's been ROTF laughing her AO for quite some time. I know these things take time but she could be down to normal by the new year.

Dave K8MN

4376. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 07:11:11 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1AEA4D.59AC8B99@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27373

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> Ya make less and less sense every day, Larry. Comfortably numb?
>
> I guess you're pretty much the only one...oh, let's not leave Dicky > out...who thinks my callsign is important enough an issue to have its own > thread. You are also pretty much the only one who mentions my callsign in > this thread. The rest of us have had some very neat conversations about > lots of other, more important, issues.

Watever you tink, Topless.

4377. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 08:07:44 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1B04D0.7220F470@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27374

CAM wrote:

> Robert Casey wrote:
> > > Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> > > "If only these were brains".
> >
> > Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
> > positioned on the breasts.
>
> Oh no, Robert. You used the "b" word. You know you will bring > down the wrath of Larry Roll for doing that.

Just now I heard the "T" word on the FM broadcast band.
Something about "tit for tat". :-)

4378. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 08:30:34 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf1n9snk8@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27375
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> We give cops guns because their lives are more > valuable. Mayors and governors have bodyguards
> for the same reasons.

Wrong. We allow officers to carry firearms because many criminals also carry firearms. It might be necessary to use the firearm in the process of apprehending the felon.

The officer would be just as likely to use the firearm to protect some innocent person.

I can carry a firearm. Does that make ME "more valuable" than those who cannot? Not in my view.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4379. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 08:34:52 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf1vcsnk9@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27376
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> There is a pecking order. Governors and mayors are > the most valuable then powerful men then professionals
> like doctors and lawyers. The Police are just under mayors.

If I were injured, I would feel that a doctor was far more important than some political hack who happened to get elected to office.

> Look there are so many elite who see the police and > the military as a bunch of losers who are there to die > for them. People like you who make huge amounts > of money and live in big fancy houses. I have them > in my community. The military is not allowed to recruit > in the local high school as their kids are going to college > and the military is for those who can't really make it.

> People like you see themselves as too valuable to get > their hands dirty. Sorry but your life is not worth that > of a police officer, a fire fighter or a soldier.

How do you know what we do for our livings?

In my opinion, it is elitist attitudes like yours that are part of the problems we face in this country.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4380. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 08:38:05 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf25dsnk10@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27377
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> And if you argue with a cop then you are just > another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > the office to shoot everyone.

I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4381. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 09:13:23 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf47jsnk14@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27378
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote:
> "Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
> news:9v9qa0odg11@quark.scn.rain.com...
>> In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> <<< SNIP >>
>> If I have a CB radio, I am federally licensed to operate that radio.
>> <<< SNIP >>>

> And when was this license issued? If it's legit, why are you not found in
> the FCC ULS?

Read the regulations covering CB. It is immaterial that no identification number or registration are required.

There are FCC regulations covering my usage of the CB band, this I am licensed by the FCC. Just ask them.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4382. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 09:18:57 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf4i0snk15@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27379
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business. People > file false charges against the police everyday. As > I said, the average cop looks to the courts to settle > questions. If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue > with the cops then he had better expect to stand in > front of the judge.

And arrests that get the officer and police into lawsuits or get unfavorable publicity in the newspapers means that the officer can pretty much kiss his chances for promotion goodby.
He will probably even be canned if it happens often enough.

There used to be a couple of officers in my city with attitudes like you display here. They are no longer on the force. Nor are they in the phone directory any more - so may have moved on.

The average office looks to his superior officers to settle questions. It is not a case of "Arrest em all, and let the courts sort them out" - which is what you claim is common.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4383. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 09:21:36 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vf4n0snk16@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27380
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> That is a risk that the average cop is willing > to take. As far as he is concerned, getting > you in front of judge is his primary job. Even > if you win, it will cost you a huge amount of > money, and time. Costly enough that you will > think twice the next time. He does not have > to get you thrown in jail in order to change
> your attitude. Normally the court procedures, > and it can take a year or more to settle a case,
> are enough to make a decent citizen more
> careful in how they live their lives.

I really hope you are just a troll - or an aberration.

Fortunately, officers with such an attitude around here fairly quickly become ex-officers.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4384. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 09:52:53 UTC
From: WG <nojunk@mail.com>
Message-ID: <V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net>
Source record: 27381
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore. If you are on the road ham is the best way to go. With the new IRLP system you can tone up repeaters almost any ware in the world, (http://www.irlp.net/) with just a hand-held. One thing that all CBers should ask themselves before they key up, is what they are talking about fit for family listening. Would you want your wife, girlfriend or kids listening to that? Also that they can be tracked in under 6 seconds and the transmitter fingerprint system works very well. The reason that the governments of the world permit this to continue is that the cost to go to trial is prohibitive. I do know that Industry Canada and the FCC will act on complaints especially if the dirty radio gets into the commercial or police bands. I have played around with radio tracking using the Doppler shift radio tracking system on CB and it is unbelievable how fast you can drive right up to someone's door or follow a dirty trucker into a truck stop and have a talk with him face to face.

"Tazanator" <tazanator1@attbi.com> wrote in message
news:7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54...
> Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger > picture on this.
>
> I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However having > driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19
has > degenerated way down to the point of people harrassing truckers (listen > sometime a bulk of the noise is from base stations especial around big > cities) most of the "sesame Street" gang is kids playing and talking big.
>
> Due to this depressing talk to drivers, many have left the CB buying ham > radios for the extra cost so they can "get away" from the base stations (I > was told that a long time ago CB was just like 80 meters is today...many > truckers miss that peaceful feeling you enjoy (I only have a tech so 2 > meters is my place)) while it is wrong many don't care due to the way they > were treated on channel 19 (Penn state has a kid on 19 with a 250 watt base > that must have a dictionary of every swear word that he just keeps reading > at truckers)
>
> As far as the FCC many state scales have fcc trained weigh masters that do > check (you pull on to the scale and are asked to key up the CB) sometimes > they find them often they don't. I belive that the truckers could bring a > revival to the ham comunity, just from the numbers point of view, and I > started down ham meeting another ham trucker...HE HAD A HUGE ANT (screw > driver)ON THAT TRUCK!!! made me wonder what he was talking to!

>
> While it is a privalage to us ... a little tact here could gain you a friend > and the ham community more clout. Sence I got my ticket many of the guys
I
> used to run with have seen me use the 2 meter repeater system (they loved > the michigan linked repeater system...all over the state with only an HT) > and the phone patches, many have started borrowing my books to study for
the > test.
>
> To start them on the road just help them out ... many would love to have
the > ANT checked by an MFJ analizer (they pay up to $20 for it) and as you teach > them how to get the best out of the CB talk about the ham structure many > will listen and think about it....many of my friends have started studying
>
> (by the way it supposed to be 28.665 for the new 19)
>
> --
>
> IT IS THE SOLDIER
>
> IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the reporter,
> Who has given us freedom of the press.
> IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the poet,
> Who has given us freedom of speech.
> IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the campus organizer,
> Who has given us freedom to demonstrate.
> IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the lawyer,
> Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
> IT IS THE SOLDIER, who salutes the flag,
> Who serves under the flag and,
> Whose coffin is draped by the flag,
> Who allows the protester to burn the flag.
>
> Author, Charles M. Province
>
> **
> By US Code Title 47, Sec.227(a)(2)(B), a computer/modem/printer meets > the definition of a telephone fax machine. By Sec.227(b)(1)(C), it is > unlawful to send any unsolicited advertisement to such equipment. By > Sec.227(b)(3)(C), a violation of the aforementioned Section is > punishable by action to recover actual monetary loss, or $500, whichever > is greater, for each violation.
> **
>
> think I'm full of it look yourself!

> http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/47/227.html
>
> "Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> > Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> > on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> > one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> > she thought of to make "Xmas money".
> >
> > Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> > radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
> >
> > Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> > Is the cow out of the barn door?
> > A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> > to try an politely inform them there were in violation > > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> > One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> > gentlemanly composure in his speech
> > to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> > complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
> >
> > Nice eh?
> > Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
> >
> > I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
> >
> > How about 2 meters?
> > Is that the next band to be trashed by these
> > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart > > and operate without a licence ?
> >
> >
>
>

4385. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 11:33:14 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vfcaq0hrf@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27382

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...

> I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
>
> Dave K8MN

How would you know if they didn't say anything about it? Most people don't proselytize about their religious beliefs.

4386. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 11:36:28 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vfcgr0hvm@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27383

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011214235518.07928.00000868@mb-fi.aol.com...

> If you think you're so adult in your behavior, why did you show such > childishly poor judgment in selecting your vanity call sign?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

Maybe it's a clever troll, and you're an easy mark.

4387. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 12:32:41 UTC
From: Professor <bgriffey@core.com>
Message-ID: <3c1b4471$0$30975$1dc6e903@news.corecomm.net>
Source record: 27384
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Boy do I wish that was true.
I'd actually be able to hold a conversation out there...

--

||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||
Professor
||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||

"WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
news:V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net...
> I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore.

4388. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 12:47:18 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <941F6796A3C3B7E9.BE6077ED623EEAD9.8AE81711733B53ED@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27385

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 06:54:36 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that >had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.

How would you know? I've worked in at least three places that had that situation on a daily basis, except that it was the coffee machine. (Water coolers were removed to make the bottled water vending machine more profitable at one, and because maintenance was just too lazy to change the jugs at the others)

Well, OK, at one of those it was a bunch of Asatruar huddled in the smoking area, but close enough.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4389. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 13:52:56 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1b51d9.2953583@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27386
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 08:38:05 +0000 (UTC), Bill Nelson
<billn@spock.peak.org> wrote:

>In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
>> And if you argue with a cop then you are just >> another asshole. All he wants is to make it home >> alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
>> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to >> the office to shoot everyone.
>
>I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if >he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have >a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch >officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
>Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
Assume the following scenario...

1. Officer Obey stops John Q Motorist for some traffic violation.
2. Upon viewing the vehicle's interior, Officer Obey sees a radio mounted in the car.
3. Officer Obey asks the motorist about the radio
4. John Q Motorist politely tells officer Obey the radio is a ham rig (or CB, or whatever).
5. Officer Obey then requests permission to search the vehicle and/or examine the radio itself.
6. John Q Motorist declines (politely) to allow search of the vehicle and/or the radio.

OK so far?

Now Officer Obey requires a search warrant to search the car or further examine the radio. Just how does the Officer obtain that warrant then? The process involves at least
the following:

1. Detaining the vehicle and occupant for an unspecified time
2. Officer Obey would need to have his police supervisory people contact a judge and inform the judge as to WHY
a search warrant is needed (i.e. probable cause, etc.) (most local municipalities don't always have a judge just sitting around to do these things)

Judges do NOT routinely issue search warrants just to make local police happy. IF some subsequent search uncovers a criminal act. then there had better be sound reasons for the search warrant in the first place. If the search uncovers nothing...the reason for the warrant
had better stand up to challange via a civil lawsuit.

If any cop builds a record of "bogus" stops and bogus
requests for search warrants, that cop's credibility in the force goes out the window and you can bet the judge(s) (as do police management) know who those bad credibility cops are.

Good policing does not require arrogance or "attitude"
on the part of police. Attitude cops give all cops a bad name and they undermine the service of the good cops
who know and work as proffesionals within the constraints
of our constitution and legal system.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4390. Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:24:59 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b5d71_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27387

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011213104336.18921.00000171@mb-mv.aol.com...
> In article <3C182F2F.6E96890E@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >The average technical level of all members of the IEEE is higher > >than the average technical level of all members of the ARS.
>
> Cecil:
>
> Well, Harumph...I would damn well hope so!
>
> Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the > closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Larry,

According to the FCC "none." AndI find the FCC to be a FAR more credible source of information/opinion on this matter than you, so why don't you stop ranting?

This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from what I can see.

Get a life ...

BTW, just to put some icing on the cake for you, I finally got around to finding time in my work/travel schedule to go to a VE session and upgrade to Extra :-) (missed 1 out of 50 on the test ... I read one question/answers too fast and accidentally marked the wrong letter when I actually knew the correct answer ... really made me mad at myself ... but that's what I get for finishing the test in 10 minutes :-)

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052

Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4391. Re: some sobering numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:41:09 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215094109.08633.00000288@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27388

>Subject: Re: some sobering numbers
>From: Dwight Stewart stewartx@sccoast.net
>Date: 12/14/2001 8:38 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C1AB9BD.648EC450@sccoast.net>

>As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be >leaving this newsgroup for several weeks

A.M.F.

Steve

4392. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:44:28 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b62a0_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27390

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> > news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > > in public.
> > >
> > >
> > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
> > >
> > > As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > > > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > > > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > > > return. Take care.
> > >
> > >
> > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > >
> >
> > Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on our
> > "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?
> >
> > I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are expected
> > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.
>
> I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
>
> Dave K8MN

I wouldn't know, because we don't discuss those things at work. Again, company policy and professional etiquette would dictate that certain things are just not for the "office."

Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.

Kim W5TIT

4393. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:46:34 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b6321$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27391

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C1B04D0.7220F470@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> CAM wrote:
>
> > Robert Casey wrote:
> > > > > Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> > > > > "If only these were brains".
> > > >
> > > > Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
> > > > positioned on the breasts.
> > >
> > > Oh no, Robert. You used the "b" word. You know you will bring > > > down the wrath of Larry Roll for doing that.
> >
> Just now I heard the "T" word on the FM broadcast band.
> Something about "tit for tat". :-)
>

Just one of each?! :)

Kim W5TIT

4394. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:47:49 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215094749.08633.00000289@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27389

>Subject: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency
>From: "Carl R. Stevenson" wa6vse@fast.net
>Date: 12/15/2001 8:24 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3c1b5d71_2@news7.fast.net>

>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from >what I can see.

And you expected...WHAT...from RRAP...?!?!

Welcome home.

Steve, K4YZ

4395. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:49:30 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b63cd_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27392

```
"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9vfcgr0hvm@enews3.newsguy.com...
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message > news:20011214235518.07928.00000868@mb-fi.aol.com...
>
> > If you think you're so adult in your behavior, why did you show such > > childishly poor judgment in selecting your vanity call sign?
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
> Maybe it's a clever troll, and you're an easy mark.
>
>

Oh, now you've gone and done it! ;)

Kim W5TIT
```

4396. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 14:58:25 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b65e4_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27393

"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
news:9vf1vcsnk9@quark.scn.rain.com...
> In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
> > There is a pecking order. Governors and mayors are > > the most valuable then powerful men then professionals > > like doctors and lawyers. The Police are just under mayors.
>
> If I were injured, I would feel that a doctor was far more important > than some political hack who happened to get elected to office.
>
> > Look there are so many elite who see the police and > > the military as a bunch of losers who are there to die > > for them. People like you who make huge amounts > > of money and live in big fancy houses. I have them > > in my community. The military is not allowed to recruit > > in the local high school as their kids are going to college > > and the military is for those who can't really make it.
>
> > People like you see themselves as too valuable to get > > their hands dirty. Sorry but your life is not worth that > > of a police officer, a fire fighter or a soldier.
>
> How do you know what we do for our livings?
>
> In my opinion, it is elitist attitudes like yours that are part of > the problems we face in this country.
>
> --
> Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
>

ABSOLUTELY! And, most cops don't think they are better than anyone else.
It's the ones that do that make it so rough for the industry (and while I used the word "most" in my last sentence, there are still lots who do think they are more important).

Each and every one of us is nearly, if not exactly, as important as the next. We all have our "things" to do, work to do, families to raise, neighborhoods to live in, communities to vote and pay taxes in, etc. Not one of us is doing something more important than the next.

And, please don't use the excuse that cops or firefighters put themselves in harm's way more than anyone else. When I get in my vehicle every day to go to work, statistics say that I am more likely to be injured or die than any other industry-related statistic! Add rain, snow or ice to that scenario and it's pretty darned dangerous just getting to work.

Kim W5TIT

Not posted to other groups I don't read

4397. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 15:24:57 UTC
From: WILLIAM FRAZIER <KC7REK@email.msn.com>
Message-ID: <O01$$yXhBHA.1864@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27394
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

You folks are comparing apples and oranges. First a City, such as Tacoma or any other city, for that matter, can not or will not pass any law, ordinance or other bill that prohibits what the Federal Government allows.

Second, the idea that a local city or county police officer would have jurisdiction over radios on a military base is completely false. Only the CID or the MP's can enforce laws on a military reservation. Only with the permission of the Base Commander can LEOs enter the base to enforce civilian laws.

Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment that the FCC has ordered confiscated.

Forth, upon entering a military base, you no longer have the same rights or privileges that you enjoy off the base. You must obey military law and are subject to military rules and regulations, which you must agree to before entering the base or you will NOT be permitted to enter.

As I live within 50 miles of Ft. Lewis, Mc Chord Air Force Base (Tacoma), 10 mile of the Bremerton Naval Shipyard (Puget Sound Naval Shipyard), 35 miles of Naval Air Station Whidbey Island and 5 miles of the US Navy Nuclear Submarine Base Bangor, I am quite familiar with the rules, regulations and laws of what you can and can't do in, on or around these bases. I'm here to tell you that no such law or ordinance has ever been enacted nor has any LEO ever, to my knowledge, stopped or detained a radio operator for using there radio equipment in any manner allowed by law.

William F. (Bill) Frazier, KC7REK
Silverdale, WA

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:3C1A2443.E09EDBF8@townsqr.com...
>
>
> N9NWO wrote:
>
> >Are you now saying anyone with a
>
> > > radio is being profiled?
> >
> > Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.
>
> That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the same ones

> the pilots use.
> Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio because of Sept 11
> is a > paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those)
> The terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should > be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.
>
> Dick
> Retired Public Safety communicater
>
>

4398. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 15:51:21 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B7179.A5162903@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27395

Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> BUT, CECIL!!!! Andy's experience, and your experience, are not the > experience of Dwight.

Thank God!
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4399. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 15:55:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B7254.A97A0EA1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27396

Rick Adams wrote:
> In other words, the state will _still_ control the criminal > justice system, and will act as a monopoly in setting fees. Don't like > them, tough?

You haven't been listening, Rick. The court system would charge fees to guarantee the enforcement of contracts. Entities who entered into contracts without paying the fees would be operating under gentlemen's agreements and would have no legal recourse if the contract was violated. Most entities would choose to pay the fees.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4400. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 15:58:03 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1B65C7.E5928C6F@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27397
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Bill Nelson wrote:

> In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
> > And if you argue with a cop then you are just > > another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > > alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> > your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > > the office to shoot everyone.
>
> I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if > he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have > a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch > officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.

Arguing with a cop is stupid. If he had no reason for stopping you, he wouldn't have. Discussing the situation politely is another matter, and if that doesn't help, and it may not, you'd better plan on taking your complaint to another level and having your stuff together when you do. Even then don't expect to overcome a discretionary if arbritary decision made by a cop on the street. He will have so much discretionary authority that will be upheld all the way, if it comes to that. Your best course is to do everything he says at the time with no hint of opposition, and any question you have of his actions needs to be posed in a friendly, non-irritated manner. Most cops are reasonable people, and want no hassles -you'd probably not believe how many they have to put up with in the normal course of things-, but when one acts to become an added irritant when he has been stopped it's a sure path to more trouble than you already have, if any. Many times cops just want to set someone straight without the hassle of paperwork, and will let it go with a warning, if the situation justifies it.. You'd be surprised at all the paperwork involved in even a simple traffic arrest.
I can't imagine any rational cop wanting to take on a radio possession case without some other serious factor being involved. I doubt they'd want to do it a second time. But what the hey, I've been out of the loop for several years. Maybe new cops are different, like some new hams.

4401. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 16:00:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B7392.8D5DAA6E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27398

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> > > bandying his name about.
> > >
> > I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
>
> That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?

I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4402. Re: "...one step closer to extinction "

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 16:17:44 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <e1zHSPYhBHA.1848@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27399

Kim said:

> Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one
> meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.

Using the term "the opposite sex" automatically charges your ideas with emotion and unprofessionalism. A professional will use the term "persons of different gender". What the hell is "opposite" about it, and what has "sex" to do with it?

(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4403. Re: "...one step closer to extinction.-courts"

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 16:40:52 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <o2LS7.165121$WW.10376544@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27400

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1B7254.A97A0EA1@IEEE.org...
> Rick Adams wrote:
> > In other words, the state will _still_ control the criminal > > justice system, and will act as a monopoly in setting fees. Don't like > > them, tough?
>
> You haven't been listening, Rick. The court system would charge fees > to guarantee the enforcement of contracts. Entities who entered into > contracts without paying the fees would be operating under gentlemen's > agreements and would have no legal recourse if the contract was > violated. Most entities would choose to pay the fees.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

We've been here before in history. In Islam, somewhat also in Jewish communities, it was customary to submit a commercial dispute to the local imam or ayatollah who was paid for his wisdom by both sides -- you didn't waste a good judge hearing trivial cases.

Henry II was so enamoured of this system that he took it back to England and put the church to work in Chancery, Equity, or Courts of the King's Concience to settle issues that the 19 writs of Courts of Law could not handle. Became the basis of English commercial law which has been one reason the English-speaking world leads the commercial planet.

The Chancellor's troops set about setting rules (if you lost at Law, don't come to Equity; come to court with clean hands, we are not in the business of settling disputes among thieves, etc.) and generally did a lot of good work before the Law people finally caught up.

An awful lot of law has to do with setting a standard where there is not one and little comes to recommend any particular one. The classic here is the case of an offer and acceptance by mail; who bears the risk of crummy mail service? Adams vs Linsell if memory serves.

Perhaps more of legal practice is burying the dead: bankruptcy, probate, divorce, etc. The nature of things is for each to try like hell to get his own to the detriment of both the estate and other creditors. Often the actions of particular creditors damages everyone including the particular creditor so it helps to have a ref with a very loud whistle. The poor bastard who gets Enron will have a hell of a time taking a vacation for many years.

There has to be an element of coercion involved. The problem for the Libertarian is to establish the mechanism and finance it (seems to be the issue here) without it taking over. The classic problem of who watches the watchers.

And a lot of regulatory time is spent establishing a playing field in which the biggest SOB in the valley does not enjoy an advantage.

My personal favorite is a substantial strengthening of the rights of a jury (Viking in origin BTW). In criminal cases, the Scottish system in which a verdict of 'innocent' as opposed to 'not proven' causes all sorts of complications to the prosecution. In civil cases, a verdict of Horseshit and a five-lash public flogging of the plaintiff's attorney would have salutory effects. There is no question that a certain amount of extortion of large companies is going on via the judicial system in which a law firm specializes in suing Denny's etc. can keep it up for years with little risk; OK, raise the risk level.

And do not neglect the feedback loop. An airplane crash causes all sorts of investigation to be sure it does not happen again. Why should not a wrongful conviction produce exactly the same sort of cavalry charge?

I rather enjoy in a perverse sort of way the present constipation of the Federal courts with drug cases. One cannot really blame the FCC when you can't interest a Federal DA in anything that is under $10K and does not confiscate something.

Dick N&#65533;BK

4404. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 16:55:38 UTC
From: Train <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com>
Message-ID: <egLS7.16871$bs2.3412125@news02.optonline.net>
Source record: 27401
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Will this cross posted bullshit thread ever die?
Train

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message news:3c1b51d9.2953583@news.mindspring.com...
> On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 08:38:05 +0000 (UTC), Bill Nelson
> <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote:
>
> >In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
> >
> >> And if you argue with a cop then you are just > >> another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > >> alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> >> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > >> the office to shoot everyone.
> >
> >I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if > >he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have > >a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch > >officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
> >Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
>
> Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
> Assume the following scenario...
>
> 1. Officer Obey stops John Q Motorist for some traffic violation.
> 2. Upon viewing the vehicle's interior, Officer Obey sees a > radio mounted in the car.
> 3. Officer Obey asks the motorist about the radio
> 4. John Q Motorist politely tells officer Obey the radio > is a ham rig (or CB, or whatever).
> 5. Officer Obey then requests permission to search the > vehicle and/or examine the radio itself.
> 6. John Q Motorist declines (politely) to allow search > of the vehicle and/or the radio.
>
> OK so far?
>
> Now Officer Obey requires a search warrant to search
> the car or further examine the radio. Just how does the Officer > obtain that warrant then? The process involves at least > the following:
>

> 1. Detaining the vehicle and occupant for an unspecified time
> 2. Officer Obey would need to have his police supervisory > people contact a judge and inform the judge as to WHY
> a search warrant is needed (i.e. probable cause, etc.)
> (most local municipalities don't always > have a judge just sitting around to do these things)
>
> Judges do NOT routinely issue search warrants just > to make local police happy. IF some subsequent search > uncovers a criminal act. then there had better be sound > reasons for the search warrant in the first place. If > the search uncovers nothing...the reason for the warrant > had better stand up to challange via a civil lawsuit.
>
> If any cop builds a record of "bogus" stops and bogus
> requests for search warrants, that cop's credibility in the force
> goes out the window and you can bet the judge(s) > (as do police management) know > who those bad credibility cops are.
>
> Good policing does not require arrogance or "attitude"
> on the part of police. Attitude cops give all cops a bad > name and they undermine the service of the good cops
> who know and work as proffesionals within the constraints > of our constitution and legal system.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4405. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:03:10 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215120310.01870.00000330@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27405

In article <#NzBiPngBHA.2124@cpimsnntpa04>, "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
writes:

>N2EY wants to know:
>
>> When's the last time you worked a US ham with a 100% homebrew >> station who did not have a "mainstream" rig also? (Besides me, I >> mean - and it ain't true for me anymore).
>
>Get real!

I am real. I asked a simple question.

> We aren't talking about "100% homebrew " here (nor were >we back in the 50's). We're talking about tinkering and experimenting, >which can include some homebrewing "from scratch", some modification
>of store bought equipment, some 'conversion from other service', some >kitbuilt, some fixing of what got broken, and obviously some unchanged >since it came out of the box. That's the mix in most active amateur shacks >today, just as it was back in the 50's.

The claim was that there is MORE "homebrewing and kitbuilding" today than in the 1950s. Homebrewing is defined as building from scratch, and kitbuilding is defined as assembling a kit of parts prepared by others, using the provided instructions. "Some modification of store bought equipment, some 'conversion from other service', some fixing of what got broken, and obviously some unchanged since it came out of the box" are not included.

If you doubt my qualifications, I refer you to QST for June, 1989, page 62.
>
>I know a LOT of active hams and, except for a few very new ones, I don't >know of a SINGLE shack that contains 100% factory made/factory original >equipment. Not ONE.

That wasn't the question nor the claim. If you are going to get worked up over every homebrew jumper cable or dipole you see, then you will wet yourself with excitement if you ever visit my shack.

How many homebrew RIGS have you seen or worked in the past year? Receivers, transmitters or transceivers? (Besides mine).
>
>Killing that spirit with a "manufactured type-accepted rig only" license
>would >doom the Amateur Radio Service to extinction,

The same was said about no-code-test ham licenses. Did they doom the ARS to extinction?

Nobody wants to kill the spirit, Hans. Least of all me.

For the record, the "Foundation" license allows kits if they are approved as meeting govt. regs. The concern is simply that the technical skills of Foundation class hams would not be adequate to homebuild from scratch.

> and all your ill-founded >pontificating about "there ain't no more homebrewers" will only speed the >date.

Who said that? Not me. I'm living proof we homebrewers still exist. There just aren't many of us building actual RIGS, for reasons W3RV clearly explained.

>Shame on you.

For telling the truth?

And by the way, for the record:

I don't think a "no-homebrew" license is a good thing for the ARS at all.

73 de Jim, "Definitive Expert" N2EY

4406. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:03:12 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215120312.01870.00000332@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27402

In article <3C1AB88F.6B6FCFF2@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Dave Heil wrote:
>> I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
>> bandying his name about.
>
>I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.

Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4407. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:03:12 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215120312.01870.00000333@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27403

In article <3C0FF1F3.EAA60EFC@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> But according to Cecil we shouldn't be paying for school for >> those who can't afford it either.
>
>We'd be doing them a favor. The public schools are a disgrace >and a breeding ground for economic collectivism.
>--
Not all of them are a disgrace, Cecil. Most of the public schools I know are excellent.

What makes them "a breeding ground for economic collectivism"??

73 de Jim, N2EY

4408. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:03:12 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215120312.01870.00000331@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27406

In article <3C198FB6.60B5A043@townsqr.com>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
writes:

>Robert Casey wrote:
>
>> K0HB wrote:
>>
>> >
>> >
>> > Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really >need >> > to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just >> > doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad >idea.
>> >
>>
>> A major reason for the way the FCC and other countries do up their >> rules is the ease of enforcement. Why do they say have extra only >> subbands instead of say power level restrictions? Because someone >> at an FCC field site operating a receiver can easily see what frequency
>> you are on, where he can't really tell how much power you're putting >> out. For all he knows, you might just have a small rig and a yagi >> pointed at him.
>
> You have just given a description of how the FCC would reason if they were >making the rules today, instead of 35 year ago. That was not, however, the >thinking at the time.
>
OK, I'll bite. What WAS the thinking at the time?

The original setup for "incentive licensing" was that it took an Advanced or Extra to work 'phone on the hambands between 3 and 25 MHz. In late 1952 the FCC suddenly tossed out that scheme (no NPRM, no comments, no nuthin', just an announcement) and gave all US hams except Novices and Techs all privileges.

5 years later (1958, right after Sputnik) the FCC started asking for ideas about how to get more hams to upgrade. (There were about 4,000 Extras out of 220,000 US hams then). Nothing really definitive surfaced until 1963, when the ARRL proposed going back to the old system - Advanced or Extra for 'phone between 3 and 25 MHz.

FCC mulled that over, asked for ideas, and a whole pile of them flooded in. The FCC plan was a mix of those ideas, including the idea of subbands-by-license-class. I remember that one of the reasons was that frequency could be easily measured to tell if a ham was operating within his/her license privileges. The subbands reserved for Extras and Advanceds were the best DX spots, too.

If that's not right, what was the thinking 35 years ago?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4409. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:03:13 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215120313.01870.00000334@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27404

In article <3C16623B.9D45ACBA@uci.edu>, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
>news:<3C15C5D8.A02E619C@sccoast.net>...
>> > On a side note (not directed solely at you, Jim), Europe has an >> > excellent public transportation system.
>
>> I understand that in Paris and its suburbs one cannot get more than a >> certain distance (500 meters?) from a Metro station. And the Paris >> Metro system has been constantly (except for war years) expanded and >> modernized to meet the needs of the City of Light.
>
>Yes, just got back from there.

COOL!!!

>It only takes about an hour to walk >across the city between the walls where 2 millions of the residents >live. Out here you'd barely get started down Imperial in that amount of >time.

Did you get to ride the Metro much?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4410. Re: Glenn Baxter Writes Riley...

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:11:13 UTC
From: Norman FongVu <cornyoung44@aol.com>
Message-ID: <RuLS7.4551$O7.469651@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27408
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"Frankie Todd" <Anon@Anon..com> wrote in message news:9veb79iqu0@pita.alt.net...
> Boy. First Glenn jams the Hams with his illegal transmissions, and NOW
> he has the audacity to respond below to Riley after getting a warning letter > on Dec. 11, 2001. Here's hoping Glenn's license ain't long for this world.

Right on Frankie my boy!
This complete xmas fruitcake with nuts in Maine is confused
if he want's to become the next Herbert W Armstrong or Wayne Green. Probably wants to be both with Arthur Godfrey tossed in.
Just one look at his website and one can see that the elevator don't go to the top floors.

4411. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:11:41 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <hvLS7.309256$5A3.119405019@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27407
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

William No one said any law was enacted to allow LEO's the ability to confiscate equipment on a MIL base. But Tacoma did pass a law, they have no more authority than the FCC does with regards to these matters. you can basically say the FCC deputized these people to carry out there job's for them, at least regarding CB enforcement.

"WILLIAM FRAZIER" <KC7REK@email.msn.com> wrote in message news:O01$$yXhBHA.1864@cpimsnntpa04...
> You folks are comparing apples and oranges. First a City, such as Tacoma or > any other city, for that matter, can not or will not pass any law, ordinance > or other bill that prohibits what the Federal Government allows.
>
> Second, the idea that a local city or county police officer would have > jurisdiction over radios on a military base is completely false. Only the > CID or the MP's can enforce laws on a military reservation. Only with the > permission of the Base Commander can LEOs enter the base to enforce civilian > laws.
>
> Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the > enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment > that the FCC has ordered confiscated.
>
> Forth, upon entering a military base, you no longer have the same rights or > privileges that you enjoy off the base. You must obey military law and are > subject to military rules and regulations, which you must agree to before > entering the base or you will NOT be permitted to enter.
>
> As I live within 50 miles of Ft. Lewis, Mc Chord Air Force Base (Tacoma), 10 > mile of the Bremerton Naval Shipyard (Puget Sound Naval Shipyard), 35 miles > of Naval Air Station Whidbey Island and 5 miles of the US Navy Nuclear > Submarine Base Bangor, I am quite familiar with the rules, regulations and > laws of what you can and can't do in, on or around these bases. I'm here to > tell you that no such law or ordinance has ever been enacted nor has any LEO > ever, to my knowledge, stopped or detained a radio operator for using there > radio equipment in any manner allowed by law.

>
> William F. (Bill) Frazier, KC7REK
> Silverdale, WA
>
>
>
> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:3C1A2443.E09EDBF8@townsqr.com...
> >
> >
> > N9NWO wrote:
> >
> > >Are you now saying anyone with a
> >
> > > > radio is being profiled?
> > >
> > > Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.
> >
> > That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the > same ones
> > the pilots use.
> > Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio because > of Sept 11
> > is a > > paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those)
> > The terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should > > be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.
> >
> > Dick
> > Retired Public Safety communicater
> >
> >
>
>

4412. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:12:44 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <gwLS7.309257$5A3.119405657@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27409
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Only when you take your own advise.

"Train" <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com> wrote in message news:egLS7.16871$bs2.3412125@news02.optonline.net...
> Will this cross posted bullshit thread ever die?
> Train

4413. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:14:35 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <%xLS7.165243$WW.10379570@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27410

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011215120312.01870.00000331@mb-fz.aol.com...
> In article <3C198FB6.60B5A043@townsqr.com>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
> writes:
>
> >Robert Casey wrote:
> >
> >> K0HB wrote:
> >>
> >> >
> >> >
> >> > Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really > >need > >> > to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just > >> > doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad > >idea.
> >> >
> >>
> >> A major reason for the way the FCC and other countries do up their > >> rules is the ease of enforcement. Why do they say have extra only > >> subbands instead of say power level restrictions? Because someone > >> at an FCC field site operating a receiver can easily see what frequency
> >> you are on, where he can't really tell how much power you're putting > >> out. For all he knows, you might just have a small rig and a yagi > >> pointed at him.
> >
> > You have just given a description of how the FCC would reason if they were > >making the rules today, instead of 35 year ago. That was not, however,
the
> >thinking at the time.
> >
> OK, I'll bite. What WAS the thinking at the time?
>
> The original setup for "incentive licensing" was that it took an Advanced or > Extra to work 'phone on the hambands between 3 and 25 MHz. In late 1952
the FCC > suddenly tossed out that scheme (no NPRM, no comments, no nuthin', just

an > announcement) and gave all US hams except Novices and Techs all privileges.
>
> 5 years later (1958, right after Sputnik) the FCC started asking for ideas > about how to get more hams to upgrade. (There were about 4,000 Extras out of > 220,000 US hams then). Nothing really definitive surfaced until 1963, when the > ARRL proposed going back to the old system - Advanced or Extra for 'phone
> between 3 and 25 MHz.
>
> FCC mulled that over, asked for ideas, and a whole pile of them flooded in. The > FCC plan was a mix of those ideas, including the idea of > subbands-by-license-class. I remember that one of the reasons was that > frequency could be easily measured to tell if a ham was operating within > his/her license privileges. The subbands reserved for Extras and Advanceds were
> the best DX spots, too.
>
> If that's not right, what was the thinking 35 years ago?
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

Wasn't it part of the Great Post-Sputnik we are behind the World technically caper? Lots of strange things came out of that mentality.

Dick BK

4414. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:20:15 UTC
From: w1rfi@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215122015.03163.00000366@mb-cr.aol.com>
Source record: 27411

From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)

>>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
>>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from >>what I can see.

> And you expected...WHAT...from RRAP...?!?!

How about a congratulations for a fellow ham who has upgraded?

Congratuations, Carl.

73,
Ed Hare, W1RFI

4415. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:29:57 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011215122957.05942.00000327@mb-fl.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27412

>I just wanted to be the first to get those greetings in this year.
>In case I've missed anybody (Larry, Richard, Krell, Mike, Rick, and >others), I just wanted to point out again that I'll be leaving this >newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and >I'll look forward to talking with everyone when I return. Until then, >take care.
>
>
>Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
>
>http://www.qsl.net/w5net/
>
The same to you, Dwight. May all on the NG have a warm and happy holiday season...and a GREAT new year.

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4416. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:39:18 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1B8AC5.F5931DC6@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27413

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...
>
> > I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> How would you know if they didn't say anything about it? Most people don't > proselytize about their religious beliefs.

Here's five bucks. Go buy a sense of humor.

Dave K8MN

4417. Re: "...one step closer to extinction "

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:40:36 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b8a41_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27415

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
news:e1zHSPYhBHA.1848@cpimsnntpa02...
> Kim said:
>
> > Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one > > meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.
>
> Using the term "the opposite sex" automatically charges your ideas
> with emotion and unprofessionalism. A professional will use the term
> "persons of different gender". What the hell is "opposite" about it, and > what has "sex" to do with it?
>
> (���) 73, de Hans, K0HB
>

Damn! Is this anything like the "I'm offended that you're offended" argument :} ?

Kim W5TIT

4418. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:45:34 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1B8C3D.8E72802A@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27414

Carl R. Stevenson wrote:
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011213104336.18921.00000171@mb-mv.aol.com...
> > In article <3C182F2F.6E96890E@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
> writes:
> >
> > >
> > > >The average technical level of all members of the IEEE is higher > > > >than the average technical level of all members of the ARS.
> > >
> > > Cecil:
> > >
> > > Well, Harumph...I would damn well hope so!
> > >
> > > Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the > > > correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the > > > closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"
> > >
> > > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > >
> >
> > Larry,
> >
> > According to the FCC "none." AndI find the FCC to be a FAR > > more credible source of information/opinion on this matter than > > you, so why don't you stop ranting?
> >
> > This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
> > and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from > > what I can see.
> >
> > Get a life ...
> >
> > BTW, just to put some icing on the cake for you, I finally got > > around to finding time in my work/travel schedule to go to a > > VE session and upgrade to Extra :-) > > (missed 1 out of 50 on the test ... I read one question/answers > > too fast and accidentally marked the wrong letter when I > > actually knew the correct answer ... really made me mad at > > myself ... but that's what I get for finishing the test in 10 minutes :-)

A professional engineer should have aced the test. See what happens when your smugness gets the best of you? I'll be listening for your "experimentation" on 20m SSB.

Dave K8MN

4419. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:48:33 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1B8CEF.4E14C7AB@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27416

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > > > in public.
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
> > > >
> > > > As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > > > > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > > > > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > > > > return. Take care.
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > > >
> > >
> > > Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on > our
> > > "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > > > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?
> > >
> > > I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are > expected
> > > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > > > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.
> >
> > I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> I wouldn't know, because we don't discuss those things at work. Again, > company policy and professional etiquette would dictate that certain things > are just not for the "office."
```

>
> Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one > meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.

No, this part of the thread is about wiccans and druids hunched over water coolers. That's the part you responded to.

I understand about that "not for the office" stuff. I hope you don't bring up the discussion about your callsign there either. Save that for when you're at the ballpark shouting the "F" word.

Dave K8MN

4420. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:51:24 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1B8D9A.DA1F9786@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27417

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> > > > bandying his name about.
> > >
> > > I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
> >
> > That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?
>
> I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.

Sure you did, Cecil. It must have been during one of your sacramental wines experiences and you've forgotten. You're slipping, old boy.

Dave K8MN

4421. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 17:51:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1b8ce7_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27418

```
"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C1B8CEF.4E14C7AB@earthlink.net...
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> >
> > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...
> > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > >
> > > > "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> > > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > > > > in public.
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend
is > > > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.
> > > > >
> > > > > As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > > > > > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > > > > > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > > > > > return. Take care.
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on > > our
> > > > "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > > > > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?
> > > >
> > > > I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are > > expected
> > > > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > > > > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.
> > >
> > > I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > > > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
```

> > >
> > > Dave K8MN
> >
> > I wouldn't know, because we don't discuss those things at work. Again, > > company policy and professional etiquette would dictate that certain
things
> > are just not for the "office."
> >
> > Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one > > meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.
>
> No, this part of the thread is about wiccans and druids hunched over > water coolers. That's the part you responded to.
>
> I understand about that "not for the office" stuff. I hope you don't > bring up the discussion about your callsign there either. Save that for > when you're at the ballpark shouting the "F" word.
>
> Dave K8MN

No, actually my callsign's been discussed at the office. You see, it is a callsign--and has nothing to do with sex, color, race, religion, or national origin. They get it. Some hams don't.

I don't go to the ballpark, I told you. I do go to stuffy dinners and banquets, though. I just whisper "fuck" at those.

Are you aware that by saying "the 'F' word" you've as much as said and used it, Dave? At least be truthful with yourself.

Kim W5TIT

4422. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:04:44 UTC
From: The Packrat<redacted> <spam@n7uic.net>
Message-ID: <0hMS7.2351$X94.136930@rwcrnsc52>
Source record: 27419
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Fingerprinting is only good for FM.

"WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
news:V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net...
> I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore. If
you > are on the road ham is the best way to go. With the new IRLP system you can > tone up repeaters almost any ware in the world, (http://www.irlp.net/) > with just a hand-held. One thing that all CBers should ask themselves before > they key up, is what they are talking about fit for family listening.
Would
> you want your wife, girlfriend or kids listening to that? Also that they can > be tracked in under 6 seconds and the transmitter fingerprint system works > very well. The reason that the governments of the world permit this to > continue is that the cost to go to trial is prohibitive. I do know that > Industry Canada and the FCC will act on complaints especially if the dirty > radio gets into the commercial or police bands. I have played around with > radio tracking using the Doppler shift radio tracking system on CB and it
is > unbelievable how fast you can drive right up to someone's door or follow a > dirty trucker into a truck stop and have a talk with him face to face.
>
> "Tazanator" <tazanator1@attbi.com> wrote in message
> news:7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54...
> > Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger > > picture on this.
> >
> > I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However having > > driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19
> has > > degenerated way down to the point of people harrassing truckers (listen > > sometime a bulk of the noise is from base stations especial around big > > cities) most of the "sesame Street" gang is kids playing and talking big.
> >
> > Due to this depressing talk to drivers, many have left the CB buying ham > > radios for the extra cost so they can "get away" from the base stations
(I > > was told that a long time ago CB was just like 80 meters is today...many > > truckers miss that peaceful feeling you enjoy (I only have a tech so 2 > > meters is my place)) while it is wrong many don't care due to the way

they > > were treated on channel 19 (Penn state has a kid on 19 with a 250 watt > base > > that must have a dictionary of every swear word that he just keeps reading
> > at truckers)
> >
> > As far as the FCC many state scales have fcc trained weigh masters that
do > > check (you pull on to the scale and are asked to key up the CB) sometimes > > they find them often they don't. I belive that the truckers could bring
a > > revival to the ham comunity, just from the numbers point of view, and I > > started down ham meeting another ham trucker...HE HAD A HUGE ANT (screw > > driver)ON THAT TRUCK!!! made me wonder what he was talking to!
> >
> > While it is a privalage to us ... a little tact here could gain you a > friend > > and the ham community more clout. Sence I got my ticket many of the guys
> I > > used to run with have seen me use the 2 meter repeater system (they loved > > the michigan linked repeater system...all over the state with only an HT)
> > and the phone patches, many have started borrowing my books to study for
> the > > test.
> >
> > To start them on the road just help them out ... many would love to have
> the > > ANT checked by an MFJ analizer (they pay up to $20 for it) and as you > teach > > them how to get the best out of the CB talk about the ham structure many > > will listen and think about it....many of my friends have started studying
> >
> > (by the way it supposed to be 28.665 for the new 19)
> >
> > --
> >
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER
> >
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the reporter,
> > Who has given us freedom of the press.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the poet,

> > Who has given us freedom of speech.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the campus organizer,
> > Who has given us freedom to demonstrate.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the lawyer,
> > Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, who salutes the flag,
> > Who serves under the flag and,
> > Whose coffin is draped by the flag,
> > Who allows the protester to burn the flag.
> >
> > Author, Charles M. Province
> >
> > **
> > By US Code Title 47, Sec.227(a)(2)(B), a computer/modem/printer meets > > the definition of a telephone fax machine. By Sec.227(b)(1)(C), it is > > unlawful to send any unsolicited advertisement to such equipment. By > > Sec.227(b)(3)(C), a violation of the aforementioned Section is > > punishable by action to recover actual monetary loss, or $500, whichever > > is greater, for each violation.
> > **
> >
> > think I'm full of it look yourself!
> > http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/47/227.html
> >
> > "Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
> > news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> > > Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> > > on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> > > one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > > > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> > > she thought of to make "Xmas money".
> > >
> > > Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> > > radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > > > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
> > >
> > > Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> > > Is the cow out of the barn door?
> > > A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> > > to try an politely inform them there were in violation > > > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> > > One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> > > gentlemanly composure in his speech
> > > to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> > > complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
> > >
> > > Nice eh?
> > > Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
> > >
> > > I'm curious what's the FCC will do?

> > >
> > > How about 2 meters?
> > > Is that the next band to be trashed by these > > > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart > > > and operate without a licence ?
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>

4423. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:14:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B9306.B1B42F4B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27420
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Arguing with a cop is stupid. If he had no reason for stopping you, he > wouldn't have.

You mean that the lady who was raped and murdered by a California highway patrolman should not have argued with him?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4424. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:34:50 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B97CA.AE44C4EA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27421

Rick Adams wrote:
> It isn't the function of the US to interfere in the actions of other > sovereign nations ...

Libertarians believe that exact principle should be applied within the US. It isn't the function of the US to interfere in the actions of law-abiding US citizens. Face it, Rick, you believe that American children are worth more than foreign children. If you didn't, you would advocate helping all the children of the world instead of just a select few within the US. Libertarians believe about poor people in this country just what you believe about poor people in other countries.

> If that's what the Libertarian Party stands for, it's by far the most > offensive political party ever formed in this nation--despite having > the most rational views on personal liberty of any modern party.

Libertarians believe that individual lives belong to the individuals.
Therefore, Libertarians believe in voluntary charitable donations to assist the poor and needy instead of having it forced upon the citizens by governmental fiat.

> The US has no RIGHT to interfere in the > affairs of other sovereign nations--any more than they have any right > to interfere in OUR affairs.

The US has every RIGHT to give out foreign aid, Rick. There's not many governments that would turn down American foreign aid aimed at the poor people of the world. To be consistent, you are going to have to advocate US governmental foreign aid for ALL the poor people of the world unless you are willing to admit that you believe that American children are worth more than foreign children.

> Thanks for opening my eyes to the Libertarian platform, > Cecil--it will help when I go to the polls to know that regardless of > how positive a Libertarian candidate seems, his real position is one > that I can't possibly support with my vote.

Be a social communist if you want. When you enslave the producers and reward the nonproducers, you get predictable results. Welfare has the potential to bring this country down. I'm not going to wish you luck on that project.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4425. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:36:09 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B9819.12D82B06@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27422

N2EY wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >> But according to Cecil we shouldn't be paying for school for > >> those who can't afford it either.
> > >
> > >We'd be doing them a favor. The public schools are a disgrace > > >and a breeding ground for economic collectivism.
> > >--
> > Not all of them are a disgrace, Cecil. Most of the public schools I know are > > excellent.
> >
> > What makes them "a breeding ground for economic collectivism"??

The NEA.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4426. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:41:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B993E.F896B4A9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27424

Rick Adams wrote:
> Perhaps instead of telling us what you would like to see torn > down if the Libertarians were in power, you might want to enlighten us > as to what it would be replaced with--and why THAT would insure > improvements.

Everything falls out from the premise that an individual's life and the products of that life belong to that individual. He should have the freedom to decide how the products of his life are spent. Otherwise, he is just a slave.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4427. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:41:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215134123.01870.00000335@mb-fz.aol.com>
Source record: 27423

In article <Pine.LNX.4.10.10112082148260.20076-100000@exp.bde-arc.ampr.org>,
"D. Stussy" <kd6lvw@bde-arc.ampr.org> writes:

>This reminds me of the petition to the FCC regarding Stewart Teaze's
>"communicator" license and what a joke that was.

Except this is real.

The UK Foundation class offers far more privileges than his proposed "Colt"
idea.

73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>On 8 Dec 2001, N2EY wrote: >>Was perusing a copy of CQ in the local MicroCenter when I came upon an >article
>>about UK restructuring.
>>
>>Their existing classes are getting a bit more power & privs, and looks like >5
>>wpm for full access.
>>
>>But the big news is a new class of license they call "Foundation". Idea is
>to >>have a license that can be had at the end of a one-day training session.
>>
>>Privs include parts of almost all bands and modes except 10 meters.
>>
>>Written test is 20 multiple guess questions, mostly on regs.
>>
>>BUT.....
>>
>>No homebrewing or kits - all gear must be manufactured and type-approved.
>>
>>Code test to be a "familiarity" test. No speed specified, and the person >being >>tested can use "aids" like crib sheets. For example, the examiner sends an
>"A",
>>the person being tested writes down a dot and dash on scrap paper, then >looks >>up "dot dash" on a crib sheet and writes down "A" on the test paper. Sending >>test to be similar.
>>
>>Waddya think, folks?
>

4428. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:44:29 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B9A0D.6A51118C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27425

W1RFI wrote:
>
> From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
> > And you expected...WHAT...from RRAP...?!?!
>
> How about a congratulations for a fellow ham who has upgraded?
> Congratuations, Carl.

Yep, congratulations. The average technical skill of the Extra class just inched up a notch. Now who was it who was recently ragging on Carl for not upgrading?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4429. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:47:35 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B9AC7.4EA217B0@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27426

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > > > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?
> >
> > I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.
>
> Sure you did, Cecil.

You're lying again, Dave. Wish you wouldn't do that. He has no problem with being truthfully mentioned on this newsgroup.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4430. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:50:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1B9B73.118CB4FA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27427

N2EY wrote:
>
> In article <3C1AB88F.6B6FCFF2@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >Dave Heil wrote:
> >> I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> >> bandying his name about.
> > >
> >I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
>
> Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?

You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam but he has no need for HF privileges.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4431. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 18:55:46 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <S0NS7.165375$WW.10389508@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27428

mike coslo wrote

> Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> things? 8^)
>
> Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to
> alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.

Sure Mike... you go first we'll follow you...

Rich

Hey Jim, I guess he doesn't like us talking about 'torturing' little old ladies... ;-)

>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > In article <i85R7.290107$W8.9721109@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
> > "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:
> >
> > >> "NOBODY EXPECTS THE SPANISH INQUISITION!!!"
> > >>
> > >> followed by scenes of torture involving a (dish) rack, being poked with > > >soft
> > >> cushions, and being forced to sit in "the comfy chair".
> > >
> > >And, of course, they had some sweet little old lady sitting there taking the
> > >'abuse'...
> >

4432. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 19:07:24 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011215140736.079$xR@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27429
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Cecil, I have seen that show many time which is it New Detectives or something like that?

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1B9306.B1B42F4B@IEEE.org...
> Dick Carroll wrote: > > Arguing with a cop is stupid. If he had no reason for stopping you, he > > wouldn't have.
>
> You mean that the lady who was raped and murdered by a California > highway patrolman should not have argued with him?
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4433. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 19:44:55 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <5932300D0E96DA4A.C78643F5C3E4F6A0.BE97C56E6DD68734@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27430

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 04:12:49 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed >highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide >behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot >possibly be discussed with the door open?

If you discuss classified information in a setting where it is possible to be overheard (an office with the door open IS such a setting) you are guilty of a major felony. Don't believe it? Report to the military security officer in contact with your firm that you have done precisely that and see how quickly you find out that you violated
the law.

Contrast that with the potential of sexual harassment accusations, and I'd say that your practice is both a lot more personally risky--and a lot more harmful to our country (I don't know what kind of classified military material you deal with--but if it could benefit an enemy of this country [as could most such material] you are risking treason to protect yourself from possible harassment charges).

Extend your argument to the next level, Dwight. If it's reasonable for YOU to talk about classified material with the door open, in order to prevent having to have closed-door sessions with an opposite sex coworker, then the same must hold true for others. I can just see a department head with NSA or the CIA insisting that a subordinate leave the door to the office open while discussing a top secret (or higher classification) document with him or her, can't you?

If it's safe for an intelligence officer (or any other government supervisor) to meet privately with a subordinate, why isn't it ok for you--or is it not the situation you distrust, but your own reactions to being alone with a woman in a closed room?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4434. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 19:58:54 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9D098EB62797AF86.63281AF19F2AE617.A869FD9813F0BAFF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27431

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 03:12:43 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> First of all, we have the companies where security is not a major issue -
>they're not working on anything where security, or sensitivity of product >development, is a strong consideration. Obviously, this category of companies >would include most in this country. And these were the companies I was talking >about when I asked Rick what he was "discussing that is so secret it cannot >possibly be discussed with the door open?" Obviously, for companies where >security is not a major issue, there is little "need" for meetings behind closed >doors - most business could be discussed with the doors open.

You certainly live in a different country than I do if you don't think companies have more security interests than those. What about market projections, expansion plans, new advertising campaigns, personnel counseling (with alcoholics, etc.), promotion lists, departmental restructuring, etc.? Maybe your local hardware store doesn't need to have closed-door meetings, but virtually any medium to large organization certainly does.

> At this point, you introduced a second category of companies into the >discussion - those with a concern about sensitive product development ("HP/Intel >shared computer architecture"). Actually, to be completely clear about this >category of companies, we need to break it down further - those companies with >just mild security considerations (consumer products, etc) and those truly >obsessed with security (military contractors, etc).

He introduced that category in response to your own message--and in YOUR message you stated that you hold open door conversations concerning classified military information. Sounds to me as though YOU opened the door to that topic.

> Finally, there is the second group of these companies (those truly obsessed >with security). These are the companies who would hire security personnel (not >security guards - security personnel to insure security of company information >and product information). And I was talking about these companies when I said >"private discussions about such information would be looked at with suspicion in >most companies."

But, of course, no one in his or her right mind would WANT to work for a firm that was "obsessed with security." You would spend the entire day knowing that you were being watched by people who expected you to violate their trust--hardly a stress-free work place.

> Now that we have a better understanding of the groups of companies we're >talking about (those with little or no security considerations, those with mild >security considerations, and those obsessed with security), this conversation >might make a little more sense.

Ok:

Those with no security considerations will STILL have confidential information discussed (salary reviews, personnel needs, advertising campaigns, recruiting efforts, etc.) that will require closed-door meetings.

Those with mild security considerations will have all the above plus concerns with product, information, or military security issues and will require closed-door meetings.

Those with an obsession with security, on the other hand, often will not PERMIT closed-door meetings between only two employees because they don't trust those employees not to act against the best interests of the firm.

Clearly, based on your statements about not having closed door meetings as a matter of policy, you must work for one of the latter firms. Good luck--I turned down a pretty good offer from EDS several years ago because they were just that kind of firm. It's nice to see that some people don't object to working for employers who don't trust them, since we need the services of those firms just as much as we need the services of more rationally managed firms.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4435. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 19:59:32 UTC
From: JR <radiobuf@mailcity.net>
Message-ID: <3C1AF375.B21B56A7@mailcity.net>
Source record: 27432
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"The Packratï¿½" wrote:
>
> Fingerprinting is only good for FM.
>

Any transmitter can be fingerprinted.

4436. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:07:03 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <8B0F59A742F36CAD.5F376A2E027CC402.C395FE644BBA55BB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27433

On 13 Dec 2001 15:43:37 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Nobody expects you to do anything that demonstrates any >personal integrity; therefore you don't need to make any such >public confessions!

What does integrity have to do with it?

If someone is paid a given salary, how on earth can it be unethical or lacking in integrity to tell others how much that salary
is?

It is the COMPANY which demands employees keep their salaries confidential that demonstrates a lack of integrity. The ONLY reason for taking that position is because they are paying some people more to do a given job than they are paying others for the same work. If their pay scale was based on equal pay for equal work they wouldn't CARE if people told others what they earned. Look at the government;
if you are civil service all that is necessary is to know your pay level (which is open information, since your position in an agency is determined by it). All "G5s," for example, receive precisely the same salary. They don't have to hide it because their employer isn't cheating anyone else out of a fair pay by concealing it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4437. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:09:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <67C5046EDA39A524.3F8D880ECCCFC8AA.EF475C74F9D03B78@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27434

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 04:33:00 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>>
>> I do what I'm told at work, Dwight. I've never >> experienced a male or female boss acting wrongly.
>> As I said, I suppose that the companies I've >> worked at have all employed some very adult >> people--because we all seem to be competent to >> have closed door meetings without any problems.
>
>
> Well, Kim, there is little reason to continue with this - those are your >experiences and these are mine (and both are equally legitimate). But I will end >with this simple observation - as soon as a complaint is made at your company, >or your company hears of something similar in your area, those doors at your >company will fly open and remain that way. As I said, it is happening all around >the country and your company is pressing it's luck by not paying attention to that.

On the other hand, as soon as the military finds out that people at your firm are discussing classified military information with OPEN doors, those doors will slam SHUT very quickly.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4438. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:22:44 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215152244.12113.00000340@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27435

>Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>From: n2ey@aol.com (N2EY)
>Date: 12/15/2001 11:03 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <20011215120312.01870.00000332@mb-fz.aol.com>

>Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?

Isn't that covered by the Fifth Amendment, Jim?

73

Steve, K4YZ

4439. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:26:04 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215152604.12113.00000343@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27436

>Subject: Re: From a former Trucker
>From: "The Packratï¿½" spam@n7uic.net
>Date: 12/15/2001 12:04 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <0hMS7.2351$X94.136930@rwcrnsc52>

>Fingerprinting is only good for FM.

Who told you that? There are definate telltales even in an SSB signal that get you snagged. Not as easy, but do-able.

Steve, K4YZ

4440. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:37:16 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <26119E8DEA4F8A2B.3C1F85CC0FFC9B9B.4D248FAA9DCE0AD2@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27437

On 10 Dec 2001 04:40:15 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>As far as I know, neither the Bush administration or the Reagan administration >has abrogated anyone's Right To Keep And Bear Arms. As a matter of >fact, it could be said that the Reagan administration, with George Bush
>as VP, went a bit overboard in trying to guarantee the Right To Keep And >Bear Arms for the Nicauraguan Contra rebels!

1. Under the recent anti-terrorism legislation, no weapon purchased from the military as surplus may be maintained in an operable state. If the weapon is already operable, the owner is required to either have it rendered incapable of firing (and provide proof) or turn the weapon in to the government w/o compensation. That includes not just fully automatic or high powered military hardware but everything from M1 carbines (VERY common today as inexpensive hunting rifles), military issue Colt .45 automatic pistols (commonly bought at surplus and refitted with match quality barrels and actions), etc.

2. Also under the anti-terrorism legislation, the government has the absolute right to seize ANYONE'S firearms w/o a warrant as long as they claim the seizure is for the purpose of preventing terrorism--and they do NOT have to prove that claim.

3. The seize at Waco was based on a claim that the Branch Davidians had a fully automatic machine gun on the premises (the so-called child abuse justification not only was disproven before the raid, but it was a state matter not one meeting the requirements for federal intervention)--DESPITE the fact that even if such a weapon HAD been present (it wasn't) it would not have been illegal because one of the residents had a federal firearms license to OWN one.

4. In several states (Michigan and Montana among them) federal agents have infiltrated Militia groups because they promote a right to bear arms and practice together with those weapons (and, no, I'm NOT a militia supporter).

5. Several jurisdictions (including Washington DC, which is administered under FEDERAL law, and thus completely subject to Constitutional limitations) have banned certain classes of otherwise legal firearms (Baltimore even banned "Saturday Night Specials" defining them as handguns selling for less than a given price new).

6. School "gun free" zones extend 1,000 feet (approx 1/5 of a mile) in all directions from a school. Legally, it is a criminal offense to bring a firearm into that zone--even if it includes your HOME!

I won't even bother with the changes in gun laws that the combination of Brady and the drug war have lead to in the US--the simple fact remains that the government DOES limit the right to bear arms in substantial ways.

>That's ONE!!!

Nice try--and far closer than most of the other amendments.

>BTW -- I don't know how to check this, but I'm pretty sure the Bush's >haven't forced anyone to house any military troops in their homes, either!

1. Eminent domain has been used to take property from people that is used to build or expand military bases which in turn house military troops.

2. Under anti-terrorism legislation, the government has the right to place armed agents (equal to military troops in modern terms) in occupied dwellings in order to affect anti-terrorism activities involving other sites (i.e., FBI agents in a private home watching a suspect's home across the street) even if the owner of the dwelling specifically forbids such use!

Good try, Larry, but that was then--this is now.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4441. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:40:03 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <DyOS7.297513$W8.10311306@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27438

> mike coslo writes:

> > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> >any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> >things? 8^)

Larry Roll K3LT wrote

> I'm the one who started this thread, and it is supposed to be about > the sexually suggestive, inappropriate, and self-serving Vanity call > sign of Kim Walker, W5TIT -- and the reply she received from Riley > Hollingsworth when she made a vain attempt to trick him into > endorsing her choice with the lame excuse that it is her "First > Amendment right" to do so. This thread has now grown to over > 1,000 postings, probably 3/4 of them having nothing to do with the > original topic!
>
> Hey guys --- ever see that subject line in your newsreader? Did you > know you can change what it says there? And a good time to do > so is when you're making a posting that has nothing to do with > whatever thread you've been reading at the time!
>
> And to think of all the time's I've been accused of being computer-> illiterate because I use AOL! Sheez!

Hey Larry and Mike...

Posting about the topics of newsgoups is not the topic of this thread... can the chatter and take it somewhere else... :^

Rich

4442. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 20:50:08 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <4IOS7.297529$W8.10312252@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27439

> > > CAM wrote:

> > > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > > in public.

Dwight's having trouble with this 'cancept'.

> > Dwight Stewart wrote

> > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend is > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between co-workers.

That's what makes the closed door meetings more tolerable for all cancerned.

> Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> > Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely on our
> > "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?

He's painted himself into a corner now we have to wait two months for the paint to dry.. ;-)

> > I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are expected
> > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right on.

It's falling on deaf ears... Kim...

> I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.

Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble... ;-)

Rich...

4443. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 21:04:35 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <DVOS7.297544$W8.10313450@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27440

> > > Robert Casey wrote:

> > > > > Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> > > > > "If only these were brains".

> > CAM wrote:

> > > > Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
> > > > positioned on the breasts.

> > > Oh no, Robert. You used the "b" word. You know you will bring > > > down the wrath of Larry Roll for doing that.

> Robert Casey wrote

> > Just now I heard the "T" word on the FM broadcast band.
> > Something about "tit for tat". :-)

Kim-W5TIT wrote

> Just one of each?! :)

Kim..

Are you saying it isn't...
"T" shirt...
but...
"T's"-shirt??? ;-)

Rich

4444. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 21:19:40 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <M7PS7.297563$W8.10314937@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27441
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

"middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com> wrote in message news:hvLS7.309256$5A3.119405019@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com...
> William No one said any law was enacted to allow LEO's the ability to > confiscate equipment on a MIL base. But Tacoma did pass a law, they have no > more authority than the FCC does with regards to these matters. you can > basically say the FCC deputized these people to carry out there job's for > them, at least regarding CB enforcement.

Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.

Rich

4445. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 21:27:07 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011215162723.086$7w@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27442
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

They sure did, why do you say they haven't?

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:M7PS7.297563
> Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> Rich
>
>

4446. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 21:36:28 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <wnPS7.297581$W8.10316726@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27443
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

> Richard Plourde wrote

> > Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.

"Shrimp Biskit" wrote

> They sure did, why do you say they haven't?

No one has been able to provide PROOF that the law had been passed.

Search the Tacoma web sites and see if any 'proof' exists. It just didn't happen, plain and simple.

Rich

4447. USA using Radio DF'ing to find Bin Laden

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 22:11:09 UTC
From: "P. Atredes esq" <eggnog40@aol.com> Message-ID: <1UPS7.5098$O7.528097@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27444
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner,rec.radio.amateur.dx,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave interesting story!

click here: http://www.washtimes.com/national/20011215-68264047.htm

4448. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 23:16:08 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <YQQS7.310110$5A3.119634853@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27445
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

Well Richard you can take the Lazy mans way out, perhaps the web page wasn't updated yet. But I have all the proof I need I called the City of Tacoma personally and the Law was passed on sept 18. Now you can say it isn't so but it indeed has passed. From what was described a loud mouth CBer was interfering with TV's, telephones etc in the City of Tacoma and he wouldn't stop so they passed a law to make him stop.

Call for yourself I am sure the Clerk there will wonder why the sudden interest in Tacoma's Law. But what the heck she was nice as pie to me

City of Tacoma
1-253-591-5171

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message
news:wnPS7.297581$W8.10316726@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > Richard Plourde wrote
>
> > > Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> "Shrimp Biskit" wrote
>
> > They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
>
> No one has been able to provide PROOF that the law had been passed.
>
> Search the Tacoma web sites and see if any 'proof' exists. It just didn't > happen, plain and simple.
>
> Rich
>
>
>

4449. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-15 23:30:31 UTC
From: Jerry Oxendine <joxendi@bellsouth.net>
Message-ID: <g_QS7.82337$AR6.3360226@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com>
Source record: 27446
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

That scenario actually happened in Monroe, NC about 4 years ago. Seems there was a cop there who took a liking to a young lady who worked in a restaurant. She was, indeed, movie star beautiful and also very married. The cop waited for her to get off one Friday night, followed her, and stopped her. He raped and murdered her for which he was convicted and sentenced to life in prison--I think he should've gotten the death penalty.

Jerry
Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp> wrote in message news:20011215140736.079$xR@news.newsreader.com...
> Cecil, I have seen that show many time which is it New Detectives or > something like that?
>
> "CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3C1B9306.B1B42F4B@IEEE.org...
> > Dick Carroll wrote:
> > > Arguing with a cop is stupid. If he had no reason for stopping you,
he > > > wouldn't have.
> >
> > You mean that the lady who was raped and murdered by a California > > highway patrolman should not have argued with him?
> > --
> > cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
>
>

4450. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 00:19:03 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goekj2u.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27447
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 07:24:57 -0800, WILLIAM FRAZIER wrote:

>Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the >enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment
>that the FCC has ordered confiscated.

Sorry to tell that the above is not correct.

The FBI is most certainly not the enforcement branch of the FCC nor vice-versa. The FCC has its own Enforcement Bureau and take it from me, the FCC/EB does not want to hand any of its cases to the FBI if it can avoid it because dealing with the FBI is a one-way street
(there is no give, only take, maybe the last legacy of JEdgar Hoover).

Radio equipment is not "confiscated" because it is not contraband.
It is seized (big legal difference) and can be forfeited to the government only by court order after an evidnetiary hearing which the U S Attorney must request within sixty days, and in which the owner of interest has the opportunity to show that his/her interest in the equipment was not related to the violation.

Seizure of radio equipment for non-compliance with communications law requires an order of the Federal District Court on application of the FCC showing probable cause, and is carried out by any Federal officer authorized to execute court orders, usually the U S Marshal Service or some other Federal agency on request of the Marshal Service.

Conversely, any Federal or local LEO (including the FBI) can seize radio equipment as evidence of a non-communications-law crime which they have jurisdiction to deal with, the same as any other evidence (court order or the Seven Magic Exemptions).

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

From a Clearing in the Silicon Forest
Beaverton (Washington County) Oregon

4451. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 00:19:04 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goelatv.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27448

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 09:24:59 -0500, Carl R. Stevenson wrote:

>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from
>what I can see.

Welcome back to The Zoo....and congrats on the upgrade.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

From a Clearing in the Silicon Forest
Beaverton (Washington County) Oregon

Retired and loving every minute of it....
Work was getting in the way of my hobbies

4452. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 00:21:01 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0112151621.4c9ff34f@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27449
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
news:<V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net>...
> I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore. If you > are on the road ham is the best way to go. With the new IRLP system you can > tone up repeaters almost any ware in the world, (http://www.irlp.net/) > with just a hand-held. One thing that all CBers should ask themselves before > they key up, is what they are talking about fit for family listening. Would > you want your wife, girlfriend or kids listening to that? Also that they can > be tracked in under 6 seconds and the transmitter fingerprint system works > very well. The reason that the governments of the world permit this to > continue is that the cost to go to trial is prohibitive. I do know that > Industry Canada and the FCC will act on complaints especially if the dirty > radio gets into the commercial or police bands. I have played around with > radio tracking using the Doppler shift radio tracking system on CB and it is > unbelievable how fast you can drive right up to someone's door or follow a > dirty trucker into a truck stop and have a talk with him face to face.
>
> "Tazanator" <tazanator1@attbi.com> wrote in message
> news:7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54...
> > Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger > > picture on this.
> >
> > I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However having > > driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19
> has > > degenerated way down to the point of people harrassing truckers (listen > > sometime a bulk of the noise is from base stations especial around big > > cities) most of the "sesame Street" gang is kids playing and talking big.
> >
> > Due to this depressing talk to drivers, many have left the CB buying ham
> > radios for the extra cost so they can "get away" from the base stations (I > > was told that a long time ago CB was just like 80 meters is today...many > > truckers miss that peaceful feeling you enjoy (I only have a tech so 2 > > meters is my place)) while it is wrong many don't care due to the way they > > were treated on channel 19 (Penn state has a kid on 19 with a 250 watt > base
> > that must have a dictionary of every swear word that he just keeps reading > > at truckers)
> >
> > As far as the FCC many state scales have fcc trained weigh masters that do
> > check (you pull on to the scale and are asked to key up the CB) sometimes > > they find them often they don't. I belive that the truckers could bring a > > revival to the ham comunity, just from the numbers point of view, and I > > started down ham meeting another ham trucker...HE HAD A HUGE ANT (screw > > driver)ON THAT TRUCK!!! made me wonder what he was talking to!

> >
> > While it is a privalage to us ... a little tact here could gain you a > friend
> > and the ham community more clout. Sence I got my ticket many of the guys
> I
> > used to run with have seen me use the 2 meter repeater system (they loved
> > the michigan linked repeater system...all over the state with only an HT) > > and the phone patches, many have started borrowing my books to study for
> the > > test.
> >
> > To start them on the road just help them out ... many would love to have
> the > > ANT checked by an MFJ analizer (they pay up to $20 for it) and as you > teach > > them how to get the best out of the CB talk about the ham structure many > > will listen and think about it....many of my friends have started studying
> >
> > (by the way it supposed to be 28.665 for the new 19)
> >
> > --
> >
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER
> >
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the reporter,
> > Who has given us freedom of the press.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the poet,
> > Who has given us freedom of speech.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the campus organizer,
> > Who has given us freedom to demonstrate.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the lawyer,
> > Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
> > IT IS THE SOLDIER, who salutes the flag,
> > Who serves under the flag and,
> > Whose coffin is draped by the flag,
> > Who allows the protester to burn the flag.
> >
> > Author, Charles M. Province
> >
> > **
> > By US Code Title 47, Sec.227(a)(2)(B), a computer/modem/printer meets > > the definition of a telephone fax machine. By Sec.227(b)(1)(C), it is > > unlawful to send any unsolicited advertisement to such equipment. By > > Sec.227(b)(3)(C), a violation of the aforementioned Section is > > punishable by action to recover actual monetary loss, or $500, whichever > > is greater, for each violation.
> > **

> >
> > think I'm full of it look yourself!
> > http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/47/227.html
> >
> > "Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
> > news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> > > Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> > > on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> > > one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > > > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> > > she thought of to make "Xmas money".
> > >
> > > Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter
> > > radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > > > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
> > >
> > > Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> > > Is the cow out of the barn door?
> > > A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> > > to try an politely inform them there were in violation > > > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> > > One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and
> > > gentlemanly composure in his speech
> > > to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> > > complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
> > >
> > > Nice eh?
> > > Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
> > >
> > > I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
> > >
> > > How about 2 meters?
> > > Is that the next band to be trashed by these > > > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart > > > and operate without a licence ?
> > >
> > >
> >
> >

i remember in the old days every once in a while, somebody would get one of those radio direction finder gizmos and try and find somebody for whatever reason. i always thought that people who do stuff like that , have entirely too much time on their hands.....

4453. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:16:30 UTC
From: mjc5 <mjc5@psu.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1BF5EE.FCD5C301@psu.edu>
Source record: 27501

Umm, actually I did change the thread. See the new title? 8^)

`- Mike -

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> mike coslo wrote
>
> > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> > any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> > things? 8^)
> >
> > Or maybe the newsgroup needs renamed to > > alt.one.step.closer.to.extinction , with only one free association thread.
>
> Sure Mike... you go first we'll follow you...
>
> Rich
>
> Hey Jim, I guess he doesn't like us talking about 'torturing' little old
> ladies... ;-)

4454. Re: Clean up yer threads, was Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:18:02 UTC
From: mjc5 <mjc5@psu.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1BF64A.9D21986A@psu.edu>
Source record: 27450

Richard Plourde wrote:
>
> > mike coslo writes:
>
> > > Hey folks, we got about 5 different topics going on under this thread.
> > >any chance of breaking them off so us unwashed can follow the darn
> > >things? 8^)
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote
>
> > I'm the one who started this thread, and it is supposed to be about > > the sexually suggestive, inappropriate, and self-serving Vanity call > > sign of Kim Walker, W5TIT -- and the reply she received from Riley > > Hollingsworth when she made a vain attempt to trick him into > > endorsing her choice with the lame excuse that it is her "First > > Amendment right" to do so. This thread has now grown to over > > 1,000 postings, probably 3/4 of them having nothing to do with the > > original topic!
> >
> > Hey guys --- ever see that subject line in your newsreader? Did you > > know you can change what it says there? And a good time to do > > so is when you're making a posting that has nothing to do with > > whatever thread you've been reading at the time!
> >
> > And to think of all the time's I've been accused of being computer-> > illiterate because I use AOL! Sheez!
>
> Hey Larry and Mike...
>
> Posting about the topics of newsgoups is not the topic of this thread... can > the chatter and take it somewhere else... :^
>
> Rich

I just knew someone was gonna com in and bust my chops for this!

- Mike -

4455. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:39:17 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1bfb7c_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27502

"W1RFI" <w1rfi@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011215122015.03163.00000366@mb-cr.aol.com...
> From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
>
> >>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
> >>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from > >>what I can see.
>
> > And you expected...WHAT...from RRAP...?!?!
>
> How about a congratulations for a fellow ham who has upgraded?
>
> Congratuations, Carl.
>
> 73,
> Ed Hare, W1RFI
>

Thanks, Ed.

73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4456. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:40:58 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1bfbe0$1_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27503

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.goelatv.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 09:24:59 -0500, Carl R. Stevenson wrote:
>
> >This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
> >and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from > >what I can see.
>
> Welcome back to The Zoo....and congrats on the upgrade.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

Thanks, Phil ...

73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4457. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:45:00 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1bfcd3_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27504

I accidentally clicked the "reply as e-mail" button ... haven't been on usenet in so long I've forgotten where some of the differences between Outlook Express' news reader and the Outlook 2k I normally use for everything else ...

an Jim replied by e-mail with the following:

Carl,

Didja post this to rrap? I was a little surprised to get it as email. The group oughta know your position on this. I'll answer it there if you meant
to post it, otherwise I'll answer on the next go-round.

73 de Jim, N2EY

In a message dated 12/15/01 12:13:41 PM Eastern Standard Time, wa6vse-shack@fast.net writes:

> ---- Original Message -----
> From: "N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com>
> Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
> Sent: Saturday, December 15, 2001 12:03 PM
> Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>
> [snip]
>
> >
> > And by the way, for the record:
> >
> > I don't think a "no-homebrew" license is a good thing for the ARS at all.
> >
> > 73 de Jim, "Definitive Expert" N2EY
>
> Jim,
>
> I agree wholeheartedly ... a license which requires the use of "factory > built" gear is counter to the technical educational aspect of ham radio.
>
> It could also, as an "unintended consequence" result in some sort of
> "type acceptance" requirement and THAT would be REALLY bad for > the ARS.
>

4458. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 01:50:38 UTC
From: Tom Sevart <n2uhcNOSPAM@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vguks$er173$1@ID-52518.news.dfncis.de>
Source record: 27505
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"The Packrat" <spam@n7uic.net> wrote in message
news:0hMS7.2351$X94.136930@rwcrnsc52...
> Fingerprinting is only good for FM.
>

No it's not. Any transmitter, regardless of mode, can be fingerprinted. We did it in the military.

Tom

4459. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 02:10:40 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vgvqa0rh0@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27506
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"Professor" <bgriffey@core.com> wrote in message
news:3c1b4471$0$30975$1dc6e903@news.corecomm.net...
> Boy do I wish that was true.
> I'd actually be able to hold a conversation out there...
>
> --
>
> |||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||
> Professor
> |||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||
>
>
> "WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
> news:V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net...
> > I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have > > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore.

I had to laugh at this. This is almost like the Yogi Berra response as to why he didn't go to a certain popular restaurant. He said, "Because it's so crowded, no one ever goes there anymore!"

4460. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 02:21:13 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vh0bs0sim@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27510

"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message news:3c1b5d71_2@news7.fast.net...

> Larry,
>
> According to the FCC "none." AndI find the FCC to be a FAR > more credible source of information/opinion on this matter than > you, so why don't you stop ranting?
>
> This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
> and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from > what I can see.
>
> Get a life ...

Carl,

Great to see you back on the newsgroup again.

Yes, Larry will probably being sulking about April 15, 2000 forever. (We now have Kim, W5TIT, being a boil on his behind and taking pleasure in it, but that's another topic)

4461. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 02:38:31 UTC
From: k0hb@qwest.net
Message-ID: <b7c5262e.0112151838.3dbeb182@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27507

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:

> I finally got around to finding time in my work/travel > schedule to go to a VE session and upgrade to Extra

Excellent.

Hope to hear you in the upcoming ARRL DX test.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4462. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 02:45:32 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vh1gg$7s5$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27508

Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:3C1AB023.9E99CE58@sccoast.net...
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Intel is one of the most successful companies of > > all time. Many Silicon Valley companies copy > > their policies. (snip)
>
>
> Nonsense. Now you're showing your ignorance, Cecil

Why don't you just take Cecil's word for it and leave it at that?

4463. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 02:50:16 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vh1pd$84b$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27509

N2EY <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011213160301.24724.00000269@mb-mr.aol.com...
> In article <20011211221700.13985.00000823@mb-md.aol.com>,
yodoc@aol.comnospam
> (Larry Roll K3LT) writes:
> >I have my doubts that even in Paris, you can find Metro stations spaced > >less than 1/3 of a mile apart!
>
> I've never been there. My info is based on a report in an industry journal.

Most Metro stops are less than a minute apart.

4464. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:23:14 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1c13da_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27511

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:9vh1pd$84b$1@news.service.uci.edu...
>
> N2EY <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:20011213160301.24724.00000269@mb-mr.aol.com...
> > In article <20011211221700.13985.00000823@mb-md.aol.com>,
> yodoc@aol.comnospam
> > (Larry Roll K3LT) writes:
> > >I have my doubts that even in Paris, you can find Metro stations spaced > > >less than 1/3 of a mile apart!
> >
> > I've never been there. My info is based on a report in an industry > journal.
>
> Most Metro stops are less than a minute apart.
>

Having been to Paris recently, I can vouch for the fact that, in many parts of the metro system, the stops are very close together.

73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4465. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:26:09 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1C1452.484DAD62@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27512

```
Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C1B8CEF.4E14C7AB@earthlink.net...
> > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > >
> > > "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> > > news:3C1AF3A9.FE9E3D78@earthlink.net...
> > > > Kim-W5TIT wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > "Dwight Stewart" <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
> > > > > news:3C1AAC75.D32717A1@sccoast.net...
> > > > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Private meetings are to be held in private, not
> > > > > > > in public.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Between members of the opposite sex, that is changing. The trend
> is > > > > > > towards more restrictions on intimate activities between > co-workers.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > As I've told others, please note that, after tonight, I'll be > > > > > > > leaving this newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's > > > > > > > been fun and I'll look forward to talking with you again when I > > > > > > > return. Take care.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > Dwight Stewart (W5NET)
> > > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > > Dwight, you can't have it both ways. You keep saying "we" must rely
> on > > > > our
> > > > > > "own experience" then you say that the "trend" is "towards more > > > > > > restrictions...blah, blah, blah." WHERE?
> > > > > >
> > > > > > I'll continue to do business at my place, where adults act and are > > > expected
> > > > > > to act like adults. If you want to continue to work for the kiddie > > > > > > companies where no trust is granted or obtained, you just keep right > on.
> > > > >
```

> > > > I've worked in a lot of places, Kim. I've never worked anywhere that > > > > had a bunch of wiccans and druids hunched over the water cooler.
> > > >
> > > > Dave K8MN
> > >
> > > I wouldn't know, because we don't discuss those things at work. Again, > > > company policy and professional etiquette would dictate that certain
> things
> > > are just not for the "office."
> > >
> > > Also, in this part of this thread the discussion is about one-on-one > > > meetings behind closed doors with members of the opposite sex.
> >
> > No, this part of the thread is about wiccans and druids hunched over > > water coolers. That's the part you responded to.
> >
> > I understand about that "not for the office" stuff. I hope you don't > > bring up the discussion about your callsign there either. Save that for > > when you're at the ballpark shouting the "F" word.
> >
> > Dave K8MN
>
> No, actually my callsign's been discussed at the office. You see, it is a > callsign--and has nothing to do with sex, color, race, religion, or national > origin. They get it. Some hams don't.

So basically, nothing is really off limits at the office.

> I don't go to the ballpark, I told you. I do go to stuffy dinners and > banquets, though. I just whisper "fuck" at those.

Don't leave out the part about getting your jollies by typing it fairly frequently here, Kim. By the way, YOU were the individual who originally brought up using the term at a ball game. If you don't go, why'd you use that particular example?

> Are you aware that by saying "the 'F' word" you've as much as said and used > it, Dave? At least be truthful with yourself.

That is certainly an interesting point of view. I don't agree with it--honestly.

See, I told you what this part of the thread is about.

Dave K8MN

4466. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:26:42 UTC
From: radiohead11m@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215222642.13552.00000489@mb-mm.aol.com>
Source record: 27513

>> Social engineering in a technical hobby (at least supposed to be one).
>> Right.
>
>The Federal Government requires HF hams to know Morse code. That's >social engineering, Dick. All governmental requirements are social >engineering. If the feds were not trying to engineer society, there >would be no need for federal requirements.

Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just follows that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.

Mark

4467. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:26:47 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vh3u0$91l$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27517

N2EY <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011215120313.01870.00000334@mb-fz.aol.com...
> In article <3C16623B.9D45ACBA@uci.edu>, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
writes:
> >It only takes about an hour to walk > >across the city between the walls where 2 millions of the residents > >live. Out here you'd barely get started down Imperial in that amount of > >time.

> Did you get to ride the Metro much?

Sure. We bought about 10 tickets a day between the two of us, and one ticket will get you anywhere in the city you want to go. They actually have two separate commuter systems now - the Metro and the RER. The RER doesn't have as many stops as the Metro, but serves all the major destinations, and a few you can't get to on the Metro (like Versailles). We stayed up in the Opera district (the 9th Arrondissment) and found it was easier just to walk to the left bank and the Louvre. Took about 15 or 20 minutes, and helped us to walk off some of the meals. The train only crosses the river in a few places, so the route from one side to the other is a little circuitous. There was a strike on one of the lines one day. Not many trains were running. When it finally came into the station is looked like the old college prank of stuffing 20 people into a phone booth. We got on anyway. I laughed the whole time (although I think I was the only one laughing). ;-)

It was a great trip.

73 de ac6xg

4468. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:28:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1C14C4.1760B15B@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27514

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > > > > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?
> > >
> > > I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.
> >
> > Sure you did, Cecil.
>
> You're lying again, Dave. Wish you wouldn't do that. He has no > problem with being truthfully mentioned on this newsgroup.

Sure you did, Cecil. Fess up.

Dave K8MN
```

4469. Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:28:59 UTC
From: senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu
Message-ID: <senecal-1512011928590001@d71-096.solano1.ucdavis.edu>
Source record: 27515
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Hi all,

I'm going to be flying soon, and I'd like to take my HT with me in my carryon (no, I won't be using it on the plane! :) I'm concerned that having this may cause a problem at airport security, what with the current situation and all. Has anyone flown recently and carried their rig with them? If so, what was your experience at the airport?

Thanks!

-Josh Senecal, KG6IBF

--
senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu (remove the obvious bit from the address)

"Your most valuable asset is rampant ignorance."
-Dogbert

4470. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:29:03 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1C1500.BBB0A352@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27516

CAM wrote:
>
> N2EY wrote:
> >
> > In article <3C1AB88F.6B6FCFF2@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >
> > >Dave Heil wrote:
> > >> I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
> > >> bandying his name about.
> > >
> > >I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
> >
> > Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?
>
> You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
> in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam
> but he has no need for HF privileges.

Then what's his beef...or yours?

Dave K8MN

4471. Re: Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:34:18 UTC
From: radiohead11m@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011215223418.13552.00000490@mb-mm.aol.com>
Source record: 27518

>I just wanted to be the first to get those greetings in this year.
>In case I've missed anybody (Larry, Richard, Krell, Mike, Rick, and >others), I just wanted to point out again that I'll be leaving this >newsgroup for several weeks (one to two months). It's been fun and >I'll look forward to talking with everyone when I return. Until then, >take care.
>
>
>Dwight Stewart (W5NET)

Hi Dwight,

Seasons greeting to you also, as well as the rest of the newsgroup. Take care and 73.

Mark

4472. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 03:53:43 UTC
From: Doug & Lisa Cook <twoeyedox@aol.com>
Message-ID: <u1o6o2l93qrb88@news.supernews.com>
Source record: 27519
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I packed my Kenwood TH-F6A in my backpack alongside my laptop. It passed through the xray and airport security without a hitch.

Doug KD5PDN

4473. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:09:32 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1c1e20.18300420@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27520
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 16:27:07 -0500, "Shrimp Biskit"
<pipedream@hotmail.comsp> wrote:

>They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
>
>"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:M7PS7.297563
>> Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.

Because no one has been able to produce a copy of the law. If you have a copy, please post the text...and/or tell the rest of us where to obtain a copy.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4474. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:17:58 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1c1fe5.18753486@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27521

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 17:45:34 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:
>A professional engineer should have aced the Extra test.

Why? 1/4 or more of the questions involve totally non-technical subjects (VE credentials, amateur space operations rules, etc.)

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4475. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:24:56 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1c2251_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27522

"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011215222642.13552.00000489@mb-mm.aol.com...
> >> Social engineering in a technical hobby (at least supposed to be one).
> >> Right.
> >
> >The Federal Government requires HF hams to know Morse code. That's > >social engineering, Dick. All governmental requirements are social > >engineering. If the feds were not trying to engineer society, there > >would be no need for federal requirements.
>
> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just follows > that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
>
> Mark

Mark,

You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.

That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that way in most of the world, too.

Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy in the future after all ...

73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.

Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4476. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:32:25 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <ttVS7.310529$5A3.119810518@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27523
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

City of Tacoma
1-253-591-5171

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message
news:3c1c1e20.18300420@news.mindspring.com...
> On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 16:27:07 -0500, "Shrimp Biskit" > <pipedream@hotmail.comsp> wrote:
>
> >They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
> >
> >"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:M7PS7.297563
> >> Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> Because no one has been able to produce a copy > of the law. If you have a copy, please post the > text...and/or tell the rest of us where to obtain a copy.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4477. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:47:25 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C275D.A0B21CCF@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27524

Dwight Stewart wrote:
> Anyway, do you talk so > loudly when discussing a yearly review - so loudly the "whole company" would > know?

I do have a voice that projects a great distance caused by singing lessons.

> And what "technological secrets" would you discuss that the employees just > outside your door, often your own staff working on that very technology, would > not be allowed to hear?

There is industrial espionage going on all the time. Some employees sell industrial secrets to competitors. It wouldn't surprise me to find spies planted in high tech companies.

> And I seriously doubt your claim about Intel?

Ask anyone who has worked there, Dwight, and they will back me up. You seem to be quite ignorant of how leading edge high tech companies function.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4478. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:49:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C27E4.503544AC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27525

Rick Adams wrote:
> Name a _single_ one of the rights enumerated in the first ten > Amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) that hasn't been > abrogated by a Republican government in which a member of the Bush > dynasty was either Vice President or President.

OTOH, please point out anywhere in the Constitution where it grants the government the power to establish a welfare state.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4479. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:49:54 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vh9290pd5@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27528

"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011215222642.13552.00000489@mb-mm.aol.com...
> >The Federal Government requires HF hams to know Morse code. That's > >social engineering, Dick. All governmental requirements are social > >engineering. If the feds were not trying to engineer society, there > >would be no need for federal requirements.
>
> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just follows
> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
>
> Mark

It was only social engineering when higher code speeds were required for access to HF. This created a caste system, and was truely social engineering.

4480. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:52:03 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vh96a0pka@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27533

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:9vh1pd$84b$1@news.service.uci.edu...
>
> N2EY <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:20011213160301.24724.00000269@mb-mr.aol.com...
> > In article <20011211221700.13985.00000823@mb-md.aol.com>,
> yodoc@aol.comnospam
> > (Larry Roll K3LT) writes:
> > >I have my doubts that even in Paris, you can find Metro stations spaced > > >less than 1/3 of a mile apart!
> >
> > I've never been there. My info is based on a report in an industry > journal.
>
> Most Metro stops are less than a minute apart.

Sounds similar to Toronto's subway system.

4481. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:52:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C2894.233D7D4@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27526

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
>
> >> Of what--the destruction of the US Constitution?
> > >
> > >You wouldn't have that problem with a Libertarian government, Rick. :-)
> >
> > True. But the mass starvation among the poor and disabled > > would be just as destructive. ;-)

"Mass starvation"? Shirley, you jest. Exactly where in the Constitution does it grant the government the power to establish a welfare state?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4482. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 04:54:41 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vh9b70pst@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27532

"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message news:3c1c13da_1@news7.fast.net...
> Having been to Paris recently, I can vouch for the fact that,
> in many parts of the metro system, the stops are very close > together.
>
> 73,
>
> --
> Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse

Are they done renovating Notre Dame Cathedral yet?

4483. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:02:58 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C2B02.E1DB2AC6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27527

```
Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > > > > > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?
> > > >
> > > > I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.
> > >
> > > Sure you did, Cecil.
> >
> > You're lying again, Dave. Wish you wouldn't do that. He has no > > problem with being truthfully mentioned on this newsgroup.
>
> Sure you did, Cecil. Fess up.

Would proof be too much to ask? I know what you are talking about and as usual, you are remembering wrongly. I certainly wish you would do something about your reading comprehension and/or faulty memory.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4484. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:05:59 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C2BB7.B39E506A@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27530

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
> > in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam > > but he has no need for HF privileges.
>
> Then what's his beef...or yours?

He has no beef. Mine is the idea presented by the PCTA folk that all nocode techs are technical dumb $hits. One would think a PhD in EE would be good enough proof to the contrary.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4485. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:07:54 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goez4yw.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27529

Rick Adams wrote:

> Name a _single_ one of the rights enumerated in the first ten > Amendments to the Constitution (the Bill of Rights) that hasn't been > abrogated by a Republican government in which a member of the Bush > dynasty was either Vice President or President.

First of all, the function of the first ten Amendments to the U S Constitution is to set limits on the Federal government, not to enumerate rights which exist without those Amendments.

Anyhow, when did the Feds under the Bush Dynasty violate the Third Amendment ?

--
Phil Kane

4486. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:08:18 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1C2C42.79AB4D03@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27531

Mark Pearsal wrote:
>
> >> Social engineering in a technical hobby (at least supposed to be one).
> >> Right.
> >
> >The Federal Government requires HF hams to know Morse code. That's > >social engineering, Dick. All governmental requirements are social > >engineering. If the feds were not trying to engineer society, there > >would be no need for federal requirements.
>
> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just follows > that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.

The treaty specifies a procedure for opting out of sections of the treaty.
The federal government has elected not to opt out.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4487. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:33:40 UTC
From: Eddie Haskell <Wiseguy@Cleaver.com>
Message-ID: <UmWS7.42318$fo5.7343874@typhoon.we.rr.com>
Source record: 27534
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I travel with a VX5-R, a Garmin E-Map, a Timeport P-935 and a Ericsson Cellular phone.Also usually have a Alinco DJ-X10 scanner. I have flown to Hawaii MANY times with the equipment and back east to Quincy,Il. You will not be hassled about having it, just be ready to turn any of it on so they can see they are real.....Eddie

"Joshua Senecal" <senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu> wrote in message news:senecal-1512011928590001@d71-096.solano1.ucdavis.edu...
> Hi all,
>
> I'm going to be flying soon, and I'd like to take my HT with me in my > carryon (no, I won't be using it on the plane! :) I'm concerned that > having this may cause a problem at airport security, what with the current > situation and all. Has anyone flown recently and carried their rig with > them? If so, what was your experience at the airport?
>
> Thanks!
>
> -Josh Senecal, KG6IBF
>
> --
> senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu (remove the obvious bit from the address)
>
> "Your most valuable asset is rampant ignorance."
> -Dogbert

4488. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 05:35:50 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1C32B6.61CF878F@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27535
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

4489. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 07:24:12 UTC
From: WG <nojunk@mail.com>
Message-ID: <w_XS7.11287$m54.3166504@news0.telusplanet.net>
Source record: 27536
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

That is what you think But think again.
"The Packrat" <spam@n7uic.net> wrote in message
news:0hMS7.2351$X94.136930@rwcrnsc52...
> Fingerprinting is only good for FM.
>
> "WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
> news:V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net...
> > I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I have > > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore. If
> you > > are on the road ham is the best way to go. With the new IRLP system you > can > > tone up repeaters almost any ware in the world, (http://www.irlp.net/) > > with just a hand-held. One thing that all CBers should ask themselves > before > > they key up, is what they are talking about fit for family listening.
> Would
> > you want your wife, girlfriend or kids listening to that? Also that they > can > > be tracked in under 6 seconds and the transmitter fingerprint system works > > very well. The reason that the governments of the world permit this to > > continue is that the cost to go to trial is prohibitive. I do know that > > Industry Canada and the FCC will act on complaints especially if the dirty > > radio gets into the commercial or police bands. I have played around
with > > radio tracking using the Doppler shift radio tracking system on CB and it
> is > > unbelievable how fast you can drive right up to someone's door or follow
a > > dirty trucker into a truck stop and have a talk with him face to face.
> >
> > "Tazanator" <tazanator1@attbi.com> wrote in message
> > news:7wbS7.20905$7y.231436@rwcrnsc54...
> > > Well I will say sorry about the course language, but there is a bigger > > > picture on this.
> > >
> > > I have studied and recieved a lowly tech lic for starters. However > having > > > driven semi's for years I can try to relate the truckers side. CB 19

> > has > > > degenerated way down to the point of people harrassing truckers (listen > > > sometime a bulk of the noise is from base stations especial around big > > > cities) most of the "sesame Street" gang is kids playing and talking > big.
> > >
> > > Due to this depressing talk to drivers, many have left the CB buying ham
> > > radios for the extra cost so they can "get away" from the base stations
> (I > > > was told that a long time ago CB was just like 80 meters is today...many > > > truckers miss that peaceful feeling you enjoy (I only have a tech so 2 > > > meters is my place)) while it is wrong many don't care due to the way
> they > > > were treated on channel 19 (Penn state has a kid on 19 with a 250 watt > > base
> > > that must have a dictionary of every swear word that he just keeps > reading
> > > at truckers)
> > >
> > > As far as the FCC many state scales have fcc trained weigh masters that
> do
> > > check (you pull on to the scale and are asked to key up the CB)
> sometimes > > > they find them often they don't. I belive that the truckers could bring
> a > > > revival to the ham comunity, just from the numbers point of view, and
I > > > started down ham meeting another ham trucker...HE HAD A HUGE ANT (screw > > > driver)ON THAT TRUCK!!! made me wonder what he was talking to!
> > >
> > > While it is a privalage to us ... a little tact here could gain you a > > friend
> > > and the ham community more clout. Sence I got my ticket many of the > guys
> > I > > > used to run with have seen me use the 2 meter repeater system (they > loved
> > > the michigan linked repeater system...all over the state with only an > HT)
> > > and the phone patches, many have started borrowing my books to study

for
> > the > > > test.
> > >
> > > To start them on the road just help them out ... many would love to have
> > the > > > ANT checked by an MFJ analizer (they pay up to $20 for it) and as you > > teach > > > them how to get the best out of the CB talk about the ham structure many > > > will listen and think about it....many of my friends have started > studying
> > >
> > > (by the way it supposed to be 28.665 for the new 19)
> > >
> > > --
> > >
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER
> > >
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the reporter,
> > > Who has given us freedom of the press.
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the poet,
> > > Who has given us freedom of speech.
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the campus organizer,
> > > Who has given us freedom to demonstrate.
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER, not the lawyer,
> > > Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
> > > IT IS THE SOLDIER, who salutes the flag,
> > > Who serves under the flag and,
> > > Whose coffin is draped by the flag,
> > > Who allows the protester to burn the flag.
> > >
> > > Author, Charles M. Province
> > >
> > >
****
> > > By US Code Title 47, Sec.227(a)(2)(B), a computer/modem/printer meets > > > the definition of a telephone fax machine. By Sec.227(b)(1)(C), it is > > > unlawful to send any unsolicited advertisement to such equipment. By > > > Sec.227(b)(3)(C), a violation of the aforementioned Section is > > > punishable by action to recover actual monetary loss, or $500, whichever
> > > is greater, for each violation.
> > > **********
> > >
> > > think I'm full of it look yourself!
> > > http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/47/227.html
> > >

> > > "Speaker to Animal Crackers" <flashboinnng1@aol.com> wrote in message
> > > news:fVrR7.3693$vK1.358764@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> > > > Listened all morning to a group of truckers
> > > > on 28.115 mHz (AM). Even had
> > > > one who's wife was on the "base rig" talking with > > > > her OM mobile about how to make out the bills and novel ways
> > > > she thought of to make "Xmas money".
> > > >
> > > > Is this is what you get when you mass-sell 10 meter > > > > radios at/by Radio Shack and others? Wonder how many > > > > were running Uniden 2510's, 2600's or HTX's.
> > > >
> > > > Is 28.115 is the new Channel Ninteen ?.
> > > > Is the cow out of the barn door?
> > > > A while later a ham came up on the freq in AM
> > > > to try an politely inform them there were in violation > > > > of FCC rules. They just laughed, Thought it was very funny.
> > > > One guy told the ham, who exercized much restraint and > > > > gentlemanly composure in his speech
> > > > to: "f--- off 4-wheel hampster mobile!"
> > > > complete with an roger-beep and echo-effects microphone.
> > > >
> > > > Nice eh?
> > > > Gives you the warm & fuzzies?
> > > >
> > > > I'm curious what's the FCC will do?
> > > >
> > > > How about 2 meters?
> > > > Is that the next band to be trashed by these > > > > morons who buy ham gear at R.S. or WalMart > > > > and operate without a licence ?
> > > >
> > > >
> > > >
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>

4490. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 10:14:07 UTC
From: on4bam@yahoo.com
Message-ID: <3c1c7278.6307605@212.100.160.123>
Source record: 27537
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 00:35:50 -0500, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

Unless one of the guys is a ham.. then try to explain why you lied...
maybe a concerned passenger may notice and tell the security guy you lied..
I never had any problems with my stuff. I carry a backpack with camera, laptop, TS-50 and handheld.. if asked I just say what it is.
Once had a search of our luggage at LAX (days after the TWA flight crashed near NY) and when they asked what the antenna tuner was I said I was a ham.. they closed the suitcase and didn't even search our second suitcase.. Not only did they know what a ham is, they knew
'we' could be trusted :-)

Bye Maurice
--
Hamradio: ON4BAM / M0CIL http://www.qsl.net/on4bam
Pix and travelstories from Alaska, Scotland
South Africa, Iceland, Faroe Isl. and IOTA activations webmaster http://www.f-tguesthousehuahin.com/ thailand

4491. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 10:25:05 UTC
From: "Jesus, EA4AQY" <jesus.guardon@navegalia.com>
Message-ID: <3c1c769a@news.airtel.net>
Source record: 27538
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

And me too. But don't think about keyers are finished. We still should make noise on tha bands...
"Web" <WebFx27@hotmail.com> escribi&#65533; en el mensaje
news:hCeS7.15523$161.7241951@news02.optonline.net...
> I aggree
>
> Web
>
>
> "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> news:39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com...
> >
> > "b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
> > news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> > > Well said.
> > > People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft,
> > > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not
> > > "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry for > > > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw copy.
> > > Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> > > The easy way out is the booring way out.
> > > WB3DSJ
> >
> > You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may love
> the > > digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so on and > so > > on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a variety
> of > > different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to do > > whatever is allowed by that license class.
> >
> > Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either the > dropping > > of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of it
> dropping
> > of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became proactively > > involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least 80%
> of > > all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be"
> (i.e.

> > congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham
radio.
> > We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us, but
> can > > you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all the way
up > > to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur radio?
> > I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire fighting > > related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others
to
> do
> > so too.
> >
> > Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club > > meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them
the > > experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public to > > actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually be > able > > to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we are > doing
> > .
> >
> > Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch > hobby.
> > Get involved!
> >
> > [first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other paragraphs > > are to everyone else.]
> >
> > Ryan KC8PMX
> >
> >
> > >
> > > KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> > > >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't,
> won't.
> > > >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> > > operation
> > > >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> > > >
> > > >Ryan
> > > >KC8PMX
> > > >
> > > >
> > > >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message

> > > >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> > > >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> > > >>
> > > >> Hi OMs,
> > > >>
> > > >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore needed
to > > use
> > > >> the HF bands.
> > > >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will get
> > the
> > > >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> > > >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> > > >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released
in
> > the > > > >> Netherlands.
> > > >>
> > > >> PE1PAE
> > > >>
> > > >>
> > > >
> > > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> >
> >
>
>

4492. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 12:15:15 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <nf0T7.166786$WW.10477292@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27539

Bill Nelson posted:

>>I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if >>he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have >>a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch >>officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.

Bill Sohl, K2UNK replied:

> Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
> Assume the following scenario...
> (snipped)

They could always send for the trained dog that sniffs out non-type-accepted radio equipment.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4493. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 13:46:59 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27565
Cross-posted to: alt.cocksucker.geno-paris,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

Anonymous COWARD
"Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
>
> The Salvation Army

SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years there at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from beating up his mother again.

4494. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 14:10:44 UTC
From: "J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> Message-ID: <1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net>
Source record: 27540
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy Scouts.

On 16 Dec 2001 11:32:07 GMT, SLee@houston-hunks.com (Stagger Lee) wrote:
>
> The Salvation Army dared to be different from Disney, and a movement to > harass them through their Christmas pots was started in Flint, MI and in > Glen Dale, WV. You can read all about it at the following URL:
>
> http://dailynews.yahoo.com/h/ap/20011214/us/salvation_army_gays_1.html

---
J. Duffy Beischel - Amateur Radio WB8NUT

Member of: ARRL, NRA, Kiwanis, Republican Party, Masons, and Shriners and the vast Right Wing conspiracy to get the Clintons

"If the government owned all the guns, would we still be a free people?"

4495. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 14:12:45 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216091245.12109.00000504@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27541

>Subject: Re: Airline travel with a rig?
>From: Robert Casey wa2ise@ix.netcom.com
>Date: 12/15/2001 11:35 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C1C32B6.61CF878F@ix.netcom.com>
>
>If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

And if they DO know and THEY know you are lying.........???

4496. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 14:33:28 UTC
From: Gerald Schmitt <KK5YY@arrl.net>
Message-ID: <4obp1ucq30c57ppa7f2f49lrkeh9t8e56t@4ax.com>
Source record: 27542
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 19:28:59 -0800, senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu (Joshua Senecal) wrote:

>Hi all,
>
>I'm going to be flying soon, and I'd like to take my HT with me in my >carryon (no, I won't be using it on the plane! :) I'm concerned that >having this may cause a problem at airport security, what with the current >situation and all. Has anyone flown recently and carried their rig with >them? If so, what was your experience at the airport?
>
>Thanks!
>
>-Josh Senecal, KG6IBF

Hi Josh,

I fly several times a week and always take my equipment in my carry on. I usually have a complete APRS station, GPS, THD-7 etc. and usually another HT or my FT-817. I don't bother to carry my license except to Europe where I need it for CEPT operations. I've never had a serious issue. Currently they seem to be most interested in laptops which they insist be removed from the case for Xray.

73 Jerry KK5YY

4497. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 15:15:00 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1CBA67.66B7AB7E@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27543

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM wrote:
> > > > >
> > > > > Dave Heil wrote:
> > > > > > That's interesting. I thought you told us that he didn't want you > > > > > > bandying his name about. Was that incorrect?
> > > > >
> > > > > I NEVER said that, Dave. Your thoughts are screwed up, as usual.
> > > >
> > > > Sure you did, Cecil.
> > >
> > > You're lying again, Dave. Wish you wouldn't do that. He has no > > > problem with being truthfully mentioned on this newsgroup.
> >
> > Sure you did, Cecil. Fess up.
>
> Would proof be too much to ask? I know what you are talking about > and as usual, you are remembering wrongly. I certainly wish you > would do something about your reading comprehension and/or faulty > memory.

If you know what I am talking about, why keep us in the dark? After all, it was quite some time ago. Since Dr. "No" has no need for HF access, what is his beef? If he has none, why do you keep trotting him out?

Dave K8MN

Dave K8MN

4498. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 15:19:02 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C1CBB5A.991E74C6@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27544

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
> > > in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam > > > but he has no need for HF privileges.
> >
> > Then what's his beef...or yours?
>
> He has no beef. Mine is the idea presented by the PCTA folk that all > nocode techs are technical dumb $hits. One would think a PhD in EE > would be good enough proof to the contrary.

The only proof needed is that the guy pass an amateur radio licensing exam. His PhD in EE has no bearing at all other than giving him an edge in theory. I don't recall any idea presented by "PCTA folk" which is as you claim. Are you basing your claim in the statements of one or two individuals? If it is, you aren't being honest.

Dave K8MN

4499. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 15:28:00 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216102800.19611.00000281@mb-mt.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27545

>> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just
>follows
>> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
>>
>> Mark
>
>Mark,
>
>You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General >and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
>
>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that >way in most of the world, too.
>
>Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy >in the future after all ...
>
>73,
>
>--
>Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse

Hi Carl,

I'm not convinced that dropping the code altogether as a reqirement for HF access is related in any way, shape, or form to "surviving and even becoming more healthy in the future after all ..." I believe Mark himself said that "there's something to be said for tradition."

The required speed was reduced to 5-wpm, not an insurmountable obstacle for anybody. I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study "guides." Just my humble $0.02.

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4500. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 15:59:10 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1cc4d0_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27546

"Bert Craig" <kc2hmn@cs.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011216102800.19611.00000281@mb-mt.news.cs.com...
> >> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just
> >follows > >> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
> >>
> >> Mark
> >
> >Mark,
> >
> >You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave > >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General > >and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
> >
> >That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting > >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the > >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory > >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that > >way in most of the world, too.
> >
> >Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy > >in the future after all ...
> >
> >73,
> >
> >--
> >Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
>
> Hi Carl,
>
> I'm not convinced that dropping the code altogether as a reqirement for HF > access is related in any way, shape, or form to "surviving and even becoming > more healthy in the future after all

Even the IARU Resolution states that maintaining Morse testing is not consistent with a healthy future for the ARS ...

> ..." I believe Mark himself said that
> "there's something to be said for tradition."

"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments

force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.

> The required speed was reduced to 5-wpm, not an insurmountable obstacle
for > anybody.

The point is that many folks simply don't have any interest in Morse, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects of ham radio, technically qualified, and able to contribute a great deal ... Morse proficiency has NOTHING to do with one's ability to be a valuable member of our "fraternity."

> I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study
> "guides." Just my humble $0.02.

Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic underlying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to
"memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.

In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently refer to references for useful information.

Once again, the license should be viewed as a permit to do things, based on demonstrating a reasonable ability to operate safely and without causing interference problems ... not as some sort of
"graduation certificate."

Removing UNNECESSARY, IRRELEVANT barriers to entry is key to recruiting more (good) hams ... and we need to do so, both to replace OTs as they become SKs, and also to actually grow in numbers to enhance our ability to retain the rather large amounts of very valuable spectrum to which we enjoy access.

73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4501. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:28:23 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216112823.07260.00000654@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27547

I see Dip Shit Carl is back,and I see you are still having trouble upgrading from that Elite Tech Plus License. Carl I thought the CODE was the Problem? What a Losser

4502. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:28:57 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ccca0_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27548

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:5932300D0E96DA4A.C78643F5C3E4F6A0.BE97C56E6DD68734@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 04:12:49 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > Do you yell when you discuss confidential business, Rick? I've discussed
> >highly classified military information with co-workers without having to hide > >behind closed doors. What are you discussing that is so secret it cannot > >possibly be discussed with the door open?
>
> If you discuss classified information in a setting where it is > possible to be overheard (an office with the door open IS such a > setting) you are guilty of a major felony. Don't believe it? Report to > the military security officer in contact with your firm that you have > done precisely that and see how quickly you find out that you violated
> the law.
>
> Contrast that with the potential of sexual harassment > accusations, and I'd say that your practice is both a lot more > personally risky--and a lot more harmful to our country (I don't know > what kind of classified military material you deal with--but if it > could benefit an enemy of this country [as could most such material]
> you are risking treason to protect yourself from possible harassment > charges).
>
> Extend your argument to the next level, Dwight. If it's > reasonable for YOU to talk about classified material with the door > open, in order to prevent having to have closed-door sessions with an > opposite sex coworker, then the same must hold true for others. I can > just see a department head with NSA or the CIA insisting that a > subordinate leave the door to the office open while discussing a top > secret (or higher classification) document with him or her, can't you?
>
> If it's safe for an intelligence officer (or any other > government supervisor) to meet privately with a subordinate, why isn't > it ok for you--or is it not the situation you distrust, but your own > reactions to being alone with a woman in a closed room?
>
> Rick
>
> --
>

> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

Maybe the folks who believe like Dwight are just wanting policies that will make them behave? :o

Kim W5TIT

4503. Re: Promoting the hobby. Are we ready for the questions from the public?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:34:41 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ccdf7_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27549

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:DVOS7.297544$W8.10313450@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > > > Robert Casey wrote:
>
> > > > > > Saw a well-endowed lady the other day with a T-Shirt that said:
> > > > > > "If only these were brains".
>
> > > CAM wrote:
>
> > > > > Another tee shirt had the words "tune" and "load"
> > > > > positioned on the breasts.
>
> > > > Oh no, Robert. You used the "b" word. You know you will bring > > > > down the wrath of Larry Roll for doing that.
>
> > Robert Casey wrote
>
> > > Just now I heard the "T" word on the FM broadcast band.
> > > Something about "tit for tat". :-)
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote
>
> > Just one of each?! :)
>
> Kim..
>
> Are you saying it isn't...
> "T" shirt...
> but...
> "T's"-shirt??? ;-)
>
> Rich
>
>

<BEG> Good one, I'm grinning... ;)

Kim W5TIT

4504. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:44:05 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1cd035_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27554

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1C275D.A0B21CCF@IEEE.org...
> Dwight Stewart wrote:
> > Anyway, do you talk so > > loudly when discussing a yearly review - so loudly the "whole company" would > > know?
>
> I do have a voice that projects a great distance caused by singing lessons.
>
> > And what "technological secrets" would you discuss that the employees
just > > outside your door, often your own staff working on that very technology, would > > not be allowed to hear?
>
> There is industrial espionage going on all the time. Some employees sell > industrial secrets to competitors. It wouldn't surprise me to find spies > planted in high tech companies.
>
> > And I seriously doubt your claim about Intel?
>
> Ask anyone who has worked there, Dwight, and they will back me up. You > seem to be quite ignorant of how leading edge high tech companies function.
> --
> cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

I'd back this down right to the basest levels of argument, and those are that Supervisors and Managers need the flexibility to discuss anything behind closed doors with whole groups or individuals, whichever the case;
then, the same flexibility needs to be available for employees to approach their Supervisors and Managers about things they don't want their co-workers to hear being discussed by them. Any company who is stupid enough to historically keep advancing people to the level of Supervisors and Managers who would then abuse the granted confidentiality by wrongful actions behind closed doors is a company that a) people are downright stupid to be working for, and b) is a company that won't long be in business. Lastly, the same for a company's hiring methods that would historically hire employees that abuse private meetings.

Period.

Kim W5TIT

4505. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:45:10 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216114510.15992.00000923@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27550

In article <3C1B9B73.118CB4FA@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
>in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam >but he has no need for HF privileges.

Cecil:

I'm guessing that when the 5 WPM code testing requirement is dropped, 'ole Doc Williamson will suddenly develop a "need" for HF privileges! Funny how that works, isn't it?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4506. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:45:11 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216114511.15992.00000924@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27551

In article <3C1B9A0D.6A51118C@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Yep, congratulations. The average technical skill of the Extra >class just inched up a notch. Now who was it who was recently >ragging on Carl for not upgrading?

Cecil:

Carl's been a ham long enough to enroll in QCWA, has made his living as a professional electrical engineer, and just now finally got his Extra, only after the requirements have been dumbed-down to insignificance? Nobody has to "rag" on Carl -- he's done a better job of making a fool of himself than anyone else here ever could!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4507. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:45:12 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216114512.15992.00000925@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27553

In article <3c1b5d71_2@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
writes:

>> Now that we have THAT cleared up, back to my question: "What is the >> correlation between Morse code skill and technical skill, among [the >> closed set of] licensed Amateur Radio operators?"
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>>
>
>Larry,
>
>According to the FCC "none."

Carl:

Welcome back, OM! And I don't remember axing what the steenking FCC thought about the topic!

>And I find the FCC to be a FAR >more credible source of information/opinion on this matter than >you, so why don't you stop ranting?

And I don't -- so I won't!

>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from >what I can see.

You expected, maybe, … what?

>Get a life ...

I've got one, but thanks anyway!

>BTW, just to put some icing on the cake for you, I finally got >around to finding time in my work/travel schedule to go to a >VE session and upgrade to Extra :-)

Well, congratulations! You finally lived long enough to make it all the way! Of course, I've had my extra for over 18 years now, so I have seniority over you!

>(missed 1 out of 50 on the test ... I read one question/answers >too fast and accidentally marked the wrong letter when I >actually knew the correct answer ... really made me mad at >myself ... but that's what I get for finishing the test in 10 minutes :-)

Hmmm. I took my test 18 years ago, aced it (code and written), and the whole thing took me less than half an hour! And I've never spent a single day of my life as a professional engineer!

Well, anyway, Congratulations! I'm sure that you can now go ahead and invent all that neat stuff you've been talking about for so many years, now that you're finally the ham radio equal of an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4508. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:45:13 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216114513.15992.00000926@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27552

In article <8B0F59A742F36CAD.5F376A2E027CC402.C395FE644BBA55BB@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> It is the COMPANY which demands employees keep their salaries
>confidential that demonstrates a lack of integrity. The ONLY reason >for taking that position is because they are paying some people more >to do a given job than they are paying others for the same work. If >their pay scale was based on equal pay for equal work they wouldn't >CARE if people told others what they earned. Look at the government;
>if you are civil service all that is necessary is to know your pay >level (which is open information, since your position in an agency is >determined by it). All "G5s," for example, receive precisely the same >salary. They don't have to hide it because their employer isn't >cheating anyone else out of a fair pay by concealing it.
>
> Rick

Rick:

Not all GS-5's make the same money. There are different "step"
levels within each Civil Service paygrade, and longevity points which increase pay within the grade/step level. When I was a Master Sergeant stationed at the Air Force Academy, I supervised three GS-5's, none of which made the same as the others. I also had a GS-6 who made less than one of the more senior GS-5's.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4509. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 16:53:23 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216115323.19619.00000302@mb-mt.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27555

>Even the IARU Resolution states that maintaining Morse testing is >not consistent with a healthy future for the ARS ...

I think political pressure had more to do with that than "altruistic" concern for AR's future.

>"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
>If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments
>force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.

Point taken, but I'd hardly consider 5-wpm as having "Morse proficiency" forced down anybody's throat.

>The point is that many folks simply don't have any interest in >Morse, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects >of ham radio, technically qualified, and able to contribute a >great deal ... Morse proficiency has NOTHING to do with one's >ability to be a valuable member of our "fraternity."

I'm not sure if this is an entirely valid analogy, but here it goes. When I was going through my certification for my FAA airframe and powerplant licenses, I wasn't very (...read not at all!) interested in 'Dope & Fabric.' However, I was required to learn the "basics" and pass the courses. In the final analysis anf with 20/20 hindsight...there's an intrinsic "value" to the big picture that is more readily appreciated as an accomplishment rather than an obstacle. It's not an exact analogy, but I hope it conveys the correct "spirit" with which it was meant. I think that "tradition" has MORE than halfway met contemporary "aspirations" re. the AR's future with the reduction in code speed.

>In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
>I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
>problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone >carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently >refer to references for useful information.

Perhaps, but that "feels" like "giving it away." I thought priviliges were "earned."

>Removing UNNECESSARY, IRRELEVANT barriers to entry

I hear CW all over the place. I'd hardly classify a founding aspect of AR that's still in wide use as irrelevant. This is all just my opinion and really doesn't amount to a hill of beans.

BTW, congratulations on your upgrade. :-)

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4510. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:03:16 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <e$a4RNlhBHA.1900@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27556

WA2ISE said:

> If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

Those folks are responsible for the safety of the aircraft and all the souls who fly in it, and you'd recommend that we _lie_ to them???????? Especially after 9-11??????? What else would you lie to them about?

What a sorry-assed Richard Cranium you are!!!!!

For the original poster, just let them know what it is if they ask, and accept the call they make. They may require that it be carried as checked luggage. They have enough worries without hassling with a hobbiest about his unusual carry-on.

Hans, K0HB

4511. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:03:27 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216120327.03703.00000416@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 27558

In article <20011215152244.12113.00000340@mb-cc.aol.com>, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) writes:

>Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
>Date: 15 Dec 2001 20:22:44 GMT
>
>>Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>>From: n2ey@aol.com (N2EY)
>>Date: 12/15/2001 11:03 AM Central Standard Time
>>Message-id: <20011215120312.01870.00000332@mb-fz.aol.com>
>
>>Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?
>
> Isn't that covered by the Fifth Amendment, Jim?

I thought it was the Fifth Dimension.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4512. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:03:27 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216120327.03703.00000415@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 27559

In article <%xLS7.165243$WW.10379570@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

(big snip of N2EY incentive licensing history rant)

>>The
>> FCC plan was a mix of those ideas, including the idea of >> subbands-by-license-class. I remember that one of the reasons was that >> frequency could be easily measured to tell if a ham was operating within >> his/her license privileges. The subbands reserved for Extras and >Advanceds were
>> the best DX spots, too.
>>
>> If that's not right, what was the thinking 35 years ago?
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>Wasn't it part of the Great Post-Sputnik we are behind the World >technically caper? Lots of strange things came out of that mentality.

I for one think it was. The USA prided itself on being at the top of the technological ziggurat after WW2. Americans invented the bomb, color TV, filter cigarettes and automatic transmissions. An American broke the sound barrier, etc., etc.

Then the backward ignorant Rooskies do things like Sputnik and Muttnik and photographing the far side of the moon. U-2 gets shot down by a weapon we don't even know exists. Berlin Wall, "we will bury you", Cuban missiles, etc. Meanwhile many of our rockets blow up on the pad.

FCC looks at US hams in the late 1940s - early 1950s and sees lots of homebrew/converted surplus rigs, lots of new stuff (NBFM, SSB, HF mobile, TVI reduction). FCC looks again 10-15 years later and sees lots more manufactured rigs, lots less homebrew/conversion, and a turf war over AM vs. SSB. FCC figgers giving everything to Conditionals and above maybe wasn't such a hot idea.

The rest is history.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4513. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:03:28 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216120328.03703.00000417@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 27557

In article <3C1B9B73.118CB4FA@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>>
>> In article <3C1AB88F.6B6FCFF2@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
>writes:
>>
>> >Dave Heil wrote:
>> >> I thought "Doc" Williamson didn't want you
>> >> bandying his name about.
>> >
>> >I've told him about the PCTA jerks on this newsgroup.
>>
>> Did you tell him about the NCTA jerks on this newsgroup, too?
>
>You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes >in a hobby in a free society?

I mean those who behave like jerks - on either side of the argument.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4514. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:03:28 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216120328.03703.00000418@mb-da.aol.com>
Source record: 27560

In article <3c1bfcd3_1@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
writes:

>In a message dated 12/15/01 12:13:41 PM Eastern Standard Time, >wa6vse-shack@fast.net writes:
>
>> ---- Original Message -----
>> From: "N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com>
>> Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.policy
>> Sent: Saturday, December 15, 2001 12:03 PM
>> Subject: Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License
>>
>> [snip]
>>
>> >
>> > And by the way, for the record:
>> >
>> > I don't think a "no-homebrew" license is a good thing for the ARS at >all.
>> >
>> > 73 de Jim, "Definitive Expert" N2EY
>>
>> Jim,
>>
>> I agree wholeheartedly ... a license which requires the use of "factory >> built" gear is counter to the technical educational aspect of ham radio.

Yup. But the UK folks think it's a good idea because it "lowers the barrier" to getting a ham license.

It is my understanding that UK written license tests are a very different ballgame than here. They cost L75 - about $100 US! They are not given very often, and the actual Q&A are secret. Prospective UK hams are REQUIRED to attend an approved training course before being allowed to take any tests. How do ya think that would play over here?
>>
>> It could also, as an "unintended consequence" result in some sort of
>> "type acceptance" requirement and THAT would be REALLY bad for
>> the ARS.

We have type acceptance already. Manufactured rigs have to be FCC certified for ham use. So do kits. Certain designs cannot be certified, not because of any technical reason, but because of abuse by users of OTHER radio services. That's why you don't see any kit or manufactured amplifiers for HF QRP rigs.

Of course this doesn't stop the sale of illegal amps for other services, but that's another story.

The Foundation class does allow kits - just no building from scratch or designing.

--

One of the main arguments for code test reduction/elimination was that hams don't "have to" use code, so whay should they "have to" learn it just to get the license. The Foundation class applies this argument to the technical part of the written test: Hams don't "have to" homebrew, should why should they "have to" learn so much technical stuff just to get the license? Those who want to homebrew can learn it and get the necessary license.

Remember that many more hams today use Morse than build their own transmitters, receivers and transceivers.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4515. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:44:09 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vime20iu1@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27563

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011216114511.15992.00000924@mb-fc.aol.com...
> Carl's been a ham long enough to enroll in QCWA, has made his > living as a professional electrical engineer, and just now finally got > his Extra, only after the requirements have been dumbed-down to > insignificance? Nobody has to "rag" on Carl -- he's done a better > job of making a fool of himself than anyone else here ever could!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

It took a lot more skill, ambition, and perseverance to do what Carl did with regards to restructuring, than what was required to learn an antiquated and worthless endcoding scheme at a high rate of speed.

4516. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 17:47:32 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vimke0jar@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27564

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216112823.07260.00000654@mb-dh.aol.com...
> I see Dip Shit Carl is back,and I see you are still having trouble upgrading > from that Elite Tech Plus License. Carl I thought the CODE was the Problem?
> What a Losser

You don't read very well, do you? Carl already wrote that he upgraded to Extra.

4517. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 18:00:17 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGlobail.Net>
Message-ID: <Ri5T7.9295$aS5.1655985259@newssvr13.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 27562
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

Actually it has Richard,
I don't like my little friend Dog Biskit, but he is correct. If you check the minutes for Sept. 18th you will see it was passed unanimously. As for it being caused by a CB'er, well think of the source for that information.

Landshark

--
"BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"

"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message
news:wnPS7.297581$W8.10316726@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > Richard Plourde wrote
>
> > > Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> "Shrimp Biskit" wrote
>
> > They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
>
> No one has been able to provide PROOF that the law had been passed.
>
> Search the Tacoma web sites and see if any 'proof' exists. It just didn't > happen, plain and simple.
>
> Rich
>
>
>

4518. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 18:00:18 UTC
From: Landshark <S3Buell@SBCGlobail.Net>
Message-ID: <Si5T7.9296$AQ5.1655880836@newssvr13.news.prodigy.com>
Source record: 27561
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

Hi Bill, Here you go:

http://www.cityoftacoma.org/54council/Agendas/2001/ca010918.pdf

Ordinance # 26851

If the link doesn't work go to the Agenda page and bring it up for Sept. 18th.

Landshark

--
"BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message
news:3c1c1e20.18300420@news.mindspring.com...
> On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 16:27:07 -0500, "Shrimp Biskit" > <pipedream@hotmail.comsp> wrote:
>
> >They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
> >
> >"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:M7PS7.297563
> >> Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> Because no one has been able to produce a copy > of the law. If you have a copy, please post the > text...and/or tell the rest of us where to obtain a copy.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4519. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 18:57:27 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1cee98_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27566

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216112823.07260.00000654@mb-dh.aol.com...
> I see Dip Shit Carl is back,and I see you are still having trouble upgrading > from that Elite Tech Plus License. Carl I thought the CODE was the Problem?
> What a Losser

First, learn how to spell insulting terms before you use them ...

Second, I'm an Extra ... missed one out of 50 on the test, due to a stupid mistake on my part (reading the question/answers too fast and marked the wrong letter, despite knowing the correct answer) ... but 98% ain't bad ... did YOU do that well?

No need to answer ... I don't intend to respond to your flame bait any further ...

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4520. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:06:50 UTC
From: paul friedman <pfriedman8426@mediaone.net>
Message-ID: <eh6T7.5097$yC.323593@typhoon.mn.mediaone.net>
Source record: 27567
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Shouldn't be a problem. Make sure the battery is charged as you might be asked to turn it on.

Paul AB0SI

"Joshua Senecal" <senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu> wrote in message news:senecal-1512011928590001@d71-096.solano1.ucdavis.edu...
> Hi all,
>
> I'm going to be flying soon, and I'd like to take my HT with me in my > carryon (no, I won't be using it on the plane! :) I'm concerned that > having this may cause a problem at airport security, what with the current > situation and all. Has anyone flown recently and carried their rig with > them? If so, what was your experience at the airport?
>
> Thanks!
>
> -Josh Senecal, KG6IBF
>
> --
> senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu (remove the obvious bit from the address)
>
> "Your most valuable asset is rampant ignorance."
> -Dogbert

4521. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:08:47 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1cf140_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27568

"Bert Craig" <kc2hmn@cs.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011216115323.19619.00000302@mb-mt.news.cs.com...
> >Even the IARU Resolution states that maintaining Morse testing is > >not consistent with a healthy future for the ARS ...
>
> I think political pressure had more to do with that than "altruistic" concern
> for AR's future.

From talking with IARU officials and people representing them at the ITU, I disagree. I believe the IARU finally has woken up to the realities we will face (spectrum pressures, etc.) in the future and is acting accordingly.

> >"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
> >If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to > >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments > >force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.
>
> Point taken, but I'd hardly consider 5-wpm as having "Morse proficiency" forced
> down anybody's throat.

Any time you require someone to jump through a hoop, just for the sake of jumping through it, that's forcing something down someone's throad IMNSHO.

> >The point is that many folks simply don't have any interest in > >Morse, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects > >of ham radio, technically qualified, and able to contribute a > >great deal ... Morse proficiency has NOTHING to do with one's > >ability to be a valuable member of our "fraternity."
>
> I'm not sure if this is an entirely valid analogy, but here it goes. When I was > going through my certification for my FAA airframe and powerplant licenses, I > wasn't very (...read not at all!) interested in 'Dope & Fabric.' However,
I was > required to learn the "basics" and pass the courses. In the final analysis anf > with 20/20 hindsight...there's an intrinsic "value" to the big picture that is > more readily appreciated as an accomplishment rather than an obstacle.
It's not > an exact analogy, but I hope it conveys the correct "spirit" with which it

was > meant. I think that "tradition" has MORE than halfway met contemporary
> "aspirations" re. the AR's future with the reduction in code speed.

I think the "Dope & Fabric" analogy is a bit different ... as an FAA licensee, other people's lives are dependent on the quality of your work, and there are still some "vintage" planes built that way, AFAIK.

I don't see folks getting a sense of accomplishment in being forced to learn Morse when they have no interest in it, or intention to use it.

> >In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some > >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
> >I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
> >problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone > >carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently > >refer to references for useful information.
>
> Perhaps, but that "feels" like "giving it away." I thought priviliges were
> "earned."

What I'm suggesting is that demonstrating the ability to solve the applicable problems could be seen as sufficient to demonstrate the requisite level of qualification to earn the privileges. I am NOT suggesting that the privileges should be "given away." Also, consider my previous comments that the license should be viewed as a permit to do things, not as some sort of "graduation certificate," and that the value is in what it allows you to do, not what you had to do to get
it.

> >Removing UNNECESSARY, IRRELEVANT barriers to entry
>
> I hear CW all over the place. I'd hardly classify a founding aspect of AR
> that's still in wide use as irrelevant.

I'm not saying that the MODE is irrelevant ... certainly it is used, but it is just one of many modes, which licensees are free to choose to use or not ... what is irrelevant is requiring a demonstration of proficiency in manual Morse in order to obtain a license in the 1st place.

> This is all just my opinion and really > doesn't amount to a hill of beans.

You have every right to your opinion and it has just as much value
as anyone else's (even if I disagree with it ... :-)

> BTW, congratulations on your upgrade. :-)

Thanks and 73,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>

<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4522. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:18:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1CF36A.A7B8AF4E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27569

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I'm guessing that when the 5 WPM code testing requirement
> is dropped, 'ole Doc Williamson will suddenly develop a "need"
> for HF privileges!

You're on, Larry. Are you willing to put your money where your mouth is? say $100?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4523. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:23:12 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1CF4A0.A1DEF29D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27570

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Carl's been a ham long enough to enroll in QCWA, has made his > living as a professional electrical engineer, and just now finally got > his Extra, only after the requirements have been dumbed-down to > insignificance?

May I remind you that the FCC sees NO relationship between Morse code skill and anything else in the world, including intelligence.
The present Extra written exam is probably harder than the pre-restructuring exam as it combines the Advanced and Extra questions.
All that has happened is that an outdated requirement has been dropped but feel free to delude yourself to your heart's content.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4524. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:28:00 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011216142814.159$BS@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27571
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

All you have to do is call and ask why the law was passed then Landturd, they will tell you the same thing they told me because of a Overpowered CB operator. It sure wasn't because of a ham, otherwise perhaps they would have banned amateur radio but as you see it is CB Radio Enforcement. Coming to a Town near you.
BTW, I don't like Landshark either he is a proven liar.

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGlobail.Net> wrote in message
news:Ri5T7.9295$aS5.1655985259@newssvr13.news.prodigy.com...
> Actually it has Richard,
> I don't like my little friend Dog Biskit, but > he is correct. If you check the minutes for > Sept. 18th you will see it was passed > unanimously. As for it being caused by > a CB'er, well think of the source for that > information.
>
> Landshark
>
>
> --
> "BAD CITIZENS HAVE MORE FUN BECAUSE THEY ARE MORE FREE"
>
>
> "Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message
> news:wnPS7.297581$W8.10316726@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
> > > Richard Plourde wrote
> > >
> > > > > Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
> > >
> > > "Shrimp Biskit" wrote
> > >
> > > > They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
> > >
> > > No one has been able to provide PROOF that the law had been passed.
> > >
> > > Search the Tacoma web sites and see if any 'proof' exists. It just didn't > > happen, plain and simple.
> > >
> > > Rich
> > >
> > >

> >
>
>

4525. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:29:19 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vj9as$4v$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27590
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> wrote in message news:1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net...
> Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy Scouts.

He forgot to tell you he (SLee) was the one taking the money...guess he had to feed that heroin habit.

4526. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:29:56 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011216143009.971$vc@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27572
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

Ordinance No. 26851
Amending Title 8 of the Municipal Code relative to the use of citizens band radio equipment by adding a new chapter to be known as Chapter 8.38 "Prohibited Use of Non-FCC Certificated Transmitting Equipment in the Citizens Band."

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message news:3c1c1e20.18300420@news.mindspring.com...
> On Sat, 15 Dec 2001 16:27:07 -0500, "Shrimp Biskit" > <pipedream@hotmail.comsp> wrote:
>
> >They sure did, why do you say they haven't?
> >
> >"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> wrote in message news:M7PS7.297563
> >> Hey... Tacoma DIDn't pass any law. Now, knock off the crap.
>
> Because no one has been able to produce a copy > of the law. If you have a copy, please post the > text...and/or tell the rest of us where to obtain a copy.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4527. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:32:57 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011216143311.160$mo@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27573
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

"Landshark" <S3Buell@SBCGlobail.Net> wrote in message
news:Ri5T7.9295$aS5.1655985259@newssvr13.news.prodigy.com...
> Actually it has Richard,
> I don't like my little friend Dog Biskit, but > he is correct.

As Usual... But you are incorrect I am not your friend I don't associate with know homosexuals.

4528. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:55:27 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1CEEEE.3B57E669@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27574

N2EY wrote:

> In article <3C198FB6.60B5A043@townsqr.com>, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
> writes:
>
> >Robert Casey wrote:
> >
> >> K0HB wrote:
> >>
> >> >
> >> >
> >> > Being from southern MN, I know all about EF Johnson, but you'd really > >need > >> > to stretch to consider that as "homebrewed". Sorry, Dick, your rant just > >> > doesn't persuade me. This "factory appliances only" license is a bad > >idea.
> >> >
> >>
> >> A major reason for the way the FCC and other countries do up their > >> rules is the ease of enforcement. Why do they say have extra only > >> subbands instead of say power level restrictions? Because someone > >> at an FCC field site operating a receiver can easily see what frequency
> >> you are on, where he can't really tell how much power you're putting > >> out. For all he knows, you might just have a small rig and a yagi > >> pointed at him.
> >
> > You have just given a description of how the FCC would reason if they were > >making the rules today, instead of 35 year ago. That was not, however, the > >thinking at the time.
> >
> OK, I'll bite. What WAS the thinking at the time?
>

OK, when Conditionals & up had access to all frequencies, most everyone who worked a lot of DX did it in the lower 25kc of the HF bands, including me, a Conditional at the time. The lower 25 kc segment was considered prime real estate, and when privileges were modified by license class, that was a benefit of achieving Extra class status. And before the year was out, I had a 260-miles-one-way-from-the-FCC-office Extra, and I was back at work on the lower 25's.
Power had nothing to do with it. As far as FCC is concerned, no ham is authorized to use power levels above that necessary to achieve the intended communication.
FCC has always been able to look up licensees they hear on the air in their database.

Dick

4529. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 19:57:12 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011216145712.14930.00000393@mb-fp.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27575

>From talking with IARU officials and people representing them >at the ITU, I disagree. I believe the IARU finally has woken up >to the realities we will face (spectrum pressures, etc.) in the >future and is acting accordingly.

I certainly can't argue with the threat of "use it (en masse) or lose it" wrt spectrum allocations.

>Any time you require someone to jump through a hoop, just for >the sake of jumping through it, that's forcing something down
>someone's throad IMNSHO.

I agree with that, I just don't equate 5-wpm with "jumping through a hoop."
Perhaps the 20-wpm qualifies.

>I think the "Dope & Fabric" analogy is a bit different ... as an FAA >licensee, other people's lives are dependent on the quality of your >work, and there are still some "vintage" planes built that way, AFAIK.

I found that out the hard way when I did volunteer work at a local museum upon graduation. Damn Stearman! <ggg>

>I don't see folks getting a sense of accomplishment in being forced >to learn Morse when they have no interest in it, or intention to use it.

I think the sense of accomplishment comes with having fulfilled the requirements for "earning the privileges" that gain them access to the portion of radio spectrum where they may engage in whatever activities interest them the most.

>What I'm suggesting is that demonstrating the ability to solve the >applicable problems could be seen as sufficient to demonstrate >the requisite level of qualification to earn the privileges. I am NOT >suggesting that the privileges should be "given away." Also, consider >my previous comments that the license should be viewed as a permit >to do things, not as some sort of "graduation certificate," and that >the value is in what it allows you to do, not what you had to do to get
>it.

I suppose...sort of like the UK Foundation ticket. I can see your point. :-)

>I'm not saying that the MODE is irrelevant ... certainly it is used, but it >is just one of many modes, which licensees are free to choose to use >or not ... what is irrelevant is requiring a demonstration of proficiency >in manual Morse in order to obtain a license in the 1st place.

Isn't that what the No-code Technician license is for?

>You have every right to your opinion and it has just as much value
>as anyone else's (even if I disagree with it ... :-)

Thanks, my take as well. I've enjoyed more civil discussion with folks I've disagreed with than I can shake a stick at. ;-)

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4530. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:05:32 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9viun60165c@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27577

"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message news:3c1cee98_1@news7.fast.net...
> First, learn how to spell insulting terms before you use them ...
>
> Second, I'm an Extra ... missed one out of 50 on the test, due to > a stupid mistake on my part (reading the question/answers too > fast and marked the wrong letter, despite knowing the correct > answer) ... but 98% ain't bad ... did YOU do that well?
>
> No need to answer ... I don't intend to respond to your flame > bait any further ...
>
> --
> Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse

This is typical from Bruce. I am far from being a perfect typist. God knows I make my share of typos. What makes me laugh is that certain code proponents that will be quick to point out the slightest grammatical error or spelling mistake, yet won't say a word about Bruce's pathetic posts. It's probably a last ditch effort to say something when they can't present any other argument.

4531. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:10:11 UTC
From: webdoc@mailandnews.com
Message-ID: <de9751ca.0112161210.3624edc4@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27576
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

"JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<SYZQ7.150916$WW.9789945@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> Heck, do what I did 35 years ago when W2OY tried to jam me. Be nice.
> Reduce your bandwidth. Any idea as to what 40 WPM of CW will do to an AM > (or SSB) signal? I had a nice 30 minute chat after Mike sat on the > frequency. I can assure you, his blood pressure likely doubled. I still > had a solid QSO for half an hour and didn't even hear him. Nice thing about > CW - it's legal anywhere within the amateur bands.
>
> 73 from Rochester, NY
> Jim AA2QA

While I am in NYC with the American Red Cross, I am planning to take the test to get my ticket, and a friend gave me an early X-mas gift of a nice little 2 meter HT. So I have been listening to the chatter on the NYC area repeaters and heard some beligerant fool jamming the one repeater for a few days. Some people just need to grow up I guess, if someone does something to offend me, my radio and computer both have a nice little feature called the on/off switch. No need to jam, all that does is compound the situation.

Keith Hosman

4532. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:10:15 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9viv010171g@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27579

"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message
news:3c1cf140_2@news7.fast.net...

> From talking with IARU officials and people representing them > at the ITU, I disagree. I believe the IARU finally has woken up > to the realities we will face (spectrum pressures, etc.) in the > future and is acting accordingly.

I would think that HF spectrum would be safe. In fact, in the past two decades, hams have gotten more HF spectrum in the 12, 17, and 30 meter bands. VHF and up are what I'm concerned about. Commercial interests would love to get the paws on the 2 meter band.

4533. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:25:39 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <u#4jW#mhBHA.1580@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 27578

N2EY says:

> We have type acceptance already.

In a single category, HF amplifiers, this is true. But there is no blanket "type acceptance" applied to US Amateur Radio, nor any restriction of modification of amplifiers by hams, not any restriction on designing our own from scratch.

> Manufactured rigs have to be FCC certified for ham use.
> So do kits.

The is _not_ "type acceptance". They are certified only to the extent that they meet Part 15 requirements like any other consumer electronic device (such as your garage door opener) and it has nothing to do with "type acceptance" under Part 97.

> Hams don't "have to" homebrew, should why should they
> "have to" learn so much technical stuff just to get the license?
> Those who want to homebrew can learn it and get the necessary > license.

This is the same mantra sung by NCI's ex Executive Director, W5YI. He has stated publicly that he feels that since people who acquire entry level ham tickets invariably purchase their equipment assembled these days, and send them in for repairs when broken, they no longer need to possess the knowledge needed to build good "home-brew" stations, nor the knowledge to determine if their repairs/adjustments result in proper on-the-air signals. Because of this fact, he thinks that the majority of questions regarding math and theory (knowledge mainly needed to build/repair/adjust equipment) should be removed from entry level tests, and simply replaced with questions on operating technique and regulations. If he had his way, math and theory questions would only be part of Amateur Extra examinations.

Can you say "Tech Free General" and "No Tech Technician"?

I can just hear some "Tech Free General" on 17 meters saying "My equipment CAN'T be splattering, it's type accepted and besides, I'm not required to have the technical knowledge
how to curesplatter anyhow."

How do you square that silly notion with Part 97.1(b), (c) and (d).

The QCAO would love you guys are members!

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4534. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:49:41 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216154941.05640.00000736@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27580

>Second, I'm an Extra .

Well look A$$ Wipe, maybe you ought to inform QRZ, they still have you as a
Tech

4535. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:51:35 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216155135.05640.00000739@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27581

>despite knowing the correct
>answer) ... but 98% ain't bad ... did YOU do that well?
>

No I didnt do 98%, I did 100%, total test time 3 Minutes

4536. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:52:33 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216155233.05640.00000740@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27582

>No need to answer ... I don't intend to respond to your flame >bait any further ...
>
>--

Then why did you respond in the First Place A$$ Wipe???

4537. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:54:36 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216155436.05640.00000741@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27583

>NCI-1052
>Executive Director, No Code International
>Fellow, The Radio Club of America
>Senior Member, IEEE
>Member, TAPR
>Member, ARRL

You missed 1 Carl, you forgot" Member CBs are us"

4538. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 20:56:43 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216155643.05640.00000743@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27584

>What makes me laugh is that certain code
>proponents that will be quick to point out the slightest grammatical error >or spelling mistake, yet won't say a word about Bruce's pathetic posts.
>It's probably a last ditch effort to say something when they can't present >any other argument.

Another losser I see, for your info I could care less about CW, its the Stupid
Written that is a Joke

4539. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 21:58:22 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vj5an02adu@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27585

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216155643.05640.00000743@mb-fo.aol.com...
> >What makes me laugh is that certain code > >proponents that will be quick to point out the slightest grammatical error
> >or spelling mistake, yet won't say a word about Bruce's pathetic posts.
> >It's probably a last ditch effort to say something when they can't present
> >any other argument.
>
> Another losser I see, for your info I could care less about CW, its the Stupid
> Written that is a Joke

I rest my case.

4540. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 22:45:46 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d241c_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27586

"Bert Craig" <kc2hmn@cs.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011216145712.14930.00000393@mb-fp.news.cs.com...
>
[snip]
>
> >What I'm suggesting is that demonstrating the ability to solve the > >applicable problems could be seen as sufficient to demonstrate > >the requisite level of qualification to earn the privileges. I am NOT > >suggesting that the privileges should be "given away." Also, consider > >my previous comments that the license should be viewed as a permit > >to do things, not as some sort of "graduation certificate," and that > >the value is in what it allows you to do, not what you had to do to get
> >it.
>
> I suppose...sort of like the UK Foundation ticket. I can see your point.
:-)

I was not refering to the UK Foundation ticket ... on the contrary, I was talking about US classes, up to and including Extra ... even the Extra is not a "graduation certificate" ... it's just a permit to do things ...
the fact that it conveys more privileges is based on the fact that one has demonstrated a higher degree of technical knowledge, so it lets you do more.

73.
--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4541. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 22:50:30 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d2537_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27587

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216154941.05640.00000736@mb-fo.aol.com...
> >Second, I'm an Extra .
>
> Well look A$$ Wipe, maybe you ought to inform QRZ, they still have you as a
> Tech

No, they have me as a Tech Plus ... I would have thought an Extra like you would know that there is a lag between passing the test and when the change appears in the FCC database, and a slightly longer lag before the change appears in
the callsign servers. However, from the time the test is passed and a CSCE issued,
the privileges are available to the licensee.

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4542. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 22:51:37 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d257a$1_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27588

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216155135.05640.00000739@mb-fo.aol.com...
> >despite knowing the correct
> >answer) ... but 98% ain't bad ... did YOU do that well?
> >
>
> No I didnt do 98%, I did 100%, total test time 3 Minutes

I doubt that ... your level of literacy, demonstrated over several years, definitely casts doubt on that claim :-)

Carl

4543. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 23:00:33 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d2793_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27589

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
news:u#4jW#mhBHA.1580@cpimsnntpa03...
> N2EY says:
>
> > We have type acceptance already.
>
> In a single category, HF amplifiers, this is true. But there is no > blanket "type acceptance" applied to US Amateur Radio, nor > any restriction of modification of amplifiers by hams, not any > restriction on designing our own from scratch.
>
> > Manufactured rigs have to be FCC certified for ham use.
> > So do kits.
>
> The is _not_ "type acceptance". They are certified only to the > extent that they meet Part 15 requirements like any other consumer > electronic device (such as your garage door opener) and it has > nothing to do with "type acceptance" under Part 97.
>
> > Hams don't "have to" homebrew, should why should they
> > "have to" learn so much technical stuff just to get the license?
> > Those who want to homebrew can learn it and get the necessary > > license.
>
> This is the same mantra sung by NCI's ex Executive Director, > W5YI. He has stated publicly that he feels that since people > who acquire entry level ham tickets invariably purchase their > equipment assembled these days, and send them in for > repairs when broken, they no longer need to possess the > knowledge needed to build good "home-brew" stations, nor
> the knowledge to determine if their repairs/adjustments result > in proper on-the-air signals. Because of this fact, he thinks that > the majority of questions regarding math and theory (knowledge > mainly needed to build/repair/adjust equipment) should > be removed from entry level tests, and simply replaced with > questions on operating technique and regulations. If he had > his way, math and theory questions would only be part of > Amateur Extra examinations.

Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy." I can assure you (and all of the other readers that a majority of the NCI Board does NOT feel as you have insinuated above by stating what you believe Fred's views to be. We are No CODE International, not No Test International, nor No Theory International. The vast majority of the NCI Board (myself included) firmly support technical proficiency, in fact, increased emphasis on technical proficiency, in the ARS.

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4544. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 23:11:51 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vjddrdkr0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27595
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"paul friedman" <pfriedman8426@mediaone.net> wrote in message news:eh6T7.5097$yC.323593@typhoon.mn.mediaone.net...
> Shouldn't be a problem. Make sure the battery is charged as you might be > asked to turn it on.
>
> Paul AB0SI

I believe you have to ask the plane's Captain if it's ok also.

97.11a.

> "Joshua Senecal" <senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu> wrote in message > news:senecal-1512011928590001@d71-096.solano1.ucdavis.edu...
> > Hi all,
> >
> > I'm going to be flying soon, and I'd like to take my HT with me in my > > carryon (no, I won't be using it on the plane! :) I'm concerned that > > having this may cause a problem at airport security, what with the current > > situation and all. Has anyone flown recently and carried their rig with > > them? If so, what was your experience at the airport?
> >
> > Thanks!
> >
> > -Josh Senecal, KG6IBF
> >
> > --
> > senecal@mapson.cs.ucdavis.edu (remove the obvious bit from the address)
> >
> > "Your most valuable asset is rampant ignorance."
> > -Dogbert
>
>

4545. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 23:18:08 UTC
From: Better Than Roger <"Har Har"@Anon.com> Message-ID: <9vja4l$2qs$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27591
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vj9as$4v$0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> wrote in message > news:1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net...
> > Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the > Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy > Scouts.
>
> He forgot to tell you he (SLee) was the one taking the money...guess he had > to feed that heroin habit.
>

Hey, Woger. Yer buddies over at Lambda miss you.
>

4546. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 23:24:02 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <#merBiohBHA.436@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27592

WA6VSE says:

> Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased > them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy."

I'm sure that's true, and I didn't insinuate otherwise.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4547. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-16 23:24:13 UTC
From: thou old greeze monkey <hjohinsie14300@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <x2aT7.7576$O7.809474@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27593
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vj9as$4v$0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> wrote in message > news:1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net...
> > Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the > Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy > Scouts.
>
> He forgot to tell you he (SLee) was the one taking the money...guess he had > to feed that heroin habit.

the note above reminds me of some of the same ole slimeballs I see each and every year at the Dayton Hamvention. I usually visit the Pizza --- and sure enough when a group gets up to leave, some stinkin slimeball ham says he has to go hit the men's room, waits for everyone to go out to the parking lot, then goes back to the table to pocket half the cash tip they left for the waitress. Usually the resturant personnel are so busy their don't see it but I've see this in ad least 3 resturants during lunch or dinner during Hamvention.
Usual technique is they take out a ten to "make change" with the tip, cop a quick glance, then pocket part of the tip like they made change and left the ten....
Does this happen around other hamfests? Boy oh boy we got some real cheap slimeballs in this hobby.

4548. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:11:30 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216191130.28796.00001053@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27594

>I rest my case.
>

Bite it

4549. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:16:10 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216191610.28796.00001056@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27596

>No, they have me as a Tech Plus ... I would have thought an Extra like you
>would >know that there is a lag between passing the test and when the change >appears >in the FCC database, and a slightly longer lag before the change appears in
>the >callsign servers.

Oh I see, it took you Months to memorize enough Questions to pass.
By the way, now that you have Welfare Status on HF, where are all these great Technical Things that you were going to bring to HF???? Or have you forgotten about those comments?

4550. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:19:43 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216191943.28796.00001061@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27597

>I doubt that ... your level of literacy, demonstrated over several >years, definitely casts doubt on that claim :-)
>
>Carl
>

You can doubt all you want, I could care less what you think. What I do know is that it has taken you Months and Months to obtain your Welfare HF Status. What was the problen Carl to many Qustions for you to Memorize in 1 setting??

4551. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:21:01 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vjean$g3l$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27598
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"Buttfucking Them Randylittlekids" <Har Har@Anon.com> wrote in message news:9vja4l$2qs$0@dosa.alt.net...

Poor Joanie "cocksucking expert' Shitball Kimball....

>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vj9as$4v$0@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> > "J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> wrote in message > > news:1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net...
> > > Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the > > Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy > > Scouts.
> >
> > He forgot to tell you he (SLee) was the one taking the money...guess he > had > > to feed that heroin habit.
> >
>
> Hey, Woger. Yer buddies over at Lambda miss you.

Yeah? Well, go ahead and fill in for me, since you're more experienced with their meetings anyways, choad swallower.

4552. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:22:06 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vjeap$g3l$1@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27599
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"thou old greeze monkey" <hjohinsie14300@earthlink.net> wrote in message news:x2aT7.7576$O7.809474@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vj9as$4v$0@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> > "J. Duffy Beischel" <duffyb01@fuse.net> wrote in message > > news:1103_1008511844@news.fuse.net...
> > > Thanks for the info. Now I will triple my annual contribution to the > > Salvation Army just like the way I have started sending money to the Boy > > Scouts.
> >
> > He forgot to tell you he (SLee) was the one taking the money...guess he had > > to feed that heroin habit.
>
> the note above reminds me of some of the same ole slimeballs I see each > and every year at the Dayton Hamvention. I usually visit the Pizza --- and > sure enough when a group gets up to leave, some stinkin slimeball ham > says he has to go hit the men's room, waits for everyone to go out to > the parking lot, then goes back to the table to pocket half the cash tip they left > for the waitress. Usually the resturant personnel are so busy their don't see it > but I've see this in ad least 3 resturants during lunch or dinner during Hamvention.
> Usual technique is they take out a ten to "make change" with the tip, cop
a quick > glance, then pocket part of the tip like they made change and left the ten....
> Does this happen around other hamfests? Boy oh boy we got some real > cheap slimeballs in this hobby.

Maybe that's the attraction for them.....being cheap....

4553. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:34:57 UTC
From: chris <k4rch@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vjehm$p4e$1@bob.news.rcn.net>
Source record: 27600
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

You only need permission if you are going to transmit during the flight.

Chris

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vjddrdkr0@dosa.alt.net...
>
>
> I believe you have to ask the plane's Captain if it's ok also.
>
> 97.11a.

4554. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:54:59 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goggway.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27452

On 16 Dec 2001 16:45:13 GMT, Larry Roll K3LT wrote:

>>if you are civil service all that is necessary is to know your pay >>level (which is open information, since your position in an agency is >>determined by it). All "G5s," for example, receive precisely the same >>salary. They don't have to hide it because their employer isn't >>cheating anyone else out of a fair pay by concealing it.

>Not all GS-5's make the same money. There are different "step"
>levels within each Civil Service paygrade, and longevity points >which increase pay within the grade/step level. When I was a Master >Sergeant stationed at the Air Force Academy, I supervised three >GS-5's, none of which made the same as the others. I also had a >GS-6 who made less than one of the more senior GS-5's.

Not only that, there are location and hardship differentials.
Engineers GS-5 are on a different "ladder" than Clerk-Typists GS-5, for instance, as are Engineers in New York City versus same-grade Engineers in Grand Island, Nebraska.

Not only are the "ladder" rates public information, so is the exact Position and Job Title, Duty Station, Grade/Step and salary of any Civil Service employee.

One of the joys of swimming in Uncle Sam's fishbowl.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4555. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:55:04 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gogh5iz.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27451
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 00:35:50 -0500, Robert Casey wrote:

>If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

Nowadays they may very well make you prove it works as you have described. They hane been doing that with cameras for years, and I've had to prove that my turned-off scanner works as a scanner and not a transmitter when it is turned on.

The worst "security scan" that I've had with carry-on luggage was a piece of finished gemstone (green malechite) the size of an egg...must have looked like a hand grenade on the X-ray. And that was almost 15 years ago.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4556. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 00:55:04 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goghz90.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27453

On 16 Dec 2001 17:03:28 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>It is my understanding that UK written license tests are a very different >ballgame than here. They cost L75 - about $100 US! They are not given very >often, and the actual Q&A are secret. Prospective UK hams are REQUIRED to >attend an approved training course before being allowed to take any tests. How >do ya think that would play over here?

During the "privatization" discussions at the FCC staff level back in the 80s, more than one staffer suggested that if we are forced to "privatize" testing, we should adopt what was then the European system of a national amateur radio club giving the tests, including mandatory training sessions and membership in said club as the Europeans were doing.

I still feel that the FCC should be back in the testing business and was very forthright about that in my comments submitted in the Restructuring proceeding.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4557. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:00:01 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d4392_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27454

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
news:#merBiohBHA.436@cpimsnntpa02...
> WA6VSE says:
>
> > Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased > > them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy."
>
> I'm sure that's true, and I didn't insinuate otherwise.
>
> With all kind wishes,
>
> de Hans, K0HB

FB, Hans ... I didn't mean to infer that you had bad intentions, but felt compelled to clarify for other readers.

Happy holidays,

--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4558. Re: "...one step closer to extinction. "

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:44:34 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <OtqVjwphBHA.1752@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27455

KE8HH says:

> The ONLY reason for taking that position is because they are paying some people > more to do a given job than they are paying others for the same work. If their pay > scale was based on equal pay for equal work they wouldn't CARE if people told > others what they earned.

Hogwash! People get paid what they get paid because of their value to their employer. Using my engineering group for an example, our company has 4 "grades" of RF engineers. Engineer I, Engineer II, Senior Engineer, and Principal Engineer. Each of those "grades" has a salary range "midpoint", and guidelines allow me to pay each person between 80% and 140% of their grade "midpoint".

As an example, the "midpoint" for a Senior Engineer is currently $71,485. That means I can pay an incumbent between $57,476 and $100,079. They all know the possible range of salary, and they also know that top performers will be paid above midpoint, adequate performers will be paid near midpoint, and low performers .... well, you get the idea. In other words, they control their own salary potential. What a novel idea, huh?

While all Senior Engineer incumbents do roughly the same sort of work, some are more skilled at that work than others, some are more experienced, some have auxiliary skills or talents, some are better visionaries, some were hired because they had certain technology backgrounds that were needed in my group (and I needed to pay a certain salary to attract them away from their former position), some are assigned more technologically demanding tasks, some are pursuing more risky development lines, etc., etc., etc. And yes, some are paid less because they have not yet demonstrated a higher value to our group.

If I "averaged it out" and paid them all the same salary, then my competitors would benefit from my turnover as my most valuable Engineers departed for situations where their skills were properly compensated. I'd be stuck with the "performs adequately" remainder.

73, de Hans, K0HB

4559. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:48:59 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D41CF.5BC36ED1@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27456
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

N9NWO wrote:

> > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds
> > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> >
> > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > words for his superiors.
>
> These days, DOD often rolls for the local > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> will relieve the local jail of your person then > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> you really do not have that much "covering
> fire".
>
> Again, you guys really need to talk to your > lawyers to understand how modern American
> courts really work.

This guy is an out-and-out troll. He couldn't be that uninformed.

4560. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:50:09 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d502a_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27458

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
news:3C1D41CF.5BC36ED1@townsqr.com...
>
>
> N9NWO wrote:
>
> > > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government
funds
> > > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> > >
> > > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > > words for his superiors.
> >
> > These days, DOD often rolls for the local > > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> > will relieve the local jail of your person then > > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> > you really do not have that much "covering
> > fire".
> >
> > Again, you guys really need to talk to your > > lawyers to understand how modern American > > courts really work.
>
> This guy is an out-and-out troll. He couldn't be that uninformed.
>

That saying, "takes one to know one" comes to mind here...LOL

Kim W5TIT

4561. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:53:36 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1D5020.1DA0592E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27457

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
> We are No CODE International,
> not No Test International, nor No Theory International. The vast > majority of the NCI Board (myself included) firmly support technical > proficiency, in fact, increased emphasis on technical proficiency,
> in the ARS.

Hey Carl, wonder how they would like a technical exam that you would have a hard time with? :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4562. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 01:58:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1D513C.7D079503@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27459
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Phil Kane wrote:
> The worst "security scan" that I've had with carry-on luggage was a > piece of finished gemstone (green malechite) the size of an > egg...must have looked like a hand grenade on the X-ray. And that > was almost 15 years ago.

They confiscated my soldering tool - you know the kind that has a sharp point on each end for removing solder splashes from PC boards.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4563. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 02:03:05 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D451C.FD2B3154@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27460
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Bill Nelson wrote:

> In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
> > The way you were going at it was that you
> > were making it out that you were some big > > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of > > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> > that cop were to get off.
>
> An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself
> into such a situation in the first place.

The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.

Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as police officers.

4564. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 02:48:18 UTC
From: radiohead11m@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216214818.10592.00001235@mb-mg.aol.com>
Source record: 27461

>Mark,
>
>You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General
>and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.

There's a bit more to be read "between" the lines.

>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that >way in most of the world, too.

Gee, I hope not. It's at 5-wpm now, that's a significant reduction. Access to the entire HF spectrum can now be had with what used to get you onto the Novice sub-bands. But to each their own. If they drop it, so be it. If not, well I guess that's ok too.

>Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy
>in the future after all ...

Ham radio was never in danger. It'll still be "dying" long after our grandchildren go for their tickets. Take care and 73.

Mark

4565. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 02:50:47 UTC
From: radiohead11m@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216215047.10592.00001236@mb-mg.aol.com>
Source record: 27462

>I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the >written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study
>"guides."

Now there's a thought!

Mark

4566. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 02:58:52 UTC
From: radiohead11m@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216215852.10592.00001238@mb-mg.aol.com>
Source record: 27464

>> ..." I believe Mark himself said that
>> "there's something to be said for tradition."

That was me alright.

>"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.

Regulatory function...isn't amateur radio more than just "regulatory." There's a pseudo-culture that's rooted in...tradition. Reduce it...but don't eliminate it.

>If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments
>force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.

It's not about keeping Morse alive. I think it's about standards.

>Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem >with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic under>lying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to
>"memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.

I think they're revamping the pools as we speak. (write)

>In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
>I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
>problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone >carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently >refer to references for useful information.
>

I'm inclined to agree. I've known open book exams that were much harder than some that simply required memorization. Take care and 73.

Mark

4567. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 02:59:21 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216215921.05696.00000875@mb-mq.aol.com>
Source record: 27463

>Hey Carl, wonder how they would like a technical exam that you would >have a hard time with? :-)
>--
>cheers, CAM

It sure looks like he most have had a hard time with the written, his Call still shows up as a Tech plus. Guess there are 2 many Questions for him to Memorize

4568. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 03:06:50 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vjnd507gc@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27466

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216191943.28796.00001061@mb-fc.aol.com...
> You can doubt all you want, I could care less what you think. What I do know is > that it has taken you Months and Months to obtain your Welfare HF Status.
What > was the problen Carl to many Qustions for you to Memorize in 1 setting??

Why, then, do you even bother to post if you say you don't care what people think?

4569. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 03:14:09 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <5qdT7.227698$3d2.10791368@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27465

"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216215047.10592.00001236@mb-mg.aol.com...
> >I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > >written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study > >"guides."
>
> Now there's a thought!
>
> Mark

Any licensing structure has two almost mutually exclusive goals that have been wrestled with for years.

The license to get started has no particularly good reason to be difficult. Rules, regs, safety, etc. It is not a graduation certificate as has been observed but a license to practice.

If one decides there should be some demarcation between the tyro and the pro then it is legitimate to both test and require some experience. We did that for years with the old Class A (one year licensed before you could take it) and Class B-C tickets and required one or two years for the Extra at various times. This is the subject of another debate,

My point is that you cannot do them both at the same time on the same $10.

Dick N�BK

4570. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 03:45:29 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216224529.07211.00001040@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27467

>Why, then, do you even bother to post if you say you don't care what people >think?
>
>

To keep them Guessing

4571. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 04:08:16 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1d6fb4_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27468

"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216215852.10592.00001238@mb-mg.aol.com...
> >> ..." I believe Mark himself said that
> >> "there's something to be said for tradition."
>
> That was me alright.
>
> >"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
>
> Regulatory function...isn't amateur radio more than just "regulatory."
There's > a pseudo-culture that's rooted in...tradition. Reduce it...but don't eliminate
> it.

We're talking about licensing requirements ... that's PURELY a regulatory function. "Tradition" has NOTHING to do with legitimate regulatory goals ... it's not the FCC's job to preserve amateur
"tradition" ... the FCC's job is to regulate the use of the spectrum
in the public interest. End of story.

> >If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to > >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments > >force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.
>
> It's not about keeping Morse alive. I think it's about standards.

Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has three basic motivations 1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should, too."; 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts will dry up; and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from using "their" bands. All 3 of those are pure rubbish.

> >Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem > >with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic under> >lying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to > >"memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.
>
> I think they're revamping the pools as we speak. (write)

Yes, the new Extra pool is done and must be used by June 1, 2002.
My understanding is that the intent of the QPC was to make it more modern and comprehensive.

> >In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some > >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
> >I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
> >problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone > >carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently > >refer to references for useful information.
> >
>
> I'm inclined to agree. I've known open book exams that were much harder than > some that simply required memorization. Take care and 73.
>
> Mark

73,
--
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL

Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

4572. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 04:23:56 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011216232356.20069.00000837@mb-ba.aol.com>
Source record: 27469

>Subject: Re: Radio Policy
>From: "Carl R. Stevenson" wa6vse@fast.net
>Date: 12/16/01 10:08 PM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3c1d6fb4_1@news7.fast.net>
>
>"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011216215852.10592.00001238@mb-mg.aol.com...
>> >> ..." I believe Mark himself said that
>> >> "there's something to be said for tradition."
>>
>> That was me alright.
>>
>> >"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
>>
>> Regulatory function...isn't amateur radio more than just "regulatory."
>There's
>> a pseudo-culture that's rooted in...tradition. Reduce it...but don't >eliminate
>> it.
>
>We're talking about licensing requirements ... that's PURELY a >regulatory function. "Tradition" has NOTHING to do with legitimate >regulatory goals ... it's not the FCC's job to preserve amateur
>"tradition" ... the FCC's job is to regulate the use of the spectrum >in the public interest. End of story.
>
>> >If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to >> >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments >> >force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.
>>
>> It's not about keeping Morse alive. I think it's about standards.
>
>Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has >three basic motivations 1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should,
>too."; 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
>not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts >will dry up; and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from >using "their" bands. All 3 of those are pure rubbish.
>
>> >Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem >> >with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic under>> >lying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to >> >"memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.
>>

>> I think they're revamping the pools as we speak. (write)
>
>Yes, the new Extra pool is done and must be used by June 1, 2002.
>My understanding is that the intent of the QPC was to make it more >modern and comprehensive.
>
>> >In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some >> >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
>> >I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
>> >problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone >> >carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently >> >refer to references for useful information.
>> >
>>
>> I'm inclined to agree. I've known open book exams that were much harder >than >> some that simply required memorization. Take care and 73.
>>
>> Mark
>
>73,
>--
>Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
><mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
><http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>
>---
>NCI-1052
>Executive Director, No Code International
>Fellow, The Radio Club of America
>Senior Member, IEEE
>Member, TAPR
>Member, ARRL
>CBs are us-1001
>Cant Pass A Dumbed Down Written Test in 6 Months-1001
>Senior Member,Bubba Internatioal-1
>Founder and Director 10-4 International

4573. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 04:33:58 UTC
From: Donnie <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net>
Message-ID: <9vjsja$84m$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27470
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> Anonymous COWARD
> "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
> news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> >
> > The Salvation Army
>
> SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
there
> at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > beating up his mother again.
>

Woger, Stagger Lee is a friend of mine. Because you talked mean to him, I am putting you on my Black List.

Donnie

4574. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 04:45:45 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <uVMSvVrhBHA.1644@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27471

WA6VSE said:

> All 3 of those are pure rubbish.

Carl,

Is everything you disagree with "pure rubbish". I don't happen to agree with any of the 3 motives you list, but I do know some well intentioned people who still believe Morse testing is a good idea.

Dismissing their opinion as "pure rubbish" is bad manners. I had hope you'd acquired some manners in your sabbatical from rrap, but alas my dear old Granny was right when she said "Hope in one hand and shit in the other -- tell me which gets full first."

Hans

4575. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 04:51:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <CA0010F0A27050CD.F5CC2D330B7244AE.06DB7FA6286671D4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27472

On 9 Dec 2001 22:22:23 -0800, stewartx@sccoast.net (Dwight Stewart) wrote:

> Prove it for yourself, Rick. Like I said, walk down any street in >this country and ask people to identify the practices of satanism. I'm >certain 99 percent, both religious and non-religious, would list these >very things (witchcraft, occult, etc). Your choice to argue with me >rather than proving it for yourself strongly suggests you're afraid of >the results.

Then, by all means, let's eliminate ANY trace of prejudice in providing the answer.

Walk down any street in any Islamic nation (which represents 20% of the population of the Earth, and thus makes a very fair sample of the population) and ask the same question. If they define it as including pentagrams, wiccan faiths, etc., I'll be glad to agree with you.

On the other hand, if they define it as being an American citizen, you'll just have to live with that as well.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4576. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:01:00 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <DA8D1F89169A9AE3.6914EF5875137C69.5698B107FC1E9049@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27473

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 05:35:05 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> What rumors, Kim? If you're going to accuse someone by name of something like >this, then at least have the integrity to explain your accusation. As I told >Krell, you can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day
>in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories, >conversations, and so on. So how am I spreading "rumors" by repeating the common >application of that word as it is used in this English language? Furthermore,
>Ms. Politically Correct (they not satanic - they're wiccans and pagans), what >gives you the thought that you have a right to dictate what words are used in >this language? Have you been taking double speak lessons from the book, "1984?"

Dwight, the majority of the populations of Iran, Syria,
Lebanon, Iraq, and several other nations view the policies of the United States Government as satanic--and the United States itself as
"the Great Satan."

Since you clearly believe that simply because a group of people claim something is satanic, the definition is the appropriate one, clearly you--as an American citizen--are BY DEFINITION a satanist!

Now, since you practice a religion abhorrent to most of the members of this list (don't believe it? Ask how many of the people here will state that they DON'T find satanism--and satanists--offensive to them), why don't you just go away and practice your perversions in private?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4577. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:01:57 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E955A5EC3F1D6C33.0860DCD26822A8B3.5BECA4EEE1C79892@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27474

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 19:09:51 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Krell wrote:
>>
>> Again, name some specific examples. IOW, put up or shut up.
>
>
> Do your own research, Krell. I have no time for someone who is too blind to >see what is widely available right in front of their own face.

His usual answer when he can't support his dishonest claims, Krell, just take it as a given he doesn't know what he's talking about but he refuses it admit it.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4578. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:03:32 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217000332.24724.00000349@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27476

In article <u#4jW#mhBHA.1580@cpimsnntpa03>, "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
writes:

>N2EY says:
>
>> We have type acceptance already.
>
>In a single category, HF amplifiers, this is true. But there is no >blanket "type acceptance" applied to US Amateur Radio, nor >any restriction of modification of amplifiers by hams, not any >restriction on designing our own from scratch.

Yep - unless a ham wishes to sell an amplifier or kit of parts for one. Then we are limited to one per calendar year. If I come up with a neat design for, say, an outboard amplifier for the Elecraft K2, I can only sell one per year to other hams - even if I sell them at cost. Even internal amplifiers must be type-accepted.
>
>> Manufactured rigs have to be FCC certified for ham use.
>> So do kits.
>
>The is _not_ "type acceptance". They are certified only to the >extent that they meet Part 15 requirements like any other consumer >electronic device (such as your garage door opener) and it has >nothing to do with "type acceptance" under Part 97.

Thanks for the clarification, Hans. While I did distinguish between type acceptance and certification, I can see where that distinction is not very clear in my original posting.
>
>> Hams don't "have to" homebrew, should why should they
>> "have to" learn so much technical stuff just to get the license?
>> Those who want to homebrew can learn it and get the necessary >> license.
>
>This is the same mantra sung by NCI's ex Executive Director, >W5YI. He has stated publicly that he feels that since people >who acquire entry level ham tickets invariably purchase their >equipment assembled these days, and send them in for >repairs when broken, they no longer need to possess the >knowledge needed to build good "home-brew" stations, nor
>the knowledge to determine if their repairs/adjustments result >in proper on-the-air signals. Because of this fact, he thinks that >the majority of questions regarding math and theory (knowledge >mainly needed to build/repair/adjust equipment) should >be removed from entry level tests, and simply replaced with >questions on operating technique and regulations. If he had >his way, math and theory questions would only be part of >Amateur Extra examinations.

Yup. That's his personal idea, of course. There are others singing that tune - for example, Stewart Teaze, N0MHS, who actually petitioned the FCC for a "Colt" license that had the same basic idea but way too many limitations. Stew's main mistakes, as I see it, were that his timing was bad (just after the 2000 restructuring) and the proposed license gave far too limited privileges.

But imagine mixing Stew's "Colt" idea with Fred's concept and the UK Foundation class. End result could be a "Communicator" class. You can bet the rig manufacturers will support it. You know how many times Kenwood's comments were referred to by the FCC in its R&O on 98-143?
>
>Can you say "Tech Free General" and "No Tech Technician"?
>
Sure. Once upon a time, the same thing would have been said about "no code test ham license".

>I can just hear some "Tech Free General" on 17 meters
>saying "My equipment CAN'T be splattering, it's type accepted >and besides, I'm not required to have the technical knowledge
>how to curesplatter anyhow."

So? We have hams TODAY who put "power mikes" on their VHF/UHF FM gear and then get perplexed and angry when hams using adjacent channel repeaters complain about too much deviation.

CBers and other radio service users run SSB and FM with no technical testing at all.

All a type-accepted "Communicator" rig would need is a decent limiter to avoid splatter. You think such a feature couldn't be incorporated in a DSP system?
>
>How do you square that silly notion with Part 97.1(b), (c)
>and (d).

Don't have to. Who says EVERY ham MUST be a homebrewer? Remember, approved kits would be OK for Foundation classers.
>
>The QCAO would love you guys are members!
>
Not me. I'm the homebrewer in this bunch - or almost any bunch of hams.

I'm simply pointing out that this is the wave of the future. The code test debate is a dead duck, over, finito. FCC and almost all other countries have gone to 5 wpm for full HF privs. UK is going even farther. Support for code testing is almost nil among IARU member societies AND regualtory agencies like the FCC. 2003 is a little over a year away.

Back in 1991, FCC removed code testing for ham licenses above 30 MHz. There was a surge of new licenses...then the number of new hams dropped back to pre-1991 levels. Then came the April 15, 2000 restructuring, and another surge...but the level of growth is slowing again already. Next stop, no code test for any ham license and an accompanying brief surge and fade.

Once the code test is history, ol' Fred will need a new windmill to tilt at. 'Specially when the long term growth numbers don't change. My friend W1RFI has made the following point many times: Today, if a prospective ham asks "what do I need to study for the entry-level ham license?" he/she gets handed a 200 page book to study. Kinda intimidating for the non-technical types.

You watch, it'll happen. Fred and Stew aren't going away. The number of ham homebrewers is far far less than the number of hams who use CW. Yet Morse testing is now considered unnecessary by the FCC and many others except to meet treaty requirements.

How are you and I going to defend the idea that EVERY new ham MUST know a bunch of technical stuff when almost all new (an old) hams simply buy a rig and plug it in? 'Specially when the manufacturers and Freddites are pointing the other way?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4579. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:03:33 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217000333.24724.00000350@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27475

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.goghz90.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>On 16 Dec 2001 17:03:28 GMT, N2EY wrote:
>
>>It is my understanding that UK written license tests are a very different >>ballgame than here. They cost L75 - about $100 US! They are not given very >>often, and the actual Q&A are secret. Prospective UK hams are REQUIRED to >>attend an approved training course before being allowed to take any tests.
>How
>>do ya think that would play over here?
>
> During the "privatization" discussions at the FCC staff level back > in the 80s, more than one staffer suggested that if we are forced to > "privatize" testing, we should adopt what was then the European > system of a national amateur radio club giving the tests, including > mandatory training sessions and membership in said club as the > Europeans were doing.

To quote Johnny Carson:

"I did not know that!!"

Just imagine what the reaction would be if the FCC were to announce that ALL new hams, regardless of other licensing or experience, had to join the ARRL AND attend an approved series of classes before being allowed to try the test. The code test debate and the incentive licensing fracas would be minor spats by comparison...

> I still feel that the FCC should be back in the testing business > and was very forthright about that in my comments submitted in the > Restructuring proceeding.
>
I'm with ya, Phil, but would they ever actually do it after 17 years of getting the unpaid labor of volunteers?

I think the "Golden Age" of FCC testing was in the late 1970s, when tests were not only given in the FCC offices, but at many hamfests and other gatherings. I remember a 1978 club meeting of the Drumlins ARC where an FCC field official told us that all we needed was a certain number of examinees (I think it was 10) and they'd send an examiner with all the papers.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4580. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:24:50 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <BF0F1CCDEF372990.1B18FF8B954F020E.FBE7BA8AFD924D72@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27477

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 17:49:34 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic. Are you >saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot do >magic when they claim they can proves that.

Ok--then let's judge Christians on the same basis exactly.

Prayer is the Christian form of "Magick" (magic without the
"k" refers to stage tricks). Except for the name there is no essential difference in the two. Both seek to gain "divine intercession" in a secular matter of interest to the adherent.

Despite previous claims to the contrary, a comprehensive study recently released by the Mayo Clinic has demonstrated conclusively that prayer does NOT have any effect on recovery from a serious illness (in this case, heart attacks). The prayer, in this case, was conducted by a combination of sincere (and devout) Christian church goers and Christian ministers (the "magicians" of the religion).

Since this carefully controlled test has validated something most people already knew--that praying for something does NOT make it happen--it is clear that people cannot actually affect change through prayer. Thus, by YOUR argument, this proves they are frauds.

> I claimed modern day "pagans" are >not descendants of those ancient pagan religions.

No, Dwight. You claimed "pagans."

Even if you limit it to modern ones, however, unless you claim that they base their beliefs on Christianity (absurd) rather than on the old religions, the effect is still the same--they practice a religion that does NOT include a "satan," and thus CANNOT be practicing "satanism."

> Do you have some evidence to >dispute this?

Why should anyone bother to provide you evidence of anything?
You not only ignore it when it IS presented, but you lack the integrity to provide evidence to support your own claims as well.

> I claimed most people in this country would describe their beliefs >and practices as "satanic."

And I dispute that--although even if it WERE true it would make no difference. Most people in this country think the US Government is covering up information about UFOs (67% of the population), most people in this country believe that Christ was born on December 25th (a complete absurdity--read the biblical narrative), most people in this country believe a LOT of erroneous "facts." Their beliefs neither make those "Facts" true, nor do they serve as the basis for the definition of words.

Use a _dictionary_ of the English Language as your source, Dwight--I quoted several of them ALL of which demonstrated you were incorrect. Isn't it a bit stupid to claim that you know more about the meaning of words than the Oxford English Dictionary?

> Do you have some evidence to dispute that?

Do you have any to SUPPORT it?

Not just "everyone says." That's bull and we BOTH know it.
Give me a citation of a study where a statistically significant percentage of the US population were studied and found to equate Wicca and paganism with satanism. Not just your "most people would . . ."
PROOF that they would.

You demand WE prove our statements--start proving your own or at least admit that you make them up as you go along--as many of us are well aware is the case.

> So far,
>I've seen a lot of talk about how my claims are wrong, but not a shred of >evidence to support that talk.

I've posted plenty. Where is YOUR evidence, Dwight? Or is it easier to make a claim if you don't have to prove you aren't lying?

> If you really believe this wiccan nonsense, Krell, show me they can do magic >and cast spells by having one do so to me. I've asked for such proof over and >over, yet nothing has happened so far. In the end, this entire wiccan nonsense >is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it.

I'll make you a deal. As soon as you prove that prayer works I'll do the same for magick. And don't claim it "isn't your religion" because you are demanding that someone who is not a Wiccan use THEIR practices to provide YOU "proof."

Can't do it?

Gee, Dwight, I guess (again by YOUR statements) that "this entire Christian nonsense is stupid, and so is anyone who would defend it."

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4581. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:27:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1D8238.E58FA0B7@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27478

WA8ULX wrote:
>
> >Hey Carl, wonder how they would like a technical exam that you would > >have a hard time with? :-)
>
> It sure looks like he most have had a hard time with the written, his Call > still shows up as a Tech plus. Guess there are 2 many Questions for him to > Memorize

Say Bruce, do you understand about CSCEs?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4582. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:35:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <96B060B878A9D914.3BF1069C450E18A3.CE39FAADE62AE028@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27479

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 05:46:24 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> What they "claim" genius is that they worship a different set >> of gods than you do. Why CAN'T they do that?
>
>
> Of course, they "can" do that (that is not saying they ARE doing that, by the >way). But that is not all they "claim," is it, Rick? Most wiccans also claim >they can do magic (or "magick," as some of them like to use) and other such >nonsense? Do you really believe they can, Rick?

Do you believe that Christians can cause miracles by prayer, Dwight? That's at fundamental tenet of the Christian faith. Unless you can find some basis for defining that as even slightly more probable than the practice of magick, the only conclusion that can be made is that Christianity consists of EXACTLY as much nonsense as Wicca.

Magick in wiccan or occult senses is not about "Making things happen," Dwight, it's about personal change. The "magick" ritual has precisely the same significance that communion has in a Christian ritual--it causes the practitioner to draw closer to his or her deity.
"Spells," and similar nonsense are in the same class as the practices of some small Christian cults that handle rattlesnakes, flog themselves, or speak in tongues--and have the same relationship to the religion itself that Christianity has to Sunday Bingo sessions.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4583. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:40:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3D5D607A0D710230.9597210326313887.A29EF94A49CBC9D3@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27480

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 06:06:00 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Oh, don't leave now, Kim. We've just getting started? If you really believe >this wiccan nonsense (which you seem to based on the outrage you expressed >above), why don't you ask your wiccan friends if they can do "magick" like so >many other wiccans claim? And if they say they can, why don't you ask them to >cast a spell to reflect the ill feelings I'm expressing towards them back at me?
>Of course, if they claim wiccans can't cast spells or do magick, I'll gladly >provide you with a long list of books about wiccan "spells and magick." Please, >girl, don't even call me ignorant if you're foolish enough to believe in this nonsense.

Hey, Dwight . . .

I'm 85% deaf (totally in the left ear, 15% hearing in the right).

I'll let you know when your prayers restore my hearing to normal (after all, I lost it serving in the military, so your "patriotism" should make it mandatory for you to help me out even if you wouldn't do so otherwise).

Can't do it?

Does that mean that you aren't "foolish enough to believe in this nonsense (Christianity)," or that you set different standards for someone ELSE'S religion?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4584. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:40:55 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D782B.7A03484F@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27481

W1RFI wrote:

> From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
>
> >>This is the first time I've been on this newsgroup in over a year
> >>and your ranting, whining rhetoric hasn't changed one bit from > >>what I can see.
>
> > And you expected...WHAT...from RRAP...?!?!
>
> How about a congratulations for a fellow ham who has upgraded?
>
> Congratuations, Carl.
>

Yeah, Congratulations on the downgraded "upgrade", Carl. I guess you do it however and whenever you can.

4585. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:42:07 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4BFD2AEA224767DA.D29500873639B3AF.3B941EC048070DCF@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27482

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 06:14:50 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>>
>> Not everyone, Dwight. Only the ignorant.
>
>
> Well, since that use is so common in this country, Rick, you just called about >90 percent of the population "ignorant." Of course, that is pretty typical for a >liberal - liberals always believe they're right while everyone else is "wrong"
>or "ignorant."

Care to prove that "90%" figure, Dwight? Or shall we just assume that--like most of your "factual" claims--it came from your own imagination?

Fascists DO have a problem with the meaning of words, don't you?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4586. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:44:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <CC8B6BA766BBE4F2.CE838FA50BA88729.FF175065083F3FA7@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27483

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 18:18:15 -0500, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>But don't think of what obscene phone calls would turn into... :-)

No problem--just use call forwarding and send them to the local jail.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4587. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:46:17 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6CF305A6BB24AD00.2A8D56BE9C30DBF7.10DB203E54E84989@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27484

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 19:12:04 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>Jim Kelley wrote:
>>
>> The best solution is the transporter they have
>> on Star Trek (snip)
>
>
> Exactly. Sadly, problems like this are much easier to solve on television than >they are in real life.

Actually, scientists HAVE successfully constructed (and demonstrated) a transporter of that nature.

Unfortunately, it's only capable of moving a sub-atomic particle--it would take the power of a black hole to move something as large as a toothpick, never mind a human being--but it DOES exist in the real world.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4588. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 05:55:42 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B8D767B3AD28C334.43B42F552DD52A1B.DEAB1CB9DE085F04@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27485

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 06:40:09 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> Do you realize how large the fuel demand is in this country, Rick? Crop based >fuels are way too inefficient. For example, even if we turned over every bit of >the agricultural land in this country to grow a fuel replacement (including all >the lands currently used for food production), there is not enough agricultural >land available to grow enough of anything to replace more than a small percent >of the fuel consumed in this country each year. If we remove the land currently >used for food production, there is not enough land left to make even a small >dent in the problem. Crop based fuels, even with a crop that can grow most >anywhere, is not the answer.

Funny, according to the research done by the Farm Bureau, it would be _easily_ possible to produce enough hemp oil to fuel all motor vehicles in the United States without the slightest negative impact on other agricultural land use. In addition, we would also have produced enough fiber hemp to replace our entire wood based paper industry with a paper source that is environmentally friendly (wood pulp paper uses a bleaching process harmful to the environment) as well as far more durable and less subject to aging effects. We would also have enough fiber left over to produce quite a number of the 40,000+ products that can be manufactured from hemp--as they are in parts of Europe and in Canada today.

Hemp, in a good industrial variety, grows 14-18' tall, 6" in diameter, and in exceptionally dense plantings. Because it is so adaptable to conditions it can be grown in every state in the US (including Alaska), requires virtually no care or harmful insecticides or herbicides, returns over 80% of its nutrients to the soil (the leaves and branches which represent most of the bulk of the plant aren't used industrially and are simply ploughed back into the soil), is highly resistant to diseases and harsh weather conditions, and can provide between two and four harvests per year, depending on the area where it is grown.

Combine that with the current concept of gas/electric cars
(i.e., the Honda) that can achieve 100mpg efficiency and you have a DEFINITE replacement for petroleum products for motor vehicle use.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4589. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:00:10 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C18FDA77B5BC0A73.C1293EEA4A052CE7.5E35E7E5D40DCBB8@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27486

On 10 Dec 2001 10:17:35 -0800, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>I looked for info on the web but as yet have not found anything that >states how many barrels/acre can be obtained by bioenergy farming. It >should be noted that many analyses compute yield by counting the >entire biomass harvested, most of which does not yield liquid fuel.

At one time, the University of Mississippi web site had links to some studies that might provide the info you're looking for. If not, try http://www.drcnet.org/ It's an anti-drug-war site, but it has an outstanding drug library (which presents BOTH sides of the issues) including excellent scientific articles and studies on industrial hemp.

>Most of the land currently used for food production can't be used for >energ production without impacting food supplies and prices. Just not >an option.

True. But hemp will easily grow on land that is simply not suited for other agricultural uses and thus can augment, rather than replace, the food crops a farmer can raise.

>The problems of energy supply, and their solutions are complex, and >many Americans want quick/simple/cheap answers.

Naw,

Just quick, luxurious, cars! ;-)

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4590. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:07:15 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <nYfT7.299322$W8.10484327@bgtnsc04-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27487

Dick Carroll wrote

> Yeah, Congratulations on the downgraded "upgrade", Carl. I guess you do > it however and whenever you can.

WAFA!!!

Rich

4591. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:12:55 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D7FAE.781AC7B9@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27488

Dave Heil wrote:

> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Dave Heil wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM wrote:
> > > > You mean all the people who believe in freedom of choice of modes
> > > > in a hobby in a free society? He could pass a 5wpm Morse code exam > > > > but he has no need for HF privileges.
> > >
> > > Then what's his beef...or yours?
> >
> > He has no beef. Mine is the idea presented by the PCTA folk that all > > nocode techs are technical dumb $hits. One would think a PhD in EE > > would be good enough proof to the contrary.
>
> The only proof needed is that the guy pass an amateur radio licensing > exam. His PhD in EE has no bearing at all other than giving him an edge > in theory. I don't recall any idea presented by "PCTA folk" which is as > you claim. Are you basing your claim in the statements of one or two > individuals? If it is, you aren't being honest.

Dave. Cecil is obfuscating as usual. No one ever even suggested that all nol code techs are technical illiterates, but it is pretty well certain that the vast majority are, and that is no surprise since they aren't required to be anything more. The test allows them licenses in that state.

4592. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:14:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B577A097853B9C11.77509315A12579D0.20141418C0CB5AE6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27489

On 10 Dec 2001 13:03:20 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Yup. Like biodiesel, methanol, and wood chips. There are cars and trucks >running today on refined vegetable oil. (look up "biodiesel" on any search >engine). The problem is that the raw vegetable oil itself, before processing >and taxation, costs more than gasoline after processing and taxation. Biodiesel >is only practical when there is a source of cheap or free vegetable oil - like >waste oil from restaurants.

Er, Jim.

Hemp oil IS a vegetable oil, remember? And according to agro-chemists it's one of the most efficient ones available for fuel use (it's also one of the healthiest for food use--far more so than soybean oil, its nearest competitor).

As far as costs are concerned, assuming the development of sufficient processing facilities and farms the estimated at-the-pump cost of hemp fuel should be in the neighborhood of $0.49/gallon US (assuming it isn't taxed out of the market, of course). Since it can be produced domestically, no transportation expenses (or oil spill risks) exist with respect to its use, and taxation at a reasonable rate would still keep the price to the consumer well below $1.00/gallon US. To me that's pretty reasonable, particularly as it would make us independent of foreign imports.

>I doubt it. Is it used in Canada? How much does it cost there?

It won't be used widely anywhere until the automobiles are manufactured to use it (see your own comments about biodiesel)--and that isn't going to happen until it is permitted in the US, thus opening a vital market.

Of all nations, we have the greatest ability to produce industrial hemp--not only are our agricultural sciences at least as advanced as those used anywhere on earth, but we have a tremendous amount of arable land suitable to hemp production--and could thus produce fuel at a reasonable price, encouraging the production of hemp based vehicles (both Ford and GM have patents on engines designed to use hemp fuel, btw, I don't know about Chrysler or the major foreign manufacturers, but it's reasonable to assume they have the same--thus production of autos designed for the fuel wouldn't be a major barrier to its implementation).

>How many gallons of this fuel can be derived from an acre of hemp grown for the >purpose? How much fuel must be used to run the machinery that grows the hemp?

Those answers should be available on the site I cited above.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4593. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:15:28 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D8048.58B45C0A@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27490

Bert Craig wrote:

> >> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just
> >follows
> >> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
> >>
> >> Mark
> >
> >Mark,
> >
> >You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave > >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General > >and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
> >
> >That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting > >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the > >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory > >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that > >way in most of the world, too.
> >
> >Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy > >in the future after all ...
> >
> >73,
> >
> >--
> >Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
>
> Hi Carl,
>
> I'm not convinced that dropping the code altogether as a reqirement for HF > access is related in any way, shape, or form to "surviving and even becoming > more healthy in the future after all ..." I believe Mark himself said that
> "there's something to be said for tradition."
>
> The required speed was reduced to 5-wpm, not an insurmountable obstacle for > anybody. I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study
> "guides." Just my humble $0.02.

Ah, Bert, you just made a lifelong enemy. They don't call him Karl the Intractable for nothing.

4594. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:15:45 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <C8CF4693544421A8.57F4CCC572113555.AB58CB5CEF2EE0B9@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27491

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 12:08:00 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote:
>> You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to >> legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for >> production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we >> want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an >> automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a >> renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily >> extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
>> Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative >> organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress >> to legalize it as a cash crop.
>
>You've got one of those suits made entirely from hemp, don't you Rick.

Nope--but I have a book printed on it.

You probably do as well--most Bibles are printed on hemp paper imported from France.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4595. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:21:02 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F38AF8181D9256CC.BEAA214C5E5C5524.BCE28091E67A0AAD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27493

On 9 Dec 2001 22:02:07 -0800, stewartx@sccoast.net (Dwight Stewart)
wrote:

>Rick Adams wrote...
>>
>> But you DO have the alternative (as do I) of >> moving to an area where public transportation
>> is available. (snip)
>
>
> So your suggested solution to the transportation needs of the >elderly is to simply tell them to move where public transportation is >available. Nice guy.

It applies to me as well, Dwight. I'm 56 and well aware that at some point I will have to either move somewhere with public transportation or make some sort of arrangements for transportation.
That's not something I look forward to, but I'm realistic enough to know that there is neither the money nor the incentive for the government to extend public transportation to small, rural, areas such as the one where I live.

There's nothing self-centered about stating a fact--and it's certainly not self-serving to say that seniors need to move in preference to risking other lives (as you state you would do if you were in a rural location) by driving after they are no longer capable of doing so safely--particularly since, unlike yourself, I expect to have the same thing apply to me as well when I reach that age.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4596. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:21:08 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D819C.DAA5657C@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27492

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:

> "Bert Craig" <kc2hmn@cs.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011216102800.19611.00000281@mb-mt.news.cs.com...
> > >> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just
> > >follows > > >> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and > 73.
> > >>
> > >> Mark
> > >
> > >Mark,
> > >
> > >You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave > > >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General > > >and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
> > >
> > >That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting > > >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the > > >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory > > >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that > > >way in most of the world, too.
> > >
> > >Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy > > >in the future after all ...
> > >
> > >73,
> > >
> > >--
> > >Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
> >
> > Hi Carl,
> >
> > I'm not convinced that dropping the code altogether as a reqirement for HF > > access is related in any way, shape, or form to "surviving and even > becoming > > more healthy in the future after all
>
> Even the IARU Resolution states that maintaining Morse testing is > not consistent with a healthy future for the ARS ...
>
> > ..." I believe Mark himself said that
> > "there's something to be said for tradition."
>

> "Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
> If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to > them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments > force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.
>
> > The required speed was reduced to 5-wpm, not an insurmountable obstacle
> for > > anybody.
>
> The point is that many folks simply don't have any interest in > Morse, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects > of ham radio, technically qualified, and able to contribute a > great deal ... Morse proficiency has NOTHING to do with one's > ability to be a valuable member of our "fraternity."
>
> > I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > > written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study > > "guides." Just my humble $0.02.
>
> Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem > with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic under> lying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to > "memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.
>
> In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some > reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
> I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
> problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone > carry every possible formula in their heads. As an EE, I frequently > refer to references for useful information.
>
> Once again, the license should be viewed as a permit to do things, > based on demonstrating a reasonable ability to operate safely and > without causing interference problems ... not as some sort of > "graduation certificate."
>
> Removing UNNECESSARY, IRRELEVANT barriers to entry is key
> to recruiting more (good) hams ... and we need to do so, both to > replace OTs as they become SKs, and also to actually grow in > numbers to enhance our ability to retain the rather large amounts > of very valuable spectrum to which we enjoy access.

Well Carl, it's clear that your "Horseshit" quotient is just as high as ever.

4597. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:25:47 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <A21D29869CCDA043.930CE5AF1F2805F5.4E8DC1A9B159C528@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27494

On 10 Dec 2001 04:40:15 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>In article <B815B546EE340A84.76A6B47205F92099.318662A5F3D31C08@lp.airnews.net>,
>Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
>>
>> 2. It is perfectly legal for a completely blind individual to >>obtain a hunting permit--and to hunt--in Michigan. The only >>stipulation is that the hunter MUST be accompanied by another licensed >>hunter who will be responsible for insuring that the blind hunter is >>firing at a legitimate target. The assistant, however, may (as a court >>has ruled!) likewise be blind!
>>
>> Go figure.
>>
>> Rick
>
>Hmmm. I think I'd better cancel that deer hunting trip in Michigan!
>I don't want to end up tied to the fender of some Michigan blind >hunter's car, as he's driving home from the field!

And, of course, stopping on the way home at an ATM (with the required braille keys for the driver to use) to pick up the money for the new braille version of "Guns & Ammo."

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4598. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:31:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <4F429E4228DEEA01.72EC318EB7665B53.095480A78FADC70C@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27495

On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 03:41:45 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

>K0HB wrote:
>>
>> "Most companies"?????? (snip)
>
>
> "Most companies" in the context of the discussion with Cecil, Hans. See my >response to Cecil's message for clarification.

In other words, when Dwight says "most" you have to know who he is responding to before you can tell if he means "most" or "most"
or . . .

Wait a minute . . .

Most companies means MOST COMPANIES no matter WHO you are talking to.

But, of course, most idiots don't know that . . .

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4599. Re: Is this politically Correct???

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:35:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <685B78429948E0A5.BC765ADBF0F55BAF.446F72FAB51A7FE4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27496

On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 17:57:59 GMT, "Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>In view of the ongoing discussion of Kim's juvenile callsign, let me >relate the unfortunate case of Central Missouri State at Warrensburg. For >a number of good geographical reasons, their male sports teams have been >known since Custer was a 1st lieutenant or so as Mules.
>
>Now a mule is the sterile offspring of a union between a mare horse and a >male donkey. While I guess that there are technically male and female >mules, the discussion is rather pointless. So what do you do when Mulette >just don't cut it?
>
>After what had to be a bruising discussion, CMS female sports teams are >known as Jennies -- a female donkey is a jenny. But that has the effect >of making the male teams Jackasses. Is this PC???

Actually, if they are stupid enough to go along with it, the name doesn't HAVE to be "PC," it's appropriate.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4600. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 06:39:08 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D85D4.6797C09A@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27497

Kim-W5TIT wrote:

> "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> news:3C1D41CF.5BC36ED1@townsqr.com...
> >
> >
> > N9NWO wrote:
> >
> > > > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government
> funds
> > > > > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > > > > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> > > > >
> > > > > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > > > > words for his superiors.
> > > >
> > > These days, DOD often rolls for the local > > > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> > > will relieve the local jail of your person then > > > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > > > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> > > you really do not have that much "covering
> > > fire".
> > >
> > > Again, you guys really need to talk to your > > > lawyers to understand how modern American > > > courts really work.
> >
> > This guy is an out-and-out troll. He couldn't be that uninformed.
> >
>
> That saying, "takes one to know one" comes to mind here...LOL

Whatever you think, Topless. That makes the totally unsupportable assumption that you CAN.

4601. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 07:09:14 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C1D8CE1.A190536A@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27498

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:

> Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has > three basic motivations 1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should,
> too."; 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
> not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts > will dry up; and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from > using "their" bands. All 3 of those are pure rubbish.

Yep, all three are the purest of rubbish, wholly generated within your tormented, twisted mind. What radiotelegraphy actually is, instead, is the most basic method of radiocommunications yet devised, or likely ever to be devised. Even tho it is a hundred years old.
It wouldn't matter if it was done in Morse or Swahili. It is bottom line radio at its finest..

It is said that if one repeats the same lies long enougn he will finally convince himself they are true. I see you still are trying your damnedest to to convince yourself, still repeating the same old false mantra in falsetto at the same DB level.
Keep it up, maybe someday you'll finally get it done, and finally convince yourself. But you're not doing so well on anyone else.

Of all the organizations that one could be Executive Director to,
....

Oh well, it takes all kinds.

4602. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 07:12:21 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <1D4DD4A30C88D722.B8D5F89894CB7071.AA1FEA71EB52B167@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27499

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 03:10:02 GMT, "JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>I don't know the status of the new >Radio Shack 10 meter radio. Has it sucessfully been converted to 11 yet? I >know there had been a problem with the FCC and Radio Shack over that with >their earlier 10 meter radio. Frankly, I don't believe these radios are >truely being aimed at the amateur market. I did see in a recent QST an ad >for a 150 watt SSB/AM 10 meter only radio. I can't imagine buying a 10 >meter only radio.

Without getting into the rest of the discussion, I'll point out that there _are_ quite a few hams (myself included) who own 10m mobile rigs (I have one of the newer Radio Shack rigs and to the best of my knowledge it can't be easily converted to operate out-of-band as the old model could--although I haven't had any reason to try to find out if it could, so I might easily be wrong there). Some of us buy them because they are very low priced (and for man hams--particularly new ones--price is very important), some of us buy them because we want a cheap spare HF rig for emergency use, and some just because they serve the purpose adequately for the limited amount of mobile operations we conduct. In my case, the RS rig was cheap, easy to convert to QRP operations (I have it attenuated to about 0.4W output--one of my interests is low-power HF), works well (I only lack about 8 countries for a 10m DXCC--all QRP voice contacts!), has a built-in automatic 10m repeater split, and it's not expensive enough to have a serious worry about theft (which isn't a great problem in my area in the first place). In addition, it's small enough to fit the confined space of a small car (Chevy Cavalier LS), something most inexpensive multi-band HF rigs won't do (the higher priced ones such as an FT-100D, of course, will fit just as well).

> For a few hundred more, one can get a reasonable lower >end transceiver covering at LEAST 160 through 10 meters. What does the >IC706MK2 cost? Ok, maybe 3 times what that 150 watt 10 meter only rig >costs. However, you get coverage from 160 through 2 meters plus 440! I had >almost considered a 10 or 10/12 meter rig as I want to get back on HF >(besides 2 roofs, boiler, and several other things setting me back over 10 >grand).

If it will be your only HF rig, a 10m mobile probably isn't the best choice (assuming you can afford a better rig--not all hams can), but if it's a second, or third rig it's a different matter. I use an FT-920 as my main rig and so a 10m rig is fine for mobile use.
If I could only use one rig for both purposes, I'd either have an

FT-100D or an FT-847 that I could carry back and forth.

>Copy adds from CB >sites and newsgroups. Put the whole thing together and have the ARRL pull a >multiBILLION dollar lawsuit against the manufacturers of those devices.

Why blame the manufacturers?

Would you sue Colt and Ruger because people use their guns to kill others?

Prosecute the people who misuse the equipment, not the manufacturers. There _are_ legitimate uses for 10m equipment--it's no more realistic to sue those manufacturers than it is to sue Yaesu, whose FT-101 series of HF rigs is probably the most converted (to 11m use) of any ham radio manufactured. Even my FT-920 can be converted to transmit in the 11m band (anywhere in the entire General coverage range, for that matter, including the 47Mhz cordless telephone band) with little trouble--yet I doubt that Yaesu would be found liable if someone were to make that conversion and interrupt telephone communications in their area.

>Even assuming a large reduction in the amount, if Radio Shack had to ante up >50 million they might well rethink who they sell to. We might not need more >legislation. Perhaps they might feel they want to see a valid license >before selling the 10 meter only gear.

But you don't NEED a license to purchase a ham rig--nor should you need one. Most hams buy their first rig while still studying for their license--or after taking their test and waiting for the license to come in. It's totally unreasonable to take that privilege away from them because a relatively small number of people choose to violate the law. Instead, the focus should be on enforcement of existing laws against out-of-band operations.

Of course, until the funding is available to prosecute MAJOR problems such as the 3950 obscenity-fest, etc., expecting enforcement over the less serious out-of-band violations is pretty optimistic, but
. . .

>You are correct. Despite some folks feeling that regulations are 'big >government', we need regulation. Who wants to turn on the Dallas Cowboys >only to hear 'AUDIOOOOO' blaring from their speakers?

Who wants to turn on the Dallas Cowboys in the first place
(the Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders, excepted, of course :-)?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4603. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 07:59:47 UTC
From: twstedhed@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217025947.12142.00000420@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27500

<< Why blame the manufacturers?

Would you sue Colt and Ruger because people use their guns to kill others?

Prosecute the people who misuse the equipment, not the manufacturers. There _are_ legitimate uses for 10m equipment--it's no more realistic to sue those manufacturers than it is to sue Yaesu, whose FT-101 series of HF rigs is probably the most converted (to 11m use) of any ham radio manufactured. Even my FT-920 can be converted to transmit in the 11m band (anywhere in the entire General coverage range, for that matter, including the 47Mhz cordless telephone band)
with little trouble--yet I doubt that Yaesu would be found liable if someone were to make that conversion and interrupt telephone communications in their area. >>

"You get it Rick, others don't, too bad for them. I agree don't limit access to anything in any way. Leave it to the individual to obey or not to obey the laws, heh heh heh. The freeband hobby is growing year by year, 10 meter radios are now sold openly in truck stops, and 10/11 Meter DX clubs are surpassing ham clubs, all as it should be. Thank you Rick for your support, wish all hammies were like you"

4604. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 10:11:59 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vkgdepho1@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27601
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb WILLIAM FRAZIER <KC7REK@email.msn.com> wrote:
> You folks are comparing apples and oranges. First a City, such as Tacoma or > any other city, for that matter, can not or will not pass any law, ordinance
> or other bill that prohibits what the Federal Government allows.

I disagree. If federal law allows state rights in the matter, then they certainly can and do pass such laws. A good example are the anti-firearms laws in many states.

> Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the > enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment
> that the FCC has ordered confiscated.

Actually, it is federal marshals who have the law enforcement capability when it comes to FCC matters. The FBI has a more limited focus.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4605. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 11:28:12 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vkkp901jdo@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27603

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:BF0F1CCDEF372990.1B18FF8B954F020E.FBE7BA8AFD924D72@lp.airnews.net...
> On Tue, 11 Dec 2001 17:49:34 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > Stupid claims, Krell? I claimed these people cannot actually do magic.
Are you > >saying they can? I claimed these people are frauds. The fact they cannot
do
> >magic when they claim they can proves that.
>
> Ok--then let's judge Christians on the same basis exactly.
>
> Prayer is the Christian form of "Magick" (magic without the
> "k" refers to stage tricks). Except for the name there is no essential > difference in the two. Both seek to gain "divine intercession" in a > secular matter of interest to the adherent.

<snip>

I've already pointed this out to him. "Magick" is no different than a native American rain dance or praying for a miracle. Besides, Dwight is gone from the newsgroup for about a month. He'll probably have forgotten about this by the time he returns.

4606. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 11:33:17 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vkl2p01jov@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27604

"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011216215047.10592.00001236@mb-mg.aol.com...
> >I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > >written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study > >"guides."
>
> Now there's a thought!
>
> Mark

Then you would have Dick Bash return to publish his brand of "study guide."

4607. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 11:48:14 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217064814.06380.00000444@mb-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 27602

>"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
>
>> Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has >> three basic motivations 1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should,
>> too."; 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
>> not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts >> will dry up; and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from >> using "their" bands. All 3 of those are pure rubbish.

Or (4), where voice communication is difficult if not impossible due to propagation, interference or language disparities.....

Oooops...That's ONE of the reasons to KEEP it. I keep forgetting that instead of discussing valuable means of COMMUNICATION, we are discussing quick, effortless ways to load the bands up with "numbers" everyone says we allegedly need to "keep" our bands.

Of course, the NCI warlords COULD be involved in SERIOUS radio policy, like lobbying heavily for the Spectrum Protection Act (now in it's third or fourth permeation), but they are just happy enough to take thier chances on that and deal away Morse Code testing to load up the bands.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4608. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 13:02:29 UTC
From: Dave Hall <nojunkmail_n3cvj@worldlynx.net> Message-ID: <3C1DECE5.2E45@worldlynx.net>
Source record: 27606
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Krell wrote:
>
> "Professor" <bgriffey@core.com> wrote in message
> news:3c1b4471$0$30975$1dc6e903@news.corecomm.net...
> > Boy do I wish that was true.
> > I'd actually be able to hold a conversation out there...
> >
> > --
> >
> > ||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||
> > Professor
> > ||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||||
> >
> >
> > "WG" <nojunk@mail.com> wrote in message
> > news:V3FS7.10094$m54.2460407@news0.telusplanet.net...
> > > I have been a ham for 10 years now and a CBer for over 20 years and I > have > > > noticed a degradation of CB to the point that no one uses it anymore.
>
> I had to laugh at this. This is almost like the Yogi Berra response as to > why he didn't go to a certain popular restaurant. He said, "Because it's so > crowded, no one ever goes there anymore!"

It sounds silly on the surface, but if you look at the underlying meaning, it's more like "It's so crowded (with chatter, lowlives, and interference), that no one (decent, interesting people) use it anymore".

Being a CB veteran of over 30 years, I can say with some certainty, that while the QUANTITY of users on CB may be still fairly high, the QUALITY of the people has certainly dropped.

Dave
"Sandbagger"

4609. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 13:19:15 UTC
From: w1rfi@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217081915.14766.00000591@mb-df.aol.com>
Source record: 27605

From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)

>Well, anyway, Congratulations! I'm sure that you can now go >ahead and invent all that neat stuff you've been talking about for >so many years . . .

Put a lobster on which of the two of you invent something neat first?

>now that you're finally the ham radio equal of >an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!

I wonder if anyone could explain what this means? It looks like a gratuitous insult to me.

73,
Ed, W1RFI

4610. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 13:22:55 UTC
From: w1rfi@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217082255.14766.00000592@mb-df.aol.com>
Source record: 27607

From: Dick Carroll dixie@townsqr.com

>Yeah, Congratulations on the downgraded "upgrade", Carl. I guess you do >it however and whenever you can

Those who can't build things up tear things down. It has been the modus operandi of our lowest common denominator for years. Is THAT what learning code teaches people to become?

73,
Ed Hare, W1RFI
73,
Ed Hare, W1RFI

4611. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 13:39:14 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217083914.07199.00000940@mb-dh.aol.com>
Source record: 27608

> Is THAT what learning >code teaches people to become?
>
>73,
>Ed Hare, W1RFI

No thats what belonging to ARRL brings

4612. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:13:03 UTC
From: kc2hmn@arrl.net
Message-ID: <beb0a48b.0112170613.1c3db010@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27609

Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:<3C1D8048.58B45C0A@townsqr.com>...
> Bert Craig wrote:
>
> > >> Isn't it the ITU that requires HF hams to know Morse code? The FCC just
> follows
> > >> that edict because the USA is a signatory to the treaty. Take care and 73.
> > >>
> > >> Mark
> > >
> > >Mark,
> > >
> > >You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave > > >in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General > > >and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
> > >
> > >That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting > > >the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the > > >ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory > > >reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that > > >way in most of the world, too.
> > >
> > >Ham radio has a chance of surviving and even becoming more healthy > > >in the future after all ...
> > >
> > >73,
> > >
> > >--
> > >Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
> >
> > Hi Carl,
> >
> > I'm not convinced that dropping the code altogether as a reqirement for HF
> > access is related in any way, shape, or form to "surviving and even becoming > > more healthy in the future after all ..." I believe Mark himself said that
> > "there's something to be said for tradition."
> >
> > The required speed was reduced to 5-wpm, not an insurmountable obstacle for > > anybody. I might be open to dropping the code requirement altogether if the > > written test pool questions and answers were NOT published, only study > > "guides." Just my humble $0.02.
>
> Ah, Bert, you just made a lifelong enemy. They don't call him Karl the > Intractable for nothing.

Aw Dick,

I didn't mean to make any enemies. I was under the impression that No-Code Int'l had "won" the battle when the No-code Tech license was adopted. I personally always knew (and accepted)that Morse code was, is, will forever be part of AR's heritage and as such, should be included among the most basic skill-sets required for certain (But not necessarilly all) levels of access. To not acknowledge that and still want it to be dropped altogether is, in my view, somewhat akin to being given $10.00 and complaining that it should've been $20.00, kinda ingracious. This is not a knock on the pro "No-code" crowd, they're certainly entitled to their views and opinions. I just choose not to believe that certain AR privileges are inalienable rights. We disagree but Carl's been polite with me and I really can't ask for more.

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4613. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:26:54 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E00AE.866046FB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27610

Rick Adams wrote:
> True. But hemp will easily grow on land that is simply not > suited for other agricultural uses and thus can augment, rather than > replace, the food crops a farmer can raise.

If I am not mistaken, there are sub-species of hemp that are not illegal but trying to convince the local drug gestapo that one is growing legal hemp is not very rewarding. Eradication of wild hemp has failed in many parts of the country.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4614. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:36:44 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E02FC.6CA33648@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27611

Dick Carroll wrote:
> Dave. Cecil is obfuscating as usual. No one ever even suggested that all > no code techs are technical illiterates, ...

You, Bruce, and Larry sure have, Dick. When you say "nocode techs are technical illiterates", it implies "all". If you didn't mean "all", you should have said "some". It is true that some nocode techs are technical illiterates. It is also true that some extras are technical illiterates. Your personal technical literacy is only half vast. The percentage of technical illiterates is higher in the nocode tech class simply because it is the lowest entry level class, not because it is nocode. If the tech license required 20wpm Morse code and the extra was nocode, the technical literacy levels would not change.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4615. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:54:14 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217095414.15992.00001015@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27613

In article <3C1CF36A.A7B8AF4E@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> I'm guessing that when the 5 WPM code testing requirement
>> is dropped, 'ole Doc Williamson will suddenly develop a "need"
>> for HF privileges!
>
>You're on, Larry. Are you willing to put your money where your >mouth is? say $100?

Cecil:

That was a guess, not a wager. If it were, neither of us could collect until the good Dr. Williamson went SK, and then it would be necessary to prove/disprove he had/had not ever been on HF -- assuming he outlived the 5 WPM code testing requirement. Therefore, it would be quite illogical to make such a wager. As great a logical genius as you purport to be, I'm surprised you didn't consider that.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4616. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:54:15 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217095415.15992.00001016@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27612

In article <9vime20iu1@enews4.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
writes:

>> Carl's been a ham long enough to enroll in QCWA, has made his >> living as a professional electrical engineer, and just now finally got >> his Extra, only after the requirements have been dumbed-down to >> insignificance? Nobody has to "rag" on Carl -- he's done a better >> job of making a fool of himself than anyone else here ever could!
>>
>> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>It took a lot more skill, ambition, and perseverance to do what Carl did
>with regards to restructuring, than what was required to learn an antiquated >and worthless endcoding scheme at a high rate of speed.

Krell:

Carl gets the credit for restructuring? Since when?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4617. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:54:55 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vl3n7glt1@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27621
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
news:faggot.lee.sticks.his.fingers.in.underage.girls.cunts@houston-hunks.com
...
>
> On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 19:22:06 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> :
> : Maybe that's the attraction for them.....being cheap....
> :
> And then there's your technique: Reach into the Salvation Army kettle > and help yourself.

And your technique is reaching into your daughter's cunt and helping yourself.

4618. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:55:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E0758.875D2BA6@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27614

Dick Carroll wrote:
> What radiotelegraphy actually is, instead, is the > most basic method of radiocommunications yet devised, or likely ever to be > devised. Even tho it is a hundred years old.
> It wouldn't matter if it was done in Morse or Swahili. It is bottom line > radio at its finest..

"Basic" is not "finest", Dick. If "basic" were "finest" there wouldn't be any need for any other modes including JPL's deep space modes. Do you also advocate that everyone learn to ride a mule before being allowed on the highways in a motor vehicle? A mule is basic transportation and often gets through where no motor vehicle can go but I wouldn't call a mule the "finest" transportation.

CW is a highly specialized skill intensive mode. As in all other areas of progress, less specialized, less skill intensive modes have become more popular than the originals. If you were serious about your concepts of "basic" equals "finest", you would replace your computer keyboard with eight toggle switches.

> It is said that if one repeats the same lies long enougn he will finally > convince himself they are true.

You are certainly an expert on the subject as that's your main method of communications.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4619. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:56:36 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vl3n9glt2@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27622
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"Donnie" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message
news:9vjsja$84m$0@pita.alt.net...
>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> > Anonymous COWARD
> > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > >
> > > The Salvation Army
> >
> > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> there
> > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > > beating up his mother again.
> >
>
> Woger, Stagger Lee is a friend of mine.

I bet you know him in the "biblical sense," too.

> Because you talked mean
> to him, I am putting you on my Black List.
>
> Donnie

Take your list and stick it up your ass, "Dumbass Donnie." The real Dumbass Donnie doesn't get on the newsgroups, COWARD.

4620. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 14:57:31 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vl3nbglt3@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27623
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"chris" <k4rch@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9vjehm$p4e$1@bob.news.rcn.net...
> You only need permission if you are going to transmit during the flight.
>
> Chris

Oh, ok. I've never taken a rig on a flight like that.

> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vjddrdkr0@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> >
> > I believe you have to ask the plane's Captain if it's ok also.
> >
> > 97.11a.
>
>

4621. Re: What can each of us do about the 10 meter issue?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:00:44 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E089C.80E981D1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27615

Rick Adams wrote:
> Without getting into the rest of the discussion, I'll point > out that there _are_ quite a few hams (myself included) who own 10m > mobile rigs (I have one of the newer Radio Shack rigs and to the best > of my knowledge it can't be easily converted to operate out-of-band as > the old model could--although I haven't had any reason to try to find > out if it could, so I might easily be wrong there).

Most ham rigs can be modified to work out of band. I saw a trucker with an IC-706 (like mine) the other day. I asked if he was a ham.
He said yes. I asked what his callsign was. He said callsigns are not required anymore.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4622. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:06:02 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E09DA.8B06C0A1@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27616

Steve Robeson K4YZ wrote:
>
> >"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
> >
> >> Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has > >> three basic motivations 1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should,
> >> too."; 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
> >> not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts > >> will dry up; and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from > >> using "their" bands. All 3 of those are pure rubbish.
>
> Or (4), where voice communication is difficult if not impossible due to > propagation, interference or language disparities.....
>
> Oooops...That's ONE of the reasons to KEEP it. I keep forgetting that > instead of discussing valuable means of COMMUNICATION, we are discussing quick, > effortless ways to load the bands up with "numbers" everyone says we allegedly > need to "keep" our bands.

Actually, what is being discussed is freedom of choice of modes in a hobby in a free society. There is absolutely nothing prohibiting someone who wants to take full advantage of CW's many advantages from becoming skillful in the mode. What is wrong with live and let live?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4623. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:08:30 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E0A6E.4B78A940@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27617

W1RFI wrote:
>
> From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
> >now that you're finally the ham radio equal of > >an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!
>
> I wonder if anyone could explain what this means? It looks like a gratuitous > insult to me.

It means that Larry admits to being the ham radio equal of an 8-year old girl for many years. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4624. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:15:16 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E0C04.3DCB5576@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27618

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
>
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> I'm guessing that when the 5 WPM code testing requirement
> >> is dropped, 'ole Doc Williamson will suddenly develop a "need"
> >> for HF privileges!
> >
> >You're on, Larry. Are you willing to put your money where your > >mouth is? say $100?
>
> That was a guess, not a wager.

As usual, you guessed wrong. I would bet that Dr. Williamson's HT nicads are dead and gone at this very moment.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4625. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:34:47 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217103447.15992.00001017@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27620

In article <20011217081915.14766.00000591@mb-df.aol.com>, w1rfi@aol.com (W1RFI) writes:

>
>>Well, anyway, Congratulations! I'm sure that you can now go >>ahead and invent all that neat stuff you've been talking about for >>so many years . . .
>
>Put a lobster on which of the two of you invent something neat first?

Ed:

You're on! I'll bet you one lobster dinner that Carl invents something neat before I do! After all, Carl's the professional engineer -- not me! I'm just an ordinary amateur radio operator, with non-professional technical skills, who was capable of rising to Amateur Extra class under the most stringent testing regime ever place in the history of the ARS! However, I'll bet you that if I had been a professional electronics engineer, I wouldn't have spent most of my lifetime as a Technician-class radio amateur, waiting for the code testing requirements to be dumbed-down to insignificance!

>>now that you're finally the ham radio equal of >>an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!
>
>I wonder if anyone could explain what this means? It looks like a gratuitous >insult to me.

No, it's just that a few years ago I read about an 8-year old girl from somewhere in New York who passed her 20 WPM code test and attained Amateur Extra class! Of course, she's older now...but at least Carl can now claim to be her "equal!" The only question is, why could some kid in the third grade do it, when he couldn't?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4626. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 15:34:48 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217103448.15992.00001018@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27619

In article <A21D29869CCDA043.930CE5AF1F2805F5.4E8DC1A9B159C528@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>>Hmmm. I think I'd better cancel that deer hunting trip in Michigan!
>>I don't want to end up tied to the fender of some Michigan blind >>hunter's car, as he's driving home from the field!
>
> And, of course, stopping on the way home at an ATM (with the >required braille keys for the driver to use) to pick up the money for >the new braille version of "Guns & Ammo."

Rick:

Not to mention "Car and Driver," "Motor Trend," and "Flying!" You also forgot to mention that he was going to stop by the golf course on his way home! Is it true that all the road signs in Michigan are also in Braille?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4627. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:10:02 UTC
From: WW - KB9TMP <NoMoreSpam4Me@antisocial.com>
Message-ID: <9vl5a1$8b5$1@dagobah.blueriver.net>
Source record: 27639

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011216114512.15992.00000925@mb-fc.aol.com...
> In article <3c1b5d71_2@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>

<SNIP>

>
> >BTW, just to put some icing on the cake for you, I finally got > >around to finding time in my work/travel schedule to go to a > >VE session and upgrade to Extra :-)
>
> Well, congratulations! You finally lived long enough to make > it all the way! Of course, I've had my extra for over 18 years > now, so I have seniority over you!
>

<SNIP>

>
> Well, anyway, Congratulations! I'm sure that you can now go > ahead and invent all that neat stuff you've been talking about for > so many years, now that you're finally the ham radio equal of > an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

This also means that YOU have been the "equal of an 8-year old girl" for the last 18 years also.
--

'73' From KB9TMP

Beware of the man who works hard to learn something, learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
without having come by their ignorance the hard way.
-Peer's Law

Sent via the LATE Deja.com
A.K.A. Google Groups
http://groups.google.com

4628. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:10:37 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1929.94EEE17B@gte.net>
Source record: 27624
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > We give cops guns because their lives are more > > valuable. Mayors and governors have bodyguards > > for the same reasons.
>
> Wrong. We allow officers to carry firearms because many criminals > also carry firearms. It might be necessary to use the firearm in > the process of apprehending the felon.
>
> The officer would be just as likely to use the firearm to protect > some innocent person.
>
> I can carry a firearm. Does that make ME "more valuable" than those > who cannot? Not in my view.

Over a felon, you are more valuable.

4629. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:13:10 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E19C2.BB320516@gte.net>
Source record: 27625
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

```
>
> > There is a pecking order. Governors and mayors are > > the most valuable then powerful men then professionals > > like doctors and lawyers. The Police are just under mayors.
>
> If I were injured, I would feel that a doctor was far more important > than some political hack who happened to get elected to office.
>
> > Look there are so many elite who see the police and > > the military as a bunch of losers who are there to die > > for them. People like you who make huge amounts > > of money and live in big fancy houses. I have them > > in my community. The military is not allowed to recruit > > in the local high school as their kids are going to college > > and the military is for those who can't really make it.
>
> > People like you see themselves as too valuable to get > > their hands dirty. Sorry but your life is not worth that > > of a police officer, a fire fighter or a soldier.
>
> How do you know what we do for our livings?
>
> In my opinion, it is elitist attitudes like yours that are part of > the problems we face in this country.

Sorry, I am only showing what the attitudes are among the educated elite in this country.
Politicians see themselves as extremely valuable to society. And they have the authority and power to enforce that belief. They use the police as their muscle to enforce their will on the public.

Doctors see themselves as more valuable than most working class (blue collar) individuals. So do many college professors.
```

4630. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:21:13 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1BA0.4308C769@gte.net>
Source record: 27633
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> And if you argue with a cop then you are just > >> another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > >> alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> >> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > >> the office to shoot everyone.
> >
> >I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if > >he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have > >a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch > >officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
> >Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
>
> Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
> Assume the following scenario...
>
> 1. Officer Obey stops John Q Motorist for some traffic violation.
> 2. Upon viewing the vehicle's interior, Officer Obey sees a > radio mounted in the car.
> 3. Officer Obey asks the motorist about the radio
> 4. John Q Motorist politely tells officer Obey the radio > is a ham rig (or CB, or whatever).
> 5. Officer Obey then requests permission to search the > vehicle and/or examine the radio itself.
> 6. John Q Motorist declines (politely) to allow search > of the vehicle and/or the radio.
>
> OK so far?
>
> Now Officer Obey requires a search warrant to search
> the car or further examine the radio. Just how does the Officer > obtain that warrant then? The process involves at least > the following:
>
> 1. Detaining the vehicle and occupant for an unspecified time
> 2. Officer Obey would need to have his police supervisory > people contact a judge and inform the judge as to WHY
> a search warrant is needed (i.e. probable cause, etc.)
> (most local municipalities don't always > have a judge just sitting around to do these things)
>
> Judges do NOT routinely issue search warrants just > to make local police happy. IF some subsequent search > uncovers a criminal act. then there had better be sound

> reasons for the search warrant in the first place. If > the search uncovers nothing...the reason for the warrant > had better stand up to challange via a civil lawsuit.
>
> If any cop builds a record of "bogus" stops and bogus
> requests for search warrants, that cop's credibility in the force
> goes out the window and you can bet the judge(s) > (as do police management) know > who those bad credibility cops are.
>
> Good policing does not require arrogance or "attitude"
> on the part of police. Attitude cops give all cops a bad > name and they undermine the service of the good cops
> who know and work as proffesionals within the constraints
> of our constitution and legal system.

The courts have ruled that the police, with proper probable cause, can search a vehicle to include the trunk. You gave them that power when you obtained a drivers license. Now anything in a locked case most have a search warrant if you do not give your permission.
If you refuse, they can tow the car until they have a warrant.

Much of this has been worked out due the drug traffickers.

Go over to Alt.Law-Enforcement. Traffic stops and searches are a popular topic there. You would be surprised how often someone is stopped, who has no drugs yet has to go through such treatment. All it takes a police dog walking around your car and signaling that there are drugs there. A lot of good, decent folks have been subject to such treatment.

Just because you are good guy, in your mind, does not mean that someday a very professional cop will put you through this.
There are too many folks, even older folks, who look just like you, who are now in the drug traffic.

4631. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:22:19 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1BE7.6A0EB59D@gte.net>
Source record: 27626
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >
> > > And if you argue with a cop then you are just > > > another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > > > alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> > > your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > > > the office to shoot everyone.
> >
> > I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if > > he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have > > a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch > > officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
>
> Arguing with a cop is stupid. If he had no reason for stopping you, he > wouldn't have. Discussing the situation politely is another matter, and > if that doesn't help, and it may not, you'd better plan on taking your > complaint to another level and having your stuff together when you do.
> Even then don't expect to overcome a discretionary if arbritary decision > made by a cop on the street. He will have so much discretionary > authority that will be upheld all the way, if it comes to that. Your > best course is to do everything he says at the time with no hint of > opposition, and any question you have of his actions needs to be posed > in a friendly, non-irritated manner. Most cops are reasonable people, > and want no hassles -you'd probably not believe how many they have to > put up with in the normal course of things-, but when one acts to become > an added irritant when he has been stopped it's a sure path to more > trouble than you already have, if any. Many times cops just want to set > someone straight without the hassle of paperwork, and will let it go > with a warning, if the situation justifies it.. You'd be surprised at > all the paperwork involved in even a simple traffic arrest.
> I can't imagine any rational cop wanting to take on a radio > possession case without some other serious factor being involved. I > doubt they'd want to do it a second time. But what the hey, I've been > out of the loop for several years. Maybe new cops are different, like > some new hams.

Thanks. You made my points.

4632. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:28:41 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1D64.78F53ADC@gte.net>
Source record: 27627
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

```
>
> > That is a risk that the average cop is willing > > to take. As far as he is concerned, getting > > you in front of judge is his primary job. Even > > if you win, it will cost you a huge amount of > > money, and time. Costly enough that you will > > think twice the next time. He does not have > > to get you thrown in jail in order to change
> > your attitude. Normally the court procedures, > > and it can take a year or more to settle a case,
> > are enough to make a decent citizen more > > careful in how they live their lives.
>
> I really hope you are just a troll - or an aberration.
>
> Fortunately, officers with such an attitude around here
> fairly quickly become ex-officers.
>

What I am describing is fairly normal. My guess is that you have had minimum contact with the courts
over the years. The drug traffic has changed things to a great deal. Cops are far more hard nosed these days. Very professional but hard nosed. They assume that everyone is a criminal who might kill them. And the one time that they do let their guard down, the asshole is a criminal who does try to take them out.

The average cop hears a ton of horror stories about cops getting killed. Their training re-inforces such thinking.
What they want is to go home alive at the end of each day.

And most see their job as done once they have put you in front of a judge. After that it is the courts responsibility.

Go read Alt.Law-Enforcement for a few weeks.
```

4633. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:29:37 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1D9D.E4781ACE@gte.net>
Source record: 27628
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>
> > Lawsuits are just a cost in doing business. People > > file false charges against the police everyday. As > > I said, the average cop looks to the courts to settle > > questions. If a ham wants to be an asshole and argue > > with the cops then he had better expect to stand in > > front of the judge.
>
> And arrests that get the officer and police into lawsuits > or get unfavorable publicity in the newspapers means that the > officer can pretty much kiss his chances for promotion goodby.
> He will probably even be canned if it happens often enough.
>
> There used to be a couple of officers in my city with attitudes > like you display here. They are no longer on the force. Nor are > they in the phone directory any more - so may have moved on.
>
> The average office looks to his superior officers to settle > questions. It is not a case of "Arrest em all, and let the courts > sort them out" - which is what you claim is common.

Do not bet on that.

Go read Alt.Law-Enforcement and Talk.Politics.Guns
for a few weeks.

4634. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:31:50 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1E21.224020F0@gte.net>
Source record: 27635
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> > The point is that if you off half cocked about your "rights"
> >> > and how you are some big shot ham operator/CAP big > >> > wig, you are in the wrong. That is not the way to deal > >> > with cops. Your lack of respect towards them is shameful.
> >>
> >> And you are an example of why people mouth off to cops. A police > >> officer deserves no more respect than any other citizen. They also > >> should treat others with respect until given sufficient reason to > >> do otherwise. Mouthing off is NOT a sufficient reason.
> >>
> >> > The police and military are your superiors.
> >>
> >> No, they are our employees - although there are those (and you > >> appear to be one of them) who are deluded into thinking otherwise.
> >
> >Not your employees. The mayor hired them, not you.
> >You are but a taxpayer and you have no choice in paying > >taxes. Unless you have the money and position to get > >mayors elected then you will have a hard time influencing > >the average big city mayor.
>
> The police, mayor, and every other city, county, > sate or town employees are PUBLIC servants. They > serve all of us. That is apparently a concept N9NWO
> is either unfamiliar with or unwilling to accept (IMHO).

Nice dream. It does not happen.
After a couple of terms in office,
most Mayors seem themselves as lords of fiefdom. They twist the city council to the point that they might as well be elected dictators (the council is more like a rubber stamp for their policies). I have seen it happen all across the country.

4635. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:32:30 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1E4A.9D205E3C@gte.net>
Source record: 27629
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government funds
> > > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be > > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> > >
> > > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > > words for his superiors.
> >
> > These days, DOD often rolls for the local > > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> > will relieve the local jail of your person then > > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> > you really do not have that much "covering
> > fire".
> >
> > Again, you guys really need to talk to your > > lawyers to understand how modern American > > courts really work.
>
> This guy is an out-and-out troll. He couldn't be that uninformed.

Maybe it is you who is living in the dream world.

4636. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:34:47 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1ED3.DC8620F1@gte.net>
Source record: 27630
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> > The way you were going at it was that you > >> > were making it out that you were some big > >> > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
> >> > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> >> > that cop were to get off.
> >>
> >> And the way your were going at it was all cops are bad guys who don't > >> care about you or your rights. Especially the rookie who will arrest you > >> first and ask questions later because he is unsure of the law.
> >>
> >Arrest now,ask questions later,is a revenue producer. Even more so now, > >every town crys broke. Coincedence? I think not!
>
> False arrests are EXPENSIVE to government. An arrest > generates NO revenue. Only a conviction MIGHT > generate revenue (usually traffic fines). Criminal > charges rarely result in any significant revenue gain
> to government at all. The prosecution costs alone
> are an expense.

About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
Too many folks see it as too much work and expense to fight a court battle. Especially the poor, who peal bargain at the highest rate.

Go read Alt.Law-Enforcement and Talk.Politics.Guns
for a few weeks.

4637. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:38:41 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011217113855.100$Hx@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27631
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

Federal Law allowed towns the opportunity to craft laws and enforce them the same way the FCC could. They cannot make up there own set of rules to enforce, they can enforce only existing FCC laws, but they can be no different than what the FCC rules are in place regarding CB .

"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message news:9vkgdepho1@quark.scn.rain.com...
> In rec.radio.cb WILLIAM FRAZIER <KC7REK@email.msn.com> wrote:
> > You folks are comparing apples and oranges. First a City, such as Tacoma or > > any other city, for that matter, can not or will not pass any law, ordinance > > or other bill that prohibits what the Federal Government allows.
>
> I disagree. If federal law allows state rights in the matter, then they > certainly can and do pass such laws. A good example are the anti-firearms > laws in many states.
>
> > Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the > > enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment > > that the FCC has ordered confiscated.
>
> Actually, it is federal marshals who have the law enforcement capability > when it comes to FCC matters. The FBI has a more limited focus.
>
> --
> Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
>

4638. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:38:54 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E1FC8.A6B31CE5@gte.net>
Source record: 27634
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >
> > > The way you were going at it was that you
> > > were making it out that you were some big > > > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
> > > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> > > that cop were to get off.
> >
> > An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself > > into such a situation in the first place.
>
> The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose > cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without > learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such > as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint > having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation > which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.
>
> Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as > police officers.

The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch of young, inexperienced officers out there.

No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.

These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced officers. They are very professional. But if they do not know what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
it.

4639. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:40:46 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011217114059.194$Cx@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27632
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

A usenet forum is not indicitave of what the "average cop " thinks.

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C1E1D64.78F53ADC@gte.net...
> >
> > > That is a risk that the average cop is willing > > > to take. As far as he is concerned, getting > > > you in front of judge is his primary job. Even > > > if you win, it will cost you a huge amount of > > > money, and time. Costly enough that you will > > > think twice the next time. He does not have > > > to get you thrown in jail in order to change > > > your attitude. Normally the court procedures, > > > and it can take a year or more to settle a case,
> > > are enough to make a decent citizen more > > > careful in how they live their lives.
> >
> > I really hope you are just a troll - or an aberration.
> >
> > Fortunately, officers with such an attitude around here > > fairly quickly become ex-officers.
> >
>
> What I am describing is fairly normal. My guess is > that you have had minimum contact with the courts
> over the years. The drug traffic has changed things > to a great deal. Cops are far more hard nosed these > days. Very professional but hard nosed. They assume > that everyone is a criminal who might kill them. And > the one time that they do let their guard down, the asshole > is a criminal who does try to take them out.
>
> The average cop hears a ton of horror stories about > cops getting killed. Their training re-inforces such thinking.
> What they want is to go home alive at the end of each > day.
>
> And most see their job as done once they have put you > in front of a judge. After that it is the courts responsibility.
>
> Go read Alt.Law-Enforcement for a few weeks.
>
>

4640. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 16:50:54 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011217115439.243$Pm@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27636
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:3C1D451C.FD2B3154@townsqr.com...
>
> > An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself > > into such a situation in the first place.
>
> The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose > cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without > learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such > as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint > having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation > which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.
>
> Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as > police officers.

Dick you are 100% correct. I think he is a politician that a few local cops had a hard on for.

4641. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 17:28:25 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E2B64.C371EE50@gte.net>
Source record: 27637
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>

No, but it will let you see some of the problems out there. Actually, what you see in Alt.Law-Enforcement is all the druggies bitching about how the cops do exactly what you guys say that they are not doing.

> A usenet forum is not indicitave of what the "average cop " thinks.
>
>
> > >
> > > > That is a risk that the average cop is willing > > > > to take. As far as he is concerned, getting > > > > you in front of judge is his primary job. Even > > > > if you win, it will cost you a huge amount of > > > > money, and time. Costly enough that you will > > > > think twice the next time. He does not have > > > > to get you thrown in jail in order to change > > > > your attitude. Normally the court procedures, > > > > and it can take a year or more to settle a case,
> > > > are enough to make a decent citizen more > > > > careful in how they live their lives.
> > >
> > > I really hope you are just a troll - or an aberration.
> > >
> > > Fortunately, officers with such an attitude around here > > > fairly quickly become ex-officers.
> > >
> >
> > What I am describing is fairly normal. My guess is > > that you have had minimum contact with the courts
> > over the years. The drug traffic has changed things > > to a great deal. Cops are far more hard nosed these > > days. Very professional but hard nosed. They assume > > that everyone is a criminal who might kill them. And > > the one time that they do let their guard down, the asshole > > is a criminal who does try to take them out.
> >
> > The average cop hears a ton of horror stories about > > cops getting killed. Their training re-inforces such thinking.
> > What they want is to go home alive at the end of each > > day.
> >
> > And most see their job as done once they have put you > > in front of a judge. After that it is the courts responsibility.

> >
> > Go read Alt.Law-Enforcement for a few weeks.
> >
> >

4642. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 17:33:53 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E2CAB.A3BAF551@gte.net>
Source record: 27638
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > > An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself > > > into such a situation in the first place.
> >
> > The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose > > cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without > > learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such > > as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint > > having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation > > which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.
> >
> > Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as > > police officers.
>
> Dick you are 100% correct. I think he is a politician that a few local cops > had a hard on for.

No, I am a buddy of a lot of local cops.
And I understand them. Try to understand this. Most cops these days played high school football or baseball. They are jocks.
And think like a jock. They can get very juvenile when off duty and not wearing their "game face" (professional attitude). You should hear the wife of one friend, who is a LT in the narcotics section, complain how her husband and his fellow officers act. And he is over 50!

The drug trade has changed law enforcement.
They are very professional, while on duty. But they are also very hard nosed. And they assume the worst in you. And they are often right.

4643. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 18:47:13 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1E3DB1.23CD2E30@uci.edu>
Source record: 27640

Krell wrote:
> Are they done renovating Notre Dame Cathedral yet?

As of 12/2/01 they still had some scaffolding up behind the left tower. But the entire facade has been renovated. All the black has been removed. It looks great.

They're painting the Eifel tower a new lighter color. Looks really neat.

4644. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 18:52:48 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1E3F00.5DCBBB8C@uci.edu>
Source record: 27641

```
Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 12:08:00 -0800, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
> wrote:
>
> >Rick Adams wrote:
> >> You'll notice, however, that the congress is unwilling to > >> legalize the most efficient form of fuel available (hemp oil) for > >> production on American farms (we have to import it from Canada if we > >> want it). Hemp fuel, first introduced by Henry Ford in 1936 (in an > >> automobile built over 40% out of hemp itself), is non-polluting, a > >> renewable resource, lower in cost than petroleum products, readily > >> extracted from the plant, and can be produced anywhere in the USA.
> >> Even the Farm Bureau (arguably one of the most conservative > >> organizations in the US) has voted unanimously to encourage congress > >> to legalize it as a cash crop.
> >
> >You've got one of those suits made entirely from hemp, don't you Rick.
>
> Nope--but I have a book printed on it.
>
> You probably do as well--most Bibles are printed on hemp paper > imported from France.
>
> Rick

Ya think the Book of Mormon is printed on hemp paper? I've got one of those around somewhere. I wonder what they do with the buds?
```

4645. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 19:21:39 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E45C3.B98A3784@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27642

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> After all, Carl's the professional engineer -- not me!

So when are you going to get off your lazy ass and get an engineering degree, Larry? While Carl has been doing professional engineering, you have wasted your time doing what?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4646. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 19:24:52 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E4684.6F4BA07E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27643
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

N9NWO wrote:
> About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
> The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.

Take off your clothes and you don't get a ticket?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4647. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 19:27:40 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1E472C.B38EA6EB@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27644
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

N9NWO wrote:
> The drug trade has changed law enforcement.

Yep, when I first met my ex-wife, she was getting free pot from her policeman boyfriend in San Jose, CA.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
------== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4648. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 19:36:45 UTC
From: Dave VanHorn <dvanhorn@cedar.net>
Message-ID: <hPrT7.19563$Z03.9473310@news1.rdc1.mi.home.com>
Source record: 27645
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

> They confiscated my soldering tool - you know the kind that has a > sharp point on each end for removing solder splashes from PC boards.

Nobody move, or I'll remove the components from the nav system PCBS!

:)

4649. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 20:29:29 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1e55b5_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27646

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
Hash: SHA1

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
news:uVMSvVrhBHA.1644@cpimsnntpa04...
>
> WA6VSE said:
>
> > All 3 of those are pure rubbish.
>
> Carl,
>
> Is everything you disagree with "pure rubbish". I don't happen to > agree with any of the 3 motives you list, but I do know some well > intentioned people who still believe Morse testing is a good idea.
>
> Dismissing their opinion as "pure rubbish" is bad manners. I had > hope you'd acquired some manners in your sabbatical from rrap, but > alas my dear old Granny was right when she said "Hope in one hand > and shit in the other -- tell me which gets full first."
>
> Hans

Hans,

I expressed MY opinion as to the validity of the 3 motives I listed. Am I to understand that I am not allowed to express my opinion???

BTW ... I see I still have to PGP sign posts to keep twits like WA8ULX from altering them ...

- --
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>
- --
NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL
- --
Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.

<http://www.nocode.org>

```
-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3

iQA/AwUBPB5Vnpe+N6+q84HiEQKfbACdEPVoYm6koQlLSoKzCwPQYtq8ieAAn23l
6N8XoP0KJmrnAh93GEY+MDoK
=6gQZ
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----
```

4650. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 20:38:18 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1E57BA.3D556846@uci.edu>
Source record: 27648

Hi Carl,

Do you really think PGP keeps people from altering posts?

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
>
> -----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
> Hash: SHA1
>
> "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
> news:uVMSvVrhBHA.1644@cpimsnntpa04...
> >
> > WA6VSE said:
> >
> > > All 3 of those are pure rubbish.
> >
> > Carl,
> >
> > Is everything you disagree with "pure rubbish". I don't happen to > > agree with any of the 3 motives you list, but I do know some well > > intentioned people who still believe Morse testing is a good idea.
> >
> > Dismissing their opinion as "pure rubbish" is bad manners. I had > > hope you'd acquired some manners in your sabbatical from rrap, but > > alas my dear old Granny was right when she said "Hope in one hand > > and shit in the other -- tell me which gets full first."
> >
> > Hans
>
> Hans,
>
> I expressed MY opinion as to the validity of the 3 motives I > listed. Am I to understand that I am not allowed to express > my opinion???

Opinions are best prefaced or appended with the words 'I think', or 'in my opinion'.

> BTW ... I see I still have to PGP sign posts to keep twits like > WA8ULX from altering them ...
>
> - --
> Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
> <mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
> <http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>

> - --
>
> -----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
> Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3
>
> iQA/AwUBPB5Vnpe+N6+q84HiEQKfbACdEPVoYm6koQlLSoKzCwPQYtq8ieAAn23l
> 6N8XoP0KJmrnAh93GEY+MDoK
> =6gQZ
> -----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

4651. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 20:39:16 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1e5803_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27647

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
Hash: SHA1

"W1RFI" <w1rfi@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011217081915.14766.00000591@mb-df.aol.com...
> From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
>
> >Well, anyway, Congratulations! I'm sure that you can now go > >ahead and invent all that neat stuff you've been talking about for > >so many years . . .
>
> Put a lobster on which of the two of you invent something neat first?
>
> >now that you're finally the ham radio equal of > >an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!
>
> I wonder if anyone could explain what this means? It looks like a gratuitous > insult to me.
>
> 73,
> Ed, W1RFI

Ed,

Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've been granted ... most of which would be directly applicable to ham radio? If so, he's free to go to one of the patent search engines and pay a few bucks to download the .pdfs ... I'd be VERY interested to see how much (if any) he'd actually understand :-) 73,

Carl

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3

iQA/AwUBPB5X7Ze+N6+q84HiEQLcGgCfS64vefXcM6vDRDhKIZmWD2Pobi8AoKkw 127I2GRr1Mi2ADxWLZV5aPzU =EHk4
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

4652. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:04:54 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217170454.05628.00000800@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27649

>I see I still have to PGP sign posts to keep twits like >WA8ULX from altering them ...
>

Twit, I have your TWIT, come and get it.
It has taken you at least 6 months to upgrade, so tell us how many times did you fail?

4653. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:06:50 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217170650.05628.00000801@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27650

>Do you really think PGP keeps people from altering posts?
>

Of course he does, remember hes the Guy who sees Guns on his Monitor and goes nuts.

4654. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:08:19 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1E6CD2.143EA2EE@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27751
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

chris wrote:

> You only need permission if you are going to transmit during the flight.
>

Be aware that receivers' local oscillators have been alleged to interfere with airplane radios and equipment......

4655. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:09:34 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217170934.05628.00000802@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27752

> most of which would be directly applicable to >ham radio?

Dont you like this "MOST OF WHICH" yea right Carl

4656. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:24:51 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C1E709F.F2D6814A@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27753
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

N9NWO trolled:
> Doctors see themselves as more valuable than > most working class (blue collar) individuals. So > do many college professors.

I bit and responded with:

Therefore, computer technicians are really the most valuable people on the planet. Since you are pond scum compared to me, I command you to STFU!

4657. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:28:52 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E71D1.B4004BEB@gte.net>
Source record: 27755
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> > Doctors see themselves as more valuable than > > most working class (blue collar) individuals. So > > do many college professors.
>
> I bit and responded with:
>
> Therefore, computer technicians are really the most > valuable people on the planet. Since you are pond scum
> compared to me, I command you to STFU!

And some Ph.D. at an university will treat you like you are pond scum. Look at how network techs get treated. Make the wrong comments to the some female employee and you are out the door.
Companies treat network techs like they were expendable. At least the Ph.D. usually has tenure.
Even cops have a merit board.

4658. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:32:30 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011217173243.714$n5@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27754
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message

> No, I am a buddy of a lot of local cops.
> And I understand them. Try to understand > this. Most cops these days played high > school football or baseball.

I am a buddies with and have a working relationship with hundreds of State police and local Leo's from at least 5 different states on the East Coast they are just ordinary guys like you and me, Some big, some small, some fat some thin, some with muscles, some with big bellys. Some like sports, Some don't. Some drink beer, Some drink more Beer.

> They are jocks. And think like a jock. They can get very > juvenile when off duty and not wearing their
> "game face" (professional attitude).

Again, not all of them are jocks. They are just like anyone else when they are off-duty they like to do the same things as anyone else does.

>You
> should hear the wife of one friend, who is > a LT in the narcotics section, complain how > her husband and his fellow officers act. And > he is over 50!

I have a good friend who is a LT at a local dept. He likes to go out to a few taprooms and have a good time he is not married thats his business. If you didn't know him you wouldn't know he was a cop let alone a LT going for the Chiefs Position that is opening up.

> The drug trade has changed law enforcement.
> They are very professional, while on duty. But > they are also very hard nosed. And they assume > the worst in you. And they are often right.

Racial profiling has changed things as well.

4659. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:34:05 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E72FD.3AC2EEC4@gte.net>
Source record: 27756
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> >
> >> >Think again. First the cops would just the > >> >car and the radios. Then when the CID
> >> >folks show up, they will explain how you
> >> >lipped off to the cops that you were some > >> >type of hot shot Air Force type. At that > >> >point, the investigation might be about your > >> >fitness to serve.
> >>
> >> Which is why I strongly endorse and support that > >> all police cars be equipped with both audio and video > >> recording equipment to document exactly what > >> happened. I have seen the absolute value in > >> these in both protecting the public against rogue > >> cops and protecting police against false accusations of > >> police brutality.
> >
> >Bill, I am not talking about rogue cops or > >even police brutality. Rather it is the cop
> >who is a professional, who keeps his cool,
> >but is not going to let some ham tell him that > >the cop has no right to inspect his radios
> >and plays the hot shot.
>
> INSPECT for WHAT reason. The radio in > the car is NOT illegal. The cop as NO need > to ask. If asked, I'd tell him what my radio is > and that's the end of it. What else would he > need or want to do?
>
> >No cop will put up with that.
>
> After telling the cop the radio is a ham rig (or CB, > or FRS, or private mobile, or whatever, just what
> more could the cop ask?
>
> >The average cop is trained to suspect everyone.
> >Even other cops. They are trained that they > >are superior, the "force" of government, the > >thin blue line that keeps us a civilized society.
> >And it is almost universal that the biggest goal
> >that a cop will have is to make it home alive
> >every night.

>
> That is not the training I am aware of. Cops may have > the powerm but their application of that power must > be tempered with restraint and rational reasoning...or > they will end up off the force in many cases.
>
> >If there is a question about a radio,
>
> WHAT could be questioned?
>
> >it is just easier
> >to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the > >courts settle. I have said this over and over.
>
> Yes you have and you fail to see that any cop
> that developes a histry of bad arrests, court > losses, etc won't go far as a cop.
>
> > This
> >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
> >a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the > >chief's problem, and not theirs.
>
> Believe it or not, cops can end up being criminally > prosecuted for departures from proper enforcement.
>
> >This does not mean that they will keep the radios forever, > >as the AF CAP chap suggested. When the AF types come,
> >it will go in front of a judge. And remember, this is only if > >there is question that the street officer can not settle quickly.
>
> I repeat...what could be in question that the local cop
> would have any role in or knowledge of?
>
> >Too many Americans are jerks, assholes.
>
> If they aren't breaking the law then so what?
>
> >They believe that > >they have a right to do anything, and everything.
>
> Again, unless they are breaking a law, so what...it > isn't a police matter.
>
> >That they > >have NO responsibility to society or their fellow man.
>
> Yet again, unless they are breaking a law, so what...it > isn't a police matter.
> >

> > And the cops want that attitude to end.
>
> So do many others, but it ain't a police matter UNLESS
> laws are being broken.

You just do not get it, do you?

It is more about your attitude than anything.
Get an attitude with a cop, he will find things to write tickets for.

Some cops do not care about ham equipment.
Some cops do. It depends whether the state has a law over radio usage like we are now seeing with Cell Phones.

The real point is that if the officer does decide to take the radio, he will be damned use that he can justify doing so.

4660. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:39:42 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E7450.48CC9528@gte.net>
Source record: 27757
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
> >to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the > >courts settle. I have said this over and over. This > >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
> >a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the > >chief's problem, and not theirs.
>
> It becomes THEIR problem when (a) a civilian complaint is filed with > the department for misconduct and (b) they are a named defendant in > a Sect. 1983 suit - damages (and attorney fees) for violation of > civil rights under color of authority.
>
> All the LEOs whom I know (and I know a bunch - I am a retired > Federal agent) are very concerned that they do not achieve that sort > of "fame". It's a career-stopper and a wallet-emptier.
>
> The watchword is "think twice before acting".

No cop will take a radio unless he thinks he has a good reason to justify doing so. If he can justify his actions then filing complaints will have little effect.

Look at Chicago. Anybody can file a complaint.
Even file anonymously. Every cop in Chicago has a file full of complaints. It is looked at as being part of the job.

And look at how Cincinnati dealt with the riots last spring. The complaint process so favors the civilian that the cops just have given up. They gets so many points, they just move on to a surrounding suburb.

In many cities the complaint process is so flawed that it is meaningless. There are so many false complaints that the cops just ignore the system, look at it as a part of doing business.

4661. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:42:47 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E750E.C85B13D5@gte.net>
Source record: 27758
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> >> >So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they > >> >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.
> >>
> >> You did mean "can't", right ??
> >>
> >> >Congress only gave local > >> >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of > >> >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for > >> >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty
> >> >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
> >> >enforcing Laws.
> >>
> >> This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The > >> Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
> >> just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.
> >>
> >> This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a > >> court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the > >> monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule > >> violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does > >> not appear in the FCC Rules.
> >>
> >> >I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as > >> >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.
> >>
> >> You are so right.
> >
> >What you have to understand is that many hams feel > >that the cops have NO right to inspect them, to ask > >questions.
>
> Inspect the person? The equipment? In either > case...WHY? On what basis?
>
> IF I was stopped for any reason and a cop asked me what > was the radio on my dash, I'd simply say it is my > amateur radio and that should be the end of it.
>
> > I am not talking about rogue cops but rather
> >the officer who is professional and whose biggest goal
> >every day is to make it home alive.
>
> I support those guys and gals and they don't pull nutty

> confiscations or mobile stops without probable cause.
>
> >These officers want video of every traffic stop.
>
> So do I. It is a great tool that protects both the > police and the public from false accusations by either.
>
> > They have "rights"
> >and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the > >right to tell them how to live.
>
> We all have rights and YES, the cops d NOT have the > right to tell me or anyone else how to live. Law enforcement > (study those two words) is to ONLY enforce the laws, not > to dictate how anyone lives as long as the person is > obeyng the law.
>
> >And too many hams are big jerks.
>
> Too many (isert any description) are jerks too.
>
> >This AF CAP chap just does not get it. Let the AF CID > >come, as far as they are concerned that is a matter for the > >courts. Once the cop does his job, the investigation, he is > >more than happy to let the courts deal with it. And that > >includes lawsuits. That is the chief's worry, not his.
>
> It absoultely is the cops worry when the cop strays
> from proper procedure and enforcement.
>
> >As it > >is, too many file false lawsuits every day against cops. It > >has become a cost of doing business.
>
> Whuch is why video tape is such a great idea.
>
> >Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the > >courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to > >throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional > >thing to do.
>
> That becomes irrisponsible if it happens TOO often and
> the police don't win.
>
> >And if some ham becomes an asshole and > >argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.
>
> Again, I fully support the use of video.

And what is proper enforcement? After all guys like you have been caught trafficking drugs. So have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going to know. He has to assume the worst.

4662. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:45:18 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E75A5.329D7DAB@gte.net>
Source record: 27759
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

> >> >Are you now saying anyone with a
> >>
> >> > > radio is being profiled?
> >> >
> >> > Given the events of Sept 11th, yes.
> >>
> >> That's odd. The only radios used by the terrorists on Sept 11 were the same ones
> the pilots use. Any cop who suddenly starts profiling anyone with a mobile radio > because of Sept 11 is a paranoia-ridden loose cannon.(there are some of those) The > terrorists made extensive use of cellphones. So they should > >> be profiling cellphone users instead. Now THAT would keep 'em busy.
> >
> >Come up to Chicago and listen to the people
> >using ham gear to send CW number messages.
> >Speculation is that it is Serbs and Bosnians in > >the region doing some form of espionage. But > >then it could be the Nation of Islam.
>
> Assuming there's any truth to the CW number > message transmissions originating in Chicago, the > FCC would have no problem tracking the source
> transmitter. Now the question must be...how do > YOU (N9NWO) know they are ham gear?
>
> >And what if you were using ham gear to co-ordinate > >criminal activity? How is a cop going to know who > >you are, or if you are good guy or a bad guy? Every > >one a cops meets could be a criminal. He never knows.
>
> So what, the ownership of ham gear is NOT against > ANY law. Cops that confiscate equipment without justification > are not needed on any police force.

How can a cop take a car for a traffic stop if he only suspects drugs? Yet it is done all the time. If he can justify it, that is all that matters.

4663. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 22:48:37 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1E766C.B35BF873@gte.net>
Source record: 27760
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>
> >Third, the enforcement of federal law lies with the FBI. They are the > >enforcement branch of the FCC and only they can confiscate radio equipment > >that the FCC has ordered confiscated.
>
> Sorry to tell that the above is not correct.
>
> The FBI is most certainly not the enforcement branch of the FCC nor > vice-versa. The FCC has its own Enforcement Bureau and take it from > me, the FCC/EB does not want to hand any of its cases to the FBI if > it can avoid it because dealing with the FBI is a one-way street
> (there is no give, only take, maybe the last legacy of JEdgar Hoover).
>
> Radio equipment is not "confiscated" because it is not contraband.
> It is seized (big legal difference) and can be forfeited to the > government only by court order after an evidnetiary hearing which > the U S Attorney must request within sixty days, and in which > the owner of interest has the opportunity to show that his/her > interest in the equipment was not related to the violation.
>
> Seizure of radio equipment for non-compliance with communications
> law requires an order of the Federal District Court on application > of the FCC showing probable cause, and is carried out by any > Federal officer authorized to execute court orders, usually the U S > Marshal Service or some other Federal agency on request of the > Marshal Service.
>
> Conversely, any Federal or local LEO (including the FBI) can seize > radio equipment as evidence of a non-communications-law crime which > they have jurisdiction to deal with, the same as any other evidence > (court order or the Seven Magic Exemptions).

The US Marshal's office seems to help the FCC
when they need "muscle".

While most forfeitures are done via the courts,
the drug laws have made that a bit fuzzy.

4664. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:03:42 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1e79d9$1_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27761

```
-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
Hash: SHA1

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message news:3C1E57BA.3D556846@uci.edu...
> Hi Carl,
>
> Do you really think PGP keeps people from altering posts?

No, Jim ... it doesn't stop them from altering them, but it can prove that they were altered ...

73,

- --
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>
- ------------------------------------------------------
NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL
- ------------------------------------------------------
Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3

iQA/AwUBPB55xZe+N6+q84HiEQIrywCeN30gtd7uG+/2jV9irGC8qVIs7bQAnjiZ 2CNQrAA84xGTOti0hWZoUFyG =vQ+n
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----
```

4665. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:04:59 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vltjh0j3m@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27762
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"CAM" <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C1E4684.6F4BA07E@IEEE.org...
> N9NWO wrote:
> > About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
> > The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
>
> Take off your clothes and you don't get a ticket?

Reminds me of an Ohio judge in the late 70s that was accused of accepting sexual favors in exchange for lesser punishments. A local DJ coined the slogan, "You get me off, and I'll get you off."

4666. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:10:18 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vlttf0jr6@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27763

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011217170934.05628.00000802@mb-fo.aol.com...
> > most of which would be directly applicable to > >ham radio?
>
> Dont you like this "MOST OF WHICH" yea right Carl

Can't you write a sentence in something other than "cave man?"

4667. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:20:06 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vlufr0l4p@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27764

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011217170454.05628.00000800@mb-fo.aol.com...

> Twit, I have your TWIT, come and get it.
> It has taken you at least 6 months to upgrade, so tell us how many times did > you fail?

Take it easy, Bruce. We all know how you get when you mix Wild Turkey and decaf.

4668. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:55:43 UTC
From: WW - KB9TMP <NoMoreSpam4Me@antisocial.com>
Message-ID: <9vm0j6akm1@dagobah.blueriver.net>
Source record: 27766

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:9vlttf0jr6@enews1.newsguy.com...
>
> "WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
> news:20011217170934.05628.00000802@mb-fo.aol.com...
> > > most of which would be directly applicable to > > >ham radio?
> >
> > Dont you like this "MOST OF WHICH" yea right Carl
>
> Can't you write a sentence in something other than "cave man?"
>
>
Maybe he's one of those "knuckle draggers" that Larry is always talking about. : 0
--

'73' From KB9TMP

Beware of the man who works hard to learn something, learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
without having come by their ignorance the hard way.
-Peer's Law

Sent via the LATE Deja.com
A.K.A. Google Groups
http://groups.google.com
_____

4669. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-17 23:56:58 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217185658.28792.00001171@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27765

>Can't you write a sentence in something other than "cave man?"
>

Not when Im trying to talk to CAVE MEN

4670. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 00:06:54 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1e897c_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27768

Well, better yet, how 'bout every day when I am labeled as someone who will bring the ARS one step closer to extinction. I guess people like Dwight would jump on that bandwagon, just because I can "hear the words 'one step closer to extinction'" applied to me every single day in this newsgroup (read: country). :o

Dwight's one of a crowd, I'd say, believing and following as he feels is popular.

Kim W5TIT

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message news:DA8D1F89169A9AE3.6914EF5875137C69.5698B107FC1E9049@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 05:35:05 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> > What rumors, Kim? If you're going to accuse someone by name of something like > >this, then at least have the integrity to explain your accusation. As I told > >Krell, you can hear the word "satanic" applied to these people every single day
> >in this country - in books, magazines, movies, music, news stories, > >conversations, and so on. So how am I spreading "rumors" by repeating the common > >application of that word as it is used in this English language? Furthermore,
> >Ms. Politically Correct (they not satanic - they're wiccans and pagans), what > >gives you the thought that you have a right to dictate what words are used in > >this language? Have you been taking double speak lessons from the book, "1984?"
>
> Dwight, the majority of the populations of Iran, Syria, > Lebanon, Iraq, and several other nations view the policies of the > United States Government as satanic--and the United States itself as
> "the Great Satan."
>
> Since you clearly believe that simply because a group of > people claim something is satanic, the definition is the appropriate > one, clearly you--as an American citizen--are BY DEFINITION a > satanist!
>
> Now, since you practice a religion abhorrent to most of the > members of this list (don't believe it? Ask how many of the people > here will state that they DON'T find satanism--and

> satanists--offensive to them), why don't you just go away and practice > your perversions in private?
>
> Rick
>
> --
>
> Rick Adams--KE8HH
> adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net
>
> "... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
> will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."
>
> Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4671. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 00:11:12 UTC
From: He Said What? <"Har Har Hardy Har"@Anon.com>
Message-ID: <9vm1j9scn0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27767
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vl3n9glt2@pita.alt.net...
>
> "Donnie" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message
> news:9vjsja$84m$0@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> > > Anonymous COWARD
> > > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > > >
> > > > The Salvation Army
> > >
> > > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> > there
> > > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > > > beating up his mother again.
> > >
> >
> > Woger, Stagger Lee is a friend of mine.
>
> I bet you know him in the "biblical sense," too.
>
> > Because you talked mean
> > to him, I am putting you on my Black List.
> >
> > Donnie
>
> Take your list and stick it up your ass, "Dumbass Donnie." The real
Dumbass
> Donnie doesn't get on the newsgroups, COWARD.
>
However, the real Dumbass Roger does....

4672. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 00:12:49 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1e8ade_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27769

```
"Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message news:3C1D85D4.6797C09A@townsqr.com...
>
>
> Kim-W5TIT wrote:
>
> > "Dick Carroll" <dixie@townsqr.com> wrote in message
> > news:3C1D41CF.5BC36ED1@townsqr.com...
> > >
> > >
> > > N9NWO wrote:
> > >
> > > > >IF the confiscation involves equipment purchased with US government
> > funds
> > > > > >and does NOT come under the "list" of equipment that the LEO would be
> > > > > >using, then he WILL be in trouble.
> > > > >
> > > > > If it is on the list, I suspect the DOD would have some rather nasty > > > > > words for his superiors.
> > > >
> > > > These days, DOD often rolls for the local > > > > community. If you are uniform then a superior
> > > > will relieve the local jail of your person then > > > > confine you to quarters. As you folks are > > > > civilians who are a bit less than reservists,
> > > > you really do not have that much "covering
> > > > fire".
> > > >
> > > > Again, you guys really need to talk to your > > > > lawyers to understand how modern American > > > > courts really work.
> > >
> > > This guy is an out-and-out troll. He couldn't be that uninformed.
> > >
> >
> > That saying, "takes one to know one" comes to mind here...LOL
>
> Whatever you think, Topless. That makes the totally unsupportable assumption > that you CAN.
>
```

I certainly CAN, and you're one. Of many.

Kim W5TIT

4673. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 00:56:31 UTC
From: w1rfi@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217195631.05826.00000708@mb-mf.aol.com>
Source record: 27770

From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)

>I'm just an ordinary amateur radio operator, with non-professional >technical skills, who was capable of rising to Amateur Extra class >under the most stringent testing regime
><blabbage snipped>

So do I presume that it is your feeling of inferiority to Carl that causes you to try to tear him down to make yourself look better?

73,
Ed Hare, W1RFI

4674. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 00:58:14 UTC
From: w1rfi@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217195814.05826.00000709@mb-mf.aol.com>
Source record: 27771

From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)

> The only question is, why >could some kid in the third grade do it, when he couldn't?

I am sure that I could find a lot of things that some kid in the third grade did that you didn't, Larry, if I were to feel it important enough to look. Perhaps, though, your self esteem would improve if you stopped rating your and others' accomplishments to those of children.

73,
Ed Hare, W1RFI

4675. Re: "....one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 01:14:44 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <ewXudE2hBHA.1396@cpimsnntpa03>
Source record: 27772

Rick Adams <adamsr@voyager.net> writes:

> Look at the government; if you are civil service all that is > necessary is to know your pay Level (which is open > information, since your position in an agency is > determined by it). All "G5s," for example, receive > precisely the same salary.

Bureaucracy breeds mediocrity, and mediocrity returns the favor.

73, de Hans, K0HB

4676. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 01:17:45 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vm5fo$l7s$1@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27773
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>> Again, I fully support the use of video.

> And what is proper enforcement? After all guys > like you have been caught trafficking drugs. So > have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going > to know. He has to assume the worst.

The police I know are not like that. They assume the person is a generally law abiding citizen, until they have reason to believe otherwise.

Of course, they take proper precautions when approaching an unknown vehicle or person.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4677. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 01:21:06 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vm5m0$l7s$2@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27774
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>>
>> I can carry a firearm. Does that make ME "more valuable" than those >> who cannot? Not in my view.

> Over a felon, you are more valuable.

That is irrelevant. We were not talking about felons - we were talking about the ordinary citizen.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4678. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 01:24:57 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <JVwT7.229608$3d2.10900867@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27775

"W1RFI" <w1rfi@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011217195631.05826.00000708@mb-mf.aol.com...
> From: yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
>
> >I'm just an ordinary amateur radio operator, with non-professional > >technical skills, who was capable of rising to Amateur Extra class > >under the most stringent testing regime
> ><blabbage snipped>
>
> So do I presume that it is your feeling of inferiority to Carl that causes you > to try to tear him down to make yourself look better?
>
> 73,
> Ed Hare, W1RFI
>

Strikes me as a bit of a cheap shot, Ed, which as you know I have jumped Larry for as well. The verbiage above fairly invites one so you only get one soggy noodle.

The part of this hobby that always has amazed me are the status games played -- although no one touches RC modelers in that league. We both have been around long enough to have seen it with seniority callsigns, etc. I once was president of a club which took great pride in having achievements outside of Amateur Radio; we also had the biggest percentage of Advanced and Extras in metro St. Louis. When a couple of docs got clinical with the Federal Venereal Disease Control Officer on our repeater some of the locals got a bit tight about it and we told them to calmly unhook the gas pipe and take a deep breath; life is more important than radio. The FVDC was also a good consultant on alcohol stills BTW. Repeaters were made to talk on. Radio is to meet interesting people.

Seems to me that both parties have carefully defined areas in which they can be numero uno and have piled up the sandbags to defend their bailiwicks. I have a life to lead which happens to include radio and electronics to a declining extent; the sandbags are eyesores but even this, like last nite's dinner, will pass.

sri oms qrm 73

de Dick NBK

4679. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 01:45:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217204559.27168.00000415@mb-cb.aol.com>
Source record: 27776

In article <B577A097853B9C11.77509315A12579D0.20141418C0CB5AE6@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 10 Dec 2001 13:03:20 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>Yup. Like biodiesel, methanol, and wood chips. There are cars and trucks >>running today on refined vegetable oil. (look up "biodiesel" on any search >>engine). The problem is that the raw vegetable oil itself, before processing >>and taxation, costs more than gasoline after processing and taxation.
>Biodiesel >>is only practical when there is a source of cheap or free vegetable oil -
>like >>waste oil from restaurants.
>
> Hemp oil IS a vegetable oil, remember?

If you say so, Rick. Thus it has all the advantages and disadvantages named above.

> And according to >agro-chemists it's one of the most efficient ones available for fuel
>use

"Efficient" in what sense? How many gallons per acre, how many gallons per ton of raw harvested crop, how many gallons per dollar spent to grow it?

Ya gotta define yer terms.

> (it's also one of the healthiest for food use--far more so than >soybean oil, its nearest competitor).
>
For food purposes, soybean oil is pretty bad stuff. Canola oil is better and olive oil is better than canola. Flaxseed oil is tops but is very expensive and not as easy to cook with.

> As far as costs are concerned, assuming the development of >sufficient processing facilities and farms

Whoa! Don't Assume that at all!!

To make any sort of sizable dent in the US consumption of petrofuels, any biofuel must be produced in millions-of-gallons-per-day quantities, at least.
That means BIG investments in farms and refining facilities. Those facilites don't just grow out of the ground.

>the estimated at-the-pump >cost of hemp fuel should be in the neighborhood of $0.49/gallon US >(assuming it isn't taxed out of the market, of course).

Show your source. I think the raw production cost would be much higher. Here's why:

Take a stroll down any supermarket aisle and price the absolute cheapest vegetable oil you can find. It's a lot more than 49 cents a gallon, and there is practically no tax on it because it's a food item. And it cannot be used as an engine fuel without additional procesing. Hemp oil is no different.

Get an actual pilot plant running and see what the actual production costs are. Thye biodiesel folks have done so.

>Since it can >be produced domestically, no transportation expenses (or oil spill >risks) exist with respect to its use,

Wrong. It still must be transported domestically, and that's a major cost for any fuel.

Production and distribution costs of any fuel cannot be dismissed so lightly.

The lack of toxicity is a major plus. But that's true of any biodiesel fuel.

> and taxation at a reasonable >rate would still keep the price to the consumer well below
>$1.00/gallon US.

What is "a reasonable rate" of taxation? US fuel taxes are used mostly for road construction and maintenance. Use of biofuel doesn't reduce road maintenance.

>To me that's pretty reasonable, particularly as it >would make us independent of foreign imports.

I think reducing/eliminating petrol imports should be a top priority for a number of reasons. Biofuels is one part of the solution to that problem. But I'm also realistic enough to know that it's not going to be quick, cheap or easy.
>
>>I doubt it. Is it used in Canada? How much does it cost there?
>
> It won't be used widely anywhere until the automobiles are >manufactured to use it

The cars to use it are available today, and have been for decades. I know - I drove the same Rabbit Diesel for 17 years. Wonderful car. 43 mpg over its life, which was spent mostly in the worst possible driving conditions. On the highway the thing would do well over 50 mpg.

VW now sells TDIs that are even better. But the US market doesn't want them, even with fuel at $1.50 gallon and up at times.

> (see your own comments about biodiesel)--and >that isn't going to happen until it is permitted in the US, thus >opening a vital market.

>
You're not seeing the real problem, Rick.

In an earlier post you wrote that cars could be "converted" to use hemp fuel. That implies that the hemp fuel is a gasoline replacement.

But in reality what we're talking about biodiesel, which means the "conversion" entails replacing the entire engine and much of the fuel system. And the result is a diesel car.

The real problem is getting Americans to accept diesel cars. They've been around for decades but haven't made much of a dent in market share.

If you're talking about some other type of hemp fuel, what is it? Alcohol?

> Of all nations, we have the greatest ability to produce >industrial hemp--not only are our agricultural sciences at least as >advanced as those used anywhere on earth, but we have a tremendous >amount of arable land suitable to hemp production--

This may or may not be true. What matters is how many gallons per acre can be produced, and at what cost.

>and could thus >produce fuel at a reasonable price, encouraging the production of hemp
>based vehicles (both Ford and GM have patents on engines designed to >use hemp fuel, btw, I don't know about Chrysler or the major foreign >manufacturers, but it's reasonable to assume they have the same--thus >production of autos designed for the fuel wouldn't be a major barrier >to its implementation).

Technology companies patent everything they can. Most patents don't make a dime, but they look real good on the inventor's resume.

As I have said before - the barrier is getting people to buy the cars.
>
>>How many gallons of this fuel can be derived from an acre of hemp grown for
>the >>purpose? How much fuel must be used to run the machinery that grows the >hemp?
>
> Those answers should be available on the site I cited above.

They are not. I looked carefully, and it's just not there. Please post the info, or a link, if you can find it. I couldn't.

As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating our dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution. But the idea that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far from proven.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4680. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 02:10:38 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011217211050.145$g0@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27777
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
> And what is proper enforcement?

> After all guys
> like you have been caught trafficking drugs.

And guys like you have also been accused of child pornography does that mean you are into it to?

> So have nice little old grandmas.

So have 20 year police veterans

> How is a cop going to know. He has to assume the >worst.

He uses his training, and experiance Cops that assume the worse with no probable cause don't stay cops for too long. Or wind up in the Court system fighting civil suits.

4681. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 03:10:02 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011217221002.12884.00001033@mb-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 27778

>Take it easy, Bruce. We all know how you get when you mix Wild Turkey and >decaf.

You must have the wrong Bruce, I dont drink.

4682. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:02:24 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vmf1701ibe@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27784

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011217221002.12884.00001033@mb-cu.aol.com...
> >Take it easy, Bruce. We all know how you get when you mix Wild Turkey and > >decaf.
>
> You must have the wrong Bruce, I dont drink.

Could of fooled me.

4683. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:05:25 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217230525.13039.00001124@mb-ch.aol.com>
Source record: 27779

In article <9vl5a1$8b5$1@dagobah.blueriver.net>, "WW - KB9TMP" <NoMoreSpam4Me@antisocial.com> writes:

>
>This also means that YOU have been the "equal of an 8-year old girl" >for the last 18 years also.
>--
>
>'73' From KB9TMP

Actually, she has only been my "equal" as a ham for a few years.
However, she still maintains "seniority" as an Extra over Carl! Moreover,
I wouldn't be a bit surprised to learn that she became a professional engineer herself someday!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4684. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:05:26 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217230526.13039.00001125@mb-ch.aol.com>
Source record: 27782

In article <3C1E45C3.B98A3784@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>
>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> After all, Carl's the professional engineer -- not me!
>
>So when are you going to get off your lazy ass and get an >engineering degree, Larry?

Cecil:

Never -- that's not what I aspire to be!

>While Carl has been doing
>professional engineering, you have wasted your time
>doing what?

Serving my country -- sacrificing the best and most productive years of my adult life to support the effort necessary to defeat the Evil Empire of the Soviet Union, bring the threat of Soviet Communist hegemony to an end, and make the world much safer from nuclear holocaust. All of my fellow Cold War Era veterans did the same thing, and I don't consider that to have been a waste of our time.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4685. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:05:26 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217230526.13039.00001126@mb-ch.aol.com>
Source record: 27783

In article <3c1e5803_2@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
writes:

>
>Ed,
>
>Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've >been granted ... most of which would be directly applicable to >ham radio? If so, he's free to go to one of the patent search >engines and pay a few bucks to download the .pdfs ... I'd be >VERY interested to see how much (if any) he'd actually understand :-)
>
>73, >Carl

Carl:

I have, many times in the past, stipulated to your high level of professional engineering expertise and accomplishment. I am a True Believer in Carl the Magnificent as a technical wizard par excellence!
However, the licensed amateur professional electronics engineers
I know are also code-proficient, CW-loving, long-time Amateur Extra Class licensees, all of whom are sick to death of the dumbing-down of the ARS -- the Morse code testing requirements in particular.

Now that you have finally achieved Nickle Extra status, go ahead and feel free to impress us with your genius! It is the thing you've always dreamed of, and through NCI you helped fight a winning battle to achieve it, instead of investing in the effort required to learn a useful communications skill. So go ahead, now that the shackles are off, get to work experimenting on the HF bands!
Whatever you invent, I'm probably one of those who will gladly buy it!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4686. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:05:27 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217230527.13039.00001128@mb-ch.aol.com>
Source record: 27780

In article <20011217195814.05826.00000709@mb-mf.aol.com>, w1rfi@aol.com (W1RFI) writes:

>> The only question is, why >>could some kid in the third grade do it, when he couldn't?
>
>I am sure that I could find a lot of things that some kid in the third grade >did that you didn't, Larry, if I were to feel it important enough to look.
>Perhaps, though, your self esteem would improve if you stopped rating your
>and >others' accomplishments to those of children.
>
>73,
>Ed Hare, W1RFI

Ed:

Hey, man, don't look at me -- Carl was the one who had to put out the brag about finally getting his Nickle Extra! I just made a simple, factual observation.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4687. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:05:27 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011217230527.13039.00001127@mb-ch.aol.com>
Source record: 27781

In article <20011217195631.05826.00000708@mb-mf.aol.com>, w1rfi@aol.com (W1RFI) writes:

>
>>I'm just an ordinary amateur radio operator, with non-professional >>technical skills, who was capable of rising to Amateur Extra class >>under the most stringent testing regime
>><blabbage snipped>
>
>So do I presume that it is your feeling of inferiority to Carl that causes
>you
>to try to tear him down to make yourself look better?
>
>73,
>Ed Hare, W1RFI

Ed:

Sorry, no cigar! I have absolutely no feelings of "inferiority" (or anything else) to Carl. I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests! He forced the issue of having recently passed his Nickle Extra, and I merely observed that as a ham, he now has made an achievement which has been previously accomplished by third-graders under the Pre-Restructuring licensing requirements! What did I say that was incorrect or inappropriate? I did congratulate him, after all!

73 de Larry, K3LT

4688. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:46:41 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1ECA31.697A5B24@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27785

>
> Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've > been granted ... most of which would be directly applicable to > ham radio? If so, he's free to go to one of the patent search > engines and pay a few bucks to download the .pdfs ... I'd be > VERY interested to see how much (if any) he'd actually understand :-)

You can do it for free at:
http://www.uspto.gov/patft/index.html

4689. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:54:54 UTC
From: Donnie <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net>
Message-ID: <9vmi68$g05$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27786
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> Anonymous COWARD
> "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
> news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> >
> > The Salvation Army
>
> SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
there
> at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > beating up his mother again.
>
>

Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play with his blow up doll.

4690. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 04:56:24 UTC
From: Donnie <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net>
Message-ID: <9vmi92$g56$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27787
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vl3n7glt1@pita.alt.net...
>
> "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
>
news:faggot.lee.sticks.his.fingers.in.underage.girls.cunts@houston-hunks.com
> ...
> >
> > On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 19:22:06 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > :
> > : Maybe that's the attraction for them.....being cheap....
> > :
> > And then there's your technique: Reach into the Salvation Army kettle > > and help yourself.
>
> And your technique is reaching into your daughter's cunt and helping > yourself.

>
Blow up dolls are on sale this Christmas Wogey!

4691. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:03:37 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218000337.10110.00000775@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27790

In article <3c1d6fb4_1@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
writes:

>"Mark Pearsal" <radiohead11m@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011216215852.10592.00001238@mb-mg.aol.com...
>> >> ..." I believe Mark himself said that
>> >> "there's something to be said for tradition."
>>
>> That was me alright.
>>
>> >"Maintaining traditions" is NOT a legitimate regulatory function.
>>
>> Regulatory function...isn't amateur radio more than just "regulatory."
>There's
>> a pseudo-culture that's rooted in...tradition. Reduce it...but don't >eliminate
>> it.
>
>We're talking about licensing requirements ... that's PURELY a >regulatory function.

True. But what constitutes a "regulatory function" is open to debate.

> "Tradition" has NOTHING to do with legitimate >regulatory goals ...

Yes, it does, if the tradition helps the ARS. For example, hams have a tradition of being self-policing and keeping within the rules even when nobody is looking. Now you might say "that's not a tradition, it's just the right thing to do", but in fact it survives because the tradition survives. I know of at least one other radio service where no such tradition exists, and the result is a mess because there's no way the FCC can police a large service adequately.

> it's not the FCC's job to preserve amateur >"tradition" ...

Depends what the tradition is.

>the FCC's job is to regulate the use of the spectrum >in the public interest.

And if preserving a tradition serves the public interest....

>End of story.
>
Nope. Just the beginning.

>> >If Morse enthusiasts want to keep Morse usage alive, it's up to >> >them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments
>> >force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.

If technically-inclined enthusiasts want to keep technical knowledge alive, it's up to them to promote it for its own sake, not to insist that governments force it down everyone's throats via regulatory fiat.
>>
>> It's not about keeping Morse alive. I think it's about standards.
>
>Standards, shmandards ... the "keep Morse forever" crowd has >three basic motivations

Whoa there! Keep Morse alive or keep the TEST alive??

The TEST is all but gone. It's basically on 5 wpm life support until 2003 or so. The UK has even gotten around the 5 wpm thing.

Let's look at these supposed reasons. I'm sure some folks agree with them, but not everyone who supports Morse. And its test:

>1) "I had to do it, so everyone else should, too.";

This can be interpreted to mean "everybody should have to do what I did". But it can also mean "I learned a lot from it, and others will, too".

Who better to judge than those who have learned something?

> 2) fear that, if everyone else is not forced to learn Morse,
>not enough will choose to learn and use it and their source of contacts >will dry up;

Maybe.

> and 3) the misguided goal of keeping "outsiders" from >using "their" bands.

Has it worked? Nope.

>All 3 of those are pure rubbish.

No, they're just an incomplete list. Here are some more:

4) License tests should cover the things hams do. Hams use Morse, so ham radio license tests should cover Morse.

5) Under some conditions, Morse will be usable when the other popular amateur radio modes (analog voice) aren't usable.

6) For some reason, operating violations cited by the FCC of hams using Morse are far lower than those cited by the FCC of hams using voice modes. The difference is far more than can be explained by the relative popularity of the various modes.
>
>> >Open question pools are a fact of life. I personally have no problem >> >with them, since I think that it's FAR easier to learn the basic under>> >lying principles to be able to derive the correct answers than to

>> >"memorize" hundreds and hundreds of question/answer pairs.

For many people, the opposite is true. All depends on the person and the subject.

Memorization of hundreds of question answer pairs isn't necessary, anyway. All that's needed is enough word-association capability to find the one right answer out of four on enough questions to pass.

Many of the questions can only be answered by memorization.
>>
>> I think they're revamping the pools as we speak. (write)
>
>Yes, the new Extra pool is done and must be used by June 1, 2002.
>My understanding is that the intent of the QPC was to make it more >modern and comprehensive.

Three questions have already been removed from the new pool because of errors that got through the entire QPC process. Including FCC approval.
>
>> >In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some >> >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."

Me too. But it's not going to happen. Too hard to enforce. FCC has "traditionally" (for the past 40 years at least) depended entirely on multiple choice tests. For almost 20 years they have used open Q&A pools.

>> >I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve >> >problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone >> >carry every possible formula in their heads.

FCC disagrees. This is the same FCC, by the way, that thinks code tests "serve no regulatory purpose" other than treaty compliance. It's also the very same FCC that reduced the number of WRITTEN tests, and their size. For example, it used to take two separate written tests totalling 90 questions to upgrade from General to Extra. Now it takes only one test of 50 questions. The Tech written has been similarly reduced. FCC obviously doesn't think more, or even the same number, of written tests or questions serves any regulatory purpose.

I know that you and I and many others told the FCC that the written tests needed to be better, but the FCC simply ignored those comments and went in the exact opposite direction.

Every argument used against the Morse test can, and will be, used against the written test. It's already happening in the UK. Some folks like W5YI and N0MHS want the same thing here. After all, why MUST technical knowledge be shoved down the throats of those not interested in it? Why must prospective hams master a 200 page "study guide" just to use an HT, and even more just to use a QRP PSK31 rig on 3579 kHz?

Far more hams use Morse on the air than design/build their own rigs. I do both, by the way.

Some time back, there was a thread on here about Smith Chart knowledge. It illustrated the point perfectly.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4692. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:03:38 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218000338.10110.00000776@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27788

In article <3C1D8238.E58FA0B7@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>WA8ULX wrote:
>>
>> >Hey Carl, wonder how they would like a technical exam that you would >> >have a hard time with? :-)
>>
>> It sure looks like he most have had a hard time with the written, his Call >> still shows up as a Tech plus. Guess there are 2 many Questions for him to >> Memorize
>
>Say Bruce, do you understand about CSCEs?

Obviously not.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4693. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:03:38 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218000338.10110.00000777@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27789

In article <20011217081915.14766.00000591@mb-df.aol.com>, w1rfi@aol.com (W1RFI) writes:

>>now that you're finally the ham radio equal of >>an 8-year old girl from some small town in New York!
>
>I wonder if anyone could explain what this means? It looks like a gratuitous >insult to me.

If anyone should be insulted, it's the 8 year old girl.

She's not from New York, by the way. I've worked her - very good op. But too mature for rrap.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4694. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:06:09 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1ECEC1.63CEE6D5@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27791

"Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:

>
>
> Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've > been granted

I found # 6,288,618 Logic-based architecture for FSK modulation and
demodulation
6,281,823 Direct digital synthesis using a sine weighted DAC
6,265,948 Image rejection in logic-based architecture for FSK modulation and
demodulation
6,209,112 Apparatus and method for reducing power consumption of an error-correcting decoder
6,198,353 Phase locked loop having direct digital synthesizer dividers and improved phase
detector
6,078,799 System and method for calibrating single sideband receiver reject image product

All are utility patents (the real thing). Congrads. I have a few myself mostly in television.

4695. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:12:37 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1ED045.660EF966@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27792

>
> >It took a lot more skill, ambition, and perseverance to do what Carl did
> >with regards to restructuring, than what was required to learn an antiquated > >and worthless endcoding scheme at a high rate of speed.
>

Antiquated, yes. Not worthless, but not the best way to get information thru. Ask JPL sometime. They communicate with space probes past the planet Pluto. But for a minimun of equipment, and a trained person, CW does work pretty well. But nowdays it's cheaper to buy modems than it is to pay for training a person to send and receive code. That's why noone except the ARS uses it anymore.

4696. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:19:04 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed0c3.24115176@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27795
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 22:42:47 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >> >So far towns, cities, states etc can do anything until they >> >> >write some type of Laws regarding this issue.
>> >>
>> >> You did mean "can't", right ??
>> >>
>> >> >Congress only gave local >> >> >jurisdiction the ability to police this the police will have some type of >> >> >idea of the laws they will be enforcing. Otherwise they will call for >> >> >back-up, defer to a higher ranking supervisor, something to releave liabilty
>> >> >from them when possible, they cannot go about and won't go about blindly
>> >> >enforcing Laws.
>> >>
>> >> This communications lawyer sees it from the viewpoint that The >> >> Congress gave the local police no more authority than the FCC has,
>> >> just the ability to enforce the FCC's "unlicrensed CB" regulations.
>> >>
>> >> This means no random stops and searches, no forced entries without a >> >> court order (warrant), no "confiscation", no excess fines above the >> >> monetary penalties that the FCC can levy, no jail time for Rule >> >> violations, and no making up their own rules about stuff that does >> >> not appear in the FCC Rules.
>> >>
>> >> >I just don't see it happen that way in this day in age when people are as >> >> >lawsuit crazy against LEO's.
>> >>
>> >> You are so right.
>> >
>> >What you have to understand is that many hams feel >> >that the cops have NO right to inspect them, to ask >> >questions.
>>
>> Inspect the person? The equipment? In either >> case...WHY? On what basis?
>>
>> IF I was stopped for any reason and a cop asked me what >> was the radio on my dash, I'd simply say it is my >> amateur radio and that should be the end of it.
>>
>> > I am not talking about rogue cops but rather
>> >the officer who is professional and whose biggest goal
>> >every day is to make it home alive.

>>
>> I support those guys and gals and they don't pull nutty >> confiscations or mobile stops without probable cause.
>>
>> >These officers want video of every traffic stop.
>>
>> So do I. It is a great tool that protects both the >> police and the public from false accusations by either.
>>
>> > They have "rights"
>> >and no one, not even the police (in their mind) have the >> >right to tell them how to live.
>>
>> We all have rights and YES, the cops d NOT have the >> right to tell me or anyone else how to live. Law enforcement >> (study those two words) is to ONLY enforce the laws, not >> to dictate how anyone lives as long as the person is >> obeyng the law.
>>
>> >And too many hams are big jerks.
>>
>> Too many (isert any description) are jerks too.
>>
>> >This AF CAP chap just does not get it. Let the AF CID >> >come, as far as they are concerned that is a matter for the >> >courts. Once the cop does his job, the investigation, he is >> >more than happy to let the courts deal with it. And that >> >includes lawsuits. That is the chief's worry, not his.
>>
>> It absoultely is the cops worry when the cop strays
>> from proper procedure and enforcement.
>>
>> >As it >> >is, too many file false lawsuits every day against cops. It >> >has become a cost of doing business.
>>
>> Whuch is why video tape is such a great idea.
>>
>> >Again, the average cop sees most of this a matter for the >> >courts. If he has question, his automatic response is to >> >throw it over to the courts to decide. That is the professional >> >thing to do.
>>
>> That becomes irrisponsible if it happens TOO often and
>> the police don't win.
>>
>> >And if some ham becomes an asshole and >> >argues with him, he wants video tape to take to court.
>>
>> Again, I fully support the use of video.

>
>And what is proper enforcement?

There is more than enough detail written in police procedures to make that determination if it goes to a court case or a civilian complaint.

>After all guys
>like you have been caught trafficking drugs.

Absolutely false...because guys like me do NOT do drugs.

>So
>have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going >to know. He has to assume the worst.

Such cops probably never rise to be truly good cops (IMHO).
If because they "assume the worst" they trample the rights of the public, especially those people who have done nothing, then the careers of those cops won't amount to much.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

>
>

4697. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:19:44 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218001944.10760.00000599@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 27793

>Subject: Re: Radio Policy
>From: CAM Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org
>Date: 12/17/2001 9:06 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <3C1E09DA.8B06C0A1@IEEE.org>

> What is wrong with live and let live?

What's wrong indeed.

Steve

4698. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:20:56 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218002056.10760.00000600@mb-fy.aol.com>
Source record: 27794

>Subject: Re: Radio Policy
>From: "Krell" krell1215@yahoo.com
>Date: 12/17/2001 5:33 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <9vkl2p01jov@enews2.newsguy.com>

>
>Then you would have Dick Bash return to publish his brand of "study guide."

We already do...Gordon "Dick Bash" West and Fred "Dick Bash" Maia.

73

Steve, K4YZ

4699. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:25:31 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed1f3.24419122@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27796
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 22:39:42 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
>> >to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the >> >courts settle. I have said this over and over. This >> >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
>> >a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the >> >chief's problem, and not theirs.
>>
>> It becomes THEIR problem when (a) a civilian complaint is filed with >> the department for misconduct and (b) they are a named defendant in >> a Sect. 1983 suit - damages (and attorney fees) for violation of >> civil rights under color of authority.
>>
>> All the LEOs whom I know (and I know a bunch - I am a retired >> Federal agent) are very concerned that they do not achieve that sort >> of "fame". It's a career-stopper and a wallet-emptier.
>>
>> The watchword is "think twice before acting".
>
>No cop will take a radio unless he thinks he has >a good reason to justify doing so.

EXACTLTY! And just what do you think a good reason to do so would be? The answer to that question is the heart of the issue that I and others have been trying to get you to understand and articulate just what and when such a "taking" or confiscation" would have any merit at all.

>If he can justify
>his actions then filing complaints will have little effect.

Agreed and we await your answer as to when/why such a justifyed taking might be.

>Look at Chicago. Anybody can file a complaint.
>Even file anonymously. Every cop in Chicago has >a file full of complaints. It is looked at as being part >of the job.
>
>And look at how Cincinnati dealt with the riots
>last spring. The complaint process so favors the >civilian that the cops just have given up. They gets >so many points, they just move on to a surrounding

>suburb.
>
>In many cities the complaint process is so flawed that >it is meaningless. There are so many false complaints >that the cops just ignore the system, look at it as a part >of doing business.

Your experience is either very limited or you have no clue as to what really goes on with such situations and complaints in many jurisdictions. Maybe Chicago and Cinncinnati are screwed up...but that's not the norm.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4700. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:29:49 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed3e1.24913238@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27797
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 16:21:13 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >> And if you argue with a cop then you are just >> >> another asshole. All he wants is to make it home >> >> alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
>> >> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to >> >> the office to shoot everyone.
>> >
>> >I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if >> >he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have >> >a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch >> >officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
>> >Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
>>
>> Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
>> Assume the following scenario...
>>
>> 1. Officer Obey stops John Q Motorist for some traffic violation.
>> 2. Upon viewing the vehicle's interior, Officer Obey sees a >> radio mounted in the car.
>> 3. Officer Obey asks the motorist about the radio
>> 4. John Q Motorist politely tells officer Obey the radio >> is a ham rig (or CB, or whatever).
>> 5. Officer Obey then requests permission to search the >> vehicle and/or examine the radio itself.
>> 6. John Q Motorist declines (politely) to allow search >> of the vehicle and/or the radio.
>>
>> OK so far?
>>
>> Now Officer Obey requires a search warrant to search
>> the car or further examine the radio. Just how does the Officer >> obtain that warrant then? The process involves at least >> the following:
>>
>> 1. Detaining the vehicle and occupant for an unspecified time
>> 2. Officer Obey would need to have his police supervisory >> people contact a judge and inform the judge as to WHY
>> a search warrant is needed (i.e. probable cause, etc.)
>> (most local municipalities don't always >> have a judge just sitting around to do these things)
>>
>> Judges do NOT routinely issue search warrants just >> to make local police happy. IF some subsequent search >> uncovers a criminal act. then there had better be sound >> reasons for the search warrant in the first place. If >> the search uncovers nothing...the reason for the warrant >> had better stand up to challange via a civil lawsuit.

>>
>> If any cop builds a record of "bogus" stops and bogus
>> requests for search warrants, that cop's credibility in the force
>> goes out the window and you can bet the judge(s) >> (as do police management) know >> who those bad credibility cops are.
>>
>> Good policing does not require arrogance or "attitude"
>> on the part of police. Attitude cops give all cops a bad >> name and they undermine the service of the good cops
>> who know and work as proffesionals within the constraints >> of our constitution and legal system.
>
>The courts have ruled that the police, with proper >probable cause, can search a vehicle to include the >trunk. You gave them that power when you obtained
>a drivers license. Now anything in a locked case most >have a search warrant if you do not give your permission.
>If you refuse, they can tow the car until they have a >warrant.
>
>Much of this has been worked out due the drug traffickers.
>
>Go over to Alt.Law-Enforcement. Traffic stops and searches >are a popular topic there. You would be surprised how often >someone is stopped, who has no drugs yet has to go through >such treatment. All it takes a police dog walking around your >car and signaling that there are drugs there. A lot of good, decent >folks have been subject to such treatment.
>
>Just because you are good guy, in your mind, does not mean >that someday a very professional cop will put you through this.
>There are too many folks, even older folks, who look just like >you, who are now in the drug traffic.

How someone looks is NOT suffiecient probable cause.
In the end, any search must be justified as to what the probable cause was.

No cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4701. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:34:31 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed4ea.25178788@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27798
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 16:34:47 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >> > The way you were going at it was that you
>> >> > were making it out that you were some big >> >> > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
>> >> > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
>> >> > that cop were to get off.
>> >>
>> >> And the way your were going at it was all cops are bad guys who don't >> >> care about you or your rights. Especially the rookie who will arrest you >> >> first and ask questions later because he is unsure of the law.
>> >>
>> >Arrest now,ask questions later,is a revenue producer. Even more so now, >> >every town crys broke. Coincedence? I think not!
>>
>> False arrests are EXPENSIVE to government. An arrest >> generates NO revenue. Only a conviction MIGHT >> generate revenue (usually traffic fines). Criminal >> charges rarely result in any significant revenue gain
>> to government at all. The prosecution costs alone
>> are an expense.
>
>About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
>The rest are settled, often by plea bargaining.
>Too many folks see it as too much work and >expense to fight a court battle. Especially the >poor, who peal bargain at the highest rate.

And it is also not uncommon for civil cases against the police for unwarranted search/seizure to be settled out-of-court by the city making an offer to the plaintiff.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4702. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:47:27 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed657.25542958@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27799
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 16:38:54 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>> >
>> > > The way you were going at it was that you
>> > > were making it out that you were some big >> > > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
>> > > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
>> > > that cop were to get off.
>> >
>> > An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself >> > into such a situation in the first place.
>>
>> The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose >> cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without >> learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such >> as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint >> having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation >> which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.
>>
>> Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as >> police officers.
>
>The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
>Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
>out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch >of young, inexperienced officers out there.

>No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.

Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws that some towns enanct. Why should they when the cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then the cops sure aren't going to.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

>These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced >officers. They are very professional.

If they are professional, then they won't take
knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
5 years of service had better be more than enough experience for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and knowledge.

>But if they do not know >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
>it.

You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4703. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 05:56:43 UTC
From: billsohl@mindspring.com
Message-ID: <3c1ed9c0.26416309@news.mindspring.com>
Source record: 27800

On 17 Dec 2001 02:48:18 GMT, radiohead11m@aol.com (Mark Pearsal)
wrote:

>>Mark,
>>You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave >>in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General >>and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
>
>There's a bit more to be read "between" the lines.

Too bad the FCC didn't spell it out then. As it is, there simply isn't anything there between the lines.

>>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting >>the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the >>ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory >>reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that >>way in most of the world, too.
>
>Gee, I hope not.

On what basis would the FCC have to retain even the 5wpm code test if/when the ITU requirement goes away? If you can't articulate a clear and compelling reason to retain code
now except for the treaty requirement, then on what basis would you argue for its retention?

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4704. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:12:36 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goio6i4.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27651

On 17 Dec 2001 05:03:32 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>>The is _not_ "type acceptance". They are certified only to the >>extent that they meet Part 15 requirements like any other consumer >>electronic device (such as your garage door opener) and it has >>nothing to do with "type acceptance" under Part 97.
>
>Thanks for the clarification, Hans. While I did distinguish between type >acceptance and certification, I can see where that distinction is not very >clear in my original posting.

Now to muddy the waters somewhat.

A while ago the FCC changed its equipment authorization rules (FCC Rules Part 2 Subpart J) to eliminate the previous categories, shuffle around which equipment requires what type of authorization,
and to establish just two categories of equipment authorization - Verification, where the manufacturer of importer self-declares that the equipment meets the required technical specs, and Certifcation, where a formal application is submitted (electronic filing only)
with test results (see below) and a Grant of Certification and FCC
ID number are issued if found in compliance.

"Verification" replaces the former procedures of Verification and Notification, and "Certification" replaces the former procedures of Type-Approval, Type-Acceptance and Certification.

Receivers (and computers) are now Verified, and transmitters are Certified (where the Rules require same, that is).

To make things even more fun, the Commish' then privatized the process by creating Telecommunication Certification Bodies to issue Grants of Certifcation and FCC ID Numbers, thereby allowing the Commish' to wiggle out of even more of its regulatory obligations.
TCBs must meet serious technical qualifications provided by FCC and NIST rules including calibrated test ranges.

Ain't bureaucracy wonderful?

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4705. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:12:39 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goioqo5.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27653

On 17 Dec 2001 05:03:33 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>> During the "privatization" discussions at the FCC staff level back >> in the 80s, more than one staffer suggested that if we are forced to >> "privatize" testing, we should adopt what was then the European >> system of a national amateur radio club giving the tests, including >> mandatory training sessions and membership in said club as the >> Europeans were doing.
>
>Just imagine what the reaction would be if the FCC were to announce >that ALL new hams, regardless of other licensing or experience, had to >join the ARRL AND attend an approved series of classes before being >allowed to try the test. The code test debate and the incentive >licensing fracas would be minor spats by comparison...

Which is why it never was adopted by the "headquarters" types who never gave exams in the first place...the Germans or Dutch or French never had any problems with that system.....

>> I still feel that the FCC should be back in the testing business >> and was very forthright about that in my comments submitted in the >> Restructuring proceeding.
>>
>I'm with ya, Phil, but would they ever actually do it after 17 years >of getting the unpaid labor of volunteers?

Don't get me started on how much of its responsibilities the Commish' managed to wiggle away from with a straight face.....

>I think the "Golden Age" of FCC testing was in the late 1970s, when >tests were not only given in the FCC offices, but at many hamfests and >other gatherings. I remember a 1978 club meeting of the Drumlins ARC >where an FCC field official told us that all we needed was a certain >number of examinees (I think it was 10) and they'd send an examiner >with all the papers.

The folks who liked the establishment of the VE system the best were those non-technical examiners who were very uncomfortable dealing with some of the geeks who appeared at the exam points. Most of them became office administrative assistants (super secretaries) which matched their qualifications and interests much better.

(Not to give the wrong impression, most of the examiners just loved working with people.)

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4706. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:12:43 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goip6e7.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27654
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 13:24:52 -0600, CAM wrote:

>N9NWO wrote:
>> About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
>> The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
>
>Take off your clothes and you don't get a ticket?

No, ring a bell and not get a ticket......

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4707. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:12:44 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goipse8.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27652
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 22:28:52 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>And some Ph.D. at an university will treat you like
>you are pond scum. Look at how network techs >get treated. Make the wrong comments to the
>some female employee and you are out the door.
>Companies treat network techs like they were >expendable.

They are. Around here, there are far more network techs on the "available" board than working. Both my son and stepson are, fortunately, working in the field....so far.

"Brother, can you spare a dime...."

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

From a Clearing in the Silicon Forest
Beaverton (Washington County) Oregon

4708. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:12:47 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goir2g9.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27655
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 22:48:37 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>The US Marshal's office seems to help the FCC when they need "muscle".

The Marshal Service is the enforcement arm of the Federal Courts.
They will only do things in accordance with court orders (warrants).

My job with the FCC for over 20 years included preparing and approving such warrant applications for court issuance, examining the evidence supporting the warrant for sufficiency, and supervising and training FCC field agents to do the job right the first time.

>While most forfeitures are done via the courts,
>the drug laws have made that a bit fuzzy.

The law that govern radio equipment seizures and forfeitures is very clear on what, how, and who. These are detailed in Section 510 of the Comm Act (Title 47, U.S. Code, Sect. 510).

Drug seizures go under different rules.

Any LEO who does not know the difference thoroughly and immediately does not deserve to be on the street attempting to enforce radio laws.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4709. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:22:22 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE09E.C139F096@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27656
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Phil Kane wrote:
>
> On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 13:24:52 -0600, CAM wrote:
>
> >N9NWO wrote:
> >> About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
> >> The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
> > >
> > >Take off your clothes and you don't get a ticket?
> >
> No, ring a bell and not get a ticket......

Or maybe laugh really hard and not get a ticket?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4710. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:24:34 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE122.2B30BA39@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27657

Bill Sohl wrote:
> On what basis would the FCC have to retain even the 5wpm code > test if/when the ITU requirement goes away? If you can't > articulate a clear and compelling reason to retain code
> now except for the treaty requirement, then on what basis
> would you argue for its retention?

The easiest thing to do is nothing?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4711. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:38:00 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE448.4A5E3DE9@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27658

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests!

Obviously, for him HF privileges were not worth the effort of achieving and testing at 13 or 20wpm. Extra privileges were never worth the effort of achieving and testing at 20wpm for me. HF privileges are obviously important to you. HF privileges are not important for a lot of hams.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4712. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:40:59 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE4FB.B4EE1F9C@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27659

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> Hey, man, don't look at me -- Carl was the one who had to put out > the brag about finally getting his Nickle Extra! I just made a simple, > factual observation.

And everyone couldn't help but notice that you have the same license as that 8 year old girl. You are like her in another way - she also doesn't have an engineering degree.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4713. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:43:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE595.30E202B5@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27660

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:
> >So when are you going to get off your lazy ass and get an > >engineering degree, Larry?
>
> Never -- that's not what I aspire to be!

And for many years Carl and I didn't aspire to hold extra class licenses.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4714. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:44:49 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C1EE5E1.F3056E@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27661

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> However, she still maintains "seniority" as an Extra over Carl! Moreover,
> I wouldn't be a bit surprised to learn that she became a professional > engineer herself someday!

Unlike you. :-)
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4715. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 06:52:51 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goit7wb.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27662

On 18 Dec 2001 01:45:59 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating >our dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution.
>But the idea that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far >from proven.

You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that runs on urine.....

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4716. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 11:21:14 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vn8o109a4@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27663

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message news:20011217230527.13039.00001127@mb-ch.aol.com...
> Ed:
>
> Sorry, no cigar! I have absolutely no feelings of "inferiority" (or anything > else) to Carl. I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests! He forced the issue > of having recently passed his Nickle Extra, and I merely observed that > as a ham, he now has made an achievement which has been previously > accomplished by third-graders under the Pre-Restructuring licensing > requirements! What did I say that was incorrect or inappropriate? I > did congratulate him, after all!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT

Yes. A back-handed complement is still a complement.

4717. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:11:08 UTC
From: krill <radioisnot4everyone@nowhere.org>
Message-ID: <MPG.1688fd85c5cee636989716@news.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27664

In article <3C1ECEC1.63CEE6D5@ix.netcom.com>, wa2ise@ix.netcom.com says...
>
>
> "Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
>
> >
> >
> > Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've > > been granted
>
> I found # 6,288,618 Logic-based architecture for FSK modulation and
> demodulation
> # 6,281,823 Direct digital synthesis using a sine weighted DAC
> # 6,265,948 Image rejection in logic-based architecture for FSK
> modulation and
> demodulation
> # 6,209,112 Apparatus and method for reducing power consumption of an > error-correcting
> decoder
> # 6,198,353 Phase locked loop having direct digital synthesizer dividers > and improved phase
> detector
> # 6,078,799 System and method for calibrating single sideband receiver > reject image product
>
> All are utility patents (the real thing). Congrads. I have a few myself > mostly in television.

all useful patents for portable telephones NOT AMATEUR RADIO though.
Carl helps design those GREAT $9.95 portable phones that Lucent sells.
Interesting to note that his INTEREST in amateur radio (according to his web-site) involves the same frequencies as baby monitors and portable phones. BTW, not to change the subject, is it my imagination or does Carl actually sound like a white Mike Tyson? Whas up with dat?

Anyway, Carl's name is on all the patents, all done with the help of teams of employees and co-workers, which means he was the boss. No great shake except that everyone else who probably did the actual work is delegated to historical obscurity OH well, the pointy haired boss gets all the credit while the Dilberts get squat.

Be interesting to see which patents that actually are related to amateur radio, as in actual use in all those store bought rigs I see in the catalogs.

REAL RIGS GLOW IN THE DARK

4718. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:16:57 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218071657.24724.00000387@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27665

In article <3C1ED045.660EF966@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>> >It took a lot more skill, ambition, and perseverance to do what Carl did >> >with regards to restructuring, than what was required to learn an >antiquated
>> >and worthless endcoding scheme at a high rate of speed.
>>
>
>Antiquated, yes. Not worthless, but not the best way to get information >thru.

"Best way" depends on the situation.

>Ask JPL sometime. They communicate with space probes past >the planet Pluto.

Yup. But they don't use HF or even VHF to do so. The equipment used is kinda pricey and involved by amateur standards, too.

>But for a minimun of equipment, and a trained person,
>CW does work pretty well. But nowdays it's cheaper to buy modems >than it is to pay for training a person to send and receive code. That's >why noone except the ARS uses it anymore.

There are some uses of Morse on radio by nonamateurs. But in general it's a very minor use, because the economics aren't there.

Same thing has happened to sailing vessels, piston-engine aircraft, and many other things.

The question is this: Should ham exams be based on what hams do, or what nonamateur radio services do?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4719. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:20:39 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vnho1cgm0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27672
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest

"He Said What?" <Har Har Hardy Har@Anon.com> wrote in message
news:9vm1j9scn0@dosa.alt.net...

Awww, how cute this ANONYMOUS COWARD is a pro wrassling fan.....shows his mental abilities....probably thinks it's all REAL, too.

> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vl3n9glt2@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "Donnie" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message > > news:9vjsja$84m$0@pita.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> > news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> > > > Anonymous COWARD
> > > > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > > > >
> > > > > The Salvation Army
> > > > >
> > > > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> > > there > > > > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic
> > > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > > > > beating up his mother again.
> > > >
> > >
> > > Woger, Stagger Lee is a friend of mine.
> > >
> > I bet you know him in the "biblical sense," too.
> >
> > > Because you talked mean
> > > to him, I am putting you on my Black List.
> > >
> > > Donnie
> >
> > Take your list and stick it up your ass, "Dumbass Donnie." The real
> Dumbass
> > Donnie doesn't get on the newsgroups, COWARD.
> >
> However, the real Dumbass Roger does....

So does the real DUMBASS ANONYMOUS NO-BALLS COWARD.....

4720. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:22:19 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vnho3cgm1@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27673
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

"Dicksucker" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message news:9vmi68$g05$0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> > Anonymous COWARD
> > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > >
> > > The Salvation Army
> >
> > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> there
> > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > > beating up his mother again.
> >
> >
>
> Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > with his blow up doll.

Poor anonymous coward! He's afraid to post under his real name or callsign,
'cause he knows all the hams he's said this shit to would beat his lard ass.
Now run along and play with the sheep and little boys you love to fuck.

4721. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:23:04 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vnho7cgm2@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27674
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

"Dicksucker" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message news:9vmi92$g56$0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vl3n7glt1@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message
> >
>
news:faggot.lee.sticks.his.fingers.in.underage.girls.cunts@houston-hunks.com
> > ...
> > >
> > > On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 19:22:06 -0500, KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote:
> > > :
> > > : Maybe that's the attraction for them.....being cheap....
> > > :
> > > And then there's your technique: Reach into the Salvation Army kettle > > > and help yourself.
> >
> > And your technique is reaching into your daughter's cunt and helping > > yourself.
>
> >
> Blow up dolls are on sale this Christmas Wogey!

Good, you may finally get a piece of ass!

4722. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 12:39:38 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <eOGT7.316421$5A3.121757323@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27666
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Bill I have to agree we do things different in the NorthEast Corridor.

"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> wrote in message
news:3c1ed657.25542958@news.mindspring.com...
> On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 16:38:54 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
> >> >
> >> > > The way you were going at it was that you
> >> > > were making it out that you were some big > >> > > shot ham radio operator with all sorts of
> >> > > fucking rights and you were going to TELL
> >> > > that cop were to get off.
> >> >
> >> > An intelligent and reasonable police officer would not get himself > >> > into such a situation in the first place.
> >>
> >> The police he describes are a bunch of untrained, juvenile loose > >> cannons. The many I knew would not begin to enforce a new law without > >> learning the law in detail, and many minor narrowly- focused laws such > >> as this one would prety well be ignored without a formal complaint > >> having been signed by a victim. Then there might be an investigation > >> which might lead to an arrest if it proved to be warrented.
> >>
> >> Most cops are not fools. Fools don't normally enjoy long tenure as > >> police officers.
> >
> >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
>
> >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney > >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
>
> Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws
> that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement
> easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > the cops sure aren't going to.

>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>
> >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > >officers. They are very professional.
>
> If they are professional, then they won't take
> knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > knowledge.
>
> >But if they do not know > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
> >it.
>
> You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.
>
> Cheers,
> Bill K2UNK
>

4723. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 13:03:23 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218080323.24724.00000388@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27667

In article <cuvyxnansvbet.goit7wb.pminews@or.news.verio.net>, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> writes:

>On 18 Dec 2001 01:45:59 GMT, N2EY wrote:
>
>>As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating >>our dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution.
>>But the idea that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far >>from proven.
>
> You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that > runs on urine.....
>
Ever start up a first-generation VW diesel in cold weather? Car vibrates so much when cold that it'll shake the fillings right outa your teeth. And it sounds like it's running on guess what. Once it warms up, it will always get you there.

I still miss that car.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4724. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 13:12:29 UTC
From: Jon Bloom <jbloom@arrl.org>
Message-ID: <pan.2001.12.18.08.12.28.821480.25807@arrl.org>
Source record: 27668

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 01:52:51 -0500, Phil Kane wrote:
>
> You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that
> runs on urine.....

I can see it now...

Officer: What's that six-pack doing on the seat beside you?

Driver: Well, I've got a long way to drive today.

4725. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 13:26:01 UTC
From: rick@falgouts.com
Message-ID: <3c1f4369.14280718@news.msy.bellsouth.net>
Source record: 27669
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

How do you peal bargain ha ha ha ha
>
>>N9NWO wrote:
>>> About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
>>> The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
>>
>>
>
>

BusDriver

Davemade X-Force Twin Killers

4726. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 13:29:57 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218082957.01977.00000683@mb-ba.aol.com>
Source record: 27670

>Could of fooled me.

Doesnt surprise me, Im sure you can be fooled rather easily.

4727. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 13:31:12 UTC
From: ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now
Message-ID: <3c1f43d7.3408570@news.aei.net>
Source record: 27671
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 00:35:50 -0500, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:

>If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....

Bad idea... I would not lie to these people.

Quite simply say it's ham radio gear and you have a federal license to own and operate it.

If the person checking happens to be a ham then you don't get caught lying, and if he isn't he'll know you're legally entitled to the gear.

Personally I've carried a handheld IC-W31 in my carry on several times when flying to the UK and never had a problem.

Pat
ve2vfd

4728. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 15:15:46 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218101546.06380.00000631@mb-cs.aol.com>
Source record: 27675

>Subject: Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)
>From: "Phil Kane" Phil.Kane@no.spam
>Date: 12/18/2001 12:12 AM Central Standard Time
>Message-id: <cuvyxnansvbet.goio6i4.pminews@or.news.verio.net>

>Now to muddy the waters somewhat.
>
> A while ago the FCC changed its equipment authorization rules (FCC > Rules Part 2 Subpart J) to eliminate the previous categories, > shuffle around which equipment requires what type of authorization,
> and to establish just two categories of equipment authorization -

Remember what I said about the FCC washing it's hands and throwing them in the air?

>Verification, where the manufacturer of importer self-declares that > the equipment meets the required technical specs

There ya go....Seems now it's an ingrained practice.

This is part of the reason we have trashy "Part 15" devices in the community and WE (Amateurs) have to defend ourselves against "interference" claims.

> and Certifcation,
> where a formal application is submitted (electronic filing only)
> with test results (see below) and a Grant of Certification and FCC
> ID number are issued if found in compliance.

Gee...let's see...Do I want to just SAY it's OK, or do I want to spend hundreds if not thousands of dollars to get that little tag?

And oh...by the way...If I get "busted" selling this non-compliant device, I will just change the model number and the "label" that I am marketing it under and re-introduce it under a different name until THAT is busted.

>To make things even more fun, the Commish' then privatized the > process by creating Telecommunication Certification Bodies to issue > Grants of Certifcation and FCC ID Numbers, thereby allowing the > Commish' to wiggle out of even more of its regulatory obligations.

I wonder when they started that?

>Ain't bureaucracy wonderful?

Seems to me they are making it the most unbureaucratic bureaucracy by trashing all the programs, Phil. Twenty five years ago if I saw an FCC type-acceptance label on something, it MEANT something...Now I see any reference on a device to an FCC "approval", I really doubt that it's met ANY kind of standards or testing.

Steve, K4YZ

4729. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 16:10:09 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <BTJT7.171144$WW.10726842@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27676

> W1RFI writes:

> >So do I presume that it is your feeling of inferiority to Carl that causes
> >you
> >to try to tear him down to make yourself look better?

Larry Roll K3LTwrote

> Sorry, no cigar! I have absolutely no feelings of "inferiority" (or anything > else) to Carl. I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests! He forced the issue > of having recently passed his Nickle Extra, and I merely observed that > as a ham, he now has made an achievement which has been previously > accomplished by third-graders under the Pre-Restructuring licensing > requirements! What did I say that was incorrect or inappropriate? I > did congratulate him, after all!

Larry...

The problem is what you believe is wrong... you think everyone has the same talents as you and when they don't execise those talents they are somehow inferior.

If you don't think that some humans have a proclivity or predilection (and some humans don't have a proclivity or predilection) for playing a piano well or tapping out Morse code with abandon then you've lived a sheltered life.

If you don't think there are a lot of humans out there that don't have the same proclivity or predilections as you do then I give up and you will always be considered a lost cause.

Rich

4730. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 16:18:02 UTC
From: Boatanchor Bob NA4G <na4g@weedcon1.cropsci.ncsu.edu>
Message-ID: <9vnq7qcdd1@uni00nw.unity.ncsu.edu>
Source record: 27677

Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:
>> >It took a lot more skill, ambition, and perseverance to do what Carl did
>> >with regards to restructuring, than what was required to learn an antiquated >> >and worthless endcoding scheme at a high rate of speed.

> Antiquated, yes. Not worthless, but not the best way to get information > thru. Ask JPL sometime. They communicate with space probes past > the planet Pluto. But for a minimun of equipment, and a trained person, > CW does work pretty well. But nowdays it's cheaper to buy modems > than it is to pay for training a person to send and receive code. That's > why noone except the ARS uses it anymore.

^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^^

When was the last time you listened in on 476? Ol' CLA is still running CW tfc lists and that sort of thing. Granted, CLA is not much, but it still is there, if you care to listen. There are even a few others, too.
CW is anything but dead. It is just not as common, anymore, though.

Bob/NA4G

4731. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 16:55:07 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <OOq51R#hBHA.1916@cpimsnntpa04>
Source record: 27678

N2EY said:

> This can be interpreted to mean "everybody should have to do > what I did". But it can also mean "I learned a lot from it, and others > will, too".

All sorts of ways to interpret it. Here's one from the Book of Bokonon:

"Beware of the man who works hard to learn something,
learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
without having come by their ignorance the hard way."

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
(���) 73, de Hans, K0HB

4732. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 16:57:41 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vns6o$k7v$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27680

Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:6CF305A6BB24AD00.2A8D56BE9C30DBF7.10DB203E54E84989@lp.airnews.net...
> On Mon, 10 Dec 2001 19:12:04 -0500, Dwight Stewart
> <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:
>
> >Jim Kelley wrote:
> >>
> >> The best solution is the transporter they have
> >> on Star Trek (snip)
> >>
> >>
> > Exactly. Sadly, problems like this are much easier to solve on television than > >they are in real life.
>
> Actually, scientists HAVE successfully constructed (and > demonstrated) a transporter of that nature.
>
> Unfortunately, it's only capable of moving a sub-atomic > particle--

What kind of "sub-atomic particle"?

4733. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 17:06:11 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vnsmqkfl1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27679

Carl R. Stevenson <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message news:3c1d2793_1@news7.fast.net...
> Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased > them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy."

Is that a boolean "NOT"? ;-)

Aren't "homebrew licenses" illegal?

4734. "ham radio fun" goes off the deep end an into the loo

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 17:19:54 UTC
From: cousin kink <tbobonnsoppls@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <_UKT7.14058$mF.1467096@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27681
Cross-posted to: alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.shortwave

Take a listen to the latest www.rainreport.com

R.H. made a "triple-play" in the 9th Inning for xmas.
Bases are loaded on 14.313, 3.860 and 14.275 - you'll just have to listen 4-urself to see. :)

(amusing bit stolen from alt.consumer.pest.control)

> We have something quite a bit more fun at my house for blowing the > crap out of ground-based rodent critters. My roomate used to work at a > Napa Vineyard winery supplier, and they had all kinds of neat tools of destruction.
>
> By far the favorite is a nifty little bit of hardware called the > "Rodex 4000". This is a five foot shaft with a rubber bung on the > end, 50 feet worth of hose that connects to a propane/oxygen > tank. Stick bung in offending hole in the ground, hit the gas > button for 60 seconds, and then hit the igniter. The boom is > quite impressive...like something from out of a Roadrunner > vs Coyote Looney Toon Cartoon.
> No more gopher problem to say the least,
> and I'd assume it works just as well on yellowjackets?
>
> The Rodex 4000 in action...
>
> http://www.billingsgazette.com/region/20000323_r1asq.html
>
> Of course I could think of other uses for this fun device!
>

Finally, the Quote of the day:

"Man mu&#65533; den Menschen vor allem nach seinen Lastern beurteilen. Tugenden k&#65533;nnen vorget&#65533;uscht sein. Laster sind echt.

("One should judge a man mainly from his depravities.
Virtues can be faked. Depravities are real.")

4735. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 17:39:12 UTC
From: He Said What? <"Har Har Hardy Har"@Anon.com>
Message-ID: <9vnv07$s7f$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27682
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

"KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vnho3cgm1@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "Dicksucker" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message > news:9vmi68$g05$0@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> news:9vipv2hmi1@dosa.alt.net...
> > > Anonymous COWARD
> > > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > > >
> > > > The Salvation Army
> > >
> > > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> > there
> > > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic > > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him from > > > beating up his mother again.
> > >
> > >
> >
> > Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> > of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > > with his blow up doll.
>
> Poor anonymous coward! He's afraid to post under his real name or callsign,
> 'cause he knows all the hams he's said this shit to would beat his lard
ass.
> Now run along and play with the sheep and little boys you love to fuck.
>
Ya don't suppose he'd hide behind the curtains like YOU did when just one single Ham came calling?
And you call others a coward?

--
I've learned that the greater a person's sense of guilt, the greater his or her need to cast blame on others.

4736. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 18:51:43 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F9068.A8B070A9@gte.net>
Source record: 27683
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
>
> >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney > >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
>
> Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws
> that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement
> easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > the cops sure aren't going to.
>
>
> >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > >officers. They are very professional.
>
> If they are professional, then they won't take
> knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > knowledge.
>
> >But if they do not know > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
> >it.
>
> You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.
>

Look at the lady arrested for having the fake grenade:

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52423-2001Dec16.html

Gun control really helped here, didn't it?

One fellow in Talk.Politics.Guns commented:
The spin the cops are putting on this story is amazing. Their public statements have all concerned whether or not "petty theft charges" would be filed against the woman, who apparently picked up the ordinary looking shopping bag BY MISTAKE as it came out of the X-ray machine.

Yesterday afternoon the feds finally said there was "insufficient evidence" to charge her with theft. No mention of the fact that they SCREWED UP by letting the bag slip through their fingers. They're making every effort to make it look like the passenger's fault.

Now why is she not filing wrongful arrest charges against the police? Would such a lawsuit stop the police from over reaching in the next incident on an airliner?

And what makes you think that you are safe from the police over reaching in the current setting of paranoia over terrorism.

4737. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 18:53:05 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F90BE.56C19FAF@gte.net>
Source record: 27684
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

> How do you peal bargain ha ha ha ha
>

Ok, ok. Typo Plea, not peal

> >>> About 6% of all court cases make to trial.
> >>> The rest are settled, often by peal bargaining.
> >>
> >>
> > >
> > >
>
> BusDriver
>
> Davemade X-Force Twin Killers

4738. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 18:56:32 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F9183.90F89252@gte.net>
Source record: 27685
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

> >> >> And if you argue with a cop then you are just > >> >> another asshole. All he wants is to make it home > >> >> alive each night. For all he knows, you just murdered
> >> >> your wife or have been fired and is heading back to > >> >> the office to shoot everyone.
> >> >
> >> >I would not give an officer a rough time. Why should I? But if > >> >he wants to examine my automobile or radios, then he better have > >> >a search warrant. If he feels one is necessary, then the watch > >> >officer can certainly see that one is obtained in short order.
> >> >Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)
> >>
> >> Actually, obtaining a search warrant isn't all that quick or easy.
> >> Assume the following scenario...
> >>
> >> 1. Officer Obey stops John Q Motorist for some traffic violation.
> >> 2. Upon viewing the vehicle's interior, Officer Obey sees a > >> radio mounted in the car.
> >> 3. Officer Obey asks the motorist about the radio
> >> 4. John Q Motorist politely tells officer Obey the radio > >> is a ham rig (or CB, or whatever).
> >> 5. Officer Obey then requests permission to search the > >> vehicle and/or examine the radio itself.
> >> 6. John Q Motorist declines (politely) to allow search > >> of the vehicle and/or the radio.
> >>
> >> OK so far?
> >>
> >> Now Officer Obey requires a search warrant to search
> >> the car or further examine the radio. Just how does the Officer > >> obtain that warrant then? The process involves at least > >> the following:
> >>
> >> 1. Detaining the vehicle and occupant for an unspecified time
> >> 2. Officer Obey would need to have his police supervisory > >> people contact a judge and inform the judge as to WHY
> >> a search warrant is needed (i.e. probable cause, etc.)
> >> (most local municipalities don't always > >> have a judge just sitting around to do these things)
> >>
> >> Judges do NOT routinely issue search warrants just > >> to make local police happy. IF some subsequent search > >> uncovers a criminal act. then there had better be sound > >> reasons for the search warrant in the first place. If > >> the search uncovers nothing...the reason for the warrant > >> had better stand up to challange via a civil lawsuit.

> >>
> >> If any cop builds a record of "bogus" stops and bogus
> >> requests for search warrants, that cop's credibility in the force
> >> goes out the window and you can bet the judge(s) > >> (as do police management) know > >> who those bad credibility cops are.
> >>
> >> Good policing does not require arrogance or "attitude"
> >> on the part of police. Attitude cops give all cops a bad > >> name and they undermine the service of the good cops
> >> who know and work as proffesionals within the constraints > >> of our constitution and legal system.
> >
> >The courts have ruled that the police, with proper > >probable cause, can search a vehicle to include the > >trunk. You gave them that power when you obtained
> >a drivers license. Now anything in a locked case most > >have a search warrant if you do not give your permission.
> >If you refuse, they can tow the car until they have a > >warrant.
> >
> >Much of this has been worked out due the drug traffickers.
> >
> >Go over to Alt.Law-Enforcement. Traffic stops and searches > >are a popular topic there. You would be surprised how often > >someone is stopped, who has no drugs yet has to go through > >such treatment. All it takes a police dog walking around your > >car and signaling that there are drugs there. A lot of good, decent > >folks have been subject to such treatment.
> >
> >Just because you are good guy, in your mind, does not mean > >that someday a very professional cop will put you through this.
> >There are too many folks, even older folks, who look just like > >you, who are now in the drug traffic.
>
> How someone looks is NOT suffiecient probable cause.
> In the end, any search must be justified as to what
> the probable cause was.

From Talk.Politics.Guns about the lady with the hand fake hand grenade:
American Airlines Flight Delayed

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52423-2001Dec16.html

>Gun control really helped here, didn't it?

The spin the cops are putting on this story is amazing. Their public statements have all concerned whether or not "petty theft charges" would be filed against the woman, who apparently picked up the ordinary looking shopping bag BY MISTAKE as it came out of the X-ray machine.

Yesterday afternoon the feds finally said there was "insufficient evidence" to charge her with theft. No mention of the fact that they SCREWED UP by letting the bag slip through their fingers. They're making every effort to make it look like the passenger's fault.

Do you think that she will file a lawsuit against the police for false arrest? Do you think that it will have any effect in this climate of paranoia over terrorism?

4739. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 19:02:14 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F92D2.30F96BD7@gte.net>
Source record: 27686
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

> >> >If there is a question about a radio, it is just easier
> >> >to take the radios, even the car as well, and let the > >> >courts settle. I have said this over and over. This > >> >includes lawsuits, which most cops do not really give
> >> >a rats ass about. That is the courts' problem, the > >> >chief's problem, and not theirs.
> >>
> >> It becomes THEIR problem when (a) a civilian complaint is filed with > >> the department for misconduct and (b) they are a named defendant in > >> a Sect. 1983 suit - damages (and attorney fees) for violation of > >> civil rights under color of authority.
> >>
> >> All the LEOs whom I know (and I know a bunch - I am a retired > >> Federal agent) are very concerned that they do not achieve that sort > >> of "fame". It's a career-stopper and a wallet-emptier.
> >>
> >> The watchword is "think twice before acting".
> >
> >No cop will take a radio unless he thinks he has > >a good reason to justify doing so.
>
> EXACTLTY! And just what do you think a good reason > to do so would be? The answer to that question is the > heart of the issue that I and others have been trying > to get you to understand and articulate just what and > when such a "taking" or confiscation" would have > any merit at all.
>
> >If he can justify > >his actions then filing complaints will have little effect.
>
> Agreed and we await your answer as to when/why such > a justifyed taking might be.
>
> >Look at Chicago. Anybody can file a complaint.
> >Even file anonymously. Every cop in Chicago has > >a file full of complaints. It is looked at as being part > >of the job.
> >
> >And look at how Cincinnati dealt with the riots
> >last spring. The complaint process so favors the > >civilian that the cops just have given up. They gets > >so many points, they just move on to a surrounding

> >suburb.
> >
> >In many cities the complaint process is so flawed that > >it is meaningless. There are so many false complaints > >that the cops just ignore the system, look at it as a part > >of doing business.
>
> Your experience is either very limited or you have > no clue as to what really goes on with such situations
> and complaints in many jurisdictions. Maybe Chicago > and Cinncinnati are screwed up...but that's not
> the norm.

Things have changed. Look at LAPD and the Ramparts division. Or the Chicago cops gunning down three unarmed blacks last year. Or the situation in NYC where 4 cops put 41 rounds into an unarmed
man.

I think that it is you who is out of touch

Look at this from Talk.Politics.Guns about the woman who had the fake grenade on an aircraft:

>American Airlines Flight Delayed

<snip>

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52423-2001Dec16.html

>Gun control really helped here, didn't it?

The spin the cops are putting on this story is amazing. Their public statements have all concerned whether or not "petty theft charges" would be filed against the woman, who apparently picked up the ordinary looking shopping bag BY MISTAKE as it came out of the X-ray machine.

Yesterday afternoon the feds finally said there was "insufficient evidence" to charge her with theft. No mention of the fact that they SCREWED UP by letting the bag slip through their fingers. They're making every effort to make it look like the passenger's fault.
--

Will she even bother to file a lawsuit over false arrest? Do the police even care? Especially in this climate of paranoia over terrorism?

And what makes you think that you are exempt?

4740. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 19:05:23 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F93A7.98B68824@gte.net>
Source record: 27687
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

Bill Nelson wrote:

> >> Again, I fully support the use of video.
>
> > And what is proper enforcement? After all guys > > like you have been caught trafficking drugs. So > > have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going > > to know. He has to assume the worst.
>
> The police I know are not like that. They assume the person is > a generally law abiding citizen, until they have reason to believe > otherwise.
>
> Of course, they take proper precautions when approaching an unknown > vehicle or person.

God lord are you naive.

Look at this story about a lady who had a fake grenade. Do you think that she will file a lawsuit? Do you really think that it will change anything?

>American Airlines Flight Delayed

<snip>

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52423-2001Dec16.html

>Gun control really helped here, didn't it?

The spin the cops are putting on this story is amazing. Their public statements have all concerned whether or not "petty theft charges"
would be filed against the woman, who apparently picked up the ordinary looking shopping bag BY MISTAKE as it came out of the X-ray machine.

Yesterday afternoon the feds finally said there was "insufficient evidence" to charge her with theft. No mention of the fact that they SCREWED UP by letting the bag slip through their fingers. They're making every effort to make it look like the passenger's fault.
--

4741. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 19:09:09 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C1F9488.66A911B2@gte.net>
Source record: 27688
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

>
> >The US Marshal's office seems to help the FCC when they need "muscle".
>
> The Marshal Service is the enforcement arm of the Federal Courts.
> They will only do things in accordance with court orders (warrants).
>
> My job with the FCC for over 20 years included preparing and > approving such warrant applications for court issuance, examining > the evidence supporting the warrant for sufficiency, and supervising > and training FCC field agents to do the job right the first time.
>
> >While most forfeitures are done via the courts,
> >the drug laws have made that a bit fuzzy.
>
> The law that govern radio equipment seizures and forfeitures is > very clear on what, how, and who. These are detailed in Section > 510 of the Comm Act (Title 47, U.S. Code, Sect. 510).
>
> Drug seizures go under different rules.
>
> Any LEO who does not know the difference thoroughly and immediately > does not deserve to be on the street attempting to enforce radio > laws.

Unless the two become one and the same, such as drug runner who uses ham gear (and has a license).

Look at this from Talk.Politics.Guns
about the woman who had the fake grenade. Do you think that she will file a lawsuit? Do you really think that it will effect the police?

>American Airlines Flight Delayed

<snip>

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/articles/A52423-2001Dec16.html

>Gun control really helped here, didn't it?

The spin the cops are putting on this story is amazing. Their public statements have all concerned whether or not "petty theft charges"
would be filed against the woman, who apparently picked up the ordinary looking shopping bag BY MISTAKE as it came out of the X-ray machine.

Yesterday afternoon the feds finally said there was "insufficient evidence" to charge her with theft. No mention of the fact that they SCREWED UP by letting the bag slip through their fingers. They're making every effort to make it look like the passenger's fault.
--

4742. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 20:20:55 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <CDC4DCD13A483DC3.FA71E6EFEFF15474.3191876787702ECB@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27689
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:02:14 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

>Things have changed. Look at LAPD and the >Ramparts division. Or the Chicago cops gunning >down three unarmed blacks last year. Or the situation >in NYC where 4 cops put 41 rounds into an unarmed
>man.

Didn't they miss with about 20 of those?

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4743. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 20:40:13 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1FA9AD.9B3DD642@uci.edu>
Source record: 27690
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

Donnie wrote:
> Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > with his blow up doll.

What are you, nine?

4744. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-18 20:47:43 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C1FAB6F.418060D3@uci.edu>
Source record: 27691

CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests!

> Obviously, for him HF privileges were not worth the effort of > achieving and testing at 13 or 20wpm. Extra privileges were never > worth the effort of achieving and testing at 20wpm for me. HF > privileges are obviously important to you. HF privileges are > not important for a lot of hams.

I'm not sure I understand why someone wouldn't want ALL of the privileges available. I've never worked 12 meters or 160 meters for example, but I like knowing I'm not restricted from using those bands.

4745. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:00:11 UTC
From: Frank Ney <n4zhg@icqmail.com>
Message-ID: <a3mv1ukg9i9nn2209sr20riq2hh0ggjbmo@4ax.com>
Source record: 27692
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 14:20:55 -0600, an orbiting mind control laser caused
"Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net> to write:

>On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:02:14 GMT, N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:
>
>>Things have changed. Look at LAPD and the >>Ramparts division. Or the Chicago cops gunning >>down three unarmed blacks last year. Or the situation >>in NYC where 4 cops put 41 rounds into an unarmed
>>man.
>
>Didn't they miss with about 20 of those?

22 to be exact. Not exactly a passing grade.

Frank Ney N4ZHG WV/EMT-B LPWV NRA(L) ProvNRA GOA CCRKBA JPFO
--
"I believe a self-righteous liberal Democrat with a cause is more dangerous than a Hell's Angel with an attitude."
-- Ted Nugent
Just Say No to Gestapo Tactics http://reduce.to/justsayno/
Abuses by the BATF http://www.hamnet.net/~n4zhg/batfabus.html

4746. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:18:23 UTC
From: Frank Ney <n4zhg@icqmail.com>
Message-ID: <prmv1ugeea7qgco3i92rs5otlm0evihra0@4ax.com>
Source record: 27693
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

```
>> The law that govern radio equipment seizures and forfeitures is >> very clear on what, how, and who. These are detailed in Section >> 510 of the Comm Act (Title 47, U.S. Code, Sect. 510).
>>
>> Drug seizures go under different rules.
>>
>> Any LEO who does not know the difference thoroughly and immediately >> does not deserve to be on the street attempting to enforce radio >> laws.

Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.

A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a way as to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving the car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car. Even if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.

Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing 47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to demonstrate diminished capacity.

Frank Ney N4ZHG WV/EMT-B LPWV NRA(L) ProvNRA GOA CCRKBA JPFO
--
"I believe a self-righteous liberal Democrat with a cause is more dangerous than a Hell's Angel with an attitude."
-- Ted Nugent
Just Say No to Gestapo Tactics http://reduce.to/justsayno/
Abuses by the BATF http://www.hamnet.net/~n4zhg/batfabus.html
```

4747. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:22:35 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vomka$3r7$2@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27694
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> Bill Nelson wrote:

>> >> Again, I fully support the use of video.
>>
>> > And what is proper enforcement? After all guys >> > like you have been caught trafficking drugs. So >> > have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going >> > to know. He has to assume the worst.
>>
>> The police I know are not like that. They assume the person is >> a generally law abiding citizen, until they have reason to believe >> otherwise.
>>
>> Of course, they take proper precautions when approaching an unknown >> vehicle or person.

> God lord are you naive.

No, I am human. The same is true of the police I know. We do not seem to have an neanderthals on the force.

> Look at this story about a lady who > had a fake grenade. Do you think > that she will file a lawsuit? Do you > really think that it will change anything?

This is immaterial. There are laws against such things at an airport. Anyone stupid enough to try to run a grenade, fake or not, through the x-ray machine is asking for trouble.

And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4748. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:22:39 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gok5f5f.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27696

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 08:12:29 -0500, Jon Bloom wrote:

>> You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that >> runs on urine.....
>
>I can see it now...
>
>Officer: What's that six-pack doing on the seat beside you?
>
>Driver: Well, I've got a long way to drive today.

It is well known that one does not buy beer, only rents it.....

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4749. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:22:45 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gok5nhg.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27695

On 18 Dec 2001 13:03:23 GMT, N2EY wrote:

>> You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that >> runs on urine.....
>>
>Ever start up a first-generation VW diesel in cold weather? Car vibrates so >much when cold that it'll shake the fillings right outa your teeth. And it >sounds like it's running on guess what. Once it warms up, it will always get >you there.
>
>I still miss that car.

My first-generation VW was a '53 European-equipped bug - the 36 hp engine died on us so we dropped a 40 horse in it and it outraced lots of others on the road. My '63 Bug (US style) lasted until 1986 when the floor and body finally rusted out.

They don;t make them like that any more. Thank God.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4750. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:25:29 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vompp$3r7$3@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27697
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

>>So
>>have nice little old grandmas. How is a cop going >>to know. He has to assume the worst.

> Such cops probably never rise to be truly good cops (IMHO).
> If because they "assume the worst" they trample the rights > of the public, especially those people who have done nothing,
> then the careers of those cops won't amount to much.

This guy apparently associates with the dregs of the police forces.
His statement that most police last less than 5 years is completely outside my personal experience with the police I have encountered in various cities around the country.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4751. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 00:53:33 UTC
From: EZ <ezkeyl1@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <hyRT7.125187$OW.40808036@typhoon.hawaii.rr.com>
Source record: 27698
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I'm an active duty military member, been a "ditty bopper" for over 15 years.
I can tell you, alot of countries are still out there using Morse code for tactical and strategic purposes. Long live Morse!

Ezee

"Jesus, EA4AQY" <jesus.guardon@navegalia.com> wrote in message
news:3c1c769a@news.airtel.net...
> And me too. But don't think about keyers are finished. We still should make
> noise on tha bands...
> "Web" <WebFx27@hotmail.com> escribi&#65533; en el mensaje
> news:hCeS7.15523$161.7241951@news02.optonline.net...
> > I aggree
> >
> > Web
> >
> >
> > "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> > news:39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com...
> > >
> > > "b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
> > > news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> > > > Well said.
> > > > People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft,
> > > > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not
> > > > "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry for > > > > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw copy.
> > > > Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> > > > The easy way out is the booring way out.
> > > > WB3DSJ
> > >
> > > You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may love
> > the > > > digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so on
and
> > so > > > on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a variety
> > of > > > different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to do > > > whatever is allowed by that license class.

> > >
> > > Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either the > > dropping
> > > of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of it
> > dropping > > > of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became proactively > > > involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least > 80%
> > of > > > all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be"
> > (i.e. > > > congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham
> radio.
> > > We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us,
but
> > can > > > you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all the way
> up > > > to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur > radio?
> > > I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire
> fighting > > > related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others
> to
> > do
> > > so too.
> > >
> > > Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club > > > meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them
> the > > > experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public to > > > actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually be > > able > > > to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we are > > doing
> > > .
> > >
> > > Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch > > hobby.
> > > Get involved!
> > >
> > > [first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other > paragraphs > > > are to everyone else.]
> > >

> > > Ryan KC8PMX
> > >
> > >
> > > >
> > > > KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> > > > >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't,
> > won't.
> > > > > >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> > > > > operation
> > > > > >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> > > > > >
> > > > > >Ryan
> > > > > >KC8PMX
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> > > > > >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> > > > > >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> Hi OMs,
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore needed
> to > > > > use
> > > > > >> the HF bands.
> > > > > >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will > get
> > > the
> > > > > >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> > > > > >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> > > > > >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released
> in
> > > the > > > > > >> Netherlands.
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> PE1PAE
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > >

4752. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 01:17:26 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vopq001pc1@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27700

"WA8ULX" <wa8ulx@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011218082957.01977.00000683@mb-ba.aol.com...
> >Could of fooled me.
>
> Doesnt surprise me, Im sure you can be fooled rather easily.

If, by that, you mean you have MA in English, then I guess you've fooled all of us.

4753. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 01:29:44 UTC
From: W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net>
Message-ID: <c4ST7.1908$Hz.665078@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27699
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
news:9vomka$3r7$2@quark.scn.rain.com...
> <<< SNIP >>>
> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out > of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification > for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.

But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to be transmitting at the time.

73 de W6DKN

4754. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 01:36:37 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c1fef5d_1@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 27851

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
Hash: SHA1

"krill" <radioisnot4everyone@nowhere.org> wrote in message news:MPG.1688fd85c5cee636989716@news.earthlink.net...
> In article <3C1ECEC1.63CEE6D5@ix.netcom.com>, wa2ise@ix.netcom.com > says...
> >
> >
> > "Carl R. Stevenson" wrote:
> >
> > >
> > >
> > > Perhaps Larry would like to review the a list of the patents I've > > > been granted
> >
> > I found # 6,288,618 Logic-based architecture for FSK modulation
and
> > demodulation
> > # 6,281,823 Direct digital synthesis using a sine weighted DAC
> > # 6,265,948 Image rejection in logic-based architecture for FSK
> > modulation and
> > demodulation
> > # 6,209,112 Apparatus and method for reducing power consumption of an > > error-correcting > > decoder
> > # 6,198,353 Phase locked loop having direct digital synthesizer dividers
> > and improved phase
> > detector
> > # 6,078,799 System and method for calibrating single sideband receiver > > reject image product
> >
> > All are utility patents (the real thing). Congrads. I have a few myself > > mostly in television.
>
> all useful patents for portable telephones NOT AMATEUR RADIO though.

So FSK is not useful in amateur radio? Ever heard of RTTY? Packet?

Never heard of a DDS being used in ham radio? Seems I just tore an article out of a recent QST on a DDS-based VFO ...

Improved FEC (that's Forward Error Correction) techniques? Seen articles on that in ham publications, too ...

Improved image reject techniques for SSB? Since the future is in software-defined radios, DSP, etc., it seems to me that your assertion that these inventions have no applicability to ham radio is absurd.

[snip garbage about phones ... my employer doesn't make phones, we make integrated circuits and wireless LAN devices]

> Anyway, Carl's name is on all the patents, all done with the help of > teams of employees and co-workers, which means he was the boss. No great > shake except that everyone else who probably did the actual work is > delegated to historical obscurity OH well, the pointy haired boss gets

> all the credit while the Dilberts get squat.

I was either the sole inventor or a principle co-inventor on all of
the patents Bob listed ... I am a "DIlbert" (but my tie hangs right on those rare occasions when I wear one :-)

> Be interesting to see which patents that actually are related to amateur > radio, as in actual use in all those store bought rigs I see in the > catalogs.

Most of the patents Robert listed above (plus some he seems to have inadvertently missed) would be directly applicable to improving the performance of those rigs you see in the catalogs ...

> REAL RIGS GLOW IN THE DARK

That one line in caps says volumes about where you're coming from (and where you're stuck ...)

Carl - wa6vse
-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3

iQA/AwUBPB/uz5e+N6+q84HiEQLoYACg1v0aiLPhGifPaydA3Oaa9AQK4mcAoP+I LdR756NRImrcjXe/egUj6/ID
=mrYB
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

4755. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 01:42:58 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ff17b$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27852

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011217230526.13039.00001125@mb-ch.aol.com...
> In article <3C1E45C3.B98A3784@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
writes:
>
> >
> >Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> >> After all, Carl's the professional engineer -- not me!
> >
> >So when are you going to get off your lazy ass and get an > >engineering degree, Larry?
>
> Cecil:
>
> Never -- that's not what I aspire to be!
>
> >While Carl has been doing > >professional engineering, you have wasted your time > >doing what?
>
> Serving my country -- sacrificing the best and most productive years > of my adult life to support the effort necessary to defeat the Evil > Empire of the Soviet Union, bring the threat of Soviet Communist > hegemony to an end, and make the world much safer from nuclear > holocaust. All of my fellow Cold War Era veterans did the same thing, > and I don't consider that to have been a waste of our time.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

YEAH, he did all that so he could have all the stage as the one who acts like a little dictator! Competition is tough, you know. ROFLMAO... ;)

Kim W5TIT

4756. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 01:47:02 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c1ff26d_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27853

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.goit7wb.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On 18 Dec 2001 01:45:59 GMT, N2EY wrote:
>
> >As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating > >our dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution.
> >But the idea that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far > >from proven.
>
> You and I can become billionaires if we can develop an engine that > runs on urine.....
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
>

Especially if it could be done by stinking up the air less than our current public transportation buses. :o

Kim W5TIT

4757. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:08:10 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <eEST7.171558$WW.10773399@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27854

> Carl R. Stevenson wrote

> > Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased > > them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy."

Jim Kelley wrote

> Is that a boolean "NOT"? ;-)

Exclusive OR... ;-)

> Aren't "homebrew licenses" illegal?

We all have 'homebrew licenses' but not 'homebrew' licenses... ;-)

Rich

4758. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:11:29 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1FF750.4C6A5B90@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27855

krill wrote:

>
>
> Anyway, Carl's name is on all the patents, all done with the help of > teams of employees and co-workers, which means he was the boss. No great > shake except that everyone else who probably did the actual work is > delegated to historical obscurity OH well, the pointy haired boss gets > all the credit while the Dilberts get squat.
>
>

Like some of the patents I have, a few are by himself, and some are with a bunch of people. And most bosses know better than to try to elbow into his guys' patents or else it eventually will bite him in the ass. (All that has to happen is several complaints to the boss's boss and the boss is in trouble). I did let my boss into one I have, but he did contribute a small amount to it, but I took top billing.

>
>
> REAL RIGS GLOW IN THE DARK

Yes, vintage rigs are fun, but modern state of the art ones perform better assuming it's not an el-cheapo.

4759. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:13:31 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <ubBo3JDiBHA.1456@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27856

W5TIT said:

> YEAH, he did all that so he could have all the stage as > the one who acts like a little dictator! Competition is > tough, you know. ROFLMAO... ;)

I'm not sure what that is intended to mean, but it doesn't sound complimentary to Larry's faithful service to his country.

Perhaps you can think of something more important that he, I, Steve, and several other veterans here should have been doing in our youth, rather than serving in the armed forces?

Or perhaps you want to apologize.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4760. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:21:42 UTC
From: "Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net>
Message-ID: <E485FC731ABDD778.25A9C3AF0A37B12D.B7E3D4E2629277E4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27857
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 00:22:35 +0000 (UTC), Bill Nelson
<billn@spock.peak.org> wrote:

>This is immaterial. There are laws against such things at an >airport. Anyone stupid enough to try to run a grenade, fake or >not, through the x-ray machine is asking for trouble.

Except that she didn't try to run it through; it was a training device owned by the airport for testing the security screeners. How it got into her bag hasn't been determined yet.

Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH
kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net

4761. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:28:48 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C1FFB60.9472A794@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27858

N2EY wrote:

>
> FCC disagrees. This is the same FCC, by the way, that thinks code tests "serve > no regulatory purpose" other than treaty compliance. It's also the very same > FCC that reduced the number of WRITTEN tests, and their size. For example, it > used to take two separate written tests totalling 90 questions to upgrade from > General to Extra. Now it takes only one test of 50 questions. The Tech written > has been similarly reduced. FCC obviously doesn't think more, or even the same > number, of written tests or questions serves any regulatory purpose.

I don't think that it's meaningful to compare numbers of questions. Which is easier to pass, a test of 90 easy questions, or a test of 50 hard questions (assume you have all the time you want)? If the VECs just say deleted the easy questions and thus gave you the toughest 50 of the old 90 questions, would you score as high (ignoring that it is a pass-fail environment)?

You know that there are CW only subbands that no code techs can use?
50 to 50.1, and 144 to 144.1 MHz.

4762. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:44:38 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218214438.24724.00000393@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27860

In article <3c1cf140_2@news7.fast.net>, "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
writes:

(Bert Craig wrote): >> Point taken, but I'd hardly consider 5-wpm as having "Morse proficiency"
>forced
>> down anybody's throat.
>
>Any time you require someone to jump through a hoop, just for >the sake of jumping through it, that's forcing something down
>someone's throad IMNSHO.

Let's hold onto that thought for a moment....
>
>> >The point is that many folks simply don't have any interest in >> >Morse, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects >> >of ham radio, technically qualified, and able to contribute a >> >great deal

True. It's also true that, many folks simply don't have any interest in technical subjects, though they might be VERY interested in other aspects of ham radio, and may be highly qualified and able to contribute a great deal.

>> > ... Morse proficiency has NOTHING to do with one's >> >ability to be a valuable member of our "fraternity."

Completely untrue. All else being equal, a Morse-proficient ham is more knowledgeable, more skilled and more qualified than a ham who is not Morse-proficient. (note the phrase "all else being equal").

Morse proficiency, by itself, does not GUARANTEE that an individual will be a valuable member of the amateur radio community.

>I don't see folks getting a sense of accomplishment in being forced >to learn Morse when they have no interest in it, or intention to use it.

I do see it. It happened to me, and I've seen it happen to others.

When I first became interested in ham radio, all I wanted to do was get on 75 meter AM and join the conversations I heard there as an SWL. I learned the code to get the license, and used it as a Novice to get up to 13 wpm for the General. It was just a means to an end.

But a funny thing happened along the way. After actually USING the mode a while, I began to understand how useful it was. By the time I hit 13 wpm I had all but forgotten about 'phone because Morse was so much fun.

I never did get a General - I went right to Advanced, then on to Extra when the 2 year wait was over. I finally got on 75 meter AM about 30 years as a ham.

Many others have stories similar to mine. Does this mean ALL hams, or even all HF-licensed hams, MUST learn the code? Of course not! But it disproves the claim made above.

>> >In fact, I'd have no problem with an "open book" exam using some >> >reasonable reference, such as "The Radio Amateur's Handbook."
>> >I'm far more interested in folks demonstrating that they can solve
>> >problems as they come up, rather than insisting that everyone >> >carry every possible formula in their heads.
>>
>> Perhaps, but that "feels" like "giving it away." I thought priviliges were >> "earned."
>
>What I'm suggesting is that demonstrating the ability to solve the >applicable problems could be seen as sufficient to demonstrate >the requisite level of qualification to earn the privileges.

In other words, it's OK by you to force prospective hams to jump through the hoops YOU like, and shove technical proficiency beyond that necessary to obey the rules down their throats even if they have no interest in the subject.

Remember:

"Any time you require someone to jump through a hoop, just for the sake of jumping through it, that's forcing something down someone's throad IMNSHO."

>I am NOT >suggesting that the privileges should be "given away."

Let's say the code tests disappear completely in 2003. Suppose FCC simply waives Element 1 as soon as the ITU drops S25.5, saying that ratification of the treaty by the US is expected. What should the US license structure look like then?

>Also, consider
>my previous comments that the license should be viewed as a permit >to do things, not as some sort of "graduation certificate," and that >the value is in what it allows you to do, not what you had to do to get
>it.

It is a fact of human nature that a thing's "value" is dependent on many factors. What can be done with a thing is only one factor. What it took to get the thing is another. How difficult it would be to replace it is yet another.

>> >Removing UNNECESSARY, IRRELEVANT barriers to entry
>>
>> I hear CW all over the place. I'd hardly classify a founding aspect of AR >> that's still in wide use as irrelevant.
>
>I'm not saying that the MODE is irrelevant ...

Yes, you are. You're saying that there should be no real test of a mode which is widely used in amateur radio, and which can only be effectively tested by a skills test.

>certainly it is used, but it >is just one of many modes, which licensees are free to choose to use
>or not ... what is irrelevant is requiring a demonstration of proficiency >in manual Morse in order to obtain a license in the 1st place.

The same can be said for "technical proficiency" beyond that necessary to obey the rules. Here's proof: The Technician license requires passing a single 35 question multiple choice written test. Techs are allowed to use all authorized amateur frequencies and modes above 30 MHz, AND to design/build/repair/modify equipment to do so.

Yet if a Tech wants full HF/MF privileges, he/she must pass two more written tests totalling more than twice as many questions as the original 35. Why? Obviously there should be some testing of knowledge of HF/MF propagation and regulations, but that's about it.

If the FCC accepts passing a 35 question test as being adequate proof of "technical proficiency" to design/build/repair/modify and OPERATE a 1.5 kW output transmitter on any authorized mode or frequency ABOVE 30 MHz, why is a demonstration of more "technical proficiency" required to do exactly the same things BELOW 30 MHz? Sounds like irrelevant hoop time.

Applying your logic to the written test, one cannot escape the following conclusion:

Certainly "technical proficiency" is useful, but it is just one of many parts of amateur radio, which licensees are free to choose to use or not ... what is irrelevant is requiring a demonstration of "technical proficiency" beyond that necessary to comply with the regulations in order to obtain a license in the 1st place.

--

For the record, I support better written tests. I think both code and written tests have a place in amateur radio licensing. I commented in detail to the FCC on the subject in connection with 98-143.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4763. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 02:44:39 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218214439.24724.00000394@mb-mr.aol.com>
Source record: 27859

In article <3c1ed9c0.26416309@news.mindspring.com>, billsohl@mindspring.com (Bill Sohl) writes:

>On 17 Dec 2001 02:48:18 GMT, radiohead11m@aol.com (Mark Pearsal)
>wrote:
>
>>>Mark,
>>>You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave >>>in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General >>>and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
>>
>>There's a bit more to be read "between" the lines.
>
>Too bad the FCC didn't spell it out then. As it is, there simply >isn't anything there between the lines.

That's because the FCC didn't put it there.

Fact is the FCC has been pushing for reduction/elimination of code testing for a long time. Know when the first serious nocodetest ham license was proposed? 1975. And it was an FCC idea. So many hams were against it that the FCC dropped the idea, only to revive it about 1983 - and again the reaction in the amateur community was negative. In 1990 it became clear that the FCC wasn't going to take "no" for an answer, and we got the dropping of the code test for a Tech license in early 1991.
>
>>>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting >>>the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the >>>ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory >>>reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that >>>way in most of the world, too.
>>
>>Gee, I hope not.

That's basically the way it is. Many of the countries with sizable amateur radio populations are going to 5 wpm for all privileges, or have already gone that way. The UK is going even farther, with its "Foundation" license. This trend has been going on for a long time - it's not something new.
>
>On what basis would the FCC have to retain even the 5wpm code
>test if/when the ITU requirement goes away?

The fact that a majority of those who bother to comment think it's a good idea. But the FCC has already made its position clear.

> If you can't
>articulate a clear and compelling reason to retain code
>now except for the treaty requirement, then on what basis
>would you argue for its retention?

Clear and compelling reasons for code test retention were presented to the FCC in the comments associated with 98-143 (the recent restructuring). FCC decided to ignore them. FCC isn't infallible or divinely inspired to do what's best for ham radio. In the same restructuring, the number and size of the WRITTEN tests was also reduced, despite widepread comments to the contrary.

--

The important policy questions now are this: What should amateur radio licensing be like if/when the code test disappears entirely? How should existing licensees be "grandfathered"? How do we get from "here" to "there"? Are there other changes that should happen at the same time?

Some folks think that just two or even one class of license is all that's needed. Others see no need for any change - just remove Element 1 and leave the rest alone. There are lots of options, but the time to discuss them is now, because if we don't come up with a workable, clear, detailed plan ahead of time, we're going to get some kind of hodgepodge that is just the same old stuff warmed over.

K0HB has suggested just two license classes - an easy-to-get one for newcomers and a full privilege license. I've suggested some very different ideas. W5YI and N0MHS think we need to de-technicalize the entry level exams.

Waddya think, folks?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4764. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 03:03:15 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C200373.1F593EDC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27861

```
Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > > > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > > > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests!
>
> > Obviously, for him HF privileges were not worth the effort of > > achieving and testing at 13 or 20wpm. Extra privileges were never > > worth the effort of achieving and testing at 20wpm for me. HF > > privileges are obviously important to you. HF privileges are > > not important for a lot of hams.
>
> I'm not sure I understand why someone wouldn't want ALL of the > privileges available.

Because they are not worth the effort? Do you have a PhD degree?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4765. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 03:42:09 UTC
From: Mike Yetsko <joe@user.com>
Message-ID: <u203o1lshqoua3@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 27862
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

> Quite simply say it's ham radio gear and you have a federal license to > own and operate it.

VERY bad idea. That comes off confrontational.

Just tell them it's HAM radio gear, you have a license, and you need it at your destination.

No way imply at ALL any operation at ANY time, even 'just' receive, aboard a commercial carrier. You do NOT have any right to do that
AT ALL under the FAR.

Mike

4766. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:20:24 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vp4sf$ar5$1@slb3.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27864

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011218214439.24724.00000394@mb-mr.aol.com...
> In article <3c1ed9c0.26416309@news.mindspring.com>, billsohl@mindspring.com
> (Bill Sohl) writes:
>
> >On 17 Dec 2001 02:48:18 GMT, radiohead11m@aol.com (Mark Pearsal)
> >wrote:
> >
> >>>Mark,
> >>>You're absolutely correct. In fact, the ONLY reason the FCC gave > >>>in its Report and Order for keeping a 5 wpm Morse test for General > >>>and Extra was the requirement in S25.5 of the ITU Radio Regulations.
> >>
> >>There's a bit more to be read "between" the lines.
> >
> >Too bad the FCC didn't spell it out then. As it is, there simply > >isn't anything there between the lines.
>
> That's because the FCC didn't put it there.
>
> Fact is the FCC has been pushing for reduction/elimination of code testing
for > a long time. Know when the first serious nocodetest ham license was proposed?
> 1975. And it was an FCC idea. So many hams were against it that the FCC dropped > the idea, only to revive it about 1983 - and again the reaction in the amateur > community was negative. In 1990 it became clear that the FCC wasn't going
to > take "no" for an answer, and we got the dropping of the code test for a Tech
> license in early 1991.

And it was pretty clear the same applied to all code testing EXCEPT for 5 wpm in the R&O issued for restructuring by the FCC.

> >>>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting > >>>the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the > >>>ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory > >>>reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that > >>>way in most of the world, too.
> >>
> >>Gee, I hope not.

>
> That's basically the way it is. Many of the countries with sizable amateur > radio populations are going to 5 wpm for all privileges, or have already gone
> that way. The UK is going even farther, with its "Foundation" license.
This > trend has been going on for a long time - it's not something new.
> >
> >On what basis would the FCC have to retain even the 5wpm code
> >test if/when the ITU requirement goes away?
>
> The fact that a majority of those who bother to comment think it's a good
idea.
> But the FCC has already made its position clear.

Nope...the retention of regulations/requirements is not at all aa function of any majority. The FCC will, in the end, do what it (the FCC) deems to be appropriate having considered whatever the comments are.

> > If you can't
> >articulate a clear and compelling reason to retain code
> >now except for the treaty requirement, then on what basis > >would you argue for its retention?
>
> Clear and compelling reasons for code test retention were presented to the FCC
> in the comments associated with 98-143 (the recent restructuring). FCC decided > to ignore them.

The FCC didn't ignore them...the FCC in issuing its ruling clearly found them to be anything but clear or compelling.

> FCC isn't infallible or divinely inspired to do what's best for > ham radio. In the same restructuring, the number and size of the WRITTEN tests
> was also reduced, despite widepread comments to the contrary.

Your point?

> --
> The important policy questions now are this: What should amateur radio > licensing be like if/when the code test disappears entirely? How should > existing licensees be "grandfathered"? How do we get from "here" to
"there"?
> Are there other changes that should happen at the same time?

IF the FCC ended all code testing, what would need to be grandfathered at all?

> Some folks think that just two or even one class of license is all that's > needed. Others see no need for any change - just remove Element 1 and leave the > rest alone.

I expect the latter to be the path the FCC will follow. The restructuring in 2000 created no problems in simply doing that (i.e. just remove Element 1)

> There are lots of options, but the time to discuss them is now, > because if we don't come up with a workable, clear, detailed plan ahead of > time, we're going to get some kind of hodgepodge that is just the same old > stuff warmed over.

Just eliminate Element 1. Pretty simple and already in place.

> K0HB has suggested just two license classes - an easy-to-get one for newcomers > and a full privilege license. I've suggested some very different ideas. W5YI > and N0MHS think we need to de-technicalize the entry level exams.

You have my decision above.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4767. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:22:00 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gokc9dh.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27863
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:18:23 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:

>Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.

But in all honesty, one of the country's experts in combating cellular phone fraud is Dan Delaney, a detective lieutenant in the NY State Police in Long Island. We've done several seminars together in years past.

>A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a way as >to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving the >car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car. Even >if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.

That's a prima facie case of ignorance.

>Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to the >point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to >demonstrate diminished capacity.

Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
(Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?

If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some illegal purpose, as California's law states.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4768. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:26:40 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vp506$76q$1@slb7.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27865
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C1F9068.A8B070A9@gte.net...
> > >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> > >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> > >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
> >
> > >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney > > >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
> >
> > Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws
> > that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement > > easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> > the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> > except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > > the cops sure aren't going to.
> >
> >
> > >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > > >officers. They are very professional.
> >
> > If they are professional, then they won't take
> > knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> > 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> > for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > > knowledge.
> >
> > >But if they do not know > > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
> > >it.
> >
> > You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> > isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in > > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.
> >
>

> Look at the lady arrested for having the fake
> grenade:

I can easily see where a fake grenade can get anyone in trouble.
That is a far cry from a radio that is not at all illegal in any shape or form.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4769. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:33:26 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vp5crpr1@slb0.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27867
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"W6DKN" <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote in message news:c4ST7.1908$Hz.665078@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net...
>
> "Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
> news:9vomka$3r7$2@quark.scn.rain.com...
> > <<< SNIP >>>
> > And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
> > where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out > > of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification > > for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.
>
> But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the > equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to > be transmitting at the time.

BUT use of a CB is legal for anyone. The issue becomes one in which there is NO proof that the radio is capable of illegal power or pirate frequencies. Indeed, the concept of pirate frequencies is, in itself, contrary to the CB enforcement by a municipality such as Tacoma. Likewise, having any ham rig is NOT implication by FCC rules that illegal use was made of that ham rig.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4770. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:33:41 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011218233341.26008.00001365@mb-md.aol.com>
Source record: 27866

> W5YI
>and N0MHS think we need to de-technicalize the entry level exams.
>

This will happen, the Code Bs was just the first shot to more Dumbing Down.
I figure in 3 to 5 Years there will not even be a Test.
Lets face it Ham Radio as we know it is dead, they might as well change the Name to CB instead of Ham Radio, because thats where its headed, if its not there already.

4771. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:36:38 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vp5ir$o8c$1@slb6.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27868
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"Joe Bramblett, KD5NRH" <kd5nrh@kd5nrh.net> wrote in message news:E485FC731ABDD778.25A9C3AF0A37B12D.B7E3D4E2629277E4@lp.airnews.net...
> On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 00:22:35 +0000 (UTC), Bill Nelson
> <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote:
>
> >This is immaterial. There are laws against such things at an > >airport. Anyone stupid enough to try to run a grenade, fake or > >not, through the x-ray machine is asking for trouble.
>
> Except that she didn't try to run it through; it was a training device > owned by the airport for testing the security screeners. How it got > into her bag hasn't been determined yet.

BUT, the possession of such a device is probable cause in almost anyone's mind to stop and possibly arrest. Not so for a legal radio. Even the claimed "illegal" CB radios can be used by hams on ham frequencies as long as the signal meets FCC requirements... and...again, mere possession does NOT constitute proof of illegal use.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4772. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:43:38 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vp5vvfgj1@slb0.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27869
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

"Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam> wrote in message
news:cuvyxnansvbet.gokc9dh.pminews@or.news.verio.net...
> On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:18:23 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:
>
> >Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.
>
> But in all honesty, one of the country's experts in combating > cellular phone fraud is Dan Delaney, a detective lieutenant in the > NY State Police in Long Island. We've done several seminars > together in years past.
>
> >A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a way
as > >to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving the > >car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car.
Even
> >if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.
>
> That's a prima facie case of ignorance.
>
> >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to the > >point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
>
> Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
> (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
>
> If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

The revised scanner law in NJ does exactly that too. The radio reception violation ONLY applies if the reception is being done as part of a criminal act. The law also specifically exempts radar detectors as being considered illegal reception. It is a good law that does only what it is intended to do. The old law was used by some police to detain people or to charge them when nothing else could stick. The old law forbade any radio in a vehicle capable of recieveing police or government frequencies.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4773. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:46:21 UTC
From: Eddie Haskell <Wiseguy@Cleaver.com>
Message-ID: <xYUT7.47370$fo5.8974640@typhoon.we.rr.com>
Source record: 27870
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Just stick the damn thing in your luggage and enjoy the trip!.....Jeez.....

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message
news:3C1E6CD2.143EA2EE@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
> chris wrote:
>
> > You only need permission if you are going to transmit during the flight.
> >
>
> Be aware that receivers' local oscillators have been alleged to > interfere with airplane radios and equipment......
>

4774. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:47:43 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.goki6fk.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27871
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 01:29:44 GMT, W6DKN wrote:

>But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the >equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to >be transmitting at the time.

Almost but not quite.

Use is implied for equipment hooked up or capable of being hooked up if there is extrinsic evidence that the device was used - either "before and after" off-the-air signal level measurments showing that mysteriously the level went down after the FCC agent knocked on the door (another agent monitoring with a spectrum analyzer) or complaints of interference that mysteriously goes away when the station is operated at 4 watts.

FCC agents aren't fools.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4775. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 04:58:41 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vp6q0$257$1@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27872
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

In rec.radio.cb W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote:

>> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
>> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out >> of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification >> for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.

> But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the > equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to > be transmitting at the time.

Wrong. Read the regulations.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4776. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 05:03:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219000358.10110.00000848@mb-mb.aol.com>
Source record: 27873

In article <3C1FFB60.9472A794@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>N2EY wrote:
>
>>
>> FCC disagrees. This is the same FCC, by the way, that thinks code tests >"serve >> no regulatory purpose" other than treaty compliance. It's also the very >same >> FCC that reduced the number of WRITTEN tests, and their size. For example,
>it >> used to take two separate written tests totalling 90 questions to upgrade
>from >> General to Extra. Now it takes only one test of 50 questions. The Tech >written >> has been similarly reduced. FCC obviously doesn't think more, or even the >same >> number, of written tests or questions serves any regulatory purpose.
>
>I don't think that it's meaningful to compare numbers of questions.

I think it IS meaningful. And how about the number of tests?

> Which >is easier to pass, a test of 90 easy questions, or a test of 50 hard >questions
>(assume you have all the time you want)?

90 "easy" questions, of course.

But the old step from General to Extra was two separate tests (50 for Advanced, 40 for Extra). Now it's just one 50 question test.

> If the VECs just say deleted the >easy questions and thus gave you the toughest 50 of the old 90 questions, >would you score as high (ignoring that it is a pass-fail environment)?

Probably not - but that's NOT what was done. And it IS a pass-fail environment.
The person who passes with the absolute minimum number of right answers gets the exact same license as the person who gets 100% correct.

Given the same pool of questions, which is a better test of knowledge: a single 50 question test, or a 50 question test and a 40 question test, both of which must be passed?
>
>You know that there are CW only subbands that no code techs can use?

Oh yes. Known that since long before Techs could use them. I even know why they exist.

>50 to 50.1, and 144 to 144.1 MHz.

Yup. Didja know that the 2 meter one useta be 147.9-148?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4777. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 06:13:11 UTC
From: kelly@dvol.com
Message-ID: <d22b54c3.0112182213.68483e09@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27874

"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message news:<3c1d4392_2@news7.fast.net>...
> "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message
> news:#merBiohBHA.436@cpimsnntpa02...
> > WA6VSE says:
> >
> > > Hans, Fred's views (however accurately or not you've paraphrased > > > them) are his personal views and NOT "NCI Policy."
> >
> > I'm sure that's true, and I didn't insinuate otherwise.
> >
> > With all kind wishes,
> >
> > de Hans, K0HB
>
> FB, Hans ... I didn't mean to infer that you had bad intentions, but > felt compelled to clarify for other readers.
>
> Happy holidays,
>
>
. . . a newfound huggy-kissy Squiggy is upon us: I think I'm gonna throw up.

> --
> Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
>
>
w3rv

4778. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 10:16:58 UTC
From: tnom@mucks.net
Message-ID: <dtp02usm226nvclkhnrn3djes6ugftt79a@4ax.com>
Source record: 27875
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 01:29:44 GMT, "W6DKN" <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote:

>
>"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
>news:9vomka$3r7$2@quark.scn.rain.com...
>> <<< SNIP >>>
>> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
>> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out >> of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification >> for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.
>
>But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the >equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to >be transmitting at the time.
>
>73 de W6DKN
>
Not completely true. When an amplifier is "hooked up and fully functional" your statement may be true, but a "hooked up and fully functional" A.R.S. radio is not evidence of illegal operation.

4779. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 12:11:35 UTC
From: krill <radioisnot4everyone@nowhere.org>
Message-ID: <MPG.168a4eef5c1485c5989717@news.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27876

In article <3c1fef5d_1@news7.fast.net>, wa6vse@fast.net says...
>
>
> So FSK is not useful in amateur radio? Ever heard of RTTY? Packet?

So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios are made using YOUR PATENTS?? You must be a wealthy man or at least your company is/was/maybe

>
> Never heard of a DDS being used in ham radio? Seems I just tore an > article out of a recent QST on a DDS-based VFO ...

So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios are made using YOUR PATENTS?? You must be a wealthy man or at least your company is/was/maybe

>
> Improved FEC (that's Forward Error Correction) techniques? Seen
> articles on that in ham publications, too ...

So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios are made using YOUR PATENTS?? You must be a wealthy man or at least your company is/was/maybe

>
> Improved image reject techniques for SSB? Since the future is in > software-defined radios, DSP, etc., it seems to me that your assertion > that these inventions have no applicability to ham radio is absurd.

So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios are made using YOUR PATENTS?? You must be a wealthy man or at least your company is/was/maybe
No my assertion is that YOUR patents have not been used in any amateur radio, only very cheap, mass produced cordless phones

Your insinuation that YOUR patents are part of the current "crop" of amateur radio is doubtful ul at best, an outright fabrication at the least.

>
> [snip garbage about phones ... my employer doesn't make > phones, we make integrated circuits and wireless LAN devices]

Actually Carl, I know your employer and they DO design cordless phones and them farm out the manufacture to the Asian rim countries because they labor is cheap. BTW, ever stop by the bar in the bowling alley across the street and east of you for lunch? They have great roast beef platters.

>
> > Anyway, Carl's name is on all the patents, all done with the help of
>
> > teams of employees and co-workers, which means he was the boss. No > great
> > shake except that everyone else who probably did the actual work is > > delegated to historical obscurity OH well, the pointy haired boss > gets
> > all the credit while the Dilberts get squat.
>
> I was either the sole inventor or a principle co-inventor on all of
> the > patents Bob listed ... I am a "DIlbert" (but my tie hangs right on > those > rare occasions when I wear one :-)

If you say.

>
> > Be interesting to see which patents that actually are related to > amateur > > radio, as in actual use in all those store bought rigs I see in the > > catalogs.
>
> Most of the patents Robert listed above (plus some he seems to > have inadvertently missed) would be directly applicable to improving > the performance of those rigs you see in the catalogs ...

Not would be Carl..which of them ARE?? You made the claim now chose to put the transmission into reverse? Which of your patents ARE directly involved in amateur radio?

>
> > REAL RIGS GLOW IN THE DARK
>
> That one line in caps says volumes about where you're coming > from (and where you're stuck ...)

Really?? Why is that Carl? Have we met? I think not for I'd remember that Mike Tyson high pitched voice for sure.

My hobby is rebuilding, from the ground up, very old RCA radios from the 20's through the 40's. I can repair the entire radio including the wood cabinetry. I remake any parts that need it, except for the tubes and the old batteries, those I find at hamfests and flea markets.

I own some real nice late model amateur gear (you know, the type of stuff that your patents WOULD be applicable for) A couple 706's, one for the car, one for 6 meter in the home. A new Yaesu HF rig for DX and contesting..oh I'm sorry, according to some your google posts, you consider people like me the bane of HF. Seems that you insist that people like me are going to cause the loss of HF, all the while that people like you are causing the loss of VHF/UHF, etc speaks volumes about you and where you're coming from

4780. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 12:46:39 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vq6odhoe2@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27878
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

```
"He Said What?" <Har Har Hardy Har@Anon.com> wrote in message
news:9vnv07$s7f$0@dosa.alt.net...
>
> "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vnho3$cgm$1@dosa.alt.net...
> >
> > "Dicksucker" <Donnie@mailtoanonymous.net> wrote in message > > news:9vmi68$g05$0@dosa.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
> > news:9vipv2$hmi$1@dosa.alt.net...
> > > > Anonymous COWARD
> > > > "Faggot Lee" <SLee@houston-hunks.com> wrote in message > > > > news:098341038FE.16JKS38762@houston-hunks.com...
> > > > >
> > > > > The Salvation Army
> > > >
> > > > SLee's familiar with the Salvation Army, since he spent several years
> > > there > > > > at the Shelter in Dallas. This was after he was convicted on Domestic
> > > > battery charges and had a restraining order in place to keep him
from > > > > beating up his mother again.
> > > >
> > > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> > > of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > > > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > > > with his blow up doll.
> >
> > Poor anonymous coward! He's afraid to post under his real name or callsign,
> > 'cause he knows all the hams he's said this shit to would beat his lard
ass.
> > Now run along and play with the sheep and little boys you love to fuck.
> >
> Ya don't [IKYABWAI]

No, but I hear you slurp nutsacks behind dumpsters and are too CHICKENSHIT to post under your real name, COWARD.
```

4781. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 12:48:09 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vq6ofhoe3@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27879
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:3C1FA9AD.9B3DD642@uci.edu...
>
>
> Donnie wrote:
> > Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> > of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > > with his blow up doll.
>
> What are you, nine?

You're being to optimistic, Jim. This anonymous coward has spent his formative years being shuffled from foster home to foster home and just can't get out of those "special education" classes.

4782. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 13:14:21 UTC
From: ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now
Message-ID: <3c2091f2.2486561@news.aei.net>
Source record: 27877
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 22:42:09 -0500, "Mike Yetsko" <joe@user.com>
wrote:

>No way imply at ALL any operation at ANY time, even 'just' receive, >aboard a commercial carrier. You do NOT have any right to do that
>AT ALL under the FAR.

You must be reading something I never wrote into my message...

Where does it even hint at operating the radio IN a plane? I would assume no ham operator is actually stupid enough to even think about doing that! Geeez.

Pat
ve2vfd

4783. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 14:28:36 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C20A440.5912A12C@gte.net>
Source record: 27880
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

```
>
> > > >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> > > >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> > > >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > > > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
> > >
> > > >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > > > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney > > > >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
> > >
> > > Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws
> > > that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > > > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement > > > easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> > > the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> > > except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > > > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > > > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > > > the cops sure aren't going to.
> > >
> > >
> > > >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > > > >officers. They are very professional.
> > >
> > > If they are professional, then they won't take
> > > knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> > > 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> > > for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > > > knowledge.
> > >
> > > >But if they do not know > > > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
> > > >it.
> > >
> > > You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > > > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> > > isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > > > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > > > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > > > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in > > > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.
> > >
> >
```

> > Look at the lady arrested for having the fake > > grenade:
>
> I can easily see where a fake grenade can get anyone in trouble.
> That is a far cry from a radio that is not at all illegal in any shape
> or form.

You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
who feel that the public does not have a right to own
such technology. That includes things like ham radio,
CB, scanners as well as things like guns.

There is the feeling that the public can not be trusted, that too many use technology for crime or to try to overthrow the government. Many would prefer that only those who are paid on a professional basis should be allowed to have access to radios or weapons.

4784. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 14:31:26 UTC
From: Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com>
Message-ID: <d5912uc7klu4a18ag5auanbgrcetd2jqoo@4ax.com>
Source record: 27881
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote <3C20A440.5912A12C@gte.net> in talk.politics.guns. :

>You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
>who feel that the public does not have a right to own
>such technology. That includes things like ham radio, >CB, scanners as well as things like guns.

Cite

4785. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 14:45:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C20A80D.6518D54@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27882

WA8ULX wrote:
> This will happen, the Code Bs was just the first shot to more Dumbing Down.
> I figure in 3 to 5 Years there will not even be a Test.
> Lets face it Ham Radio as we know it is dead, they might as well change the > Name to CB instead of Ham Radio, because thats where its headed, if its not
> there already.

The big difference between the CBS and the ARS is licenses and callsigns. A person cannot do much communicating on the ham bands without a callsign and he stands to be identified, fined, or maybe lose his license if he misbehaves. Illegal operators don't care if they have a license or not. Why don't you see hordes of illegal SSB operators in the middle of the SSB portion of the ham bands?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4786. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 14:55:13 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <9f4bfe89.0112190655.77dec7d3@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27883

Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message news:<3C12F33F.45D84202@earthlink.net>...

> This idea is nearly as bad as baked bean sandwiches,
> grilled tomatoes, bangers, boiled coffee and blackened, cold toast which > the Brits also introduced. Remember: The Brits invented the toilet > seat but it took the French to invent the hole in the center.

But they sure are funny.

http://www.portadownnews.com

73 de Jim, N2EY

4787. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 15:50:12 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C20B762.826744E0@gte.net>
Source record: 27884
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

Phil Kane wrote:

> On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:18:23 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:
>
> >Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.
>
> But in all honesty, one of the country's experts in combating > cellular phone fraud is Dan Delaney, a detective lieutenant in the > NY State Police in Long Island. We've done several seminars > together in years past.
>
> >A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a way as > >to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving the > >car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car. Even > >if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.
>
> That's a prima facie case of ignorance.
>
> >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to the > >point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
>
> Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
> (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
>
> If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
>
> --
> 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

Remember the same thing happens to folks with guns in cars. Even if they are legal.

4788. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 16:34:25 UTC
From: kc2hmn@cs.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219113425.14760.00000702@mb-bj.news.cs.com>
Source record: 27885

>W5YI
>and N0MHS think we need to de-technicalize the entry level exams.

Hi Jim,

Does the current entry-level exam realistically get any less "technical?" I remember it as being mostly rules and band limits.

73 de Bert
KC2HMN

4789. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 16:39:20 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219113920.24451.00000114@mb-fc.aol.com>
Source record: 27886

>Why don't you see hordes of illegal SSB operators >in the middle of the SSB portion of the ham bands?
>--
>cheers, CAM

You already do, check 10Meters and then 2 Meters.
This thing Ham radio is going the same way that Cb went back when they had Call Signs.
You guys dont get it, the No-Code guys have gotten there way, and now the next step is the No Theory Guys, and they will get there way.
You guys fought so hard to get No-Code, but in the process you opened the door and there is no Shutting it now.
Within 3 to 5 Years testing will be history, and the most you will do is fill out an Application.
Lets stop kidding are self, call it what its becoming, its becoming nothing more than a CB Service.

4790. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 17:30:42 UTC
From: "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <694U7.232221$3d2.11089073@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27887

> K0HB has suggested just two license classes - an easy-to-get > one for newcomers and a full privilege license. I've suggested > some very different ideas. W5YI and N0MHS think we need to > de-technicalize the entry level exams.

> Waddya think, folks?

> 73 de Jim, N2EY

On the theory that fiscal_responsibility=high_moral_character, I propose we restructure amateur radio licensing along the lines of credit-worthiness, granting Extra-class licenses only to those with an 'excellent' credit rating issued by one of the major credit-reporting companies. Such individuals would have a great deal at stake in our society, would not want to jeopardize it with irresponsible behavior, and could be trusted with full amateur privileges. Those less responsible would be limited to the higher bands that have less favorable propagation characteristics and thus offer fewer opportunities for abuse.

Hope this helps.

--
Jim Bromley, K7JEB k7jeb@arrl.net
Glendale, Arizona

4791. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 17:43:18 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vqj82$1mc$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27888

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C200373.1F593EDC@IEEE.org...
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > >
> > > Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > > > I respect his professional technical skills, but fail to > > > > understand why he had to go so long without HF privileges, just > > > > because of the measly 13 and 20 WPM code tests!
> >
> > > Obviously, for him HF privileges were not worth the effort of > > > achieving and testing at 13 or 20wpm. Extra privileges were never > > > worth the effort of achieving and testing at 20wpm for me. HF > > > privileges are obviously important to you. HF privileges are > > > not important for a lot of hams.
> >
> > I'm not sure I understand why someone wouldn't want ALL of the > > privileges available.
>
> Because they are not worth the effort?

What effort?

> Do you have a PhD degree?

Is that the same as an amateur radio license?

4792. HEY tnom

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 17:44:20 UTC
From: twithedsmaster@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <e63d86f3.0112190944.2d86fee@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27889
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

You are still a faggot boy...musta been on a trucksop tour...havent seen your queer ass posting here lately.

tnom@mucks.net wrote in message news:<dtp02usm226nvclkhnrn3djes6ugftt79a@4ax.com>...
> On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 01:29:44 GMT, "W6DKN" <w6dkn@qsl.net> wrote:
>
> >
> >"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote in message
> >news:9vomka$3r7$2@quark.scn.rain.com...
> >> <<< SNIP >>>
> >> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
> >> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out > >> of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification > >> for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.
> >
> >But there IS evidence. According to FCC rules, use is implied if the > >equipment is hooked up and fully functional - whether or not you happen to > >be transmitting at the time.
> >
> >73 de W6DKN
> >
> Not completely true. When an amplifier is "hooked up and fully > functional" your statement may be true, but a "hooked up and fully > functional" A.R.S. radio is not evidence of illegal operation.

4793. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 17:57:08 UTC
From: Big Al <Big_Al@anonynose.edu>
Message-ID: <9vqkd4$dv0$0@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27890
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

```
"Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
news:9vqitu$1gt$1@news.service.uci.edu...
> KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message news:9vq6of$hoe$3@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> > news:3C1FA9AD.9B3DD642@uci.edu...
> > >
> > >
> > > Donnie wrote:
> > > > Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> > > > of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > > > > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > > > > with his blow up doll.
> > >
> > > What are you, nine?
> >
> > You're being to optimistic, Jim. This anonymous coward has spent his > > formative years being shuffled from foster home to foster home and just > > can't get out of those "special education" classes.
>
> Your posts are equally disgraceful.
>

Roger's posts are not only disgraceful, they are sickening, the work of a very sick mind! HO HO that's why Roger has a NG in his very own name alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman
HO HO Gimme a call on the big rig when ya get home boy!
HO HO
```

4794. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 18:38:01 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C20DE89.2ABE8739@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27891

WA8ULX wrote:
>
> >Why don't you see hordes of illegal SSB operators > >in the middle of the SSB portion of the ham bands?
>
> You already do, check 10Meters and then 2 Meters.

I have never heard an unidentified operator on the Madison County 2m repeater. I've heard some of the freebanders in the 10m CW portion of the band but I have never heard them in the 10m SSB portion. If there were hordes, I would have heard some.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4795. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 18:43:27 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C20DFCF.870C403@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27892

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > Because they are not worth the effort?
>
> What effort?

The effort of getting out of a warm water bed and driving four hours round trip in a thunderstorm.

> > Do you have a PhD degree?
>
> Is that the same as an amateur radio license?

A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.
Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4796. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 19:10:46 UTC
From: wa8ulx@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219141046.05966.00000073@mb-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 27893

>If there were hordes, I would have heard some.
>--

Check you RX, maybe your Ant also

4797. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 19:51:43 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vqqp1$546$1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27894

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C20DFCF.870C403@IEEE.org...
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > Because they are not worth the effort?
> >
> > What effort?
>
> The effort of getting out of a warm water bed and driving four hours > round trip in a thunderstorm.

Life's a bitch, and then you die. Christmas shopping requires more effort.

> A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.

You think it takes 8 years of research and study to pass a 50 question exam?

> Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite
> for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.

Eliteist. One costs a 100 thousand more to obtain than the other.

4798. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 19:53:07 UTC
From: Frank Ney <n4zhg@icqmail.com>
Message-ID: <4mr12ugsohaasgcfd1f95k3lh9b0dlasnf@4ax.com>
Source record: 27895
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 06:31:26 -0800, an orbiting mind control laser caused Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> to write in talk.politics.guns :

>>You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
>>who feel that the public does not have a right to own
>>such technology. That includes things like ham radio, >>CB, scanners as well as things like guns.
>
>Cite

Well, for once he is right about that. In Los Angeles I had deputies on transit detail give me a hard time about operating 2m on the green line, and that was with me being a carded member of DCS (the RACES earthquake unit that's run by LASD) and with an earphone installed. The same deputies didn't blink at all the cell phones in operation on the same train.

I got the impression that transit detail is only one step up from Bunco and two steps up from Vice.

Frank Ney N4ZHG WV/EMT-B LPWV NRA(L) ProvNRA GOA CCRKBA JPFO
--
"I believe a self-righteous liberal Democrat with a cause is more dangerous than a Hell's Angel with an attitude."
-- Ted Nugent
Just Say No to Gestapo Tactics http://reduce.to/justsayno/
Abuses by the BATF http://www.hamnet.net/~n4zhg/batfabus.html

4799. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:32:05 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B8517C8980A24DAD.5C132683181D7AF4.7CDD2479F2C29DAD@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27896

On Sat, 10 Nov 2001 01:45:53 GMT, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
wrote:

>> Bottom line as I see it is, if you don't like 'em, don't look at 'em.
>
>She's 47, 5'5", 210 lbs. That takes care of number 1.

Why?

Are you prejudiced against large women or women over 40?

>> If you don't like her callsign, don't answer her when you hear her >> calling CQ.

>That takes care of number 2.

Sounds reasonable to me!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4800. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:45:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <420B958A0269BB4F.5E77D600C740311B.FF462350DC33B9C0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27897

On 07 Nov 2001 03:10:15 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I don't have any idea what you're talking about. My call sign doesn't >spell a damn thing. Kim's does.

Actually, since "LT" is taken universally as the abbreviation
for "light" (as in reduced in features or capabilities), just as "TIT" is taken as slang for a breast, your call sign has just as much
"meaning" as does Kim's.

Her's refers to a part of her traditionally viewed as a key component of female beauty, and the ultimate symbol of motherhood (which is CERTAINLY "family oriented."). In the mind of the person who seeks out sexual content in everything (and, of course, finds sexual content obscene instead of natural and beautiful), her sign refers to a secondary sexual characteristic that some men (usually single ones with inadequate sex lives) treat as a fetish object (something on which they focus disproportionate interest--as you do on Kim's breasts).

Your's refers to a lack of important features, often those that separate an "immature" or "functionally limited" object from a fully featured one. In short, a "light weight" model or one short on capability.

Let's recap: Kim either epitomizes the true meaning of motherhood or is objectified by sex-starved puritanical single men and you are a light weight who lacks adequate capabilities.

Yup! NOW I understand why you are so fixated on Kim's tits--lack of adequate capabilities and normal functions DOES usually lead to fetishism, after all.

> Whatever stupid phoenitics you make
>of it doesn't give my call sign any meaning other than a legal station >identification. Get Mr. Hollingsworth to agree with you, and I'll certainly >take his comments under advisement, as I've already told Kim.

Kim took them under advisement, too, Larry. She simply rejected their premise after having evaluated them. That's what taking something under advisement means--not blindly following the opinion of others.

Unlike yourself, she doesn't view Riley as being morally or intellectually superior to her. Sorry that your "light weight" status has obligated you to view him in that manner personally.

Rick (Kindly Eat Eight Hairy Hamburgers)

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4801. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:48:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EC6AE56176C35C29.DEE6722370582690.849DC8965EF65E70@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27898

On 08 Nov 2001 15:32:43 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I think Kim's callsign is vulgar, demeaning to women, and >inappropriate considering the family-oriented nature of the ARS.
>I don't recall ever calling it "obscene."

And many of us don't recall ever seeing the ARS legally defined as "family-oriented." That's the FRS (Family Radio Service), Larry, you're getting confused as usual.

Now go get yourself an FRS handheld and talk to people you can relate to--the neighborhood kids (if they can stand you in their 'hood, of course).

Rick (King Edward Ate Horatio Hornblower)

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4802. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:51:05 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3F7F89779D2A0F35.D28D63EB28211DB6.EAA03272D9273766@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27899

On 11 Nov 2001 02:18:28 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I tried that, but the pages got too soggy. My new callbook CD seems >to tolerate being washed with lukewarm water a tiny amount of >dish detergent, but for some odd reason, it doesn't change Kim's dirty >call sign! Why is that?

Because soap can't clean your mind, Larry, and that's where the "dirt" is, not in her sign.

Rick (Kindly Eustice Ate Horrible Humans)

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4803. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:54:08 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <E5812239B6D4F3EF.84B9582FCA41FEA9.846BA16DDBE8637F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27900

On Sun, 11 Nov 2001 22:20:15 GMT, JJ <radiobuff@mailcity.net> wrote:

>It is a matter of class and taste, some people never acquire >either.

Confession time, Larry?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4804. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 20:57:38 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <07FCEDD2A7002958.53A48EBF5EC318A6.4A0979901B50C1D6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27801

On 06 Nov 2001 12:13:24 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>Riley cannot change the FCC's policy directly. His statements in his email were >his personal opinion as a ham.

And THAT is precisely the point!

It IS his "personal opinion," not a view that either carries any more weight than that of any other ham, or one that has any more probability of being correct than that of Cecil, Dwight, or myself (ANYONE has more probability of being correct than Rolly-Polly Larry).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4805. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:03:09 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.golrb3r.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27803
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 13:14:21 GMT, VE2VFD Pat wrote:

>Where does it even hint at operating the radio IN a plane? I would >assume no ham operator is actually stupid enough to even think about >doing that! Geeez.

You'd be surprised at the number of hams in these groups who brag that they have done so "and nothing happened".

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4806. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:03:10 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.golr05q.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27802

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 12:38:01 -0600, CAM wrote:

>I have never heard an unidentified operator on the Madison County >2m repeater.

I've heard plenty of them in California and Oregon -- most are licensed, though, and believe that voice and first-name recognition is a sufficient equivalent.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4807. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:20:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <6C47C2D7430A04AA.E3DA7DAA1C33A160.1D56B0B180689DE4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27804

On 15 Nov 2001 04:19:48 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Your callsign doesn't merely "seem" to be objectionable -- it is patently >objectionable!

No, Larry. It is "patently objectionable" to YOU--not to everyone.

Don't confuse your own fixations with fact.

>I'm sure that kind of thing happens, but since I know how to use CW and a >handful of digital modes, I generally don't run into that type of on-the-air >behavior.

How do you treat newbies to CW, Larry? Do you drop down to their speed so they can gain on-the-air experience at 5WPM or so--or do you (as Dick has stated that he does in the past) simply ignore them until they can send at a decent speed and communicate efficiently? As a cw fanatic, do you voluntarily participate in voice conversations in the tech & general bands and try to encourage new hams both to explore cw and to enjoy ham radio--or do you live in your lofty (and out-of-date) cw world where only those you feel "worthy" (translation: capable of high speed cw) are acceptable to communicate with?

Do you refrain from racist, sexist, or otherwise prejudiced statements here in an amateur radio oriented news group so that non-hams (or new hams) won't form bad impressions of the ARS--or do you limit your morality to those areas you PERSONALLY are "offended"
by?

In short, before you complain about someone else's behavior,
Larry, clean up your OWN act!

>I think that before you do that, you'd better take a close look at who >decided to choose a sexually provocative callsign which is demeaning to >hams in general, and female hams in particular!

It's only demeaning to women in the minds of men who view them as sex objects, Larry. To me, and to most people who have posted in this thread, neither Kim's call sign nor the idea of women's breasts are at all offensive. Perhaps "K0CK" would be more pleasing to your tastes.

>Again, you are not the one to be making such statements. In case you haven't >noticed, you are the Captain of a burning, sinking ship.

Gee--that sounds like a pretty good description of you and Dick Carroll when it comes to code testing to me.

> If I were you, I'd >be looking for a life raft! I'm sure you can find one at the ULS web site!

Yeah, by now she probably needs one--thanks to your posts it
IS getting pretty deep in here.

Rick (Kuwaiti Emirs Ate Hasidic Heroines)

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4808. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:23:15 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <789EDEACB4F1FD66.4A0EF3DDCC800E3A.84FA97A5FF1B77CE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27805

On Thu, 15 Nov 2001 05:57:20 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
wrote:

>Are you this predictable in bed?

Sure he is, Kim.

He memorized a sex manual.

In.

Out.

Repeat if necessary.

>Also, I assure you that I am not as attached to my callsign as you are, >Larry. Not at all. I'll concentrate on seeing how long I can keep this >thread alive. Bet it goes to about...let's see, March? That's about how >long you last every year.

That can't be right, Kim.

March is WELL over 15 seconds from now!

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4809. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:27:06 UTC
From: Lenny Stover <mppd5107@the-police.com>
Message-ID: <OC7U7.8240$Xs4.1280375@feed.centurytel.net>
Source record: 27806
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

> > >The courts have ruled that the police, with proper > > >probable cause, can search a vehicle to include the > > >trunk.

Close, very close. All it takes is a "reasonable suspicion" to search a vehicle. "Probable cause" is the standard used to make an arrest.

> > > You gave them that power when you obtained > > > a drivers license.

Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion.

> > > Now anything in a locked case most > > >have a search warrant if you do not give your permission.
> > >If you refuse, they can tow the car until they have a > > >warrant.

Bzzzzt.......wrong. If it is withinn the driver's reach, I can ask him to open the locked case without a warrant. If he refuses, then we go for a warrant, where I must be able to articulate my reasonable suspicion.

> > >Go over to Alt.Law-Enforcement. Traffic stops and searches > > >are a popular topic there. You would be surprised how often > > >someone is stopped, who has no drugs yet has to go through > > >such treatment. All it takes a police dog walking around your > > >car and signaling that there are drugs there. A lot of good, decent > > >folks have been subject to such treatment.

However, we must be able to demonstrate the reliablilty of the dog. If the dog continues to hit on vehicles that do not contain controlled substances, then the dog is useless when we get in court and a search is challenged.

> > >Just because you are good guy, in your mind, does not mean > > >that someday a very professional cop will put you through this.
> > >There are too many folks, even older folks, who look just like > > >you, who are now in the drug traffic.

Absolutely correct.

> > How someone looks is NOT suffiecient probable cause.
> > In the end, any search must be justified as to what > > the probable cause was.

Not "probable cause"......"reasonable suspicion."

4810. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:29:28 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <EA52057F3A9A84CF.E50686FD4781F6B3.1BF9E2F15743B0DE@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27808

On Thu, 13 Dec 2001 18:07:08 -0500, Dwight Stewart
<stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote:

> All those books describe wiccan spells and magic, Kim. And, given a >few minutes more, I could probably double that list. So, obviously, >wiccans do claim they can do spells and magic.

The Bible.

The Koran.

The Torah.

All of THOSE books talk about "performing miracles through prayer" which is exactly the same thing as magic (magick is an internal process akin to meditation, not spells and magic).

I guess those in the Judeo-Christian tradition make the same claims, too.

At least Wiccan's don't practice bigotry and hate--THOSE are reserved for their detractors.

BTW, the definitive work on the origins and beliefs of paganism is Frazier's "Golden Bough," not the "pop" books you cite.
Would you accept works by Falwell, Robertson, Oral Roberts, or Tammy Baker as representing the "legitimate" views of Christianity--or "A Course in Miracles" and "Success Through Prayer" as representing its practices?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4811. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:30:00 UTC
From: Lenny Stover <mppd5107@the-police.com>
Message-ID: <JE7U7.8241$Xs4.1280389@feed.centurytel.net>
Source record: 27807
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"Bill Nelson" <billn@spock.peak.org> wrote

> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out > of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification > for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.

No cop is his right mind is going to attempt to make an arrest or even become concerned because your CB "slides" above 40 or below 1.

4812. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 21:34:44 UTC
From: Lenny Stover <mppd5107@the-police.com>
Message-ID: <8J7U7.8242$Xs4.1280670@feed.centurytel.net>
Source record: 27809
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote

> > >Look at Chicago. Anybody can file a complaint.
> > >Even file anonymously. Every cop in Chicago has > > >a file full of complaints. It is looked at as being part > > >of the job.

Like my Lieutenant used to say, "If you aint catching no beefs, you aint doin your job."

> > >In many cities the complaint process is so flawed that > > >it is meaningless. There are so many false complaints > > >that the cops just ignore the system, look at it as a part > > >of doing business.

Yep.

4813. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 22:24:14 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <7C675AACFD8F3A2B.108F330199F6C161.5F67135A2F8866E6@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27810

On Fri, 14 Dec 2001 15:23:55 GMT, "Jim Bromley, K7JEB" <j.e.bromley@worldnet.att.net> wrote:

>Given Clarke's law ("Sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable >from magic"), and looking at what we do at the dawn of the 21st century
>with wireless telephones, computer networks and "smart" bombs, both the >Wiccans and Christians of those early days would come away convinced >that we are all consorting with the devil on a connect-time-minute by >connect-time-minute basis.

Given all the claims about "magic" and Wicca, it might help to DEFINE the word according to the Occult traditions (after all, Christians expect non-Christians to accept THEIR definitions of "prayer," "God," etc.). Here, according to Aleister Crowley (widely regarded as an authority on the subject) is the definition of "Magick:"

========

I) DEFINITION.

Magick is the Science and Art of causing Change to occur in conformity with Will.

(Illustration: It is my Will to inform the World of certain facts within my knowledge. I therefore take "magickal weapons", pen, ink, and paper; I write "incantations"---these sentences---in the "magickal language" ie, that which is understood by the people I wish to instruct; I call forth "spirits", such as printers, publishers, booksellers and so forth and constrain them to convey my message to those people. The composition and distribution of this book is thus an act of Magick by which I cause Changes to take place in conformity with my Will.)

In one sense Magick may be defined as the name given to Science by the vulgar.

========

This may sound absurd, but only because it is expressed in unfamiliar terminology. If, for example, I were to state that I had a sched for a CW QSO with a ZB8 at 1435 ZULU on 14.105 anyone here would clearly understand what I was communicating--but someone unfamiliar with amateur radio (as most people here are unfamiliar with the magick) it would make no sense at all!

Most practitioners of magick either use it as a meditation or as a means of spiritual growth. However, the form that is being referred to in this thread by Dwight is a superstitious form that involves "spells" and "charms" and has no more relationship to the actual religious practices than do the silly depictions of witchcraft in the Harry Potter books.

Sure, there are books that present magick as being "evil" and "manipulative" in nature. Try reading the "Malleus Mallificarium" (the "Witches's Hammer" written by a RC Pope) sometime for a great depiction of the beliefs of Christianity about witchcraft (i.e., if you can't torture someone into admitting she is a witch, it's because "Satan" is keeping her from speaking and you should put her to death;
of course if she DOES confess from the torture, the punishment is ALSO death, but . . .).

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4814. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 22:25:49 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <9A34C2400E71DD62.DF6FD2B28B778F4A.CC1A621A9D4D713B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27811

On Fri, 14 Dec 2001 06:07:15 GMT, Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
wrote:

> Doncha think he has already smoked it all up, a few threads at a time??

Haven't done that since the early seventies, Dick. Right now I don't drink OR smoke.

Are you still escaping into a bottle, or have you finally replaced your barf bags with depends?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4815. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:03:36 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <F32C67986015B1A3.96B12AF8113BFE47.2E2AE6FA8F6ABAD5@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27813

On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 08:57:41 -0800, "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu>
wrote:

>What kind of "sub-atomic particle"?

I couldn't tell you, offhand. I saw a mention of the research in the newspaper, and heard a reference to it on a NOVA show Chris was watching while I was on the air, but I don't know enough about it (or physics, for that matter) to say.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4816. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:06:06 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3BC22BF5C65BA329.3EA9B85F8C074742.916088F75209F9B0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27814

On Mon, 17 Dec 2001 08:26:54 -0600, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
wrote:

>If I am not mistaken, there are sub-species of hemp that are not >illegal but trying to convince the local drug gestapo that one >is growing legal hemp is not very rewarding. Eradication of >wild hemp has failed in many parts of the country.

There are subspecies that do not contain THC in any usable concentrations (you'd have to smoke a kilo to get a mild buzz--and that would probably be from suffocation)--but the entire species of plant (actually all three species; Cannabis Sativa, Cannabis Indica, and Cannabis Ruderialis [sp??]) is illegal for cultivation in the USA.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4817. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:22:20 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C21212C.ECBB69F8@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27815

```
Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> news:3C20DFCF.870C403@IEEE.org...
> > Jim Kelley wrote:
> > >
> > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > > Because they are not worth the effort?
> > >
> > > What effort?
> >
> > The effort of getting out of a warm water bed and driving four hours > > round trip in a thunderstorm.
>
> Life's a bitch, and then you die. Christmas shopping requires more effort.

Exerting effort for something that is worth nothing to one makes one a masochist. Are you a masochist?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp
```

4818. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:28:40 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <05CC461F98FB8716.ED6F031291429B65.97EA10CFFB8C5672@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27816

On 18 Dec 2001 01:45:59 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:

>> Hemp oil IS a vegetable oil, remember?
>
>If you say so, Rick. Thus it has all the advantages and disadvantages named >above.

Essentially, yes, although those vary from one form of oil to another as I'm sure you know (for example, it takes a vastly greater amount of acreage to produce a given amount of soy bean or peanut oil than it does to produce the same quantity of hemp oil, due to the size of the hemp plant and the percentage of the plant suitable for oil production).

>"Efficient" in what sense? How many gallons per acre, how many gallons per ton >of raw harvested crop, how many gallons per dollar spent to grow it?

Efficient in the sense of having very high energy/volume potential, of being inexpensive to produce (no pesticides, herbicides, or [in most cases] irrigation are needed), and in the sense of providing a high per-acre yield.

You can get the precise yield figures from some of the sources
I previously cited, or from such sites on the Inet as the Farm Bureau home page, the Hemp Council home page, or HEMP Canada.

>For food purposes, soybean oil is pretty bad stuff. Canola oil is better and >olive oil is better than canola. Flaxseed oil is tops but is very expensive and >not as easy to cook with.

According to nutritionists, hemp oil has a very high percentage of essential nutriants--more so than any other currently used vegetable oil--and appears to be completely non-allergeric as well. Peanut oil isn't too far from it nutritionally, but there are a number of people allergic to it, and it isn't as nutritionally valuable as hemp oil on a gallon for gallon basis--nor is it as easily (or inexpensively) produced.

>> As far as costs are concerned, assuming the development of >>sufficient processing facilities and farms
>
>Whoa! Don't Assume that at all!!

Why?

Can you name a single product which, once in demand, did not inspire precisely that type of developments?

>To make any sort of sizable dent in the US consumption of petrofuels, any >biofuel must be produced in millions-of-gallons-per-day quantities, at least.
>That means BIG investments in farms and refining facilities. Those facilites >don't just grow out of the ground.

Nope. But neither do investment opportunities with the potential yield of hemp production and processing. Create a market and you'll have plenty of investors willing to put up the money.

>Show your source. I think the raw production cost would be much higher. Here's
>why:

I DID provide my sources--refer to them.

>Take a stroll down any supermarket aisle and price the absolute cheapest >vegetable oil you can find. It's a lot more than 49 cents a gallon, and there >is practically no tax on it because it's a food item. And it cannot be used as >an engine fuel without additional procesing. Hemp oil is no different.

And how much would the price on that vegetable oil be if it were produced in the kind of quantities that hemp oil would be produced in?

Economies of scale are VERY important in an area such as that.
And as far as taxation goes, if people are stupid enough to permit their congresscritters to pass high taxes on the product, they have no one to blame but themselves if they have to pay the price at the pumps.

At least with hemp oil, there would be enough producers (it isn't that expensive to produce) that a monopoly couldn't form--which would keep prices reasonable.

>Get an actual pilot plant running and see what the actual production costs are.
>Thye biodiesel folks have done so.

Glad to as soon as you get me the necessary permits from the government to do so. I'd LOVE to own the first hemp oil production facility in the USA--and the patents that went with that as well, of course.

>>Since it can >>be produced domestically, no transportation expenses (or oil spill >>risks) exist with respect to its use,
>
>Wrong. It still must be transported domestically, and that's a major cost for >any fuel.

Not compared to international shipments with the cost of transportation AND tariffs or duties added to it.

>Production and distribution costs of any fuel cannot be dismissed so lightly.

Still cheaper than petroleum, the key point.

>The lack of toxicity is a major plus. But that's true of any biodiesel fuel.

True--although some have more potential for ecological damage than others.

>What is "a reasonable rate" of taxation? US fuel taxes are used mostly for road >construction and maintenance. Use of biofuel doesn't reduce road maintenance.

No, but it reduces AIR pollution, which effects a savings for government and industry (as well as for the medical field). In addition, while US taxes may be used mostly for road construction and maintenance, that doesn't necessarily hold true for STATE taxes on fuels--often those go to pet projects of the legislators.

>I think reducing/eliminating petrol imports should be a top priority for a >number of reasons. Biofuels is one part of the solution to that problem. But >I'm also realistic enough to know that it's not going to be quick, cheap or >easy.

I can agree with the "quick" part--but cheap and easy are relative. Hemp oil production would take time to get going, but once established would be both cheap AND easy.

>The cars to use it are available today, and have been for decades. I know - I >drove the same Rabbit Diesel for 17 years. Wonderful car. 43 mpg over its life, >which was spent mostly in the worst possible driving conditions. On the highway >the thing would do well over 50 mpg.

And it will run--unmodified--on vegetable fuel?

Since when?

>You're not seeing the real problem, Rick.
>
>In an earlier post you wrote that cars could be "converted" to use hemp fuel.
>That implies that the hemp fuel is a gasoline replacement.
>
>But in reality what we're talking about biodiesel, which means the "conversion" >entails replacing the entire engine and much of the fuel system. And the result >is a diesel car.
>
>The real problem is getting Americans to accept diesel cars. They've been >around for decades but haven't made much of a dent in market share.
>
>If you're talking about some other type of hemp fuel, what is it? Alcohol?

Hemp oil can be converted to a form that will run in standard internal combustion engines (with suitable modifications to the fuel systems) as easily as it can be converted to a form that will run in standard diesel cars with similar modifications. Ford Motors has just such engine designs patented (and has demonstrated prototypes of hemp run vehicles both in the past [the first was in 1936] and in recent years).

>> Of all nations, we have the greatest ability to produce >>industrial hemp--not only are our agricultural sciences at least as >>advanced as those used anywhere on earth, but we have a tremendous >>amount of arable land suitable to hemp production--

>
>This may or may not be true. What matters is how many gallons per acre can be >produced, and at what cost.

And according to Farm Bureau studies, the answer to those questions is one that makes development of hemp fuel economically feasible.

>>and could thus
>>produce fuel at a reasonable price, encouraging the production of hemp
>>based vehicles (both Ford and GM have patents on engines designed to >>use hemp fuel, btw, I don't know about Chrysler or the major foreign >>manufacturers, but it's reasonable to assume they have the same--thus >>production of autos designed for the fuel wouldn't be a major barrier >>to its implementation).
>
>Technology companies patent everything they can. Most patents don't make a >dime, but they look real good on the inventor's resume.

Perhaps--but the fact that they HAVE developed engines made to run on this fuel indicates that it's not a difficult task to do so.

>As I have said before - the barrier is getting people to buy the cars.

Make them flashy--American car buyers are rather superficial
(can you say "SUV?").

>> Those answers should be available on the site I cited above.
>
>They are not. I looked carefully, and it's just not there. Please post the >info, or a link, if you can find it. I couldn't.

I'll try to find some and post them by the weekend if possible. Sorry, I thought the sites I listed would have included them.

>As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating our >dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution. But the idea >that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far from proven.

It never will be proven until trials are permitted, Jim. And that requires the government to change its rulings on the production of hemp agriculturally.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4819. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:31:12 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3E4E8EE81A6F4F56.D17785F1A95A8BF9.5A11414C5EDEF47F@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27817

On 17 Dec 2001 15:34:48 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>Not to mention "Car and Driver," "Motor Trend," and "Flying!" You >also forgot to mention that he was going to stop by the golf course >on his way home! Is it true that all the road signs in Michigan are >also in Braille?

They only look that way--it comes from blind hunters with shotguns.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4820. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:34:06 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.golw5at.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27818
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 15:34:44 -0600, Lenny Stover wrote:

>Like my Lieutenant used to say, "If you aint catching no beefs, you aint >doin your job."

Mine used to say "Do not under any circumstances embarrass the department by doing stupid things". Even if the complaint was no-merit, you caught hell from him if he felt (as he usually did) that you could have handled it so as to avoid the situation.

He wasn't called "Iron-A Bailey" for nothing.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4821. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:34:06 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.golvwps.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27819
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 15:30:00 -0600, Lenny Stover wrote:

>> And it certainly is reason to arrest the person - unlike the case
>> where the CB radio in my vehicle MIGHT be capable of operating out >> of band. Without evidence of such operation, there is no justification >> for searching the vehicle or examining the radio.
>
>No cop is his right mind is going to attempt to make an arrest or even >become concerned because your CB "slides" above 40 or below 1.

Unless the municipality has a "Finegold Bill" ordinance and the officer is assigned to investigate complaints which bear on out-of-band operation. And even then, arrest is not an option.
Citation into court is.

Random stops? No way.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4822. Re: UK "Foundation" Class Amateur License

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-19 23:34:09 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.golxh8u.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27820

On 13 Dec 2001 00:15:05 -0800, Brian Kelly wrote:

>If anybody out there in RadioLand thinks that anything has >changed one bit on 75m in the last half century I got a CLUE for YOU!

So right. The very first ham QSO that I heard in 1950 on a homebrew 1-tube (double triode) regen receiver was some always-remembered but never-identified local ham berating another on 20 meters AM with "Hey you lop-eared jackass, get off this band".

Times haven't changed.

>Collins etc. were a much better idea on a bang-for-the-buck basis if >the ham has half a capitalist-oriented brain and places any dollar >value whatsoever on his labor time as it relates to the realties of >homebrewing his stupid radios.

I feel that same way about computers, but I still get a charge out of swapping out cards and peripherals and playing system janitor with exotic operating systems rather than meekly accepting those abortions that Pie-Faced Billy calls an OS.

>So how to generate that coin? The usual marketing/priorities/tradeoffs >study. I came up with a scam which worked tits.

Oh, if I could have found a way to access those specific items at that age.....but I was a radio geek instead.

Mine was to find and replace burned-out tubes in neighborhood radios and TV sets and bring them back from the dead. My first windfall was invested in a K+E Log-Log-Duplex-Vector slide rule, which was my Guide and Savior through the next six years of HS and engineering school (still have it and still know how to work it). Then I turned my attention to ham gear. Many years later I turned my attention to girls. Shudda' been the other way around.

>Transmitters were the easy part. I trashpicked an RCA model 625 TV >rcvr on the way home from school one day, good stiff 450vdc @ 400 >mils+, yahoo, just right for my $5 Radio Row 80m ARC-5 TX, plug 'n >play radio.

Oh for the good old days......

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4823. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 00:06:35 UTC
From: drp@drproctor.com
Message-ID: <5B3DA2BE76A08186.20E722E7F9437203.689B7DE4335D93C0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27812
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 15:27:06 -0600, "Lenny Stover" <mppd5107@the-police.com> wrote:

>Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of >vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's >license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion.

It has to be articulable and excludes areas where there is a "reasonable expectation of privacy", where you need a warrant.. This includes locked containers and (if memory serves) things like backpacks, etc.
>
>Bzzzzt.......wrong. If it is withinn the driver's reach, I can ask him to >open the locked case without a warrant.

You can ask any damn thing you want. But you cannot search such areas without a warrant, except with the drivers permission. And the "drivers reach" business is a specific exception for the safety of the officer, so he can search for weapons.

True, if he just happens to find contraband, he can arest for that. BTW, occasionally, this legal fiction matters--- e.g., in theory you can't search an unlocked container (such as a band-aid box) if it is too small to hold a weapon.

snip..

>However, we must be able to demonstrate the reliablilty of the dog. If the >dog continues to hit on vehicles that do not contain controlled substances, >then the dog is useless when we get in court and a search is challenged.

The dogs are notorious for false positives. In fact, there is a bit of a fuss on this right now in San Francisco, where they are using sniffer dogs on BART. Although this is hard to explain to the judge (who likely never heard of "conditioning" and doesn't want to consider all this science stuff), the dog learns to respond to cues from his handler as well as what he smells. Dogs can't be cross-examined by a pesky defense attorney and are assumed to have no hidden agendas.

Dr P

4824. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 00:26:28 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c213126_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27822

"Sean G Gilley" <uem@mycroft.cmhnet.org> wrote in message news:ff37aa44.0112130724.25377b97@posting.google.com...
> Dwight Stewart <stewartx@sccoast.net> wrote in message
news:<3C1291F1.911C56FC@sccoast.net>...
> > In fact, it is now a federal requirement for companies to > > have their policies about sexual harassment clearly posted for all to > > read. Where travel is likely, most companies had specific policies > > about socializing, accommodations, and so forth. And most companies > > gave their employees, especially the management staff, printed > > guidelines or classroom instruction about dealing with the opposite > > sex in the workplace - and all these she has read or seen warned > > against private meetings behind closed doors and socializing (lunches, > > etc) in or outside the workplace. In other words, her experiences in > > this regard have been exactly the same as mine.
>
> I just pulled out my company's policy book. The entire section on > Harassment is less than a page long. It explains what harassment is,
> and it explains what steps you can take if you feel you are being > harassed.
>
> It does not warn against private meetings, socializing, or anything > else.
>
> Sean.

Mine either. I don't think my company puts leashes on their employees and tells them how to run business. :)

Kim W5TIT

4825. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 00:28:25 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c213199_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27821

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011213104337.18921.00000173@mb-mv.aol.com...
> In article <3c1840cc_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >> Salaries? Doing that out in the open really pisses off management.
> >> Once when I got downsized, I told everyone what salary I was > >> paid. A little payback.... ;-)
> >>
> >
> >Hoo hoo hoo...I've done that...LOL
> >
> >Kim W5TIT
>
> Kim:
>
> Nobody expects you to do anything that demonstrates any > personal integrity; therefore you don't need to make any such > public confessions!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

Oh, you're so cute when you're being envious, Larry!

Kim W5TIT

4826. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 00:35:09 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c213327$1_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27823

"Rick Adams" <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> wrote in message
news:789EDEACB4F1FD66.4A0EF3DDCC800E3A.84FA97A5FF1B77CE@lp.airnews.net...
> On Thu, 15 Nov 2001 05:57:20 -0600, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> wrote:
>
> >Are you this predictable in bed?
>
> Sure he is, Kim.
>
> He memorized a sex manual.
>
> In.
>
> Out.
>
> Repeat if necessary.
>

OHGAWD...I laughed my ass off, Rick! Good one.

Kim W5TIT (and in this case, I wonder if "in" would even be achieved)
ROFLMAO

4827. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 01:03:15 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219200315.06877.00000542@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27825

In article <9viv010171g@enews4.newsguy.com>, "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com>
writes:

>"Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net> wrote in message
>news:3c1cf140_2@news7.fast.net...
>
>> From talking with IARU officials and people representing them >> at the ITU, I disagree. I believe the IARU finally has woken up >> to the realities we will face (spectrum pressures, etc.) in the >> future and is acting accordingly.
>
>I would think that HF spectrum would be safe.

The threats to HF are in other areas. One is the increasingly unreasonable restrictions on antennas. Another is the proliferation of various newfangled "broadband" stuff like DSL. The providers of those services do NOT want to have to meet strict RF emission requirements. They also don't want to have to deal with lots of ham RF geting into their unshielded lines.

Perhaps the worst threat is invasion by freebanders.

SWBC still has lots of support in the developing world. Maybe WRC 2003 will straighten out the 40 meter mess.

>In fact, in the past two >decades, hams have gotten more HF spectrum in the 12, 17, and 30 meter >bands.

WARC 79 gave us those bands. That was 22 years ago, beforfe most of today's hams were licensed.

>VHF and up are what I'm concerned about. Commercial interests would >love to get the paws on the 2 meter band.
>
Most of the rest of the world has only 144-146, and no 220 band at all. We're in a Catch-22 situation on VHF-UHF, though, unless we get zillions of new hams using those bands. Which ain't gonna happen anytime soon.

The Catch-22 situation is this: Most operation on amateur VHF/UHF is FM voice.
To use 2m as an example, we use 15 kHz channel spacing, which is derived from 1960s commercial methods.

Our spectrum competitors can point to 2 meters and say "if those hams would use more spectrum-efficent modes, they wouldn't need 4 MHz". But if we convert to more spectrum-efficent modes, much of 2 meters will be unused. End result is loss of spectrum.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4828. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 01:03:16 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219200316.06877.00000543@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27826

In article <9vp4sf$ar5$1@slb3.atl.mindspring.net>, "Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> writes:

>"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011218214439.24724.00000394@mb-mr.aol.com...

>> Fact is the FCC has been pushing for reduction/elimination of code testing
>for >> a long time. Know when the first serious nocodetest ham license was >proposed?
>> 1975. And it was an FCC idea. So many hams were against it that the FCC >dropped >> the idea, only to revive it about 1983 - and again the reaction in the >amateur >> community was negative. In 1990 it became clear that the FCC wasn't going
>to >> take "no" for an answer, and we got the dropping of the code test for a >Tech
>> license in early 1991.
>
>And it was pretty clear the same applied to all code testing EXCEPT for >5 wpm in the R&O issued for restructuring by the FCC.

Exactly. The point is that the FCC has wanted to reduce/eliminate code testing for a long time. I think that a BIG part of the reason is to attract cbers and freebanders away from those activities and towards licensed operation.
>
>> >>>That will go away at WRC-03 ... the ARRL an IARU are now supporting >> >>>the "suppression" (elimination) of S25.5. Once the requirement in the >> >>>ITU Radio Regulations goes away, there will be no (valid) regulatory >> >>>reason for the FCC to keep ANY Morse testing. It's shaping up that >> >>>way in most of the world, too.
>> >>
>> >>Gee, I hope not.
>>
>> That's basically the way it is. Many of the countries with sizable amateur >> radio populations are going to 5 wpm for all privileges, or have already >gone
>> that way. The UK is going even farther, with its "Foundation" license.
>This >> trend has been going on for a long time - it's not something new.
>> >
>> >On what basis would the FCC have to retain even the 5wpm code
>> >test if/when the ITU requirement goes away?
>>

>> The fact that a majority of those who bother to comment think it's a good
>idea.
>> But the FCC has already made its position clear.
>
>Nope...

The FCC made its position clear long ago.

>the retention of regulations/requirements is not at all aa function >of any majority. The FCC will, in the end, do what it (the FCC) deems >to be appropriate having considered whatever the comments are.

Even thought the majority of those who bother to voice an opinion disagree.
>
>> > If you can't >> >articulate a clear and compelling reason to retain code
>> >now except for the treaty requirement, then on what basis >> >would you argue for its retention?
>>
>> Clear and compelling reasons for code test retention were presented to the >FCC
>> in the comments associated with 98-143 (the recent restructuring). FCC >decided
>> to ignore them.
>
>The FCC didn't ignore them...the FCC in issuing its ruling clearly found >them to be anything but clear or compelling.

Same thing as ignoring them. The FCC's position was developed long before 98-143.
>
>> FCC isn't infallible or divinely inspired to do what's best for >> ham radio. In the same restructuring, the number and size of the WRITTEN >tests
>> was also reduced, despite widepread comments to the contrary.
>
>Your point?

Just what it says. The mere fact that the FCC does something doesn't mean it's "right" or in the best interest of the ARS.

The FCC's actions on the code tests are held up by some as "proof" of the rightness of the nocodetest cause, while the actions of the FCC towrds the written test are conveniently ignored.

>> The important policy questions now are this: What should amateur radio >> licensing be like if/when the code test disappears entirely? How should >> existing licensees be "grandfathered"? How do we get from "here" to
>"there"?
>> Are there other changes that should happen at the same time?
>
>IF the FCC ended all code testing, what would need to be grandfathered at

>all?

Not much, unless other changes are made. Would all Techs get Novice/Tech Plus HF?
>
>> Some folks think that just two or even one class of license is all that's >> needed. Others see no need for any change - just remove Element 1 and >leave the >> rest alone.
>
>I expect the latter to be the path the FCC will follow.

No doubt. But is that the best thing for the ARS?

>The restructuring >in 2000 created no problems in simply doing that (i.e. just remove Element >1)

I don't understand. The 2000 restructuring did not remove Element 1. FCC also refused a sunset clause.
>
>> There are lots of options, but the time to discuss them is now, >> because if we don't come up with a workable, clear, detailed plan ahead of >> time, we're going to get some kind of hodgepodge that is just the same old >> stuff warmed over.
>
>Just eliminate Element 1. Pretty simple and already in place.

But is that what's best for the ARS?
>
>> K0HB has suggested just two license classes - an easy-to-get one for >newcomers >> and a full privilege license. I've suggested some very different ideas.
>W5YI
>> and N0MHS think we need to de-technicalize the entry level exams.
>
>You have my decision above.

Noted, Bill. What do others think?

73 de Jim, N2EY

4829. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 01:03:17 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011219200317.06877.00000544@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27824

In article <3C20A80D.6518D54@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>WA8ULX wrote:
>> This will happen, the Code Bs was just the first shot to more Dumbing Down.
>> I figure in 3 to 5 Years there will not even be a Test.
>> Lets face it Ham Radio as we know it is dead, they might as well change
>the >> Name to CB instead of Ham Radio, because thats where its headed, if its not >> there already.
>
>The big difference between the CBS and the ARS is licenses and call>signs.

There's a lot more difference than those two things, Cecil.

I can remember when CB (other than 100 milliwatt walkie talkie CB and radio control CB) required both a license and callsigns. Was there no big difference between the ARS and the CRS back then?

>A person cannot do much communicating on the ham bands without >a callsign

Tell it to the illegal invaders on 10, 12 and 2 meters.

>and he stands to be identified, fined, or maybe lose his >license if he misbehaves.

If he has a license to begin with.

>Illegal operators don't care if they have a license or not.

Some of them do, some of them don't.

>Why don't you see hordes of illegal SSB operators
>in the middle of the SSB portion of the ham bands?

Because most people listen to amateur SSB rather than look at it.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4830. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 01:19:29 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <B0bU7.232743$3d2.11125812@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27827
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc

Actually, with the new rigs, one should be able to eliminate the CW interference. Two QSOs could occupy the same place (assuming, of course, a really good notch filter - with DSP, quite possible). I have never deliberately interfered with any stations. That one time, W2OY was strong both at my QTH in Pittsford, NY, and at the other guy's QTH. There is no way he did not know we were there. You'd have to ask some old timers who were active back in the 60s and before about Mike, W2OY. He was quite a work of art. My understanding is, however, that he was just 'breaking stones' and he was really a decent guy in person. He used to call CQ with something like 'CQ CQ, no lids, kids, space cadets or school bus riders. No wet-bottom boys. Only class A operators on this frequency, from W2OY'. He was something. Jamming on FM repeaters is something else. Obviously, only the strongest signal gets repeated. There is no way for 2 signals to occupy the same place at the same time. Forget that one. Fortunately, I've never heard that (at least on the 440 repeaters in our area - some of which are linked to 2 meters).

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim AA2QA

"Keith Hosman Red Cross Disaster Services" <webdoc@mailandnews.com> wrote in message news:de9751ca.0112161210.3624edc4@posting.google.com...
> "JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<SYZQ7.150916$WW.9789945@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> > Heck, do what I did 35 years ago when W2OY tried to jam me. Be nice.
> > Reduce your bandwidth. Any idea as to what 40 WPM of CW will do to an AM > > (or SSB) signal? I had a nice 30 minute chat after Mike sat on the > > frequency. I can assure you, his blood pressure likely doubled. I still > > had a solid QSO for half an hour and didn't even hear him. Nice thing about > > CW - it's legal anywhere within the amateur bands.
> >
> > 73 from Rochester, NY
> > Jim AA2QA
>
> While I am in NYC with the American Red Cross, I am planning to take > the test to get my ticket, and a friend gave me an early X-mas gift of > a nice little 2 meter HT. So I have been listening to the chatter on > the NYC area repeaters and heard some beligerant fool jamming the one > repeater for a few days. Some people just need to grow up I guess, if > someone does something to offend me, my radio and computer both have a > nice little feature called the on/off switch. No need to jam, all that > does is compound the situation.

>
>
> Keith Hosman

4831. Re: "...one step closer to extinction. "

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 01:28:17 UTC
From: JAMES HAMPTON <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <R8bU7.232758$3d2.11126349@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27828

Yes, Hans, you'd loose your best engineers. Look at the bright side: for every good engineer that left, you'd have at least half a dozen under-performers from other companies knocking your door down for mid-level pay! :-)

73 from Rochester, NY
Jim

ps - pay for performance. What a novel idea these days!

"K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com> wrote in message news:OtqVjwphBHA.1752@cpimsnntpa02...
> KE8HH says:
>
> > The ONLY reason for taking that position is because they are paying some > people
> > more to do a given job than they are paying others for the same work.
If
> their pay > > scale was based on equal pay for equal work they wouldn't CARE if people > told > > others what they earned.
>
> Hogwash! People get paid what they get paid because of their value to their > employer. Using my engineering group for an example, our company has 4
> "grades" of RF engineers. Engineer I, Engineer II, Senior Engineer, and > Principal > Engineer. Each of those "grades" has a salary range "midpoint", and > guidelines > allow me to pay each person between 80% and 140% of their grade
"midpoint".
>
> As an example, the "midpoint" for a Senior Engineer is currently $71,485.
> That
> means I can pay an incumbent between $57,476 and $100,079. They all know > the possible range of salary, and they also know that top performers will be > paid
> above midpoint, adequate performers will be paid near midpoint, and low > performers .... well, you get the idea. In other words, they control their > own > salary potential. What a novel idea, huh?
>

> While all Senior Engineer incumbents do roughly the same sort of work, > some are more skilled at that work than others, some are more experienced, > some have auxiliary skills or talents, some are better visionaries, some > were > hired because they had certain technology backgrounds that were needed in > my group (and I needed to pay a certain salary to attract them away from > their > former position), some are assigned more technologically demanding tasks, > some are pursuing more risky development lines, etc., etc., etc. And yes,
> some are paid less because they have not yet demonstrated a higher value
to > our group.
>
> If I "averaged it out" and paid them all the same salary, then my > competitors > would benefit from my turnover as my most valuable Engineers departed for > situations where their skills were properly compensated. I'd be stuck
with > the "performs adequately" remainder.
>
> 73, de Hans, K0HB
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

4832. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 02:14:04 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219211404.01104.00000802@mb-cu.aol.com>
Source record: 27829

In article <3c1ff26d_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>Especially if it could be done by stinking up the air less than our >current public transportation buses. :o
>

Kim:

Each public transit bus has the potential to take hundreds of private automobiles off the road every day. The savings in pollution are enormous. My company offers free bus rides during days when the low-level ozone is high -- typical during the hottest days of the Summer.
Public transportation is an important factor in maintaining clean air, reducing traffic congestion, and providing efficient movement of daily commuters to and from work, shopping, and routine errands.
Perhaps you should encourage more people to use your local public transit system, rather than complaining about the relatively small amount of pollution coming from a single vehicle which is replacing many others!

73 de Larry, K3LT
Paratransit Specialist,
Delaware Transit Corporation (DART)
www.dartfirststate.com
Member, Amalgamated Transit Union, Local 842

4833. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 02:29:53 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <B2cU7.232885$3d2.11132889@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27830

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219211404.01104.00000802@mb-cu.aol.com...
> In article <3c1ff26d_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Especially if it could be done by stinking up the air less than our > >current public transportation buses. :o
> >
>
> Kim:
>
> Each public transit bus has the potential to take hundreds of private > automobiles off the road every day. The savings in pollution are > enormous. My company offers free bus rides during days when the > low-level ozone is high -- typical during the hottest days of the Summer.
> Public transportation is an important factor in maintaining clean air, > reducing traffic congestion, and providing efficient movement of > daily commuters to and from work, shopping, and routine errands.
> Perhaps you should encourage more people to use your local > public transit system, rather than complaining about the relatively > small amount of pollution coming from a single vehicle which is > replacing many others!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
> Paratransit Specialist,
> Delaware Transit Corporation (DART)
> www.dartfirststate.com
> Member, Amalgamated Transit Union, Local 842
>

You also did not mention that when current rules already in place come to pass, including making diesel fuel look like Amoco Clear, computer control of engines, etc. Dr. Diesel's wonderous invention will be cleaner than your car.

Of course it will reduce the number of engine makers to perhaps two: Ford is out of diesels choosing to work with International. Cummins is kaput.
Leaves Cat and GM of which I know zip.

Kim, be glad you live where it is warm; a fuel-efficient diesel will not maintain 170 degrees at idle on a 20 degree day in the Marvelous Midcontinent. Adds a whole new meaning to freezing your butt off.

Dick, N&#65533;BK part-time diesel driver.

4834. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 02:35:09 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <e2FaJ8PiBHA.1648@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27831

KE8HH got it wrong again, and said:

> Actually, since "LT" is taken universally as the abbreviation
> for "light" (as in reduced in features or capabilities),

No, it isn't "taken universally" that way at all. For example, many makers of finer automobiles over the years have applied "LT" as the marqu&#65533; of their "Luxury Touring" editions.

My "LT" model has many features not found on the next lower models, such as heated leather seating, enhanced entertainment system, built-in telecommunications and GPS facilities, "3-zone" climate comfort, improved sound-proofing, deep tinted glass, electronic traction control, electronic ride control, heated outside mirrors, theft deterrent system, automatic day/night rear view mirror, tire pressure monitoring, and many other features.

So rather than "reduced in features and capabilities"
as you erroneously claim, "LT" often stands for "greatly enhanced features and capabilities".

In other words, you're just flat-out wrong (again).

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4835. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:22:29 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vrljs$b1q$1@slb6.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27832
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C20B762.826744E0@gte.net...
>
>
> Phil Kane wrote:
>
> > On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 19:18:23 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:
> >
> > >Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.
> >
> > But in all honesty, one of the country's experts in combating > > cellular phone fraud is Dan Delaney, a detective lieutenant in the > > NY State Police in Long Island. We've done several seminars > > together in years past.
> >
> > >A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a way as > > >to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving
the > > >car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car.
Even
> > >if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.
> >
> > That's a prima facie case of ignorance.
> >
> > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to
the > > >point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
> >
> > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
> >
> > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
> >
> > --
> > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
>
> Remember the same thing happens to > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are

> legal.

There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies rather than ever offering one justification of probable cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4836. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:23:49 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C2159C5.8E6C57BA@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27833

N2EY wrote:
> I can remember when CB (other than 100 milliwatt walkie talkie CB and radio > control CB) required both a license and callsigns. Was there no big difference > between the ARS and the CRS back then?

Nope, both services were relatively well behaved back then.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4837. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:26:35 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vrlv6$91a$1@slb5.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27834
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C20A440.5912A12C@gte.net...
> >
> > > > >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> > > > >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> > > > >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > > > > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
> > > >
> > > > >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > > > > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city attorney
> > > > >can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
> > > >
> > > > Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws > > > > that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > > > > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement > > > > easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> > > > the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> > > > except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > > > > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > > > > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > > > > the cops sure aren't going to.
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > > > > >officers. They are very professional.
> > > >
> > > > If they are professional, then they won't take
> > > > knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> > > > 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> > > > for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > > > > knowledge.
> > > >
> > > > >But if they do not know > > > > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts settle
> > > > >it.
> > > >
> > > > You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > > > > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> > > > isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > > > > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > > > > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > > > > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in

> > > > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.

> > > Look at the lady arrested for having the fake
> > > grenade:
> >
> > I can easily see where a fake grenade can get anyone in trouble.
> > That is a far cry from a radio that is not at all illegal in any shape > > or form.
>
> You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
> who feel that the public does not have a right to own
> such technology. That includes things like ham radio,
> CB, scanners as well as things like guns.

That is hogwash. I haven't seen any such "growing numbers" opposed to CBs, radios, etc. Indeed, there has been NO movement to ban scanners at all...rather some states (e.g. NJ) have relaxed old laws which did ban scanners in autos.

> There is the feeling that the public can not be trusted,
> that too many use technology for crime or to try to > overthrow the government. Many would prefer that only > those who are paid on a professional basis should be allowed > to have access to radios or weapons.

More hogwash. Even if there is some such sentiment, there hasn't been any support for that attitude in the press,
the legislatures, etc.

Bill K2UNK

4838. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:47:52 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219224752.07928.00001230@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27837

In article <420B958A0269BB4F.5E77D600C740311B.FF462350DC33B9C0@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>I don't have any idea what you're talking about. My call sign doesn't >>spell a damn thing. Kim's does.
>
> Actually, since "LT" is taken universally as the abbreviation
>for "light" (as in reduced in features or capabilities), just as "TIT"
>is taken as slang for a breast, your call sign has just as much
>"meaning" as does Kim's.

(The rest of Rick's sexually-obsessive tirade deleted for the purpose of reducing the stink in the room)

My callsign wasn't chosen in order to spell out anything. The letters
"LT" are abbreviations for things like "left," "Lieutenant," or, as you say, "light," but they wern't intended to mean any of those things, or anything else you can dream of. No mature, sexually-fulfilled woman I've ever known would dream of demeaning herself with such a juvenile, immature, and horrendously gauche Vanity call sign. Kim obviously has serious negative self-image issues, and feels the need to call attention to the only part of her anatomy which she does think is "adequate." As I have stated repeatedly, I have no fixation on her whatsoever, and, in fact, I am starting to pity her!

>> Whatever stupid phoenitics you make
>>of it doesn't give my call sign any meaning other than a legal station >>identification. Get Mr. Hollingsworth to agree with you, and I'll certainly >>take his comments under advisement, as I've already told Kim.
>
> Kim took them under advisement, too, Larry. She simply >rejected their premise after having evaluated them. That's what taking >something under advisement means--not blindly following the opinion of >others.
>
> Unlike yourself, she doesn't view Riley as being morally or >intellectually superior to her. Sorry that your "light weight" status >has obligated you to view him in that manner personally.

The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior to Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited his opinion in the first place. The fact that Kim doesn't recognize this fact is merely a typical state of denial common to many people who know all too well that they are, always have been, and always will be relegated to the lowest common denominator of social acceptance, due to their indecorous behavior. This is common of poorly-educated people from the southern part of the country. What I'd like to know is…what's YOUR excuse?

73 de Larry, K3LT

4839. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:47:53 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219224753.07928.00001232@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27835

In article <3F7F89779D2A0F35.D28D63EB28211DB6.EAA03272D9273766@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> Because soap can't clean your mind, Larry, and that's where >the "dirt" is, not in her sign.
>
> Rick (Kindly Eustice Ate Horrible Humans)

Hmmm -- two sets of phonetics in a row dealing with cannabalism -- and you say I have a dirty mind! Pot --> Kettle --> Black!

(Now Rick will complain about me making a racist comment!)

73 de Larry, K3LT

4840. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:47:53 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219224753.07928.00001231@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27839

In article <EC6AE56176C35C29.DEE6722370582690.849DC8965EF65E70@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>I think Kim's callsign is vulgar, demeaning to women, and >>inappropriate considering the family-oriented nature of the ARS.
>>I don't recall ever calling it "obscene."
>
> And many of us don't recall ever seeing the ARS legally >defined as "family-oriented." That's the FRS (Family Radio Service), >Larry, you're getting confused as usual.
>
> Now go get yourself an FRS handheld and talk to people you can >relate to--the neighborhood kids (if they can stand you in their >'hood, of course).
>
> Rick (King Edward Ate Horatio Hornblower)

Rick:

I have two FRS radio's --- Icom 4008's. Neat little rigs. Me and a friend of mine use them for personal comms at local hamfests, and I use them when vacationing with my family in the Adirondacks. I've never used them for communicating with anyone I didn't know -- just my friends and family. So, you're right about FRS being "family-oriented," but you're incorrect about the ARS NOT being "family-oriented." Is the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS that was one of the prime arguments for reducing and/or eliminating the code testing requirements, and largely responsible for the "No-Code test" Technician-class license -- the theory being that eliminating the 5 WPM code test would allow families to use 2-meters to coordinate their activities more effectively than they could on CB. The "family" nature of the ARS has been wielded like a sledgehammer all throughout the debate leading to our present-day dumbed-down licensing requirements. FRS just got there a bit sooner. Once the 5-WPM code testing requirement is eliminated, there will be very little difference in public perception between the ARS and the FRS.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4841. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:47:54 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219224754.07928.00001233@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27836

In article <07FCEDD2A7002958.53A48EBF5EC318A6.4A0979901B50C1D6@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
>>Riley cannot change the FCC's policy directly. His statements in his email
>were >>his personal opinion as a ham.
>
> And THAT is precisely the point!
>
> It IS his "personal opinion," not a view that either carries >any more weight than that of any other ham, or one that has any more >probability of being correct than that of Cecil, Dwight, or myself >(ANYONE has more probability of being correct than Rolly-Polly Larry).
>
> Rick

Rick:

Mr. Hollingsworth is probably the one ham in the United States who is most qualified to render an opinion, such as he did, on the matter of Kim's ill-conceived Vanity call sign. The fact that Mr. Hollingsworth is the FCC attorney in charge of enforcement of the rules and regulations also gives him unique insight into those actions hams take which can can be harmful to the overall public image of the ARS. You don't find his opinion to be in keeping with your own liberal (or libertarian, if you prefer
--
but they're the same to me) viewpoints, and his position does grant him a high degree of credibility -- which you find inconvenient. All you have going for you is your liberal elitist self-importance. You are in no position to judge the "weight" of Mr. Hollingsworth's opinion. There is more to life than having everything "our way" each and every time -- and K4ZDH stated that very clearly to Kim. I know you don't understand this concept, but there are a lot of us out here who do.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4842. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:47:57 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011219224757.07928.00001234@mb-fi.aol.com>
Source record: 27838

In article <6C47C2D7430A04AA.E3DA7DAA1C33A160.1D56B0B180689DE4@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 15 Nov 2001 04:19:48 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
>wrote:
>
>>Your callsign doesn't merely "seem" to be objectionable -- it is patently >>objectionable!
>
> No, Larry. It is "patently objectionable" to YOU--not to >everyone.
>
> Don't confuse your own fixations with fact.

Rick:

Wow -- you're only now replying to a posting that is a month-and-a-half old? Oh, well…

No, it is not my fixation, not by any means. I guarantee you that I spend almost none of my busy day thinking of Kim and her "Tugboat Annie" style callsign.

>>I'm sure that kind of thing happens, but since I know how to use CW and a >>handful of digital modes, I generally don't run into that type of on-the-air >>behavior.
>
> How do you treat newbies to CW, Larry? Do you drop down to >their speed so they can gain on-the-air experience at 5WPM or so Absolutely -- and as recently as last weekend's 10-Meter contest. In fact,

I spent most of my time working the Novice/Technician segment of the 10-Meter band during the contest, and many nice QSO's, and, as a result, my own QSO rate was very low. No matter, I enjoyed myself, and hopefully, helped some "newbies" have an enjoyable experience on CW.

>--or
>do you (as Dick has stated that he does in the past) simply ignore >them until they can send at a decent speed and communicate >efficiently?

I don't recall ever seeing Dick say that he did that, so you'll forgive me if I don't take your word for it. And no, I don't "ignore" any fellow CW operators.

>As a cw fanatic, do you voluntarily participate in voice >conversations in the tech & general bands and try to encourage new >hams both to explore cw and to enjoy ham radio--or do you live in your >lofty (and out-of-date) cw world where only those you feel "worthy" >(translation: capable of high speed cw) are acceptable to communicate >with?

I don't use any voice modes on HF from my station, due to my "low-profile" operating conditions. I live in an apartment building, on the top floor, with no adequate ground, and using indoor dipoles and a delta loop on my balcony. I operate strictly low-power, CW and digital modes (mainly RTTY and PSK), no phone due to problems with it getting into the building's cable system. I have a better setup at my vacation property in the Adirondacks, and occasionally use HF phone from there.

> Do you refrain from racist, sexist, or otherwise prejudiced >statements here in an amateur radio oriented news group so that >non-hams (or new hams) won't form bad impressions of the ARS--or do >you limit your morality to those areas you PERSONALLY are "offended"
>by?

Invalid question. This is a Usenet newsgroup -- NOT amateur radio. My behavior here and on-the-air are two separate and distinct things; here I have more freedom to not suffer fools gladly; on-the-air I must. In this newsgroup, I am not speaking for the Amateur Radio Service; I am strictly offering my own opinions on whichever subjects present themselves.
On the air, I am bound, to a certain extent, by the FCC rules and a higher level of operational decorum. Here, the gloves come off -- and I will call a spade a spade (take that anyway you want -- you are committed to thinking the worst of me anyway, because I don't march in lockstep with your own Politically Correct groupthink).

> In short, before you complain about someone else's behavior,
>Larry, clean up your OWN act!

Unlike yourself and a certain few others on this newsgroup, Rick, I am not acting. I am being myself. And I'm doing so just as "cleanly" as anyone else. Your only problem is that I don't agree with you -- and like all good liberals, you can tolerate anything -- except a difference of opinion!

>>I think that before you do that, you'd better take a close look at who >>decided to choose a sexually provocative callsign which is demeaning to >>hams in general, and female hams in particular!
>
> It's only demeaning to women in the minds of men who view them >as sex objects, Larry. To me, and to most people who have posted in >this thread, neither Kim's call sign nor the idea of women's breasts >are at all offensive. Perhaps "K0CK" would be more pleasing to your >tastes.

I wouldn't know about that, Rick, because I am a normal, red-blooded, heterosexual American male. You, on the other hand, must be prone to thinking along those lines, otherwise, you would not have suggested it.

And Kim's callsign is demeaning to herself, female hams, and all women in general. The fact that you don't agree doesn't mean it isn't so. Last time I looked, the world didn't revolve around Rick Adams.

>>Again, you are not the one to be making such statements. In case you >haven't >>noticed, you are the Captain of a burning, sinking ship.
>
> Gee--that sounds like a pretty good description of you and >Dick Carroll when it comes to code testing to me.

A classic attempt at a "turn back" right out of the W5TIT Handbook of quick-and-easy newsgroup posting! And, like everything that comes from Kim, just about as convincing!

>> If I were you, I'd >>be looking for a life raft! I'm sure you can find one at the ULS web site!
>
> Yeah, by now she probably needs one--thanks to your posts it
>IS getting pretty deep in here.
>
> Rick (Kuwaiti Emirs Ate Hasidic Heroines)

Are those the phonetics you really want to be associated with your call sign? Sounds pretty horrible to me...

73 de Larry, K3LT

4843. K1MANs Reply to Wile E. Hollywood, Selective Enforcement

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 03:50:39 UTC
From: Rafman&#65533; <rafman2u@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <jedU7.2945$Cw3.337247@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27840

Found on: http://members.aol.com/jcunham/

From: Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN

14 December 2001 2:47 P.M.

W. Riley Hollingsworth, Esq.
Special Counsel, Enforcement Bureau
Federal Communications Commission
Gettysburg, Pa. 17325-7245

Mr. Hollingsworth:

This is in reference to your "warning letter" to me dated 11 December 2001. I was accurately advised about your letter to me and its exact contents by both Keith Lamonica, W7DXX, and Dick Leavitt, W2CSQ, on 11 December 2001. This is an ethical violation of FCC ex parte rules of procedure and supports my public allegations that you are a sleazy and cheap politician as well as an unethical (alleged) attorney not fit for employment by the United States Government.

Your letter illegally threatens me with a "license revocation or renewal hearing" because I have (and fully intend to continue) filed sworn affidavits with the U.S. Attorney regarding alleged criminal violations of Sections 333 and 501 of the 1934 Communications Act.

My filing of these sworn affidavits are protected by the First Amendment to the United Stated Constitution protecting free speech as well as the Fourth Amendment regarding my absolute right to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Further, your letter, itself, and you openly encouraging radio amateurs to "talk over" my radio transmissions, is also a criminal violation of Section 501 as well as criminal obstruction of justice, and I am taking legal steps to assure that you are vigorously prosecuted and also removed from your employment at the FCC. I am also taking legally sanctioned steps to assure that you are disbarred as a licensed attorney (if, in fact, you are licensed to practice law in any state.

For your information, K1MAN is fully licensed to transmit information bulletins per a published schedule, and the K1MAN Bulletin Service is specifically recognized to be lawful in a letter from FCC Chief of Special Services, Robert H. Mc Namara, to Kenneth Black, G4WNE, dated 2 November 1989 (reference 7240-F). If you are really an attorney, and we question whether you are, you will understand the legal doctrine of res judicata that applies in this matter.

Finally, you have publicly lied to radio amateurs that you had something to do with putting my station, K1MAN, off the air in 1999 which, of course, is totally false. You have total immunity for this sort of defamation and libel, as you well know, and you take full public relations advantage of this government immunity. You are, however, a public disgrace to the Amateur Radio Service, to the Commission, to the legal profession, and to the United States of America.

We look forward to seeing you in court.

(signed)

Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
Registered Professional Engineer

cc: FCC Chairman Powell
U.S. Attorney, Bangor, Maine
Senator Susan Collins
Senator Olympia Snow
American Bar Association
W5YI
WA6ITF
ARRL W2CSQ
W7DXX
Distribution

4844. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:16:42 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <KCdU7.3207$Rw4.727674@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27841
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

```
: > > >Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.
: > >
: > > But in all honesty, one of the country's experts in combating
: > > cellular phone fraud is Dan Delaney, a detective lieutenant in the
: > > NY State Police in Long Island. We've done several seminars
: > > together in years past.
: > >
: > > >A few years back they were interpreting their scanner laws in such a : way as to be able to arrest your non-ham wife if she happened to be driving
: the car with all your mobile gear installed, and BTW impounding the car.
: Even if all your gear was straight ham stuff and no scanner involved.
: > >
: > > That's a prima facie case of ignorance.
: > >
: > > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to
: the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing
: > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to
: > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
: > >
: > > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
: > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
: > >
: > > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is
: > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
: > > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some
: > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
: > >
: > > --
: > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
: >
: > Remember the same thing happens to
: > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
: > legal.
:
: There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
: which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
: to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
: possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
: rather than ever offering one justification of probable
: cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.
:
Actually it is a crime in my state not have a radio license if you have a scanner in the car. While the cops may not be as hard nosed with a scanner as they are with guns, having either in your vehicle then having your son or wife drive the vehicle might will result in them being arrested in my state (if they do not have either a ham license - for the scanner, or a gun permit for the weapon).
```

4845. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:19:37 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c2168eb$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27844

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219211404.01104.00000802@mb-cu.aol.com...
> In article <3c1ff26d_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
writes:
>
> >
> >Especially if it could be done by stinking up the air less than our > >current public transportation buses. :o
> >
>
> Kim:
>
> Each public transit bus has the potential to take hundreds of private > automobiles off the road every day. The savings in pollution are > enormous. My company offers free bus rides during days when the > low-level ozone is high -- typical during the hottest days of the Summer.
> Public transportation is an important factor in maintaining clean air, > reducing traffic congestion, and providing efficient movement of > daily commuters to and from work, shopping, and routine errands.
> Perhaps you should encourage more people to use your local > public transit system, rather than complaining about the relatively > small amount of pollution coming from a single vehicle which is > replacing many others!
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
> Paratransit Specialist,
> Delaware Transit Corporation (DART)
> www.dartfirststate.com
> Member, Amalgamated Transit Union, Local 842
>

I can't imagine that you (a professed person against liberals) have such a mamby-pamby, liberal, environmentalist attitude, Larry!

To suggest our public transit system around here is to risk be a laughing stock for several hours, if not a whole day. No, it's not quite that bad--but people are not as accepting of public transportation around here as they are in the north. Heck, I even tried the train for about 3 months, and tried the bus for nearly a year. N'er again, n'er again. The next time I have a butt wiped across my face from some person moving to the inside seat on a bus will be...uh, never.

Kim W5TIT
Domestic Engineer
Hey, if a bus driver can be a Paratransit Specialist, then I can be a Domestic Engineer!

4846. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:20:03 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <SFdU7.3212$Rw4.727088@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27842
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

```
:
: >Like my Lieutenant used to say, "If you aint catching no beefs, you aint : >doin your job."
:
: Mine used to say "Do not under any circumstances embarrass the
: department by doing stupid things". Even if the complaint was
: no-merit, you caught hell from him if he felt (as he usually did)
: that you could have handled it so as to avoid the situation.
:
: He wasn't called "Iron-A Bailey" for nothing.

Phil, you are now an attorney, where formerly a federal agent. Lenny is a street cop. He does not have the level of support that you had.

Hell, in Chicago the locals in some neighborhoods would beat up the fire fighters and EMTs when they showed up. Then file complaints because they were not properly served!

And the mayor, that great democrat, of Chicago has yet to settle with the police so that they can get a pay raise.
```

4847. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:21:01 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c2168ed_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27843

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:B2cU7.232885$3d2.11132889@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
> news:20011219211404.01104.00000802@mb-cu.aol.com...
> > In article <3c1ff26d_2@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net>
> writes:
> >
> > >
> > > >Especially if it could be done by stinking up the air less than our > > > >current public transportation buses. :o
> > >
> >
> > Kim:
> >
> > Each public transit bus has the potential to take hundreds of private > > automobiles off the road every day. The savings in pollution are > > enormous. My company offers free bus rides during days when the > > low-level ozone is high -- typical during the hottest days of the > Summer.
> > Public transportation is an important factor in maintaining clean air, > > reducing traffic congestion, and providing efficient movement of > > daily commuters to and from work, shopping, and routine errands.
> > Perhaps you should encourage more people to use your local > > public transit system, rather than complaining about the relatively > > small amount of pollution coming from a single vehicle which is > > replacing many others!
> >
> > 73 de Larry, K3LT
> > Paratransit Specialist,
> > Delaware Transit Corporation (DART)
> > www.dartfirststate.com
> > Member, Amalgamated Transit Union, Local 842
> >
>
> You also did not mention that when current rules already in place come to > pass, including making diesel fuel look like Amoco Clear, computer control > of engines, etc. Dr. Diesel's wonderous invention will be cleaner than > your car.
>
> Of course it will reduce the number of engine makers to perhaps two: Ford
> is out of diesels choosing to work with International. Cummins is kaput.
> Leaves Cat and GM of which I know zip.

>
> Kim, be glad you live where it is warm; a fuel-efficient diesel will not > maintain 170 degrees at idle on a 20 degree day in the Marvelous > Midcontinent. Adds a whole new meaning to freezing your butt off.
>
> Dick, N&#65533;BK part-time diesel driver.
>
>

Wow, Dick M. spoke to me!

Kim W5TIT

4848. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:24:48 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c2168ee_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27845

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219224752.07928.00001230@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article
<420B958A0269BB4F.5E77D600C740311B.FF462350DC33B9C0@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> >>I don't have any idea what you're talking about. My call sign doesn't > >>spell a damn thing. Kim's does.
> >
> > Actually, since "LT" is taken universally as the abbreviation
> >for "light" (as in reduced in features or capabilities), just as "TIT"
> >is taken as slang for a breast, your call sign has just as much
> >"meaning" as does Kim's.
>
> (The rest of Rick's sexually-obsessive tirade deleted for the purpose > of reducing the stink in the room)
>

Larry, this isn't one of the chat rooms you haunt on the internet.

>
> My callsign wasn't chosen in order to spell out anything. The letters
> "LT" are abbreviations for things like "left," "Lieutenant," or, as > you say, "light," but they wern't intended to mean any of those things, > or anything else you can dream of. No mature, sexually-fulfilled > woman I've ever known would dream of demeaning herself with such > a juvenile, immature, and horrendously gauche Vanity call sign. Kim > obviously has serious negative self-image issues, and feels the need > to call attention to the only part of her anatomy which she does think > is "adequate." As I have stated repeatedly, I have no fixation on > her whatsoever, and, in fact, I am starting to pity her!
>
> >> Whatever stupid phoenitics you make
> >>of it doesn't give my call sign any meaning other than a legal station > >>identification. Get Mr. Hollingsworth to agree with you, and I'll certainly > >>take his comments under advisement, as I've already told Kim.
> >
> > Kim took them under advisement, too, Larry. She simply > >rejected their premise after having evaluated them. That's what taking > >something under advisement means--not blindly following the opinion of > >others.
> >
> > Unlike yourself, she doesn't view Riley as being morally or > >intellectually superior to her. Sorry that your "light weight" status > >has obligated you to view him in that manner personally.

>
> The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior
to
> Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited > his opinion in the first place. The fact that Kim doesn't recognize this fact > is merely a typical state of denial common to many people who know all > too well that they are, always have been, and always will be relegated > to the lowest common denominator of social acceptance, due to their > indecorous behavior. This is common of poorly-educated people from > the southern part of the country. What I'd like to know is.what's YOUR > excuse?
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

Riley's no more moral or intellectual than you, Larry. Who is poorly educated from the southern part of the country, Larry? Watch it...don't show your ignorance...

Kim W5TIT

4849. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:26:06 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21693a_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27846

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219224753.07928.00001231@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article
<EC6AE56176C35C29.DEE6722370582690.849DC8965EF65E70@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> >>I think Kim's callsign is vulgar, demeaning to women, and > >>inappropriate considering the family-oriented nature of the ARS.
> >>I don't recall ever calling it "obscene."
> >
> > And many of us don't recall ever seeing the ARS legally > >defined as "family-oriented." That's the FRS (Family Radio Service), > >Larry, you're getting confused as usual.
> >
> > Now go get yourself an FRS handheld and talk to people you can > >relate to--the neighborhood kids (if they can stand you in their > >'hood, of course).
> >
> > Rick (King Edward Ate Horatio Hornblower)
>
> Rick:
>
> I have two FRS radio's --- Icom 4008's. Neat little rigs. Me and a > friend of mine use them for personal comms at local hamfests, and > I use them when vacationing with my family in the Adirondacks. I've > never used them for communicating with anyone I didn't know -- just > my friends and family. So, you're right about FRS being "family-> oriented," but you're incorrect about the ARS NOT being "family-> oriented." Is the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS that was one > of the prime arguments for reducing and/or eliminating the code > testing requirements, and largely responsible for the "No-Code test"
> Technician-class license -- the theory being that eliminating the > 5 WPM code test would allow families to use 2-meters to coordinate > their activities more effectively than they could on CB. The "family" > nature of the ARS has been wielded like a sledgehammer all > throughout the debate leading to our present-day dumbed-down > licensing requirements. FRS just got there a bit sooner. Once > the 5-WPM code testing requirement is eliminated, there will be > very little difference in public perception between the ARS and > the FRS.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

And, Larry's gonna make everyone pay for the FCC's decision. Everyone

Kim W5TIT

4850. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:27:09 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c216978$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27847

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219224753.07928.00001232@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article
<3F7F89779D2A0F35.D28D63EB28211DB6.EAA03272D9273766@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> > Because soap can't clean your mind, Larry, and that's where > >the "dirt" is, not in her sign.
> >
> > Rick (Kindly Eustice Ate Horrible Humans)
>
> Hmmm -- two sets of phonetics in a row dealing with cannabalism -- > and you say I have a dirty mind! Pot --> Kettle --> Black!
>
> (Now Rick will complain about me making a racist comment!)
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>

At least you recognize yourself as the kettle.

Kim W5TIT

4851. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:28:27 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c2169c6_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27848

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219224754.07928.00001233@mb-fi.aol.com...
> In article
<07FCEDD2A7002958.53A48EBF5EC318A6.4A0979901B50C1D6@lp.airnews.net>,
> Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
> >
> >>Riley cannot change the FCC's policy directly. His statements in his email
> >were > >>his personal opinion as a ham.
> >
> > And THAT is precisely the point!
> >
> > It IS his "personal opinion," not a view that either carries > >any more weight than that of any other ham, or one that has any more > >probability of being correct than that of Cecil, Dwight, or myself > >(ANYONE has more probability of being correct than Rolly-Polly Larry).
> >
> > Rick
>
> Rick:
>
> Mr. Hollingsworth is probably the one ham in the United States who > is most qualified to render an opinion, such as he did, on the matter of > Kim's ill-conceived Vanity call sign. The fact that Mr. Hollingsworth is
the > FCC attorney in charge of enforcement of the rules and regulations also > gives him unique insight into those actions hams take which can can > be harmful to the overall public image of the ARS. You don't find his > opinion to be in keeping with your own liberal (or libertarian, if you prefer
> --
> but they're the same to me) viewpoints, and his position does grant > him a high degree of credibility -- which you find inconvenient. All you > have going for you is your liberal elitist self-importance. You are in no > position to judge the "weight" of Mr. Hollingsworth's opinion. There is > more to life than having everything "our way" each and every time -- and > K4ZDH stated that very clearly to Kim. I know you don't understand > this concept, but there are a lot of us out here who do.
>
> 73 de Larry, K3LT
>
>

Larry has to believe himself, Rick. No one else will... ;)

Kim W5TIT

4852. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:32:38 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c216ac6_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27849

"Larry Roll K3LT" <yodoc@aol.comnospam> wrote in message
news:20011219224757.07928.00001234@mb-fi.aol.com...
>
> I don't use any voice modes on HF from my station, due to my "low-profile"
> operating conditions. I live in an apartment building, on the top floor, > with no adequate ground, and using indoor dipoles and a delta loop on my > balcony. I operate strictly low-power, CW and digital modes (mainly RTTY > and PSK), no phone due to problems with it getting into the building's > cable system. I have a better setup at my vacation property in the > Adirondacks, and occasionally use HF phone from there.
>

WHAT?! Apartment?! Weren't you using the colloquialism "trailer park trash" some time ago? Wow, and you live in an apartment? Man, Larry, you portend far more intelligence than to pay good money for nothing you will ever own...

Gosh...

Jeeze, Lar, at least in a trailer park you'd probably find some women wishing to be overlorded by you--and you'd probably be able to set up a decent radio station.

(THAT's why Larry's so against lower CW requirements. He fears all CW operators going away and he not having anyone to contact....)

Kim W5TIT

4853. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 04:59:10 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <u2q22u85asi99rl8i9qi6p0on6ehvjb84c@4ax.com>
Source record: 27850
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com (SD SpecialDelivery Jones)
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

do you have the foggiest FREAKING idea what it means to snip?

Jim

Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

4854. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:02:58 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220000258.06877.00000586@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27701

Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired FCC ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:

As of May 14, 2000:

Novice - 49,329
Tech - 205,394
Tech Plus - 128,860
General - 112,677
Advanced - 99,782
Extra - 78,750
Total - 674,792

Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583

Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209

As of December 14, 2001:

Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)
General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)

Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860

Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006

73 de Jim, N2EY

4855. Re: Jam the bastards

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:02:59 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220000259.06877.00000587@mb-mj.aol.com>
Source record: 27702

In article <B0bU7.232743$3d2.11125812@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"JAMES HAMPTON" <j.r.hampton@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>You'd have to ask some old timers who >were active back in the 60s and before about Mike, W2OY. He was quite a >work of art. My understanding is, however, that he was just 'breaking >stones' and he was really a decent guy in person. He used to call CQ with >something like 'CQ CQ, no lids, kids, space cadets or school bus riders. No >wet-bottom boys. Only class A operators on this frequency, from W2OY'. He >was something.

He was ticked because of the Dec. 1952 FCC "privileges giveaway", when Conditionals and Generals got full HF 'phone privileges. (Prior to that time, one needed an Advanced or Extra to work 'phone on the ham bands between 3 and 25 MHz).

The classic W2OY call was "CQ 75 meter AM phone, no kids, no lids, no space cadets, Class A operators only". Class A was the old name for Advanced, "kids" referred to Novices and newcomers, "lids" referred to Generals and Conditionals, and "space cadets" referred to SSB ops.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4856. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:21:05 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <4zeU7.3273$Rw4.780022@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27704
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

: > > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm to
: the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing
: > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to
: > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
: > >
: > > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
: > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
: > >
: > > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is
: > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
: > > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some
: > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
: > >
: > > --
: > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
: >
: > Remember the same thing happens to
: > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
: > legal.
:
: There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
: which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
: to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
: possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
: rather than ever offering one justification of probable
: cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.

Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.

His quote:
"Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."

4857. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:29:14 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <9vrsmlkkd1@news.service.uci.edu>
Source record: 27703

CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
news:3C21212C.ECBB69F8@IEEE.org...
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote in message
> > news:3C20DFCF.870C403@IEEE.org...
> > > Jim Kelley wrote:
> > > >
> > > > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > > > Because they are not worth the effort?
> > > >
> > > > What effort?
> > >
> > > The effort of getting out of a warm water bed and driving four hours > > > round trip in a thunderstorm.
> >
> > Life's a bitch, and then you die. Christmas shopping requires more effort.

> Exerting effort for something that is worth nothing to one makes one
> a masochist. Are you a masochist?

Asserting inuendo for no reason is something an boor would do. Are you an boor? You're wrong about amatuer radio. It's a hobby. Do you think people who build their own radios are masochists? I don't exert effort without a reason, Cecil.

4858. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:45:39 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vsnql$7lj$4@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 27715
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris

```
"Big Asshole" <Big_Al@anonynose.edu> wrote in message news:9vqkd4$dv0$0@pita.alt.net...
>
> "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> news:9vqitu$1gt$1@news.service.uci.edu...
> > KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vq6of$hoe$3@pita.alt.net...
> > >
> > > "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu> wrote in message
> > > news:3C1FA9AD.9B3DD642@uci.edu...
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > Donnie wrote:
> > > > > > Poor confused Wittle Woger Wabbit! He is so afwaid
> > > > > > of the girls. Little Woger breaks out in tears when a real > > > > > > live girl looks at him. Little Wogey then goes home to play > > > > > > with his blow up doll.
> > > > >
> > > > > What are you, nine?
> > > >
> > > > You're being to optimistic, Jim. This anonymous coward has spent his > > > > formative years being shuffled from foster home to foster home and just > > > > can't get out of those "special education" classes.
> > >
> > > Your posts are equally disgraceful.
> > >
>
> Roger's posts are not only disgraceful, they are > sickening, the work of a very sick mind! HO HO that's why
> Roger has a NG in his very own name alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman
> HO HO Gimme a call on the big rig when ya get home boy!
> HO HO

I heard your "posts" are being monitored by L.E. Laugh that off, LARDASS...
HO HO
```

4859. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 05:58:00 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C217DE8.22B61FFC@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27705

>
> A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.
> Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite
> for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.

An extra is equivalent to maybe a 5 credit class in an electrical engineering curriculum.

4860. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 06:01:35 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C217EBF.1047814A@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27706

krill wrote:

> In article <3c1fef5d_1@news7.fast.net>, wa6vse@fast.net says...
> >
> >
> > So FSK is not useful in amateur radio? Ever heard of RTTY? Packet?
>
> So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios are > made using YOUR PATENTS?? You must be a wealthy man or at least your > company is/was/maybe

4861. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 06:03:29 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <RafU7.173587$WW.10919654@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27707

N2EY wrote

> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired >
FCC ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:

> As of May 14, 2000:

> Novice - 49,329
> Tech - 205,394
> Tech Plus - 128,860
> General - 112,677
> Advanced - 99,782
> Extra - 78,750
> Total - 674,792

> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209

Why do you lump them into two groups like that?

> As of December 14, 2001:
> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)

less than 82% of previous

> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)

more than 113% of previous

> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)

less than 67% of previous

> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)

more than 122% of previous

> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)

less than 87% of previous

> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)

more than 124% of previous

> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)

more than 101% of previous ;-)

On the whole, this seems very normal and predictable.

The total ARS seems slow growth but it is growth..

I'm not sure what you're trying to say with the following...

> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006

Rich

4862. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 06:08:56 UTC
From: googlyelmo@earthlink.net Message-ID: <3C21805A.A8BFD3EF@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27708
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

About 2 years ago, a jointly administered department of the NSA and Army hired about 10 civilians, recruiting from among commercial maritime radio officers and the likes, to do morse intercept work. An ad was posted on a number of Fed websites, the NY Times Sunday classified, and copied to several USENET and LISTSERV groups by a ham who came across the original, specifying a proficency of at least 15 WPM. So yes, morse code is still in use by many militaries and intelligence agencies around the world. It should come as no surprise, really. The rapid advances in communications and data processing in the US, Europe, and the more affluent parts of Asia notwithstanding, CW is still a very useful mode where 21st century hardware and technical skills are in short supply. Have you ever wondered why you still hear clandestine "numbers" stations on SW/HF? It would seem like an awfully old, slow way to communicate, but it is reliable, and when the data is concise in the extreme, speed and convenience is not nearly as important as accuracy and dependability.

de Will, KD7BFX AR

EZ wrote:

> I'm an active duty military member, been a "ditty bopper" for over 15 years.
> I can tell you, alot of countries are still out there using Morse code for > tactical
> and strategic purposes. Long live Morse!
>
> Ezee
>
> "Jesus, EA4AQY" <jesus.guardon@navegalia.com> wrote in message
> news:3c1c769a@news.airtel.net...
> > And me too. But don't think about keyers are finished. We still should > make
> > noise on tha bands...
> > "Web" <WebFx27@hotmail.com> escribiï¿½ en el mensaje > > news:hCeS7.15523$161.7241951@news02.optonline.net...
> > > I aggree
> > >
> > > Web
> > >
> > >
> > > "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> > > news:39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com...
> > > >
> > > > "b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> > > > > Well said.

> > > > > People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft,
> > > > > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not
> > > > > "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry for > > > > > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw copy.
> > > > > Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> > > > > The easy way out is the booring way out.
> > > > > WB3DSJ
> > > > >
> > > > > You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may > love
> > > > the > > > > > digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so on
> and
> > > so > > > > > on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a > variety
> > > of > > > > > different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to do > > > > > whatever is allowed by that license class.
> > > > >
> > > > > Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either the
> > > dropping
> > > > > of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of it
> > > dropping > > > > > of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became > proactively > > > > > involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least > > 80%
> > > of > > > > > all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be"
> > > (i.e. > > > > > congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham
> > radio.
> > > > > We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us,
> but
> > > can > > > > > you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all the > way
> > up > > > > > to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur > > radio?
> > > > > I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire
> > fighting > > > > > related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others
> > to
> > > do
> > > > > so too.
> > > > >
> > > > > Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club > > > > > meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them

> > the > > > > experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public to > > > > actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually
> be > > > able > > > > to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we are > > > doing
> > > > .
> > > >
> > > > Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch > > > hobby.
> > > > Get involved!
> > > >
> > > > [first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other > > paragraphs > > > > are to everyone else.]
> > > >
> > > > Ryan KC8PMX
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> > > > > >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't,
> > > won't.
> > > > > >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> > > > > operation
> > > > > >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> > > > > >
> > > > > >Ryan
> > > > > >KC8PMX
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> > > > > >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> > > > > >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> Hi OMs,
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore > needed
> > > to > > > > > use
> > > > > >> the HF bands.
> > > > > >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will > > > get
> > > > > the
> > > > > >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> > > > > >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> > > > > >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released
> > > in

> > > > the > > > > > >> Netherlands.
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >> PE1PAE
> > > > > >>
> > > > > >>
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > >
> > >

4863. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 06:24:18 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C218412.945F8F3C@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27709
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Phil Kane wrote:

> On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 13:14:21 GMT, VE2VFD Pat wrote:
>
> >Where does it even hint at operating the radio IN a plane? I would > >assume no ham operator is actually stupid enough to even think about > >doing that! Geeez.
>
> You'd be surprised at the number of hams in these groups who brag > that they have done so "and nothing happened".
>

Nothing happened that they knew about. Maybe they interfered with equipment the pilot didn't need to use at the time (like during cruise at 30Kfeet). Or the pilot had a backup he switched to. The pilot may have figured something broke down and he'll have it fixed/swapped out at the next airport.

I've heard stories of a flight during the Superbowl where passengers listening to the game on radios caused interference with pilot equipment. And that is just LO leakage, not intentional emitters.

4864. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 06:47:20 UTC
From: Robert Casey <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com>
Message-ID: <3C218978.23B91356@ix.netcom.com>
Source record: 27710

>
>
> WHAT?! Apartment?! Weren't you using the colloquialism "trailer park > trash" some time ago? Wow, and you live in an apartment? Man, Larry, you > portend far more intelligence than to pay good money for nothing you will > ever own...

Some people choose apartments because they know that their career will have them moving every few years. The electrical engineer field is like that, especially when companies downsize when they get a tummy ache. Other points: Upside, no lawn to mow, downside: no visible antennas, upside: you get the landlord to fix the toilet, downside:
noisy neighbors.

Larry, if you're on the top floor, there may be an access hatch in a closet you can open to get to an attic crawlspace. I've used such for crude dipole HF antennas. Did a station in Antarctica on such once.

4865. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 08:22:14 UTC
From: pproctor@neosoft.com
Message-ID: <336D1D3074E71BF6.7E14ED6979DC6C7D.F2352BD3BE528AB0@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27723
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

In article <4zeU7.3273$Rw4.780022@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net> "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> writes:
>From: "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net>
>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.
>Date: Thu, 20 Dec 2001 05:21:05 GMT

>Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police >officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed
>by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.

>His quote:
>"Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of >vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's >license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."

Not that simple. Having stopped a car under "reasonable suspicion", LEO's can search the area under control of the driver or a passenger for weapons. The legal theory is that the safety of the officer allows for a specific exemption to 4th amendment protections. If, incidental to this search, they find contraband, this is admissible as evidence.

Admittedly, as a practical matter, this is all a legal fiction that allows officers to search when and where. But it still means there are some limitations. E.g., LEO's cannot search a locked container, which gives an "expectation of privacy". Similarly, a local judge once threw out contraband found in a metal Bandaid box after a defense attorney pointed out that it was too small to have held any weapon and thus should not have been opened.

Dr P

4866. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 10:02:37 UTC
From: Bill Nelson <billn@spock.peak.org>
Message-ID: <9vscvt$8jf$5@quark.scn.rain.com>
Source record: 27711
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

In rec.radio.cb N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police > officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed
> by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.

Officers have been wrong before - which is why evidence from searches is sometimes ruled inadmissable.

His statement is too broad to be true all the time.

--
Bill Nelson (billn@peak.org)

4867. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 10:10:32 UTC
From: pproctor@neosoft.com
Message-ID: <4FA4DA80D5E889BD.5FF67A064095F055.2C29C0D5742EDAE4@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27733
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

In article <3C21FE17.1C6ACC0D@gte.net> N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> writes:
>From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
>Subject: Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.
>Date: Thu, 20 Dec 2001 15:04:04 GMT

>> His statement is too broad to be true all the time.

>He is totally right. The officer has the >right, confirmed by the courts, to inspect >anything that is a car. Especially anything >that is within reach of the driver.

This is not a blanket power. In theory, the exemption to the 4th amendment is given only to search for only for weapons to protect the officer.
And then only the area under control of the driver or the passengers. There are specific exemptions for locked containers and (if memory serves) things like backpacks which give an "expectation of privacy". At least nominally, the 4th amendment still is in effect.

>While this has been mostly used over issues
>like firearms and drugs, it can apply to cell >phones and radios if these devices would >constitute a hazard to safe driving.

Arguando, an LEO might be able to confiscate a cell phone that he actually sees cause a traffic hazard. Otherwise, not.... In theory, anything might cause a "hazard to safe driving".

>I do not think that you realize how much authority >the courts have given the police over the last 10
>years.

Damn-fool War on Drugs again....

Dr P

4868. cq radio clubs - g3zhi club talk

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 10:27:14 UTC
From: g3zhi@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <3c21bbd4.3521808@news.btinternet.com>
Source record: 27712

if you would like me to give a talk to your radio club then please email me
the talk is given over the air using the iphone program the subjct will be iphone internet repeater linking http://www.qsl.net/g3zhi

73 ian

4869. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 11:27:21 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vshrk02u3r@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27713
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"Jim Weir" <jim@rst-engr.com> wrote in message news:u2q22u85asi99rl8i9qi6p0on6ehvjb84c@4ax.com...

> do you have the foggiest FREAKING idea what it means to snip?

Circumcision?

4870. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 12:32:06 UTC
From: John Kimball <johnkimb@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <9vsllo$5sm$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27714
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 07:46:39 -0500, "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in Message id: <9vq6odhoe2@pita.alt.net>:

>No, but I hear you slurp nutsacks behind dumpsters and are too CHICKENSHIT
>to post under your real name, COWARD.

So is 8L0J08 your first name, or last name?

--
"Dr. Seuess is above your reading level."
^^^^^^
Roger Wiseman, Rhodes scholar, blows his cover in Message-ID: <9u0smepoe0@dosa.alt.net>

4871. Re: K1MANs Reply to Wile E. Hollywood, Selective Enforcement

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 12:49:05 UTC
From: paul harris <paul@sandwitch.org>
Message-ID: <4A8A59F2BDCDD311BFC800508BA36AC80BB917A5@www.premiersi.com>
Source record: 27719

K1MAN sounds more paranoid and "whacko" everytime a new letter gets published. Those little touches like emphasizing "professional engineer" make it so funny to listen to - as if a PE title somehow adds more credibility to the tales of woe. Is this tale of sorrow an "engineered" effort to get Riley out of the FCC?

... Does anyone (except K1MAN) even care?

"Rafman" <rafman2u@yahoo.com> wrote in message news:jedU7.2945$Cw3.337247@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net...
> Found on: http://members.aol.com/jcunham/
>
> From: Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
>
> 14 December 2001 2:47 P.M.
>
> W. Riley Hollingsworth, Esq.
> Special Counsel, Enforcement Bureau
> Federal Communications Commission
> Gettysburg, Pa. 17325-7245
>
> Mr. Hollingsworth:
>
> This is in reference to your "warning letter" to me dated 11 December > 2001. I was accurately advised about your letter to me and its exact > contents by both Keith Lamonica, W7DXX, and Dick Leavitt, W2CSQ, on 11 > December 2001. This is an ethical violation of FCC ex parte rules of > procedure and supports my public allegations that you are a sleazy and > cheap politician as well as an unethical (alleged) attorney not fit > for employment by the United States Government.
>
> Your letter illegally threatens me with a "license revocation or > renewal hearing" because I have (and fully intend to continue) filed > sworn affidavits with the U.S. Attorney regarding alleged criminal > violations of Sections 333 and 501 of the 1934 Communications Act.
>
> My filing of these sworn affidavits are protected by the First > Amendment to the United Stated Constitution protecting free speech as > well as the Fourth Amendment regarding my absolute right to petition > the government for a redress of grievances.
>
> Further, your letter, itself, and you openly encouraging radio > amateurs to "talk over" my radio transmissions, is also a criminal > violation of Section 501 as well as criminal obstruction of justice, > and I am taking legal steps to assure that you are vigorously > prosecuted and also removed from your employment at the FCC. I am > also taking legally sanctioned steps to assure that you are disbarred

> as a licensed attorney (if, in fact, you are licensed to practice law > in any state.
>
> For your information, K1MAN is fully licensed to transmit information > bulletins per a published schedule, and the K1MAN Bulletin Service is > specifically recognized to be lawful in a letter from FCC Chief of > Special Services, Robert H. Mc Namara, to Kenneth Black, G4WNE, dated
> 2 November 1989 (reference 7240-F). If you are really an attorney, > and we question whether you are, you will understand the legal > doctrine of res judicata that applies in this matter.
>
> Finally, you have publicly lied to radio amateurs that you had > something to do with putting my station, K1MAN, off the air in 1999 > which, of course, is totally false. You have total immunity for this > sort of defamation and libel, as you well know, and you take full > public relations advantage of this government immunity. You are,
> however, a public disgrace to the Amateur Radio Service, to the > Commission, to the legal profession, and to the United States of > America.
>
> We look forward to seeing you in court.
>
>
>
> (signed)
>
> Glenn A. Baxter, P.E., K1MAN
> Registered Professional Engineer
>
> cc: FCC Chairman Powell
> U.S. Attorney, Bangor, Maine
> Senator Susan Collins
> Senator Olympia Snow
> American Bar Association
> W5YI
> WA6ITF
> ARRL
> W2CSQ
> W7DXX
> Distribution
>
>

4872. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 13:25:07 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21e790_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27716

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011220000258.06877.00000586@mb-mj.aol.com...
> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired
FCC
> ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:
>
> As of May 14, 2000:
>
> Novice - 49,329
> Tech - 205,394
> Tech Plus - 128,860
> General - 112,677
> Advanced - 99,782
> Extra - 78,750
> Total - 674,792
>
> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
>
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209
>
>
>
> As of December 14, 2001:
>
> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)
> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)
>
> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
>
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

Seems the upgrade bandwagon is still on. Also, even if we wanted to "just say" that all the Novices that caused a decrease of 8,992 had upgraded to Tech; that still means that there were still 19,268 "unexpired" Tech licenses. I wonder how many of those are new licenses, Jim. Is there a way to easily tell?

Kim W5TIT

4873. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 13:30:40 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21e8e2_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27717

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
news:4zeU7.3273$Rw4.780022@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net...
>
> : > > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm
to
> : the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing
> : > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to
> : > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
> : > >
> : > > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
> : > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
> : > >
> : > > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is
> : > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> : > > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some
> : > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
> : > >
> : > > --
> : > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
> : >
> : > Remember the same thing happens to
> : > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
> : > legal.
> :
> : There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
> : which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
> : to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
> : possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
> : rather than ever offering one justification of probable
> : cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.
>
> Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police > officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed > by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.
>
> His quote:
> "Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of > vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's > license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."
>
>

It is my understanding, though I've never researched this, that as of a few (read: unsure how many) years ago there is no more need for "reasonable cause" to search a home, vehicle, possession, etc., of anyone by a police officer. The Miranda Act is also either suspended or severely curtailed--no need for a police officer to read you your rights any more. Don't know what else, but that's a couple of things I've heard--I also don't know if this is specific to Texas or not.

Kim W5TIT

4874. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 13:33:23 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21e983_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27718

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C217DE8.22B61FFC@ix.netcom.com...
> >
> > A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.
> > Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite > > for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.
>
> An extra is equivalent to maybe a 5 credit class in an electrical > engineering curriculum.
>

I heartell some employers regard an MCSE as equal to, I believe, and Engineering Degree (as in, what? four years of college?)

Kim W5TIT

4875. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 13:37:45 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21ea86$1_2@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27720

Robert:

Just so that you and others will know. I place absolutely no importance on where one lives. I don't care if you live in a ritzy neighborhood, or a cardboard box under a bridge. I've met very interesting people from all walks of life.

My post was a slam, directed specifically at Larry, for his use of the term "trailer park trash" and such.

Kim W5TIT

"Robert Casey" <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message news:3C218978.23B91356@ix.netcom.com...
>
>
>
> >
> >
> > WHAT?! Apartment?! Weren't you using the colloquialism "trailer park > > trash" some time ago? Wow, and you live in an apartment? Man, Larry,
you > > portend far more intelligence than to pay good money for nothing you will > > ever own...
>
> Some people choose apartments because they know that their career > will have them moving every few years. The electrical engineer field > is like that, especially when companies downsize when they get a tummy > ache. Other points: Upside, no lawn to mow, downside: no visible > antennas, upside: you get the landlord to fix the toilet, downside:
> noisy neighbors.
>
> Larry, if you're on the top floor, there may be an access hatch > in a closet you can open to get to an attic crawlspace. I've > used such for crude dipole HF antennas. Did a station > in Antarctica on such once.
>

4876. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 13:54:47 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c21ee85_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27721

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message news:3c21e8e2_2@newsa.ev1.net...
> "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
> news:4zeU7.3273$Rw4.780022@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net...
> >
> > : > > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm
> to
> > : the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing
> > : > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides
to
> > : > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
> > : > >
> > : > > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
> > : > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
> > : > >
> > : > > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law)
is
> > : > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> > : > > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some
> > : > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
> > : > >
> > : > > --
> > : > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
> > : >
> > : > Remember the same thing happens to
> > : > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
> > : > legal.
> > :
> > : There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
> > : which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
> > : to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
> > : possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
> > : rather than ever offering one justification of probable
> > : cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.
> >
> > Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police > > officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed > > by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.
> >
> > His quote:
> > "Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches

of > > vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a > driver's > > license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."
> >
> >

CORRECTION:
Sorry, let me correct the statement below, and change "reasonable cause" to search warrant. I think there is still a need for reasonable cause...and I apologize for letting my fingers do the walking while I was thinking of a different tangent of this discussion...

>
> It is my understanding, though I've never researched this, that as of a few > (read: unsure how many) years ago there is no more need for "reasonable > cause" to search a home, vehicle, possession, etc., of anyone by a police > officer. The Miranda Act is also either suspended or severely curtailed--no > need for a police officer to read you your rights any more. Don't know what > else, but that's a couple of things I've heard--I also don't know if this
is > specific to Texas or not.
>
> Kim W5TIT
>
>

4877. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 14:17:44 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220091744.01493.00000294@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27722

In article <RafU7.173587$WW.10919654@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>N2EY wrote
>
>> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired >
>FCC ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:
>
>> As of May 14, 2000:
>
>> Novice - 49,329
>> Tech - 205,394
>> Tech Plus - 128,860
>> General - 112,677
>> Advanced - 99,782
>> Extra - 78,750
>> Total - 674,792
>
>> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
>> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209
>
>Why do you lump them into two groups like that?

I'm following an idea that came from N0BK.

The first group are, for lack of a better term, "entry level" license classes with few HF/MF privileges. In the case of Novices, few privileges at all. And before the restructuring, these were the slow codetest/nocodetest classes.

The second group have all MF/VHF/UHF and lots of HF privileges. In fact the only operating privilege differences between the second-group classes are a few bits of 80,40,20 and 15 meters. Before the restructuring, these were the faster codetest/code waiver classes.

The divide back then was about 57% in the first group and 43% in the second.
>
>> As of December 14, 2001:
>> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
>
>less than 82% of previous

Yup - due to expirations and upgrades.
>
>> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
>
>more than 113% of previous

Due to new hams, upgrades from Novice and renewals from Tech Plus. Expirations and upgrades decrease this number, but the increase factors outweigh the decrease factors.
>
>> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)

Due to expirations, upgrades and renewals as Techs
>
>less than 67% of previous

Disappearing fastest of all
>
>> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
>
>more than 122% of previous

Upgrades and new licenses, etc.
>
>> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
>
>less than 87% of previous

Similar situation to Tech Plus but renewals stay Advanced
>
>> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
>
>more than 124% of previous

Fastest growing license class of all.
>
>> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)
>
>more than 101% of previous ;-)
>
>On the whole, this seems very normal and predictable.

Hard to say - it's only been 2 years since the announcement and 20 months since the actual changes.

One thing is clear - restructuring did NOT bring in lots of new hams. What it did do was cause lots of upgrades among those already licensed. But the rate of those upgrades has slowed since the Great Surge of mid 2000. The total number of US hams is actually down several thousand from the peak, reached earlier this year. Part of this loss is seasonal, and part is due to the first post-Feb-14-1991 Technician licenses starting to expire.
>
>The total ARS seems slow growth but it is growth..

True, but what is it compared to the growth in US population over the same time period?
>
>I'm not sure what you're trying to say with the following...
>
>> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860

>> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006
>
The mix has changed compared to the above (which see). Was 57%-43%, now it's 53%-47%. More folks with lots of HF/MF.

--

The numbers in my posts on this thread are NOT from the AH0A website. They are from a source which lists Techs and Tech Pluses separately. This source does not show historic data, however. These posts and the archive can serve the purpose of storing the historic data.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4878. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 14:55:34 UTC
From: ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now
Message-ID: <3c21fb8c.8589072@news.aei.net>
Source record: 27724
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 21:03:09 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
wrote:

> You'd be surprised at the number of hams in these groups who brag > that they have done so "and nothing happened".

sigh

Well, there goes the impression I had that we hams "knew better" about these things... :o)

Pat
ve2vfd

4879. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:02:31 UTC
From: Frank Ney <n4zhg@icqmail.com>
Message-ID: <4gu32usu0q9v2f5vrbr1krag7uvkqssjfg@4ax.com>
Source record: 27725
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 22:22:29 -0500, an orbiting mind control laser caused
"Bill Sohl" <billsohl@mindspring.com> to write in talk.politics.guns :

>There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
>which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
>to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of >possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
>rather than ever offering one justification of probable
>cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.

It's usually called "contempt of cop".

While I've got the opportunity here, I'm in the process of writing up a petition to the FCC to add verbiage to our wallet license citing 47 USC 302a(f)(2). Something along the lines of:

"This license is issued pursuant to Section 301 of the Communications Act of 1934. As such, the bearer shall not be subject to action by state or local government for lawful operations under this license.
47USC302a(f)(2)"

It wouldn't have to be large type or anything. I recall our old tickets having at least the 'pursuant to Section 301' verbiage, so it would be a matter of replacing something that was removed and adding a bit to it.

The intent is to make it clear that Feingold only applies to Part 95 operations and not anywhere else. Basically do the job that congress and the ARRL should have done year before last. It likely won't fly, but at least it would put the FCC on notice that some of us think there's a problem here.

Thoughts?

Frank Ney N4ZHG WV/EMT-B LPWV NRA(L) ProvNRA GOA CCRKBA JPFO
--
"I believe a self-righteous liberal Democrat with a cause is more dangerous than a Hell's Angel with an attitude."
-- Ted Nugent
Just Say No to Gestapo Tactics http://reduce.to/justsayno/
Abuses by the BATF http://www.hamnet.net/~n4zhg/batfabus.html

4880. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:04:04 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C21FE17.1C6ACC0D@gte.net>
Source record: 27726
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

>
> > Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police > > officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed > > by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.
>
> Officers have been wrong before - which is why evidence from searches > is sometimes ruled inadmissable.
>
> His statement is too broad to be true all the time.

He is totally right. The officer has the right, confirmed by the courts, to inspect anything that is a car. Especially anything that is within reach of the driver.

While this has been mostly used over issues
like firearms and drugs, it can apply to cell
phones and radios if these devices would constitute a hazard to safe driving.

I do not think that you realize how much authority
the courts have given the police over the last 10
years.

4881. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:07:03 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net>
Source record: 27728
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

>
> > > > > >The average cop has less than 5 years on the force.
> > > > > >Most academy classes will see over half of the graduates
> > > > > >out of law enforcement by 5 years. It is mostly a bunch > > > > > >of young, inexperienced officers out there.
> > > > >
> > > > > >No law really has merit until it has been in front of an appeals > > > > > >court. No one really knows the limits until then. The city > attorney can give an opinion, but it has no merit as a ruling.
> > > > >
> > > > > Cops don't tend to care much about the "feel good" laws > > > > > that some towns enanct. Why should they when the > > > > > cut and dried basic criminal laws and traffic enforcement > > > > > easily take their time. As another poster noted here,
> > > > > the CB type law that Tacoma passed won't be enforced
> > > > > except by action initiated by a resident's complaint. The > > > > > same is true for most nuisance laws. If none of the > > > > > neighbors care that Mr. Smith's dog barks for hours, then > > > > > the cops sure aren't going to.
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > >These are not loose cannons rather they are just inexperienced > > > > > >officers. They are very professional.
> > > > >
> > > > > If they are professional, then they won't take
> > > > > knee jerk actions just because they are inexperienced.
> > > > > 5 years of service had better be more than enough experience
> > > > > for any cop anywhere to have honed his skills and > > > > > knowledge.
> > > > >
> > > > > >But if they do not know > > > > > >what to do, they will cite into the courts and let the courts > settle it.
> > > > >
> > > > > You say that and it is absolute rubbish. Maybe it is > > > > > so in some backwoods towns in your area, but it sure
> > > > > isn't the case in the northeast, nor in many other > > > > > areas I have either lived or traveled in. Police brass, > > > > > municipal attornies, judges and elected officials do NOT > > > > > take lightly to heavy handed police actions that end up in > > > > > lost court cases and or in civil suits for false arrest.
>
> > > > Look at the lady arrested for having the fake > > > > grenade:

> > >
> > > I can easily see where a fake grenade can get anyone in trouble.
> > > That is a far cry from a radio that is not at all illegal in any shape > > > or form.
> >
> > You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
> > who feel that the public does not have a right to own
> > such technology. That includes things like ham radio, > > CB, scanners as well as things like guns.
>
> That is hogwash. I haven't seen any such "growing > numbers" opposed to CBs, radios, etc. Indeed, there > has been NO movement to ban scanners at all...rather > some states (e.g. NJ) have relaxed old laws which > did ban scanners in autos.
>
> > There is the feeling that the public can not be trusted, > > that too many use technology for crime or to try to > > overthrow the government. Many would prefer that only > > those who are paid on a professional basis should be allowed > > to have access to radios or weapons.
>
> More hogwash. Even if there is some such sentiment, > there hasn't been any support for that attitude in the press,
> the legislatures, etc.
>
> Bill K2UNK

I gather that you do not read that many papers
everyday. The Washington Post, LA Times, NY Times, Chicago Tribune all go on "crusades"
every so often over gun ownership, cell phones, scanners. The elite do not like the fact that the masses understand, and use, technology.

4882. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:11:10 UTC
From: OldBiker <vito@crosslink.net>
Message-ID: <3C21FF8E.7397C0D2@crosslink.net>
Source record: 27727
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Robert Casey wrote:
> ....
> I've heard stories of a flight during the Superbowl where passengers > listening to the game on radios caused interference with pilot
> equipment. And that is just LO leakage, not intentional emitters.

If those tales are true, the aircraft industry is in deep trouble. I operate a laptop & 50W 2M packet station while my child bride hunts DX on a 100W HF rig beside me with no mutual interference on cheap consumer equipment and I have a tad of knowledge about the immunity of military gear. OTOH I read that airport radars are often down for months waiting for obsolete tubes at the same time the military is scrapping 3D radars only one generation old so I wouldn't key up on an airplane either.
Oy!
KA3DWW

4883. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:47:19 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <bKnU7.233649$3d2.11190853@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27729

> >N2EY wrote

> >> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired
>
> >FCC ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:

> >> As of May 14, 2000:

> >> Novice - 49,329
> >> Tech - 205,394
> >> Tech Plus - 128,860
> >> General - 112,677
> >> Advanced - 99,782
> >> Extra - 78,750
> >> Total - 674,792

> >> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
> >> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209

> Richard Plourde writes

> >Why do you lump them into two groups like that?

N2EY wrote

> I'm following an idea that came from N0BK.

> The first group are, for lack of a better term, "entry level" license classes > with few HF/MF privileges. In the case of Novices, few privileges at all.
And
> before the restructuring, these were the slow codetest/nocodetest classes.

My point is AFTER restructuring it's just not meaningful to lump them in this way.

First, you have one group quantifying two obsolete license classes and one active class. The other group has one obsolete license and two active classes. To compare them is fruitless, pointless, and furthermore nothing can be derived from the data. It's a waste of time to add up those groups now that we can't say it's the slow/no beepers versus the fast beepers.

Second, to call Technician class entry level is being ingenuous quite a few hams will do some highly advanced work there without ever 'talking around the world' on MF/HF. This is NOT entry level to them.

> The second group have all MF/VHF/UHF and lots of HF privileges. In fact
the > only operating privilege differences between the second-group classes are

a > few bits of 80,40,20 and 15 meters. Before the restructuring, these were
the > faster codetest/code waiver classes.

Again, it's AFTER restructuring and the data of this group is not meaningful when compared to the other group.

> The divide back then was about 57% in the first group and 43% in the second.

So what, the group has two obsolete classes. I'm still not sure what you think the data says.

> >> As of December 14, 2001:
> >> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)

> >less than 82% of previous

> Yup - due to expirations and upgrades.

> >> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)

> >more than 113% of previous

> Due to new hams, upgrades from Novice and renewals from Tech Plus.
Expirations
> and upgrades decrease this number, but the increase factors outweigh the > decrease factors.

> >> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)

> Due to expirations, upgrades and renewals as Techs

> >less than 67% of previous

> Disappearing fastest of all

The most meaningless, useless class of all...

> >> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)

> >more than 122% of previous

> Upgrades and new licenses, etc.

> >> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)

> >less than 87% of previous

> Similar situation to Tech Plus but renewals stay Advanced

> >> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)

> >more than 124% of previous

> Fastest growing license class of all.

> >> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)

> >more than 101% of previous ;-)

> >On the whole, this seems very normal and predictable.

> Hard to say - it's only been 2 years since the announcement and 20 months since
> the actual changes.

> One thing is clear - restructuring did NOT bring in lots of new hams. What it > did do was cause lots of upgrades among those already licensed. But the rate of > those upgrades has slowed since the Great Surge of mid 2000. The total number > of US hams is actually down several thousand from the peak, reached earlier > this year. Part of this loss is seasonal, and part is due to the first > post-Feb-14-1991 Technician licenses starting to expire.

Very true.

> >The total ARS seems slow growth but it is growth..

> True, but what is it compared to the growth in US population over the same time > period?

Not sure but I would think it's close, also, we need to compare to the population growth for the age groups that would tend to become hams.

> >I'm not sure what you're trying to say with the following...

> >> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
> >> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006

> The mix has changed compared to the above (which see). Was 57%-43%, now it's > 53%-47%. More folks with lots of HF/MF.

So??? we already said two of the classes cannot increase (or even stay the same) in one group and in the other group the license class that can't grow will NOT shrink as fast as the other two because it is a VERY GOOD license class Advanced will tend to stay there for life.

> The numbers in my posts on this thread are NOT from the AH0A website. They are > from a source which lists Techs and Tech Pluses separately. This source does > not show historic data, however. These posts and the archive can serve the > purpose of storing the historic data.

Well Jim, I think that your or N0BK's groupings are of virtually no value... I think to monitor the rate of changes over time will tell a lot more than just presenting the raw totals in wierd disjointed groupings.

Check out my post from the 5th of this month, in dejanews, search on "Rich Technician Plus". I presented quite a bit there about the rates of change in the classes. I'm not sure you'd seen it. (you never responded.

Rich

4884. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:48:37 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C220855.AA77F47D@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27730

Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior to > Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited
> his opinion in the first place.

The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells us something about Riley's prudish hangups.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4885. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:56:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C220A3E.D006520F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27731

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > Exerting effort for something that is worth nothing to one makes one > > a masochist. Are you a masochist?
>
> I don't exert effort without a reason, Cecil.

Well then, you don't exert effort for something that is worth nothing.
So please don't expect others to do something that you refuse to do.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4886. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 15:59:05 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C220AC9.3A5FC71@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27732

Robert Casey wrote:
>
> >
> > A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.
> > Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite > > for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.
>
> An extra is equivalent to maybe a 5 credit class in an electrical > engineering curriculum.

But I am talking about ratios: PhD/BS = extra/tech+
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4887. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 16:18:41 UTC
From: Kamatu <admin@ahww.net>
Message-ID: <9vt3bd0119d@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27737
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"VE2VFD Pat" <ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now> wrote in message news:3c21fb8c.8589072@news.aei.net...
> On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 21:03:09 GMT, "Phil Kane" <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
> wrote:
>
> > You'd be surprised at the number of hams in these groups who brag > > that they have done so "and nothing happened".
>
> sigh
>
> Well, there goes the impression I had that we hams "knew better" about > these things... :o)
>

Hi, I'm new to hamming, and taking the test on January 17th for my Tech License. But this strikes me as funny I guess. One would wonder why Ham Radio would be immune to any of the "human" things affecting so many other aspects of our lives. How many people drive 20 miles over the speed limit and claim "nothing bad has happened so far"? Or for that matter, in most every thing inlife there is that faction of folks who believe they are above the "rules".

Isn't the point of Ham Radio supposed to be that it is inhabited by people who have the common sense to police themselves?

Because when it comes right down to it, I'm getting my ham license because I can't stand the snake pit of Citizen Band and I want to be involved in radio where people make a difference to the hobby.

Maybe, when someone claims they have used their rigs on a plane with no ill effects someone should mention to them that, while true they may not have noticed it, by claiming such they are making a mockery of the entire Amateur Radio mission.

--
Jim
No Call Sign, yet.

4888. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 16:22:47 UTC
From: Kim-W5TIT <nospam@none.net>
Message-ID: <3c221146_1@newsa.ev1.net>
Source record: 27735

"tw��,.." <.tw,@nothomeexcite5,yahoomsnATTBI.org.com> wrote in message news:YNnU7.13583$NM4.3197237@rwcrnsc53...
> X-No-Archive: yes
>
> "Peter H. Proctor" <pproctor@neosoft.com> wrote in message > news:336D1D3074E71BF6.7E14ED6979DC6C7D.F2352BD3BE528AB0@lp.airnews.net...
> > Not that simple. Having stopped a car under "reasonable > suspicion",
> > LEO's can search the area under control of the driver or a passenger for > > weapons. The legal theory is that the safety of the officer allows for > a > > specific exemption to 4th amendment protections. If, incidental to > this
> > search, they find contraband, this is admissible as evidence.
> > Admittedly, as a practical matter, this is all a legal fiction
> that > > allows officers to search when and where. But it still means there
> are > > some limitations. E.g., LEO's cannot search a locked container, which > gives > > an "expectation of privacy". Similarly, a local judge once threw out > > contraband found in a metal Bandaid box after a defense attorney pointed > out > > that it was too small to have held any weapon and thus should not have > been > > opened.
>
>
> Here in Texas, a LEO can not search a car at all unless granted by the > driver of the vehicle or a search warrant.
>
>

That is not the way I understand it at all. In fact, I've got a police dispatcher friend who can probably tell me...I'll send him a note and find out.

Kim W5TIT

4889. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 16:25:06 UTC
From: Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com>
Message-ID: <06442u0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn4bh2@4ax.com>
Source record: 27734
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote <3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net> in talk.politics.guns. :

>> > You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
>> > who feel that the public does not have a right to own
>> > such technology. That includes things like ham radio, >> > CB, scanners as well as things like guns.

Cite.

4890. .

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 16:48:48 UTC
From: k4yz@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220114848.09658.00001060@mb-fm.aol.com>
Source record: 27736

```
Callsign: N9NWO Class: General Codes: HAI USA
Name: GREGORY A DEAN
Addr1: PO BOX 2121
Addr2: WEST LAFAYETTE, IN 47996-2121
Country: USA
Effective: 15 Jul 2000 Expires: 21 Jan 2002 Online Renewals...
License ID: L00090874 FRN: 0003005485 What's this?
Lookups: 163
```

4891. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:03:00 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220120300.05154.00000492@mb-fm.aol.com>
Source record: 27738

In article <3c21e790_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
>news:20011220000258.06877.00000586@mb-mj.aol.com...
>> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired
>FCC
>> ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:
>>
>> As of May 14, 2000:
>>
>> Novice - 49,329
>> Tech - 205,394
>> Tech Plus - 128,860
>> General - 112,677
>> Advanced - 99,782
>> Extra - 78,750
>> Total - 674,792
>>
>> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
>>
>> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209
>>
>>
>>
>> As of December 14, 2001:
>>
>> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
>> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
>> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)
>> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
>> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
>> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
>> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)
>>
>> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
>>
>> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006
>>
>> 73 de Jim, N2EY
>
>Seems the upgrade bandwagon is still on.

Yes, but it's slowing down a bit. But that's to be expected.

>Also, even if we wanted to "just >say" that all the Novices that caused a decrease of 8,992 had upgraded to >Tech; that still means that there were still 19,268 "unexpired" Tech >licenses.

I have no idea what you are trying to say, Kim.

Let's "just say" that 8992 Novices passed "new" Element 2 and got Techs. The other 19,268 Techs in the increase came from new licenses, renewals from Technician plus, and grace-period renewals.

But that oversimplifies the situation. In reality some of the Novice decrease is due to expiration, some to upgrading to Tech, and some to upgrading to General or Extra. End result is a real mixed bag, and the other classes are similarly complex.

>I wonder how many of those are new licenses, Jim. Is there a way >to easily tell?

http://www.ah0a.org

lists FCC actions per month. Among the data shown are total licenses, new licenses, modified licenses, renewals, expirations, cancellations and renewals-in-the-grace-period. Unfortunately the post restructuring AH0A data combines Tech and Tech Plus into a single number, so I had to go elsewhere for these numbers. Also, FCC and AH0A do not list upgrades separately - they are lumped in with modifications such as address and name changes. I don't know how they categorize vanity call applications (you get a renewal with a vanity call so that they don't have to pro-rate the fee).

Cancellations are partly due to disciplinary action and partly due to the families of silent keys. The recent vanity call changes caused an increase in cancellations because families of dead hams started sending in cancellation letters so that the SK's call could be acquired by someone else. So there's no easy way to tell from cancellation numbers how many offenders are losing their licenses due to FCC enforcement.

As you can see, it's tough to dig out the info you want to know. If you add up the number of new licenses on the AH0A site you get a pretty big number that is pretty close to the number of new hams entering the ARS. Most of them are Technicians because most people get the Tech as their first license.

The per-month numbers wander all over the place for seasonal and batch-process reasons that we have discussed previously. To get a clear picture, one needs to add up, say, a year's worth and look at long-term trends.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4892. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:30:26 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C222032.AF793CED@uci.edu>
Source record: 27739

CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> wrote:
> > > Exerting effort for something that is worth nothing to one makes one > > > a masochist. Are you a masochist?
> >
> > I don't exert effort without a reason, Cecil.
>
> Well then, you don't exert effort for something that is worth nothing.

Ham radio is worth nothing? Great spokesman you are.

4893. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:32:28 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C2220AC.BA6CE7F6@uci.edu>
Source record: 27740

```
CAM wrote:
>
> Robert Casey wrote:
> >
> > >
> > > A Ph.D. degree is to a BS degree as a tech license is to an extra license.
> > > Any holder of a BS degree who doesn't have a Ph.D. degree is a hypocrite > > > for ragging on a tech+ who doesn't have an extra license.
> >
> > An extra is equivalent to maybe a 5 credit class in an electrical > > engineering curriculum.
>
> But I am talking about ratios: PhD/BS = extra/tech+

BWAAhaha. 15 units/10 units, maybe.
```

4894. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:38:19 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C22220B.1AF1C860@uci.edu>
Source record: 27741

Rick Adams wrote:
>
> On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 08:57:41 -0800, "Jim Kelley" <jwkelley@uci.edu>
> wrote:
>
> >What kind of "sub-atomic particle"?
>
> I couldn't tell you, offhand. I saw a mention of the research > in the newspaper, and heard a reference to it on a NOVA show Chris was > watching while I was on the air, but I don't know enough about it (or > physics, for that matter) to say.

Sounds a little fishy. Was it a photon transporter? ;-)

4895. Re: "no homebrew licenses" (was: UK foundation class)

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:44:10 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C22236A.D886E324@uci.edu>
Source record: 27743

Richard Plourde wrote:
> Jim Kelley wrote

> > Aren't "homebrew licenses" illegal?
>
> We all have 'homebrew licenses' but not 'homebrew' licenses... ;-)

I clearly meant the latter. ;-)

4896. Re: .

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 17:54:10 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <uubkA8XiBHA.1900@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27742

The opinion of Steve Robeson K4YZ seems to be......

>Callsign: N9NWO Class: General Codes: HAI USA
>Name: GREGORY A DEAN

Your point?

Hans

4897. Re: Radio fun!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 18:04:57 UTC
From: Nutcase with a Yaesu 1000MP <nforester4@hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <dLpU7.4197$Cw3.513706@newsread2.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 27744
Cross-posted to:
alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

"Lloyd Davies" <daviesl@bellsouth.net> wrote in message news:XeeU7.309071$AR6.5856396@e3500-atl1.usenetserver.com...

> http://www.435online.com/

This looks to be a GREAT BUNCH to have somebody sponsor into the ever-growing 14,313 Mess - Part II They also look like they could have some fun and contribute to 14.275, 3.901 and CLN's Motley's on 3.860 also.
Some Puerto Rico VEC should fix their next test so they can get it up on HF and join the big boys!

4898. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 18:05:31 UTC
From: Panhead <Panmyfinger@fcc.com>
Message-ID: <3C22286B.956D2B7D@fcc.com>
Source record: 27745
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

Robert Frenchu wrote:
>
> > N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote <3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net> in talk.politics.guns. :
>
> >> > You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
> >> > who feel that the public does not have a right to own
> >> > such technology. That includes things like ham radio, > >> > CB, scanners as well as things like guns.
>
> Cite.

DARN!
There's goes another Radio Shack down the tubes!

4899. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 18:11:48 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C2229E4.1E19F8BC@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27746

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> >
> > Jim Kelley wrote:
> > > I don't exert effort without a reason, Cecil.
> >
> > Well then, you don't exert effort for something that is worth nothing.
>
> Ham radio is worth nothing? Great spokesman you are.

Ham radio is worth nothing to 99+% of the general population.
Only a very small minority of the general population thinks a ham radio license is worth more than nothing. Please don't judge the general population by your personal ideas of worth.
Please don't judge techs by your personal ideas of worth.
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4900. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 18:23:52 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C222CB8.4E7EF533@uci.edu>
Source record: 27747

CAM wrote:
> Please don't judge techs by your personal ideas of worth.

I'm in as good a position to "judge techs" as anyone else - having been one myself, Cecil. When were you ever a tech?

4901. inappropriate Christmas carols

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 19:08:43 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <%GqU7.174231$WW.10966907@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27748

Considering that we are about to celebrate an event that actually took place about September 23, it is appropriate to have a few inappropriate Christmas carols in the arsenal.

1. From Tom Lehrer for insertion at inappropriate times:

Hark the Herald Tribune sings,
Advertising wonderous things.

God Rest ye Merry, Merchants
May ye make the Yuletide pay

Angels we have heard on high,
telling us to go out and buy.

2. From Pogo of years ago. There are more but not worth the effort.

Deck us all with Boston Charlie,
Walla Walla Wash. and Kalamazoo.
Nora's freezing on the trolley,
Swalller dollar, cauliflower, alleygaroo

Don't we know archaic barrel, lullaby, lilla boy, Louisville Lou.
Trolley Molly don't love Harold,
Boola, boola, Pensacoola, hullabaloo.

3. From Da Yoopers, Rusty Chevrolet. A yooper is from the Upper Penninsula of Michigan (UPer). Swampers are waterproof boots. With a long winter and the salt, the metal moths grow to be huge.

CHORUS:

Rust and Smoke the heater's broke
The Door just blew away
I light a match to see the dash
And then I start to pray, hey.
The Frame is bent, the muffler went
The Radio's it's OK
Oh what fun it is to drive
This Rusty Chevrolet.

1.

Dashing thru the snow
In my rusty Chevrolet
Down the road I go Sliding all the way.

I need new piston Rings
I need some new snow tires
My car is held together by A piece of chicken wire.

2.

I went to the IGA
To get some Christmas cheer
I just passed up my left front tire
And it's getting hard to steer.
Skidding down the hiway
Right past the Negaunee cops
I had to drag my swampers
Just to get the car to stop.

3.

Bouncing thru the snowdrifts
In a big blue cloud of smoke People laugh as I drive by
I wonder what's the joke.
I got to get to Shopko
To pick up a layaway Cause Santa Claus is coming soon
In his big old rusty sleigh.

Many happy returns from the season to one and all!

Dick N&#65533;BK

4902. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 19:12:28 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C22381E.75092C56@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27750

CAM wrote:
>
> Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
> > The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior to > > Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited > > his opinion in the first place.
>
> The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a > reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells > us something about Riley's prudish hangups.

Funny that I don't see it that way at all. I don't think she liked the reasonable response she got. In typical Kim fashion, she attempts to rationalize her choice in the face of rejection. It tells us something about Kim's "to hell with what anyone thinks of me--I'm doing what I want" attitude.

Dave K8MN

4903. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 19:13:35 UTC
From: Frank Ney <n4zhg@icqmail.com>
Message-ID: <f1e42u8lnrlk65qjepp0dvd5m15igvc1ol@4ax.com>
Source record: 27749
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 08:22:14 UNDEFINED, an orbiting mind control laser caused pproctor@neosoft.com (Peter H. Proctor) to write in talk.politics.guns :

>>His quote:
>>"Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of >>vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's >>license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."
>
> Not that simple. Having stopped a car under "reasonable suspicion", >LEO's can search the area under control of the driver or a passenger for >weapons. The legal theory is that the safety of the officer allows for a >specific exemption to 4th amendment protections. If, incidental to this >search, they find contraband, this is admissible as evidence.

What do you think of this news item?

N.Y. police win more latitude in traffic stops

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle
"In a landmark ruling, New York's top court yesterday gave police wide latitude to stop vehicles for traffic violations and then search for evidence of serious crimes. ... The court said that when police have probable cause to believe the driver of a vehicle has violated laws, a stop-and-search doesn't violate New York's constitutional guarantee against illegal searches." (12/19/01)
http://www.free-market.net/rd/299233041.html

Frank Ney N4ZHG WV/EMT-B LPWV NRA(L) ProvNRA GOA CCRKBA JPFO
--
"I believe a self-righteous liberal Democrat with a cause is more dangerous than a Hell's Angel with an attitude."
-- Ted Nugent
Just Say No to Gestapo Tactics http://reduce.to/justsayno/
Abuses by the BATF http://www.hamnet.net/~n4zhg/batfabus.html

4904. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 19:18:13 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <VPqU7.174245$WW.10967792@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27901

"N2EY" <n2ey@aol.com> wrote in message
news:20011220000258.06877.00000586@mb-mj.aol.com...
> Here are some numbers to think about. These are the number of unexpired
FCC
> ARS licenses held by individuals on the dates listed:
>
> As of May 14, 2000:
>
> Novice - 49,329
> Tech - 205,394
> Tech Plus - 128,860
> General - 112,677
> Advanced - 99,782
> Extra - 78,750
> Total - 674,792
>
> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
>
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209
>
>
>
> As of December 14, 2001:
>
> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)
> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)
>
> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
>
> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006
>
> 73 de Jim, N2EY

Not to quibble Jim but you can renew a license within 90 days of expiration and about 2/3 who will ever renew do so in the first 30 days.
Considering that renewal rates increase with class privleges, if there is a double-count it will skew things just a tad.

As Jon Bloom told me and with which I came to agree, reading numbers like this is right up there with reading animal guts. I feel I need a mask and a feathered costume to pronounce upon them.

Dick N&#65533;BK

4905. Could it be?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 19:56:05 UTC
From: Kamatu <admin@ahww.net>
Message-ID: <9vtg5701orp@enews3.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27902

I am so interested in finally getting my Technician's License that I have studied and studied for weeks now. I have passed every sample test I can get my hands on, and there is a real test in my area on January 17th, 2002.

But, I'm reading these messages and I'm starting to get the feeling that the priviledges afforded to a Tech No Code gives access to frequencies that are really no better to occupy than a Citizen Band radio would access.

I'm reading about jamming, and this jerk that, that jerk this, kids, lids, space cadets...

I wanted to get into Amateur Radio to get out of the 27Mhz Snake Pit and QSO with some quality contacts.

Am I really making a mistake? Is it too late for Ham Radio now?

4906. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 20:25:10 UTC
From: 'Doc <w5lz@icok.net>
Message-ID: <3C224910.F60D83AB@icok.net>
Source record: 27903
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

I think the key words are 'probable cause', which is the 'biggy' in any incidental search...
'Doc

PS - Posting to more than one group at a time is in very poor taste.

4907. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 20:34:03 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C224B3B.D0625A51@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27904

Jim Kelley wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > Please don't judge techs by your personal ideas of worth.
>
> I'm in as good a position to "judge techs" as anyone else - having been > one myself, Cecil. When were you ever a tech?

The tech license completely satisfies many hams. Where do you get the gall to judge techs as underachievers?
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4908. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 20:37:04 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C224BF0.1A30074B@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27905

Dave Heil wrote:
>
> CAM wrote:
> > The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a > > reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells > > us something about Riley's prudish hangups.
>
> Funny that I don't see it that way at all.

Of course not! You are one of the busybody prudes who want to force your personal morals, hangups, and value system on everyone else.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4909. Re: Could it be?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 20:40:42 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C224CCA.F203B41F@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27906

Kamatu wrote:
> I wanted to get into Amateur Radio to get out of the 27Mhz Snake Pit and QSO > with some quality contacts.
>
> Am I really making a mistake? Is it too late for Ham Radio now?

Only a small percentage of hams are jerks and you can usually avoid them. You've already expended the effort to learn the material. Get your license and try it. You might like it.
--
cheers, CAM, W5DXP

-----= Posted via Newsfeeds.Com, Uncensored Usenet News =-----
http://www.newsfeeds.com - The #1 Newsgroup Service in the World!
Check out our new Unlimited Server. No Download or Time Limits!
-----== Over 80,000 Newsgroups - 19 Different Servers! ==-----

4910. PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 20:56:58 UTC
From: keyclownslappa@hotmail.com Message-ID: <ce9e428e.0112201256.54a6f516@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27907
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.

"Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...

> twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
>
> "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.
> while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
>
> when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
>
> away to the window i flew like a flash,
> thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
>
> when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
>
> with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
>
> more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,
> and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
>
> to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
>
> so out my back door,with my gear i flew!
> with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
>
> i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
>
> said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
>

> and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!
>
> elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4911. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:03:06 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220160306.01493.00000300@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27908

In article <3C220855.AA77F47D@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior
>to
>> Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited
>> his opinion in the first place.

"Morally and intellectually superior" covers a lot of ground! How about "Mr. H knows a lot about the subject"?
>
>The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a >reasonable response.

And she got a very reasonable response from Mr. H. Note that he did not call anybody a derogatory name or reflect on their character, intelligence or morals. He just gave his opinion of the effect of certain choices of callsign.

>She didn't get a reasonable response

What was unreasonable about Mr. H's response?

>which tells
>us something about Riley's prudish hangups.

Actually, it tells us that Cecil's dictionary defines "reasonable response" as "agrees with Cecil's opinion".

73 de Jim, N2EY

4912. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:03:08 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220160308.01493.00000301@mb-mw.aol.com>
Source record: 27909

In article <bKnU7.233649$3d2.11190853@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard Plourde" <rplourde@att.net> writes:

>> >> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 383,583
>> >> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 291,209
>
>> Richard Plourde writes
>
>> >Why do you lump them into two groups like that?
>
>N2EY wrote
>
>> I'm following an idea that came from N0BK.
>
>> The first group are, for lack of a better term, "entry level" license >classes >> with few HF/MF privileges. In the case of Novices, few privileges at all.
>And
>> before the restructuring, these were the slow codetest/nocodetest classes.
>
>My point is AFTER restructuring it's just not meaningful to lump them in >this way.

I kinda disagree, but I see your point.
>
>First, you have one group quantifying two obsolete license classes and one >active class. The other group has one obsolete license and two active >classes. To compare them is fruitless, pointless, and furthermore nothing >can be derived from the data. It's a waste of time to add up those groups >now that we can't say it's the slow/no beepers versus the fast beepers.

What it really compares is "little HF vs. lotta HF" but the whole issue is so muddy that it really doesn't tell much.
>
>Second, to call Technician class entry level is being ingenuous quite a few >hams will do some highly advanced work there without ever 'talking around >the world' on MF/HF. This is NOT entry level to them.

I disagree. For many years now most newcomers have started out in ham radio with the Technician class. Some stay there, for a number of reasons, while others upgrade. This was going on way back before 1991 - most new hams back then skipped Novice and went right to Tech.
>
>> The second group have all MF/VHF/UHF and lots of HF privileges. In fact
>the >> only operating privilege differences between the second-group classes are

>a >> few bits of 80,40,20 and 15 meters. Before the restructuring, these were
>the >> faster codetest/code waiver classes.
>
>Again, it's AFTER restructuring and the data of this group is not meaningful >when compared to the other group.

After considering all the issues I think the best comparison is just to look at each class individually.

>> >> As of December 14, 2001:
>> >> Novice - 40,337 (decrease of 8,992)
>
>> >less than 82% of previous
>
>> Yup - due to expirations and upgrades.
>
>> >> Tech - 233,654 (increase of 28,260)
>
>> >more than 113% of previous
>
>> Due to new hams, upgrades from Novice and renewals from Tech Plus.
>Expirations
>> and upgrades decrease this number, but the increase factors outweigh the >> decrease factors.
>
>> >> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)
>
>> Due to expirations, upgrades and renewals as Techs
>
>> >less than 67% of previous
>
>> Disappearing fastest of all
>
>The most meaningless, useless class of all...

Not really. "Old" Tech Pluses (from before March 21 1987) just need to visit a VE session to become Generals and get a whole buncha new HF/MF privs. "New"
Tech Pluses just need new Element 3 to get a General.
>
>> >> General - 138,560 (increase of 25,883)
>
>> >more than 122% of previous
>
>> Upgrades and new licenses, etc.
>
>> >> Advanced - 86,617 (decrease of 13,165)
>
>> >less than 87% of previous

>
>> Similar situation to Tech Plus but renewals stay Advanced
>
>> >> Extra - 97,829 (increase of 19,079)
>
>> >more than 124% of previous
>
>> Fastest growing license class of all.
>
>> >> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)
>
>> >more than 101% of previous ;-)
>
>> >On the whole, this seems very normal and predictable.
>
>> Hard to say - it's only been 2 years since the announcement and 20 months >since
>> the actual changes.
>
>> One thing is clear - restructuring did NOT bring in lots of new hams. What
>it >> did do was cause lots of upgrades among those already licensed. But the >rate of >> those upgrades has slowed since the Great Surge of mid 2000. The total >number >> of US hams is actually down several thousand from the peak, reached >earlier >> this year. Part of this loss is seasonal, and part is due to the first >> post-Feb-14-1991 Technician licenses starting to expire.
>
>Very true.

The expiration numbers can be deceiving because of renewals-in-the-grace-period. The percentage of Techs renewing is quite high.
>
>> >The total ARS seems slow growth but it is growth..
>
>> True, but what is it compared to the growth in US population over the same >time
>> period?
>
>Not sure but I would think it's close, also, we need to compare to the >population growth for the age groups that would tend to become hams.
>
Very good point. The very young and very old don't usually get many ham new licenses.

>> >I'm not sure what you're trying to say with the following...
>
>> >> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
>> >> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006

>
>> The mix has changed compared to the above (which see). Was 57%-43%, now >it's >> 53%-47%. More folks with lots of HF/MF.
>
>So??? we already said two of the classes cannot increase (or even stay the >same) in one group and in the other group the license class that can't grow >will NOT shrink as fast as the other two because it is a VERY GOOD license >class Advanced will tend to stay there for life.

Some will, but many will just take new Element 4 and get Extras.
>
>> The numbers in my posts on this thread are NOT from the AH0A website. They
>are >> from a source which lists Techs and Tech Pluses separately. This source >does >> not show historic data, however. These posts and the archive can serve the >> purpose of storing the historic data.
>
>Well Jim, I think that your or N0BK's groupings are of virtually no value...
>I think to monitor the rate of changes over time will tell a lot more than >just presenting the raw totals in wierd disjointed groupings.
>
The main point of this thread is to monitor the numbers over time.

>Check out my post from the 5th of this month, in dejanews, search on "Rich >Technician Plus". I presented quite a bit there about the rates of change >in the classes. I'm not sure you'd seen it. (you never responded.
>
I will look - I must have missed it.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4913. Lelnad I Am Obsessed With YOU

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:18:09 UTC
From: twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com
Message-ID: <e9de0154.0112201318.115c1d6@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27910
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.swap

"Why? Simple. I am an outlaw CBer. You have spoken out against me one too many times. If life were ideal I could simply shut you up like I do on the freeband by cranking up my big box (just kidding). But this is less than ideal so I have to tolerate you and your hammie pals. I am disgusted by your rule-following, goody-two-shoes holier-than-thou attitude towards radio, Lelnad. Rules are going to be broken and I am going to freeband and that is all there is to it. I will continue to promote illegal CB because I can. Anarchy of the airwaves is where we are headed and you can't come to terms with it, can you? Too bad but 28.085 is just the beginning and it irritates you doesn't it? I am glad, now go back to your kennel with dogie and the rest and lap your wounds"

4914. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:19:03 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C2255C7.A7D0DAF9@uci.edu>
Source record: 27912

CAM wrote:
>
> Jim Kelley wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > Please don't judge techs by your personal ideas of worth.
> >
> > I'm in as good a position to "judge techs" as anyone else - having been > > one myself, Cecil. When were you ever a tech?
>
> The tech license completely satisfies many hams. Where do you get > the gall to judge techs as underachievers?

Where do you get the gall to put words in my mouth? You claimed that techs don't want the privileges, and I said I don't understand why someone wouldn't want them.

4915. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:20:20 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C225614.40A33A15@uci.edu>
Source record: 27913

CAM wrote:
> You are one of the busybody prudes who want to force
> your personal morals, hangups, and value system on everyone else.

How's that any worse than being a finger-pointer, name-caller?

4916. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:24:32 UTC
From: Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu>
Message-ID: <3C225710.6EEFC54F@uci.edu>
Source record: 27915

IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:

> FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB.

Next time just leave it there. Thanks.

4917. Re: RADIO SHOULD BE LAWLESS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:29:06 UTC
From: twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com
Message-ID: <e9de0154.0112201329.2240665@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27911
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> 0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn40komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn4 news:<06442u0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn4bh2@4ax.com>
take_out-hoo.com 0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm

You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
who feel that the public does not have a right to own
such technology. That includes things like ham radio,
CB, scanners as well as things like guns.

"As I am telling nad and dogie and his lapdog cb-hating cronies constantly. Radio belongs to the people and we freebanders know this.
Don't get me wrong there are some good hammies like Dick McCollum who give advice on linears and extra channels but they are few and far between"

4918. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:31:43 UTC
From: Tarzan - Number 1 <Webmaster@loudcrowd.com> Message-ID: <3NsU7.5451$zX1.7229141@typhoon.ne.mediaone.net>
Source record: 27914
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns well this is not true~~~~!!!! i don't need to say more your blowing out your ass...

"'Doc" <w5lz@icok.net> wrote in message news:3C224910.F60D83AB@icok.net...
>
>
> I think the key words are 'probable cause', which is
> the 'biggy' in any incidental search...
> 'Doc
>
> PS - Posting to more than one group at a time is in very > poor taste.

4919. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 21:48:45 UTC
From: John P Vassel <john@vassel.net>
Message-ID: <3c225cbd$0$37104$2c3e98f8@news.voyager.net>
Source record: 27916
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap keyclownslappa@hotmail.com (IllegalCBersMustGO) wrote in news:ce9e428e.0112201256.54a6f516@posting.google.com:

> FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
>
>

Oh please tell me this is demented humor on your part, and that you dont honestly waste time worrying about this type of stuff!
My god, you need help.

John
KC8SKE

4920. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:30:01 UTC
From: Mike Yetsko <joe@user.com>
Message-ID: <u24ps93bbhume6@corp.supernews.com>
Source record: 27917
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I was replying based on the 'perception' that someone making the statement the way it was posted was confrontational and just 'sounded' like they felt they had the right to operate aboard an aircraft.

I personally HAVE operated. RX only, and with pilot interaction. He wanted to know when I turned it on, and when I turned it off. But this was many years ago, 1981 to be exact, and now the rules are, I believe, even stricter.

Mike

"VE2VFD Pat" <ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now> wrote in message news:3c2091f2.2486561@news.aei.net...
> On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 22:42:09 -0500, "Mike Yetsko" <joe@user.com>
> wrote:
>
> >No way imply at ALL any operation at ANY time, even 'just' receive, > >aboard a commercial carrier. You do NOT have any right to do that
> >AT ALL under the FAR.
>
> You must be reading something I never wrote into my message...
>
> Where does it even hint at operating the radio IN a plane? I would > assume no ham operator is actually stupid enough to even think about > doing that! Geeez.
>
> Pat
> ve2vfd

4921. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:32:54 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vtorj0qio@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27918
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message news:06442u0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn4bh2@4ax.com...
> > N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote <3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net> in
talk.politics.guns. :
>
>
> >> > You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
> >> > who feel that the public does not have a right to own
> >> > such technology. That includes things like ham radio, > >> > CB, scanners as well as things like guns.
>
> Cite.

2600

4922. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:35:30 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vtp0f0qot@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27922
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"John Kimball" <johnkimb@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:9vsllo$5sm$0@dosa.alt.net...
> On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 07:46:39 -0500, "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in > Message id: <9vq6odhoe2@pita.alt.net>:
>
>
> >No, but I hear you slurp nutsacks behind dumpsters and are too
CHICKENSHIT
> >to post under your real name, COWARD.
>
> So is 8L0J08 your first name, or last name?

Forget it. The guy's too dumb to understand 'L33TI5M5.

4923. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:38:44 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vtp6g0r4h@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27921
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

"IllegalCBersMustGO" <keyclownslappa@hotmail.com> wrote in message news:ce9e428e.0112201256.54a6f516@posting.google.com...
> FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF >CBERS.

<snip>

I've seen better trolls on pencils.

4924. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:41:52 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vtpce0rg2@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27923

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C22381E.75092C56@earthlink.net...

> Funny that I don't see it that way at all. I don't think she liked the > reasonable response she got. In typical Kim fashion, she attempts to > rationalize her choice in the face of rejection. It tells us something > about Kim's "to hell with what anyone thinks of me--I'm doing what I > want" attitude.

Re-phrase that to read "to hell with what a few people of a minority opinion might think," and you would be correct.

4925. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:47:40 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vtpne0s0o@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27924

"Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> wrote in message
news:3c21e983_2@newsa.ev1.net...

> I heartell some employers regard an MCSE as equal to, I believe, and > Engineering Degree (as in, what? four years of college?)
>
> Kim W5TIT

This is probably true, but the opinion of some people is that Microsoft is running one helluva scam with the way they teach and administer the tests.

4926. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:52:14 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <3C226BD5.FFD9B3D9@gte.net>
Source record: 27930
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

> Here in Texas, a LEO can not search a car at all unless granted by the > driver of the vehicle or a search warrant.

Do you have anything that can verify that statement? It does not fit with what we are seeing most other states.

4927. Re: ARS License Numbers

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 22:55:08 UTC
From: Richard Plourde <rplourde@att.net>
Message-ID: <g%tU7.234866$3d2.11219402@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27919

N2EY wrote

> What it really compares is "little HF vs. lotta HF" but the whole > issue is so muddy that it really doesn't tell much.

Nope.. what you're comparing is the ratio of the total of three arbitrarily chosen classes versus the total of three other arbitrarily chosen classes. ;-)

If you want to compare something...

Compare the ratio of Technician Class totals versus General Class added to Amateur Extra Class Totals. That will tell you where the ARS is going to...

Then... monitor the decay of Novice Class, Technician Class and Advanced Class. That will tell you where they are coming from and going to...

Think about it...

> Richard Plourde writes:

> >Second, to call Technician class entry level is being ingenuous quite a few > >hams will do some highly advanced work there without ever 'talking around > >the world' on MF/HF. This is NOT entry level to them.

> I disagree. For many years now most newcomers have started out in ham
radio
> with the Technician class. Some stay there, for a number of reasons, while > others upgrade. This was going on way back before 1991 - most new hams back
> then skipped Novice and went right to Tech.

Listen... for entry... Novice Class and Technician Plus Class is NOT an option. They enter as Technician Class or General Class now. Remember with the right preparation you can complete the tests to General Class in a evening.

> >Again, it's AFTER restructuring and the data of this group is not meaningful
> >when compared to the other group.

> After considering all the issues I think the best comparison is just to look at > each class individually.

There is a couple of other numbers which will be more telling.

> >> >> Tech Plus - 85,869 (decrease of 42,991)

> >> >less than 67% of previous

> >> Disappearing fastest of all

> >The most meaningless, useless class of all...

> Not really. "Old" Tech Pluses (from before March 21 1987) just need to visit a > VE session to become Generals and get a whole buncha new HF/MF privs. "New"
> Tech Pluses just need new Element 3 to get a General.

Jim, that's what makes it so. The return on investment makes element 3 the best test money can buy. ;-) Remember, I say useless because in HF for someone who is not going to use CW the privleges consists of less modes and less frequency spectrum than CB!!! Now... that is useless. Oh, Yeah, higher frequency so less openings too!!! ;-)

> >> >> Total - 682,866 (increase of 8,074)

> >> >more than 101% of previous ;-)

> >> >On the whole, this seems very normal and predictable.

> The expiration numbers can be deceiving because of > renewals-in-the-grace-period.

That's just noise... we can fudge that stuff to oblivion... ;-)

> The percentage of Techs renewing is quite high.

...and the percentage of Technician Plus renewing is VERY low....

> >> >The total ARS seems slow growth but it is growth..

> >Not sure but I would think it's close, also, we need to compare to the > >population growth for the age groups that would tend to become hams.

> Very good point. The very young and very old don't usually get many ham new > licenses.

> >> >I'm not sure what you're trying to say with the following...

> >> >> Total Novice/Tech/Tech Plus: 359,860
> >> >> Total General/Advanced/Extra: 323,006

> >So??? we already said two of the classes cannot increase (or even stay the > >same) in one group and in the other group the license class that can't grow
> >will NOT shrink as fast as the other two because it is a VERY GOOD license
> >class Advanced will tend to stay there for life.

> Some will, but many will just take new Element 4 and get Extras.

There will always be more Advanced Class licenses than Novice Class or Technician Plus Class.

> >Well Jim, I think that your or N0BK's groupings are of virtually no value...
> >I think to monitor the rate of changes over time will tell a lot more than > >just presenting the raw totals in wierd disjointed groupings.

> The main point of this thread is to monitor the numbers over time.

Absolutely, and I think we can come up with a couple of subtotals (composite scores) and their rate of change over time and be able to monitor the whole thing. The "Obsolete Decay" score and the Technician Class Versus General/Extra ratio. We need names I'll think of something.

Rich

4928. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:03:46 UTC
From: Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com>
Message-ID: <fer42u8hbchk012lq430vm5k5lof8ie4m3@4ax.com>
Source record: 27920
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote <9vtorj0qio@enews4.newsguy.com> in
talk.politics.guns. :

>"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message >news:06442u0komo3crlp2m5a86mmm1t0qn4bh2@4ax.com...
>> > N9NWO <2121d@gte.net> wrote <3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net> in
>talk.politics.guns. :
>>
>>
>> >> > You have a growing number of police, and politicians,
>> >> > who feel that the public does not have a right to own
>> >> > such technology. That includes things like ham radio, >> >> > CB, scanners as well as things like guns.
>>
>> Cite.
>
>2600

You have failed to provide any documentation whatsoever that

(a) there are police who feel that the public does not have the right to own radio transceivers and guns
(b) their numbers are growing significantly
(c) there are politicians who feel that the public does not have the right to own radio transceivers and guns
(d) their numbers are growing significantly

You may make one final attempt.

4929. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:15:45 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gonqk05.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27925
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 04:16:42 GMT, N9NWO wrote:

>Actually it is a crime in my state not have >a radio license if you have a scanner in the >car. While the cops may not be as hard >nosed with a scanner as they are with guns, >having either in your vehicle then having your >son or wife drive the vehicle might will result >in them being arrested in my state (if they do >not have either a ham license - for the scanner,
>or a gun permit for the weapon).

I didn;t know that you lived in some third-world country where a radio transmitter is equated to a dangerous weapon.

If that's what your state law says, it's BAD law. What can/will TOU do to get it fixed - if that's what it actually says.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4930. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:15:46 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gonqql6.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27927

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 07:30:40 -0600, Kim-W5TIT wrote:

>It is my understanding, though I've never researched this, that as of a few >(read: unsure how many) years ago there is no more need for "reasonable >cause" to search a home, vehicle, possession, etc., of anyone by a police >officer. The Miranda Act is also either suspended or severely curtailed--no >need for a police officer to read you your rights any more. Don't know what >else, but that's a couple of things I've heard--I also don't know if this is >specific to Texas or not.

Sounds like "Texan Law" to me, but this LEO-become-lawyer says that it's not how the law stands in the US of A.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4931. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:15:48 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gonqwl7.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27928
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 08:22:14 UNDEFINED, Peter H. Proctor wrote:

> Not that simple. Having stopped a car under "reasonable suspicion", >LEO's can search the area under control of the driver or a passenger for >weapons. The legal theory is that the safety of the officer allows for a >specific exemption to 4th amendment protections. If, incidental to this >search, they find contraband, this is admissible as evidence.

But note that a piece of radio equipment - even if not permissable to be used on the air - is not contraband and is not seizable as such. It can be seized as evidence of a non-radio-law crime, such as a scanner being used by a lookout.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4932. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:15:49 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gonr448.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27929
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 10:02:31 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:

>The intent is to make it clear that Feingold only applies to Part 95 >operations and not anywhere else. Basically do the job that congress and >the ARRL should have done year before last. It likely won't fly, but at >least it would put the FCC on notice that some of us think there's a >problem here.

You'll be surprised at what the FCC will do with suggestions like that. Many years ago, a staffer got a cash incentive award for suggesting that commercial operator, amateur, ship,. and aircraft license applications be printed on different color papers so that they could be sorted more easily when they arrive by mail.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4933. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:15:51 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gonrdra.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27926
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 10:10:32 UNDEFINED, Peter H. Proctor wrote:

>Arguando, an LEO might be able to confiscate a cell phone that he >actually sees cause a traffic hazard. Otherwise, not.... In theory, >anything might cause a "hazard to safe driving".

Seize as evidence in a case against the user, not "confiscate" meaning to permanently deprive the user of same w/o a court order of forfeiture.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4934. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:18:43 UTC
From: W6DKN <w6dkn@qsl.net>
Message-ID: <nluU7.848$Ya1.498755@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27931
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"'Doc" <w5lz@icok.net> wrote in message news:3C224910.F60D83AB@icok.net...
>
>
> I think the key words are 'probable cause', which is
> the 'biggy' in any incidental search...
> 'Doc

According to the actual text of Public Law 106-521 (the Federal CB Law) probable cause of criminal radio activity is only required by this law when searching a commercial vehicle:

SECTION 1. STATE AND LOCAL ENFORCEMENT OF FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION REGULATIONS ON USE OF CITIZENS BAND RADIO EQUIPMENT.
Section 302 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 302a) is amended by adding at the end the following:

(sections 1-6 removed for brevity)

`(7) The enforcement of a statute or ordinance by a State or local government under paragraph (1) with regard to citizens band radio equipment on board a `commercial motor vehicle', as defined in section 31101 of title 49, United States Code, shall require probable cause to find that the commercial motor vehicle or the individual operating the vehicle is in violation of the regulations described in paragraph (1).'.
---

73 de W6DKN

4935. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:31:49 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> Message-ID: <3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not>
Source record: 27932
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.

de AB8LR

-SSB

IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
>
> FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
>
> "Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
>
> > twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> > my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> > the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> > in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
> >
> > "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.
> > while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
> >
> > when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> > i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
> >
> > away to the window i flew like a flash,
> > thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> > the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> > gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
> >
> > when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> > but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
> >
> > with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> > i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
> >
> > more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,
> > and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> > "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> > "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
> >
> > to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> > now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
> >
> > so out my back door,with my gear i flew!

> > with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
> >
> > i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> > i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> > and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
> >
> > said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
> >
> > and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> > "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!
> >
> > elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4936. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:36:24 UTC
From: Phil Kane <Phil.Kane@no.spam>
Message-ID: <cuvyxnansvbet.gont42e.pminews@or.news.verio.net>
Source record: 27933
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 14:13:35 -0500, Frank Ney wrote:

>What do you think of this news item?
>
>N.Y. police win more latitude in traffic stops
>----------
>Rochester Democrat and Chronicle
> "In a landmark ruling, New York's top court yesterday gave > police wide latitude to stop vehicles for traffic violations
> and then search for evidence of serious crimes. ... The court > said that when police have probable cause to believe the driver > of a vehicle has violated laws, a stop-and-search doesn't > violate New York's constitutional guarantee against illegal
> searches." (12/19/01)
>http://www.free-market.net/rd/299233041.html

Gotta have probable cause, the same standard as for arrest and search warrants.

The fear is doing such deeds "at whim" without PC.

--
73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane

4937. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-20 23:51:38 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <eQuU7.321000$5A3.123368207@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27934
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

And So are you SSB, Hey fellas in the amateur NG... Meet the new breed of Ham his name is SSB, maybe you recognize his numbers on the CB 151.
He went from Illegal CB Keyclown to Extra Class all in about 6 months. He now takes his freebanding Illegal skills to a HF band near you. Say Hello

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not...
> And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
>
> de AB8LR
>
> -SSB
>
> IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> >
> > FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
> >
> > "Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> >
> > > twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> > > my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> > > the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> > > in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
> > >
> > > "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.
> > > while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
> > >
> > > when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> > > i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
> > >
> > > away to the window i flew like a flash,
> > > thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> > > the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> > > gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
> > >
> > > when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> > > but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
> > >
> > > with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> > > i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
> > >
> > > more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,

> > > and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> > > "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> > > "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
> > >
> > > to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> > > now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
> > >
> > > so out my back door,with my gear i flew!
> > > with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
> > >
> > > i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> > > i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> > > and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
> > >
> > > said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
> > >
> > > and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> > > "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!
> > >
> > > elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4938. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:00:40 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> Message-ID: <3C227B39.F203E090@spam.me.not>
Source record: 27935
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

Um.. you're wrong.. I was never an illegal keyclown, but then again, I don't expect you to know the difference. I ran the legal 40 with legal power and with legal gear.

You can call names all you want, but it doesn't change the truth.

But you're right. I did go from CBer (which I ran sideband for a bit over 20 years, and ran professionally) to extra in 6 months, 1 week, and two days. Of course, I worked hard for nine years (I started drilling the code in '92) to overcome my dyslexia so I could pass the code requirement.

What of it?

de AB8LR

-SSB

"middlefiger4@home.comss" wrote:
>
> And So are you SSB, Hey fellas in the amateur NG... Meet the new breed of > Ham his name is SSB, maybe you recognize his numbers on the CB 151.
> He went from Illegal CB Keyclown to Extra Class all in about 6 months. He > now takes his freebanding Illegal skills to a HF band near you. Say Hello
>
> "Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
> news:3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not...
> > And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
> >
> > de AB8LR
> >
> > -SSB
> >
> > IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> > >
> > > FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
> > >
> > > "Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message > news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> > >
> > > > twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> > > > my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> > > > the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> > > > in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
> > > >
> > > > "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.

> > > > while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
> > > >
> > > > when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> > > > i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
> > > >
> > > > away to the window i flew like a flash,
> > > > thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> > > > the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> > > > gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
> > > >
> > > > when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> > > > but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
> > > >
> > > > with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> > > > i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
> > > >
> > > > more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,
> > > > and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> > > > "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> > > > "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
> > > >
> > > > to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> > > > now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
> > > >
> > > > so out my back door,with my gear i flew!
> > > > with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
> > > >
> > > > i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> > > > i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> > > > and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
> > > >
> > > > said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
> > > >
> > > > and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> > > > "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!
> > > >
> > > > elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4939. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:03:18 UTC
From: Shrimp Biskit <pipedream@hotmail.comsp>
Message-ID: <20011220190333.229$lm@news.newsreader.com>
Source record: 27936
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

Sounds Like a story for QRZ or 73 magazine. Perhaps you can get Twisty to author it, and any money made off the idea I will recieve my normal stipend
of 25%.
I have applied for a copyright so don't think your gonna pull a fast one on me and sell your story without paying me.

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C227B39.F203E090@spam.me.not...
> Um.. you're wrong.. I was never an illegal keyclown, but then again, I > don't expect you to know the difference. I ran the legal 40 with legal > power and with legal gear.
>
> You can call names all you want, but it doesn't change the truth.
>
> But you're right. I did go from CBer (which I ran sideband for a bit over > 20 years, and ran professionally) to extra in 6 months, 1 week, and two > days. Of course, I worked hard for nine years (I started drilling the code > in '92) to overcome my dyslexia so I could pass the code requirement.
>
> What of it?
>
> de AB8LR
>
> -SSB
>
> "middlefiger4@home.comss" wrote:
> >
> > And So are you SSB, Hey fellas in the amateur NG... Meet the new breed
of
> > Ham his name is SSB, maybe you recognize his numbers on the CB 151.
> > He went from Illegal CB Keyclown to Extra Class all in about 6 months.
He
> > now takes his freebanding Illegal skills to a HF band near you. Say Hello
> >
> > "Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
> > news:3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not...
> > > And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
> > >
> > > de AB8LR
> > >
> > > -SSB
> > >

> > > IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> > > >
> > > > FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
> > > >
> > > > "Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message
> > news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> > > >
> > > > > twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> > > > > my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> > > > > the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> > > > > in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
> > > > >
> > > > > "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.
> > > > > while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
> > > > >
> > > > > when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> > > > > i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
> > > > >
> > > > > away to the window i flew like a flash,
> > > > > thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> > > > > the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> > > > > gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
> > > > >
> > > > > when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> > > > > but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
> > > > >
> > > > > with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> > > > > i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
> > > > >
> > > > > more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,
> > > > > and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> > > > > "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> > > > > "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
> > > > >
> > > > > to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> > > > > now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
> > > > >
> > > > > so out my back door,with my gear i flew!
> > > > > with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
> > > > >
> > > > > i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> > > > > i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> > > > > and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
> > > > >
> > > > > said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
> > > > >
> > > > > and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> > > > > "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!

> > > > >
> > > > > elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4940. Re: Lelnad I Am Obsessed With YOU

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:04:31 UTC
From: Kamatu <admin@ahww.net>
Message-ID: <9vturn0l20@enews1.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27941
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.swap

"Twistedhed" <twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com> wrote in message news:e9de0154.0112201318.115c1d6@posting.google.com...
> "Why? Simple. I am an outlaw CBer. You have spoken out against me one > too many times. If life were ideal I could simply shut you up like I > do on the freeband by cranking up my big box (just kidding). But this > is less than ideal so I have to tolerate you and your hammie pals. I > am disgusted by your rule-following, goody-two-shoes holier-than-thou > attitude towards radio, Lelnad. Rules are going to be broken and I am > going to freeband and that is all there is to it. I will continue to > promote illegal CB because I can. Anarchy of the airwaves is where we > are headed and you can't come to terms with it, can you? Too bad but > 28.085 is just the beginning and it irritates you doesn't it? I am > glad, now go back to your kennel with dogie and the rest and lap your > wounds"

Well, there's always going to be some uneducated slug, who has a Messiah Complex, thinking he has every right to be above the law. Charles Manson, Adolph Hitler, Jim Jones, Son of Sam, The Zodiac Killer, the list goes on and on...

I'll assume that anyone who believes radio should be free to the unlicensed public, also can't understand why they keep getting their driver's license revoked for driving under the influence, why they can't yell "fire" in a crowded theater, and they believe the people in handcuffs on COPS are just being harrassed...

LOL!

What sport these losers are.

--
Jim

4941. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:09:20 UTC
From: SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com
Message-ID: <d9f7b76c.0112201609.3c5967f3@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27937
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com> wrote in message
news:<u2q22u85asi99rl8i9qi6p0on6ehvjb84c@4ax.com>...
> SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com (SD SpecialDelivery Jones)
> shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:
>
> do you have the foggiest FREAKING idea what it means to snip?
>
> Jim
>
>
> Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
> A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

veep.....my ,my....i am impressed........really......also on the letters by your name thing......may i suggest the letters 'DH' be added....i feel it would be most appropriate.......

4942. FS: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:12:27 UTC
From: twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com
Message-ID: <e9de0154.0112201612.4aaccfeb@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27938
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.

If you don't like the price, let's talk.

Thank you,
Twistedhed

4943. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:30:36 UTC
From: Lenny Stover <mppd5107@the-police.com>
Message-ID: <YnvU7.8379$Xs4.1367146@feed.centurytel.net>
Source record: 27939
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"Peter H Proctor" <drp@drproctor.com> wrote

> It has to be articulable and excludes areas where there is a > "reasonable expectation of privacy", where you need a warrant.. This > includes locked containers and (if memory serves) things like > backpacks, etc.

If it is within the person's reach, a warrant is not required.

> You can ask any damn thing you want. But you cannot > search such areas without a warrant, except with the drivers > permission. And the "drivers reach" business is a specific > exception for the safety of the officer, so he can search for > weapons.

You just contridicted yourself. If it is within the driver's reach, locked or not, I can search the damn thing. You may not think so, but the USSC does.

> True, if he just happens to find contraband, he can > arest for that. BTW, occasionally, this legal fiction
> matters--- e.g., in theory you can't search an unlocked container > (such as a band-aid box) if it is too small to hold a weapon.

A .22 caliber derringer fits nicely in a bandaid box! I'd be happy to show the court, when justifying my search.

4944. Re: RADIO LAW vs police procedures

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:33:59 UTC
From: Lenny Stover <mppd5107@the-police.com>
Message-ID: <grvU7.8381$Xs4.1367456@feed.centurytel.net>
Source record: 27940
Cross-posted to: alt.law-enforcement,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote

> And the mayor, that great democrat, of Chicago > has yet to settle with the police so that they can > get a pay raise.

Yea, but his old man, "Da Boss," ....now that was a mayor! ;-)

He passed away 25 years ago today, and Chicago will never be the same.

4945. I Am An Outlaw CB Genius!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:50:33 UTC
From: twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com
Message-ID: <e9de0154.0112201650.5423f9f0@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27942
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.swap

"Hammies and dog-pound refugees (dogie,nad,pipeboy) would do well to read my scintillating prose and learned insights on the fine art of freebanding. A pet peeve of mine is that hammies (certain ones) put down radio hobbyists like myself just because they are CBers and just because they use gear that's advanced. I have logged more DX on the freeband than most 2 meter hams have in a lifetime. Why shouldn't I be treated with respect? All I am asking is that the issue of legality be put aside and my acheivements be recognized for what they are"

http://sporadicwaves.tripod.com/page7.html

"If you take the time to read this you will see that we on freeband have problems with troublemakers too. They don't abide by our rules. They don't care what others think. They jam and make noises on 27.555. Read about it in my article. They are wrecking my freeband and they should be stopped"

http://sporadicwaves.tripod.com/page7.html

"I admit I get all upset when hammies tell me I am breaking rules. I don't care about rules. I don't care what others think. If I want to operate freeband it is my responsibility and I don't like to hear anyone putting me down for it. Read about how we have created our own little illegal alternative to ham radio on the freeband. You hammies can be jealous"

http://sporadicwaves.tripod.com/page7.html

"Hammies try to say that there are goverment users on 27.555 and above. I have never heard any myself so that proves there are none. Because of course what I say is true and everyone else is a liar. Read my wonderful prose and see for yourself"

http://sporadicwaves.tripod.com/page7.html

"Geniuses like me don't need to obey laws since we are above the masses. Take that, you pussy-footed hams"

4946. Re: FS: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:52:50 UTC
From: ni4l <ni4l@charter.net>
Message-ID: <3C2287E2.7010100@charter.net>
Source record: 27943
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

DUMBASS

Twistedhed wrote:

> For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because > there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of > Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using > this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me > by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop > subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.
>
> If you don't like the price, let's talk.
>
> Thank you,
> Twistedhed
>

4947. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:55:56 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vu1d3nqm1@nntp9.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27944
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
news:KCdU7.3207$Rw4.727674@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net...
> : > > >Yeah, well someone needs to explain it to the NY State Police.
> : > >
> : >
> : > Remember the same thing happens to
> : > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
> : > legal.
> :
> : There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
> : which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
> : to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
> : possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
> : rather than ever offering one justification of probable
> : cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.
> :
> Actually it is a crime in my state not have > a radio license if you have a scanner in the > car.

That is the case in only about 10 states.

> While the cops may not be as hard
> nosed with a scanner as they are with guns,
> having either in your vehicle then having your > son or wife drive the vehicle might will result
> in them being arrested in my state (if they do > not have either a ham license - for the scanner,
> or a gun permit for the weapon).

The issue would be what would the judge rule.
The FCC preempts all local law regarding ham transcievers which have extended recieve capability.
Few hams have ONLY a scanner in their car that I know.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4948. Re: RADIO LAW vs. law enforcement procedures.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 00:58:51 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vu1otqlp1@slb4.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27945
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.law-enforcement,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message
news:4zeU7.3273$Rw4.780022@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net...
>
> : > > >Thanks to congress and the current political state of affairs I'm
to
> : the point where next to the ticket in my wallet I've got a card citing
> : > > >47 USC 302a(f)(2), just in case some idiot with a badge decides to
> : > > >demonstrate diminished capacity.
> : > >
> : > > Remember what I was ranting and raving about when the legislation
> : > > (Finegold Bill) was making its way through The Congress?
> : > >
> : > > If the "scanner law" (as well as the "radio interception" law) is
> : > > properly drafted, it would be specific that it covered equipment
> : > > being used in the commission of a crime or in furtherance of some
> : > > illegal purpose, as California's law states.
> : > >
> : > > --
> : > > 73 de K2ASP - Phil Kane
> : >
> : > Remember the same thing happens to
> : > folks with guns in cars. Even if they are
> : > legal.
> :
> : There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm
> : which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed
> : to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of
> : possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies
> : rather than ever offering one justification of probable
> : cause to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.
>
> Look for the post by Lenny Stover. He is a police > officer and pointed out that he has the right, backed > by the USSC, to inspect everything that is in car.
>
> His quote:
> "Actually, the USSC ruled that police can perform warrantless searches of > vehicles. Permission to search is not a requisite for obtaining a driver's > license. We don't need permission if we have a reasonable suspicion."

'll rephrase the statement/challenge:
There is STILL a major difference between having a firearm which requires a license or permit in most states as opposed to a radio which requires NOTHING as justification of possession. N9NWO continues to dreg up poor anologies rather than ever offering one justification of REASONABLE SUSPICION to inspect and/or confiscate a radio.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4949. Re: inappropriate Christmas carols

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:03:06 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220200306.02371.00000456@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27946

In article <%GqU7.174231$WW.10966907@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>,
"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> writes:

>Angels we have heard on high,
>telling us to go out and buy.

I have seen this in National Lampoon rendered as:

Angels we have heard on high
Tell us to go out and buy
And the merchants in reply
Echo with their greedy cry:

Mooooooooooooooney
O how we do love it
Mooooooooooooooney
We shall make more of it

73 de Jim, N2EY

4950. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:03:09 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220200309.02371.00000458@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27947

In article <3C22220B.1AF1C860@uci.edu>, Jim Kelley <jwkelley@uci.edu> writes:

>> >What kind of "sub-atomic particle"?
>>
>> I couldn't tell you, offhand. I saw a mention of the research >> in the newspaper, and heard a reference to it on a NOVA show Chris was >> watching while I was on the air, but I don't know enough about it (or >> physics, for that matter) to say.
>
>Sounds a little fishy. Was it a photon transporter? ;-)
>
HEY! I got one of those!!

73 de Jim, N2EY

4951. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:03:09 UTC
From: n2ey@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220200309.02371.00000457@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27948

In article <05CC461F98FB8716.ED6F031291429B65.97EA10CFFB8C5672@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>On 18 Dec 2001 01:45:59 GMT, n2ey@aol.com (N2EY) wrote:
>
>>> Hemp oil IS a vegetable oil, remember?
>>
>>If you say so, Rick. Thus it has all the advantages and disadvantages named >>above.
>
> Essentially, yes, although those vary from one form of oil to >another as I'm sure you know (for example, it takes a vastly greater >amount of acreage to produce a given amount of soy bean or peanut oil >than it does to produce the same quantity of hemp oil, due to the size >of the hemp plant and the percentage of the plant suitable for oil >production).

How much is "vastly greater"? Real numbers, not vague generalities.
>
>>"Efficient" in what sense? How many gallons per acre, how many gallons per >ton >>of raw harvested crop, how many gallons per dollar spent to grow it?
>
> Efficient in the sense of having very high energy/volume >potential, of being inexpensive to produce (no pesticides, herbicides, >or [in most cases] irrigation are needed), and in the sense of >providing a high per-acre yield.

Still no actual numbers presented, though.
>
> You can get the precise yield figures from some of the sources
>I previously cited, or from such sites on the Inet as the Farm Bureau
>home page, the Hemp Council home page, or HEMP Canada.

I will take a look. But it would sure help you cause to quote some real numbers and how they are derived.
>
>>For food purposes, soybean oil is pretty bad stuff. Canola oil is better and >>olive oil is better than canola. Flaxseed oil is tops but is very expensive
>and >>not as easy to cook with.
>
> According to nutritionists, hemp oil has a very high >percentage of essential nutriants--more so than any other currently >used vegetable oil--and appears to be completely non-allergeric as >well.

Vegetable oils are mostly just fat. Some fats are better than others, nutritionally, but to describe any vegetable oil as having "essential nutrients" is a bit of hyperbole.

>Peanut oil isn't too far from it nutritionally, but there are a >number of people allergic to it, and it isn't as nutritionally >valuable as hemp oil on a gallon for gallon basis--nor is it as easily >(or inexpensively) produced.

I note you do not compare it to olive oil or canola oil, which are preferable to peanut or soy oils.

>>> As far as costs are concerned, assuming the development of >>>sufficient processing facilities and farms
>>
>>Whoa! Don't Assume that at all!!
>
> Why?

Because you're ignoring the tremendous startup costs. Those facilities do not just grow on trees.
>
> Can you name a single product which, once in demand, did not >inspire precisely that type of developments?

Ya missed the point.
>
>>To make any sort of sizable dent in the US consumption of petrofuels, any >>biofuel must be produced in millions-of-gallons-per-day quantities, at >least.
>>That means BIG investments in farms and refining facilities. Those facilites >>don't just grow out of the ground.
>
> Nope. But neither do investment opportunities with the >potential yield of hemp production and processing. Create a market and >you'll have plenty of investors willing to put up the money.

IF the price pays those investors an adequate ROI.
>
>>Show your source. I think the raw production cost would be much higher.
>Here's
>>why:
>
> I DID provide my sources--refer to them.

I did - no hard numbers. I'll check the ones you named in the most recent post.
>
>>Take a stroll down any supermarket aisle and price the absolute cheapest >>vegetable oil you can find. It's a lot more than 49 cents a gallon, and >there >>is practically no tax on it because it's a food item. And it cannot be used

>as >>an engine fuel without additional procesing. Hemp oil is no different.
>
> And how much would the price on that vegetable oil be if it >were produced in the kind of quantities that hemp oil would be >produced in?

No way to know for sure unless it's actually done. And the food grade vegetable oil needs more procesing to be used as motor fuel.
>
> Economies of scale are VERY important in an area such as that.

Up to a point, yes. But you have not shown how the fuel will cost so little.

>And as far as taxation goes, if people are stupid enough to permit >their congresscritters to pass high taxes on the product, they have no >one to blame but themselves if they have to pay the price at the >pumps.

The taxes currently placed on motor fuels in the USA are actually very low.

> At least with hemp oil, there would be enough producers (it >isn't that expensive to produce) that a monopoly couldn't form--which >would keep prices reasonable.

You gotta be kidding. What do you think has been happening in agriculture for the past 20 years?
>
>>Get an actual pilot plant running and see what the actual production costs
>are.
>>Thye biodiesel folks have done so.
>
> Glad to as soon as you get me the necessary permits from the >government to do so.

That's YOUR job, not mine.

>I'd LOVE to own the first hemp oil production >facility in the USA--and the patents that went with that as well, of >course.
>
What patents? You talk about all this as if it's an existing technology, ready to roll.

>>>Since it can >>>be produced domestically, no transportation expenses (or oil spill >>>risks) exist with respect to its use,
>>
>>Wrong. It still must be transported domestically, and that's a major cost
>for >>any fuel.
>
> Not compared to international shipments with the cost of >transportation AND tariffs or duties added to it.

Tariffs and duties are not transportation costs. Supertankers are pretty efficient, too.
>
>>Production and distribution costs of any fuel cannot be dismissed so >lightly.

>>What is "a reasonable rate" of taxation? US fuel taxes are used mostly for >road >>construction and maintenance. Use of biofuel doesn't reduce road >maintenance.
>
> No, but it reduces AIR pollution, which effects a savings for >government and industry (as well as for the medical field). In >addition, while US taxes may be used mostly for road construction and >maintenance, that doesn't necessarily hold true for STATE taxes on >fuels--often those go to pet projects of the legislators.

Such as bridges and alternative transportation?
>
>>I think reducing/eliminating petrol imports should be a top priority for a >>number of reasons. Biofuels is one part of the solution to that problem. But >>I'm also realistic enough to know that it's not going to be quick, cheap or >>easy.
>
> I can agree with the "quick" part--but cheap and easy are >relative. Hemp oil production would take time to get going, but once >established would be both cheap AND easy.

Yeah right. I remember being told time and again that nuclear plants would make electricity "too cheap to meter". Uh-huh.
>
>>The cars to use it are available today, and have been for decades. I know -
>I >>drove the same Rabbit Diesel for 17 years. Wonderful car. 43 mpg over its >life, >>which was spent mostly in the worst possible driving conditions. On the >highway
>>the thing would do well over 50 mpg.
>
> And it will run--unmodified--on vegetable fuel?

I dunno - don't have the car anymore. But read up on biodiesel - the mods are minimal if any. The FUEL has to be processed, though.

The whole point of biodiesel is that it is a diesel replacement. Can vbe mixed with petrodiesel in any ratio, too.
>
> Since when?

Several years, at least. Exhaust smells like french fries.
>
>>You're not seeing the real problem, Rick.
>>
>>In an earlier post you wrote that cars could be "converted" to use hemp >fuel.
>>That implies that the hemp fuel is a gasoline replacement.
>>
>>But in reality what we're talking about biodiesel, which means the >"conversion" >>entails replacing the entire engine and much of the fuel system. And the >result >>is a diesel car.
>>
>>The real problem is getting Americans to accept diesel cars. They've been >>around for decades but haven't made much of a dent in market share.
>>
>>If you're talking about some other type of hemp fuel, what is it? Alcohol?
>
> Hemp oil can be converted to a form that will run in standard >internal combustion engines (with suitable modifications to the fuel >systems) as easily as it can be converted to a form that will run in >standard diesel cars with similar modifications.

And just what is that form, and those "modifications"??

>Ford Motors has just >such engine designs patented (and has demonstrated prototypes of hemp >run vehicles both in the past [the first was in 1936] and in recent >years).

Brazil has millions of cars running on alcohol made from bioproducts.

>>> Of all nations, we have the greatest ability to produce >>>industrial hemp--not only are our agricultural sciences at least as >>>advanced as those used anywhere on earth, but we have a tremendous >>>amount of arable land suitable to hemp production--
>>
>>This may or may not be true. What matters is how many gallons per acre can >be >>produced, and at what cost.
>
> And according to Farm Bureau studies, the answer to those >questions is one that makes development of hemp fuel economically >feasible.

Then it should be done.
>
>>>and could thus >>>produce fuel at a reasonable price, encouraging the production of hemp
>>>based vehicles (both Ford and GM have patents on engines designed to >>>use hemp fuel, btw, I don't know about Chrysler or the major foreign >>>manufacturers, but it's reasonable to assume they have the same--thus >>>production of autos designed for the fuel wouldn't be a major barrier >>>to its implementation).

>>
>>Technology companies patent everything they can. Most patents don't make a >>dime, but they look real good on the inventor's resume.
>
> Perhaps--but the fact that they HAVE developed engines made to >run on this fuel indicates that it's not a difficult task to do so.

Untrue. Simply proves it can be done. Says nothing about how difficult or expensive it will be, or how the cars will perform.
>
>>As I have said before - the barrier is getting people to buy the cars.
>
> Make them flashy--American car buyers are rather superficial
>(can you say "SUV?").

Not the problem. TDIs are very flashy.
>
>>> Those answers should be available on the site I cited above.
>>
>>They are not. I looked carefully, and it's just not there. Please post the >>info, or a link, if you can find it. I couldn't.
>
> I'll try to find some and post them by the weekend if >possible. Sorry, I thought the sites I listed would have included >them.
>
Just the numbers, Rick, just the numbers.

>>As I've said many times, I'm a proponent of reducing and eliminating our >>dependence on imported oil. Biofuels is one part of the solution. But the >idea
>>that "hemp fuel" is a quick, cheap and easy answer is far from proven.
>
> It never will be proven until trials are permitted, Jim. And >that requires the government to change its rulings on the production >of hemp agriculturally.

Also requires that the claims of cheap fuel and low cost be substantiated.
Biodiesel is being done NOW, but the cost is not competitive in most places.
Yet.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4952. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:04:34 UTC
From: smoolb@aol.com
Message-ID: <20011220200434.02371.00000459@mb-cc.aol.com>
Source record: 27949

In article <e2FaJ8PiBHA.1648@cpimsnntpa02>, "K0HB" <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
writes:

>KE8HH got it wrong again, and said:
>
>> Actually, since "LT" is taken universally as the abbreviation >> for "light" (as in reduced in features or capabilities),
>
>No, it isn't "taken universally" that way at all. For example, >many makers of finer automobiles over the years have >applied "LT" as the marquï¿½ of their "Luxury Touring" editions.

True, Hans.

And some folks think of "Lieutenant" when they see the abbreviation "LT".
Others think "light" as in "illuminating the darkness".
>
>My "LT" model has many features not found on the next lower >models, such as heated leather seating, enhanced >entertainment system, built-in telecommunications and >GPS facilities, "3-zone" climate comfort, improved
>sound-proofing, deep tinted glass, electronic traction
>control, electronic ride control, heated outside mirrors,
>theft deterrent system, automatic day/night rear view >mirror, tire pressure monitoring, and many other features.

COOL!!!
>
>So rather than "reduced in features and capabilities"
>as you erroneously claim, "LT" often stands for "greatly >enhanced features and capabilities".
>
And lots of other things.

>In other words, you're just flat-out wrong (again).

Bingo.

73 de Jim, N2EY

4953. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:06:09 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vu209fbk1@slb2.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27950
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C21FECD.56BCC8FD@gte.net...
>Bill K2UNK wrote:
> > That is hogwash. I haven't seen any such "growing > > numbers" opposed to CBs, radios, etc. Indeed, there > > has been NO movement to ban scanners at all...rather > > some states (e.g. NJ) have relaxed old laws which > > did ban scanners in autos.
> >
> > > There is the feeling that the public can not be trusted, > > > that too many use technology for crime or to try to > > > overthrow the government. Many would prefer that only > > > those who are paid on a professional basis should be allowed > > > to have access to radios or weapons.
> >
> > More hogwash. Even if there is some such sentiment, > > there hasn't been any support for that attitude in the press,
> > the legislatures, etc.
> >
> > Bill K2UNK
>
> I gather that you do not read that many papers
> everyday. The Washington Post, LA Times, > NY Times, Chicago Tribune all go on "crusades"
> every so often over gun ownership, cell phones, > scanners. The elite do not like the fact that the > masses understand, and use, technology.

I have seen public opposition to gun ownership, mixed opposition to cellphone use in an auto (no one seems to want to ban any total use/ownership
of cellphones) ...BUT not one crusade at all against scanners. There has been NO demand to ban scanners at all, even for specific frequencies, since the FCC rules prohibiting scanners manufactured that can recieve cellular.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4954. The actual Tacoma Law

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:12:36 UTC
From: Bill Sohl <billsohl@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vu2cb$2ne$1@slb1.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27951

Here's the law itself from the Tacoma WEB site:

Chapter 8.38
PROHIBITED USE OF NON-FCC CERTIFICATED TRANSMITTING EQUIPMENT IN THE CITIZENS BAND Sections:

8.38.010 Prohibited use of non-FCC certificated transmitting equipment in the citizens band.

8.38.020 Violation penalty.

8.38.010 Prohibited use of non-FCC certificated transmitting equipment in the citizens band. It is unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, to
(a) use citizens band radio equipment not authorized by the Federal Communications Commission;
(b) to allow the unauthorized operation of citizens band radio equipment on a frequency between 24 MHz and 35 MHz. Provided, however, as required by 47 U.S.C. 302(a), licensed amateur radio ("Ham") operators are excluded from the above provisions.
(Ord. 26851 1; passed Sept. 18, 2001)

8.38.020 Violation penalty.
Any person found guilty of a violation of this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment in the Pierce County Jail for a period not exceeding six months or by both such fine and imprisonment. (Ord. 26851 1; passed Sept. 18, 2001)
----------end of Tacoma city code cite.----------

The KEY as to any enforcement MUST be PROVING the USE in the first place...AND proving the radio is not authorized.

Good luck...looks like nothing but feel good legislation to placate one or more complaining residents.

Cheers,
Bill K2UNK

4955. Re: Lelnad I Am Obsessed With YOU

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:17:21 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C228D8E.896E9CE9@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27952
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.swap

Twistedhed wrote:

<NOTHING>

He wrote nothing because it was a forge.
Twistedhed has a webtv addy.

4956. Re: FS: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:29:17 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C22905A.298B3432@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27953
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Welcome to the forge zone, where everything is as fake as it seems.

4957. Re: I Am An Outlaw CB Genius!

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:29:42 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C229073.951979FD@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27954
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.swap

Welcome to the forge zone, where everything is as fake as it seems.

4958. Re: RADIO SHOULD BE LAWLESS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:32:45 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C22912A.9BB63CB0@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27955
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

Welcome to the forge zone, where everything is as fake as it seems.

4959. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:33:08 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011220203308.19213.00001175@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27956

In article <3c216ac6_1@newsa.ev1.net>, "Kim-W5TIT" <nospam@none.net> writes:

>
>WHAT?! Apartment?! Weren't you using the colloquialism "trailer park >trash" some time ago? Wow, and you live in an apartment? Man, Larry, you >portend far more intelligence than to pay good money for nothing you will >ever own...

Kim:

If it makes you feel any better, I am now looking for property to buy here in Delaware. I'm trying to decide to buy a house or build one; something will happen along those lines very soon. Living in this apartment has been quite cost-effective for me; due to the fact I've been here for 9 years, my rent is about 75% of what it would be getting if occupied by a new tenant. And, as someone said, I've not had to concern myself with repairs, lawn mowing, etc. which is an important consideration in my life -- and if this place ever went condo I might just write a check for it -- as long as I could make certain upgrades. However, in reality, I need/want a bit more space, so I'll probably get out of here pretty soon.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4960. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:33:09 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011220203309.19213.00001176@mb-fo.aol.com>
Source record: 27957

In article <3C218978.23B91356@ix.netcom.com>, Robert Casey
<wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> writes:

>> WHAT?! Apartment?! Weren't you using the colloquialism "trailer park >> trash" some time ago? Wow, and you live in an apartment? Man, Larry,
>you
>> portend far more intelligence than to pay good money for nothing you will >> ever own...
>
>Some people choose apartments because they know that their career >will have them moving every few years. The electrical engineer field >is like that, especially when companies downsize when they get a tummy >ache. Other points: Upside, no lawn to mow, downside: no visible >antennas, upside: you get the landlord to fix the toilet, downside:
>noisy neighbors.
>
>Larry, if you're on the top floor, there may be an access hatch >in a closet you can open to get to an attic crawlspace. I've >used such for crude dipole HF antennas. Did a station >in Antarctica on such once.
>

I use a dual-band (20 & 10 meter) dipole and a monoband 40-meter dipole inside my apartment, and a 10-meter delta loop on my balcony, in addition to 2-meter and 440 MHz 1/2-wave Ringos on my balcony.
I live in an apartment because I was brought here by the Air Force, was never sure I was going to stay in Delaware, and haven't been sure of my future in this town until just this past year. The real-estate market here is strictly a "buyer's market" -- any place I would have bought would have been tough to sell and probably not have appreciated very much. That has also turned around in the last year or so, and I'm now very much interested in buying a home -- and may build one from scratch. There are other deciding factors, but they may be sorted out soon.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4961. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:33:23 UTC
From: Panhead <Panmyfinger@fcc.com>
Message-ID: <3C229163.30388D94@fcc.com>
Source record: 27958
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

Bill Sohl wrote:
>
> "N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote:

> > I gather that you do not read that many papers
> > everyday. The Washington Post, LA Times, > > NY Times, Chicago Tribune all go on "crusades"
> > every so often over gun ownership, cell phones, > > scanners. The elite do not like the fact that the > > masses understand, and use, technology.
>
> I have seen public opposition to gun ownership, mixed > opposition to cellphone use in an auto (no one > seems to want to ban any total use/ownership
> of cellphones) ...BUT > not one crusade at all against scanners. There has > been NO demand to ban scanners at all, even for > specific frequencies, since the FCC rules
> prohibiting scanners manufactured that can recieve
> cellular.

When N9NWO sees a 'source' that comes from all the Newspapers he claims to read and then he nor they themselves do not provide any source to these allegations regarding opposition to radios in the hands of the people and the like in this case, well....

4962. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 01:48:25 UTC
From: K0HB with non-approved radios <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <0b020915e4639788e81942d936dd3dd2.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 27959
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

"N9NWO" <2121d@gte.net> wrote in message news:3C10E771.9B1CFEF9@gte.net...

> And how does that young cop know that you > are not some type of terrorist? All those radios > could be used to spy on the police so that you > can try to overthrow the US government.

The "young cop" could care less if I have a whole 18-wheeler loaded with radios, with or without FCC stickers. It is not against the law, even the Tacoma law, to possess a non-FCC certificated radio (or dozens of them)!

The violation is related to USE, not possession.

Sort of the like lady on our lake who decided one day to take her husbands fishing boat out into the middle of the lake, away from the kids, to anchor and read her book in peace. Along comes a conservation officer and asks for her fishing license. She has none (she doesn't fish), so he says he'll have to charge her with "fishing without a license". She replies "But I wasn't fishing".... He responds that she has fishing equipment, so he can probably make the charge stick. To which she replies, "Well, then I charge you with rape." He is aghast ..... how could she do that? "Well, you are in possession of the equipment."

So go stuff your "superior cops can search my car for illegal radios" crap up where the sun doesn't shine.

With all kind regards

de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas11poolc239.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.21.239]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

4963. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:07:42 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C228C4B.76F87EBE@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27960

CAM wrote:

> Dick Carroll wrote:
> > What radiotelegraphy actually is, instead, is the > > most basic method of radiocommunications yet devised, or likely ever to be > > devised. Even tho it is a hundred years old.
> > It wouldn't matter if it was done in Morse or Swahili. It is bottom line > > radio at its finest..
> "
> "Basic" is not "finest", Dick. If "basic" were "finest"

Well, there goes Mister Twister, full speed ahead at his favorite passtime-obfuscsation by conversion. I said Basic radiocommunications at ITS* finest. So you try to shoot that statement down by changing the meaning to "the finest".. Of course you know there is a huge difference, you just hope no one else will notice.

Basic is basic. If JPL could have successfully carried off their space probes using simple CW they would have been fools to reject it in favor of anything else. Just as ham radio ops would be fools to reject it just because there exists more efficient methods which demand far more overhead.

4964. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:24:10 UTC
From: Dave Holford <holford@sympatico.ca>
Message-ID: <3C229D4A.B9C82202@sympatico.ca>
Source record: 27961
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Try a simple experiment. Assuming you have a scanner or Ham rig capable of monitoring the 108-118 portion of the aviation band.

Pick a freq between 108 and 118 - they are used for navigation and Instrument Landing Systems.

Now slowly tune a portable receiver between 97.3 and 107.3
Somewhere in this range (10.7 below the scanner freq) you will hear the LO of your portable.

So there you are with a little radio up close to the window transmitting a very weak signal on the frequency your pilot may be relying on to find the runway in miserable weather. Depending on where you are seated you might even be able to see the aircraft antenna.

That's what happened during the Superbowl.
My little Sony portable completely obliterates local navigation signals.

Not sure what military gear you are familiar with but the US military is in the process of a major upgrade to their ILS receivers to meet European interference standards. I would assume (makes an ass of 'u' and 'me') that most professional civil avionics meet European standards since many of the aircraft at one time or another find themselves in European airspace.

And, of course, avionics uses frequencies throughout most of the spectrum. Certainly from 100 kHz up through a few GHz depending on the aircraft.

I too operate a laptop, a desktop, a 50W 2M/70cm rig and a 100W HF rig with no problems. But I have completely disrupted an ATC radar display by operating a 2m HT in the room.

Dave

OldBiker wrote:
>
> Robert Casey wrote:
> > ....
> > I've heard stories of a flight during the Superbowl where passengers
> > listening to the game on radios caused interference with pilot > > equipment. And that is just LO leakage, not intentional emitters.
>
> If those tales are true, the aircraft industry is in deep trouble. I > operate a laptop & 50W 2M packet station while my child bride hunts DX > on a 100W HF rig beside me with no mutual interference on cheap consumer > equipment and I have a tad of knowledge about the immunity of military > gear. OTOH I read that airport radars are often down for months waiting > for obsolete tubes at the same time the military is scrapping 3D radars > only one generation old so I wouldn't key up on an airplane either.

> Oy!
> KA3DWW

4965. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:30:49 UTC
From: Richard McCollum <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net>
Message-ID: <t9xU7.174629$WW.11002069@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>
Source record: 27962
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

"Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
news:3C227B39.F203E090@spam.me.not...
> Um.. you're wrong.. I was never an illegal keyclown, but then again, I > don't expect you to know the difference. I ran the legal 40 with legal > power and with legal gear.
>
> You can call names all you want, but it doesn't change the truth.
>
> But you're right. I did go from CBer (which I ran sideband for a bit over > 20 years, and ran professionally) to extra in 6 months, 1 week, and two > days. Of course, I worked hard for nine years (I started drilling the code
> in '92) to overcome my dyslexia so I could pass the code requirement.
>
> What of it?
>
> de AB8LR
>
> -SSB
>
> "middlefiger4@home.comss" wrote:
> >
> > And So are you SSB, Hey fellas in the amateur NG... Meet the new breed
of
> > Ham his name is SSB, maybe you recognize his numbers on the CB 151.
> > He went from Illegal CB Keyclown to Extra Class all in about 6 months. He > > now takes his freebanding Illegal skills to a HF band near you. Say Hello
> >

Dear Middie:

I've been licensed longer than CB is old. Elmered a batch of freebanders over the years and all of them were decent amateurs. If his coming out of CB is supposed to disturb my digestion, sorry. The numbers game alone assures that most people becoming radioactive do so via CB.
He seems to have handled his problem; can you say the same??

Dick NBK

4966. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:36:18 UTC
From: K0HB <k0hb@qwest.net>
Message-ID: <b524d53ce8a586dcfa6b47dfac64d0f2.15732@mygate.mailgate.org>
Source record: 27963
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc

"chris" <k4rch@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9vjehm$p4e$1@bob.news.rcn.net...

> You only need permission if you are going to transmit during the flight.
>
> Chris

Horse shit!!!!!

Your little HT becomes a low level transmitter as soon as it's turned on (because of internal injection frequencies).

It is within a few yards of very sensitive receivers looking for navigation signals, often feeding "fly by wire" flight assistance equipment.

Pull the batteries, put it in checked luggage, and pick it up at baggage claim at your destination. Have a nice flight.

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

--
Posted from mplsapanas11poolc239.mpls.uswest.net [65.103.21.239]
via Mailgate.ORG Server - http://www.Mailgate.ORG

4967. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:37:42 UTC
From: Dick Carroll <dixie@townsqr.com>
Message-ID: <3C229353.B80A358F@townsqr.com>
Source record: 27964

K0HB wrote:

> N2EY said:
>
> > This can be interpreted to mean "everybody should have to do > > what I did". But it can also mean "I learned a lot from it, and others > > will, too".
>
> All sorts of ways to interpret it. Here's one from the Book of Bokonon:
>
> "Beware of the man who works hard to learn something,
> learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is > full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
> without having come by their ignorance the hard way."

Your book should be retitled the "Book of BS 'em".
Anyone who learns something and finds himself no wiser than before either didn't learn anything or has just gotten his Question Pool Extra.
(same difference)

4968. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:40:57 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C22A13A.36CDAB78@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27965

CAM wrote:
>
> Dave Heil wrote:
> >
> > CAM wrote:
> > > The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a > > > reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells > > > us something about Riley's prudish hangups.
> >
> > Funny that I don't see it that way at all.
>
> Of course not! You are one of the busybody prudes who want to force > your personal morals, hangups, and value system on everyone else.

The fact remains, Kim set out to enlist Riley as one of her supporters.
She didn't like his response, which was 180 degrees from her views and promptly dismissed it. That is pretty hard to deny.

Dave K8MN

4969. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:45:46 UTC
From: Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
Message-ID: <3C22A25B.BCB4CB7F@earthlink.net>
Source record: 27966

Krell wrote:
>
> "Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
> news:3C22381E.75092C56@earthlink.net...
>
> > Funny that I don't see it that way at all. I don't think she liked the > > reasonable response she got. In typical Kim fashion, she attempts to > > rationalize her choice in the face of rejection. It tells us something > > about Kim's "to hell with what anyone thinks of me--I'm doing what I > > want" attitude.
>
> Re-phrase that to read "to hell with what a few people of a minority opinion > might think," and you would be correct.

Why would I do that? We haven't established what the majority believes about this situation.

Dave K8MN

4970. Re: RADIO LAW: TACOMA BANS NON FCC CERTIFIED CB GEAR

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 02:45:46 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C22A247.FB057182@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 27967
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.cb

K0HB with non-approved radios wrote:
>
> Sort of the like lady on our lake who decided one > day to take her husbands fishing boat out into > the middle of the lake, away from the kids, to > anchor and read her book in peace. Along comes > a conservation officer and asks for her fishing > license. She has none (she doesn't fish), so he > says he'll have to charge her with "fishing > without a license". She replies "But I wasn't > fishing".... He responds that she has fishing > equipment, so he can probably make the charge > stick. To which she replies, "Well, then I > charge you with rape." He is aghast ..... how > could she do that? "Well, you are in possession > of the equipment."

That's a two-thumbs-up reply. LMAO!

4971. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:00:51 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vu8k901mvp@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27970
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message news:fer42u8hbchk012lq430vm5k5lof8ie4m3@4ax.com...

> >2600
>
> You have failed to provide any documentation whatsoever that
>
> (a) there are police who feel that the public does not have the right
> to own radio transceivers and guns
> (b) their numbers are growing significantly
> (c) there are politicians who feel that the public does not have the > right to own radio transceivers and guns
> (d) their numbers are growing significantly
>
> You may make one final attempt.

You posted a one-word question, I gave you a one-word response. I leave it to you to figure out what it means. Kinda like a puzzle. Once you discover the solution, you'll know where to look for your answer.

4972. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:01:00 UTC
From: 'Doc <w5lz@icok.net>
Message-ID: <3C22A5D9.D40A94D4@icok.net>
Source record: 27968
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

Can you give me one good reason why you post this silliness here? I mean, other than as a 'troll'?

1. posting to more than one group -- 'D'-
2. style -- 'D'-
3. content -- 'D'- converting to 'troll' numerics -- maybe a '2'.

'Doc

4973. Re: Gays harass Salvation Army during Christmas season

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:01:46 UTC
From: Omniscient <KnowsAll@Anon.com>
Message-ID: <9vu8nh$h8i$0@dosa.alt.net>
Source record: 27969
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest,alt.cocksucker.geno-paris,alt.cocksucker.roger-wiseman

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9vtp0f0qot@enews4.newsguy.com...
>
> "John Kimball" <johnkimb@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> news:9vsllo$5sm$0@dosa.alt.net...
> > On Wed, 19 Dec 2001 07:46:39 -0500, "KC8JBO" <kc8jbo@alt.net> wrote in > > Message id: <9vq6odhoe2@pita.alt.net>:
> >
> >
> > >No, but I hear you slurp nutsacks behind dumpsters and are too
> CHICKENSHIT
> > >to post under your real name, COWARD.
> >
> > So is 8L0J08 your first name, or last name?

Roger is the guy that has been slipping three dollar bills into the big ol' kettle and he makes sure that his name, address and phone number are on each bill. Yes, it is rather tacky but he gets better results with this method than he did with the magic marker in the gay bar stalls. No COWARD, he!

4974. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:10:15 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vu93o01oba@enews2.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27972
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

"Woger Wussman" <W0GER@alt.net> wrote in message
news:9vts89$f8j$0@pita.alt.net...
>
> On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 17:38:44 -0500, Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote:
> >
> > I've seen better trolls on pencils.
> >
>
> The Jack Daniels was that effective, eh?

My, my. Aren't we ignorant of pop culture.

FYI, I was referring to the troll dolls that were popular in the 70s. They were those little things with the big eyes and different colored, Don King style of hair. Smaller ones were often on the ends of pencils, or on keychains, or hanging from rearview mirors. They're still around, but not as popular as they once were. Although they did have a resurgence in popularity about ten years ago.

4975. Question for Beer Experts

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:33:39 UTC
From: twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com
Message-ID: <e9de0154.0112201933.77397e3f@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27971
Cross-posted to: alt.beer,rec.food.drink.beer,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

"A few months ago I was out on my boat drinking Malt Liquor and not my usual Miller Genuine Draft. After a while I became quite dizzy and hit my head on the gunwale. Not long after that I decided to get on my illegal CB and listen on the "freeband". There I heard a man who identified himself as being from a flying saucer. It sounded very real to me. So real that I am still convinced I had an authentic encounter. My question is, is this kind of thing normal with malt liquor?"

"Please email me your thoughts. I have a very elaborate anti-spam guard so you need to add a @ where the _ is in my addy and put a . after the tv and drop the subdimension.com altogether"

Thank You,

Twistedhed
Oldsmar, FLA

4976. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:44:24 UTC
From: Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com>
Message-ID: <uvb52u098cv2du8eclpf0kjs7gicfgpdhj@4ax.com>
Source record: 27973
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote <9vu8k901mvp@enews2.newsguy.com> in talk.politics.guns. :

>
>"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message >news:fer42u8hbchk012lq430vm5k5lof8ie4m3@4ax.com...
>
>> >2600
>>
>> You have failed to provide any documentation whatsoever that
>>
>> (a) there are police who feel that the public does not have the right
>> to own radio transceivers and guns
>> (b) their numbers are growing significantly
>> (c) there are politicians who feel that the public does not have the >> right to own radio transceivers and guns
>> (d) their numbers are growing significantly
>>
>> You may make one final attempt.
>
>You posted a one-word question, I gave you a one-word response. I leave it >to you to figure out what it means. Kinda like a puzzle. Once you discover >the solution, you'll know where to look for your answer.

You have failed. Again. The answer required was obvious. Go to your room.

4977. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:45:12 UTC
From: N9NWO <2121d@gte.net>
Message-ID: <cfyU7.1231$Ya1.689971@paloalto-snr1.gtei.net>
Source record: 27974
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

```
: > > That is hogwash. I haven't seen any such "growing
: > > numbers" opposed to CBs, radios, etc. Indeed, there
: > > has been NO movement to ban scanners at all...rather
: > > some states (e.g. NJ) have relaxed old laws which
: > > did ban scanners in autos.
: > >
: > > > There is the feeling that the public can not be trusted,
: > > > that too many use technology for crime or to try to
: > > > overthrow the government. Many would prefer that only
: > > > those who are paid on a professional basis should be allowed
: > > > to have access to radios or weapons.
: > >
: > > More hogwash. Even if there is some such sentiment,
: > > there hasn't been any support for that attitude in the press,
: > > the legislatures, etc.
: > >
: > > Bill K2UNK
: >
: > I gather that you do not read that many papers
: > everyday. The Washington Post, LA Times,
: > NY Times, Chicago Tribune all go on "crusades"
: > every so often over gun ownership, cell phones,
: > scanners. The elite do not like the fact that the
: > masses understand, and use, technology.
:
: I have seen public opposition to gun ownership, mixed
: opposition to cellphone use in an auto (no one
: seems to want to ban any total use/ownership
: of cellphones) ...BUT
: not one crusade at all against scanners. There has
: been NO demand to ban scanners at all, even for
: specific frequencies, since the FCC rules
: prohibiting scanners manufactured that can recieve
: cellular.

I suggest that you become familiar with the issues over APCO 25 standards for digital trunked radio.
The main purpose is to prevent private citizens from receiving ANY public radio transmission. As I am a member of APCO, I have had conversations with individuals who run public safety radio systems. Their one big goal is to have an digitally encrypted system that no one, not even the media, will be able to receive without their permission.
```

Read some of the articles at http://www.strongsignals.net

4978. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 03:59:33 UTC
From: "middlefiger4@home.comss" <middlefinger4@home.com>
Message-ID: <FsyU7.321804$5A3.123586339@news1.rdc2.pa.home.com>
Source record: 27975
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

```
Dick, I would expect anything different from you hang in rec.radio.CB lending your expertise to the illegal there.
```

"Richard McCollum" <rmccollOMA@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:t9xU7.174629$WW.11002069@bgtnsc05-news.ops.worldnet.att.net...
>
> "Sideband" <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message
> news:3C227B39.F203E090@spam.me.not...
> > Um.. you're wrong.. I was never an illegal keyclown, but then again, I > > don't expect you to know the difference. I ran the legal 40 with legal > > power and with legal gear.
> >
> > You can call names all you want, but it doesn't change the truth.
> >
> > But you're right. I did go from CBer (which I ran sideband for a bit > over > > 20 years, and ran professionally) to extra in 6 months, 1 week, and two > > days. Of course, I worked hard for nine years (I started drilling the > code
> > in '92) to overcome my dyslexia so I could pass the code requirement.
> >
> > What of it?
> >
> > de AB8LR
> >
> > -SSB
> >
> > "middlefiger4@home.comss" wrote:
> > >
> > > And So are you SSB, Hey fellas in the amateur NG... Meet the new breed
> of
> > > Ham his name is SSB, maybe you recognize his numbers on the CB 151.
> > > He went from Illegal CB Keyclown to Extra Class all in about 6 > months. He > > > now takes his freebanding Illegal skills to a HF band near you. Say > Hello
> > > >
>
> Dear Middie:
>
> I've been licensed longer than CB is old. Elmered a batch of freebanders > over the years and all of them were decent amateurs. If his coming out of > CB is supposed to disturb my digestion, sorry. The numbers game alone

> assures that most people becoming radioactive do so via CB.
> He seems to have handled his problem; can you say the same??
>
> Dick N&#65533;BK
>
>

4979. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:12:33 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C22B6B1.ACC402D3@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27977

Dave Heil wrote:
> The fact remains, Kim set out to enlist Riley as one of her supporters.
> She didn't like his response, which was 180 degrees from her views and > promptly dismissed it. That is pretty hard to deny.

Who denied it?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4980. Re: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:17:16 UTC
From: marvin moss <mmoss@mindspring.com>
Message-ID: <9vucpt$h41$1@slb7.atl.mindspring.net>
Source record: 27976
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

It must be a full moon.....

Twistedhed <twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com> wrote in message news:e9de0154.0112201612.4aaccfeb@posting.google.com...
> For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because > there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of > Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using > this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me > by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop > subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.
>
> If you don't like the price, let's talk.
>
> Thank you,
> Twistedhed

4981. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:17:46 UTC
From: CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org>
Message-ID: <3C22B7EA.BDBF2669@IEEE.org>
Source record: 27978

Jim Kelley wrote:
> Where do you get the gall to put words in my mouth? You claimed that > techs don't want the privileges, and I said I don't understand why > someone wouldn't want them.

And I said for the same reason that not everyone wants a PhD degree.
What is it about a ham being 100% satisfied with a tech license that you don't understand?
--
cheers, CAM http://www.qsl.net/w5dxp

4982. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:36:54 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vue5p0274r@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27984

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C22A13A.36CDAB78@earthlink.net...

> The fact remains, Kim set out to enlist Riley as one of her supporters.
> She didn't like his response, which was 180 degrees from her views and > promptly dismissed it. That is pretty hard to deny.
>
> Dave K8MN

Riley's personal opinion has nothing to do with a callsign that was legally issued. His support, or non-support, is a moot point.

4983. Re: Radio Policy

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:38:56 UTC
From: K0HB <K0HB@bitbucket73.com>
Message-ID: <O8rmRkdiBHA.1848@cpimsnntpa02>
Source record: 27979

I said:

>> All sorts of ways to interpret it. Here's one from the Book of Bokonon:
>>
>> "Beware of the man who works hard to learn something,
>> learns it, and finds himself no wiser than before. He is >> full of murderous resentment of people who are ignorant
>> without having come by their ignorance the hard way."

Dick Carroll didn't like that religion, and said:

> Your book should be retitled "The Book of BS em" .....<CLIP>

Ain't my book, Dick (I wish it were!), but the work of Kurt Vonnegut in "Cat's Cradle".

Here are some other truths from the same source.

"Maturity is a bitter disappointment for which no remedy exists, unless laughter can be said to remedy anything."

"Sometimes the shit-storm exceeds the power of humans to comment."

"Midget, midget, midget, how he struts and winks,
For he knows a man's as big as what he hopes and thinks!"

With all kind wishes,

de Hans, K0HB

4984. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:41:25 UTC
From: Julian Frost <jfrost@eclectic.ss.uci.edu> Message-ID: <Pine.LNX.4.33.0112202039391.6227-100000@eclectic.ss.uci.edu>
Source record: 27980
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

On Sun, 16 Dec 2001, Maurice ON4BAM wrote:

> On Sun, 16 Dec 2001 00:35:50 -0500, Robert Casey > <wa2ise@ix.netcom.com> wrote:
>
> >If asked, tell them it's a cell phone. They won't know.....
>
> Unless one of the guys is a ham.. then try to explain why you lied...
> maybe a concerned passenger may notice and tell the security guy you > lied..

Simply tell them that it's a ham radio and if questioned further, tell them that you are a Federally licensed ham radio operator. Have a copy of your license available. You won't have any trouble whatsoever.

Julian
--
"Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety, deserve neither liberty nor safety."

-- Benjamin Franklin
Nov 11 1755, from the Pennsylvania Assembly

4985. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:44:27 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vuejt027kf@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27985

"Dave Heil" <k8mn@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:3C22A25B.BCB4CB7F@earthlink.net...

> Why would I do that? We haven't established what the majority believes > about this situation.
>
> Dave K8MN

No. YOU haven't established that. Leave me out of your "we" scenario.

4986. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:45:31 UTC
From: Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <9vuelt027mt@enews4.newsguy.com>
Source record: 27986
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message news:uvb52u098cv2du8eclpf0kjs7gicfgpdhj@4ax.com...
> >> You have failed to provide any documentation whatsoever that
> >>
> >> (a) there are police who feel that the public does not have the right
> >> to own radio transceivers and guns
> >> (b) their numbers are growing significantly
> >> (c) there are politicians who feel that the public does not have the > >> right to own radio transceivers and guns
> >> (d) their numbers are growing significantly
> >>
> >> You may make one final attempt.
> >
> >You posted a one-word question, I gave you a one-word response. I leave
it > >to you to figure out what it means. Kinda like a puzzle. Once you discover
> >the solution, you'll know where to look for your answer.
>
> You have failed. Again. The answer required was obvious. Go to your > room.

Byte me! (That's another clue to the puzzle)

4987. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:51:25 UTC
From: twithedsmaster@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <e63d86f3.0112202051.4ff5c856@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27981
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message news:<3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not>...
> And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
>
> de AB8LR
>
And you are a gay sex loving, basement apartment living, 1989 sundance driving, impoverished, fagboy.

4988. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:52:07 UTC
From: twithedsmaster@hotmail.com
Message-ID: <e63d86f3.0112202052.6678a94f@posting.google.com>
Source record: 27982
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

I saw your gay sex solicitation posts, christine...lol...

Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message news:<3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not>...
> And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
>
> de AB8LR
>
> -SSB
>
> IllegalCBersMustGO wrote:
> >
> > FOUND IN REC.RADIO.CB. THIS IS THE TYPICAL CRIMINAL MINDSET OF CBERS.
> >
> > "Kenneth Vaughan" <kenneth.vaughan@worldnet.att.net> wrote in message news:<fGcU7.232938$3d2.11138155@bgtnsc06-news.ops.worldnet.att.net>...
> >
> > > twas the night before christmas,when all through the house.....
> > > my radios were silent...silent as a mouse.
> > > the antenna was hung by the chimney with care,
> > > in hopes that the "skip",soon would be there.
> > >
> > > "gunslinger" was nestled,all snug in his bed.
> > > while visions of x-force amps,danced in his head.
> > >
> > > when on my front door,there arose such a clatter...
> > > i sprang from my bed, to see what was the matter!
> > >
> > > away to the window i flew like a flash,
> > > thinking"if its uncle charlie,im outta some cash"
> > > the moon on the breast of the new fallen snow,
> > > gave the lustre of mid-day,to the assholes below.
> > >
> > > when what to my wondering eyes should appear!!
> > > but an fcc van! and eight voobners in storm trooper gear!!!
> > >
> > > with a little old driver,so lively and quick!
> > > i knew in a moment,its RILEY...the prick!!
> > >
> > > more rapid than eagles,his coursers they came,
> > > and he cussed,and he cursed,and called them by name!
> > > "now voobner!,now leland! now richard! and jerry!
> > > "come on you dummies,weve got to hurry!"
> > >

> > > to the top of the porch! to the top of the wall!
> > > now grab his gear! grab his gear! grab it all!!
> > >
> > > so out my back door,with my gear i flew!
> > > with a box full of radios...and my linear ,too!
> > >
> > > i spoke not a word,but went straight to my work,
> > > i hid all my gear,then returned to the "jerk"
> > > and flashing the "bird" finger,right under his nose!
> > >
> > > said "too bad you couldnt find it,you dumb ass holes!!"
> > >
> > > and he heard me exclaim,ere he drove out of sight,
> > > "screw you riley!"...rec radio....good night!!!
> > >
> > > elpasogunslinger merry christmas....(all of you)

4989. Re: Question for Beer Experts

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 04:54:40 UTC
From: ZOOM <kandrparker@sympatico.ca>
Message-ID: <sjzU7.34321$x25.3634639@news20.bellglobal.com>
Source record: 27983
Cross-posted to: alt.beer,rec.food.drink.beer,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Do you actually have a job?
Someone told me you make frenchfries and your boss is 18yrs old.
Is this true?
Someday you might get promoted to assembler where you put the hamburgers together.
Way to reach your goals!

Twistedhed <twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com> wrote in message news:e9de0154.0112201933.77397e3f@posting.google.com...
> "A few months ago I was out on my boat drinking Malt Liquor and not my > usual Miller Genuine Draft. After a while I became quite dizzy and hit > my head on the gunwale. Not long after that I decided to get on my > illegal CB and listen on the "freeband". There I heard a man who > identified himself as being from a flying saucer. It sounded very real > to me. So real that I am still convinced I had an authentic encounter.
> My question is, is this kind of thing normal with malt liquor?"
>
> "Please email me your thoughts. I have a very elaborate anti-spam > guard so you need to add a @ where the _ is in my addy and put a .
> after the tv and drop the subdimension.com altogether"
>
> Thank You,
>
> Twistedhed
> Oldsmar, FLA

4990. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:20:36 UTC
From: Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not>
Message-ID: <3C22C63C.F21B6449@spam.me.not>
Source record: 27987
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

Sundance? '89? ROFL! You couldn't be further off...

Oh, and as for the gay sex, just because you're like that doesn't mean the rest of us are. Please don't push your personal life off on me, I don't want it.

-SSB

Twithed's Master wrote:
>
> Sideband <sideband@spam.me.not> wrote in message news:<3C227476.4C030914@spam.me.not>...
> > And you're a cross posting anal-retentive ass.
> >
> > de AB8LR
> >
> And you are a gay sex loving, basement apartment living, 1989 sundance > driving, impoverished, fagboy.

4991. Re: From a former Trucker

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:41:42 UTC
From: Jim Weir <jim@rst-engr.com>
Message-ID: <poi52u4609q2ksgj7irkvpe0e7jr72mqes@4ax.com>
Source record: 27988
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.scanner,rec.radio.shortwave

SDSpecialDeliveryJones@stalag13.com (SD SpecialDelivery Jones)
shared these priceless pearls of wisdom:

->veep.....my ,my....i am impressed........really......also on the
->letters by your name thing......may i suggest the letters 'DH' be
->added....i feel it would be most appropriate.......

I'm presuming that the above circumlocution means "no". I'd suggest some remedial education is in order.

Learn how to snip, asshole.

Jim

Jim Weir, VP Eng. RST Eng. WX6RST
A&P, CFI, and other good alphabet soup

4992. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:43:11 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <B22121006388A994.1F24EAE42AEA77C0.C548E8975C0CAA91@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27989

On 20 Dec 2001 03:47:52 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>No mature, sexually-fulfilled >woman I've ever known would dream of demeaning herself with such >a juvenile, immature, and horrendously gauche Vanity call sign.

On the other hand, since no mature, sexually-fulfilled, woman in her right mind would give you the time of day, let alone give you any indication about how she feels about things . . .

> Kim
>obviously has serious negative self-image issues, and feels the need >to call attention to the only part of her anatomy which she does think >is "adequate."

What ever you say, Larry--NOW will you take your meds and stop hallucinating?

> As I have stated repeatedly, I have no fixation on >her whatsoever, and, in fact, I am starting to pity her!

Sure.

That's why you keep focusing on her "TIT" in this newsgroup and have made it your life's work to make a fool out of yourself (sounds like a pretty simple alteration to me, but . . .) trying to convince people that your absurdly old-fashion views should be listened to concerning her call sign.

>The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior to >Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited
>his opinion in the first place.

Utter nonsense.

"Morally and intellectually superior?" Larry--the guy is an FCC cop. Period. He's not a spiritual leader. He's not a scientific researcher. He's not a saint. He's a COP with a nice paycheck and that's ALL he is.

His values are neither more nor less valuable than Kim's, Cecil's, mine, or anyone else's. Get off your kick, Larry--you may have the hots for Riley (that WOULD explain your attitude toward women--hmmmmmmmm . . .), but to anyone else, he's just another ham.

> The fact that Kim doesn't recognize this fact >is merely a typical state of denial common to many people who know all >too well that they are, always have been, and always will be relegated >to the lowest common denominator of social acceptance, due to their >indecorous behavior.

Yeah, right.

According to your egotistical views, anyone who disagrees with you MUST have something wrong with them.

Larry, you know what they say about people who believe everyone else is wrong but them, don't you?

> This is common of poorly-educated people from >the southern part of the country. What I'd like to know isï¿½what's YOUR >excuse?

Intelligence--what's yours?

I see you're not just bigoted against one group--now it's southerners as a whole. Who's next, Larry, anyone who isn't related to you by blood?

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4993. Re: Morse not anymore needed to use HF-see further

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:43:32 UTC
From: EZ <ezkeyl1@yahoo.com>
Message-ID: <8_zU7.132767$OW.40878512@typhoon.hawaii.rr.com>
Source record: 27990
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio,alt.ham-radio.morse,rec.ham-radio,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Left the NSA in July 2000 after being stationed there 5 years, had several civilians working for me that were prior military. Never ran into any that were commercial maritime radio officers, but NSA is a big beast, they were probably elsewhere.

EZ

<googlyelmo@earthlink.net> wrote in message news:3C21805A.A8BFD3EF@earthlink.net...
> About 2 years ago, a jointly administered department of the NSA and Army hired > about 10 civilians, recruiting from among commercial maritime radio officers > and the likes, to do morse intercept work. An ad was posted on a number of Fed > websites, the NY Times Sunday classified, and copied to several USENET and > LISTSERV groups by a ham who came across the original, specifying a proficency > of at least 15 WPM. So yes, morse code is still in use by many militaries and > intelligence agencies around the world. It should come as no surprise, really.
> The rapid advances in communications and data processing in the US, Europe, and > the more affluent parts of Asia notwithstanding, CW is still a very useful mode > where 21st century hardware and technical skills are in short supply. Have you > ever wondered why you still hear clandestine "numbers" stations on SW/HF? It > would seem like an awfully old, slow way to communicate, but it is reliable, > and when the data is concise in the extreme, speed and convenience is not > nearly as important as accuracy and dependability.
>
> de Will, KD7BFX AR
>
> EZ wrote:
>
> > I'm an active duty military member, been a "ditty bopper" for over 15 years.
> > I can tell you, alot of countries are still out there using Morse code for > > tactical

> > and strategic purposes. Long live Morse!
> >
> > Ezee
> >
> > "Jesus, EA4AQY" <jesus.guardon@navegalia.com> wrote in message
> > news:3c1c769a@news.airtel.net...
> > > And me too. But don't think about keyers are finished. We still should > > make
> > > noise on tha bands...
> > > "Web" <WebFx27@hotmail.com> escribi&#65533; en el mensaje
> > > news:hCeS7.15523$161.7241951@news02.optonline.net...
> > > > I aggree
> > > >
> > > > Web
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > "KC8PMX" <kc8pmx@tm.net> wrote in message
> > > > news:39IR7.109$YE4.19833@newshog.newsread.com...
> > > > >
> > > > > "b888" <b888@lcix.net> wrote in message
> > > > > news:u1d5tq5dfp5jf2@corp.supernews.com...
> > > > > > Well said.
> > > > > > People still use sailboats, steam engines, propeller aircraft,
> > > > > > drive classic cars, and do a million other things that are not > > > > > > "state of the art" but there still useful and fun. I feal sorry
> > for > > > > > > those who have never felt the thrill of that first solid cw > > copy.
> > > > > > Or who have no Idea how to loadup a "hollow state" rig.
> > > > > > The easy way out is the booring way out.
> > > > > > WB3DSJ
> > > > > >
> > > > > You are correct sir! Some may love CW and some may not. Some may > > > love
> > > > the > > > > > digital modes. Some may not. Some may love homebrewing. (and so > > on
> > > and
> > > > so > > > > > on) There are many facets of this hobby that are enjoyable to a > > > variety
> > > > of > > > > > different people. All a license means is that you are allowed to > > do > > > > whatever is allowed by that license class.
> > > > >
> > > > > Those that chose to (forgive the word) bitch about the either
> > the

> > > > dropping > > > > > of the code requirement to a lesser level, or the possibility of
it
> > > > dropping > > > > > of it entirely, probably are not the same people who became > > proactively > > > > > involved in the protest of those conditions. I am sure that at least > > > 80%
> > > > of > > > > > all licensed hams have not bothered to write all the "powers that be"
> > > > (i.e.
> > > > > congressmen, senators etc) about ham radio, and in defense of ham
> > > radio.
> > > > > We can sit and hope and pray that ARRL may work hard to defend us,
> > but
> > > > can > > > > > you imagine if our elected officials, from the local level, all
the > > way
> > > up > > > > > to the federal level recieved tons of letters in defense of amateur
> > > radio?
> > > > > I personally write at least quarterly each year, (as well as fire
> > > fighting > > > > > related mails especially after 9-11-01) and strongly encourage others
> > > to
> > > > do
> > > > > so too.
> > > > >
> > > > > Another way to win support? Invite your elected officials to your club > > > > > meetings, ARES/RACES meetings (or similar groups) and share with them
> > > the > > > > > experience. This has a two-fold benefit. It allows the ham public
to > > > > > actually meet the officials, and of course the officials to actually > > be > > > > able > > > > > to meet the ham public and hear their concerns, and to see what we
are > > > > doing
> > > > > .

> > > > >
> > > > > Amateur Radio is a pro-active hobby/service, not a sit back and watch
> > > > hobby.
> > > > > Get involved!
> > > > >
> > > > > [first paragrah directed at respondee to my earlier post, other > > > paragraphs > > > > > are to everyone else.]
> > > > >
> > > > > Ryan KC8PMX
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > > KC8PMX wrote in message ...
> > > > > > >People who want to use Morse code still will, and those who don't,
> > > > won't.
> > > > > > >Any changes in the laws short of a law outright banning morse code
> > > > > operation
> > > > > > >won't stop those who wish to use the HF frequencies.
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >Ryan
> > > > > > >KC8PMX
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > > >"Marruk" <mphaannospam@hotmail.com> wrote in message
> > > > > > >news:4ytO7.18262$Qm6.2451580@zwoll1.home.nl...
> > > > > > >> Mose not anymore needed to use HF.
> > > > > > >>
> > > > > > >> Hi OMs,
> > > > > > >>
> > > > > > >> In Guatamala it is decided that a morse exam is not anymore > > needed
> > > > to > > > > > > use
> > > > > > >> the HF bands.
> > > > > > >> I guess this is good for the sellers of HF equipment and it will > > > get
> > > > > the
> > > > > > >> band a lot more used for phone dx.
> > > > > > >> But I dont think it will be very good for Morsecode as a whole.
> > > > > > >> Hope to see you in 2003 on HF when it will be officially released
> > > in
> > > > > > the > > > > > > >> Netherlands.

> > > > > > > >>
> > > > > > > >> PE1PAE
> > > > > > > >>
> > > > > > > >>
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > > >
> > > > >
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > >
>

4994. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:47:33 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <3F9A4F7C0E556E88.60C242A83F304FD8.3BE6D3FB6BE32DA1@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27991

On 20 Dec 2001 03:47:53 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>I have two FRS radio's --- Icom 4008's. Neat little rigs. Me and a >friend of mine use them for personal comms at local hamfests, and >I use them when vacationing with my family in the Adirondacks. I've >never used them for communicating with anyone I didn't know -- just >my friends and family. So, you're right about FRS being "family->oriented," but you're incorrect about the ARS NOT being "family->oriented." Is the "family-oriented" nature of the ARS that was one >of the prime arguments for reducing and/or eliminating the code >testing requirements, and largely responsible for the "No-Code test"
>Technician-class license -- the theory being that eliminating the >5 WPM code test would allow families to use 2-meters to coordinate >their activities more effectively than they could on CB. The "family" >nature of the ARS has been wielded like a sledgehammer all >throughout the debate leading to our present-day dumbed-down >licensing requirements. FRS just got there a bit sooner. Once
>the 5-WPM code testing requirement is eliminated, there will be >very little difference in public perception between the ARS and
>the FRS.

So, in other words, when it comes to changes you DON'T approve of, you don't like the "Family Oriented" label--but when it suits your purposes (i.e., to put Kim down) you do.

Hey, Larry. When you find "Family oriented" in Part 97 let me know--or when you find some kind of evidence that the ARS really did change the rules so that families can use it as "super-cb" (which is NOT the purpose of amateur radio according to Part 97) be sure to let us know where THAT appears in the rules as well.

Until then, you'll have to accept the view that you don't have the vaguest idea what you are talking about.

Rick

--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4995. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 05:49:01 UTC
From: Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net>
Message-ID: <0611DA6CD0EB6BB8.0E443225DFE5A090.7BDAAB144E54C60B@lp.airnews.net>
Source record: 27992

On 20 Dec 2001 03:47:53 GMT, yodoc@aol.comnospam (Larry Roll K3LT)
wrote:

>In article <3F7F89779D2A0F35.D28D63EB28211DB6.EAA03272D9273766@lp.airnews.net>,
>Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:
>
>>
>> Because soap can't clean your mind, Larry, and that's where >>the "dirt" is, not in her sign.
>>
>> Rick (Kindly Eustice Ate Horrible Humans)
>
>Hmmm -- two sets of phonetics in a row dealing with cannabalism -- >and you say I have a dirty mind! Pot --> Kettle --> Black!
>
>(Now Rick will complain about me making a racist comment!)

Nope--but I WILL comment that it's interesting you see those comments as being _cannibalistic_!

Rick
--

Rick Adams--KE8HH
adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net

"... and the only measure of your worth and your deeds
will be the love you leave behind when you're gone."

Fred Small, J.D., "Everything Possible"

4996. Re: Airline travel with a rig?

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 06:31:29 UTC
From: Roger Conroy <rogerconroy@nospam.hotmail.com>
Message-ID: <9vul2fnmu1@ctb-nnrp1.saix.net>
Source record: 27993
Cross-posted to: alt.ham-radio.vhf-uhf,rec.radio.amateur.equipment,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

I don't know about the rules in the US, but here is South Africa it's legal to operate on an airliner with the captain's permission - actually getting that permission is another matter entirely! I know a few hams who are also private pilots that have in fact installed quite extensive rigs in their own planes. Over here the aircraft owner/captain has full authority.

73 Roger ZR1RC

"Mike Yetsko" <joe@user.com> wrote in message news:u24ps93bbhume6@corp.supernews.com...
> I was replying based on the 'perception' that someone making the statement > the way it was posted was confrontational and just 'sounded' like they felt > they had the right to operate aboard an aircraft.
>
> I personally HAVE operated. RX only, and with pilot interaction. He > wanted to know when I turned it on, and when I turned it off. But this > was many years ago, 1981 to be exact, and now the rules are, I believe, > even stricter.
>
> Mike
>
> "VE2VFD Pat" <ve2vfd@remove.rac.this.ca.now> wrote in message > news:3c2091f2.2486561@news.aei.net...
> > On Tue, 18 Dec 2001 22:42:09 -0500, "Mike Yetsko" <joe@user.com>
> > wrote:
> >
> > >No way imply at ALL any operation at ANY time, even 'just' receive, > > >aboard a commercial carrier. You do NOT have any right to do that
> > >AT ALL under the FAR.
> >
> > You must be reading something I never wrote into my message...
> >
> > Where does it even hint at operating the radio IN a plane? I would > > assume no ham operator is actually stupid enough to even think about > > doing that! Geeez.
> >
> > Pat
> > ve2vfd
>
>

4997. Re: .

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 11:04:20 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011221060420.14755.00001221@mb-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 27994

In article <20011220114848.09658.00001060@mb-fm.aol.com>, k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ) writes:

>Subject: .
>From: k4yz@aol.com (Steve Robeson K4YZ)
>Date: 20 Dec 2001 16:48:48 GMT
>
>Callsign: N9NWO Class: General Codes: HAI USA
>Name: GREGORY A DEAN
>Addr1: PO BOX 2121
>Addr2: WEST LAFAYETTE, IN 47996-2121
>Country: USA
>Effective: 15 Jul 2000 Expires: 21 Jan 2002 Online Renewals...
>License ID: L00090874 FRN: 0003005485 What's this?
>Lookups: 163

Steve:

OK, so you've demonstrated that you know how to look up a call sign on qrz.com, and copy/paste the results to the newsgroup. Ripping good stuff. Flawless technique.

Point???

73 de Larry, K3LT

Another one of the things that make me go "Hmmm..."

4998. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 11:04:20 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011221060420.14755.00001222@mb-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 27995

In article <3C220855.AA77F47D@IEEE.org>, CAM <Cecil.A.Moore@IEEE.org> writes:

>Larry Roll K3LT wrote:
>> The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior
>to
>> Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited >> his opinion in the first place.
>
>The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a >reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells >us something about Riley's prudish hangups.

Cecil:

I seriously doubt that Riley has any "prudish hangups." He seems like a very normal, average kind of guy from what I've read about him and the direct quotations I have read from him. What he does seem to have is a traditional kind of common decency, one which naturally sees the potential harm in Kim's call sign, with it's self-serving, in-your-face defiance of the family-oriented nature of the ARS. I'm sure Kim's call makes her feel like a strong, independent, defiant-of-male-anything kind of woman; the stuff of modern-day country songs. However, to everyone else, it makes her seem to be a simple, common, every day moron.

73 de Larry, K3LT

4999. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 11:04:21 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011221060421.14755.00001223@mb-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 27996

In article <3C22381E.75092C56@earthlink.net>, Dave Heil <k8mn@earthlink.net>
writes:

>> > The fact is, Mr. Hollingsworth is "morally and intellectually" superior
>to
>> > Kim, and, quite obviously, she knows this, or she wouldn't have solicited >> > his opinion in the first place.
>>
>> The reason that Kim solicited Riley's opinion was that she expected a >> reasonable response. She didn't get a reasonable response which tells >> us something about Riley's prudish hangups.
>
>Funny that I don't see it that way at all. I don't think she liked the >reasonable response she got. In typical Kim fashion, she attempts to >rationalize her choice in the face of rejection. It tells us something >about Kim's "to hell with what anyone thinks of me--I'm doing what I >want" attitude.
>
>Dave K8MN

Dave:

Precisely. Kim is concerned with only one radio amateur -- herself.
The fact that she is deliberately spoiling the image of radio amateurs to outsiders means absolutely nothing to her. Worse, she's doing it in the only place that matters -- on the air -- with her self-serving, sexually-suggestive call sign that demeans female hams and women in general. As Riley Hollingsworth said, she has a perfect "right" to do this -- but the fact is that in doing so, she runs the risk of taking the ARS "...one step closer to extinction." We don't know what kind of damage she has done -- but the potential is there, and is very likely to cause some potential ham to be disillusioned. If so, who knows who we could have lost -- or did lose! One of the real problems here is we'll never know the extent of the damage Kim has done!

73 de Larry, K3LT

5000. Re: "...one step closer to extinction."

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 11:16:26 UTC
From: yodoc@aol.comnospam
Message-ID: <20011221061626.14755.00001224@mb-cg.aol.com>
Source record: 27997

In article <3F9A4F7C0E556E88.60C242A83F304FD8.3BE6D3FB6BE32DA1@lp.airnews.net>,
Rick Adams <adamsr@NOSPAM.voyager.net> writes:

>
> Hey, Larry. When you find "Family oriented" in Part 97 let me >know--or when you find some kind of evidence that the ARS really did >change the rules so that families can use it as "super-cb" (which is >NOT the purpose of amateur radio according to Part 97) be sure to let >us know where THAT appears in the rules as well.
>
> Until then, you'll have to accept the view that you don't have >the vaguest idea what you are talking about.
>
> Rick

Rick:

I've got a better idea -- you find me someone at ARRL HQ that will flatly deny that the ARS is viewed as a "family-oriented" activity -- intended to be passed down from fathers, mothers, uncles, grandparents to children, grandchildren, nephews, nieces, etc. etc.
Find someone who will state, from a standpoint of their being an ARRL official, that the ARS is intended to be a non-"G"-rated, over 21, adults-only activity for mature audiences only. If you can, then we'll entertain the notion that I "don't have the vaguest idea" what I'm talking about. In the meantime, I'm not too sure you do!

73 de Larry, K3LT

5001. Re: RADIO LAW vs law enforcement practices.

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 11:39:25 UTC
From: Robert Frenchu <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com>
Message-ID: <op762u0n99g3enl1onfcag8b0laq0rjllu@4ax.com>
Source record: 27998
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb,alt.military,talk.politics.guns

> "Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote <9vuelt027mt@enews4.newsguy.com> in talk.politics.guns. :

>
>"Robert Frenchu" <robert_frenchu@ya-take_out-hoo.com> wrote in message
>news:uvb52u098cv2du8eclpf0kjs7gicfgpdhj@4ax.com...
>> >> You have failed to provide any documentation whatsoever that
>> >>
>> >> (a) there are police who feel that the public does not have the right
>> >> to own radio transceivers and guns
>> >> (b) their numbers are growing significantly
>> >> (c) there are politicians who feel that the public does not have the >> >> right to own radio transceivers and guns
>> >> (d) their numbers are growing significantly
>> >>
>> >> You may make one final attempt.
>> >
>> >You posted a one-word question, I gave you a one-word response. I leave
>it >> >to you to figure out what it means. Kinda like a puzzle. Once you >discover
>> >the solution, you'll know where to look for your answer.
>>
>> You have failed. Again. The answer required was obvious. Go to your >> room.
>
>Byte me! (That's another clue to the puzzle)

You're obviously unable to provide a cite. I shall now report you to the proper authorities for a gross violation of the False Cite Act.

5002. Re: FS: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 12:22:18 UTC
From: Train <cbmods@optonlineNOSPAM.com>
Message-ID: <_PFU7.85577$bs2.19566973@news02.optonline.net>
Source record: 27999
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Your first clue should be that the thread is crossposted
Train

"ni4l" <ni4l@charter.net> wrote in message news:3C2287E2.7010100@charter.net...
> DUMBASS
>
> Twistedhed wrote:
>
> > For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because > > there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of > > Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using > > this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me > > by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop > > subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.
> >
> > If you don't like the price, let's talk.
> >
> > Thank you,
> > Twistedhed
> >
>

5003. Re: FS: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 12:36:09 UTC
From: "Scott (Unit-69)" <upplus@hotSPAMmail.com>
Message-ID: <3C232CA6.234D028D@hotSPAMmail.com>
Source record: 28000
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Train wrote:
>
> Your first clue should be that the thread is crossposted

The second is that it came from google.com.

The third clue is the posting IP: It came from AOL.

5004. Re: Correlation between code proficiency and technical proficiency

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 13:02:33 UTC
From: "Carl R. Stevenson" <wa6vse@fast.net>
Message-ID: <3c2332f9_2@news7.fast.net>
Source record: 28001

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNED MESSAGE-----
Hash: SHA1

"krill" <radioisnot4everyone@nowhere.org> wrote in message news:MPG.168a4eef5c1485c5989717@news.earthlink.net...
> In article <3c1fef5d_1@news7.fast.net>, wa6vse@fast.net says...
> >
> >
> > So FSK is not useful in amateur radio? Ever heard of RTTY?
Packet?
>
> So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios
are > made using YOUR PATENTS??

No, I am not claiming that my inventions are used in your radio (or current production radios) ... just that they COULD be used in amateur radio with benefits.

> > Never heard of a DDS being used in ham radio? Seems I just tore
an > > article out of a recent QST on a DDS-based VFO ...
>
> So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios
are > made using YOUR PATENTS??

No, I am not claiming that my inventions are used in your radio
(or current production radios) ... just that they COULD be used in amateur radio with benefits.

> > Improved FEC (that's Forward Error Correction) techniques? Seen > > articles on that in ham publications, too ...
>
> So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios
are > made using YOUR PATENTS??

No, I am not claiming that my inventions are used in your radio
(or current production radios) ... just that they COULD be used in amateur radio with benefits.

> > Improved image reject techniques for SSB? Since the future is in > > software-defined radios, DSP, etc., it seems to me that your assertion > > that these inventions have no applicability to ham radio is absurd.

>
> So you are claiming that the circuitry in my Yaesu and Icom radios
are > made using YOUR PATENTS??

No, I am not claiming that my inventions are used in your radio
(or current production radios) ... just that they COULD be used in amateur radio with benefits.

> Your insinuation that YOUR patents are part of the current "crop" of > amateur radio is doubtful ul at best, an outright fabrication at the > least.

No, I am not claiming that my inventions are used in your radio
(or current production radios) ... just that they COULD be used in amateur radio with benefits.

> > [snip garbage about phones ... my employer doesn't make > > phones, we make integrated circuits and wireless LAN devices]
>
> Actually Carl, I know your employer and they DO design cordless phones > and them farm out the manufacture to the Asian rim countries because they > labor is cheap.

The parent company of my company (now being spun off as an independent company) USED to have a division which made cordless phones, but that division was sold to another company approximately 2 years ago ... my company does NOT do cordless phones.

> > > Be interesting to see which patents that actually are related to > > amateur > > > radio, as in actual use in all those store bought rigs I see in
the > > > catalogs.
> >
> > Most of the patents Robert listed above (plus some he seems to > > have inadvertently missed) would be directly applicable to improving > > the performance of those rigs you see in the catalogs ...
>
> Not would be Carl..which of them ARE?? You made the claim now chose > to put the transmission into reverse? Which of your patents ARE directly > involved in amateur radio?

You seem to fail to understand the distinction between what is currently used in production radios and what could be used in the future to obtain benefits, either in terms of improved performance, cost reduction, or both.
This is symptomatic of being stuck in the past and unable to have a vision of new things in the future.

- --
Carl R. Stevenson - wa6vse
<mailto:wa6vse@fast/net>
<http://www.users.fast.net/~wa6vse>
- --
NCI-1052
Executive Director, No Code International
Fellow, The Radio Club of America
Senior Member, IEEE
Member, TAPR
Member, ARRL
- --
Join No Code International! Hams for the 21st Century.
Help assure the survival and prosperity of ham radio.
<http://www.nocode.org>

-----BEGIN PGP SIGNATURE-----
Version: PGP for Personal Privacy 5.5.3

iQA/AwUBPCMyrZe+N6+q84HiEQJL7QCg6Vr0l9eZqSpwZl4s8esn/s2wRvIAoLrc kRQmABwk2g9Gyrg9QcDHQW9P =04Rg
-----END PGP SIGNATURE-----

5005. Re: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 13:04:14 UTC
From: Wazzoo <Here&There@Anytiime.com>
Message-ID: <irGU7.6153$PO5.1119289@newsread1.prod.itd.earthlink.net>
Source record: 28002
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

OH YES YES YES!!! WHERE did you find THAT! Oh Good Lord I have been looking for that since my Father came back with tales of the Hitler toothpick from Germany in WWII> He actually SAW Hitler using it! Do you have more? Please PLEASE contact me.
My name is:

Urylee Believethis
1 Housedown St.
Yakingroup, USA

"Twistedhed" <twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com> wrote in message news:e9de0154.0112201612.4aaccfeb@posting.google.com...
> For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because > there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of > Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using > this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me > by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop > subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.
>
> If you don't like the price, let's talk.
>
> Thank you,
> Twistedhed
>

5006. Re: Hitler's Toothpick

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 13:09:36 UTC
From: hog@ev1.net
Message-ID: <3C233490.22DD138@ev1.net>
Source record: 28003
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.antiques,rec.radio.swap,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Full moon is next week! Hey! I got one of Fidel's good cuban cigars in my cache here! Think I will smoke it on new years eve, before I ring in the new year!...

marvin moss wrote:

> It must be a full moon.....
>
> Twistedhed <twistedhed_webtvnet@subdimension.com> wrote in message
> news:e9de0154.0112201612.4aaccfeb@posting.google.com...
> > For Sale, toothpick used by Adolph Hitler. It is authentic because > > there is a letter (signed by me) saying so. Comes with a photo of > > Hitler with his hand near his face (no one can prove he is NOT using > > this toothpick) as corroboration. I am asking $1500. Please email me > > by putting an @ where the _ is in my address and drop > > subdimension.com. In this way I will avoid the spambots.
> >
> > If you don't like the price, let's talk.
> >
> > Thank you,
> > Twistedhed

5007. Re: PROOF THAT ILLEGAL CBERS ARE CRIMINALS

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2001-12-21 13:17:50 UTC
From: KC8JBO <kc8jbo@alt.net>
Message-ID: <9vvhp3hkd5@pita.alt.net>
Source record: 28009
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.cb,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.antenna,rec.radio.swap

"Krell" <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote in message
news:9vu93o01oba@enews2.newsguy.com...
>
> "Woger Wussman" <W0GER@alt.net> wrote in message
> news:9vts89$f8j$0@pita.alt.net...
> >
> > On Thu, 20 Dec 2001 17:38:44 -0500, Krell <krell1215@yahoo.com> wrote:
> > >
> > > I've seen better trolls on pencils.
> > >
> >
> > The Jack Daniels was that effective, eh?
>
> My, my. Aren't we ignorant of pop culture.
>
> FYI, I was referring to the troll dolls that were popular in the 70s. They > were those little things with the big eyes and different colored, Don King > style of hair. Smaller ones were often on the ends of pencils, or on > keychains, or hanging from rearview mirors. They're still around, but not as > popular as they once were. Although they did have a resurgence in popularity
